EX-FIREMAN MURDERS THREE PERSONS AND THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Two Others Are Seriously Wounded By San Diego Madman.

Discharged Employe Shoots Three Men Who Answer Fire Alarm.

Beats Wife and Infant Child to Death With Piece of Steel.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 1.—Bert S. Durham, a discharged employe of the local fire department, ended a man hunt that began early today by shooting himself through the head after he had killed three persons, including his wife and child, and seriously wounded two others.

Durham in a fit of revenge, early today turned in a false alarm of fire, and when his former fellow workers responded he fired a volley of shots at them, killing one and probably fatally injuring two others. He then ran to his home, and with a piece of steel wrapped in a handkerchief, beat his wife and baby about their heads as they lay asleep killing both.

Feared More Attacks.

Fearing the crazed man might make an assault upon his parents Chief of Police Wilson placed a guard about their house. A guard also was placed about Durham's home on D street to prevent the murderer from returning and firing on those attending the bodies of his wife and child.

Mrs. Durham, according to neighbors, had been afraid of her husband for some time and recently sent a warning to Chief Wilson. She also is said to have taken revolvers away from Durham on two different occasions.

Nursing an old grudge against Fire Captain Sampsell, under whom he had formerly worked as engine driver and on whose complaint he had been discharged from the service for insubordination, Durham early today sent in a false alarm from the outskirts of the city.

Fired on Former Mates.

When Capt. Sampsell and his engine

CHARGES FRAUD IN MINERS' BALLOTING

President Lewis Says Votes in Referendum Will Not Be Counted.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 1.—The returns of the recent referendum vote taken by the miners of Illinois, which have been held pending the arrival of Thomas L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, will not be counted, according to a statement issued by him on his return from Kansas City. Irregularity is charged by Lewis.

President Lewis declares that the Illinois officials misrepresented to the miners the terms of the compromise proposition which was submitted by the international executive board. He says that the Illinois officials have been continually at work to disrupt the organization since he was elected president. He declares that President Walker of Illinois gave his pledge to the international executive board not to influence the vote of the Illinois miners in any way, and that immediately afterward he returned to his state and did everything in his power to defeat it. President Lewis declined to say just what action would be taken in regard to the Illinois situation.

MILWAUKEE HOST TO THE PYTHIANS

Big Biennial Gathering Is Begun in the Cream City.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 1.—Knights of Pythias, uniformed rank and supreme lodge from every state in the Union and Canada, are in Milwaukee for the biennial convention, beginning today and running through the week.

The peaceful invasion practically has been completed and 12,000 Knights, uniform rank, are camped in neat white tents at Thirty-fifth street and Fond du Lac avenue, which has been designated as Camp Henry Parish Brown in honor of Supreme Chancellor Brown. To this number of Knights must be added a large contingent housed in hotels, who represent the various departments of the supreme lodge.

The city is tastefully decorated with the colors of the loyal followers of Damo nand Pythias as well as the flags of the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

The ladies are also represented by several hundred delegates from their organization, known as the Pythian Sisters.

The formal tendering of the city to the knights will occur late this afternoon, when Mayor Seidel will deliver an address.

Farmer Near Towner Hurt.

Towner, N. D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although Enoch Mower, a prominent farmer residing near Towner, was caught between the top of a loaded wagon and the top of a big gate, he is allve to tell of his experience.

TROUBLE FOR THE MILLERS

Those Who Continue to Bleach Flour Will Be Prosecuted.

Criminal Trial for Every Shipment Planned By Government.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Millers must stop bleachinug flour, pending adjudication by the higher courts, or stand crminal prosecution for each shipment made in interstate commerce, according to a decision reached here today at a conference between officials of the departments of agriculture and justice.

At the conference were Acting Attorney General Fowler and Solicitor McCabe of the department of agriculture, the latter representing Secretary Wilson. It was decided that the inspectors of the bureau of chemistry should be instructed to procure samples of bleached flour shipped in interstate commerce by millers and jobbers since the date of the decision in the Kansas City case, with a view to criminal prosecution of those responsible for the shipments.

Follow Kansas City Case.

The Kansas City case was a seizure of certain flour which the government claimed was adulterated and misbranded because it had been bleached with nitrogen peroxide.

After weeks of trial and exhaustive testimony on both sides, the verdict in the case sustained the contention of the government, and the bleachers have appealed the case to the circuit court of appeals.

The government holds that, inasmuch as a jury has decided that bleached flour is adulterated, during the pendency of the appeal and until court bleached flour must not be sent in interstate commerce.

HENRY TWOBIRD KILLED.

Drunken Indian Loses Life Trying to Board Train.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—No inquest was held in the case of Henry Twobird, the Indian who was killed Friday night about a mile from the Northwestern roundhouse, as the information by the coroner showed the redskin had tried to board an east going ore train to beat his fare to Odanah. Persons who saw him before the accident said that he was intoxicated, and a quart bottle of whisky was found at the scene. The deceased had been in town on a spree Friday. His body is all mangled, and the funeral took place at Odanah Saturday afternoon. He is survived by his wife and 22-month-old baby, besides his motehr and a half brother.

GOOD WHEAT YIELD.

Twenty-Eight Bushels to Acre Reportel Near Moorhead.

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tale of the threshing machine on Peter Lamb's farm was a most interesting one, inasmuch as it is the first to come in and as it shows a yield on 80 acres of winter wheat of 2,248 bushels, an average of a trifle better than 28 bushels to the acre. "I believe winter wheat is the coming wheat," says Mr. Lamb.

Willow City, N. D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bullet from a rifle accidentally discharged in the hands of Charles Ohnstad nearly resulted fatally for William Davis, a farmer. The bullet, after first going through Davis' arm, struck him in the abdomen, passing across the stomach and lodging between two ribs where it was later found by surgeons. Davis evidently will not suffer any serious results from the accident.

BROWNE AGAIN FACES COURT

Special Venire of 100 Men Is to Report on Wednesday.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Lee O'Neil Browne, Democratic minority leader of the Illinois legislature, faced trial today for the second time on the charge of having bribed fellow members of the legislature to vote for William Lorimer for senator of the United States. Today's appearance before Judge Kersten was the signal for another attempt on the part of his attorneys to quash the indictment. At tae former trial before Judge McSurely, which resulted in a disagreement after the jury had been out 115 hours, a similar effort was made in vain.

State's Attorney John Wayman returned last night from his vacation and said he would have some new evidence, chiefly, it was understood, from Miss Ella Christy of Springfield, with whom it is said Browne was confidential concerning the matters out of which the present charges grew. One hundred veniremen have been summoned for service Wednesday.

Both the Wallonius and Heima families are Finnish and the authorities here are having difficulty getting at the facts.

Claude H. McKenzie of Onamia, Minn., Forced to Keep Still.

Is Made to Stand With Hands Up While Thieves Take $2,100.

Onamia, Minn., Aug. 1.—While Claude H. MacKenzie, lawyer and editor of the Lake Breeze, a local newspaper, stood half an hour with his hands held far aloft, three robbers cracked the safe in the First State bank and departed with $1,900 in bills and $200 in silver.

Mr. MacKenzie was passing the bank while the robbers were at work and he was halted.

As soon as the cracksmen had departed, Mr. MacKenzie gave the alarm. A posse was hastily summoned, but they were unable to find the trail of the men.

BIGGEST TRUST SUIT IS COMING

Sugar Company Will Be Defendant in Action By Government.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The federal authorities are almost ready to spring their crowning anti-trust suit against the American Sugar Refining company. They believe that the litigation will be protracted, but eventually will result in a crushing blow to the great concern whose affairs have been under investigation since last December. The case rests in the hands of United States District Attorney Wise in New York, in whose district the suit will be filed.

The preparation of the case is virtually completed and it is only a matter of a short time before the issue of monopoly in the sugar trade of the country will be squarely presented and fought out in the courts.

In Touch With Washington.

Mr. Wise was in close touch with the latter's departure for Alaska, and there has been considerable correspondence in the last few days between Mr. Wise and the department of justice bearing on the progress of the preparations of the case and the multitude of details involved in what is expected to be one of the most important proceedings ever brought by the government with respect to restraint of trade.

HORSE'S KICK IS FATAL FOR LACONA, IA., MAN.

Ellendale, N. D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Raymond Mayes, a harvest hand, was killed near Merrcourt by the kick of a horse that he was unhitching. Although the young man suffered intense pains at the time of the accident, it was not supposed that his condition was serious, and that evening he retired as usual. The next morning his bed fellow was horrified to find that Mayes had died during the night. Mayes had just come here recently from Lacona, Iowa.

CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE ACROSS OCEAN

DR. HAWLEY H. CRIPPEN.

Leneve Woman Is Too Ill to Appear for Arraignment.

Captain of Steamship Tell of Identification of Alleged Murderer.

Quebec, Can., Aug. 1.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen announced in the provincial court today that he would not resist his return to England to stand trial for the murder of a woman believed by the police to be his missing wife, Belle Elmore, the American actress.

The authorities are confident that Miss Leneve will give no more trouble than Crippen promises to.

Quebec, Can., Aug. 1.—Canadian justice moved swiftly today in the case of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Ethel Clara Leneve, who, charged with "guilty knowledge of an abominable crime," fled from the other side of the Atlantic only to be caught in a police trap before they could put foot on the soil of the Dominion.

Dr. Crippen was arraigned today and held for further hearing on Aug. 8. Miss Leneve was too ill to appear in court.

It seemed today as though half the city's population had deserted their usual pursuits and climbed the heights to the Palais de Justice in anticipation of the arraignment of Crippen and Miss Leneve. It had been announced that the prisoners would be brought before Magistrate Angers at 10 o'clock and the matter of their deportation to England quickly disposed of. However, thousands were disappointed, as the case was not called until some time after the time set. It is believed the delay was due to advices received today by Inspector Dew from Scotland Yard.

Crowd Bitter Against Crippen.

As the hour originally set for the arraignment approached the crowd that covered a wide area about the Palais de Justice grew greater. Everywhere bitterness towards Crippen was exhibited, but the attitude toward the woman in the case was strangely different. Everywhere one heard words of sympathy for the girlish creature who had pinned her faith to the man now charged with a crime so shocking as to seem almost unbelievable.

Reports from the provincial jail, where Crippen and Miss Leneve have been confined since their arrival here, added to the popular feeling. Miss Leneve is described as having sobbed and moaned as she tossed on her cot during the early hours today.

When she arose this morning she was handed a cablegram which read:

"Tell all you know."

Those who saw this message say that it was signed "Papa."

It is known that Miss Leneve's father is in London and stoutly maintained that his daughter was innocent of any knowledge of the crime, and that she believed herself to be the lawful wife of Crippen, supposing that his first

Merry Del Val's Course Arouses Indignation Among the Liberals.

Madrid, Aug. 1.—With Catholics at Rome expressing hopes that Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender, may raise the standard of revolt, and the Catholics of Biscayan province in insurrection, and with the Socialists in Spain threatening disorders, the Imparcial, which has hitherto been unfriendly to Premier Canalejas, ranges itself upon the side of the government in the pending conflict with the Vatican. The liberal press in general continues staunchly to support the cabinet, which has been left free handed to carry through its policy by the departure of King Alfonso and his queen for England.

Blames the Vatican.

The Imparcial says:

"We are faithful members of the Roman Catholic church, but we always

TWO STREET CARS ATTACKED BY MOB

Efforts to Halt Strike in Columbus Are Unsuccessful.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 1.—Governor Harmon has so far failed to settle the street car strike. The company offered to take the union men back as individuals if they will discard their union buttons. This the strikers refused to do. They demand recognition of their union.

Two Leonard avenue cars were attacked by mobs and had to be abandoned today. The police stopped an attempt to burn the cars.

The street car company has called upon Gen. Dick, the commandng officer, to place sufficient detachments of troops at certain points early in the morning when large bodies of men pass en route to the places of work.

Troops again are patrolling the streets and few people are riding in the cars.

DRIVES WIFE TO STREET

Mrs. Frank Koski Flees in Night Clothes From Drunken Husband.

Frank Koski, a laborer residing at 5911 Nicollet street, who drove his wife from the house in her night clothes early yesterday morning after giving her and one of the children a severe beating, got off lightly this morning in police court, when he was doled out a sentence of twenty days straight in the county jail.

Koski deserves a much stiffer sentence according to the West Duluth police, who are in touch with the case, but he was arraigned on a simple charge of drunkenness.

When Koski was arraigned this morning in police court, Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth department notified Mrs. Koski that if she wanted him prosecuted she would have to swear out a warrant herself. As yet she has not done this.

The treatment accorded Mrs. Koski Saturday night, according to the police, is almost beyond belief. Koski came home in an intoxicated condition and began to abuse her and their 9-year-old daughter. After taking a terrible drubbing at his hands she managed to escape from him by jumping through a window.

Clad only in a night dress and with bare feet, she ran to Bristol street and the Northern Pacific right-of-way, where she met Officer Ek, who accompanied her back to the house and placed Koski under arrest. The little girl had escaped and sought refuge at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Ray Drake of 5629 Grand avenue.

Mrs. Koski claims that he had threatened to kill her and says that he has ill-treated her for the past few years. Koski has been arrested before for wife-beating. On March 25, 1907, he was arrested by Officer Peterson for beating his wife on the street. He was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail.

Two years ago during the winter months he deserted his wife and went to Northern Minnesota on a hunting trip, it is claimed. A Duluth detective brought him back from the woods and he was meted out a sentence of sixty days.

Only last week, the police received a complaint from Mrs. Koski. She said that one of her daughters was coming down with scarlet fever and that her husband had left her no money with which to engage a doctor.

Mrs. Koski is ill today from the effects of the beating. It is expected that as soon as she is able to be around again, she will prosecute the case against her husband.

Lysoght Child Dies.

Eugene Lysaght, 6-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lysaght, of 228 North Sixty-first avenue west, died this morning after a short illness. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

WILL ORGANIZE FAST BALL TEAM

Challenge of Proctorites Will Be Accepted By Commercial Club.

In order to get in trim and to select a suitable team to represent the West Duluth Commercial club in a baseball game with the Proctor club, the members of the local organization will met tonight with E. G. Kreidler, captain of the local bunch, at the West Duluth ball grounds.

Capt. Kreidler is confident that a fast aggregation can be selected from the West Duluth business men, and will be able in a few days to accept the challenge which was made by the Proctorites about two weeks ago.

At Proctor yesterday, in a four-inning contest, which had to be called off on account of the rain, the "leans" carried off the honors in a game with the "fats." The score was 5 to 2. Schell dispensed the ball for the winners and Dempsey was on the mound for the heavyweights. It is probable that a return game will be played.

"PLOT" DID NOT EXIST.

Officer Discredits Story That Boys Attempted to Wreck Incline.

It is quite probable that the charges brought against three West Duluth boys, accused of a plot to wreck the incline car of the Duluth Belt Line railway last week, will be dropped following an investigation by Probation Officer Beesche.

On the complaint of C. O. Sauter, an employe of the road, Louis, Willie and Alfred Dolter of 5912 Raleigh street, were arrested last week on warrants from the juvenile court. Sauter accused the boys of making an attempt to cut one of the strands of the cable, which pulls the car up the hill.

The boys however explain that they were picking hazelnuts along the line and assert that they found a pickax hidden in the bushes. While walking along the tracks, it became too heavy for the boy who was carrying it, and it dropped, denting the cable as it fell. The story of the finding of the pick was confirmed by a workman, who says that he hid the ax.

Their case will come up Saturday in juvenile court. The probation officer is inclined to believe the story of the boys and it is probable that he affair will be dropped.

BOYS' VILE LANGUAGE SHOCKS NEIGHBORHOOD.

Because a number of boys, who have a shack at 213 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, used profane language and shocked the neighborhood Saturday evening, a number of complaints came to the police.

Sergt. Barber sent Officer D. Olson to investigate. The boys were warned that should they not desist from disturbing the neighborhood that arrests would follow.

July a Busy Month.

The police made thirty-seven arrests during July, which was one of the busiest months for years. Most of the arrests were made between the hours of 6 in the evening and 3:30 in the morning. Of the number arrested eighteen were plain drunks, four were assault in the third degree, three for trespass, two for defrauding an innkeeper, two for discharging firearms, and one on each of the following charges: Assault in the first degree, petit larceny, selling liquor to a drunken man, non-support and vagrancy.

Was False Alarm.
Many residents in the East end thought that the woods and brush in that part of the city were burning wildly last night. Consequently the telephones at fire headquarters were kept busy with alarms. But it happened that a new road is being cut through near the golf grounds and that brush which had been cut was being burned on the right-of-way. Men were watching the fire and as it was after the rain there wasn't the slighest danger.

Civil Service Exams.
Civil service examinations for the police and fire departments will be held at the city hall Aug. 12. Applications must be in the hands of Secretary Ruben Johnson not later than Aug. 5. Men are wanted on the eligible and extra lists of both departments.

Little Business for Council.
The council meeting tonight promises to be very short and quiet. Little business is scheduled. The committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks will have a hearing this afternoon on the extension of Ramsey street and the council will take some action this evening, it is expected, on the vacation of the New Duluth road. The present road runs through the property of the Steel corporation and the company has offered to construct another highway that, it is said, will be fully as good.

Bound Over to Grand Jury.
Harry Mont, arrested Saturday noon by Detective Toewe after an exciting chase into the railroad yards at Fifth avenue west, waived examination in police court when arraigned for grand larceny. He was bound over to the next grand jury. He is accused of stealing about $200 worth of goods from Joseph Konarich. The stuff is said to have been left in grips on the floor of the Union station by the owner. When he came back the grips were gone.

Drew a Knife.
James Dodd, a tinner, 25 years of age, was arrested Saturday night and booked for disorderly conduct. It is alleged that he drew a knife and threatened to cut Clarence Beeman during a quarrel in the Ideal Beer hall. The police secured the names of Paul Lundquist and Charles Ford as witnesses. Dodd entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried later.

Bids Will Be Opened.
Bids will be opened this afternoon in the office of Collector of Customs L. M. Willcuts for the improvement of the grounds at the federal building. The grounds will be regraded to conform with the improvements made on the court house grounds and the lot on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue west and First street, which is also owned by the government, will be made presentable.

Court Adjourns.
One of the attorneys in the case of the Duluth & Thunder Bay railroad against the Northern Pacific railroad was not able to appear in court this afternoon and another adjournment was taken to tomorrow morning. A jury has been drawn to hear the appeal of the Soo subsidiary from the decision of the commissioners, awarding the Northern Pacific $4,000 damages for the crossing of the Northern Pacific tracks by the Soo in entering Duluth.

Amends its Articles.
Amended articles were filed with the register of deeds this afternoon by the Lutsen Lumber, Tie & Post company, in which it is announced that the company had changed its name to the National Power & Paper company, with a capital stock of $300,000. It will deal in lumber, ties, posts and paper. The president of the company is Charles Schulze and the secretary is J. P. Rossman.

Free Dispensary.
The free dispensary recently started by the physicians of this city will be opened tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 4, and Dr. William W. Hart, secretary of the St. Louis County Sanatorium commission will be in charge.

This dispensary is located in room 115, courthouse building, and all patients, who are unable to secure medical aid, are welcome to come. Tuberculosis patients will receive special attention. The office is open once a week, on Tuesday at 3 o'clock.

With one exception the amount of grain handled by the members of the Duluth Board of Trade in the crop year, which ended Saturday, was the largest in the history of the organization. # $35,000 IS SUM NEEDED

Tuberculosis Sanatorium Commission Will Ask for That Amount.

In its petition to the board of county commissioners, the sanitorium commission, established last year for the prevention of tuberculosis, will ask for an appropriation of $35,000 to carry out the proposed plans for the building of a sanatorium. This petition will be filed in a few days and will be acted upon at the board meeting next week.

In defense of this petition the sanatorium commission will appear and emphasize the necessity of securing this amount. Several well-known physicians, who have been battling with the white plague in and about Duluth for many years and who realize the absolute needs and the headway the disease is making, will also speak to the board, as will many representatives from clubs and organizations which are devoting considerable time to the fight against the white plague.

Last year the county commissioners appropriated $20,000 for such an institution, recognizing the fact that the sanatorium is a necessity. The members were informed at the time that it would require at least $80,000 to carry out the proposed plans.

Of this amount a large sum will be used in the cost of maintenance, which will be a big item, while the rest will go towards the construction of the new building.

The commission is now planning on the purchase of a site for the tuberculosis sanatorium and it is believed that a deal will be consummated within the course of a few days. It is feared that there may be some opposition from people living in the vicinity of the proposed sanitorium, but from information received from other cities where similar sanitoriums have been established it is shown that the real estate valuation has increased, in many places even tripling.

As soon as the site has been agreed upon, and the deal closed, the board will consult with arachitects for the preparation of plans. A local architect will be engaged, and an expert sanatorium architect selected to assist in the work.

This sanatorium will be made after the type of the very best in the world. Patients from the county, who can pay a nominal fee for the service will be received, while those who are county charges will be taken to the county poor farm sanatorium. The cost for each patient will not be very high, while each will receive the best of care that modern medical science can give in the treatment of tuberculosis.

According to plans, this sanatorium will consist of a number of cottages. The first one to be erected will be a main building, large and commodious, with accommodations for a large number of patients. While the sum already appropriated is not sufficiently large to pay for the construction, yet it will be so spent that a main part to the building can be erected, and that additions can be conveniently made to it.

Medical men of this city claim that Duluth and the adjoining country have a larger percentage of tubercular people than is to be found in most large cities. This is due, it is claimed to the lax laws regarding the reporting of cases. Were it required of sufferers from this disease, or the physicians called to attend them, to report to the health department, it is believed that measures would be taken to have the disease stamped out somewhat, or at least prevent its spread.

OLD SOLDIER IS HELD FOR SHOOTING

LABOR WILL BE THEIR THEME

Richard Jones, who, as a representative of the Trades Assembly, is corresponding with the pastors of the city in regard to the observance of Sunday, Sept. 4, as Labor Sunday, has received favorable replies from about fifteen pastors of the city and none have yet declined to observe the day.

It is expected that nearly all of the pastors of the city, whether they promise directly to do so or not, will take some notice of the cause of labor on the Sunday preceding Labor day. Many pastors have made a practice of preaching on the subject of labor on the Sunday preceding Labor day in past years and now that the day has been designated Labor Sunday by the American Federation of Labor, it is expected that many other pastors will join the movement.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has sent out a notice to all unions, requesting that the unions do what they could to induce the pastors of their respective cities to preach on the subject of labor on Labor Sunday and that all members of unions attend church.

PAPER MILL ON NORTH SHORE

Contracts for the building of a large concrete dock at the mouth of Poplar river have been let, George Lauslin of Superior, being the successful bidder, and a big pulp, paper and power plant will be established in the vicinity. The men interested in the National Power & Paper company of Duluth, of which Charles Schmalz is president and J. P. Rossman, vice president.

Three miles of standard gauge railroad will be built from Poplar river, where the company has large tracts of pulp wood and valuable water power to the north shore.

Power terminals will be afforded at a new town, Lockport, not far east of the mouth of the river.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES PLANS ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

President Silberstein Will Go to New York to Engage Secretary.

School Savings Banks and City Woodpile Are Talked of.

President Edward A. Silberstein of the Associated Charities of Duluth will go to New York this week to engage a general secretary to handle the business of the organization.

The identity of the new official is not definitely fixed, but Mr. Silberstein has in view four men who are believed to be qualified for the place. He will take charge Sept. 1, and will have an office in the city hall.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Associated Charities Saturday, authority was delegated to the president to select the man who in his judgment is the most desirable among the candidates. To perform the duties involving on a general secretary of an organization such as the Associated Charities a man of peculiar and special qualifications is needed, and schools of philanthrophy have been established for the purpose of fitting men to meet the demand. The general secretary of the Duluth organization will be an executive officer and when he comes it will be with the indorsement of the Charities Organization society, or Russel Sage foundation of New York.

Tact, business sense, firmness and a talent for sympathy are required in a man in the position of general secretary. Most of those who have made a study of conditions, needs and methods and thus equipped themselves for such a place have had settlement work in the larger cities as their object.

The Associated Charities of Duluth is a comparatively new organization, but it has done a remarkable amount of good work. So thoroughly pleased with the achievements of the last ten months—the length of time it has been in existence—are the business and professional men of the city that plans to enlarge the scope and extent of the work are being enthusiastically approved. The work of the Associated charities has three main objects; avoidance of duplication in the benevolent activities of different relief organizations, prevention of fraud and prevention of pauperization.

The Association's Work.

By the employment of a general secretary the organization will be better able to deal with conditions as they may develop. As to the work of the Charities, President Silberstein in a recent communication to the members of the city council said:

"The Duluth Associated Charities was organized last fall to bring about the amalgamation of all the charitable and philanthropic societies of Duluth, so that the relief work of this city might be put upon a systematic and business basis. In no sense was it intended as an independent organization, but rather as a clearing house for all other charitable organizations, to prevent over lapping, paperization and fraud. It has already done a considerable amount of work and today holds a much needed place in the city's activities. Every month the representatives of twenty-two organizations composing the central council get together and discuss individual cases as well as problems of a general character, and dispose of them according to the merits of the particular case, each succeeding meeting justifying more and more the place of the Associated Charities in this community.

"Every busniess man will appreciate the tax put upon his time and patience by the innumerable requests for relief that come to him every day of the week. Even though a case is meritorious he has not the time to investigate it and often times gives merely to be rid of the person. Further more our people have been victimized time and again because of lack of reliable information regarding the particular case.

"The detail work of the Associated Charities has heretofore been done by a few of its officers and members, who find their time now taxed so heavily by the demands arising from an increasing number of cases, that it is now absolutely necessary to secure a secretary of wide experience for this work. It will be recognized that the coming fall and winter will be an especially hard period for those in distress, and we want to get our work in shape by Sept. 1 that we may meet the situation promptly and efficiently. A conservative estimate of the money necessary to do this work for the coming year is between $4,000 and $5,000.

"We understand that there is an unexpended balance of $140 in the general fund, which may, under section 284, chapter 17, of the city charter, be expended for benevolent and charitable objects, and we urgently request that you donate this sum to the Duluth Associated Charities, and thereby assist in bringing about a perfect Associated Charities organization in this city."

Will Raise Funds.

The executive and finance committees both met Saturday and reviewed the work done in the last few weeks, besides hearing the report of the secretary on a number of individual relief cases.

The finance committee reported its plan for securing funds to carry on the work in the next twelve months. The method adopted is to send to every business professional man in the city a letter inclosing a subscription card. This circularization will be followed by a personal call by the committee and it is believed that it will be very easy to raise the $4,000 or $5,000 that must be raised for the coming year. A preliminary survey of the field by officers of the Charities is highly encouraging, they say. One business man, when approached as a "feeler," promptly said he would be pleased to contribute $200; another said he would be glad to give $100.

The members of the finance committee are: Frederic W. Paine, Julius H. Barnes, W. S. McCormick, Bentley P. Neff, Mrs. M. H. Kelly, Mrs. Joseph B. Cotton and J. J. Moe. All but the last two mentioned attended the meeting.

The executive committee is composed of the following: Rev. A. W. Ryan, Mrs. O. C. Hartman, Rev. J. W. Powell, A. B. Siewert, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, Miss Jean Porter and H. V. Eva, all of whom attended Saturday's meeting.

School Savings Banks.

A number of interesting projects for the year were discussed by the committee members, among them one looking to the establishment of a provident savings system in the public schools, to inculcate an aptitude for thrift in the upils. The children will be provided with "bank books," and when they deposit their pennies and nickels they will be given stamps to paste in the books. These stamps will represent the amounti of their savings, which will be deposited in a central bank. The children will be able to draw out their money under certain prescribed conditions and it is believed the innovation will prove to be of incalculable vaule to the future citizenship of the community. It has been tried in other cities and has succeeded. The Associated Charities will direct the establishment of the system here and will foster it in every way possible.

Another project that came up for consideration resulted in a decision to establish a wood-yard next winter, where men out of work may be employed. It is considered very much more desirable to give a man work than to tide him over with a gift of a few dollars that will only serve to "keep him going" until he succeeds in "making another touch." The labor of the unemployed will be used and the sale of wood will supply funds to maintain the wood yard.

City Assessor Hopes Revaluation May Come From Many Complaints.

"I trust that the agitation started over inequalities in the assessment of city real estate will be carried through to the end and that a thorough revaluation my result," said City Assessor Charles L. Rakowsky this morning.

"It is what I have been advocating since I assumed the duties of the office. Nothing could please me more, as it is precisely what Duluth needs.

"I have consistently maintained that a sufficent appropriation should be provided for the assessments. The money allowed the department is not enough to enable any assessor to do the work properly.

"Duluth real estate has never been assessed as it should be. But under the present system and with the funds provided for the purpose, no assessor can make the assessment as it should be made. Nor should the assessor be limited to a short period of time in which to make the assessment. The work, done as nearly perfectly as possible, would require many months. Every building and every piece of property in the city limits should be viewed and examined. All property in the same block is not of the same value. Some may be rocky, some may contain declivities or gulches and some may set too low to be as valuable as adjoining lots. These should all be taken into consideration. The same applies to buildings, but not to the same extent, probably. As they get older they are bound to deteriorate, while in Duluth the longer land is held the more valuable it becomes, particularly in the districts close to the business centers.

"Values cannot be fixed or any idea of proper values obtained by examination of a map. The paper does not show the topography, either as to disadvantages or advantages of lots or acreage. In black and white there may be a tremendous injustice shown, but the person looking at the actual property would appreciate the fact that the properties were not nearly equal in value. On paper both look alike, but one may be a cliff or a gully and the next a flat and very desirable piece."

PRISONERS WILL PLEAD

The arrangement of a number of prisoners from the Range court, will be made late this afternoon, before Judge Cant of the district court. The county will be represented by Warren E. Greene, assistant county attorney.

Two persons accused of murder will have an opportunity to plead at this hearing, and it is likely both will enter pleas of not guilty. The prisoners are at present confined in the county jail, and as soon as they have entered their pleas, they will be removed to the county jail again, where they will await the trial of the Virginia criminal court, which will be held in September.

Those pleading guilty will probably receive sentence shortly afterwards, although it is not known whether any have intentions of so pleading.

The following will plead today: Sadie Dillon and Guiseppi Furlani, murder in the first degree; Anton Stanicha, arson in the first degree; Peter Christhaultz, arson in the third degree; Milo Tomson, carrying concealed weapons; Pasquale Spigerilla, grand larceny second degree; Matt Kuren, Joseph Judnik, Eli Pajasic and Fred Susnik, assault in the second degree; John Hendrickson, indecent assault; Dave Merzlah and Katie Fabish, statutory offense.

JOHN PANTON, JR., IS ARRESTED

John Panton, Jr., was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by Chief of Police C. H. Troyer charging him with exceeding the speed limit last week. While going west on Superior street, near First avenue east, he struck Henry Gaultier, 17 years old, with the automobile he was driving. His parents were in the car at the time. It is alleged that he was going between eight and ten miles an hour. He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried Thursday morning.

The police have received strict instructions to enforce the provisions of the traffic ordinance. Men have been stationed in different sections with stop watches and have obtained considerable evidence of violations, but none of them serious. Robert Ruzus, a Superior contractor, was arrested Saturday for violating the ordinance. He drove around a street car and went over to the wrong side of the street. He forfeited $10 bail in police court this morning.

RULES FOR PATIENTS

Helpful Suggestions to Tuberculosis Sufferers to Be Issued Soon.

Dr. William M. Hart, secretary and superintendent of the St. Louis county tuberculosis sanatorium commission, is preparing a little pamphlet containing valuable information for persons who are tubercular, which will be issued within a few days.

This pamphlet is arranged by him at the request of the Linnea club of this city, a Swedish organization which has been interested in the work of preventing the spread of the white plague. The club will have 500 printed in English and 500 printed in Swedish, to be distributed free among the sick.

The following are the suggestions he offers, which, if heeded, he claims will be of much benefit in fighting off the disease:

Rules for Exercise.

None for one week, then ask about it; none if feverish; none if blood in sputum; none if loss of weight; none if fast pulse; never get out of oreath; never get tired; never run; never lift heavy weights; no hill climbing; go slowly.

Exercise regularly and systematically whether rain or shine. If necessary walk up hill at start so as to come down hill on return. Remember always that you will have to return. Rest one-half hour before and after meals.

Food: Eggs, two to six a day; milk, six glasses; meat, at two meals; lunches, 10:30, 3:30, 9; no alcohol.

Baths: Warm, at least one a week at bed time; cold sponge to the waist at least every morning.

Air: Eight to ten hours outside; windows open at night; avoid draughts; avoid crowded rooms.

Expectoration: Use sputum box: cloths not to be used except as directed.

Bed: Nine to ten hours in bed; sleep out of doors or in tent or shack if possible; no draughts or heat.

Sun: Head or shoulders out of it on warm days; admit freely to room and porch when vacant.

Colds: Stay in bed and report to your physician.

Always stop any medicine that upsets the stomach.

A hemmorhage does not mean that you are hopelessly worse, or cannot be cured.

Remember that the porch is the most essential feature of the house.

Boil table utensils used by patients.

Wash hands before and after each meal.

When in doubt consult your physician and do not depart from these rules without doing so.

WHAT IS THE PROPERTY OWNERS' LEAGUE?

Mystification has been caused in Duluth by a resident of St. Cloud, who wrote to the Duluth Commercial club, asking who are the men composing the Property Owners' league of this city.

Neither the postoffice or police authorities could supply the information and in quarters where such information is usually readily available, there was a dearth of knowledge about the "league."

The St. Cloud man writes to the effect that the league is offering "rewards," and he wants to know all about it. He failed to say what the rewards are for; in fact, tells nothing except that the league is advertising frequently that it will pay rewards.

An investigation has been begun to learn what there is behind the incident.

FOILING THE UNWORTHY

Professionals Will Not Present Order at the Bethel.

The current number of the Bethel Record, the publication of the Duluth Bethel society contains a suggestion to charitably inclined people, who do not like to turn away beggars, fearing that they may fail to give in some worthy case.

The Record suggests that beggars be given an order on the Bethel for meals and lodgings and professional beggars will be turned away by the Bethel as unworthy.

"The average man wants to help the needy who are worthy, and discourage the fraudulent methods of the professional beggars.

"How to discriminate is the question. Many work on the plan that it is better to help ten unworthy than to refuse help to one who is worthy, consequently they help all.

"Now, that would be all right if there was no way of finding who was worthy and who was not, but since there is a way, indiscriminate giving is all wrong. What is the way The following will illustrate: Some time ago a man came to the superintendent of the Bethel society and told him that beggars were bothering his life out. He said that hardly a day passed that he did not give money to one or more who came to his door with a hard luck story. He said that he did not mind helping the men if they were really worthy, but that he did not want to encourage pauperism.

"He was told to do what many other business men are doing: namely, give these men a written order to the Bethel which would read about like the following:

"Dear Sir: Unless you know the bearer to be unworthy please give him.... meals and .... lodgings and send the bill to me. Oblige yours truly,

"Signed."

"The suggestion was adopted at once with the result that since that time he has given about 100 orders and only two of them have been presented, one for 15 cents and one for 18 cents. But why were the other ninety-eight orders not presented? Simply because the men to whom they were given were professional beggars and they knew that they were known as such at the Bethel, and therefore they would not be given anything on ane one's order, so they simply tore them up.

"The experience which this man had is the experience which many others have had and which you may have if you will give orders to the Bethel instead of cash.

"We are always ready to honor such orders when given by citizens, whether we know them or not. When the men who bring the orders are strangers we will do all we can to help them and if we find them to be worthy we will soon get them a position. If after thorough trial we find them to be lazy, worthless tramps we will not help them any more nor will we give them meals or lodgings on orders given by any one. Just before we began writing this article a professional beggar appeared at the window with an order for meals and lodgings from a certain milliner whose place of business is on East Fourth street. We refused to give him anything. He became very indignant, protesting that the woman who gave him the order was all right. We knew she was all right. We also knew that he was all wrong. Simply a lazy, indolent beggar, and we refused to let him eat and sleep at the expense of this woman who wanted to help any one that was worthy. If this method were universally adopted in Duluth, begging would be reduced to a minimum."

JOHN G. CARLISLE PASSES AWAY

Former Speaker of the House and Member of Cleveland's Cabinet Dies.

New York, Aug. 1.—John G. Carlisle, former secretary of the treasury, who had been critically ill for the past two days, died at his apartments in New York at 10:50 o'clock Sunday night of heart failure, accompanied by oedema of the lungs.

John Griffin Carlisle was born in Kenton county, Kentucky, on Sept. 5, 1835. He was educated in the public schools, later studied law, and was admitted to the bar. Always a consistent Democrat and interested in public affairs as a young man, he rose from the Kentucky house of representatives to the state senate, served as lieutenant governor and finally was graduated into national affairs.

From 1877 to 1890 he was a member of the national house, and from 1883 to 1889 was speaker of the house. He resigned to fill the unexpired term of James B. Beck in the United States senate, from which he again resigned in 1893 to become secretary of the treasury under Grover Cleveland.

With the retirement from power of the Democratic party in 1897, he withdrew from politics and took up once more the practice of law, this time in New York city, where he continued to live until his death.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

The weather man treated Duluth to a violent thunderstorm yesterday afternoon, broke up ball games and drove people at outing places to cover. This morning dawned bright and cool, but the forecast is for showers again tonight or tomorrow. Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours scattered showers fell over all districts from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic coast except in the Ohio, middle Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys, as a result of slight barometric depressions central over Saskatchewan and Arizona. High temperatures prevailed Sunday in Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, the Dakotas, Iowa and Gulf states. Cooler weather continues in Pacific states. The barometer is highest over Middle Atlantic and North Pacific states. Occasional showers may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

WILL PAY $10 FOR A NAME

Herald Will Give Prize for Best Title for the Boulevard.

Contest Open to Anybody---Park Board Will Decide Winner.

Abas "the Boulevard!"

F. A. Patrick, president of the park board, suggests even "Terrace" or "Cornice," as more descriptive than just "The Boulevard."

What would you call it? Write to the "Boulevard editor" of The Herald and tell him. He will give $10 in gold, silver, paper or Canuck money for the best name to be approved by the park board. The Herald will turn over the names to the park board as fast as they are received.

F. A. Patrick says that the word, "boulevard," is inappropriate and meaningless and the name should be changed. "Terrace or Cornice" would be infinitely better, but some of our citizens may have much better names to suggest than these," he says.

Maybe they have. The Herald is enough interested in knowing to pay $10 to find out.

New Use for Old Paper Money.

All the paper money sent into the treasury department at Washington for redemption is destroyed in a huge iron tank by boiling it in a mixture of water and acid. After boiling for several hours the money comes out of the tank in the form of a pulp, and sold at a good price to paper makers. A scientific investigation proves that where a good malt tonic is needed to build up overworked nerves and relieve indigestion, there is nothing better than Golden Grain Belt beer. Try it and be convinced. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing Co.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

WESTERN DRAMA AT THE LYCEUM.

This week Mr. Forbes and his company will return to Western drama, and in choosing "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" the manager of this popular amusement company has selected a Western play that is the best of the sort that has been produced in recent years. The play is not of the talky order that wearies the audience, but is full of the stirring vivid action that sets it at once in a class by itself and has made it a highly popular and very successful piece.

In addition to the story that is of intense interest there are some amusing and delightful scenes among the cowboys of the Texas ranch where the scene of the play is laid. Shorty and Slim are two of the most amusing characters of the sort that have ever been seen in Duluth and both roles will give the character actors in Mr. Forbes' support a splendid opportunity. Mr. Forbes will be seen in the role of Dick Scott, the Easterner, who becomes the idol of the Texas cowboys. Miss Justina Wayne will be Margaret Lea, his old sweetheart.

The first performance of "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" will be given this evening at the Lyceum and the play will be repeated every evening with Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

STRONG NOTE OF WARNING

Autos Are Ruining the Nation Into Debt, Says Hepburn.

Much Mortgaging to Buy Vehicles---All Living Beyond Incomes.

New York, Aug. 1.—A. Barton Hepburn, president of the Chase National bank, who has returned from an extended trip through the West, accorded an interview to a reporter for the World and in this he sounded a strong note of warning against national extravagance.

"The one thing radically wrong in the country," he said, "is the wild extravagance in domestic economy. This, perhaps, is most conspicuously shown in the craze for buying automobiles. These are expensive to buy and still more expensive to maintain. This extravaganace is merely one of many evidences of our every-day methods of living and indulgences at home and abroad. As a nation we have been spending during the last two years more than we have earned, and as a result an international indebtedness has been piled up against us.

"A very careful study of the relations of the United States with the other nations of the world shows that we must have a trade balance in our favor of at least $290,000,000 in order to keep even. It is estimated that at least $150,000,000 is sent abroad annually by servants in this country to their parents at home, and by well-to-do business men here, who contribute in greater or less degree to the support of friends in the 'old country.' A very large fund of this character goes to Scandinavia, Italy and Hungary at the present time.

"The Canadian government, in an official document recently issued, estimated that $100,000,000 had been invested in the Dominion during the last year by people of the United States, in real estate and the houses built thereupon. That is rather exceptional and might not occur another year to so large an extent. Forty-four per cent of all the fire underwriting of this country and nearly all the marine underwriting are done by foreign companies. We pay a large amount of interest to other nations upon what we owe them. Our travellers spend large sums abroad. Our navy spends large sums abroad every year in maintenance, coal, supplies, etc.

"These are some of the various items of expenditure abroad which do not find expression through the custom house or the usual channels of trade, but which justify the estimate that we must have a favorable trade balance of at least $290,000,000 in order to keep even.

Have Been Running Behind.

"This shows that for the last two years we have been running behind as a nation. For seven months of the year the trade balance has actually been against us. The high cost of living and the high prices which commodities command are tangible evidence of a general extravagance. In the last analysis it is the law of supply and demand which always regulates the price.

"With the improved conditions surrounding our working people, better houses, better clothing, more expensive and more varied food supplies — all these go to make up an increased demand and a consequent increase in price. Our people of all classes are indulgent themselves in amusements and matters that appeal to self-gratification. All this is commendable and desirable, if the parties indulging can afford it. In many instances they cannot, and this is easily proven by a casual observance of conditions in almost any locality. Beyond the manufactured goods and the raw material which we sell to other nations the only way we have of paying our indebtedness is by shipping gold. Selling securities abroad is only one form of borrowing, as they may all be returned to us.

"Our country is rich and prosperous; our latent resources are very great; we accumulate wealth rapidly, but our expenditures at the present time are greater in proportion and there must be a curtailment. A demand for money, high rates of interest and difficulty in securing loans frequently exercise a most wholesome influence, and if such a condition exists during the fall it may enforce a degree of conservatism and prove a blessing in disguise."

SELLS-FLOTO PARADE ONE OF THE BEST EVER SEEN IN DULUTH

PROF. FRED ALISPAW'S FAMOUS TROUPE OF TRAINED ELEPHANTS.
On Parade With the Sells-Floto Shows.

Today is circus day, and a big crowd thronged Superior street this morning to see the parade.

The parade was a gorgeous affair, with gilt wagons, plenty of music, a fine display of animals and a calliope, the strident tones of which brought the crowds to the windows all along the route of the parade.

The Sells-Floto show arrived in Duluth early last evening, and the interesting unloading process was an attraction for several hundred people, who visited the railroad yards at the foot of Fifth avenue west.

The Sells-Floto circus was here last year and gave a most satisfactory performance. It is heralded as being greatly improved this year, and it is expected that big crowds will visit the show this afternoon and this evening. It is independent of the "circus trust" and the admission price has been cut to 25 cents.

"The Circus Beautiful" was what Elbert Hubbard named it, and judging from the neat appearance of the animals and the clean costumes and wagons, it lives up to this name.

It has flourished during its war with the trust, and has become one of the really big circuses of the country. A free lance in the circus world, it has become noted for its energy and aggressiveness in securing new attractions.

The parade this morning was claimed by many to have been the best ever seen in Duluth.

WORKMAN MEETS HORRIBLE DEATH

Mangled Under Wheels, Car Repairer Dies From His Injuries.

Hans Peterson, 30 years old, a car repairer residing at 2212 West Sixth street, was killed while at work late Saturday afternoon in the Union depot yards near Tenth avenue west.

Peterson was working under a Northern Pacific freight car, and a switch engine coupled on to it, pushing the car over his limbs before he could free himself. He was horribly mangled.

Peterson is said to have almost hidden under the car at the time of the accident. Whether he had set the customary signals warning switchmen that he was working there, has not been learned.

The body was removed to the Olson & Crawford undertaking establishment. Peterson is survived by a wife and one child. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the residence.

Burial will be at Park Hill cemetery.

TWO ADDRESSES ON PROHIBITION

Temperance Convention Closes With Rousing Meeting at Lincoln Park.

There have been several talented speakers at the gatherings held recently in Duluth and on the Range in the interest of the prohibition cause. Of these not the least popular and powerful are Hon. E. E. Lobeck and John A. Shields, both of whom spoke yesterday afternoon at the closing meeting of the Swedish-Finnish Temperance society convention held in the Lincoln Park pavilion.

Mr. Lobeck had a difficult time speaking against the thunder of the afternoon's storm and its rattle and rumble on the roof of the pavilion. He stoutly and successfully maintained his own, however, and made his audience hear. At the climax of his speech he called attention to a recent editorial of the Minneapolis Tribune entitled "A Greater Than Bryan," in which it was stated that the only power that could break the leadership of Bryan in his fight for his principles of reform in the Democratic party was the liquor traffic. The Tribune, though a Republican paper, asserted that that power controlled the last Minnesota legislature. Mr. Lobeck will speak in Two Harbors this evening.

Mr. Shields, who is the field secretary of the state prohibition committee, reached Duluth yesterday morning from Eveleth, where he spoke at the national convention of Finnish temperance societies. His first address in Duluth was given at the Christian church where he developed the principle that the settlement of the liquor traffic means settlement of other important questions. He likened the destruction of the liquor traffic to the casting out of the demon by Christ from the man possessed by the demon, which was legion. Mr. Shields said that the race problem was largely due to liquor, that crime was a direct result of liquor. He stated that in his own state of Kansas, seventeen counties bordering on the surrounding license states, having only one quarter of the total population of the state furnished seven-eighths of the criminals. This was because Uncle Sam allowed the shipping of intoxicants across the state line. The people of the county must instruct Uncle Sam to respect the laws of the states made for the protection of the home, he said.

The audience in Lincoln park pavilion in the afternoon was surprised in Mr. Shields' speech. His presence on the platform appeared that of a mere boy. He has been called the "boy orator." After a few moments, however, when he began he easily held the gathering by his depth and clearness of thought, his rapidity of utterance and his ready flow of language.

Mr. Shields' main contention was that the problem before the reform forces is not when, but how to get together. He asserted that no political evil can live unless two dominant parties favor it. Silence is consent. E. E. Smith and P. J. Youngdahl must get together for or against the liquor traffic if the Republican party is to settle the question, he said. Hamm, the brewer, and John Lind must unite to support or fight that traffic if the Democratic party offers any hope for settlement. This is manifestly impossible according to the principle enunciated by Jesus Christ. "A house divided against itself cannot stand," which principle Abraham Lincoln emphasized as the reason why slavery could not be settled by the Democratic or Whig parties. Mr. Shields said that the people must not only vote the town dry, but they must vote the town hall dry also. They must not vote the court house wet when they vote the county dry. The Anti-Saloon League of Kansas has spent each year an average of $65,000 to enforce the law because the people vote the state house wet every two years. The only place to get together is in a party that stands for the principle of prohibition. Mr. Shields expressed his opinion that although there was a probability that a new party would be formed, yet the duty of patriotic citizens is now to support the Prohibition party because it is the only party at the present time where the vote stands solid for the principle involved.

Mr. Shields spoke in Zion Norwegian Lutheran church last evening. He meets members of the Prohibition clubs and Good Templars tonight at the Y. M. C. A.

TALKS ON HEAVEN.

West End Pastor Defines It as a Place, Not a Condition.

"What of Heaven?" was the text of the sermon delivered yesterday at Grace M. E. church by the pastor, Rev. M. O. Stockland. Taking John 12:2 for his text, "In my father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you." Rev. Mr. Stockland declared that Heaven was a place and not merely a condition.

He said in part:

"Heaven is a place and not simply a condition. You cannot consider 'being' apart from a place. It involves both what we are and what we were, and spirituality does not mean the destruction of locality.

"We also have a declaration of his universal reign of love. He will come for us because he wants us to be where he is. And this is the magnet which draws us thitherward, and which warms our hearts amid earth's chill as we journey onward to the skies. For love is attracting. Why do men get homesick? Simply through love. That is why Heaven draws us. We love Him who hath first loved us."

CONCRETE BEDDING FOR SANDSTONE PAVING JOB.

A concrete bed, for the paving of Garfield avenue with sandstone blocks, is being laid by a crew of men under Contractor McDonnell, work having started Saturday. In order not to delay traffic any more than possible, only one side of the street will be paved at a time.

It is probable that the west side of the avenue will be paved first, beginning from the viaduct. It is expected that the job will be completed some time in October.

CONSTANT PRAYER MEANS OF CLOSE RELATIONSHIP.

That constant prayer was the only means of bringing about a close relationship between the soul and God was the declaration of Rev. W. E. Hartmann from the pulpit at St. Luke's Episcopal church yesterday morning. He said in part: "It is admitted that we do not know all about God, yet through prayer we can come to know Him.

"It's the same way in everyday life —we may know all about a person, yet we do not know him, truly know him. It requires a certain kind of heart knowledge to truly know him. Therefore I say that prayer will give us such a relation with God that we will know Him, yet not have actual knowledge of His origin, and I think you will agree that if we know Him in the true heart relation and spiritual relation, there will be no great concern as to the things about Him."

Revival Services.

Revival services will be conducted in the Scandinavian language under a tent at Twenty-second avenue west and Sixth street for the next two weeks. The first of the series was held yesterday, when Rev. J. Bergstrom of St. Paul spoke in the afternoon.

In the evening Rev. O. J. Nerlund, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist congregation, who will soon leave his congregation, who will soon leave his local charge for another field, spoke. The meetings will be held every evening this week except tonight and Saturday.

Will Receive Petition.

At a meeting today it is expected that the park board will receive and take some action on a petition circulated among West end people, asking that an additional acre be added to Lincoln park. The cost of the addition would be about $5,000.

West End Shortrails.

The Epworth League of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church will hold its annual picnic tomorrow evening at Lester Park. It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the affair.

Louis Nelson, living at Twenty-fourth avenue west and Fourth street, will be host to the members of the Epworth League of the First Swedish M. E. church, Friday evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish M. E. church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. Sundquist of Twenty-third avenue west and Eighth street.

Mrs. Joseph Beilleau and daughter, Vivian, of St. Paul, have returned to their home after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dice of 2702 West Fourth street.

WANTS $16,000 FOR INJURIES

Workman Struck By Derailed Car Sues for Heavy Damages.

The personal injury suit of Sam Coffers against the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company and Thomas Wivall, superintendent, was taken up this morning before Judge Dibell of the district court.

Coffers is suing for $16,000 for injuries alleged to have been received last fall, at the Crosby mine, while employed as a laborer by the defendants.

He claims that he was ordered by Wivall to work about the pile of debris, near the railroad track, and while so doing, a car loaded with ore was rushed down the mine. When it arrived near to where he was working, it was derailed, owing to a defective rail, he states, and striking him, crushed him against the debris.

The injuries complained of consisted principally of a severe crushing of the spine, and several minor bruises, which laid him up in bed for eighteen days and made him a cripple. He is represented in the suit by Joseph De La Motte, while Theodore Hollister is appearing for the defendants.

IMPROVEMENTS TO POOR FARM

County Institution Will Have Big Corn Crop This Year.

The poor farm has reached such proportions as a real farm that the commissioners in whose hands the management falls, are considering many extensive improvements. At the meeting held Saturday afternoon, some of these were taken up, and it was decided to purchase a silo for the storage of corn.

More than fifteen acres of land are under corn now, which is flourishing. Probably in no other section of Northern Minnesota is the crop in such a fine condition. The yield this year will be heavy, and the quality of the corn of a high grade.

It is probable that more silos will be purchased later. The cost, including their removal to the farm, and the installation will amount to nearly $600 each.

Supt. C. Melby of the poor farm brought down several of the stalks to the meeting Saturday afternoon. When measured they proved to be over seven feet tall.

It was also decided to remodel the barn, and construct additional stalls for cows. The improvement will cost about $1,000.

The levy for the expenses of the farm for the coming year, was estimated at .35 of a mill upon $25,000,000. Reports showed that the farm has been conducted in a careful manner and that during the summer months there has been a decrease in the number of inmates.

D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Ames of Belfield, who two weeks ago was mixed up in a forgery case, will have an opportunity to give the subject considerable thought during the coming year, being sentenced Saturday by Judge Crawford to a year's stay in the penitentiary. The forgeries amounted to $78.

LEE STATUE HAS LAW'S PROTECTION

Wickersham Files Opinion Which Is Approved By Taft.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 1 — President Taft has approved, without comment, an opinion by Attorney General Wickersham to the effect that there is no provision of law by which the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee, in Confederate uniform, can be removed from statuary hall in the capitol at Washington.

In addition to deciding the question on a purely legal basis, Mr. Wickersham argues the matter from an ethical point of view, declaring that Lee has come to be regarded as typifying all that was best in the cause to which he gave his services, and the most loyal and unmurmuring acceptance of the complete overthrow of that cause. That the state of Virginia should designate him for place in the statuary hall as one illustrious for distinguished military service, the attorney general declares is only natural and warranted under the reading of the law.

Mr. Wickersham's opinion was called for by protests to the president from the Department of New York, Grand Army of the Republic.

Drowns in Mirror Lake.

Hettinger, N. D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—While bathing in Mirror lake, Ray Lamb of this place was drowned. The young man was seized with cramps while in deep water, it being impossible to get assistance to him before he had gone down. The body was recovered.

Electro Radio, the Remedy of Today

Perhaps one of the queerest worms ever seen is on exhibition in the offices of Electro-Radio experts in the Alworth building. It has two heads and occupies the kidneys. Mr. W. M. Sloan of Hibbing is a lucky man. Hearing of the wonderful cures performed every day by Electro-Radio, he determined to give it a trial, and called upon the doctors for a free examination. For years that gentleman had suffered from pain in the back swelling and bloating of the hands and feet, swelling under the eyes. His hair was falling out and his family physician had pronounced it a case of Bright's disease. He was treated by Electro-Radio and after a five minutes' exposure he felt it break loose and was voided from his system. This cure is recognized as a boom to humanity, as many go through life suffering from what they suppose to be Bright's disease or diabetes, when in truth it is a different trouble altogether. A proper diagnosis is half a cure. That is why the Radio experts are a success. They find out your trouble before they undertake to treat and then they only treat where they are sure of a cure. The office is crowded daily from 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 8 at 510 Alworth building.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Lind Sails for Alaska, With Stay-at-Home Democrats More or Less at Sea---Congressman Miller Heads for Oklahoma to Be an Inquisitor---County Option "Dough Bag" Commented on---Some Savage Political Editorials.

John Lind sailed yesterday for Alaska and a whole lot of Democrats sorrowed thereat, for before he departed from the states he failed to say that he will accept the nomination that was forced upon by the Democratic masses at the Minneapolis convention. Some of the fainter-hearted party men say "it's all over," but the larger faction of strong-hearted Democrats emphatically will not admit that. They say, "Wait until Lind comes back from Alaska," and they base their hope that he will by then have changed his mind and will formally accept the nomination on their beliefe that the voyage will have restored him to perfect health.

He Took a Steamboat, He's Gone Away, Has Lind.

It is a fact that Mr. Lind has not been feeling well; many of his friends in the Minneapolis convention made no secret of their regret that he was to be nominated, saying they doubted he would be in condition to make the race. However, they saw the country delegations pour into the city intent on nothing else than the nomination of Lind.

The popular demand was irresistible and Lind's nomination was the result. What will happen next is some more suspense apparently.

* * *

Congressman Clarence B. Miller leaves today for Oklahoma to take part, as a member of the congressional committee, in the investigation of contracts between attorneys and Indians of the Five Civilized tribes which was ordered as a result of the sensational assertion during the closing hours of the last session by Senator Gore that he had been offered a $50,000 bribe. There was pending a provision in an appropriation bill relating to the method by which the Indians should be permitted to compensate the lawyers who handled their affairs.

Miller Goes To Bixbyland.

Minnesota politicians will await with interest the findings of the congressional inquisitors, who, besides Mr. Miller, are Burke of South Dakota, Campbell of Kansas, Stephens of Texas and Saunders of Virginia. Interest in the inquiry being conducted 'way down in Oklahoma is strong in Minnesota not because of the Duluth representative's part in it, particularly, but because of the prominence of one of Minnesota's most widely known politicians in Oklahoma affairs. Tams Bixby, several times chairman and again secretary of the Republican state central committee, and who is acknowledged to be one of the shrewdest and ablest politicians the state ever possessed, was the "last of the Mohicans" in Oklahoma, being the last surviving member of the Dawes commission—that is, he succeeded that commission as a commissioner to the Five Civilized tribes.

During the years that Tams Bixby labored for Uncle Sam in the torrid territory, he frequently was attacked by men who opposed him and his methods. Attempts were made to oust him from office, but whatever charges were brought against him he always met them squarely and held his job. Not a session of congress passed but what some attempt was made to "get his goat," but they all failed.

Minnesota politicians are wondering if the present investigation will not reveal the source of the persistent attacks made on Mr. Bixby, and for that reason the work that Mr. Miller is detailed upon will be watched with exceptional interest.

The Wadena Pioneer Journal is taking a very lively interest in the county option cause, not because it believes in that policy, but because it doesn't.

Duluthian Is Taken to Task.

The Wadena paper is opposed to the candidacy of John H. Mark of that city for the house, saying that he talks for and against county option, jumping from one side of the fence to the other as he finds the quality of pasturage alluring. Incidentally, the Pioneer Journal gives the anti-saloon league a bit of friendly advice. It suggests that the funds it has at its disposal should be handed out with a nicer discrimination than has been exhibited. The Pioneer Journal says the optionists should insist that those who take their money must be loyal.

Also the Wadena paper takes a rap at a distinguished Duluthian, saying:

> A gentleman by the name of E. C. Clemens, a Methodist clergyman, of Duluth, has taken upon himself the task of selecting the members of the senate and house for this, the Fifty-third legislative district, made up of the counties of Todd, Wadena and Hubbard. The only apology offered for this assumption is that he is the paid agent of the county option forces for the Duluth district. He has made frequent trips to the district, his last visit being to Long Prairie, when Rudolph Lee was selected by him as a candidate for the state senate. John H. Mark of Wadena and Dr. Stone of Red Rapids were also formally indorsed as candidates for representatives. At this alleged conference Wadena county was represented by A. B. Hughes. He and he alone assumed to speak for the whole county and as a result of Mr. Hughes' activity and shrewdness, his law partner is now the official county option representative for Wadena. It certainly is the most nervy trick ever turned in local politics, but if it works it will be all right—for Hughes & Mark.

Mr. Hughes is Mr, Mark's law partner.

It is too bad, but some of the shining lights of the state press are taking things a bit more seriously than they should. Politics is getting to be really strenuous when such distinguished men as is Alvah Eastman permits himself to tear loose as he has been doing in the last week. Harold Knutson of the Foley Independent, is involved in the rumpus—indeed, Harold started it. He published a political paragraph in his editorial columns which the St. Cloud Journal-Press reprinted under this heading: "The Croak of a Crook." Rather clever line, even though a bit too strong. The paragraph from the Independent roads:

Pipe of Peace Needed In the Sixth

> We sincerely hope that the Journal-Press will feel vindicated for its double dealing in the nomination of I. A. Caswell. To secure this it was willing to sacrifice the balance of the ticket and that its perfidy did not have a wider influence may be ascribed to the fact that the voters are dead next to it.

The caustic St. Cloud editor gave this squib the additional publicity of the Journal-Press circulation, with the following comment, which Brother Knutson copies and prints under the caption "The Croak of a Bigger Crook:"

> The trouble with the Independent editor seems to be that he is so treacherous by nature that he cannot appreciate open and above board actions by others. The Journal-Press favored the nomination of I. A. Caswell for clerk of the supreme court, and told candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, state treasurer and state, auditor that its first choice was Mr. Caswell. Any double dealing in that? Mr. Caswell was nominated, and the Journal-Press is content. While the editor of the Foley Independent has his lucid moments when he seems to be decent in spots, politically he has the reputation of being "so crooked that if he swallowed a nail he would spit up a cork screw."

Now, apparently Mr. Knutson didn't cotton to these remarks. He hurled himself upon the typewriter and this is what he beat out:

> To hear the bald-headed one preen himself on being honest and above board is to make his intimate acquaintances smile, but it is not our purpose to taunt one because of certain short comings. What is, is, and can't be helped and we are too old to attempt to take the kinks out of an old gnarled oak. Personally, we have nothing against the editor of the Journal-Press. He is a most likeable individual with a somewhat sluggish disposition which forcibly reminds one of a crocodile lying in wait for its victim, and like his four-footed prototype he generally gets everything that he goes after. Could his political record be shown Judas Iscariot, that gentleman would rise in his grave of twenty centuries and exclaim, 'Here, Alvah, take my traitor's crown; I am not in your class;' Benedict Arnold would turn green with envy and Aaron Burr that he had lived and plotted in vain. But far be it from us to rob him of his glory; he has attained his present reputation by making a great many sacrifices and we trust that he is satisfied. We are firmly of the opinion that had not J. P. editor and some of his close political friends been so strongly for a candidate, not a resident of the Sixth district, we would now have had either the lieutenant governship or state treasurer on the Republican ticket, for the simple reason that neither of the candidates from this district could have Steams county as trading stock except in places where it would do no good. It has been rumored that this condition was brought about in order to make it possible for the Sixth district to go before the next state convention and ask for the governorship on the strength of our not having a place thereon in the present campaign. We don't know what Alvah is fishing for but when we see a coon around the chicken coop we believe it to be a good idea to keep the shotgun within reach. Now, as to our being so awfully crooked: We don't pretend to political saintliness, but when it comes to a comparison we would feel horribly mortified were we to be measured by his standard. Politically speaking, the bald-headed one is so crooked that he could hide behind any old screw without being seen.

To which the Journal-Press devotes this attention:

> The editor of the Foley Independent avers that because the Journal-Press was outspoken in its advocacy of the candidacy of I. A. Caswell for clerk of the supreme court that it is a 'Judas Iscariot,' 'Benedict Arnold' and a few other things. The Independent editor seems to be as deficient in Biblical and historical knowledge as he is in decency and honesty. Abuse from that source is always a compliment to the Journal-Press.

All of which goes to show that a pipe of peace might come in handy in the Sixth congressional district.

Without violating the Lind copyright, F. G. Wyment of Hibbing announces that he is not a candidate for sheriff. He says: "I wish to state to my many friends that I have carefully considered the proposition of becoming a candidate and have concluded to withdraw from the race. I think each and every one of my friends for the support they have offered me." Which leaves it between Sheriff Bates and John R. Meining.

Announcement of the candidacy of J. H. La Vaque for the Republican nomination for county commissioner from the Second district is of considerable interest. Mr. La Vaque has been a resident of the city and county for forty years and his circle of acquaintance is very large. There are five candidates in the field for this office, John Tischer now represents the district on the board.

Says the Eveleth News:

> The News has been both chary and loath of committing itself thus far on county candidacies, due to lack of acquaintance with the personalities and records of the various aspirants, with the one exception of the county auditor, Odin Halden, against whom nothing could prevail in any event, but whom we are for in any event. In time to come, when he is privileged to exercise a choice at the drop of the hat, the News man will demonstrat he is no 'fraidcat.''

Through an inadvertance, The Herald's story of the banquet given recently at the Holland in honor of Col. C. H. Graves did not contain any mention or reference to the very good speech delivered upon that occasion by Congressman Clarence B. Miller. Mr. Miller was one of the principal speakers and he graced the occasion in his accustomed way. The Herald has no disposition to deny to Mr. Miller all the legitimate publicity that comes his way. The frequent mention of Mr. Miller found in these columns is proof of the truth of that assertion.

The steamer Montrose, upon which the fugitives were arrested while the vessel was still 160 miles from this port yesterday, arrived at her pier here at 1:35 o'clock this morning. The prisoners were hastened through an enormous crowd of curious ones to the provincial jail, where they were placed in separate cells.

Slept in the Jail.

Here they got a few hours sleep, the best rest which either had had since they fled from London on July 9 shortly before detectives found in the cellar of the Crippen home the bits of human flesh, which, the authorities have tried to establish, once went up to make the body of Belle Elmore, Crippen's lawful wife.

Today both prisoners appeared refreshed, for their's was the common experience of hunted ones. The agony of suspense over, they had fallen into that deep sleep that betokens physical exhaustion.

As soon as the arrests were made, the local court authorities were notified and Judge Panet Angers arranged to hold court at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The accused were held under the law pertaining to fugitives who are suspected of connection with a crime, and the court proceedings were arranged to be conducted expeditiously.

May Start Back Thursday.

It is hoped that Crippen and his typist can be sent back to London on the steamer Royal George, which will sail on Thursday. However, under the offending fugitive act, the prisoners have the right to remain here fifteen days before their departure. This period affords them opportunity to seek release through habeas corpus proceedings. Crippen also may exercise his right as an American citizen to appeal to the American consul here and so make sure that his rights are not infringed. It is doubtful if Crippen avails himself of either chance for delay.

The greatest excitement was caused in the city yesterday when a wireless message brought the news that the long sought man and woman had been arrested on board the steamer Montrose when the vessel laid to off Father Point to take on a pilot. It was known that the steamer with the prisoners and their captors aboard would be due here soon after midnight, and early in the evening crowds began to gather at the pier.

Crowd at the Pier.

As the night advanced the crowd grew greater, until the police found that they had a big job on their hands to restrain the curious ones and so permit the landing of Inspector Dew and his prisoners.

When the steamer was sighted down the harbor the excitement was intense and the police, who up to that time had used moral suasion, assumed a more determined attitude, finally pushing back the throng from the gangway in no gentle manner.

When the boat swung into her pier Crippen was in Cabin No. 8, where he was confined yesterday. With him was Detective Denis. Miss Leneve was under close watch of Chief McCarthy in Cabin No. 5. Throughout the night Inspector Dew had passed from one cabin to the other, not for one moment relaxing the watch upon the prisoners who had slipped through his fingers once before.

Showed Increased Restlessness.

A half hour before the landing the prisoners were told that they were nearing Quebec. Both, who had been under the greatest strain for hours, showed increased restlessness.

Crippen, who had been attempting to read a novel, tossed the book aside and dropped his head in his hands in the same despairing attitude that he assumed yesterday forenoon when he heard the fateful words:

"In the name of the king, I arrest you!"

At the same time Miss Leneve, in her quarters in another part of the steamer, fell on her knees and gazed out of the porthole into the blackness of the night. Suddenly she turned back into her room and was seized with a fit of coughing. It was a nervous cough, that racked her and the nerves of her guard and the physician who had ministered to her physical needs from the time that she collapsed following her arrest.

The bells that indicated that the steamer was being reduced to half speed stopped, and the prisoners looked anxiously toward their captors as though realizing that they had reached the shore that had refused them a refuge, but wondering what the next hour would bring them.

Debarked By Side Passage.

At 1:30 o'clock Capt. Kendall came down from the bridge and notified Inspector Dew that in a few moments his passengers would be taken ashore. Dew notified McCarthy and Denis. Presently Denis emerged from the cabin door with Crippen, whom he held firmly by the arm as they passed out, not upon the main deck, where the gangplank was fixed, but by a side passage, passing both main cabins in a roundabout direction in a less conspicuous path.

Crippen, his face white as death, walked in with a shambling gait. As they passed the state room where the doctor had formerly occupied with Miss Leneve, the door of that room swung open and Detective McCarthy led, or rather half carried, Miss Leneve out to the passageway.

Both prisoners were so near to physical collapse that they scarcely glanced at each other. Miss Leneve tottered as she moved forward, and hardly could have proceeded alone. On one side McCarthy held her gently by the arm, while on the other side she was supported by a stewardess.

Boy's Clothing Taken Away.

The woman wore a grey dress, which had been given her by the stewardess when the boy's clothing, in which she had crossed the Atlantic, was taken from her. Over her hat a heavy veil had been thrown. But she scarcely needed the veil to hide her features, for her head was so bent that no one could have seen her face.

On the way over from Antwerp the face of Miss Leneve had appeared too pretty for that of a boy. A half hour after she had been placed in custody her features appeared to be rather those of a well matured woman who had suffered much.

Dew led the way to the gangway, a steward carrying a small suitcase marked "J. Robinson." This bag was the only baggage which the two brought with them. Neither had an extra suit of clothing. Crippen wore the same brown suit and hat that he had when he embarked at Antwerp, but those who had seen him then and who saw him today said that anxiety had given him a facial disguise more effective than any he had tried to assume. He is smooth shaven.

Unnerved by Crowd.

As they appeared on the gangplank and caught sight of the enormous crowd that surged about the pier, desperately determined to get a glimpse of the pair, Crippen and the woman would have dropped in their tracks but for the strong arms which supported them. Crippen's manacled hands swung loosely in front of him.

Miss Leneve swayed from side to side. Her closely cut hair still gave her the boyish appearance which she had tried to adopt, and many of the crowd were fooled into thinking that the diminutive figure was not that of the woman, who had challenged the attention of two continents, but believed that the police were using a little boy disguised as a woman to distract the attention of the crowd and so give them opportunity to remove the real prisoner with less inconvenience.

Police Had to Charge.

The little procession had scarcely reached the foot of the gangplank around them, and it was only after the police had charged that they were able to make a passage to the cab that was waiting just outside the pier shed. In another moment the vehicle was clattering along the wooden floor of the pier and out into the narrow street that led to the provincial buildings.

The doors of the provincial jail stood open, awaiting its new guests, and the necessary formalities were quickly over. Crippen was placed in a cell smaller than the stateroom which he and his typist occupied on the Montrose. More consideration was shown to Miss Leneve. She was given a large and comparatively comfortable room on an upper floor. This room had been fitted up for the occupation of a scrub woman employed in the jail.

It was at the request of this humble servant of the public that the room, better than any provided for prisoners, was given to the little woman who for love of a man has found herself a fugitive from justice.

Sympathize With Woman.

The act appears to be typical of the feeling prevailing here among a large part of Quebec's population today. The public refuses to put the woman in the same class with the man.

Early today throngs gathered outside the jail in anticipation of the appearance of the prisoners in court.

It is generally believed that Dew has failed to secure the hoped-for confession. Whether Crippen has learned that the British authorities have been unable to identify the dismembered body found in the cellar of his Hilldrop Crescent home as that of his actress wife, is not known.

Capt. Kendall of the Montrose said today that he suspected Crippen the moment he laid eyes on him shortly after the man boarded the steamer at Antwerp on July 20.

Capt. Kendall's Story.

"The English papers were full of the case while we were on the other side," said the captain, "and I became very much interested in it. I bought all the papers and used to lie in my bunk and read them. Look here—" and opening the drawer of the desk in the cabin the skipper produced half a dozen papers, each containing pictures of Crippen and Miss Leneve. One of the dentist's pictures had the black mustache blocked out with white chalk.

"I did that," continued Kendall, "the first day I saw the man aboard. He was clean shaven then and I wanted to see how this likeness would look without the moustache. I also chalked out the spectacles in the picture, Crippen wore no spectacles aboard. Here is the result; you can see how closely it resembles the man as he looks today. And here is something else I did."

Was Convinced of Identity.

"I did this and compared the pictured face with that of the passenger Crippen said was his son. The resemblance is striking. After these experiments I was convinced, almost as sure, in fact, as I was when we sailed up the St. Lawrence and I and others aboard had been watching the couple for a week.

"Crippen was very wary in his talks with me. Several times I conversed with him in the cabin, but always I was careful to ask him no questions that would excite his suspicions. On the other hand, I took pains in our talks to quiet any fears he might entertain. Up to the hour of his arrest I believe that he did not dream how sure we were of their identity."

One circumstance only might give rise to a belief that the wary fugitive realized the suspicions of his fellow passengers more than they believed. Early yesterday morning, before the Montrose reached Father Point, one of the officers on the upper deck saw a package of revolver cartridges thrown overboard. He made an investigation and found that they came from the port hole of Crippen's cabin.

Got Rid of Ammunition.

It is possible, however, that the dentist got rid of his ammunition only as a general precaution, fearing that it might cause suspicion if found in his cabin when the ship neared her destination.

From this incident it is supposed that Crippen also had a revolver, but as none was found in his stateroom when the officers searched it, it is believed that he managed to fling it overboard unobserved.

There are many today who believe that Crippen was taken less by surprise than had been planned. It is certain that his resources for escape had he wished, until he was nearly helpless. He had a railroad ticket for Detroit, but only $10 in his pocket. Miss Leneve had not a cent. Crippen, however, did have several jewels concealed on his person.

Feared Attempt at Suicide.

Capt. Kendall was apprehensive of an attempt at suicide and as Father Point loomed in the distance yesterday forenoon he was careful to prepare Crippen for the arrival of the river pilot. Crippen and Miss Leneve had risen early and breakfasted together at 6 o'clock. Then Miss Leneve complained of a slight indisposition and retired to her stateroom.

Crippen went on deck to watch for the pilot boat. When it appeared, carrying four men, all in pilot garb, the fugitive turned suddenly to Dr. Stewart, the ship's physician, and eyeing the other searchingly, said:

"There seems to be too many pilots on board. I see four."

Stewart, who had been instructed not to leave Crippen's side until the arrest was made, gave a commonplace reply and Cripen again turned his eyes seaward.

Crippen remained hanging over the rail near the companionway as the tender of the pilot boat with the police officials paddled alongside. Inspector Dew, Chief McCarthy and Detective Denis of the provincial police were made up in an attempt to look like the fourth occupant of the boat, the real pilot.

Made the Arrest.

Dew did not make a good pilot and his disguise was hardly more effective than that of his quarry. The English officer could not clamber up the rope ladder with a sailor's agility and he all but upset the little boat when he left it.

The denouement was simple enough. The recognition between Dew and Crippen was mutual and immediate.

When he reached the companionway and at last faced the man whom he long had sought, the inspector said:

"Are you Dr. Crippen?"

To this Crippen replied quietly:

"I am."

Dew continued:

"You are arrested on the charge of the murder and mutilation of an unknown woman."

Put Handcuffs on Him.

The first exchanges over Dew nodded to McCarthy and the latter clapped a pair of handcuffs on Crippen's wrist. The prisoner made no resistance. In fact, he appeared relieved and said:

"I am glad. The suspense was too great."

Arrest of the Woman.

Detective Denis gave the most interesting account of how Miss Leneve was trapped in her cabin.

"As soon as Crippen had been taken in charge by McCarthy," he said, "Inspector Dew and myself went to Cabin 5, where we were informed that Miss Leneve was reading a magazine. Dew gave instructions for a stewardess to stand ready with a flask of brandy to be administered in case the girl fainted, then he entered the cabin followed by myself.

"Do you recognize me," he asked of the girl, who rose to meet him.

"No," she replied bluntly as the color left her face.

"Well, he said, 'I am a detective of Scotland Yard and I have here a warrant for your arrest on a charge of murder and mutilation of the body of an unknown woman.'

"He used the same words with which he had addressed Crippen, taking them from the wording of the warrant.

Sank Back in a Faint.

"The magazine fell from the girl's hand and she sank back on the sofa in a faint. Then the stewardess entered at a word from Dew and forced a little of the liquor between her lips. Breathing heavily she lay back on the sofa with her eyes closed. She was not handcuffed."

The girl was clad in a boy's suit of brown material, but even in this ill-fitting attire she showed some of the beauty that the police believe led Crippen to turn against his wife. Her light brown hair is cut short and parted in the middle after the English boy fashion. Her eyes are gray and large and heavily fringed, and her complexion is clear. Her face is pleasingly oval and her expression winning. Her eyes are her most charming feature. She is short in stature, but her shortness is not over plump and does not detract from her physical winsomeness.

It was more than four hours after she faced the detective before the girl was able to sit up. Even then her condition was pitiful and no one saw her except the ship surgeon and the stewardess. At times her moans could be heard in the passageway outside her cabin. After satisfying themselves that there was no weapon in the room, the officers did not return until she was instructed to prepare for leaving the vessel at Quebec.

Father Believes Him Innocent.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—Myron A. Crippen, father of the accused London wife-slayer, was ill in bed when reporters brought him the news of the arrest of his son, and the latter's companion. The aged man has been in poor health, and in his weakened condition the intelligence produced a visible effect upon him.

"Hawley may have been arrested, but he has not been convicted yet," he remarked after recovering composure. "I cannot believe that my son committed the awful crime laid at his door."

Take no Chances.

London, Aug. 1.—With a view to preventing to the remotest possibility the escape of Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve through a technicality, Scotland Yard today decided upon the advice of the attorney general, that so far as they control in the matter, all formalities involved in the extradition laws of Canada shall be complied with in the case of the prisoners under arrest at Quebec.

Accordingly, Inspector Dew was instructed to ask simply that the Canadian court remand the accused until the arrival from London of a formal application for their extradition to England with evidence supporting the request.

Sergeant Mitchell, who assisted Dew in the preliminary investigation, will leave for Canada as soon as the necessary papers are ready which will be either on Wednesday or Thursday of the present week.

Will Include Inquest Evidence.

The evidence to be submitted to the Canadian authorities will include that taken at the inquest over the mutilated body unearthed in the Crippen cellar. It may possibly include also the preliminary report of Prof. Pepper, who made the analytical examination of the body.

Prof. Pepper is now preparing his conclusions, which, it is understood, will establish the sex of the victim, a point which the physicians were unable to swear at the inquest.

'So far as we are concerned," said Supt. Froest of Scotland Yard today, "we are satisfied that we have got the most complete chain of evidence. The evidence already in our hands is believed sufficient to convict."

Supt. Froest added that Chief Inspector Dew's own evidence was sufficient to justify Canada in holding the prisoners until Mitchell arrives.

If the wishes of the police respecting the formalities of extradition are complied with the case is not likely to be opened in this city until September.

At the first shot, Driver Don Grant fell from his seat dead with a bullet in the head. At the second shot Hoseman Guy Elliott pitched to the ground with a bullet through the stomach. Durham then leveled his revolver at Sampsell and fired twice, both bullets piercing Sampsell's lungs.

Two more shots, fired at other members of the crew, went wide. Durham drew another revolver and covered his retreat as he started to run from Assistant Chief Snedecor, who had driven up in answer to the fire alarm. As he disappeared in the darkness, Durham shouted back to the chief:

"Tell my wife I am going to kill myself."

May Die of Wounds.

The victims of the shooting were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in one of the hose wagons. Operations were performed on Sampsell and Elliott. The surgeons say Sampsell suffered a severe hemorrhage, and they hold out no hopes of his recovery. Elliott has a chance.

Within half an hour after the shooting a score of police officers and deputy sheriffs were on the scene in automobiles, and had begun a manhunt. Durham eluded the pursuers, ran home and completed the murderous frenzy by slaying his family.

During his service in the department, which terminated several months ago, he had a reputation for being quarrelsome. Firemen with whom he worked thought him insane.

TURNS UPON THE VATICAN

have regarded the issue not as a religious one, but as a national problem, involving the independence of the civil power. Not Spain, but the Vatican, has created the present situation."

The Liberal press expresses indignation at the telegram of Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, indorsing the attitude of the Biscayan Catholics, who threatened to precipitate civil war and in telegrams to the Vatican placed their lives and property at its disposal for the conflict.

Former Deputy Llorens, one of the Carlist leaders in Spain, left today for Frohsteorf, the Austrian residence of Don Jaime, to confer with the pretender. His departure would indicate that Carlist plans for a rising are in a specially advance stage.

Nuncio Not Recalled.

Rome, Aug. 1.—Although the Marquis de Ojeda, the Spanish ambassador to the Vatican, has left Rome for Spain, the Vatican has not as yet taken any decision in regard to the recall of the papal nuncio, Mgr. Vico, from Madrid.

Protestants in Spain.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Only about 3,000 communicants and regular attendants of Protestant churches live in Spain, according to the last estimate from the state department, made two or three years ago. This estimate was prepared by the representatives of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions.

In addition to the 3,000 regular attendants, it was estimated that there were about 10,000 Protestant adherents or persons who, though attending services only occasionally, were more in sympathy and accord with the Protestant church than with the Catholic.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR FREEDOM.

Plans are being discussed by local negroes for the celebration of the forty-seventh anniversary of the signing of the declaration of emancipation and according to George B. Kelley, who was recently appointed local representative of the Twin City Star, a paper devoted to the interest of negroes in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, it is probable that some such event will be held.

In the Twin Ports there are several clubs and organizations of negroes, and it is likely that a general committee composed of members from these, will be appointed in a short time, to decide upon the advisability of a movement to hold this celebration.

In the South, and even in some northern cities, celebrations and jubilees have been held in the past, and will continue to be held in the future, but heretofor no such affair has been held in Duluth. Twin City negroes are trying to interest the Duluth negroes in these plans. There are over 500 colored inhabitants in Duluth, and many more in Superior, who will undoubtedly join the Duluthians in any plans for a celebration.

MALT SALE IS STOPPED

Government Agents Put Lid Down Hard on Village of Cass Lake.

Pool Rooms Not to Sell Any More Alleged Non-Intoxicants.

Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. A. Way, special Indian agent located at Akeley, and J. J. Matulys, special agent here, went to Farris, a little village five miles west of here Saturday evening, where a dance was in progress.

The representatives of the Indian department were on the lookout for any illegal sale or possession of liquors. After looking over the dance hall they departed on foot for Cass Lake, meeting several rigs on the way to the hall. Each rig was stopped and the occupants searched, but nothing in the line of liquor was found in their possession.

Malt Sales Prohibited.

The local pool rooms were notified Saturday afternoon not to sell any more of the malt they were handling and were given until Monday noon to ship whatever stock of this kind they had on hand. This action was surprising, as one of the proprietors of a pool hall received information Saturday evening that the grade of malt being sold was alright and he could keep on selling. But yesterday noon orders were issued to cease selling and ship whatever stock on hand.

The grade of malt handled by the dealers here was of the "2 per cent variety" and "guaranteed non-intoxicating." The contents were also guaranteed to meet with the pure food laws and the companies furnishing the malt gave their dealers to understand that the goods were "free from state, government and city tax."

GRAIN YIELDS ARE QUITE PROMISING

Wheat Heads Well Filled and North Dakota Farmers More Hopeful.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 1.—Within ten days threshing operations in North Dakota will be general, while this week it is expected that a few isolated reports from the field will be available, the rapid progress of the harvest season being such that the farmers are already getting ready for the work of threshing out their grain.

As harvest has advanced, optimism has become more general. What wheat there is, is of a fine quality, the heads being well filled in spite of the fact that the plant is stunted. Heads of thirty kernels appear to be the average in this particular locality, and in view of that fact the farmers feel confident that the yields per acre will be greater than was anticipated.

These reports come from all sections of the state, a great many cities sending in reports to the effect that the early statements of complete failures are not being borne out in fact, but that the crop situation is far better than anticipated.

Grain, of course, has ripened remarkably fast, and the hum of the binder is heard everywhere. Headers have been called into use in many places, and the demand for that character of machine has been most unusual, this situation being brought about because of the short straw.

Just at the present time the yield seems to be a more uncertain quantity than ever before during the season. The farmers are finding their fields on an average considerably better than they had expected, and until the thresher starts its work, it will be impossible to give anything definite on the prospective yield.

CHASED BY HOUNDS, OFFICERS GET MAN

Friends of Accused Also Attack Pursuers Who Land Their Victim.

Williston, N. D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The combined efforts of his father, mother and six brothers and sisters, together with the work of a pack of Russian hounds, failed to save John Caren, a Russian, from arrest near here.

Deputy Sheriffs Stanton and Corbett had gone out to arrest Caren for shooting prairie chickens out of season, but before they had left the Caren farm, the entire family set on them in an effort to liberate the young man. Caren got away in the mix up and started running, with Stanton in hot pursuit. The Caren's father started a pack of hounds after the officer, and before he could beat them off, the pursued had made good headway. ## DULUTH WOMAN'S SISTER DROWNED

Miss Gaul Loses Her Life in Lake Near Chippewa Falls.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 1.—Miss Rose Gaul, aged 17, a prominent young woman here, was drowned in Glen Loch, near Glenn Mill, north of the city limits, while swimming. Miss Gaul attempted to rescue Miss Lulu McDonald, aged 15, from drowning. Miss Gaul, an expert swimmer, swam across the lake, a distance of a quarter of a mile, without resting, and started back. She was nearing the shore where her party of eight girl companions and four youths were bathing. Miss McDonald could not swim and was wading to meet the incoming swimmer. When Miss McDonald stepped off into deep water, she went down twice.

Boys in the party went to the rescue. Ben Murray was nearly drowned in the struggle, but got out Miss McDonald, who had to be resuscitated on shore by Dr. C. A. Hayes, who happened to be near.

Miss Gaul swam a few feet away as Ben Murray seized Miss McDonald but suddenly Miss Gaul sank and did not come up again. She was seized with cramps.

Miss Gaul is survived by a widowed mother, Mrs. Herman Gaul, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Duncan of Duluth. Miss McDonald is the daughter of L. McDonald of the Mason Shoe Manufacturing company, this city.

ANTS SWARM MINNEAPOLIS.

Pesky Insects Playing Havoc With Mill City Trees.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 1.—Harassed on every side, by the exceeding drouth, armies of ants, and by a new foe in the shape of a white grub, the splendid elm trees that were set out from fifteen to eighteen years ago by the park board, seem to be doomed to destruction, unless the tree surgeon of the board is successful in the hard fight he is making to save them.

The drouth is easily partially allayed by digging a depression at the base of each trunk, and instructing residents to keep it filled with water. The ants are turned away by treatments of a sticky emulsion. But the new foe, the white grub, is puzzling. The worm is quite large and attacks the tree between the bark and the trunk, in the sap channel. It cuts countless little tunnels all around the trunk, finally stops the flow of sap, and while the trunk shows not a mark, the leaves fall and the tree dies.

The forester of the park board with three crews, is working overtime trying to ferret out the wormy trees. When found, the branches are trimmed closely, the bark is shaved down to a brown smoothless almost like mahogany, and the trunk is given a coating of poison and disinfectant combined, to kill the grubs and larvae. It is too early yet to say whether the efforts will be successful. In some sections, whole blocks of shade trees have been shaved.

"THE BOULEVARD."

For years the wonderful driveway around the brow of the hills back of Duluth has been known simply as "the boulevard," or "the boulevard drive."

That name has been sufficient for Duluth. It meant something to every resident of this city. Everybody here knew what was meant when "the boulevard" was referred to.

But the suggestion by F. A. Patrick that the time is come when "the boulevard" should have a distinctive name, by which it may be known not only at home but abroad, is a good one.

The "boulevard" ought to be famous all over the country, for there is no other driveway like it in all the world. No traveler ever has denied this. There are other boulevards and other driveways, many of them, and most of them have great attraction; but nowhere else is there a driveway which for picturesque splendor is to be compared with Duluth's.

If the "boulevard" had a name of its own by which it could be recognized, it would soon become known far and wide. It would be one of the attractions that influence travelers in their search for pleasure and new experiences. Without a distinctive name it cannot become famous. As well might Duluth's main business thoroughfare be named "the street."

The Herald would be glad to receive suggestions of proposed names for the "boulevard," and it is to be hoped that one will be found that is fitting and striking.

The Herald, to stimulate interest, will offer a prize of $10 to the person proposing the name that shall receive the approval of the park board.

COLLEGE DAYS---AND NIGHTS.

In about another month the annual migration from all portion of the country to the college and university towns will begin. There will be all sorts and conditions of men in the movement, from seniors going back for the last time to the prospective freshmen who are about to enter a world of which they have read and dreamed, but which, as a practical matter, they know almost as little as they did of this life when they first entered it.

For the returning students there is little of the unknown in prospect. They are prepared to find a little more dignity, a little more responsibility in the affairs of the institution in which they are enrolled, and perhaps a little different line of work than they have had before, but in all this there will be an element of familiarity. It will be something they have at least seen before and they know a good deal about the problems and situations they are to be called on to face.

For the new students the opening of the college year holds an entirely different outlook. They are about to begin to carve out their own individual niches in this new life. They are about to enter upon a brand new phase in their development.

How many of this year's freshmen will come out before the world ten years from now and declare proudly that they gained immeasurable good from their college life? How many of them, at the end of the same period of time, will think grudgingly of the years they spent in college and will have grown to regard college education as a failure?

In every instance it will depend upon one thing—the man himself. Remember that, freshman. Your college days—and nights—will mean to you for all the rest of your life just what they mean when you are spending them. If you see in them nothing but hours of pleasure they will loom up on the horizon of your maturity as so much time poorly spent. If you let them run entirely to close application to books they will come back to haunt you in the shape of an early waning of your bodily and mental strength and a conscious unfitness for life's larger activities. But if you find in college nothing more or less than what it is meant to be—a period of development of mind, body and character that is to put the finishing touch on your preparation for the real work of your life—you will grow to look back on it as a time of strength and growth, a few years when intensity of development went hand in hand with careful direction and earnest purpose. And you will not only be hearty in your praise of your alma mater, but will see the great advantages which it afforded you, the many ways in which it prepared you to do some things worth while better than your less trained fellows can do them.

Above all, do not put too much on your teachers. When a man is old enough to go to college he is expected to be old enough to do something toward his own development. He is expected to be old enough to know what is good for him and what isn't. There are some things which, as Kipling says in one of his short stories, "no fellow can do." They are the things that degrade mentally, morally and physically. They are the things that rob of self-power and self-respect. You know what they are without being told. If you do not, then the quicker you give up that idea of going to college the better it will be for yourself and all who are interested in you.

But if you enter on your freshman year with a true conception of what your next four years of training are for, you will find plenty of hard, satisfying work to do, plenty of time and opportunity for healthy and hearty relaxation, both mental and physical, and you will learn as you go on with your course, and will realize it the more long after it is finished, that your college training means not only books and examinations, fraternities and frolics, but a rounding out of mind, body and character that shall make you the better fit for whatever may come to you in later life.

THE GRIP OF A DEAD HAND.

Robert St. George Dyrenforth of Washington is 8 years old. If he lives until he is 28 he will be a rich young man. In the meantime he is the victim—or beneficiary, as the case may turn out to be—of a unique attempt of a father to control his son's life from the grave.

The elder Dyrenforth made a large fortune. Dying, he left this fortune to his son under conditions that for peculiarity are only matched by the terms of the Marshall Field will, if they are matched by even them.

A trust fund is created for the boy's benefit. He is to have $50 a month out of it until he is 12 years old, $1,000 a year after that until he is of age, then $1,500 a year until he is 28, when the entire estate will come to him.

Evidently the elder Dyrenforth has noticed what happens when a young man falls heir to a large fortune and is left unchecked in its disposal. Ruin is the result in an overwhelming majority of cases, and this father hoped to shield his boy from such a fate. It may turn out that he would have done better had he left all of his money to charity except enough to educate his son and fit him to become a working citizen. In most cases that plan would work out better.

If the boy were left ungoverned by other rules, there would be danger that he would merely worry along on his allowance and borrowed money until he gained the estate. Knowing that it is ample, he would not feel the need of making anything of himself, and with a fortune in prospect it would be easy to get money from the usurers.

But there are other rules. The lad must enter high school at 14 and Harvard at 18. Each year after his fourteenth he must be taken to visit one European country. When he has been graduated from Harvard he must study law at Oxford and then enter the United States military academy, complete the course and serve the required period in the army, and then take up the practice of law. He must join the Protestant Episcopal church. He is to be strictly watched as to his association with women. The executors are instructed to guard him and "let him be informed and know the artful and parasitic nature of most of the unfortunate sex, and to take care that he does not marry beneath him."

Evidently the elder Dyrenforth thought deeply about his son's future. Evidently, too, he was under no blissful illusions about womankind.

But what sort of a youth will come out from under the grip of this dead hand? The educational course is excellent. If a young man gained such training and experience by his own efforts, so he would value it, it would make a man of him. To have every step in his life laid out for him by another, and that by one who is dead, is to deprive the victim of the need of thought and initiative. To know that whatever he does an ample fortune awaits him is to stifle aspiration.

That lad will be fortunate indeed if he turns out a real man. In his later years he may realize that there are many worse things than being born poor.

MINDING OUR BUSINESS ABROAD.

For a nation that has a world-wide reputation for its business sagacity and for the extent to which its people have developed specialization in all lines of industry, the United States has been amazingly slow in some respects in the building up of its foreign trade. For years it seemed as if, with the exception of such commodities as wheat, cotton, etc., the commercial interests of the country were content with a vast domestic market. Meanwhile manufacturers and greater business houses of other countries had been quietly opening great avenues of commerce in different parts of the globe, so that when the Americans finally "came to" they found it necessary to fight competition as soon as their goods landed, instead of being able to build up a favorable prejudice on the good will that always is accorded to the pioneer.

Within the last few years the federal government has worked earnestly to help American commercial interests understand and enter foreign markets. These efforts have borne some fruit, as is shown by the steady growth of our foreign trade. But the American business man, usually alert to the smallest details of the things that affect his day's work, has proved strangely indifferent to some of the first principles laid down by students of international commerce.

There was more than a remote foundation, for instance, in a joke that went the rounds of the papers recently, in which a manufacturer in a South American country was made to say that in his factory they burned some wood and some coal, but that most of their fuel consisted of catalogues of trade houses, printed in a language nobody about the factory could read. The enterprising American business man has been surprisingly slow to realize that when he seeks to sell goods by catalogue in Spanish-speaking countries, he must send something besides catalogues printed in English.

Within the last few weeks the government, through its consular reports, has been calling attention to openings for American trade in Mexico, a field which it would seem might belong to the United States for the asking, but which has been neglected in a great degree through this strange failure to comprehend difference in language. That it is time something was done to secure a reasonable commerce with that country is shown by the report of American Consul Harry A. Conant at Windsor, that the Canadian port in the last year almost doubled its shipments to the United States of gum chicle of Mexican origin.

This is one respect in which the American business man is waking up. But he has not as yet got past the stretching and yawning stage, and until he does so we may expect to see more reports like that from Windsor.

Announcements from New York include that of the formation of a twenty million dollar merger of cotton textile interests. Thus do the blessings of the Republican revision of the tariff continue to pile up on us.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WHY DOES DULUTH NOT HAVE SOME STATUARY?

To the Editor of The Herald:

It has come to my notice that Duluth has not one statue or "monumental Honore" to either its pioneers or to any "emancipator" or artistic beautifier of this nation of ours.

Now Duluth is large and wealthy enough and she has no loophole exit "to dare" generally contribute sufficient funds to purchase these disdispositions of the more moneyed citizens of the community are to blame.

In Western cities, notably Portland, Seattle and San Francisco, the citizens take a pride in their "home town" and the men who can spare and who ought "to dare" generally contribute sufficient funds to purchase these sculptures or bronzes.

This city should have a statue of Jean Du Luth, put up at some junction of the streets or roads, also one of Abraham Lincoln or of the missionaries who were the "pathfinders" of this state.

The sooner "capital" brushes up and realizes that this city is not a place "to hang one's hat in," but that it should be "a beautiful" (and that they should take an individual pride in this Zenith City), the better it will be for Duluth's advancement along cosmopolitan lines and the abolishment of the ever present conservatism.

The Western cities not only leave their imprint on the people who have been journeyers there, the broad-mindedness and charity, above all, ever remain with us and make us long to live and die in so fair a land.

You never saw one of them but what had a good word for his city, the spirit of "live and let live" is more blatant.

Yours very truly, F. S. (East End.)
Duluth, July 31.

SAYS SECOND FIGHT SHOULD BE PREVENTED.

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald:

What's this I hear? Rumor has it that Jeffries has remarked that he would endeavor to fight Johnson again. Jeffries at the present time is not in the negro's class at all. He did not have a "look in" on July 4. I honestly believe that Jeffries needed the money and fought for it. Most any one of us would take a terrific mauling for even $100,000.

The alfalfa farm was not a paying venture, also a short time in the saloon business served to take a little of Jeff's store of shekels from him, and also over fatted him, thus impairing his physical condition.

Jeffries never did any real active boxing work for anyone at Ben Lomond, Cal. When he did commence to spar a little it was not for a sufficient number of rounds to give the public a line on his wind or stamina.

Crowds (containing some of his best and truest friends) were continually turned away from his training camp, keenly disappointed on account of his failure to spar. Now Jeffries, above all other men, would not slight his friends unless it was a case of "have to." That conduct on his part, caused his admirers to become skeptical as to his condition and speed as a boxer.

The night he boxed four rounds with Joe Choynski he made a poor showing. Joe Choynski as a sparring partner, would have been more equally matched with men of the middleweight poundage.

Albert Kaufman made the statement (before this exhibition bout took place) that "Jeff" was sincere about giving the public a line on his true condition, that "he would gladly box him for any number of rounds." Jeffries stated that he was angry at Kaufman and said he would censure him severely when they met.

Would a young man take such a stand as that if he felt that he was in condition and had the guard and the punch?

What many people expected was a lay down on Jack Johnson's part, which of course would give Jeff room to fight again. By so doing it would bring in double the profits to the participants.

If Jeffries calls for a second fight I would feel it was merely to clean up more of the "filthy lucre," for I don't think down in his heart that he believes he can whip that black heavyweight marvel.

Bosh on a second fight! Let us stand for square and clean sport and I hope The Herald will put a quietus on ought else, as far as it is within its power. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

A. B. STEINER.

Duluth, July 31.

A MUNICIPAL LODGING HOUSE AND THE BETHEL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

If for no other reason, the proposed municipal lodging house for the new Bethel is sufficient to commend the project to all good citizens of Duluth. Duluth hasn't any lodgings to which a man who has self-respect and a regard for cleanliness can go, when he hasn't money to afford a good hotel. As it is now many prefer to sleep outdoors, when possible, rather than crawl into the vile holes that are the only thing to be had now for what a man down in his finances would consider reasonable. The police each summer arrest hundreds of men for sleeping in box cars who would not be there if the city had a municipal lodging house. Not all of them are broke, but they hate to spend even 15 cents for the vile dens into which they are placed in the city. With a municipal lodging house these men, most of whom work for a living, could obtain clean sheets and fresh air at a nominal price. They would be glad to pay it. The Bethel people have started a campaign to raise $100,000 for a new home, and the municipal lodging house will be a leading feature. Many of the city's public spirited citizens have contributed liberally to other charitable and semi-charitable institutions. This is as fully deserving of their support and it is believed that they will come forward just as liberally in this case as they have in the past. The project is worthy and will do a lot more good to the people who really need help than many of the others. It will reach the man, and woman, too, who gets bumped against the sharp corners of existence. ONE WHO KNOWS.

Duluth, Aug. 1.

Canada and the Strike.

Indianapolis News: In 1907 the Dominion government passed an "industrial disputes investigation act" which made unlawful any lockout by employers or any strike by employes prior to a reference of the dispute to a board of conciliation and investigation. Penalties were provided both as to employers and employes in the shape of fines for each day of such overt difference that had not first been referred in an effort to prevent it. The purpose of the act was to avert just what has happened in this Grand Trunk strike. It was meant that the disputants should first submit their case to an impartial board before coming to a rupture. But the dominion government made no effort to enforce this law. So this law—most admirable in its purpose to prevent hasty action and avert consequences such as this strike has entailed and as all great strikes entail—seems to have broken down incontinently. The strikers treated it with contempt and the authorities did nothing to uphold it. If a law like this one breaks down, the effect is discouraging. If two parties to a dispute will not first listen to an attempt to harmonize it and reach essential justice before proceeding to extremities, it does not speak highly for our progress in civilization.

Always "Talking Shop."

Milwaukee Sentinel: The American brewery lately established in Hongkong has cheapened ice there. But what does one want of highballs, when one has good American beer?

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Chicago's Jealousy.

Moose Lake Star Gazette: Chicago has a new-fangled religion which omits from its creed all reference to hell. Chicago is always jealous of competition.

Prompt Payer Boosted.

Two Harbors Journal-Press: We want to say a good word for the man who meets his small obligations promptly. They are not as plentiful as they should be and the man needs encouraging. Most men will pay but fewer will pay promptly. Almost any firm will testify that counting "the time, postage, booking and the like, it costs all some accounts are worth to collect them, and still the man owing it to them is perfectly responsible in a financial way. It very often happens that the worst sinner in this particular is the man best able to pay.

Anybody Offered to Kiss You?

Gilbert Herald: Medical science has progressed with giraffic strides during the past generation. The leading discoverers of microscopic germs, to which have been attached unpronounceable names that are more distressing than the germs themselves, have tried to banish the "kiss." There may be some lurking, dangerous germs attached to the kissing habit and we don't defend it on general principles and don't believe in promiscuous osculation, but the man who is so cowardly as to refuse an offered kiss from a loving child or a pretty woman, providing he himself is of healthful body and mind, should be reckoned among those devoid of common horse sense. A man, or woman for that matter, will brave desperate chances to plant a kiss where it will do the most good. It has always been thus and will continue until the end of time, and that means forever. You cannot discourage the habit, and you do not intend to swear off yourself—and there you are!

Not a Baptist, at That.

Foley Independent: Speaking of paradoxes: A lawyer running for governor on a county option platform and a former preacher of the gospel running on a wet platform, isn't so bad. Oh, yes, we're progressing alright.

Hoping Against Hope.

Mora Times: The Aldrich-Cannon-Wickersham clique really feel that they constitute the Republican party. If a roll call was taken among the rank and file that have been furnishing Republican majorities these monopoly controlled puppets would wonder where they were at. It's a condition wherein a small minority is dictating to the majority, a condition which it is hoped is but temporary.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Education enables some people to teach others how to earn a living.

When an eloping couple use an aeroplane it is difficult to follow them up.

A man can afford to be economical if he has a few millions to be economical with.

Cut out the unnecessary talk and you'll be surprised at the little you will have to say.

The young widow who declares that she doesn't want to marry again fools anybody but herself.

The chances are that if your particular friends were more particular they wouldn't be your particular friends.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The reason a woman can manage a man so easily is he thinks he is doing it.

A girl can be very much interested in baseball till she begins to understand the game.

A man can owe money for years and never think it is out of the way till somebody owes him for a week, when it's a crime.

Science is Golden—Sometimes.

Boston Globe: The silence of the senior United States senator from Rhode Island under the grave charges repeatedly preferred by the junior United States senator from Kansas is exceedingly baffling. Mr. Bristow has again and again accused Mr. Aldrich of having been controlled by dishonest and sinister motives in his work on the tariff schedules last year. The first accusation was that Mr. Aldrich filled his own pocket and the pockets of his relatives and friends by means of the increased duties on lead and on rubber. There was no reply to that accusation.

Now Mr. Bristow returns to the attack and asserts that Mr. Aldrich was instrumental in raising the duties on cotton goods purely in the interests of speculators and despite the fact that the cotton manufacturers asked for no increase. The proofs which Mr. Bristow adduces in this case are perhaps not quite so conclusive as in the case of the rubber schedules, but they are certainly strong enough to evoke some comment from Mr. Aldrich.

Can one respectable gentleman practically assert with impunity that another respectable gentleman is no better than a common thief? Is a dignified silence the only answer to such an accusation? Will the American people accept silence as an answer? Or is the silence of Mr. Aldrich not dignified, but only contemptuous? Is it merely equivalent to saying, "What are you going to do about it?"

Some perfectly satisfactory answer to the charges might be a useful thing for the Republicans to have in the congressional campaign.

Wendell Phillips' Retort.

Catholic Columbian: Wendell Phillips, according to the recent biography by Dr. Lorenzo Sears, was, on one occasion, lecturing in Ohio, and while on a railroad journey, going to keep one of his appointments, he met in the car a crowd of clergy returning from some sort of convention.

One of the ministers felt called upon to approach Mr. Phillips, and asked him: "Are you Mr. Phillips?"

"I am, sir."

"Are you trying to free the Niggers?"

"Yes, sir; I am an abolitionist."

"Well, why do you preach your doctrines up here? Why don't you go over into Kentucky?"

"Excuse me, are you a preacher?"

"I am, sir."

"Are you trying to save souls from hell?"

"Yes, sir; that's my business."

"Well, why don't you go there?"

Arcades in New York City.

New York Sun: New York's aversion to the arcade idea has just been proved again by the alterations to a building on Madison avenue which began the other day. Several years ago this block of shops and studios was put up with an arcade about seven feet wide separating them from the sidewalk. This furnished protection from the sun and the inclement weather and would have seemed an advantage for the shops protected in this way; but there was never sufficient demand for them, so now the arcade is to be removed and the shop windows moved out to the stoop line. It is a curious fact that New York is unique in its rejection of arcades and similar methods of building, although they are popular in nearly every other city of the world.

Let the Painter Go.

New York Journal: The captain of a small ship had need to go ashore in one of the boats belonging to the ship. As it happened, the ship was being painted at the time, the painters using staging supported by ropes.

The captain ordered the ship's boy to "let go the painter" belonging to the boat. After waiting some minutes the captain roared again: "Let go the painter!" The boy replied: "He's gone, sir, pots and all."

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

•••J. H Nordby has received a United States commission as deputy collector of internal revenue under Colector Marcus Johnson. He will have jurisdiction over the following counties: St. Louis, Lake, Cook, Itasca, Aitkin, Carlton, Pine, Kanabec, Mille Lacs, Crow Wing, Morrison, Isanti, Chisago, Benton and Stearns.

•••Dr. Franklin B. Staples of Winona, president of the state board of health, is in the city, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. S. D. Allen. He is accompanied by his wife and daughter. They will remain in the city about two weeks and the doctor will make a study of the Duluth system of sewerage.

•••At a meeting of the chamber of commerce, Maj. M. R. Baldwin urged the advisability of having all the county offices placed on a salary basis and all fees turned into the county treasury. He said that last year the receipts of the register of deed's office were $10,964 and the expenses $4,827, leaving a balance for the register of $6,037. The sheriff's office received $7,852, and the expenses were $3,467, leaving a balance of $4,385. In the office of the clerk of courts, the receipts were $12,200 and the expenses $2,662, leaving a balance of $9,538.

•••The city council has awarded the contract for the free ferry at the ship canal to L. M. Stephes at $180 a month. He is to operate a rowboat twenty-four hours a day. An ordinance was passed granting the Duluth Gas & Water company the right to connect its system with the West Duluth mains, the city retaining power to shut off the water supply at any time the Duluth supply seems insufficient.

BRYAN'S LATEST BATTLE.

Syracuse Standard: Mr. Bryan must have known when he entered the Nebraska county option fight that he could not win. He must have known that he would alienate friends of a lifetime. But he went in with all the ardor of his ever youthful nature, as he did when he fought against inevitable defeat in St. Louis in 1904. It is his way. He has made his reputation by defeat. He has gained popularity by his vigorous championship of losing causes. He wouldn't know what to do with victory. Why should he change the habit of a lifetime, which has given him congenial employment, power and fame?

New York Mail: Give Mr. Bryan credit for courage, at any rate. He could have avoided the fate meted out to him by his party. He could have kept silent on the issue, or backed water, or trimmed sail. The result impugns only his sagacity.

Boston Transcript: The peerless leader has been tried by his peers.

New York Evening Post: Mr. Bryan may be guilty of rhetorical exaggeration when he speaks of "conspiracy" of the liquor interests to effect a "political burglary" in Nebraska, but it is impossible to refuse admiration to an act like his based on deep conviction.

Toledo Blade: Bryan has every chance of recovering power and administering his party's affairs as it pleases him.

New York Tribune: It is to Mr. Bryan's credit that he scorns the iden that moral issues are to be avoided as troublemakers in politics.

Lousville Courier-Journal. Mr. Bryan is just turned 50. The fairy godmother, as she bent over his cradle, gave him many good things to have; health of body and manly beauty; the faculty of utterance and the power to charm; grace and virtue; the noble aspiration and high ideals. She seems to have withheld that fine sense of perspective and proportion which passes among men by the name of judgment, and the emanation equally of reason and knowledge, met upon the arena of action to draw instaneous and correct conclusions.

Women Prisoners.

New York Press: Totally rough, ignorant women coming into a Scottish prison, sent up for a reasonably long time, leave there with some useful handicraft at their fingers' end, even such arts as fine Oriental rug-making, skillful needlework and professional cookery being some of the many money-making, self and home sustaining trades and things there taught. Glasgow's prison permits no degrading sense of being spied upon and watched and driven by a harsh, bulldozing jailer all the time. The best dog, to say nothing of a man or woman, can have his character and self-respect destroyed by being constantly overseen, brow-beaten and hounded by a low human character. Glasgow's system compels prisoners to forget for a while the soul-destroying degradation of the prison, and even makes the onlooker think he is in a busy, happy, first-class factory.

Gypsy Wordless Language.

Century Magazine: To communicate with one another, gypsies now use letters—and they use the telegraph, too, when necessary—especially in this country. But the modern Romany also follows the "patteran," tracing the footsteps, or wagon tracks, of his friends on the road by the same method employed by his ancient prototype, reading directions where no words are written as clearly as the gorgio does a roadside signboard. But the patteran can be read by the gipsy only—it is hidden and secret, although it may be in plain sight, as a signboard is open and public. The patteran may be formed of sticks or stones or grass, placed cross fashion at the parting of roads in such manner that only a gypsy would instantly notice and understand. To him it means much; first of all, the direction taken by Romany predecessors.

Discouragement.

Time was when I fancied that she Could never be lacking in grace.
Her figure was pleasing to me,
She had an adorable face.
Her voice was both gentle and sweet,
Her fingers were pointed and small.
I wish I had ne'er seen her eat
Sweet corn from a nubbin at all.

Time was when it gladdened my heart
If she happened to smile when we met.
Ah, why must our pleasure depart
While we long to be claiming them yet?
I have lost an ideal I had,
My heart has a commonplace throb
My thoughts of her always are sad
Since I've seen her eat corn from the cob.

—T. E. M. in Detroit News.

"If That Be Treason."

Everybody's Magazine: It was during the Parnell agitation in Ireland that an anti-Parnellite, criticizing the ways of tenants in treating absentee landlords, exclaimed to Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia: "Why, it looks very much like treason."

Instantly came the answer in the archbishop's best brogue: "Sure, treason is reason when there's an absent 't."

The Wonders of Alfalfa.

Worcester Telegram: Alfalfa has found a way into the doctor's office as a curative agent. Dr. Marian N. Clark of Los Angeles claims that there are remarkable curative qualities in the grass and its blossom. She tells of success in prescribing alfalfa juice for the nerves, and claims that it is one of the wonders for waking people up out of lethargy and making them feel like working harder. Also that a few tablets of alfalfa will cure men of the smoking habit and take them out of the jimjams and into sound reason and good bodily health in a remarkably short time. She uses the grass reduced to small bulk, though in some cases she admits that men are so foolish about their habits that she might make a mistake and prescribe the alfalfa in the hay form, as though it were for other donkeys.

Pacing.

Atchison, Kan., Globe: It always seems to us that a pacing horse does twice as much work as is necessary in traveling.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Tribune: Caesar had sent this message, "Veni, vidi, vici." "I could send seven more words without any additional expense," he said, "but I can't think of seven words beginning with 'v' and ending with 't' that will quite fill the bill." Later he reflected that he could have used a picture postcard and saved at least 44 cents.

"Not a bit. So far I haven't hit a single man without being able to get away before he got my number."

Boston Transcript: Higgs—Are you not indulging in a good many luxuries for one in your position, old man?

Biggs—Yes, but great Scott! the necessities are all so thundering high.

Chicago Daily News: "Yes, my little boy," said the pretty settlement worker, "good behavior always pays."

"That's what me dad says," responded the tough lad in the blue overalls. "He's doing time an' gets two months off every year for good behavior."

Detroit Free Press: "Do you believe that he will succeed?"

"Yes, indeed. He never wastes any time telling how much more he knows than his employers."

Where Two Empires Meet.

London Globe: Most travelers enter Russia by way of Alexandrovo from the west, but those who venture on the beaten track occasionally cross the frontier by way of Galicia and Brady, where the first station on Russian soil is Radziwillov. The surrounding country is flat and fertile; the peasants are of Ruthenian origin; the traders in town and village are generally Jews. It is from this district, which is not often visited by Englishmen, that the Radziwill family, one of whose family was married recently, takes its name.

The Radziwill country, the borderland along which two empires have ebbed and flowed, does not at first seem very attractive to the casual traveler, but those who have lived there and have learned something of the racial strife that has long divided the district and that still divides it, are not long in finding that it exercises a subtle fascination over them. Yet it would fall them to put this fascination into words or to analyze the sentiments of which it is made up.

An Explanation.

Waterbury American: Of course the emphasis is wrong in the newspaper headline over the report of President Taft's talk on summer vacation to the Bar Harbor folks. The emphasis made it appear that he considered a three-months' vacation desirable and even necessary. This is enough to make people laugh or cry who can't get three weeks, and to make others who can't get a day, because it means loss of wages, grind their teeth. The president was talking to a holiday vacation crowd, to people who can afford to take as long vacations as they please, and to people who make a living at and to people who make a living at summer resorts by entertaining these vacation takers. Many of the former are men of strenuous lives who work 8, 10 or 11 months a year at high pressure, and rest one, two or three months under sheer compulsion. The lesson was, as he drew it, a lesson of necessity mingled with the financial ability to take a vacation. If the president was talking in a manufacturing or mining town to an audience whose wages make comfortable living difficult and a vacation almost impossible, a reference to three months' vacation would be grotesque and he would not make it, for no man is kinder-hearted or more sensible of the varieties of human conditions, or more sympathetic with the needs of the poor and overworked than he.

MARINE NEWS

HAMONIC MAKES A NEW RECORD.

Mariners interested in the speed of vessels were surprised at the record made by the Hamonic, of the Northern Navigation company, last Friday, when she completed the trip from the Soo to Port Arthur, Ont., a distance of 289 miles in 15 hours and 30 minutes. This was fifteen minutes better than the record of the Keewatin, of the C. P. R. fleet, also made this summer. Heretofore, a time of seventeen hours was considered fast time. The Hamonic was trying to make up time on this trip.

THREE LIVES LOST IN LAKE ERIE COLLISION.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—Two lives were lost early Sunday, when the barge Grace Whitney was run down by the steamer Ogdensburg, three miles below Bar Point Light in Lake Erie. The barge sank almost instantly.

Capt. Ross Heath of Marine City, master of the barge, and husband and father of the two victims, and the members of his crew had narrow escapes. The Whitney was the third of three barges in tow of the steamer Maine. The Maine and her barges, all laden with coal, were bound for Port Huron. The Ogdensburg, a steel package freighter operated by the Anchor line, was bound down with a heavy cargo.

When the Ogdensburg crashed into the Whitney the captain's wife and two children were asleep in their state room. They rushed for the deck and a torrent of water engulfed them. That was the last seen of the woman and her son. The other child, a girl, clung to some wreckage and was picked up with the other survivors.

ABANDONED TUGS ARE SOLD FOR LIBEL.

The tugs A. A. Carpenter and J. B. Merrill, which were abandoned by their owners, the Independent tug line, were sold by United States Marshall George J. Mallory this morning to satisfy a libel of $150 against each. The libellant, Whitney Brothers, bought in the tugs for the amount of the libel and costs. The Carpenter is a thirty-eight-ton tug and was built in 1880, while the Merrill is of seventeen tons and was built in 1871.

EVELETH BUILDING SOLD FOR $23,500

Vail Block, One of Oldest Structures in Town, Brings Large Sum.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Vail building at the corner of Pierce street and Grant avenue has been sold by P. Vail of Virginia to Peter Peterson, a local prominent merchant for $23,500 cash.

The deal which has been hanging fire for a while was brought to a head on Saturday. The corner is one of the choicest in the city and is now occupied by Matt Doyle's saloon, Pentilla and Nelson's grocery store. On the second floor is the militia armory. For the present no change in the building will be made as the present tenants have a lease which has one and a half years to run. When that is at an end it is the intention of Mr. Peterson to extend the building back to the alley, and make offices on the second floor now used as a hall.

It is reported the new owner has been approached by parties in reference to the building of a hotel on the site of the present building, but Mr. Peterson has no definite ideas on that line.

The sale of the Finch corner up one block from the Vail building recently for $26,000 shows how real estate is advancing here and men who know say that the Vail property was bought cheaply. The building was the first brick building to be erected in the new town.

The tanks are to receive the water from the pumps and clarify it before it is forced into the mains. The contract will be let at today's meeting of the water, light and power commission.

City's Pleasure Ground is Thronged During Its Opening on Sunday.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia city band gave a very pleasing open air concert at the corner of Chestnut street and Wyoming avenue last evening. Several choice selections were rendered in a most creditable manner and the evening's entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by hundreds of people. The band, under the leadership of Frank Meehan, has been organized only a short time, but as it is composed in the most part of experienced musicians, it is able to disperse music with the best of them. It is understood that these concerts will be a weekly occurrance during the warm weather months.

Virginia's new rustic park was opened to the public yesterday and the occasion was attended by a large crowd. The park is already a beauty spot, made up mostly from nature's garden, and when completed will furnish a place of enjoyment and recreation for all who desire to go there.

MINISTER SCORES LAW VIOLATION

Rev. Mr. Schwartz Says That Eveleth Officials Are Very Derelect.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. P. A. Schwartz, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in speaking last night of the theme "Law Enforcement," spoke "right out in meetin'," severely arraigning local officials for lax enforcement of the Sunday closing law.

"I have noticed flagrant violation of the Sunday closing law," he declared, "and believe that the local officials do not keep their oath of office in this respect and are very lax in seeing that the law is obeyed.

"The temperance people and law-abiding citizens, though they may be in the minority, demand that the law be enforced. It is immaterial that the large foreign element of the population want the saloons open."

The minister stirred the audience when he told of having been threatened unless he did not let up in his attack on lawlessness, but said he proposed to continue his exposures until more respect was paid the law. He explained that he was not attacking ex-Mayor Smith personally, but said when he approached that official during his term of office he was met with the statement the laws are being observed here as well as in other range towns.

Rev. R. C. Johnson delivered an instructive sermon at the M. E. church last night, emphasising the fact that will power is one of the main factors of life. He said that weak wills are hereditary and that often crimes are committed by people who are not responsible because of an inherited weak will.

TO STOP SPITTING.

Virginia Council Is Going After the Promiscuous Expectorators.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected that at tomorrow night's meeting of the council an anti-spitting ordinance will be introduced by Alderman Heritage of the Fifth ward. The importance of framing such an ordinance was brought about from the fact that large crowds gather in front of the postoffice about mail time and expectorate upon the walk in rather a promiscuous manner, making it a very insanitary place. Not only do crowds gather at the postoffice but congregate upon all corners of the main street, expectorating upon the walks in a filthy manner, and it is for the purpose of eliminating this habit that the ordinance will be introduced.

It is also expected that some sort of reply will be received from the Virginia Electric Power & Water company, in regard to the purchase by the city of the company's plant.

MAKES HIS LAST PORT

Capt. Jacob Hector, Pioneer Duluth Mariner, Passes Away.

The Friend of Every Settler From Duluth to Port Arthur.

Capt. Jacob F. Hector, veteran of captains at the Head of the Lakes, died late Saturday afternoon at his residence, 1017 East Third street. He had been sick several months. The last three weeks his end was expected hourly, the physicians marveling at the indomitable, iron will that kept the spark of life in existence.

For more than a quarter of a century he has sailed the treacherous north shore of Lake Superior, in the employ of the Booth line, without serious accident. Winter and summer, eleven months of each year, he has gone through gales and blizzards. So sure was he in fogs, the most dangerous of the elements to combat on the seas, that he became known to marine men as the "Fog King." His last boat was the steamer America, which made Duluth, Port Arthur, Isle Royale and intermediate points, carrying freight and passengers.

Thousands of people will remember the kindly old man who was master of the boat which carried them down Lake Superior. Some knew him intimately because of their regular vacation trips; others met him while on a quest for the wily trout in the north shore streams, and the hundreds of settlers and pioneers on the rocky coast had big places in their hearts for Capt. Hector. First out in the spring and last in when the lake froze over, he was the veteran pilot of the north shore. Until the installation of the wireless, not a point on the shore had communication with the outside world other than through the Booth line boats.

Set Clocks by Him.

At Grand Marais the residents say that they set their clocks by his arrival and departure, so seldom was his boat off its schedule. For years the inhabitants have presented him with a new hat in honor of the first arrival, and many of them, still unsolled, are now in the possession of the family. As soon as they learned of his death, the people of Grand Marais sent a message of condolence to the family by wireless.

Capt. Hector was born in Norway sixty-two years ago. Before settling in Duluth forty-one years ago, he worked in Chicago for a time as a carpenter's apprentice. When he reached this city he secured employment on a tug and followed the lake ever since. He entered the employ of the Booth company in 1885 and was given command of the Dixon, of which he had charge eleven straight years. For three years he did not miss a trip.

Capt. Hector is survived by his wife, two sons, Fred C. and John A. Hector of Duluth; three daughters, Mrs. J. F. Walsh and Stella and Pearl Hector of this city, and four brothers, Charles of Duluth, Martin and Henry H. of Fargo, N. D., and Christ of Chicago. Fred Hector, mate of the steamer A. D. Davidson, was summoned from Oswego, N. Y., three weeks ago, supposedly to his father's death bed.

The funeral is set for 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. J. W. Powell, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, officiating. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

Many Narrow Escapes.

Capt. Hector was an able and careful navigator, but at times a lucky star seemed to hover over him. Years ago, when on the fishing tug Siskwit, the boat and its crew had a remarkable escape entering the local harbor from the lake during a terrific storm. The little vessel was tossed bodily up on the piers of the canal by a huge wave. The next washed it off again, unharmed. That was before the present concrete piers were built.

About two years ago he was very much grieved when the America went on the ground during a fog. No one was injured and the passengers all walked safely ashore, but the captain felt badly over the accident, although it was comparatively trivial.

While lying ill at his home the last few months he fretted continually if he did not see the America pulling out through the canal piers on the dot. He felt it ought to get out on the dot, and never felt satisfied until he saw the last of her smoke fading away on the horizon.

Coming through certain passages on the lower shore of the lake, he always exercised extreme caution. He would talk to no one while the boat was going through them. He knew every shoal and reef as well or better than any man sailing on Lake Superior.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"It's got to go, go, go!" said Miss Adelaide Thurston this morning while she emphasized the word of action with blows of her diminutive fist on the table in the palm room at the Spalding that brought three waiters on the jump from various corners of the room. Miss Thurston, who was speaking of her new play, "Miss Ananias," waved away the prompt waiters and continued to bubble enthusiasm over the "best play I've ever had.

Duluth takes a special and cordial interest in the stage career of Miss Thurston, and since her visit at her home in this city this summer, her friends have been more than usually interested in her plans for the coming theatrical year. As has been announced, Miss Thurston will appear in "Miss Ananias."

Miss Thurston, like Aunt Mary of rejuvenation fame, is a great believer. "I'm a great believer of women's work," said the little actress. "My new play is by a Boston woman, Charlotte Cushing, and although this is her first play to be produced, I'm a great believer in the quality of her work. She has a delicious humor and although 'Miss Ananias' has no profound and deep plot, it is so thoroughly pleasing and charming in feeling and delicate in character drawing, that I have great faith in the future of Charlotte Cushing."

Miss Thurston's season will open at Washington, D. C., Sept. 28, and she will go from there for a short tour. Then if the public and the critics are as great believers as is Miss Thurston, then whoop-la! into New York for one of those well advertised runs of "more than 300 nights in New York."

"Nancy Lyle is 'Miss Ananias,'" explained Miss Thurston while she, in sporting parlance, "punished" a cantaloupe, "and she fibs about her age. She is 29 and most of her life has been spent in nursing an invalid mother and attending to duties that have not left her free to enjoy the usual life of most girls. She has become sensitive to the approach of 30, as most women do, as so when there falls into her care a man whom she thinks is rather nice, who has been hurt in an automobile accident and is temporarily blind, and he thinks—do you follow me?" asked Miss Thurston. "I tell things so badly anyway—he thinks she's blonde and sweet 18, and Nancy allows him to think it. Really, you know, she is 29 and has auburn hair. When he is cured of his blindness she is in a panic and then masquerades as her own old maid aunt telling the blind man that Nancy has gone away. Of course, everything comes out all right and it's such a sweet play," finished Miss Thurston.

Miss Thurston will leave this week for New York and may make a flying trip abroad to see about her gowns before beginning rehearsals. Although, according to present plans, Duluthians are not apt to see "Miss Ananias" this season, the Duluth friends of the young comedienne will watch her year's work from afar and wish her all kinds of success in the new play.

THE EVENING STORY

THE FLIGHT OF WHYTE

A Humorous Story.

By P. F. Doyle.

"Have you been reading the latest conquest of the air?" I asked Jerry O'Reilly, the shoemaker of Branchville, as I called in to his little workshop.

"I have," he answered, rather sourly. "I've seen accounts of the great flight."

Here Ned Reidy, an old customer, dropped in to inquire if his boots had yet been finished, and Jerry bade him sit and wait awhile. Then he resumed, while his wife got the tea ready.

"But Mr. O'Hourigan, let me tell ye this—I've never heard of an invintion yet that brought luck nor grace to Branchville."

"How's that, Jerry?" I inquired.

"'Tis quite true!" was the reply. "I remimber well what happened the first time the motor cars were seen round here, an' that's not long ago." Then turning to Reidy, he said:

"Ye remimber the flight of Patsy Whyte, as we called him since, though he signed himself Pat C. Whyte, to make it more important lookin'?"

"'Tis good reason I have to remimber that flight!" said Reidy.

"An' all Branchville, too," O'Rielly added.

"What's the story o' this Whyte's invention? Did he fly far?" I inquired eagerly, wondering what this Whyte must have done to blacken the heart of Branchville against inventions and innovations.

"How far he flew, only himself knows," answered Jerry.

"And one other," added Reidy.

"Perhaps!" laconically commented O'Reilly, with a smile, "but the gentleman here will be in a hurry with the story of it."

Without looking up from the boot he was finishing, except to emphasize a point Jerry resumed:

"The flight o' Whyte, I may say at the start, was not connected with airships, but with motor cars."

"An' a woman," hinted Reidy.

"Now, don't interrupt, Ned," said O'Reilly, hiding a smile. "Motor cars were invinted a good bit at the time I speak of, but they were still seldom seen in the remote little village of ours.

"Never a nation of trafficking in any o' these invintions entered the heads of any of us till Whyte came amongst us an' set the craze a-goin' with his tall talk. 'Twas this way, ye see. It was in the holiday times, and an old stranger, right enough, did chance to come to this quiet little spot for rest an' recreation at that period. Thus it was that Pat C. Whyte, Esq.,—as he styled himself, made his first—an' last—acquaintance with Branchville as a holiday visitor. A big bit of a gent he looked, an' he stayed at th' only hotel in our unassumin' village.

"He wasn't long here when he told us he was agent, or somethin' o' that sort, for the American Self-Development Motor Car company, an' I suppose I may as well add 'Limited.' He had piles o' books and pictures, papers an' prospectuses explainin' with motor cars an' their advantages.

"Troth! we wondered what he was drivin' at, for we all knew that the price of a motor car was far beyond anything the richest of us could afford, even if we wanted it, or knew what use to make of it—though the most any of us could do with one o' thim would be to stop a gup with it! Still Whyte was all the time aimin' at a definite object, as when we came to consider it coolly, it didn't look so absurd after all. What he said to us in the meetin' o' the townsfolk here in my shop one evening was this:

"My friends, I would have ye understand what a great benefit to the community-at-large the up-to-date motor car would be. I wish ye to form a company to purchase with your subscriptions one o' these motor cars. Ye would use it to develop your industries and to open up new markets for your goods as well as provide a means o' transportation from here to the bigger towns beyond the hills. The beatules o' Branchville need only to be known to be appreciated. Ye lack train service. This motor car will supply that great want. With it the company so formed can bring visitors here at their own rates, and in time ye could, out of the profits, establish a motor service to bring the produce o' the country around to your own market here, and also in the same way quickly distribute your goods, and all this would make for the material prosperity at large, as well as provide a handsome profit for the company running the motor. Thus the motor car will soon pay for itself, and if ye all subscribe a little ye will not miss it.

"So that very night we started to subscribe an' to organize the district—so feasible did Whyte's scheme seem—an' a good many responded to the call. The motor would cost a lot, but Whyte said his Self-Development company would be willin' to take it in substantial installments.

"In the first flush o' the enterprise we all responded gamely to as lively a tune as our finances would allow. At th' end of a fortnight we had the company formed, an' a first big installment of $500 was placed in the hands o' Whyte.

"This agint of the company thin," he went on, "wanted us to hurry up with the second installment before we could hope the company would deal with us. Here in this kitchen we spent some nights urgin' me to hurry up the others; but what could I do? Already the people beginnin' to see that the price of a motor car was more than we could ever manage to get into a lump sum in the course of our lifetime. So they began to grumble—an' Whyte noticed it; an' as the days went on some o' them were wishin' to have their money back. A meetin' was held here in my kitchen for the purpose o' havin' our money refunded, an' the disolvin' the company next day.

"When the next day came a committee went to explain to Whyte the turn affairs had taken.

"We knocked at his private rooms there till we were tired; an' at last, when the door was opened, we found that Whyte had flown. A written message lay on the table headed, 'The Flight of Whyte By Night!' It wint on to say that, 'the Self-Development Company of Whyte, Limited, had not done badly. At the bottom o' the notice we read:

"'Ye will find the motor car in the stables!'

"We went out," said O'Reilly with a smile, "An' what do you think we found?"

"We found a motor car neatly placed on the bench; it was a mere child's toy of a one that could be bought in a top shop for about a dollar."

"You got some consolation, O'Reilly, though you haven't spoken of it!"

"How's that?" asked Jerry, though he knew well.

"Over the elopement of your old widowed mother-in-law that used to torment ye," said Reidy.

"Hush!" said Jerry, hammering a piece of leather, while a broad smile covered his face; but unmindful of his remark, Ned Reidy continued,

"The thing is over an' well-nigh forgotten now, but ye'll remimber O'Reilly told you that Whyte spint many a night here in this kitchen discussin' matters."

"Yes," I nodded.

"And Jerry had a very troublesome mother-in-law, widowed, middle-aged, but crabbed an' soured with bad turns o' luck. Well, whatever likin' herself an' Whyte took to each other, they eloped together that eventful night an' neither of them was seen since, so that the shoemaker got some consolation for his money."

"'Twas cheap, too," I laughed, as I went out, wondering how much clever Jerry had to do with the planning of the elopement.

GOING AFTER BOAT OWNERS

Collector of Customs L. M. Willcuts has appointed Otto Daugherty and Walter Jolicoeur inspectors for his office and they will use the customs launch in enforcing the new motor boat regulations, which became effective July 9.

Thus far motor boat owners have shown a disposition to disregard the law and very few have equipped their craft in accordance with the new law. Delay will be costly, however, for Collector of Customs Willcuts says persistent evasion of the law will be punished.

The new inspectors will spend all of their time on the customs launch and will inspect every launch in the harbor to determine whether it is carrying the proper equipment. If the law is not obeyed, the collector will deal with the owners as the law requires.

"The new law is not hard to observe, for its demands do not work a hardship on motor boat owners," said Mr. Willcuts today. "The changes from the former regulations are few and may easily be complied with. The law takes cognizance of the size and requirements of the different classes of motor boats and does not impose an unreasonable regulations. The government is only anxious to protect motor boat owners, their guests and passengers and the owners should be anxious to comply with the law, instead of seeking to evade it as they are doing."

Two of the principal new requirements are that all boats must carry life preservers of some sort and all boats carrying passengers for hire must carry regulation life preservers, and that every motor boat must carry some efficient device or preparation for extinguishing burning gasoline.

A number of customs inspectors were on the bay yesterday counting passengers on ferry boats. They reported no violations of the law by overloading.

"ALL FAKES," SAYS NELSON

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—"All reports to the effect that Secretary Ballinger is to be whitewashed or convicted are absolutely without foundation. No man knows what the verdict of the committee will be," said Senator Knute Nelson, chairman of the Ballinger-Pinchot committee, today.

Senator Nelson was in St. Paul today to meet Senator Crane of Massachusetts, another member of the investigating committee.

"No one can know what the committee will do, for the committee doesn't know itself. I don't know what any other member of the committee may think of the evidence presented, and no member of the committee knows what I think.

Meet on Sept. 5.

"It has been decided that the committee shall convene in Minneapolis on Sept. 5. We have six large volumes of evidence to consider, and that means a lot of work."

"If you arrive at a verdict will it be made public at once?" the senator was asked.

"That's a question I can't answer, for it will be for the committee to decide. We are supposed to report our findings to congress. Whether we have a right to make them public before congress convenes, is a matter up to the committee."

TAXES NEARLY ALL COLLECTED

Practically all the taxes of St. Louis county for the year 1909 have been paid and the treasurers' force is now busy making reports. To date $2,751,-521.02 have been collected, of which amount $495,764.78 has already been apportioned out to the state and different departments of the county.

Deducting this amount there is left now in the treasurer's hand $2,254,-455.76. There will be some deductions from this total, for some people are entitled to refunds because of reductions made in their taxes, while others have, through errors, paid the bills twice.

As soon as these deductions have been made, and all the routine business connected with the books has been completed, the treasurer will make up his apportionment. This will probably require two or three weeks, after which he will turn everything over to the county auditor, who will add to the total amount some back taxes, thus swelling the amount. When all this work is finished, the treasurers' and clerks of the many departments of county work, will be notified that they may call for the money due them.

The case of the Standard Grain company against the Fidelity & Deposit company, which has been on trial before Judge Ensign, of the district court for several days, was placed in the hands of the jury this afternoon.

The bonding company alleged that the notice of such an embezzlement had not been made to it within the time specified within the contract, and furthermore, it claimed that Bemis has made good any shortage that there might have been in his accounts.

GRAIN RUSH WILL BEGIN IN MIDDLE OF AUGUST.

That the crop shortage will have a tendency to start the grain rush about two weeks earlier this season is the opinion of Superior grain men who are in touch with the situation.

The heavy work of the local state grain commission is expected to commence about the middle of the month.

With the Amateurs.

A dispute in the eighth inning ended a game between the Badgers and the O'Brien Colts with the score tied 8 to 8. The Colts claim the game by forfeit, the Badgers leaving the field. The game was played on the Oakes avenue grounds.

The Maroons won a six-inning contest from the East End Cubs yesterday, the affair being cut short by the rain. This gives the maroons a chance at the championship among the "kid" teams of the city.

The Terminal Switchmen were defeated 10 to 5 yesterday by the Pirates and the Bingham Juniors defeated the Nemadji Juniors by a score of 3 to 0.

Will Try for Team.

Capt. Clemens and four members of Company I, Third regiment staff, of Superior will participate in the shoot which will be held at Camp Douglas next week. The local militia boys are confident of securing at least one representative on the state team.

Former Duluthian Delivers Patriotic Address to Americans in Paris.

Copy of Speech By Rev. Robert Forbes at Lafayette's Tomb.

Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D., formerly of this city, was the speaker at the celebration of Independence day by the American residents of Paris, no mean honor, for Paris has many Americans, not a few of whom are prominent internationally.

A copy of his address has just been received by his son, Mason Forbes, a resident of Duluth. It was delivered at the tomb of Marquis De Lafayette.

Following are some extracts from the address:

"By the courtesy of the Hon. Hanson C. Coxe, American deputy consul general, I have been invited to address you on this interesting occasion. A few of us from our home beyod the sea, have gathered around the tomb of Marquis de Lafayette, the distinguished Frenchman who, in the struggle of the American colonies for independence, unsheathed his sword in their behalf. It is fitting that on this day his tomb should be decorated with palms—emblems of victory—and that the American flag should be unfurled.

Only Nation With Birthday.

"The United States of America is the only nation that knows its birthday. On July 4, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was signed. Those were the days when the soil of the infant colonies was baptized with the blood of heroes, that a new flag might be unfurled under the arching heavens.

"The name of Lafayette is indissolubly joined with the name of Washington, the Father of his Country. I have seen a modest monument not far from the banks of the Brandywine where Lafayette shed his blood for the colonies whose cause he had espoused. We are thinking now of words writ large in the history of the world: Lexington, Concord Bridge, Bunker Hill, Brandywine, Germantown and Valley Forge. • • •

"There will probably come a time in the history of the world when

'The war drum shall throb no longer
In the parliament of man,

"Until that time comes, patriotism or the love of country will be an essential virtue. Nations do not exist by accident; each nation fills its appointed place in the order of that Providence which rules in the vast and the minute: that Providence who gives its lustre to the insect's wing, and wheels His throne upon the rolling worlds.

"Civilization is a web, woven of threads of many different colors. All the great facts of history are related, not only chronologically but in moral order. • • •

Began Where Others Left Off.

"Our nation began where the other nations of the world left off; the Greeks sprang from cannibals, Rome was founded by a band of freebooters, Babylon began with a horde of lawless countrymen, the great English nation can be traced back to rude, barbarous savages. Not so with the American republic. Never in the history of the race did God use so much brain, character conscience and culture as when He laid the foundations of the great republic, the republic which is yet only in its infancy, stretching out between two seas and covering half the continent of North America; the handful of colonists having grown to a mighty nation of little less than one hundred millions.

"America is the land of destiny. Nearly three centuries ago the Pilgrim Fathers landed on 'the bleak New England shore;' That was the best seed God could find in the Old World—He planted it on the shores of the New.

"'What sought they thus afar?
Bright jewels of the mine?
The wealth of seas? the spoils of war?
They sought a faith's pure shrine.

"'Aye! Call it holy ground,
The soil where first they trod.
They left unstained what there they found,
Freedom to worship God.'

"All are familiar with the history of the struggle through which the early colonists passed in order to achieve their independence. The generalship of Washington, the good sword of Lafayette, and the devotion and loyalty of the brave and earnest men who followed them was crowned with victory and a new flag was flung to the breeze—that flag we plant o'er the tomb where the dust of the hero lies awaiting the ressurrection of the just. We are proud of our flag—it was never lowered in the presence of a foe, either on land or sea. We respect and honor the Tri-color of France—we have a high regard for the Union Jack of old England—the flag that for a thousand years has braved the battle and the breeze; but above them all we love the "Star-Spangled Banner and sing 'Long may it wave, o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.' • • •

"This observance is to become annual, and each Fourth day of July during all the years to come, Americans who shall be in Paris will be invited to assemble here and speak of the character and heroism of the Marquis de Lafayette and plant the flag of America over his dust and decorate his tomb with fragrant flowers. Lafayette is a household word in every American home. • • •

"While we celebrate the 'great deeds of great men,' we remember that there are but few in each passing century who are great in achievement, whilst unnumbered thousands are great in character. The men whose achievements are great, are unlike each other—it must needs be so—lions do not hunt in pairs—mountain peaks are solitary, and genius goes alone. We honor all great men, whether they used their swords on the battlefield or engaged in battles on the floors of congress or parliament; whether they wrote songs, studied great problems or in any way contributed towards the world's well-being. While we celebrate the heroic deeds of the great; we must not forget the simple service of the unknown—the men who walked in the ranks—the men who with the hard hand of toil cleared away the forests, ploughed our fields and in other ways performed the service which belongs to the poor man's lot.

"'Let not ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys or destiny obscure,
Nor grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
The short and simple annals of the poor.'

Proud of Home.

"We return to our homes beyond the broad Atlantic, proud of our institutions, proud of our homes, of our schools, of our churches. We are proud that we live in a land to which God in His providence is sending a million foreigners each year. Evidently God depends on America to do much in the work of evangelizing foreign peoples. We are proud that in our land we have liberty, equality, fraternity. We pray for the blessing of God upon France and the other nations of Europe, each having its own problems to solve, and we trust that a kind Providence will enable America to meet the tremendous responsibilities which God places upon her and that the world will continue to rejoice in the light of America's civilization and her pure form of Christianity. • • •

"May wind and wave deal gently with us as we return to our homes beyond the sea, with broader sympathy for humanity and a more profound faith in the gospel of His Son who died for all. May we, as citizens of the great republic, as members of the human family, make our personal contribution to the welfare of the race and thus aid in bringing in the time when 'the dwellers in the vale and on the rocks shall shout to each other, and mountops of distant nations catch the flying joy, until, nation after nation taught the strain, earth shall roll the rapturous Hosanna round.'"

S. S. S. cures Old Sores in the very simplest way. It just goes into the circulation and removes the poisons and impurities which are keeping the place open. Then the sore or ulcer heals because the infected flesh tissues receive nourishment and healing properties from the blood, instead of irritating, disease-laden germs. Every symptom of an old sore suggests diseased blood. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh around the ulcer, and the fact that it resists every form of local treatment, and even returns after being removed by surgical operation, indicates to what a great extent the blood is polluted. S. S. S. removes every trace of poison or infectious matter from the circulation and makes the blood stream pure, rich and healthy S. S. S. reaches hereditary taints, and those who are suffering from an old sore, which came without any apparent cause, could not do better than take a course of this great blood medicine to remove the inherited taint. S. S. S. cures old sores for the one simple reason that it purifies the blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

FREEDOM IS SERVICE

Ideal of Democracy Is Brotherhood, Says Kansas Pastor.

The Free Man Should Be "The Servant of All."

"What is Freedom For?" was the subject of a sermon delivered at the First Unitarian church yesterday morning by Rev. F. M. Bennett of Lawrence, Kan., who is substituting for Rev. George R. Gebauer.

He said in part:

"If you read the letters of Paul you will see that he understood that the Jewish law in crucifying Jesus had exceeded itself, and had abolished itself, and that it had given freedom to all the Christians.

"But the release from the slavery to the Jewish law brought them into the bondage of the law of love, and this new master placed weighty obligations upon them. 'To be servant of all' is not easy, but this is the obligation of the law of liberty. For all these Christian centuries men have been trying to learn how to fulfill that law, and this is still the great task of civilization.

"We have pride in the thought that we are a free people, but our freedom too often means that one shall obey only when compelled. It does not always rise to the sense of obligation which held in the primitive life of the jungle. Why should we consider it the product of civilization? What is freedom; what is democracy for?

"National freedom is given for the purpose of making a nation composed o individuals into a political brotherhood for the securing of the great practical ends of human welfare. Its ideal is that of service. The ideal of democracy is the ideal of a brotherhood. It is in line with the Christian ideal of service and brotherhood. How near in practical life do we come to it?

"Political freedom with many a man means the opportunity to 'knife' another to make way for his own political preferment, but that is not true political freedom. Freedom in politics is liberty to make onself heard and felt for the common good. Not to be served most but to be most serviceable is the privilege which political freedom should render.

"What do and should we mean by freedom in commerce and business? The theory of free contract has not yet produced industrial and commercial freeodm and this is largely because the ideal of co-operation for mutual advantage has been obscured. Freeodm in affairs is really freedom to serve, freedom to give out of the natural capacities of the individual the largest possible benefit to others, and to receive the largest possible rewards for well doing.

"What do and should we mean by freedom in commerce and business? The theory of free contract has not yet produced industrial and commercial freedom and this is largely because the ideal of co-operation for mutual advantage has been obscured. Freedom in affairs is really freedom to serve, freedom to give out of the natural capacities of the individual the largest possible benefit to others, and to receive the largest possible rewards for well doing.

"But the highest and most difficult achievement of the human soul is to reap the fruits of religious freedom. Independency in religion means freedom to effect union with God and man in spiritual realms and on natural and that religious freedom means release that religious freedom means release from the burdens and responsibilities of the religious life will surely fail to reap the fruits of his liberty.

"There is first the great responsibility of gaining and keeping a sane and well-grounded belief concerning the realities and worth of the spiritual life. Then the intellect must be continuously exercised in the interest of keeping religious thought in accord with modern intelligence. This is no small task. Again one must have a care to live the morally just life, to live right towards others without being compelled. One must assume the burden of external authority or power. The common worship must be maintained in a religiously free community, that the social needs of religion may be fulfilled.

"Religious freedom is not an end in itself, but always a means to an end. Free religion is the natural religion. But it does not mean lawlessness or social anarchy. It means the 'perfect law of liberty.' It means love. It means order and harmony in the highest realms of life. It means the fine expression of truth and righteousness and beauty in the world. It means opportunity for the most worthy fellowship with men and God. It means the willing service of each one in the interest of all and the service of all in the interest of each human soul. It means religious unity and brotherhood. The end of freedom is spiritual unity and fellowship with man and God. That is what freedom is for."

AGE OF ROMANCE IS NOT PASSED.

Preaching upon the vast agricultural possibilities of the Northwest, Rev. Dr. A. W. Ryan of St. Paul's Episcopal church declared that there never was an age, nor a romance, that for a moment can compare with that which Americans now have in their hands.

He spoke of the enterprise of man in this age, emphasizing the fact that the furthermost corners of the earth are invaded by him, and the wild land converted into a flourishing field, producig results far beyond all expectations.

"When you talk about the romanticism of Aladdin's lamp and its futility, you are far behind the times. Men now rub the lamp, buld up great fortunes, construct mighty palaces and create for themselves vast powers far beyond the dreams of the ancients," he said.

NURSERY IS A BIG SUCCESS

Twenty Babies Cared for at the First Methodist Church.

The Sunday nursery at the First Methodist church proved itself a decided success yesterday and Rev. M. S. Rice, the pastor, said that the innovation probably will be made a permanent institution.

Nearly twenty babies were cared for during the services yesterday morning and the congregation evinced the liveliest interest in the new arrangement, which makes it possible for mothers to participate in the services without the uncertain companionship of the tots.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

S. J. Briggs & Co., of Providence, R. I., say: "We have sold Fletcher's Castoria in our three stores for the past twenty years and consider it one of the best preparations on the market."

E. W. Stucky, of Indianapolis, Ind., says: "To say that we have recommended and sold your Castoria for years is the best endorsement we can possibly give any preparation. It is surely full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

Henry R. Gray, of Montreal, Que., says: "I would say that your Castoria for children is in large demand and that it gives general satisfaction. Not being a secret nostrum many medical men order it when circumstances indicate the use of such a preparation."

W. G. Marshall, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "We have found your Castoria to be not only one of the best sellers in the medicine market, but a preparation that gives almost universal satisfaction; in fact we cannot recall having had a single complaint from any of our customers who have used it."

Owens & Minor Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "It is with pleasure that we lend our endorsement to Castoria, a preparation of proven merit. During our long experience in the drug business we have had abundant occasion to note the popularity of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria, which we unhesitatingly recommend."

Brannen & Anthony of Atlanta, Ga., say: "No doubt if we were called upon to state positively what medicine we had sold for the greatest length of time, the greatest number of bottles sold, and the most satisfactory preparation to us and also to the customer, we feel that we could safely, and conscientiously say Fletcher's Castoria."

NEGRO FOUND IN GIRL'S ROOM IS LYNCHED.

Cairo, Ga., Aug. 1.—Screams of the young daughter of John Wade, ten miles northeast of this place, Saturday night, resulted in the capture and lynching of a negro, who had entered her room and was discovered at her bedside. The negro had no time to escape, but dived under the bed. He was dragged out from his hiding place. A body of men quickly gathered and decided to lynch the negro immediately. He was placed in a wagon and one end of a rope was tied about his neck and the other tied to a limb. The wagon was driven from under him and his body riddled with bullets.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Aug. 1.—Although the steel companies are taking new orders only to about 60 per cent to 50 per cent of capacity, they have recently secured specifications on previous contracts and on current business in sufficient amount to keep 75 per cent to 80 per cent of their capacity active. The fabrication shops are doing even better in some instances, the American Bridge company running 85 per cent to 90 per cent. The American Steel & Wire company have taken some heavy contracts from manufacturers from shipment over the balance of this year in the last two weeks which has brought their average daily sales in excess of 4,500 tons and the total volume of business, with the exception of 1907, has been the heaviest July in the history of the company.

Competition continues keen for new orders in plates, shapes and even in bars.

Some fabricated business last week was taken on the basis of 1.35 cents Pittsburg. Even plain material was sold under 1.40. Railroad contracts for equipment of all kinds have been the smallest of any month this year, rail orders being less than 50,000 tons. Last week railroads awarded contracts for bridge work calling for about 8,000 tons. The July fabricated contracts were only 80,000 tons against 160,000 tons in June.

The output of pig iron is now less than 26,000,000 tons annually, including charcoal as well as mineral fuel iron. It is estimated that the decrease in July was about 340,000 tons. The Steel corporation is now running 74 per cent of its blast furnace capacity. Business last week was again light and the lowest prices made within a year were touched on sales of both basic and foundry grades. Stocks are still accumulating. Total transactions in July were small, aggregating less than 200,000 tons in all distributing districts.

Stoppers Skeptics.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or piles, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove it's a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c at all druggists.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 1.—L. J. Etherington, an anti-saloon league special officer. He is alleged to have placed the noose about Etherington's neck. The arrest was made last evening at Delaware.

Bolton's saloon was one of the places raided at Newark on the day of the lynching. He is a political power at Newark.

Games Today.

Winona at Superior.

Darby's Band of Hope pulled down the third game yesterday from Wausau and then it rained.

Saturday the onward marchers grabbed the second game of the series from the visitors. Both scores were 4 to 3. There will be no game today. La Crosse will open tomorrow for three games and after this series the Killianites will be Darby's guests.

Our old college pal, "Rube" Marion turned from his researches into the mysteries of telegraphy to the fine art of hurling yesterday. "Rube" came back but he didn't stay long. The elongated flinger had curves, wobblers and straight ones. He had everything but a steering gear on his offerings. Somehow the ball fought shy of the plate although there were times when it seemed that the protests of Darby's outraged crew against McDermott's judgment were justifiable. Hughes, who succeeded Marion in the fourth stopped the visitors and Marion got the credit for winning. Hughes appears to be the pitching "find" of the season in this league. This is his first year in league ball. Lakoff started to twirl for the visitors but was taken from the slab early in the game. Dunbar succeeded him but the damage had been done.

Marion got a bad start. He hit "Dad" Cahill and then caught him off first. A missed third strike put Duchien on first. He went to third on Carter's infield out and scored when "Rube" tried to heave the ball over the grandstand. Dolan was walked and went to third on Schwab's bad heave to prevent him from pilfering second. Brody walked and stole second but "Rube" seen his duty and done it." He fanned Lundine for the third out.

In the second the visitors got another. Bond hit to left and was sacrificed to second, scoring on Cahill's hit. "Rube" again came to his own rescue when he fanned Duchien.

Darby's crew in response to the frenzied appeals of the gallery got a score in the same inning. Holstrom doubled to right and came home on Schwab's scratch hit after he got to third on Burns' fly to Carter. Duluth put the game away in the third. In this inning Mr. Lakoff was brought to the realization that this is an uncertain world and that life is composed of a succession of events, any one of which may contribute to the blighting of a young life. Jimmy Anderson was walked and George Anderson nobly sacrificed himself to Jim's ambition for second base. Kohl hit a hot one to Cahill who muffed it, Anderson scoring. Kohl went to second on the throw-in. Darby O'Brien, pinch hitter, slammed a screaming double to left and Kohl toed the rubber. Darby continued to third when Lakoff heaved wildly to the grand stand. He gave a base on balls and then got the hook. Dunbar succeeded him. Holstrom hit an ordinary fly to Cahill and Darby O'Brien, who was on his way home, returned to third when he saw the ball had been caught. Darby immediately started for home again and so surprised was Cahill that he stood watching the audacious manager. When he recovered and thought to throw the ball Darby was nearing the outskirts of the home plate. He slid over safely.

"Rube" In Trouble.

"Rube" ran into more difficulties in the fourth. Lundine hit safely to Jimmy Anderson, who threw him out when he tried to stretch his hit into a two-sacker. Bond was walked and Walliser advanced him to third with a single to right. Dunbar singled to left and Bond scored. "Rube" decided that he would postpone his come-back until the coming back was good. With two on bases Hughes, the young St. Thomas twirler, went into the box and from that time on the visitors never had a real chance to score. He walked Cahill, filling the bases, but Carter popped out to O'Brien, ending the danger. In the last twelve innings against Wausau and Eau Claire Hughes has not been scored upon.

In the next three innings only nine men faced Hughes. Dolan got a base on balls in the fifth, but was caught trying to steal second. In the sixth the Sox almost scored. Holstrom, who hit the pellet on the nose yesterday, got his second bingle. Burns, the new first baseman, singled to left. Schwab grounded and forced Burns. Schwab was safe at first. He tried a double steal with Holstrom, who was on third. Schwab negotiated his end of the deal without opposition but Holstrom was nabbed at the plate.

Holstrom went from first base to right field yesterday and the change was a good one. Holstrom played with ginger and pep and slapped the ball on the place where it would do the most good. Burns, a new first baseman from Winnipeg, showed up in good form and grabbed off a hit. The Sox are playing ball just now and if they maintain their present gait they will finish much higher up on the ladder than their present position.

The Saturday Game.

Schmirler celebrated his second come-back Saturday. He has been out of the game on account of illness. Jack's south wing was in good shape and he held Wausau to three runs and five hits. Duluth got four rns and six hits off Fennell. Wasau got a run in the second when Dolan got a base and took second on a wild pitch and scored on Holstrom's error. The second run came in the sixth when Carter singled and took third on Dolan's hit, scoring on Altermott's wild heave to home, after Schwab had thrown to Altermott to catch the stealing "Biddy." The visitors grabbed their final score in the ninth when Dolan knocked a homer over the left field fence.

Duluth plucked one in the third. Schmirler singled and J. Anderson got to first on a fielder's choice, the pitcher being retired at second. George Anderson scored. The Sox grabbed two in the next frame. Altermott was passed and Taylor stopped a pitched ball with a leg. Schwab singled and Altermott scored. Taylor and Schwab tried a double steal and while Schwab occupied the attention of several players between first and second Taylor crossed the pan. Darby's crew got another in the seventh when J. Anderson was walked. He took second on a passed ball and stole third during an argument over the fairness of a third strike that the umpire called on G. Anderson. Mr. G. Anderson and Mr. O'Brien ceased the discussion when they perceived that Mr. J. Anderson had done what was expected of him. On Kohl's hit to left J. Anderson scored.

EAU CLAIRE WINS IN EXHIBITION GAME.

Eau Claire walloped Superior yesterday morning in an exhibition game by the score of 6 to 5.

Darby O'Brien crew was to have played against Superior for the benefit of "Red" McCulloch and Clemens, Superior players who were hurt some time ago, but Darby got his dates mixed. He looked on the Superior page of the morning newspaper to get the correct view of the situation and read that the exhibition game was to be played between Superior and Eau Claire, which, it appears, was an error on the part of the writer. Darby, therefore, did not take his men across the bay and Eau Claire came to the rescue, thus making the newspaper's statement accurate, after all. Any charge of lack of sportsmanship against the Duluth team could come from those only who do not know the Irish manager and his players.

LOSE AGAIN ON SATURDAY

Duluth Oarsmen Are Defeated in Second Day of Regatta.

Bantams Unable to Stay on Course in Junior Four Event.

Kenora, Ont., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kenora and St. Paul rowing clubs at the second day of the Northwestern international regatta, won all events. Winnipeg was conspicuous by losing all in which its crews entered. The big surprise of the day of the whole regatta was the winning of the London and Lancashire trophy by the Kenora junior fours. This was a result that was entirely unexpected, and at the beginning of the race odds were offered at 100 to 1 against the Kenora crew.

The senior eights was a great race and St. Paul carried off the Almorion Paget trophy by defeating Winnipeg handily.

In the two days St. Paul was the most victorious club, securing five out of eleven events, Winnipeg took three and Kenora got the other three. Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth did not score.

The senior eights was a gruelling contest between Cochrane of St. Paul and McMillan of Winnipeg. The latter was on the verge of a collapse when he finished a length and a half behind the winner.

The best race of the day was the junior doubles, in which the home team won by a length. St. Paul and Winnipeg had a terrific struggle for second place, the Americans winning by three feet. The crews were well bunched until near the finish.

Duluth In Trouble.

The junior fours was a magnificent race to watch. There were six crews contesting. There were many accidents and bad starts before all got away, the Winnipeg crew fouling St. Paul, and being warned by Starter Celt. In attempting to cross ahead at the mile mark the Duluth four ran into the St. Paul boat, putting the latter out of the race and spoiling their good chances of winning. Not content with this, Duluth kept on its smashing career, nearly fouling the Winnipegs, and finally the Zenith City crew took the nerve out of the Winnipeg bantams by their erratic steering and Winnipeg ran into a log, damaging their boat so that it was useless. The race at the finish was between Winnipeg and Kenora, the latter winning by two lengths.

The Senior Eights.

The battle between the senior eights for the Paget trophy was for the last event and the one that held the greatest interest of all. The chances of the three crews from Winnipeg, Duluth and St. Paul were considered even and consequently betting was even. When the crews lined up the crowd was excited to the utmost degree. The water was calm and conditions ideal for such a race.

Striking out at a 40 clip, the three eights got well away and Winnipeg got a slight advantage and forged ahead a few feet. The speed slowed down considerably and each crew went to about 37. Winnipeg was going the best of the three and in a mile had secured a lead of a length, which made them look like winners. St. Paul at this time was rowing 35 and in great shape, and without any one hardly realizing it they drew past Winnipeg and Duluth. Winnipeg seemed to fall down toward the finish and, though they worked hard, could not draw upon St. Paul, who were increasing their lead all the time, and the American oarsmen pulled in ahead by over a length and a healf in 8:04. Duluth came in three lengths behind.

The summaries:

Senior eights—First, St. Paul; second, Winnipeg; third, Duluth. Time, 8:04.

Junior doubles—First, Kenora; second, St. Paul; third, Winnipeg. Time, 9:56 1-5.

Final—Kenora, Fulton. Time 6:45 3-5.

YACHT RACES AT BOAT CLUB

Three Cornered Tie in Class C—Superior Motor Boat Wins.

By winning the 32-foot classe race at the Duluth Boat club Saturday afternoon, the Allegro has four points in its favor in the contest for the Joseph B. Cotton cup, while the Minotaur has but two.

The Undine won in the 28-foot class Saturday, over the Feather and the Scud. This places these three boats in a three-cornered tie, the result of which will be watched with interest by all. The races scheduled for next Saturday in these two events will be postponed as the Scud and the Allegro will take part in the races at Oshkosh in the Inland lakes regatta.

The times in the two races follow: 32-foot class—Allegro, 2:12:10; Minotaur, 2:17:04.

28-foot class—Undine, 2:08:24; Feather, 2:15:46; Scud, 2:25:35; Merry Widow, 2:33:33; Zephyr, 2:35:52; Voyageur, 2:37:37; Peter Pan, 2:46:51.

The Viking started short handed and her points were not counted. The Agwinde, North Wind, Banshee and Yaqui did not enter.

In the ten-mile Ferro trophy race for the one design boat the "Dixit," of Superior, owned by H. V. Gard, won against a number of fast Duluth boats, making the time of 16¼ miles per hour. The "Mirest," owned by Dr. J. H. Jern, came in second, time 37:37, with Francis W. Sullivan's boat a close third at 37:53, and the "Ripple," owned by Marshall and Ames, in 38:08. The latter boat was the winner of the first race of the season, but in that race her record was sixteen seconds short of her Saturday's time, showing the great improvements made in the speed of these boats.

In the beginning of this race, the "Mirest" and the "Ripple" led, while the "Dixit" was fourth until the five-mile turn, when she passed all her leading rivals, and maintaining this lead to the finish.

The Edola is leading in the 18-foot races sailed on Wednesday nights. The points stand: Edola, 15; Thistle, 11; Frolic, 8.

The standings in the competition for the D. B. C. Burgee, which was won by the Scud, follow: Scud, 26; Peter Pan, 20; Feather, 17; Zephyr, 17; North Wind, 12; Merry Widow, 8; Vayageur, 5; Viking, 4; Agwinde, 1.

FINAL GAME IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Kennedy and Dickerman to Meet—Other Boat Club Events.

This afternoon the finals in the tennis tournament which has been in progress at the Duluth Boat club will be played off between Kennedy, who defeated Grady last Saturday in the semi-finals, and Dickerman. The winner in this contest will meet Mac Washburn next Saturday when the championship of the city will be decided. Washburn is last year's champion.

In the tournament for doubles, the games are being played off fast, and the finals will soon be pulled off. The winners will meet last year's champions, Graff and Grady.

During the latter part of this week a tournament for the junior championship will be started, and all members under 20 years may enter. George Stillman and W. W. Craig will receive names of competitors until Wednesday evening when the entries will be closed. The idea is to get the younger players interested. Two prizes will be given.

The girls' war canoe race between the Reds and the Blues will take place tomorrow evening at the Boat club, beginning at 6 o'clock. This race, which was to decide a tie, was postponed from Saturday evening. In case of another tie, a third race will be held next Saturday.

The United States training ship, Gopher, which is anchored but a short distance from the club, will be "at home" to the people of Duluth tomorrow evening. Upon this occasion, the boat will be on dress parade and all the "jackies" and officers will be garbed in their neat white suits. Boats will leave for the Gopher from the Boat club, and also from the Fifth avenue city dock, carrying any who may wish to inspect the training ship.

Many repairs and improvements have been made upon the ship this year, in preparation for the trip she will make to Buffalo. The reception will be held from 8 to 10 o'clock.

OLDFIELD IS WILLING TO MEET JOHNSON.

PHELPS WINS WESTERN TITLE

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 1.—Mason E. Phelps om Midlothian, won the Western amateur golf championship Saturday for the second time by defeating Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, the champion of 1909, by 2 up and 1 to play in a hotly contested match in the finals of the Western Golf association tournament at the Minikahda club. Phelps won the title for the first time in 1908 at Rock Island.

The winner played far better golf than his opponent and especially during the afternoon round. Evans was 2 up at the end of the morning round, the eighteenth being the only hole that Phelps won.

In the afternoon, however, the Midlothian youth started with a rush and evened the match at the end of two holes. After that Evans never was able to regain the lead and Phelps jumped to the fore by winning in the fifth, but Evans evened it again at the sixth. The seventh and eighth went to Phelps, making him 2 up, which was the biggest lead he had at any time. The ninth, tenth and eleventh were halved and Evans reduced Phelps lead to 1 up when he won the twelfth. That was the last hole that Evans could win and the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth were halved in par figures.

The match ended on the seventeenth green when Phelps ran down a six-foot putt for a 2 and won the hole. Evans missed a chance for a half on this hole when he sent a 20-foot putt one inch short of the cup. Evans played raggedly at times while Phelps played consistently.

LAW INTERFERES

With Running Dogs in North Dakota Field Trials.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the state game law which prohibits the running of dogs before Aug. 15, the North Dakota Field Trials club has decided to call off its annual trials this year. The meet held a year ago at Berwick, proved a failure financially, because of the new state law. In order to train the dogs had to be taken into Manitoba and that made the field trials unprofitable from the dog owner's point of view. Next winter the state legislative assembly will be asked to make some provision whereby the trials can again be held.

Pool Championship.

Frank Kendig, who claims the pool championship of the Northwest, will meet Ed Beers of Duluth this week in the Majestic billiard hall in a series of matches. The aggregate will be 625 points, 125 nightly. The first match will be pulled off tomorrow night.

Umpire Is Chased.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 1.—After Topeka had dropped both games of a double-header to Sioux City yesterday, a large part of the 2,000 fans, who had witnessed the game, chased Umpire Flynn off the ball field and followed him a mile and a half to town, where he was rescued by the police.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Heavy Receipts of Winter Wheat Cause Market to Sag.

Weather in Northwest Favorable to Harvest—Flax Is Erratic.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 1.—In a dull market today wheat declined. There was little support and cash markets were exceedingly weak. The run of winter wheat continued heavy. Kansas City got 1,152,000 bu over Sunday and 960 cars were reported on track there today. The situation was further depressed on account of favorable threshing reports from the Northwest. Poehler & Co., said that along the Minneapolis & St. Louis in this state the yields were running from 18 bu to 23½ bu to the acre. Hartford, S. D., reported 28 bu to the acre. The quality is good.

Weather conditions in the Northwest are favorable to a harvest without climatic impediment. The temperatures are fairly cool and there is no rain. The trade is disposed to await harvesting returns and the report of the government which will be issued Aug. 8 on conditions as of Aug. 1.

With the July option out of the way stronger cash markets are looked for. Prices are not strong and in some instances premiums have almost disappeared. Country acceptances, the Southwest wired, were somewhat heavier than on Saturday when acceptances were light. Practically no spring wheat has been sold to arrive. Cash wheat, traders think, will be considerably stronger if the millers get into the game.

Russian shipments are expected to be about 80,000,000 bu less than last year and repotrs from France are pessimistic.

The bulls think the decline in prices will check selling by the farmers in the Southwest and they believe the market is due for an upturn. As the shortage in the Northwestern crop becomes more apparent, they think, the situation will assume a more bullish aspect. The ease with which July was liquidated and the collapse of the efforts of bulls to sustain prices has given the traders more confidence in the September and future months.

July wheat lost ¾c, December ⅜c and May ⅛c.

Flax had a bulge shortly after the opening, but there was plenty of stuff offered and prices declined below the opening. Receipts of flax today made real seed available and the effect was noticeable in the falling off values. It is expected that the run of flax seed will continue moderately.

Shorts in July flax defaulted in about 2,000 bu, it is said. It is reported that a satisfactory settlement was made after the close. The leading long interest was the Spencer Kellogg company.

September flax lost 3c; October, 2¾c; November, 4½c, and December, 3c.

Cash wheat closed 6c over September; durum was ¾c off; oats, 1⅝c off and rye was unchanged. Barley sold at 58@64c instead of 60@55c as on Saturday.

MARKET GOSSIP

Argentine—Drought is still reported in northern provinces. Weather and soil favorable in southern, and wheat seeding going on rapidly.

India—Further rains have fallen and the situation at the present time is favorable.

Russia—Harvesting progressing rapidly in southern districts. Yields are better than expected, but the quality is poor. Extreme hot weather continues in the southeast. Reports from the spring wheat sections indicate crop not so favorable.

United Kingdom and France—Rains still continue, which is exceedingly unfavorable for harvesting.

Europe—The entire coterie of European wheat producing countries are experiencing wet harvest, and much anxiety is felt over the possible prospective losses both in quantity and quality.

United States—Spring wheat—The very favorable weather of the past week accompanied by rains in many sections has caused a more optimistic feeling, and many districts are now reporting that yields will be better than anticipated last week. Our two crop experts, Messrs. Le Count and Kinyon, have not seen anything in the situation to warrant them in changing their previous estimates, Mr. Le Count being for 146,000,000 bu in the three northwestern states, and Mr. Kinyon 75,000,000 to 85,000,000 bu for the Canadian Northwest, depending on the weather at time of filling.

Winter wheat—There is nothing further to be said regarding the winter wheat situation, as reports still are conflicting although the majority say that yields are better than expected, especially in sections of Kansas, Illinois and Indiana.

Corn—Drought conditions still continue west of the Mississippi river although Iowa and Missouri have received scattered showers, which removed the possibility of immediate losses. Northern Illinois, Michigan and sections of Ohio are also dry. Our reports from Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska have been the most sensational ever received by this house on corn condition. Six days of excessive heat ranging from 100 to 114 deg. and extending from the Texas line north to Northern Nebraska, has caught much of the corn in tassel, and undoubtedly our correspondents are correct when they state that damage will range all the way from 10 to 50 per cent, and in sections of Oklahoma to a total failure. Our Mr. Howard confirms the damage in Northern Oklahoma and Southern Kansas. As this letter goes out, the heat and drought still continue, with no signs of breaking, and weather indications are for a continuation of the drought conditions. Scattered showers throughout Iowa have relieved the situation in that state, although many sections are still very badly in need of general rains. The crop in all sections of the belt is now entering the critical period, and will require generous and ample rainfall to permit of it earing properly. Upon the weather of the next ten days will depend the question of the size of the corn crop for the year 1910.

Forecast for the week: There will be no general warm wave over the country this week. Moderate temperatures will prevail over the eastern section in the early part of the week, followed by somewhat higher temperatures in the Mississippi valley Tuesday and the Eastern states Wednesday. In the Northwestern states, Rocy mountain and plateau regions, temperatures will be nearer somewhat below the seasonable average.

July wheat is Waterman's deal. There is the best authority for this statement, although the latter has not shown in it at any time. He bought his wheat for July at the time of the collapse of his May deal, getting it around 93c, and has made a profit of over 15c a bu, or about $350,000. He has paid for 1,500,000 bu cash wheat this month, and total deliveries during the month by all interests were 2,000,000 bu. Deliveries yesterday were 685,000 bu, of which it is said that Peavy paid for 200,000 bu. Trade did not believe that there would be any squeeze in July until the last few days, when it became apparent from the congested condition of the elevator yards, and the inability to get the grain in store resulted in unnatural conditions and prevented the delivery of a great deal of wheat.

Broomhall says regarding Russia: "The yield of winter wheat is causing disappointment in the South, while the spring wheat crop has been brought to an early maturity by the prolonged drouth, and the kernels are small. A well-posted authority predicts that next season's wheat shipments will be fully 80,000,000 bu less than this year, which amounts to date for the season at 217,456,000 bu."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Tend Downward on News From Harvest Fields.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—With the harvest making rapid progress in the Northwest, and with returns, as a rule, exceeding expectations, wheat today showed a downward tendency. Foreign dispatches, however, did not indicate a bullish situation, and there was soon evident in the market a rallying power that had to be reckoned with. Cash demand was slow, but mills were said to be ready to take hold more freely. On the other hand, receipts were heavier than had been estimated. The opening was ¼c lower to ⅜@½c higher. September started at $1.03¼ to $1.03⅝, unchanged to ¼c up. A decline followed to $1.03⅛ and then an advance to $1.03⅝@1.03¾.

Local receivers were sellers. The effect was bearish in connection with the large arrivals throughout the West over Sunday. World's shipments were very heavy, especially from Russia. The close was easy with September at $1.02½@⅝ to $1.02⅝, a net decline of ⅝c to ¾@⅞c.

Cooler weather and a bearish crop report from Oklahoma weakened corn, but on the ensuing dip in quotations good buying set in, and recoveries took place in consequence. The market opened ⅛@1c down, with September at 63⅜@63⅞c, a loss of ⅛@¾c. Rapid fluctuations were witnessed between 63¾@64½c.

Steadiness later at about Saturday's final figures was attributed to crop damage reports. The close was at 63⅞c for September, a net loss of ⅛@¼c.

Oats were dull and the range narrow. September started a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at 37⅜@37½c, touched 37⅛s and rose to 37⅝c.

General liquidation by commission houses lowered provisions. First sales were at 5@10c decline, and there was a continuation of the recession. The opening for the September option was $21.50 for pork, $11.47½ for lard and $11.25@11.27½ for ribs.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Opening Prices Show Decline and Whole Market Turns Downwards.

Close Is Unsettled at About Lowest Prices of Session.

New York, Aug. 1.—Opening prices of stocks showed declines with the exception of a few of the Southwestern railroad stocks. The whole market turned downwards afterwards. Wabash preferred lost 1¼; Reading, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, Amalgamated Copper, Consolidated Gas and Anaconda, 1, and Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Kansas & Texas, American Smelting and Brooklyn Transit large fractions. Sloss-Sheffield Steel advanced 1¾, and Toledo, St. Louis & Western, ⅝.

Supporting orders and a demand from the shorts caused a quick rally which lifted some of the standard stocks to above Saturday's closing. The copper stocks were sluggish. Denver & Rio Grande preferred and National Lead advanced 1, American Can preferred fell 1½, Minneapolis & St. Louis 2 and St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred 2½.

Offerngs of stock were scanty during the second hour and light demand proved sufficient to sustain prices. The government report on cotton conditions was awaited by the speculative element. The London stock market holiday was an element in the dullness. Westinghouse Electric dropped 2¼ and raillied 1½. Union Pacific, Atchison, Chicago & Alton and Laclede Gas rose 1 and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 4½. Bonds were irregular.

Aside from an advance in Reading to 135⅛, which was not held, speculation was dull and uninteresting. Great Northern Ore certificates lost a point.

Chesapeake & Ohio turned weak, declining 1½. American Agricultural Chemical advanced 1½. Kansas City Southern yielded 1¼ and American Telephone 1. Prices were sagging again at 2 o'clock.

The market closed unsettled and higher. The weakness of Chesapeake & Ohio undermined the market. That stock broke 3⅜ to 65¾, last week's low price. Kansas & Texas fell 1⅝. Northern Pacific, New York Central and American Smelting 1¾. Southern Railway preferred, Kansas City Southern preferred and Republic Steel preferred 1½. The genral list sagged back to the early low prices or below. Supporting orders were encountered on the decline and prices rallied, but yielded.

The copper market opened fairly firm but quickly declined. Toward noon the market strengthened on short covering and from sympathy with the railroads which were stronger as the grain markets declined. Toward the close liquidation set in and values eased off below opening and under the close of Saturday from a fraction to a point.

The outlook for the red metal seems to be more encouraging. A common sense policy is in vogue and cut-throat competition has been eliminated. The effect of reduced production will not be reflected in the producers' statements for two or three months but there is no doubt that the output of he copper mines is being curtailed. The London metal situation is much firmer.

Copper exports for July as tabulated by the New York Metal Exchange were 22,875 tons. Producers report more staple conditions in the copper market. Sales last week are estimated at more than 75,000,000 pounds of which the United Metals Selling company is credited with 30,000,000 pounds.

Some of the Amalgamated mines are being worked only five days in the week, while a few independent producers in the Butte district are being operated six days in the week. At the North Butte a slightly better grade of ore is being mined and the average value has increased. East Butte, Tuolumne and Butte-Ballaklava are working a full week of seven days. The Butte Coalition is operating the Tramway mine only and is curtailing production. The copper metal output for the month of July amounted to 23,370,380 pounds blister copper.

Trading in this market was light. Red Warrior was the most active issue, the values fluctuating and closing at the low point for the day. Red Warrior sold at $2.12½, $2.18¾, $2.25, $2.12½ and $2.06¼. Shattuck sold at $2.25; Amazon at $2.87½ to $2.93¾; Calumet & Montana at 82c and 81c; Calumet & Corbin at 33c and 35c; Cliff at $1.12½; St. Mary's at 20c and Tuolumne at $2.37½.

Amalgamated sold at $61, $60.62½, $61.87½, $60.50, $60.62½; Steel common at $66.50, $66, $67.25, $66, $66.12½; Butte Ballaklava at $11 and $10.75; Calumet & Arizona at $50, $51 to $50; Greene at $6.75 to $6.62½; North Butte at $23 to $22.50, $24 and $23.50; Superior & Pittsburg at $10.50; Butte Coalition at $18 to $18.62½ and back to $18.

The coming fall will again give many who purchase now a very big profit. Amazon Development is due for a big advance. It is a development company with a strong crowd back of it. North Butte should sell much higher. Ballakiava should easily pick up a couple of points. Red Warrior is always active and should sell higher.

St. Mary is tightening up. I think this one is a good one at present figures.

The Scotts are slow but not easy to pick up. A few hundred shares would make a big difference in the price. This one will be a big producer and you can easily figure you are safe any place around present figures. MARTIN ROSENDAHL.

Safety-Pin Is Early Clue to Identity of the Fugitives.

Leneve Woman Is Center of Police Interest in Famous Case.

New York, Aug. 2.—In a signed dispatch from Quebec to the New York American, printed here toady, Mrs. Fred Ginnett of Rosellyn, N. J., who was a personal friend of Mrs. H. H. Crippen (Belle Elmore), writes that she positively identified as Belle Elmore's the diamonds taken from Dr. Crippen and Ethel Leneve when they were arrested.

"There was no doubt of them," her message reads, "and I explained how a woman remembers the jewels of her friends. But these were not the most valuable rings of Belle Elmore, and I said so. Her jewels were worth at least $5,000 and these were not worth more one-fifth of that.

"'That is all right,' said one of the local detectives, 'the other jewels have been found, we believe, in London pawn shops.'"

Safety-Pin Plays Big Part.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—That so humble an instrument as a safety-pin was the means of the discovery of the identity of Dr Hawley H. Crippen and Miss

MOB STONES THE WINNIPEG SHOPS

Rioting Marks Strike of Canadian Northern Car Men.

No one was reported hurt.

In another part of the yards thirty freight and passenger cars were set on fire and destroyed.

One hundred special police were put on duty this morning guarding the shops. Several arrests have been made.

LOST BOOKS REAPPEAR

United Wireless Company's Records Suddenly Turn Up in Court.

Grand Jury Inquiry Into Concern's Affairs Will Continue.

New York, Aug. 2.—Without any advance flourish of trumpets, the missing books of the United Wireless Telegraph company popped into view today. A messenger boy came into the federal building with them just before the expiration of the time limit set for their production.

"I got them up on Forty-second street, to deliver here," was all the boy had to say.

The federal grand jury investigation into the affairs of the company, which followed the recent descent upon the company's offices and the arrest of several of its officers, had been hampered, it was explained by the disappearance of eighteen of the corporation books. They were sought but there was no trace of them. The company's officers, when summoned, declared their inability to produce them.

Threatened Contempt Action.

The federal authorities were insistent, however, and in Judge Hand's court five men, who it was thought should know where the books were, were threatened with contempt proceedings unless the volumes were produced in court today.

Now that the grand jury has the books it is expected that the investigation will be continued. Action against several of the company officers was begun in connection with charges that the value of the stocks offered for sale had been misrepresented.

EIGHT WHITES IN JAIL AT SLOCUM

Militia Continue on Duty at Scene of Race Riots.

Palestine, Texas, Aug. 2. — Advices today from Slocum, where the recent race war occurred, are that no further disorders have occurred. Eight white men are in jail charged with being the ringleaders in the mob.

A special grand jury is making an investigation and hundreds of witnesses, both black and white, are on hand to testify.

The militia and rangers continue on duty. The saloons remain closed.

PREMIER WILL QUIT.

Other Peruvian Cabinet Members Will Retain Places.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 2.—It is definitely announced that all the members of the Peruvian cabinet, which resigned July 25, will retain their portfolios except the premier, Dr. Xavier Prado-Ugartche. No successor to the premier, who tendered his resignation rather than accept the terms of settlement drawn up by the three mediating powers, the United States, Argentina and Brazil, of the recent boundary dspute between Peru and Ecuador, has yet been named.

CUTTER IS TOTAL LOSS

Oldest Craft in Revenue Fleet Goes Ashore in Bering Sea.

Perry Is Prey of the Dangers Surrounding St. Paul Island.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The revenue cutter Perry, one of the smallest, but the oldest, of the fleet of that service, ran ashore on July 26 at Tonki Point, on the east side of St. Paul Island, one of the Pribiloff group, in the Bering sea, and is a total loss.

News of the loss of the Perry was telegraphed to the treasury department by Capt. Foley, the senior officer of the Bering Sea fleet. In his dispatch received today, he reported that the vessel filled with water and that there were no wrecking appliances near.

Stripped and Abandoned.

Capt Foley visited the wreck, ordered her stripped and abandoned and her complement distributed to other vessels. There were no lives lost.

The Perry was commanded by Capt. Haake and carried fifty officers and men. Capt. Haake has been assigned as an aid to Capt. Foley. Dispatches concerning the accident were sent from the Tahoma, by way of Nome, Alaska.

The scene of the wreck is an extremely dangerous locality, as a reef projects about one and a half miles off shore. It is foggy practically all of the time during July and August and there are no lighthouses, fog signals, buoys or other aids to navigation.

MINNEAPOLIS MAY GO TO JUNK PILE

Protected Cruiser's Fate Soon to Be Settled By Navy Board.

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—A naval board headed by Rear Admiral Thomas today began the task of the local navy yard of passing upon the fate of three cruisers, which but a few years ago were the undisputed leaders in their classes. The vessels are the armored cruiser Brooklyn and the protected cruisers Columbia and Minneapolis, built as the commerce destroyers of the navy. The three cost over $8,500,000, exclusive of their armament.

The Columbia and Minneapolis are in danger of being consigned to the junk piles. The Brooklyn, Admiral Schley's flagship in the Spanish-American war, and the vessel which played a very active part at the battle of Santiago, is in better shape and is likely to be ordered overhauled and modernized.

America Gets $3,000,000 Worth.

London, Aug. 2.—America secured $3,000,000 out of the $4,500,000 worth of gold available upon the open market today. The rest of the supply was taken for India and the continent. The price was ½-cent higher.

VICTIM OF GUNSHOT WOUNDS DIES AT THE COUNTY POOR FARM

County Attorney and Sheriff Had Not Heard of Shooting.

Was Wounded at Celebration in Aurora Boarding House.

Spoke Strange Dialect and Could Tell Little About His Case.

Martin Rounikar, 30 years old, died last evening at 6 o'clock at the poor farm hospital, following septic wounds resulting from a shot in the back inflicted by a shot gun in the hands of an unknown man.

The murderer is still at large. With the death of Rounikar renewed efforts will be made to capture him and bring him to justice.

The shooting occurred at a boarding house at a mine near Aurora about 1 o'clock Monday morning, July 4 last, after a quarrel, said to have taken place between the dead man and the slayer.

All information known by local authorities is that secured by Dr. C. J. Woolway, poor farm physician, through the assitance of Austrian interpreters. Neither Sheriff Bates nor County Attorney Norton had been advised of the shooting until informed this morning by a Herald reporter.

It was at first believed that the murderer was Louis Bohak, now wanted by the authorities for first degree assault, but investigation showed that he is connected with another crime, which occurred on July 13, when he shot a man at Biwabik. He is still at large, but his victim was not killed.

From information received from Rounikar, it is understood that on Sunday evening preceding the shooting, the men residing in the boarding house were holding a celebration, at which

SEAL POACHERS ARE ARRESTED

Japanese Schooner Is Seized By Revenue Service Fleet.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The seizure of another Japanese schooner poaching in the Bering sea, was reported to the treasury department today by Capt. Foley of the revenue cutter Tahoma, which is guarding sealing fields in that section.

DENY CLAIM OF VATICAN

Madrid Papers Comment Officially on Crisis in Spain.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Criticizes Merry Del Val's Course.

Madrid, Aug. 2.—The Liberal press officially denies the insinuations of the Vatican that it only demanded the withdrawal of the bill prohibiting further religious orders until the concordat had been revised, and also points out that the bill in question did not violate the concordat, which recognizes only three orders.

El Liberal says Pope Pius X is now sowing what will be reaped in following the advice of two Spanish carinals.

Criticises Merry Del Val.

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 2.—Garcia Prieto, the minister for foreign affairs, in an interview today in which he recited the history of the negotiations between Spain and the Vatican, denied that the holy see had adopted a conciliatory attitude.

Senor Prieto declared that Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, had adopted dilatory tactics from the first, alleging that the speech from the throne contained points against the Catholic religion.

"We protested our good faith and

URGES BOYCOTT ON AMERICANS

Letter From Chinese in San Francisco Reaches Hongkong.

Hongkong, Aug. 2.—The Chinese self-government society of Canton received today a letter from Chinese inhabitants of San Francisco enclosing $1,000 for the preliminary expenses of the propaganda now carried on by the society. In the letter the establishment of a boycott upon American goods, as a reprisal against alleged grievances of the Chinese at treatment in the detention sheds of Angel Island, San Francisco, is urged. The Cantonese society takes a sympathetic attitude and has called a meeting to discuss the matter.

PROMINENT DOCTOR MURDERED BY WOMAN OF THE UNDER WORLD

Pittsburg Is Scene of Another Sensational Murder Case.

Dr. G. M. Stuart Killed on Eve of Departure to Be Married.

Murderess Then Commits Suicide While Lying Beside Victim.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 2.—Dr. George Murray Stuart, a physician of the fashionable East end district, was found dead in bed with a bullet hole in his head last night at the side of Edna Wallace, a well known character of Pittsburg's under world, who, it is believed, shot the physician and then killed herself. Dr. Stuart was to have been married the 10th of the present month. The invitations to the physician's marriage were received here today.

Dr. Stuart's parents live at Winchester, Va., and his bride was to have been Miss Alice Pauline Simpson of Laws, Va.

In the bachelor apartment of Dr. Stuart the police today found his wedding garments carefully packed. He was to have left for the home of his intended bride tonight.

Will Not Receive Body.

Identification of the Wallace woman was made complete today when her body was viewed at the morgue by a brother-in-law. The woman's sister, who lives in Pittsburg, has refused to allow the body to be brought to her home.

PROBABLY THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF TEXAS

O. B. COLQUITT.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 2.—Hon. O. B. Colquitt has received the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. He had three opponents, the chief of them being Judge Poindexter. Of course, the Democratic nomination means election in Texas. Judge Colquitt attributes his nomination to the people's desire for local self-government, especially in the matter of prohibition. His chief opponent says that Judge Colquitt used underhand methods in his campaign and proposes to have the matter investigated.

CAST VOTES IN PRIMARIES

Electors of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri Go to the Polls.

Republican Regulars and Insurgents Clash in Sunflower State.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 2.—With indications of a fairly heavy vote the Kansas primaries, the culmination of a hot campaign fought on issues of almost entirely a national nature, opened this morning. They furnish probably the first real test of insurgent strength in the West.

Candidates will be nominated for congress and for state offices. In six of the eight congressional districts regular Republicans ask renomination. Six men of the so-called progressive element of the Republican party.

In the other two districts Victor Murdock and E. H. Madison, and leaders in that wing, have no opposition in their own party. Their only opponents are Socialists, and the insurgents are sure of renomination, it is generally conceded.

Claims of Insurgents.

The insurgents assert that they will

The convention then went into executive session for the opening of the supreme lodge.

$20,000 FOR NEW LIBRARY

Andrew Carnegie Gives Liberal Donation for West Duluth Branch.

Board Will Ask City Council to Buy Site for New Building.

Andrew Carnegie, the "steel king," will donate $20,000 for the building of a branch library at West Duluth, according to information which reached W. F. Bailey, a West Duluth member of the library board, yesterday.

A letter was received from James Bertram, private secretary for Mr. Carnegie, stating that the donation which had been requested by the library board in behalf of the people of West Duluth would be given, and that $20,000 would be at their disposal for this purpose.

Mr. Carnegie and his secretary are now in Scotland, the letter having been posted from Skibo castle. The letter will come as welcome news to West Duluth people, who have been agitating for some time for larger and more commodious quarters for the West Duluth branch of the public library.

L. A. Barnes, alderman of the Eighth ward and former member of the library board, was among those who took the matter up with Mr. Carnegie first, and after his resignation from the library board the matter was taken in hand by W. F. Bailey, his successor.

The matter will be taken up at once at the next meeting of the library board, which will be held in the near future. The city will probably be asked to buy a site, which a committee from the board will choose.

Up to a few days ago the branch library at West Duluth was housed in the Western State bank building, and last week the location was changed to the postoffice building on Bristol street.

The West Duluth branch has about 2,000 cards out among West Duluth residents and issues an average of about 150 books a day. About 2,500 volumes are supplied at the West Duluth branch, and at times there is a shortage felt.

POLICE AIR DISPUTE OVER DONKEY HARNESS.

Because Bert Clarke, 18 years old, a step-brother to George Booker, acquitted this spring of the charge of murdering his stepfather, Charles Clarke, bought a donkey and "forgot" to return the harness, T. Taraldsen of West Duluth, the former owner, has asked the police to intervene.

Taraldsen, who lives at 6223 Petre street, claims that he sold Clarke the animal several days ago and allowed him to use the harness for a short time, provided that he would return it. Taraldsen claims that Clarke has shown no disposition to restore the property.

Unless the matter is settled, Taraldsen threatens to swear out a warrant for Clarke's arrest. Clarke lives on Twenty-third avenue west, between Superior and First streets.

FOLLOWS HER BROTHER.

Grief Over Drowning Believed to Have Caused Death of Mrs. Giroux.

After brooding over the death of her brother, Emil Talbot, who was drowned July 1 in St. Louis bay while at work at the Alger-Smith mill, Mrs. Minnie Giroux, 28 years old, contracted a fever, from the effects of which she died last evening at the Duluth hospital.

A husband, David Giroux, and seven small children, survive her at 5102 Polk street, the family residence. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the home with burial at Calvary cemetery.

Since the death of her brother, Emil, a month ago, Mrs. Giroux was prostrated with grief and her nerves were apparently unstrung by the tragedy connected with her brother's death. She contracted typhoid fever, and her death last evening was not unexpected by relatives.

YOAKUM TALKS ON CROPS.

New York, Aug. 2.—B. F. Yoakum, president of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad company, gives it as his belief, on his return from a short Western trip, that the crop yields this year will be about those of last year, despite damage in some quarters. Summing up, he says:

"All things considered, the crop conditions the country over indicate a better yield this year than last."

PUBLICITY AGENT MAY BE EMPLOYED FOR DULUTH

Real Estate Exchange Considers Plans for Branching Out.

Members Also Discuss Listing Agreement for Own Benefit.

The broadening of the scope of the Duluth real estate exchange—for the benefit of the entire city by the employment of a publicity man and for the benefit of the real estate men and their clients by the adoption of an exclusive listing contract—was the subject of discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the exchange at the commercial clubrooms today.

Reports were received from committees on both projects and, although the sentiments expressed were favorable, no definite action was taken and the matter was referred back to the committees to report later, more in detail.

The real estate men were very favorable in their comments on the plan for the employment of a publicity man, who would have charge of an information and publicity bureau to place the advantages of Duluth as a manufacturing point, a business center, and a residence city before the outside world, to assist in the location of people coming into the city with business or industrial projects, and to disseminate information about the city among those interested or likely to becoming interested in investments here.

The committee made no report on the financing of the project, the capabilities and training of the man required for the work, or on other details that will have to be decided upon before the exchange can take definite action. The matter will be taken up again at the September meeting.

The adoption of an exclusive listing contract and the welding of the exchange members into a compact body, all working together to the common end that the interests of members and their clients may be guarded, and the handling of property facilitated, has long been in the minds of individual members of the exchange. The plan bids fair to be adopted, placing the exchange in line with progressive methods as adopted and followed in all of the larger cities of the country.

Under conditions as they are now, property is sold in haphazard fashion, or the attempts to sell are made in haphazard fashion. One piece of property is sometimes listed with a half dozen agents, the result being that none of them put forth their best efforts to work up a deal, which may be swung at the last moment to some other agent, with whom the property is also listed.

Under the plan as roughly drafted by the exchange committee, a uniform exclusive listing contract will be drafted. When property is listed with any agent, all others will be notified of the fact, and they will deal with the agent who has the listing. Under that system, clients will get the benefits of a smoothly working exchange, just as clients of brokers and grain commission men get the benefits of the stock exchange and the board of trade. The plan has not been worked out to a stage for adoption, but the committee will probably report finally at the next meeting.

A. C. Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio, who was elected president of the National Association of Real Estate exchanges at the annual session here in June, came to Duluth this morning and attended the meeting of the Duluth exchange. He made a short address, telling of the favorable impressions of Duluth delegates to the national association meeting had received and of their unbounded faith in the future of the city. He impressed on the members the necessity of adopting an exclusive listing contract if the exchange is to fulfill its true functions and urged the members to take the action as soon as the plan can be worked out.

SYMPOSIUM ON WEATHER

Records for July Show Mean Temperature of 67.2 Deg.

Was 4 Deg. Above the Average for Last Forty Years.

Snowfall in the month of July, according to the records of the local weather bureau station, which every month gets out a statement that is, in a measure—and a very considerable measure, it might be added—a meteorological balance sheet showing what's what as compared with what was some other time, amounted to 0.

Anyone who has paid even the most casual and merest passing attention to the weather—and perhaps quite a few people have done so, or more so—will not be vastly surprised to learn that the weather bureau bears them out in the surmise that there was no snowfall here in July. The record justifies the surmise.

Then there are other interesting things revealed by the statistics of the weather man. Any man who has spent any considerable portion of his career, otherwise blameless though that career may be, in compiling similar statistics, can explain just what it all means. It doesn't seem quite the proper thing for the weather man, dependent as he is on the variedness of weather for his means of livelihood, to say uncomplimentary things about the weather, but after fixing up three nice, straight columns of figures showing how the weather behaved on each day of the month, he summarized it this way: "Mean!"

However, probably he didn't intend anything importantly disrespectful, although the word occurs frequently in the printed matter which conveys the information at hand. Anyway, the thing figures out this way: The mean temperature for the month was, Max. 76.6; Min. 57.7; mean 67.2.

Those cabalistic signs indicate that if July's temperatures could have been waylaid before they and July got here, and had been nicely ironed out and spread evenly over the month, every day the temperature would have been 67.2 deg. It's too bad this wasn't done, for on July 1, just to get a good start on it's batting average, temperture leaped to 91, although the minimum wasn't so bad—69. Batting average (no—mean!)—80.

Ninety-one was high score all through the month. Only once was it equaled and that was on the 7th. 'Member that day?

(Queer. There are places on this sheet where it says, simply and without any emphasis, "blank." Usually when one sees that he's likely to imagine the author desires to use strong language but decides to leave it to the reader's imagination. But then, the weather has a tendency to make men peevish.)

As to the atmospheric pressure, that seems to have been mean, too—29.91, it says. It was "reduced to sea level; inches and hundredths," the price list, or post-program explains.

Then comes the temperature again. It was highest on the first, although it got there again on the 7th. But the second score could not stand because the temperature was penalized. The mean on the first was 80; on the 7th it was 77. Meanest one wins.

Precipitation.

Total this month, 3.89; snowfall, 0. Greatest precipitation in twenty-four hous, 2.05 on July 23 and 24; average of this month for forty years, 3.67; excess of this month as compared with averages of forty years, .22; accumulated deficiency since Jan. 1, 7.91.

Wind—Prevailing direction, northeast; total movement, 9,426 miles; average hourly velocity, 12.7; maximum velocity, for five minutes, 40 miles per hour, from west on July 7.

Weather — (Just plain weather)—Number of days clear, 11; partly cloudy, 15; cloudy, 5; on which .01 inch or more of precipitation occurred, 11.

Neither aurora, solar or lunar halo; hail or sleet came to make its mark on the record of the month, but there were thunder storms on these days: July 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 16, 20, 23, 25 and 31.

Not such a bad record for one month to make, all by itself and the weather man.

SUGGESTIONS POURING IN

Many Names Are Offered as a Substitute for "The Boulevard."

Chicago Man Offers One Before the Presses Stop Running.

Chicago with its customary enterprise and its penchant for being on the job with both feet when there is anything going on, came to bat first in the contest which the "Bouevard editor" of The Herald is holding for the benefit of those who are dissatisfied with the present cognomen of the most picturesque roadway in the world.

Evidently the ink of The Herald's city edition was hardly dry when E. M. Bassler of the Windy City took a pen in one hand and a picture post card of the Spalding hotel in the other, and began to think of a name for Duluth's famous drive that had so many picturesque places, even when Proctor Knott visited this town, that the distinguished Kentuckian who stopped to admire the view every time it was worthy of his attention, declared with emphasis that never before had he drunk so many mint juleps in one day. P. Knott, incidentally, carried his mint with him.

With thoughts recurring to that dear old Chicago town Mr. Bassler conceived the names, "The Elevated," and "The Elevated Road." He thinks "Bull Road" is niftier than "Boulevard."

W. W. Billson withdrew his attention from his law books long enough to write the following: "How would 'Coronet Drive' answer Mr. Patrick's purposes? The word 'Coronet' is about right in length, is notably euphonious, has an aroma of distinction and seems to be suggestive of, and to be justified by, the crown like fashion in which the drive encircles the brow of the hill."

"Zenith Terrace," "The Bowling Green," and "Irish Sward," are suggested by William Dreves, merchandise broker of Duluth and the Twin Cities.

Mrs. Florence B. Bate of 30 Seventh avenue east likes the name, "Scenic Road," and Leo G. Marlow appears to be of the same mind for he nominates "Duluth Scenic Drive," "Zenith Scenic Drive," "Zenith City Scenic Drive," "Zenith City Lookout Drive," and "Duluth Harbor View Drive."

"Aerial Shelf," and "Cloudcap Terrace," are the flossy names proposed by C. E. Gilman. "K. E. B." uses the idea of scenery in a variation as follows: "Lake View Drive," "Lake View Hill Drive," "Grand View Boulevard," "Grand Esplanade," "Lakeview Terrace Boulevard," "Grand View Boulevard."

The Herald will give $10 for the most appropriate name for the boulevard that crowns the city's jagged heights. The selection will be made by the park board.

Immigration Commissioner Tells of Organization to Boost Wisconsin.

A. D. Campbell, state commissioner of immigration, who is an organizer for the Wisconsin Advancement association, which purposes to advertise the state systematically with the view of bringing new settlers to Wisconsin, spoke before a fair sized audience last evening at the Commercial club rooms.

"Quit chasing rainbows in the West," said the speaker, "and settle down in your own state, which offers the homeseeker much more in return." The speaker claimed that all dry farming could be considered as a "fraud" and said that it was his firm conviction that it is the most expensive, laborious and destructive system of farming known to civilization.

C. P. Craig of Duluth, was also a speaker at the meeting.

SMALL INCREASE IN TAX ROLLS EXPECTED.

Owing to the fact that during the past year, a vast amount of valuable property has been taken off the tax rolls and has been added to the tracts devoted to railroad purposes, it is not probable that the tax rolls will be increased much this year despite the fact that there has been a large advance in values all over the city.

City Assessor Tiedman is preparing the rolls, but as yet has not given out any figures as to what the assessment will probably reach. The board of review met yesterday but when informed that the rolls would not be ready for a few days, adjourned until Sept. 1.

Mr. Lenroot is very optimistic regarding the indorsement of Senator LaFollette for re-election to the United States senate. "He will be indorsed by a two to one majority in the September primaries," said Mr. Lenroot, "and it only remains to be seen whether or not the people will send men to the legislature who can be bribed."

PRINCE TSAI TAO IS BACK AT CHINESE CAPITAL.

Pekin, Aug. 2.—Pekin was surprised this morning by the arrival unheralded of Prince Tsai Tao, uncle of the young emperor, whose long and extensive recent tour through the United States and Europe caused considerable comment. Prince Tsai Tao wished to extend his stay in Europe, but was ordered to return quietly to Pekin, the measure being evidently intended to prevent any anti-dynastic incidents, against which the government has lately taken unusual precautions.

ALSOP CLAIMS PRESENTED.

American and Chilean Cases Ready for King George.

London, Aug. 2.—The American ambassador, Whitelaw Reid, and the Chilean minister, Senor Gana, presented today to the British foreign office their respective cases on the Alsop claim, which has been submitted to King George as arbitrator.

The claim is based upon large sums of money advanced to the Bolivian government in 1874 in exchange for valuable concessions, the government contracting to return part of the loan from customs receipts at the port of Arica. Arica passed to Chile in war before the contract was fulfilled, and in 1885, following representations by the American state department, Chile agreed to assume the obligations of Bolivia to the company. The promise was not fulfilled and negotiations to recover the sum claimed, which now amounts to more than $1,500,000, have been dragging ever since.

Finally, the United States and Calle reached an agreement to submit the case to the late King Edward of England as mediator, and after his death to his successor, King George. Chile has deposited the amount claimed in London, to be paid over in case the award is in favor of the American claimants.

DIVES INTO LAKE AFTER FRIEND

Milwaukee Man Makes Heroic But Vain Attempt at Rescue.

Kenosha, IWs., Aug. 1.—Nels Thompson of Milwaukee, 43 years of age, a sailor on the schooner Jura, was drowned in Lake Michigan Sunday. He went down only after Thomas Peterson of Milwaukee, a cook on board the vessel, had made a most heroic effort to save him.

Peterson was in his galley when Thompson fell overboard in attempting to step off the cabin, and, notwithstanding the fact that a heavy sea was running, he dived into the lake with his clothes on. The two men struggled in the water for more than ten minutes and Thompson, who could not swim and who had become deperate through fear, tore the shirt off his rescuer while the latter was atempting to save him.

The members of the crew launched a yawl, but before it reached them Thompson had sunk.

New Lighthouse.

A lighthouse has been established by the Canadian government on the Sanganash island, on the north shore of Lake Superior, according to information received yesterday by the local hydrographic office. It is the fifth order, fixed white light, thirty-six feet above the water and visible for eleven miles from all directions. The lighthouse is a white square wooden dwelling, with the lantern rising from the reef.

About Aug. 10 the light vessel, No. 56, will be moored in about forty-five feet of water, on the northeasterly end of Indiana shoals, on the southerly end of Lake Michigan. The gas and bell buoys, which have been there for some time, will be discontinued.

PROHIBITION CLUBS MEET

Workers in Temperance Cause Gather at the Y. M. C. A.

John A. Shields, field secretary of the state Prohibition committee, met members of the Prohibition clubs of the city and range last evening at the Y. M. C. A.

His main talk of the evening was the influence of the young men in the fight against the liquor traffic. He quoted Abraham Lincoln, who said in the '60's, "The young men are coming, we are going to win now."

Mr. Shields gave several instances of the sacrifices made by young college men who had enlisted in the campaigns in Minnesota, and other states. One young man, after working all summer, returned his surplus, earned over expenses, to the state prohibition committee, and went back to college and washed dishes and did odd jobs to pay his way through the following school year. Another was the son of the highest paid attorney of the brewers in the state, who was practically repudiated by his parents, and refused an offer to take a position with a brewing company which paid three or four times the salary offered by the prohibitionists, in order to do the good work which he was convinced was the thing he ought to do. Mr. Shields said "All political combinations in the world, or all the devils in hell, cannot defeat such a spirit as that. It is bound to win."

After ice cream and cake were served in the association lunch rooms by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., L. A. Simonson, chairman of the central committee, introduced I. K. Lewis who spoke on the topic: "A Time for Patriotism in Politics." B. N. Wheeler spoke on "Work For and By Individuals."

A definite plan of campaign was submitted by George L. Briggs, organizer of the state prohibition committee, who made a brief statement of what has been done in the Duluth districts, and a prophecy that the coming election would see still larger gains in the prohibition legislative vote.

A short meeting of the central committee was held after the adjournment of the general meeting. Mr. Shields goes to Hibbing today and will remain on the range during the week, returning to Duluth for three meetings next Sunday. He speaks at Gilbert Thursday evening, Aug. 4; Virginia, Ag. 5, and next Sunday afternoon in Merritt's grove, Duluth. At Hibbing he will speak in Taplo hall. His Duluth dates, following next Sunday are: Duluth Heights, Monday evening, in the church; Tuesday evening, Victor hall, West Duluth, and Wednesday evening, Aug. 10, Lakeside town hall. He will probably be in Two Harbors Sunday, Aug. 14, for an afternoon meeting.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Everybody Will Help to Solve the Problem of the Day---Prohibition Field Worker in the County---New Candidate in the Fifty-First---Congressman Miller on the Defensive.

Nobody knows the answer, but almost everybody is willing to supply one. With John Lind on the steamer headed for Alaska and the Democrats of the state, in common with the Republicans, wondering if eventually he will accept the Democratic nomination, political writers are supplying a flood of information about what the politicians say of the situation and about what the writers think of it. It is all very interesting, of course, but until Mr. Lind lets the public know what his course will be no one can say what the outcome is to be.

All Willing to Help.

Fred W. Johnson, James C. Haynes, John Jenswold and even Dan W. Lawler are being mentioned as more or less probable selections for the place at the head of the ticket in the event that the state central committee finds it necessary to make a choice.

Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, says he will not accept Lind's name as the Democratic nominee until he hears from Lind in some official way, and that in any event the attorney general must pass on the question whether Lind, as a member of the board of regents, is eligible.

Chairman Frank A. Day has been in Fairmont a couple of days and says the Democratic state committee will not be called together until next week. It may be longer than that before the committee meets to perfect its organization for the campaign. The thirty members at large, to be named by Chairman Daly of the convention, have not been appointed, and the county representatives' names are not known. However, there is no need for haste in this respect, or in any other, perhaps.

Chairman E. E. Smith of the Republican state central committee, says he will call his committee together in St. Paul a week from Thursday, which will be Aug. 11, when campaign preliminaries will be disposed of and state headquarters opened in the New York Life building.

John A. Shields, field secretary of the Prohibition party of Minnesota, is in the city in his official capacity and will make a trip over the ranges to boost the cause he represents. Mr. Shields takes a hopeful view of the election prospects from a party viewpoint and says the Prohibitionists are certain to elect at least six members of the lower house of the legislature. Eight or twelve others may be counted as strong possibilities, he says.

Prohibitionists Have Some Fond Hopes.

"To quote Abraham Lincoln," said Mr. Shields, "'all we want and what we want is that the people who believe with us shall quit voting against us.'"

The Prohibition party is not in complete sympathy with the activites and aims of the Anti-Saloon league, holding that that organization is committed to a policy of political expedients, while the Prohibition party is one of principles.

W. J. North, who has been an employe of the Gay-Sturgis company in a responsible position for about four years and is one of the most popular young Democrats in the district, is being urged by some of his friends to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the house in the Fifty-first. It has been said frequently of late that many voters, irrespective of party, are convinced it would be a good thing to have a Democrat or two or three from Duluth and St. Louis county in the legislature next winter, and his friends say Mr. North is well qualified for one of the places. He has not indicated a definite determination to make the run, but may do so soon.

W. J. North May Try For the House.

One lone prophet, all by himself, may be without honor in his own country, but when they're bunched and have the goods, it's almost impossible for said country to abstain from doing some honor to said prophets. Which remark is not very enlightening in itself, but considered in relation to the appended editorial, copied from the News Tribune of this morning, it may be assumed that the philosophy of it has percolated, so to speak. The editorial, entitled "A Bunch of Posies," is as follows:

St. Louis County At The Convention.

"If our Democratic brethren will permit, the News Tribune will be pleased to hand them a bouquet from its conservatory in appreciation of the way they played ball at the late Democratic unpleasantness in Minneapolis.

"They were a credit to St. Louis county. They knew what they wanted, kept their heads as well as their dignity, and made friends for Northern Minnesota. It is a pleasure to note, among other things, that Judge P. E. Brown is on the Democratic ticket.

"This solves what might have developed an unpleasant situation. It is noticed, too, that all Northern Minnesota has asked is in the platform. It is, indeed, noticed that about all the delegation from St. Louis county wanted was done, and this without disturbing the general hilarity of the occasion. "With the utmost sincerity and heartiness we congratulate the Democrats of the county, and extend to the delegation a double handful of forget-me-nots."

From this time on the ambition mill may be expected to turn out a multiplicity of candidates for the house and senate in all parts of the state. The consistently caustic and incredulous editor of the Madison Independent Press takes a characteristic view of these candidacies when he savagely remarks that "the politicians may talk of a thousand things, but the principal thing at stake is the job and the salary hitched onto it. That's the main thing with the whole bunch of them." However, most Minnesota voters are likely to take a more charitable view of aggressive patriotism and elect desirable candidates.

Products of The Ambition Mill

Among the new, revived or reiterated candidates these are noticed:

A. J. Schaeffer, who recently sold the Adrian Democrat to M. E. Mehrton of West Virginia, is expected to become a candidate for the senate from the Fifteenth. S. B. Bedford, the Republican incumbent, has filed for re-election.

G. B. Bjornson of Minneota, in announcing that he will not be a candidate for the senate from the Seventeenth, says he feels confident that with the support offered him he could make a winning run—"and this makes the inability to go into the race more a matter of regret." His duties as postmaster and publisher preclude his entering the race, he explains.

A. J. Rockney of Zumbrota, speaker of the last house, wants to go to the senate. He admits it and says he will file sometime this week.

"So far no one seems to be after Senator Alderman's scalp" in the Forty-eighth district, says the Motley Mercury, "and he will probably go into the primaries without a contestant."

Senator Ahmann of Torah, Stearns county, who was the Democratic member from the Fifty-fourth district in the two last legislatures, is expected to have an easy time getting back.

Ole O. Sageng has settled all speculation as to what his goal will be this fall by filing for re-election to the senate.

R. W. Holes of Pine Island, Goodhue county, has filed as a candidate for the house from the Zumbrota district. He is editor of the Pine Island Record and village clerk. A. J. Rockne, speaker of the house, was the member from that district, the Twenty-ninth, two years ago. Referring to his candidacy, the Cannon Falls Beacon says if he doesn't get it "we'll be darned mad."

A. L. Thompson has made formal announcement of his desire to secure the Republican nomination for the house from the Sixty-first district, where there will probably be a three-cornered fight between P. O. Ingberg, who is avowedly a candidate, Mr. Thompson and another, who has not come out. Thompson's home county, Mahnomen, is insistent upon the justice of its claims to representation.

Edward St. J. Condon of Minneapolis, a lawyer, has filed as a candidate for the house from the Fortieth district, which was represented in the last legislature by F. E. Nimocks and F. B. Wright.

L. D. Brown of Little Falls has filed for renomination and re-election as representative from the Forty-eighth district on the Republican ticket.

K. Wefald was indorsed for the Democratic nomination for representative from Clay county by the Democratic county convention there.

Herman Nelson, who represented the Fifteenth—Nobles-Murray—district in the lower house two years ago, has announced he is a candidate for renomination and re-election.

Milo Young has filed as a candidate for the house from Morrison county, which already has four other candidates in the field for the Republican nomination.

It is probable that Dr. Stone of Park Rapids, who was indorsed for the Republican nomination for representative by the county optionists, will not make the run. L. H. Rice of the same town being in the field for the place.

Frank Minnette of Sauk Center, who was a member of the house in 1903, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fifty-fourth district. His legislative record was good.

Edwin F. Whiting of Balaton, in the Seventeenth district, is expected to file as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the house, he having been boomed for the place early in the game, but declined to become a candidate so long as G. B. Bjornson, editor of the Minnesota Mascot, was a possible aspirant. Mr. Bjornson having announced that he will not make the run for the house, Mr. Whiting's friends are renewing the suggestion that he enter the race. Representative C. K. Melby of Minnesota asks for re-election, however.

* * *

J. S. Arneson, one of the most widely known and most distinctly live wires among the younger men active in Minnesota politics, is making his presence felt on the range, where he has pitched his tent at Chisholm and is in the full swing of action as editor of the Chisholm Tribune-Herald. Mr. Arneson is a Republican of whom Sam Y. Gordon said in a recent issue of his paper, the Inter-Lake Tribune, "Jim will give the range a wideawake newspaper." And Mr. Arneson has demonstrated the soundness of the prediction.

New Live Wire In Range Sanctum.

Speaking of a decided favorite of Northern Minnesota, he says:

"Mayor Smith of Eveleth, has resigned to take up his campaign work for the Republican party. And Walter's work for the ticket is not to be sneezed at. He takes to politics like a duck to water. In the preconvention campaign that smile and handshake of his was a distinct feature, and if the ladies could vote he would keep right on going till he occupied the governor's office. But then he may do it anyway."

* * *

Congressman C. B. Miller, whose candidacy for re-election is being bitterly opposed in many quarters by Republicans, has sent out a letter defending himself on the charge that he has violated pledges made to personal supporters in his last campaign. The Aurora News, acknowledging receipt of such a letter, says non-committally: "This matter is being gone into thoroughly by the newspaper editors."

Mr. Miller Is On The Defensive.

Stating, but far more bluntly, that there is an old saying to the effect that the man who will prevaricate will misappropriate, the Virginia Enterprise remarks:

"We should dislike to think that such an axiom might apply to some certain congressmen who lied to their constituents during the last campaign as to what they were going to do to Joe Cannon down in Washington."

The Hibbing Tribune, under the caption "The Reason Why," says:

"It is understood that the people of the Eighth congressional district will not ask for any campaign pledges of Mr. Miller this year. His record for repudiating all his promises to the people is so absolutely untarnished by so much as a single lapse into keeping faith that asking for promises is a useless business.

"If Mr. Miller will refrain from making any voluntary pledges he will be able (if re-elected) to [illegible] Cannon again without again perjuring himself."

Of Mr. Miller's opponent the Anoka Free Press says:

"Alfred Jaques of Duluth was in Anoka Tuesday greeting old friends and making new ones. Mr. Jaques is a pleasing man to meet and gives one the impression of ability and sagacity. He wants to be the Democratic candidate for congress from the Eighth district."

The Ely Miner petulantly demands to know "who in h— is Jaques?" Well, a good many Republicans say he is the man who is going to succeed Miller in congress next March.

BRING SUIT ON TIMBER CONTRACT

Parties Claim There Was Misunderstanding as to the Terms.

A misunderstanding of the terms of a contract is the basis for a suit which was started this afternoon in the district court before Judge Dibell. Abel Nelson and Erick Erickson, doing business under the name of Nelson & Ericson, are suing Alger-Smith & Co. for $1,333.66, alleged to be due them for timber cut from their land in section 26, township 52-12.

It is alleged by the plaintiffs that a contract was entered into between the two parties on April 21, 1908, in which the timber was to be sold to the defendants. It was stated in this agreement that the timber should be scaled by the surveyor general before the company should cut it.

Previous to this agreement the state surveyor general had scaled this timber, it is averred. However, the plaintiffs claimed that the lumber company was aware of the fact that the state surveyor general never rescales lumber, and so went on to cut the timber, and converted it into lumber.

Nelson & Ericson claim that the timber was worth $3,330.66, of which amount all has been paid except $1,333.66. The lumber company, however, claims that the timber cut was valued at $2,425.29, of which only $413.75 is due, and they aver that they have offered the plaintiffs to pay this amount.

New Booklet of Duluth.

A local real estate firm has produced a booklet which marks an entirely new departure in real estate advertising. Use has been made throughout the booklet of two color Ben Day halftones over which the type is struck. The combination of the two colors obtained by the two plates gives a third color to which the color of the paper adds a fourth, while the Ben Day process permits of many different tones. The type is printed in olive-green, making each page appear in five colors. Although so many different colors and tones are used, the illustrations behind the type are toned down so that the effect is extremely soft and rich. The body of the booklet is printed on a rough-finished hand-made stock, giving the illustrations the effect of water-colors, while the cover is of heavy cream-colored stock, also hand-made, on which the letters "C. V. P." in green and gold are embossed. It is bound with dark green silk cord. This booklet was prepared under the direct supervision of the MacKintosh Advertising Agency of Duluth, for W. M. Prindle & Co., to advertise Crescent View Park, a select piece of property which will be placed on the market in the near future. It is by far the most artistic booklet ever used for commercial purposes, and reflects great credit on all who have had anything to do with its production.

UNABLE TO FIND INTERPRETER

District Court Case Is Dismissed for Novel Reason.

Because it was impossible to secure an interpreter, the $16,000 damage suit of Sam Coffero against the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company was dismissed in the district court this morning. It was started yesterday afternoon before Judge Dibell. Coffero claimed he was injured while working in the Crosby mine, when he was crushed between an ore car and a pile of debris, when the ore car was derailed.

Everything was in readiness for resuming the case this morning, the jury having been drawn and sworn in, and both sides lined up with their many witnesses. The plaintiff and his witnesses, however, were unable to talk English, and it was necessary to secure the service of some interpreter. All efforts to get one were of no avail, and a motion was made to dismiss the case, which was granted by the court.

Cando, N. D., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.—Instead of leading the girl of his choice to the marriage altar today, Ashford Cool of Hansboro lies cold in death, buried under six feet of sod. Miss Lucile Phillips of Hansboro was to have been wedded to him this afternoon. Cool was a victim of sunstroke at Hansboro several days ago, being stricken while at work on the roof of a small building. He died in the local hospital, his bride-to-be being at his bedside when the end came.

Two Weeks' Bride Dies.

Cando, N. D., Aug. 2.—To die only two weeks after her marriage was the fate of Mrs. Lester O. Warford, formerly Miss Affa Wallace of Warsaw, Ind., and at one time a teacher in the local school. The marriage of the couple had taken place in Warsaw and they were in Brooklyn on their honeymoon when she was stricken with diphtheria, and death came very rapidly. The stricken bridegroom is the pastor of a local church.

Colewell, secretary and manager of the Missouri Slope Brick & Tile company of this city, was killed Monday at the Russell - Miller Mill company's flour mill, a mile west of the city. Details of the accident are lacking, but it is understood he was killed in the rope drive. He was about 32 years old and came here from Grinnell, Iowa, six years ago. Mrs. Coleman and daughter, 3 years old, are visiting relatives in Iowa.

NEW LAW TO TAKE EFFECT

Ordinance Levying Wheelage Tax Will Be Enforced Beginning Thursday.

Blanks and Licenses Now in Hands of City Clerk.

The wheelage tax will be enforced in Duluth beginning Thursday.

The blanks and licenses have all been prepared by City Clerk H. W. Cheadle and he expects to do a rushing business for the next few weeks. Incidentally the city will garner between $15,000 and $20,000 from the wheelage tax, which was authorized at the last city election.

The money will be applied strictly to maintaining the streets and avenues in the city limits. Many of them are sadly in need of repair. The board of public works will find plenty of use for all the cash that it can get.

It is claimed that the pavements in Duluth are not serviceable much more than half as long as they would be because of lack of proper care. In most instances the city has received good value for the money that has been spent for pavements, but lack of funds has made it impossible to give them the attention to make them last several years more. There are many highways now which will be given a new lease of life if they get prompt care. Some of them are in pretty bad shape, and others are just beginning to show the lack of repairs. If these small ruts and cracks are allowed to stay it does not take long before they cover a considerable area.

The tax ranges from $3 for a single horse vehicle to 50 cents per horse power for automobiles and $10 per ton for big trucks. The autos were put on a horse power basis for the reason that the larger and more powerful the engines the more damage the cars do to the street. The original ordinance taxed them on seating capacity. The trucks were put on a tonnage basis rather than a horse basis because of the hills. More horses are required than would be the case in a city where there are not so many hills.

The ordinance is considered one of the best that has been drawn in the city, outside of those granting franchises to railroads. Each person taking out a license is required to take oath as to the correctness of his statements. Those having more rigs than horses pay on half the excess. Those getting this benefit are largely owners of livery stables. They have to have different styles of carriages to fill their orders and they cannot all be in use at the same time.

At the same time the above amendment to the charter was passed another was carried enabling the conference committee to levy not to exceed one-half mill as a supplement to the wheelage tax. If the full amount is levied by the conference committee this fall, about $18,000 will be raised in this way. Both taxes would bring the city a total of about $35,000 to $40,000 a year, which would be applied to street improvements on local streets. Part of the money obtained in this manner will undoubtedly be spent on some of the roads leading into the city. Some of them are not in very good condition, but the city has been so short of money that they couldn't reach them. It has been much more than the board of works could do to take care of the thoroughfares in the central part of the city which have already been payed.

This will give the city an opportunity to better the condition of some of the bridges. Considerable work has been done on them the last two years, particularly along the route of the proposed street car line to the steel plant. But scores of them are almost unsafe for travel. This will be possible because the wheelage tax will so relieve the board of works fund that money can be spared for the bridges.

BABIES SUFFER FROM SUMMER SKIN TROUBLES

Immediately Benefited by Poslam, Which Soothes, Cools and Heals.

Mothers and those having the care of infants and young children which are chafed and irritated by skin eruptions and rashes will appreciate the cooling, soothing and healing properties of poslam, particularly during the heated term, when these disorders are the principal cause of fretting and ill humor. Poslam contains nothing which can in any way injure the most delicate skin and may unhesitatingly be used in all cases. "My little boy had eczema on his head in the most dreadful form for three summers. We spent dollars on various medicines to no effect. After trying sample of poslam I saw an improvement, and in a short while als head was entirely healed," writes Mrs. W. E. Hunt, Kingstree, S. C.

In all skin troubles poslam produces immediately noticeable results, stopping all itching and rapidly restoring the skin to normal condition.

A special 5-cent package of poslam is prepared for minor uses and this, as well as the regular $2 jar, is on sale by all druggists, particularly the Lyceum pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co. in Superior.

But no one is asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

In California the insurgent movement is strong, and many Republicans who have always stood by the party will support the insurgents at the polls in the coming primaries. Many hitherto 'old-line' Republicans believe that the party is doomed to disintegration and that a new party will be the result."

After the excessive heat in the East, Mr. Bronson said he was prepared to pay many compliments to the summer climate of Duluth.

Convict Known as "Sinbad, the Sailor," to Gain His Liberty.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 2.—The state board of control, in session here Monday, authorized paroles for Charles Price, known as 'Sinbad, the Sailor," and Simon Sockness, also a murder prisoner. Action was taken in accordance with the commutation of sentence granted by the state board of pardons several weeks ago. Warden Wolfer is away, and the two men will not be released until he returns.

John Sherwood, a paroled convict, has been returned to prison to serve the remainder of his sentence. He has been working for a dairyman near town and in a dispute over a settlement, used a stone wrapped in a handkerchief, on his former employer and stretched him unconscious. Sherwood declares he struck in self-defense.

This machine is not as large as the Wright aeroplane, being only about one-third the size of that make. Its engine is a thirty-horse power affair, driving a six-foot propeller at the rate of about 1,200 revolutions per minute. H. B. Prather is scheduled to make the initial flight.

Mr. Ranck is enthusiastic over the scenic beauties of the famed Vermilion country, and says Head of the Lakes people should see more of that section which lies so comparatively close.

To show that it is wild and near to nature, Mr. Ranck says that one evening they saw a huge moose swimming in the lake to one of the many islands, while on another occasion a fine, large deer approached within a short distance of their camp and drank from the lake. The fishing is good, pike biting very rapidly, while the water of the lake just now is of a bathing temperature.

FAREWELL TO FENTON

Duluth Railroad Men Give Dinner to Retiring Omaha Official.

Regrets to Leave the "Best Fellows in the World."

A. M. Fenton, former district freight and pasenger agent of the Omaha here, who has been promoted to the position of assistant general freight agent of the Omaha system, was given a testimonial of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow railroad men of Duluth, when twenty-seven railroad men of this city sat down to an informal dinner at the Commercial club last night in his honor.

The dinner was given by the railroad men of Duluth, W. E. ("Bill") Witherspoon being the only outside railroad man present. Walter Burr, the man who succeeds Mr. Fenton here, was present at the dinner and had a few words to say on the cordiality of the Duluth knights of the rail.

"When I was in Butte, Mont.," said Mr. Fenton, "I believed that I had struck the most open-hearted loyal and cordial railroad men in this country. But after the good fellowship of this evening, and the cordiality and friendship that has extended through my stay in Duluth, and which has made my work here the most pleasant I have ever done, I am inclined to believe that the railroad men of Duluth are the best fellows in the whole country.

"It is because of this and other pleasant characteristics of this city, that I am loathe to move away from Duluth. I have always had great faith in the future of this city, not only as a railroad center, but also as one of the greatest cities in the Northwest. Here I have worked with the best railroad men in the country, and I know that these men are doing their share in making Duluth one of the really great railroad centers of this country.

"It is a pleasure for most men to labor in a field where they can see the material results of their work. The work of the railroad men in this city is surprisingly reflected in the growth of the city as a traffic center. That is one of the reasons, I presume, why most railroad men hate to leave this city. It is one of the many reasons why there is a shadow of regret in my leave taking.

"I have met cordial and fine men here. I refer to the business men of the city as well as the railroad men with whom my work has brought me in daily contact. It is therefore with genuine regret that I am saying goodbye to the city and the men with whom I have had such cordial business relations during the years I have been here."

Every railroad at the Head of the Lakes was well represented at the meeting last evening. The gathering included only the railroad men from this side of the bay, the Superior men not being included in the invitation.

Mr. Fenton will leave today for the Twin Cities, where he will take up his new work.

GREAT WESTERN BEING IMPROVED

General Passenger Agent Craig Says Large Amount Is Being Spent.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The finishing touches are being made to the extensive improvements made by the Chicago Great Western railroad this year. The betterments include the laying of heavier rails, construction of passing tracks, reballasting, the revision of grades and shortening of curves.

"Except for a little on the Eastern division, all the work mapped out for this year has been finished," said A. L. Craig, general passenger agent, who was here yesterday morning. "The Chicago Great Western has spent $10,000,000 this year in improvements and the purchase of new terminals. The expenditure of such money is seen in the improvement of the service. We pulled out of Chicago the other evening a train of nine cars, traveling at the rate of fifty-seven miles an hour. We will shortly have a race track."

Vice President J. W. Blabon and Mr. Craig are making an inspection of the entire system. They started in at Kansas City more than a week ago. On an average they are making about 100 miles a day.

SOO OFFICIAL VISITS DULUTH

W. R. Calloway Says Road Will Advertise the Zenith City.

W. R. Calloway, general passenger agent of the Soo, left the Head of the Lakes this morning for a general trip of inspection over the lines of the Soo that run west from Superior. The object of the trip of the Soo official, is to become familiar with the work that has been done on the new lines of his road.

Mr. Calloway stated while here that all the officials of the road were anxious to see the line into the city completed and through passenger service established between this city and Chicago. Mr. Calloway predicted that through service would be completed by the first of September, or at the latest by Sept. 15.

The Soo general passenger agent further stated that the Soo was doing a great deal to advertise the resources of this northern country, sending out pamphlets and literature descriptive of the resources of this section of the state. As one of the great traffic centers of the Northwest, Mr. Calloway stated that the Soo officials would give Duluth efficient service and would do their part toward making the city and surrounding country more prosperous because of the entry of the railway.

N. P. OFFICIALS ON INSPECTION TRIP.

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, and H. E. Still, assistant general freight agent of the same company, were in Duluth a short time last evening. The Northern Pacific officials came up here in a special car. The object of the visit to the Head of the Lakes was for the purpose of inspecting the terminals here. The officials will also make an inspection of some of the other divisional points before returning to the Twin Cities.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL ORGANIZE

Annual Meeting of Directors Will Be Held Saturday.

The annual meeting of the board of education will be held Saturday evening at the high school, at which time the old board will be called to order and an adjournment will be taken immediately. Following this action the new board will meet, organize and elect officers for the ensuing year. The only new men on the board will be Walter M. Evered of West Duluth, who succeeds L. C. Harris, appointed last spring to fill the unexpired term of J. J. Moe, resigned.

It is expected that at this meeting the final action on the dancing question will be taken. There has been considerable opposition to the dancing in public schools of the city, and many complaints have been made to the board. Many interested in educational work have upheld the dancing, and this controversy has been before the board for some time. Saturday's action is expected to settle the matter for all time.

LOOKING FOR OWNER OF TWO TONS OF IRON.

The police are trying to find the owners of two tons of angle iron, used in construction work, which is supposed to have been stolen somewhere on the bay or river. The iron was recovered by the Superior police, who caught the alleged thieves making away with it in a launch. Up to date no one has claimed the material, and the officers have been unable to find anyone who has lost anything of that kind.

GILLON WINS FOOT RACE

John Porterfield Is Bound Over to Grand Jury on Larceny Charge.

Sergeant Gillon, one of the oldest men on the police force, entered the marathon class this morning when he beat Wilfred Peterson, 7 years old, in a fast foot race on Lake avenue.

Wilfred ran away from the Children's home yesterday, and the police were asked to find him. His description was given to all the patrolmen, but he was not located until early today, when the sergeant went to the boy's former home at 430 Lake avenue south.

The lad saw the veteran bluecoat coming towards him while the officer was still some distance away. He didn't waste any time to ascertain whether or not he was after him. He lit out at top speed. Catching a glimpse of the boy and recognizing him from his clothes the policeman started to follow.

The youngster led the officer a merry chase around sharp corners, across streets and down alleys, but the cop hung tenaciously to the trail. When he managed to get a hand on the boy's collar the officer was pretty badly out of breath, but it wasn't long before he said he could stand another race.

The boy was taken to the institution by his father only a week ago. He stated that he wanted the authorities to care for him as he wanted to leave for his work out of the city.

John R. Porterfield sold Dr. McNulty's brindle terrier, valued at $100, to a hackman on Superior street, for $1.25, according to testimony introduced at his preliminary hearing for grand larceny in police court this morning. The hackman sent the animal down to his brother in New York. It appears that Porterfield was working for B. F. Haward at his mill near Woodland, where the dog was being kept. It is alleged that he took the dog into town, where he sold it for almost nothing. Porterfield was bound over to await the action of the next grand jury.

Harry Vertelney, employed at a local lunch counter, was caught "knocking down" yesterday by a private detective hired to watch the men. In police court this morning he entered a plea of guilty to stealing a dime. He paid a fine of $40 and costs rather than go to jail for thirty days. The dime is said to have been held out when it should have been put in the cash register.

Carl Hinckley, an employe of the circus, which was in the city yesterday, was arrested by Capt. Tony Fiskett for striking a boy with a whip, who got in his road. It is claimed that the lad got into his way while he was driving a team of pigs. He pleaded guilty to assault in police court this morning and paid a fine of $7.50.

PICKS TEXT FOR FUNERAL SERMON

Dying Methodist Minister Makes All Arrangements for Last Rites.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 2.—Lying on his deathbed in his cottage on the Battleground camp meeting grounds, Rev. D. M. Wood, one of the best known ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church in Indiana, has completed all arrangements for his funeral. He has selected his pallbearers, chosen the hymns he wishes sung, the text for the funeral sermon and the clergymen he desires to conduct the services.

"I am patiently awaiting my transfer to the best apartment I have ever had," he said today.

He has full possession of his faculties and his mind is clear and bright.

With it a petition was filed, in which it was shown that her personal property was valued at $300, while she had cash to the amount of $387.83.

Most of her personal property consists of jewelry. The following are named as heirs in the will: John W. Casey and Edmund I. Casey, sons; Josephine M. Schune, daughter; Annie, Ruth and Roy, grand children; Mrs. Caroline B. Hadley, niece, and Mrs. Emma Casey, daughter-in-law.

COTTON CROP IS BELOW NORMAL

Condition Is No Surprise to Experts Who Have Watched the Fields.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The average condition of the cotton crop on July 25 was 75.5 per cent of a normal, according to a bulletin of the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture, issued at noon today. The average condition was 80.7 per cent on June 25, 71.9 on July 25 last year, 83.0 in 1908, 77.5 in 1907, and 79.4 the ten-year average.

While the average in the condition of the cotton crop fell below the average for June, when it was 80.7 per cent, the decrease did not surprise experts who have kept informed of the conditions that have prevailed in the cotton belt. The heavy rains which occurred East of the Mississippi during the month of July were known to be detrimental to the crop, so that the decrease in the average of the condition was not unexpected.

MUSICAL COURSE.

Great Series of Concerts Promised Duluth.

Through its musical committee Horace W. Reyner, T. W. Hugo and Stephen H. Jones, Duluth is promised the finest list of musical attractions that has ever been arranged for this city. The final details were settled upon today by the committee and Charles L. Wagner, manager of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, who was in Duluth in the interest of the course, and beginning in October the city will have the privilege of hearing some of the finest things musically and artiscally that are to be heard anywhere in America.

The musical course will be opened Oct. 13, when Mme. Melba and her company will be at the Lyceum for a one night's concert. Mme. Melba is perhaps the greatest lyric soprano who ever lived. She has not been heard in America for five years and the demand for her has been tremendous. She will be the soloist for the opening concert of the season with the St. Paul Symphony orchestra and will also appear with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra at its opening performance. Mme. Melba's company is made up of Mme. Ada Sassoli, harpist; Albert Quesnel, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company; Mr. Leonmone, flutist and La Farge, pianist. The Duluth concert will be one in a series of a tour of thirty concerts for Canada and America. Melba is said to be greater than ever and in her world of achelvement she stand absolutely alone. The cost of bringing the company to the city will be $3,000 and although that announcement gives no idea of the artistic worth of the concert, it does give an idea of the place that Melba occupies to those who are not in touch with the musical world.

The second engagement of the course will be the Russian dancers, Pavlova and Morkkin, who are the artistic sensation of the year. The place that these artists occupy may be realized from an arrangement recently made for their appearance at the auditorium in Chicago. The auditorium has been remodeled for the opera season next winter which is to open in November. The opera was moved along a week later and Pavlova and Morkkin allowed to open the remodeled auditorium for an engagement of five performances. The work of these Russian artists is most interesting and their art is so exquisite and compelling that since their appearance in America they have been the sensation of the art world and also with the public who has thus far had the opportunity of seeing them. They will be accompanied by a Russian ballet and orchestra and carry the scenery for ocular opera, as their performance was called last year. Their appearance here will be one of three in the Northwest. The other engagements will be at St. Paul and Minneapolis. They will appear here Nov. 3.

During January the St. Paul orchestra will appear for three symphony concerts. The engagement will not be a musical festival but three distinct symphony concerts with solo artists, one of whom will be the Spanish boy pianist, Pepito Arriola who created a furore last year. Another feature of these concerts will be the playing of the great Mozart concerts with two pianos. There will be other soloists to be announced.

This will be the first visit of the St. Paul orchestra to Duluth. Walter Rothwell, the director, was brought to America to conduct the first productions of "Mme Butterfly," and he has built up an orchestra at St. Paul that is attracting wide attention. Duluth should extend a cordial welcome to this leader and his organization and there will be much interest in these concer'ts.

The price of subscription tickets has been made known. And for these five concerts they will be placed at $7.50 and $10. Single tickets will of course be proportionately much higher. Mr. Reyner will be interested to tell anyone who wishes to know more of the proposed musical course.

TRY THIS DINNER

Dried Bean Soup.

Wash a pint of dried beans and soak them over night. In the morning drain the cold water off and cover with boiling water. Add a half-pound of ham and boil gently for two hours. Then pour in a quart of stock. The beans must be pressed through a sieve, after which they are returned to the soup kettle and brought to a boil. Salt and pepper and serve with hard toasted bread.

* * *

Meat—French Birds.

Select a lean, round steak about one-quarter inch thick, cut in pieces as nearly as possible four inches wide, six inches long. Lay on each piece a small piece of bacon, a little mixed onion, salt and pepper, roll up and tie with strong white thread or common twine. Have the iron kettle hot and well greased; drop in the birds to brown. When nicely browned add enough hot water to keep from sticking, cover tightly and let simmer two hours, adding more water as needed. Make a gravy by browning two tablespoonfuls of flour; add one tablespoon of butter to flour to form a paste; stir into the liquor in the kettle, boil up and pour over the birds.

Vegetables—Macaroni Croquettes.

Macaroni croquettes are a nutritious dish and not at all difficult to prepare. Break the macaroni into one-half inch pieces, measure two-thirds of a cupful and cook in salted boiling water until tender. Drain thoroughly and then add to a sauce made of two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, dash of pepper and one-third cupful of grated cheese. Spread on a buttered plate to cool and then take one tablespoonful of the mixture and form into balls, dip in fine, stale bread crumbs, coat thoroughly with beaten egg, then again with the crumbs and drop into smoking hot fat, turning constantly. When brown drain on paper and serve hot.

Dessert—Peach Mousse.

To a pint of ripe peaches rubbed to a pulp add one cupful of sugar. Dissolve a tablespoonful of gelatine in three tablespoonfuls cold water and mix thoroughly with the fruit. Whip a pint of cream until thick and stir into the fruit with a few drops of bitter almond or vanilla. Pack in ice and salt and let stand four or five hours.

FADS OF FASHIONS

* * *

A very dainty gown, pretty enough for theater wear, is of aeroplane blue, a delightful shade and universally becoming. The bodice and skirt are accordion plaited and the neck is finished with a shallow chemisette of square-mashed net. The same style in corn color, pale gray or bright rose satin, or dark green silk, is very effective.

* * *

A negligee is made of gun metal silk a l'empire and has a deep border at the foot of the skirt of gorgeously tinted poppies, the same bright border forming the surpliced empire corsage.

* * *

A new Egyptian blouse, fastening on both shoulders, in which the square of the neck is cut lower at the back than in front, quite a novelty, by the way, is charming, while a round-necked Hungarian model in meteor has a white net gimp a jour to lighten its severity.

* * *

Petticoats for evening are made in soft, clinging materials with frills of lace caught by black roses, while others for day are trimmed with bouillounees of lace insertion.

* * *

Black and white wash frocks are very useful as well as smart. A new design in striped black and white has the skirt panel carried up above the waist line into the bodice; another in linen, olive design, has innumerable fine tucks, while one of the most chic of all is in black voile with cluny insertions edged with a narrow plisse Malines, the perfection of elaborate simplicity.

* * *

A simple but elegant gown has a Russian blouse of all over eyelet embroidery in a Marguerite pattern. The underskirt is of batiste inserted with valenciennes. The wide belt is of white suede, and the mob cap is of muslin, with big roses and blue ribbon.

THE EVENING STORY

AN ANGRY LION

By Arnold Goldsworthy.

"We were just saying," remarked Dixon, as the captain strolled jauntily into the smoking room, "that it requires some pluck to face a lion coming at you when you've only one barrel left."

"I shouldn't wonder," agreed the captain, tersely, as he sat down and filled his pipe.

"But I once had to face an angry lion without a gun or anything else, and that wants a bit of doing."

"It wants a bit of telling, too!" said Griggs.

"It was in the early seventies," the captain went on. "I was taking a cargo of passengers along in West Coast—niggers; to be exact—"

"Slaves, to be still more exact," commented Dixon.

"Well," said the captain, "that's as may be. But just as we were in sight of the shore, the mate came running up to me and said in a scared tone that the niggers had made a big hole in the bottom of the ship, and that she was filling rapidly."

"What did you do, captain?" asked Griggs.

"Make a balloon out of the sails and float ashore?"

"If did not, sir," said the captain, promptly. "You can't make a balloon in two minutes, and that was all the time we had before us. I had handed round to the crew all the saws and hatchets available, and we set to work to saw or cut away the top deck. In about a minute and a half the weight of the engines tore all the rest of the ship away, and the deck was left floating like a raft."

"But," demurred Griggs, "I don't exactly see how—"

"No," the captain said, with a derisive chuckle, "you wouldn't see! I'm talking to men who have brains."

"How did you manage to get the raft ashore, captain?" asked Dixon, curiously.

"Well, now you ask me that, it reminds me that we had a very curious experience over the business," the captain went on.

"To begin with, we took it in turns to swim along, dragging the raft after us, with a rope between our teeth. We agreed that as soon as the fellow swimming was tired or was feeling the cold too much, he was to come back to the raft and another fellow would take his place.

"Everything went smoothly till one man, an Irishman, took his turn. He boasted all along that he would stay in the water longer than any of us, and, be jove, he did, too! After he had swum a couple of miles we shouted to him to give up, but he just kept doggedly on. I tell you, these Irish chaps are stayers. At the end of the third mile I ordered him back to the raft, but he just kept on with a steady breast-stroke, though I reckoned he must be nearly dead with the cold of the water. He didn't stop swimming till the raft ran ashore, and then his stubbornness was explained. A shark had bitten him in half from the waist downwards, but owing to being numbed by the cold he hadn't noticed the accident, and just kept swimming on as if—"

"I say, captain," interrupted Dixon, "you're not asking us to believe that, are you?"

"Certainly not," retorted the captain. "I'm not asking you to believe anything. I'm just giving you the facts, and you can just take 'em or leave 'em, as you like. Well, as I was saying, the rest of us jumped ashore, and began to look about for wood to make a fire, and to find something for the pot. I had strolled some distance away from the others, and had the luck to catch a fine little roebuck. I had no gun, of course—"

"How did you catch it, captain?" asked Griggs, with a wink at the company. "Did you put salt on its tail?"

"No, sir," replied the captain. "But I was always a good hand at throwing things, and—"

"The hatchet, for instance?" suggested Dixon.

"What d'ye mean, hatchet?" asked the captain. "I tell you I had no weapon of any kind. But I just whipped off one of my heavy sea-boots and threw it at the animal with all my force. It caught him on the side of the head and smashed his skull right in. It was a pretty good throw for a hundred yards."

"It was," agreed Griggs. "I expect the roebuck died of the surprise of the thing as much as anything."

"Well," continued the captain, waving the interruption aside loftily, "I was just running up to secure my prize when a huge lion sprang out of the bush and put its paw on the thing, as much as to say that findings was keepings. I dare say that if I'd been calmer I shouldn't have done what I did at the time, but I was so mad at the thought of losing my supper that I rushed up to the lion and gave him a frightful punch in the neck. He fairly howled with the pain."

"Didn't he spring at you, captain?" asked Dixon, in expectant tones.

"No," said the captain, "that was the odd part of it. He struggled up on his hind feet and came sliding towards me, with his front paws clenched, just like a boxing man. I couldn't make anything of it at first. I put my hands up mechanically, and it was well for me I did, because at the same moment the lion hit at me with his left, and if I hadn't stopped the blow with my right it would have about finished me.

"For the next two minutes we walked round each other looking for an opening. I got in one or two good ones on his ribs, but he was smacking me about awfully. Every time one of his paws landed home I fell back a couple of yards or so, and he was after me in a second, following it up with a straight hit from the shoulder. Presently it began to dawn on me that I had run up against a smarter boxer than myself, and as I couldn't afford the risk of losing the fight, I watched my opportunity and closed with him. That little maneuver saved my life, as I found that while he was a tidy boxer he couldn't wrestle for nuts, especially when I tried one of two jiu-jitsu moves.

"We swayed about for a minute or two, and then I got my leg behind his and tried to throw him over on his back, but he was too heavy for me. My chance came when he tried to imitate my movement, forgetting that his legs weren't quite long enough to give him any leverage. As soon as he had got his leg behind mine and was trying to force me to the ground. I twisted myself suddenly and cross-buttocked him ten feet into the air. He came down with a frightful crash, and as he hit the ground his backbone snapped like a twig."

"Yes?" purred Dixon, encouragingly, in the tone of one who was expecting further details.

"What d'ye mean, 'yes?'" demanded the captain, sharply. "Isn't that enough?"

"I thought, perhaps, you had brought the broken backbone away with you," explained Dixon, "just to substantiate your story."

"I don't see that that would make any difference," said the captain, evidently not quite sure as to whether Dixon were speaking in jest or otherwise. "I can't do more than tell you the truth, can I?" When I have been out in the wilds I have never thought to take witnesses with me."

"That's where you have the advantage of us, captain," said Griggs.

"Don't understand you," growled the captain, turning his back on the conscientious objector. "But as I was saying, as the lion lay on his back with his eyes closing in their long, last sleep of death, he held out his paw just to show that he bore me no malice, and he seemed quite pleased when I shook the paw gently. I tell you, I had quite a lump in my throat for days afterwards."

"Did it make you feel thirsty, captain?" Dixon asked.

"Thirsty?" replied the captain, with alacrity. "Ah! now you're talking about something you can understand. Thanks, I don't mind if I do!"

TO PHYLLIS

By MARK LANE.

Phyllis, with eyes so clearly blue,
Now shy, now innocently bold;
Your cheeks have just the peach's hue,
Your hair is all of sunny gold.
Your little, dancing feet are keen
To race the years with buoyant glee.
Oh! Phyllis, you are seventeen,
And I am forty-forty-three.

Phyllis, your teasing glance and speech
Defeat the cynic's eye and ear;
What matter what the sages preach
When youth is perlously near?
For memory still has pastures green
And old romance again is free,
Oh! Phyllis, careless seventeen,
Be kind to forty-forty-three.

Phyllis, when your unruly hair
Brushes my still responsive cheek.
I hear in the electric air
The voice of young adventure speak;
Illusion's optimistic sheen
Gems life with sparkling filagree.
Oh! Phyllis, you are seventeen,
And I am only forty-three.

L'ENVOI.

Venus, ascended from the sea,
To queen it in the blue serene,
Oh! tell me why, at forty-three,
My heart is only seventeen?

YOUNG MEN AND MAIDENS

By MISS EXPERIENCE

Mother the Safe Counsellor.

Agnes—I am afraid you are like the little girl who said of her "home" as she was dying: "Home— the spot where I was always treated the best and truest, yet at which I grumbled the most."

You believe you are being treated badly when your mother is only endeavoring to make you see the dreadful result of the ways you appear to enjoy. No doubt your poor mother knows of what she speaks from sad experience. Why will girls go to strangers for the same advice their mothers have been giving for ten years or more? Why will girls doubt their mothers' judgment, yet seek and accept the same advice from strangers? Your mother will never make a fool of you nor direct you wrong intentionally. Can you always say the same of strangers?

Affianced and Affiancee.

The word "affianced" applies to the male; "he is my affianced," while the word "affiancee" indicates the future bride.

Gum Chewing Is Vulgar.

Gum chewing, where any one can observe it, is vulgar. A sweetly dressed, pretty girl soon loses her allurements when seen in public places chewing a "cud" of gum. As harsh as it may sound I have never been able to think of gum chewing in any other light than a comparison with cows and "cuds."

THE BACHELOR AS A HOST

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER

In these days the bachelor apartment house has come to be a feature of American life. The thronging to cities of men who are away from home has made imperative some provision for them other than the ordinary boarding house.

Men who are sufficiently well off to marry are often, and we think unfortunately, so comfortable in their bachelor homes that they shirk the obligation of asking some woman to be the queen of the home, and thus they sacrifice the honor they might have as the head of the house.

A bachelor apartment house may consist of several rooms en suite or simply of a single room and bath. Sometimes several unmarried men club together and rent an apartment, having a man or an elderly woman to relieve them of care, keep the apartment in order and perhaps do the cooking. Quite often men get their meals outside, lunching or dining or breakfasting at a convenient restaurant.

Should a bachelor desire to give a party or a reception he must first secure a matron of his acquaintance to act as chaperon for the affair.

This lady will take entire charge for the evening, and will relieve the situation of all embarrassment for the girls or young men whom the bachelor host invites. He may properly provide exactly such a supper or spread by way of entertainment as would be given anywhere else by any one else.

A bachelor may also, if he please, entertain his friends at a popular restaurant or inn, always asking congenial people and being sure that the proper chaperon is invited.

WHY BACHELORS SHOULD BE TAXED

By ALVA ARMSTRONG.

Of course bachelors should be taxed, though I do not expect any bachelor will agree with what I say.

I would tax every man over 25 years of age on a graduated scale, increasing up to the age of 50, then decreasing.

Why should a man enjoy all the comforts and privileges of civilization and not help to pay for them?

Take, for instance, a bachelor who lives in apartments. He enjoys the comforts of gas, water, well-paved and well-lighted streets, and all the rest of it. It may be argued that he pays for it all when he settles his bill, but it is not so. If he goes on his holidays he expects his bill to be reduced by one-half. That the tenant of the house has to pay rent all year around does not concern him.

With the taxes increasing every year and the price of food going up every week does the bachelor's bill increase likewise?

No; he would be horrified if such a thing were mentioned. But somebody has to find the extra money. Who? His landlady—they are mostly ladies—has to struggle and pinch for herself and family, but the bachelor must not be disturbed.

Of course in this, as in everything else, there are exceptions, but as far as I can gather the above is generally the case. Some bachelors are generous, but they do not make up for those that are not. A bachelor in a good position—and many of them are—is a great deal better able to pay a tax than is the father of a large family, and I certainly think a graduated tax on bachelors would be an excellent way to lessen the burden that is laid on the already heavily laden shoulders of married men.

THE BRIDE'S HOME-COMING

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

The sweetest hour of all is when the bride comes home. Her hand it is that shall kindle the sacred fire of the hearth; her tact and kindness that shall make the humblest rooftree holy and fill an earthly resting place with heaven's joy.

To be perfect, the home-coming must be to a house, apartment, or shelter sacred to the two. When relatives of either wife or husband are included in the first home difficulties are likely to accumulate.

Kinsfolk by marriage are seldom other than critical. The first year, during which husband and wife learn more of one another than they knew during courtship, should be a year of solitude, so far as outsiders in the home are concerned.

Should it be an absolute necessity to live with a mother-in-law or a father-in-law, or to have either live in the new home during the first twelve-month, patience, gentleness and grace will be imperative in everybody.

THE HAPPINESS OF HOPE

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

Although the art of living chiefly in the present, and of letting the dead past bury its dead, gives us two of the stepping-stones to happiness, still, would we go over dry-shod, the next one must not be overlooked. It is the joy of perpetual hope.

For there are few joys of life comparable with that of expectancy, especially the expectancy of people of imagination. This is a singular fact, and speaks largely for the spiritual side of nature; for few of the joys of realization and possession ever quite reach the heights of hope, since it signifies certainty, where the other is uncertain—signifies assurance and right, signifies hope with the seal of authority upon it.

We hope for many things without a shadow of ground for our hoping; we only expect that what we feel is sure to come. And what pleasure is there in the expectancy, calling upon senses that know no eating!

As the world within the looking-glass is an ideal world; as the scene in the Claude Loraine glass is transfigured; as any commonplace thing, when reflected out of the actual and tangible, takes on an aura of grace and refinement—so expectancy gives us sensations just beyond reality; refines the real and idealizes facts.

THE DOCTOR

Fruit and Health.

The juices of fruits are highly valuable as a means of cleansing the stomach and alimentary canal. Disease-producing germs cannot grow in them to any extent. This is particulraly true of the juices of raw fruits. Cooked fruits, such as baked apples, stewed prunes and other soft fruit pulps, may be used without injury, if free from cane sugar and not eaten with cow's milk.

Fruit should be taken at the regular mealtimes, not between meals. It combines especially well with cereal foods. The only precaution which need be given in relation to fruits is that they do not form a good combination with coarse vegetables. This fact explains many cases of serious gastric disturbances.

Thoroughly healthy persons do not always need to observe the rule to avoid the use of fruits and vegetables at the same meal, provided all the food is well masticated; but invalids and especially persons with dilated stomach or slow digestion, will generally be greatly benefited by observing this precaution.

Cause and Cure of Rashes.

A disordered digestion often brings about an irritable skin (seen in nettle-rash) and constipation causes a sallow, unhealthy tint of the body's covering. Here we must correct indigestion and constipation by attention to diet. It will be well to eat very little meat and to live on fish, fruits and cereal foods and to take salads, and to give up tea and coffee, and take cocoa instead. A dessertspoonful or tablespoonful of salad oil, taken after dinner, will often cure constipation if the diet is properly attended to. Liver troubles also affect the skin and, again, are to be corrected by the diet already described.

To Relieve Asthma and Bronchitis.

Relief may be obtained by sufferers from ahtsma or bronchitis by the use of this prescription: Carbonate of ammonia 5 grains, chloride of ammonium 10 grains, iodide of potassium 10 grains, tincture of squills 10 drops, liquid extract of licorice 10 drops, water half an ounce. Three or four times a day, well diluted.

ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE

Timely Discovery and Medical Attention Save Woman's Life.

Having pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree, Sadie Dillion attempted to end her own life in a prison cell in the county jail last evening, by taking internally an antiseptic footwash containing bichloride of mercury, a deadly poison.

Her prostrate form was found a few minutes after she had taken the poison by the jail attendants, who realizing that she had tried to commit suicide rushed her to St. Mary's hospital, near by, where medical aid was immediately given.

The timely finding of the woman and the prompt action on the part of the attendants are the only factors that prevented an otherwise successful suicide. It is believed at the hospital that she will be well in a short while, although she will not get over the effects of the poison for a long time.

Mrs. Dillion was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Ensign of the district court, on the charge of murdering her husband, John Dillion, at their home in the town of MRS. SADIE DILLION.

Stuntz, near Hibbing, on May 30, this year. After her arraignment she was removed to the county jail, where she brooded over her troubles. This led to her attempted suicide.

Following the killing of her husband, she is said to have rushed to Hibbing, where she reported to the police authorities that an unknown man had come to their home, and after making indecent proposals to her, attacked her husband, who, she said, had resented the remarks. In the trouble alleged by her to have taken place between the two men, the stranger shot and instantly killed her husband.

Upon an investigation conducted by the police of Hibbing, evidence was secured which led to the belief that her story was false, and that she herself was the murderer. It is claimed by the authorities of Hibbing that she later broke down and confessed that she had shot him because he had tried to make a "white slave" of her.

Her trial will take place in the Virginia court during the September term.

Till It Got to be Second Nature—Suffering Endless and Without Relief—Cuticura Made Skin as Clear as a Baby's.

"If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies fifty years ago it would have saved me two hundred dollars and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time and my suffering was endless and without relief. A thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man but feel rich to be free of what some of the doctors called leprocy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took ——— and ——— sarsaparillas over a year and a half but got no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too much. They made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was two cakes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent. If you had been there and said you would have cured me for two hundred dollars, you would have had the money. I was covered with the scales but by using Cuticura I was soon as clear as any person ever was. This was over twenty-two years ago and for a long time, through force of habit, I used to rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch, but to no purpose — I was well. I had scratched twenty-eight years and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. Dennis Downing, Waterbury, Vt., November 27, 1909."

Cuticura is the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp. A cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston. Mailed free, 32-page Cuticura book, an Authority on the Skin.

Dancing afternoon and evening. Cash prizes will be given in the various events. The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy the festivities.

Sells-Floto Circus Pleases Crowd That Packs Big Tent.

The Sells-Floto shows gave one of the best performances that this town ever saw under a tent yesterday afternoon and evening. The tent was crowded on both occasions and people were scattered along the race track, making it impossible to give the races. This feature was not regretted by the crowd, however, as the patrons had had their money's worth and "then some."

A feature of the show was the sextette of Armour grays, beautiful horses worth $25,000, which have taken blue ribbons at many horse shows and which were greatly admired by the late King Edward VII of England. The horses made a big hit. The stock of the show made an excellent impression, as the animals were clean and healthy and appeared to receive the best of care. This was true of all of the livestock from the biggest elephant to the smallest Shetland pony and grinning monkey.

The animal division was one of the most interesting that was ever brought to this city. It would have delighted the heart of America's famous faunal naturalist. The elephants, at least, were in better condition than that emblematic mammal with which Col. Roosevelt is most familiar. The trained elephants did almost impossible stunts and Carroll's trained Arabian horses made a hit.

The acrobats were one of the most sensational features. The Nelson family, stars in their profession, leaped and twisted through the air, defying the law of gravity. The flying Herberts hurtled through space and careened from trapeze to trapeze as though they did that sort of thing every morning before breakfast just for the fun of it.

Up-Side-Down Smith gave an exhibition of balancing that was marvelous. He preserved his equilibrium while in an inverted position with grace and ease.

Holland's high school horses waltzed, danced a two-step, cake walked and did other fancy steps. They had been well trained and displayed remarkable intelligence and familiarity with their difficult performance.

The clowns were really funny. Their humor appealed to the intelligence of the adult as well as to the quick perception of the ridiculous of the child. Spader Johnson, who is a graduate of Oxford and a recognized Shakespeare student, made a hit with his automobile brain storm, his experiences with a motor car and his burlesque of the Johnson-Jeffries fight. The trick mules displayed remarkable intelligence and went through antics that greatly amused the crowd.

The side shows were well patronized. They were clean and well conducted and managed. The pink lemo was the real thing. The hurdy-gurdy was Johnny-on-the-spot. The Sells-Floto shows left a good impression. The parade was excellent and the performances were first-class in every respect.

AMERICANS TO LEAD HONDURAS REBELS.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 2.—That the revolution which former President Bonilla is promoting in Spanish Honduras will be fought largely under the leadership of Americans, is the belief of passengers arriving here on the steamer Bluefields from Caiba. Lee Christmas, another American, joined Bonilla before Conrad.

A loan held by the bankers matured yesterday and it had been supposed would be renewed. Instead, $2,000,000 was paid off and the balance renewed with 6 per cent notes to mature in three years.

WALKER REPLIES TO LEWIS' WORDS

Calls Head of National Union "Cheap, Disgruntled and Disgraced Demagogue."

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—In a statement given out here, State President John H. Walker of the Illinois Mine Workers replies to the statement issued from Indianapolis by National President Lewis. In part Walker says Lewis has proved his absolute incompetency and worse, the short time he has been in office. He went into the office with a solid and united organization and in nearly $1,000,000 in the treasury." This fund, Walker says, Lewis has spent on strike and other matters of no interest or advantage to the union, and has by his actions "brought about dissension, lack of confidence and indebtedness."

"The miners of Illinois are right in their contention," he says, "and they are determined to continue this contention until they win, and the yawpings of a cheap, disgruntled and disgraced demagogue who has openly betrayed them and allied himself with the coal operators to defeat them, and made things harder for them, will not deter them from fighting this battle through.

"In my opinion, his real reason for not counting the vote is to avoid having the rank and file of the organization know how badly the Illinois miners repudiated him and his interference in their affairs in the manner he did."

How to Make a Dainty Complexion Beautifier

"Powders, paints and cosmetics—face lotions, 'washes,' and the like—a myriad of creams—each and all have their buyers, spending annually more dollars than I can count in the search for just the right thing to make their faces most attractive," says Marion Harlow in "The Quest for Beauty."

"In the thoughtless rush to experiment with the new and strange, the simple and inexpensive articles of known and tried merit are often passed by. Yet, when all is said, plain amarol is as satisfactory a complexion beautifier as one can find.

"It softens, smooths and whitens the skin; prevents roughness and dryness; gives an elusive and charming attractiveness produced by no paint, powder or lotion I know, and is so dainty and delicate its use cannot be detected.

"Your druggist will sell you the amerol in the original 2 oz. package. Get two ounces and put it in a pint bottle, fill the bottle full of warm water, shake well, let stand over night, and you have a complexion beautifier that you never again will be without."

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

A few drops of rain this morning served to clear the atmosphere and the sun broke through the clouds later to delight the earth with its rays. There were threats in the sky last night, but the threatened showers did not drench the circus crowds. During the last twenty-four hours this pressure condition caused scattered showers in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Montana, the Dakotas, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, South Carolina and Florida. Heavy rains fell at Kansas City and Tampa. High temperatures continued in Montana, the Dakotas, Wyoming, Nebraska, Utah, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana. ### THE CORRECT ANSWER.

Says the Duluth News Tribune, in a rare vein of exquisite humor: "County option got its full day in court, a fair hearing, a record vote and courteous treatment in committee and on the convention floor from the Republicans. It got none of these from the Democrats, whose trouble-chickens had come home to roost, and the liquor interests were absolutely in control."

The delicate humor of this observation is made clear when it is realized that though county option got a "record vote" in the Republican convention it was definitely rejected, that the Republican platform reference to the subject is a bare-faced quibble very like that of two years ago, and that as for the Democratic convention, it gave the fair answer, the square answer and the only honest answer to the county option question—the initiative and the referendum.

Said the Democratic convention:

> We hold that all questions affecting the moral, political and economic welfare of the people should be directly subject to the conscience and will of the people.
>
> To this end we demand of the incoming state legislature, regardless of the political affiliations of its members, that it submit to the voters of the state at the next general election a constitutional amendment providing for the initiative, the referendum and the recall.
>
> We pledge the nominees of this convention and the Democratic members to do their utmost in support of this policy.

That is the answer to the county option question, and all else is either fearsome evasion or a near relative of arrant hypocrisy.

Altogether aside from the merits of prohibition, toward which county option is a long step, there is one point regarding which no question can successfully be raised, and that is that prohibitive legislation is worse than useless until there is a sufficient preponderance of public sentiment in its favor to make it effective.

Humanity cannot be reformed by law. Laws passed in the absence of a public demand are mockeries, and not only do no good, but do harm by fostering disrespect for law. The last legislature passed a law against cigarettes, for instance, which is merely so much dead wood in the legislative lumber room.

The question is not so much whether county option is a right proposal as it is whether the people of Minnesota are ready for it and want it.

It is claimed by the advocates of county option that the people are ready for it and want it.

Yet, though the question has been in issue for a dozen years, the people have not elected a legislature that was anywhere near favorable to county option.

The Democratic platform proposes a means of finding out whether or not the people want county option.

Better still, it proposes a means of making the demand effective, if there is such a demand, even though the legislature should refuse to heed it.

The initiative and the referendum, twin tools of real democracy, form a complete and honest and ample answer to the county option question.

JOHN G. CARLISLE.

Though little had been heard of late in a political way from John G. Carlisle, his impression upon American public affairs was permanent, and he will stand in history as one of a group of stalwart figures, composed of the minor great men of the generation that is just going out. He was a typical statesman of the old school of Democracy, and his passing leaves few of the old guard of splendid men which surrounded Cleveland during his two memorable administrations.

He was of another day in Democracy—the day of Cleveland, D. B. Hill, Bayard, Vilas, Whitney, Lamar, Gresham, Lamont and Olney. Of that able band of men but one—Judson Harmon, governor of Ohio and probable Democratic candidate for president in 1912—is still active in public affairs. The Democracy of William J. Bryan is a very different thing from the Democracy of Grover Cleveland. There was no place in it for John Griffin Carlisle. When the radical convulsion of 1896 overtook the party and the National Democratic party was shorn off from the main body, Carlisle was one of its leaders, and after it passed out of existence, expiring about the same time as the Silver Republican party, he retired to private life. Thereafter he practised law in New York and was a mere spectator of public affairs that had passed beyond the understanding of the school of politics in which he was educated.

Bitter though this dose was to men of Carlisle's stamp, and hard though it was for them to understand, it was progress. For a time it seemed likely to be fatal to the Democratic party, but it was like one of those human ills which lay the body waste only to build it up again with new vitality.

Carlisle, though hardly a chief figure in American public affairs, was a commanding one, and in his day a great one. Born in Kentucky in 1835, educated in the public schools and admitted to the bar at the age of 23, his entrance into public life was prompt, and he remained in public life during the greater part of his life. In 1859, at the age of 24, he was a member of the Kentucky house of representatives, and he was in the state senate from 1866 to 1871. During war time he was a pronounced opponent of secession. From 1871 to 1875 he was lieutenant governor of Kentucky, and in 1877 he was sent to congress, becoming speaker of the house in 1883 and serving during three terms. In 1890 he resigned from the house to become Untied States senator, and in 1893 he resigned from the senate to become Cleveland's secretary of the treasury. Stranded by the receding tide of conservative democracy, after a brief stand with the "Gold Democrats" he retired to private life in 1897.

In his day he rendered conspicuous service to his country. It is pathetic, in a way, to think of his situation when his party, controlled by a tide of radical tendencies, swept away from him, leaving him no political anchoring ground whatever; but as we have said, that was progress. The day of the Carlisle-Cleveland-Whitney-Olney Democracy was done. The day of the Bryan-Gore-Clark Democracy had come, and in it was no place for the survivors of the Old Guard. Of them all, but one—Judson Harmon—has imbibed, to a sufficient degree to entitle him to leadership, the progressive tendencies that mark today's political thought.

THERE'S NO HURRY.

There seems to be no occasion for anybody's getting unduly excited about the situation in the John Lind candidacy.

The convention did its duty when it nominated Mr. Lind. The people manifestly wanted that nomination made, and if that wasn't enough to bring it about there were evidences of opposition, from certain interests that feared John Lind's rugged independence and personal strength, which put the convention on its mettle.

There is no need of haste. Mr. Lind's disinclination to make the run is well known, and has been well known for some time. He should be given time to think it over thoroughly during his vacation, and in the meantime the situation may be allowed to rest as it is. If, after mature thought, Mr. Lind persists in his refusal to become a candidate, the state central committee will pick a candidate to go on the ticket in his place. It has a large list to select from, and it will be more embarrassed by the number of available candidates than it will by any difficulty in finding a candidate.

"THE BOULEVARD."

Though Mr. Patrick's suggestion that the "boulevard drive" needs a real name was made through The Herald only last evening, together with The Herald's offer of a reward of $10 for the name that shall receive the approval of the park board, already many interesting proposals have come in, and they are published elsewhere tonight.

That the opportunity for selection may be as wide as possible, more suggestion should be made, and The Herald will gladly publish all that come in.

If you have an idea, send it in. Not necessarily for the prize—that is merely incidental; but for the glory of Duluth, and that one of its crowning charms may gain the fame it merits.

THE NEED OF A POLICE SURGEON.

The Lueck case is not the first that has shown the need of providing the police department with means of promptly caring for injured persons. Duluth needs a police surgeon and a city ambulance, as Health Commissioner Webster says. Whether it can afford them or not is a question for the city council to consider. There can be no question about the advisability of providing them if the money can be found.

DISTINCTIONS.

"The president," declared Richard Achilles Ballinger in St. Paul yesterday, "is heartily in favor of rational conservation, and so am I."

Evidently it is Ballinger's idea that some others—such as Pinchot, Garfield, Roosevelt and the people—are for irrational conservation.

That calls for a distinction between rational conservation and irrational conservation. This distinction is not easy to make, owing to the confusions of the personal equation and of varying viewpoints and interests.

But if we may judge wholly by the personalities and records of the parties, it is quite clear that rational conservation is conservation that doesn't conserve, and that irrational conservation is conservation that does conserve.

THE COMING WHITEWASH.

> All reports to the effect that Secretary Ballinger is to be whitewashed or convicted are absolutely without foundation. No man knows what the verdict of the committee will be, for the committee does not know itself. We have six large volumes of evidence to consider, and that means a lot of work.—Senator Knute Nelson in St. Paul interview.

Nevertheless, we'd like to bet somebody a cooky against the hole in a doughnut that Senator Nelson and all of the Republican members of the committee but one will declare in Ballinger's favor, and that all of the Democrats and Congressman Madison, Republican, will declare that Ballinger is unfit for his high position.

For Senator Nelson and the Republican majority of the committee were appointed for the specific purpose of giving such an opinion as they are about to give.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A PROTEST FROM THE WEST END

To to Editor of The Herald:

We, the citizens of the West end wish to say a few words through the columns of your valuable paper regarding the condition of some of our thoroughfares, namely: Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth and Grand avenues. They are in a deplorable condition, the tracks of the latter being so high above the bed of the street as to render crossing them with a load the next thing to impossible, and the rocks on Twenty-third are so high above the bed of the road that it is extremely difficult to travel there. Twenty-fourth is also in a very bad condition.

If a petition was drawn up regarding this matter there would not be a man west of Lake avenue who would not sign it.

If the city cannot afford to repair these streets in the proper way, they should at least have gravel hauled and fill in where it is necessary.

Trusting this will be published in this evening's Herald and with a word of praise for your valuable paper we remain, yours very truly,

CITIZENS.

IMPOSTORS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Besides being a vehicle to convey thought and a means of concealing thought, language is a safety valve. There are times when a safety valve is a necessary adjunct to the human constitution. I have got to get up and holler or bust. So here goes, the holler, I mean:

There are a couple of great big young able-bodied dubs doing this town. They claim to be deaf and hand out cards to the effect that they have recently become deaf from sickness and wish to procure funds to enter a school for the deaf. I met one of them in the Sellwood building the other day and forthwith reported him as an impostor to the police. Last night one of them got on a Lakeside car and handed out his cards and then went through collecting them and when he came to me he had a fist full of small change. It sure beats the band how gullible people are. Education is as free for the deaf as it is for the hearing. Every state in the Union has one or more excellent schools for the deaf. Education in these schools is not only free but so is board. If a man who admitted he was not deaf or otherwise incapacitated came along and asked the public to contribute to his education he would be turned down flat. Yet the deaf have less difficulty in procuring an education than do the hearing and this old gag always takes in the dupes and the dough.

Another thing I wish to yell from the house tops is that there are approximately 1,500 adult deaf persons in the state of Minnesota and—just listen—not one of them begs. Not a single one of them is in a custodial or correctional institution. They are all self-supporting and decent citizens who do not want charity and would resent the offer of charity. In Duluth there are some thirty men and women who are deaf. You may know one or more of them but few of you realize that there are so many. You do not see them to know they are deaf. They go about their work and mind their own business. Then along comes one of these impostors and you shed a tear and pity the poor unfortunate deaf man and hand out ten cents or a quarter's worth of rent for Kingdom Come.

I have been deaf for thirty years and am acquainted with deaf people from Maine to California and I have known but one deaf beggar. That was my old friend Flannigan. He played short stop when I pitched on the school team. He is dead. If you ever meet him give him the price of a drink with my compliments. He will need it. If you meet any one else who claims to be deaf and asks you for a hand-out, turn him down hard. Charity may cover a multitude of sins but they usually belong to the fellow who seeks charity.

JAY COOKE HOWARD.

Duluth, Aug. 2.

A Tragedy Among the Poor.

Miss Jane Addams, among many other similar incidents, tells the following story, in the August American Magazine, as illustrating the problems that confront the immigrant which, unsolvable to him, too often result in his ruin and downfall:

"A Bohemian, whose little girl attended classes at Hull-House, in one of his periodic drunken spells had literally almost choked her to death, and later had committed suicide when in delirium tremens. His poor wife stayed a week at Hull-House after the disaster until a new tenement could be arranged for her, and one day she showed me a gold ring her husband had made for their betrothal, which exhibited the most exquisite workmanship. She said that in the old country he had been a goldsmith, but that in America all he had done for twenty years was to shovel coal in a furnace room of a large manufacturing plant; that, whenever she saw one of his 'restless fits' which preceded his drunken periods 'coming on,' if she could provide him with a bit of metal and persuade him to stay at home and work at it he was all right and the time passed without disaster, but that 'nothing else would do it.' This story threw a flood of light upon the dead man's struggle and on the stupid maladjustment which broke him down. Why had we never been told? Why had our interest in the remarkable musical ability of his child blinded us to the hidden artistic ability of the father? We had forgotten that a long-established occupation may form the very foundations of moral life, that the art with which a man has solaced his toil, may be the salvation of his uncertain tempearment."

The Corporate Cloak.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Judge Landis, in his charge to the grand jury concerning the meat packing combination, made a telling hit on one of the features of unlawful business, viz.: the attempt to escape individual responsibility by doing the unlawful act under the guise of a corporation. John Jones, desiring to counterfeit gold dollars, organized himself in the form of the Metals Fabricating company, and in that name does the thing forbidden. The jury was charged if its investigations disclosed such a case not to "indict a mere alias, but follow the trail wherever it may lead until you have located, identified and pointed out the real offenders."

We have never heard of a corporation or holding company for the covering up of counterfeiting or burglary, although it might be hazardous to say the same of false pretenses or bunko But the idea that other illegal acts—illegal, it is well to remember, before there was statutory prohibition—can be shifted to a corporation without danger to the individuals organizing it and carrying out the unlawful practice, has a firm hold on business, especially those that are prone to the unlawful practices. It is one of the blots on the administration of that ex-president, who is now a popular idol, that when one of his cabinet was discovered to have granted rebates in his previous capacity as a railroad official, it was suddenly found that the guilt for that offense was "not personal." As a matter of fact, the statute violated in that instance distinctly and specifically fixes the criminal responsibility on the officers, employes, agents or other persons engaged in the offense.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: All things get further ahead of him who waits.

The easiest things to resist doing are those that won't cause you any harm.

Anyhow, trusting your friends is no bigger a gamble than betting whether it will be black or red.

The more money a man can borrow the bigger the grievance he can have if anybody wants him to pay it.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

In East Grand Forks.

East Grand Forks Valley News: The popular question—Are you an Indian?

Honesty In Politics.

Pine County Pioneer: There are some honest men in politics despite all that is said and the average office holder actually tries to do his duty and give an honest day's work to his constituency, but beware of the man whose word in politics cannot be relied upon. Dishonesty in politics is just as reprehensible as in business.

Genuine, As Usual.

Carlton Vidette: Duluth is rapidly getting a sensational reputation for Sunday sensations — and they're the real thing in that line.

Weather On the Range.

Hibbing Tribune: Heat prostrations are numerous in many of the American cities but the weather on the range has been at no time suffocating. During the month of July, there have been several nights that were cool enough for light wraps and only one prostration has been recorded on the range this season.

That is a pretty good record for a country where thousands of laborers are employed

Boom In Heraldry.

East Grand Forks Valley View: This Indian question is becoming so thorough that a full description of the family tree may be necessary in order to secure a drink.

Yes, Let's Keep It Dark.

Pine County Pioneer: Some fellow down East with but little else to do has figured out that Col. Roosevelt is related to the English ruling house in some remote way. It is strange that it was not sprung during the presidential campaign six years ago. What is the use of bringing up such things now? He can't help it and it is just as well to keep such personal matters dark.

Some Purses Are Too Lean.

Hibbing Tribune: A New York professor has come to the conclusion that the Tower of Pisa was built to lean. Consequently we can all enter safely.

Partisan Politics Responsible.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: It is to be regretted that partisan politics should remove Judge O'Brien from the supreme court. He is such a big, brainy, level-headed jurist, and such a fair and withal lovable man, that one can easily forget his politics. His probable retirement is a loss to the state—as every member of the bar will testify.

Bemidji Pioneer: The Democrats showed good judgment in indorsing C. L. Brown of Morris, and P. E. Brown of Luverne, as judges of the supreme court. Both men were nominated by the Republicans and by being placed on the Democratic ticket also, their election is assured.

"Riches to the Rich"—Senator Hale's Motto.

The August American Magazine contains an article about Senator Hale from which the following is an extract:

"Eugene Hale, senior senator from Maine, is one of our leading aristocrats. He believes in the divine right of family—if the family happens to be wealthy—and if he had a motto it might be, 'Riches to the rich.' Incidentally, he is rich himself and lives in a palace in Washington.

"The characteristic leaning toward the moneyed classes has been noticeable, not only in his social intercourse, but also in his legislative career in the senate. It is not intended to convey the idea that Hale is a toady. He is far too independent. But he believes in class, and his own class in particular, and he does not care to have anything to do with the world outside. Recently one of the elevator men at the capitol, a newcomer, or he would not have ventured—said politely to Senator Hale as the latter entered the car:

"'Good morning senator. It's a fine day, sir.'

"The senator looked the man over from top to toe and said:

"'When I desire your advice on the weather, I shall ask for it,' which effectually withered the elevator man. The incident showed Senator Hale's attitude toward the mass of humanity outside his own circle.

"Senatorial dignity is a time worn phrase in Washington. Senator Hale has this characteristic to a greater degree than any others. It comes with time, they say, and if so, Hale comes by it honestly, for he has been in the senate longer than any other senator, thirty years. Dignity simply exudes from Hale. Some say that he is more arrogant than Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, but this is hardly fair Intolerant would be a better adjective.

"Senator Hale does not like to talk to many persons, and if you do not happen to be one of the elect, it is possible to get much quicker and better results by writing him a letter. He is punctilious about answering letters.

"If the modern American navy may be said to have a father, Senator Hale comes nearer to filling the bill than any other man. He has had charge of all the navy appropriation bills in the senate for the past twenty-nine years. He has obtained a good deal out of these appropriation bills for his own people in the way of navy yards. But it was necessary to have navy yards somewhere.

"With the possible exception of his work for the navy, Hale's work in the senate has been general. He has had an important part in framing more legislation than any other senator—bar none—but there isn't a single item you can put your hand on and say, 'That is Hale's.' There's an Aldrich emergency currency law, a Sherman anti-trust law, a Hepburn railroad rate law, but there is no Hale law."

Nicaragua.

Portland Oregonian: "The common enemy of our race, so proud on account of its power, so insolent on account of its pride, and so detestable on account of its insolence." In this language is the good old U. S. A. alluded to by a fiery organ of President Madriz of Nicaragua. Spoiled children are usually spanked for disrespectful language to their elders, and it is daily becoming more apparent that Nicaragua will have to be spanked unless Estrada attends to the mattr before the crisis is reached. The views above expressed are somewhat harsh, however, when it is remembered that had it not been for the Monroe doctrine, fathered and enforced by the "proud, insolent and detestable race" above mentioned, Nicaragua would be groveling beneath the heel of some European monarch.

A Knotty Problem.

London Tit-Bits: Sir David Gill, the famous astronomer, who has lately been appointed a foreign knight of the German Order of Merit for Science and Art, tells an amusing story of a meteorite which fell on a highland farm some years ago. Being a valuable meteorite, the landlord claimed it as being mineral on his land; but the tenant pointed out that the meteorite was not on the land when the lease was drawn up. Then the landlord claimed it as flying game, but the tenant said it had neither wings nor feathers, and, as ground game, was his. The discussion was ultimately cut short by the revenue officer, who appeared on the scene and took possession of the meteorite, "because," he said, "it is an article introduced into this country without payment of duty."

Center of Population.

Indianapolis Star: The center of population under the new census will not, it is thought, be moved far from the present center. This is not because the population of the United States has not greatly increased, but because the bulk of the increase is not, as usual, in the West. There has been a great addition to the number of inhabitants in the Southwest, especially in Texas, but on the other hand a large percentage of the immigrants who arrived during the last few years scattered themselves over the Eastern states. Rhode Island's increase, for example, is 6 per cent. In every direction there is still room for more.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

•••There is a movement on foot for the establishment of a public natural history museum in Duluth, under the joint control of the city and the board of education. T. H. Storey, the proprietor of the museum on East Superior street, has agreed to donate his collection to the city on condition that a suitable room is provided for it. The collection is worth fully $12,000 and is composed of birds and animals which are nearly all natives of Minnesota and the Northwest. It is also proposed to purchase the Alaskan collection of J. W. Johnson, assistant signal service officer at Duluth. It is as complete as that of the Alaskan collection at the Smithsonian institute.

•••The Century Piano company of Minneapolis is looking about Duluth for a location for a branch house.

•••The passenger train on the Iron Range road picked up between Tower and Mesaba a man named William Ryan with a badly crushed hip. Two evenings previous he ventured too near the track and was struck by an ore car and knocked into the ditch.

•••The sailing yacht Norden, which has been purchased by a number of young men in Duluth, has arrived from Milwaukee. She is 52 feet long and is the largest and finest yacht in the harbor.

•••Mrs. L. A. Marsell and Miss Hattie McComber, daughter of W. C. McComber, started from Tower yesterday afternoon in a small boat on a picnic excursion. A sudden lurch of the boat sent Miss McComber overboard. She was fished out by Mr. Holstrom, but was unconscious for over half an hour.

•••William Harwold has left with his family for a visit to the home of his childhood in Kent county, Eng. They will be absent from Duluth for several months.

FOR NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Will Be Enacted.

Carlton Independent: It now looks as though reapportionment will hardly be an issue in the coming campaign. S. Y. Gordon formulated a platform specifically declaring in favor of the principle, and his triumphant nomination as lieutenant governor shows that the people of Southern as well as Northern Minnesota believe that the census of 1910 should form the basis of this simple act of justice. The forthcoming legislature will enact a reapportionment law.

Weed 'Em Out.

Ada Herald: This would be a good year to weed out those cows from the dairy herd that are not self-sustaining.

North Country Gains.

Two Harbors Journal-News: Marble, a new town in Itasca county, is the first in line with official census returns from Minnesota. The village, which did not exist ten years ago, now has a population of 887. Official bulletins for Minnesota may be expected to follow soon. It is quite certain that the largest increases in the state will be shown from the northern counties and a big gain will be recorded from St. Louis, Aitkin, Cass, Beltrami, Red Lake and the far northwestern counties.

Back in the Harness.

Foley Independent: We note with pleasure that our old friend, J. S. Arneson, is back in the harness, having assumed editorial management of the Chisholm Tribune-Herald. Mr. Arneson is a first-class newspaper man and he will give the inhabitants of that enterprising city a paper worthy of their loyal support. Welcome back, Jamie.

Likes His Home Town.

Eveleth News: There is no better town in St. Louis county than Eveleth; we except neither Duluth, Hibbing or Virgina, admittedly larger, but devoid of that cohesiveness and amiability that has gained for Eveleth the reputation of the most "friendly" town in the county. The term "friendly" as generally used denotes approachableness, courtesy and regard for the stranger and casual acquaintanceship. It is an attribute we are proud of; our specialty. No Evelethian should concede superiority to any community in the county. As an entity we would, if we could, create a new aphorism: "Take nothing from nobody."

Just a Little Mother.

Since I kissed her in the gloaming 'tis forever and a day.
In my dreams I hear her calling, calling o'er the weary sea,
"Come ye back to Ballyshannon, Katy dear, come back to me."

She's standing in the doorway, filling up the little space,
With the kerchief o'er her bosom and the frills around her face;
And my heart runs forth to meet her, o'er the waste of waters wild.

Do you know our Ballyshannon, where the very winds are sweet
With the saltness of the sea-foam and the tang of smoldering peat?
Do you know our mists that fold us in a blanket soft and gray.
Do you know our Ballyshannon in the red-rose dawn of day?

Then you've seen the little mother, just herself, so small and old.
With a look I'm sure would warm you were you shivering with the cold,
Oh, so mirthful and so patient, she, whose work is never done.

In the great house where I'm serving, folk are ever kind to me.
But they do not guess my yearning for the cabin over sea.
Wage I earn and wage I send her. Yet I cannot longer bide,
I must seek my little mother, I must nestle at her side.

Since I kissed her in the gloaming 'tis forever and a day.
In my dreams she's calling, calling! "Mother, darling, yes I'll come.
I'll go back to Ballyshannon, to my mother and my home."

—Margaret E. Sangster in Woman's Home Companion.

"What's the Matter With Business."

Boston Common: Numerous theories as to what is the matter with business are afloat. The following is one advanced by the Chicago Inter-Ocean, and approved by some:

"The average man with money will not buy a security for $1,000 which an order from the president is likely any day after breakfast to change to $750 or $1,250, according to the latest Bristow speech in Kansas, the newest by-election in Rochester, or the freshest appeal from a congressional committee, or the most recent outburst from Oyster Bay."

What substantial and honest value can be greatly or long affected by an executive order, a political speech or a by-election? Is there not a liability to confuse genuine with merely speculative values?

On the day (Tuesday, the 26th) when stock fell on the stock exchanges to what in a number of instances were the lowest readings of the year, the United States Steel Corporation reported quarterly earnings more than a third better than for the corresponding period last year, and unfilled orders exceeding by one-twentieth the bookings of a year ago.

Business varies, of course; and is rarely so good that it might not be better. It will be better than it is now, even though it should first have to become worse. But the kind of business which rests on sane judgment, honest fulfilment of obligation and an avoidance of overspending is by no means at the mercy of trifles, or over much afraid of them.

And that is the kind of business the country needs to encourage.

Studying Bird Habits.

Chicago Tribune: Whether birds, especially migratory ones, return to the same nests year after year is a question of much interest to the naturalist. Swallows that summer in England do not winter north of Africa, but an observer at High Halden, Kent, Eng., has recorded that one returned on April 12 to a nest it occupied last year. It was recognized by a ring placed on its leg May 8, 1909.

To gain a better knowledge of bird habits, more than 2,000 British birds were last year marked with inscribed aluminum rings, and twice as many more will be similarly tagged this year.—Indianapolis News.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Seems to me the president is away from the capital a good deal?"

"He is, that's a fact. But they play better ball in some other towns."

Judge: First Sweet Young Thing—We are starting the battle of life.

Second Sweet Young Thing—Yes; and we don't know whether a divorce is a victory or a defeat.

Boston Transcript: Friend—Is your play up to date?

Author—Up to date! Why, the soubrette in it uses a vacuum cleaner.

"Guess you would too, if you paid 59 cents apiece for 'em."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "He pays me a great deal of deference," admitted the girl's father.

"Yet you seem dissatisfied."

"Yes; I'm afraid that he won't be able to pay any board."

Baltimore American: "So Gazzam died suddenly. Was it the heat?"

"Well—incidentally."

"What do you mean by incidentally?"

"He kept asking people if it was hot enough for them."

Detroit Free Press: "How do you know they're married?"

Boston Transcript: Fuddy—I saw an excellent article on milk this morning.

Duddy—What was it—cream?

Birmingham Age-Herald: "I don't suppose there is anything gets out of date quicker than a woman's hat?"

"Unless it is a battleship."

Judge: Son—Father, what's a bachelor?

Father—A bachelor is a man who could never influence the right girl to encourage him to marry her.

Buffalo Express: "What sort of a social position has Jones in town?"

"He used to stand pretty well, but he's a mere nobody now. He didn't receive any degree this month, he didn't go to New York to meet Roosevelt, none of his daughters were married and he wasn't operated on for appendicitis."

Life: "I see by the papers," says the man with the diffident whiskers, "that it is claimed in Illinois to be no crime to pay a legislator for voting for a United States senator."

"Well," replies the man with the double chin, "when you size up some of those senators it seems as if a man was entitled to good pay for voting for them, doesn't it?"

University of Minnesota Minnehaha: "I have a long line of ancestors who were all of my trade," said the baker.

"Oh, sort of a bread line," smiled the chump.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: In profane history lovers may swear to be true.

Marriage is likely to be a failure if the husband isn't a paying institution.

If a man fails people have no use for him and if he succeeds they hate him.

Honesty is the best policy, but look at the millionaires in the United States senate!

If the flood had lasted a few days longer Noah's wife would have started in to clean house.

Anyway, you seldom see a henpecked man with a bigger load of liquid refreshments than he can carry.

When one woman tells another what her husband said when he proposed to her it's a sign that he never said it.

If every man said what he thought this old world would be as miserable as it would if every woman thought what she said.

A Defense.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: At a convention of dentists at Asbury Park one member made the allegation that sugar is worse in effect than alcohol. He will have to prove his case. Appearances are against his chances of doing so. No man devouring a few cubes of sugar becomes conscious of an impulse to go home and beat his family. The wife with a black eye never says to the magistrate: "Your Honor, John is a kind husband as long as he keeps away from sugar." So much for the moral side. The government supplies the soldiers with chocolate, which is sugar with a brown tint and flavor added. Seminary misses use sugar freely, often in the form of candy, yet nature can show nothing to excel the pearly teeth of the fudge-fed student, and no rose outblushes her cheek. Doubtless there is a possibility of eating to much sugar. The same is true of mush.

CRITICISES CITY JAIL

State Board of Control Agent Says It Is Inadequate.

Health Commissioner Urges Council to Employ Emergency Surgeon.

D. A. Lindsey, deportation agent of the state board of control, severely criticised the local jail at police headquarters in a communication to the city council last night. He declared that the lockup is utterly inadequate to meet the needs of a city like Duluth.

Mr. Lindsey stated that the prisoners are thrown in with the lodgers indiscriminately; that the boys' and women's departments are poorly lighted, and that more room is necessary. He stated that the force is doing very well with the means at its disposal, but that additions should be made. He thought that it could be done at little expense.

Health Commissioner Webster recommended that the city employ a surgeon to answer emergency calls, particularly during the night, or that all patrolmen be instructed in the rudimentary principles of "first aid to the injured."

The health commissioner gave it as his opinion that the death of Emil Lueck, who died a week ago from loss of blood, was entirely unnecessary. He believed that the ambulance should be under the direct supervision of the police department and that in cases similar to that of Lueck the police should make sure that the ambulance had been called. He exonerated Totman Bros. for the last delay, explaining that the ambulance had been on the floor twenty-five minutes before the people at the stable had been informed as to the location of the call.

City Attorney Bert Fesler reported that the city has no legal power to establish or maintain a workhouse. This will preclude any possibility of prisoners being put to work to help remove the Point of Rocks.

* * *

An amendment to the baker ordinance was introduced to cover the carrying of bread into stores. A short time ago two men who had been arrested for this practice were released in police court because the ordinance was defective.

* * *

City Engineer T. F. McGilvray asked permission to sell the horse of the department, the proceeds to be applied to a fund for the purchase of an automobile or runabout. The engineer explained that the men in the department have to visit eight or ten jobs a day and that much money will be saved by the use of an auto. He informed the council that he had taken up the matter of paving West Michigan street between Eighth and Twelfth avenues with the Soo road. He stated that as planned at present part will be macadam and the remainder sandstone, making a very poor pavement.

* * *

The board of public works reported that the Sells-Floto circus had done considerable damage to the street at Twenty-ninth avenue west and Michigan street, due to the fact that the water and light department had granted them permission to use the hydrant at that point. The board suggested that some steps be taken to prevent a repetition.

* * *

H. W. Cheadle, city clerk, reported that the liquor licenses for the first half of this year totaled $85,000. Of this amount 2 per cent must be paid to the state, which uses it for state inebriate hospitals.

* * *

H. J. Mullin asked that the property owners on Third avenue west and First street be required to place the lights inside the property line in conformity with the ordinance.

Your Credit Is Good

Credit is an absolute necessity—every business, whether large or small, must have credit to exist. If you want to brighten up your home with a new davenport, rocker, or dresser, or if a new range is needed and you haven't the ready cash, our Easy Payment plan is at your disposal. This plan not only calls for the smallest down payment, but it protects the wage earner in case of sickness or accident. There are hundreds of homes here in Duluth that have been furnished on our Easy Payment plan. It has proven a great success for the simple reason that it works no hardship on the part of the purchaser.

Getting Married?

If you start married life by living in furnished rooms or a boarding house your expenses will be heavier than if you furnished a little flat or home of your own. Three furnished rooms fitted for light housekeeping will cost you fifty dollars a month, and at the end of a year you have nothing to show for it. You can rent a flat for twenty-five dollars a month and pay ten or twenty dollars per month on the furniture, and you OWN it at the end of the year.

Kelly's home-making plan will show you the way. In furnishing your own home you have an opportunity to display your individual taste and you have privacy which you wouldn't have in a rooming or boarding house.

Remember, we can furnish three rooms as low as $69.00.

Health and Beauty Talks

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

A. W. A.: You say you can find nothing that will protect tender skin from the sun. Try this and I know you will not suffer from sunburn, tan or freckles: Dissolve four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water and add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Apply this, with the palm of the hand, to the face, neck and forearms in the morning and you will find it will not rub off or show like powder. It is a true complexion beautifier, for it restores and preserves the soft and rosy color of youth. This inexpensive lotion is especially fine for those who have dark, sallow or oily skin.

S. L. J.: Very few women are blessed with eyes that are naturally 'beaming and radiant." Most probably those dazzling eyes you envy are the result of using a tonic to strengthen and brighten the eyes. Get from your druggist one ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water and you will have a perfect home-made eye tonic. One or two drops in each eye will relieve inflammation, dullness, redness and soreness. It will not smart or burn. Many persons with weak eyesight find they can dispense with eyeglasses after using this tonic daily a month or two.

G. L. M.: "Shampoo" is a word of Hindoo origin and means "to lather, rub and wash the head." When using canthrox for shampooing, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water; pour on the head a little at a time and rub well—just as you would with an ordinary shampoo, then rinse the hair and scalp thoroughly with warm water. Canthrox makes an abundance of lather and will remove that fine scurf of which you complain, for it is nothing more or less than dandruff. Do not use soap when shampooing, for it leaves the scalp hot and hard and causes streaks in the hair when drying. When you use canthrox the hair dries quickly and is soft, bright, fluffy and not streaky.

Osiris: Have you tried to preserve your youthful looks? Is your husband correct when he says you do not look as young as you should? If you want to keep your skin clear, fresh and velvety, you must take care of it. Use almozoin cream jelly both as a massage and face cream and your complexion will be fine and free from blemish. Get from your druggist one ounce of almozoin, dissolve it one-half pint cold water; add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine; stir well and let stand over night. Then you have a cream that contains no oils or fats to make hair grow or cause the skin to become dark and greasy looking. As a treatment for blackheads it is effective and at the same time "mild as milk," for it completely removes the pore-dirt and decreases the size of the pores, so that the blackheads will not return. Massaging with this almozoin cream prevents roughness, removes wrinkles and keeps the flesh firm and plump.

E. S. F.: You will not need to worry about your hair coming out when you comb it if you will quit experimenting with ready-prepared hair tonics. You need only to use a good quinine tonic two or three times a week; you can prepare this at home by dissolving an ounce of quinzoin in one-half pint alcohol, then adding a half pint of water. Rub this tonic thoroughly into the scalp and it will stop your hair coming out and remove the dandruff entirely. I find it excellent for excessively oily, dull or brittle hair. It is the only dependable remedy I have ever found for hair and scalp troubles and will be found very invigorating.

A. B. C.: You are right when you say no powder or cosmetic will help your complexion while your blood is out of order. Good health is the foundation of a good complexion. This tonic is fine for those who are thin and sallow: Dissolve one-half cup of sugar and one ounce of kardene in one-half pint of alcohol; then add enough hot water to make a full quart and you will have a sufficient supply of a dependable home-made system tonic that will tone up your system and build up your strength. Kardene aids digestion, arouses a torpid liver and purifies the blood. It will clear your complexion of sallowness and pimples and give a charming comeliness that is denied when you are so "run down." You can purchase kardene from any first-class druggist.

Alixe: It is useless to fret and worry and feel utterly wretched just because you are "becoming to fat to be graceful." If you will get from your druggist four ounces of parnotis and dissolve it in 1½ pints of hot water and take a tablespoonful of this harmless flosh reducer before each meal you soon will be satisfied that, while you may not regain your former slim and elegant figure, you will not be so stout as to feel constantly chagrined in society or business.

Carmen: Those tormenting and distressing hairs on your forearms and face disappear if you will apply a paste made by mixing a little water with delatone. Apply it and allow it to remain for two or three minutes, then wipe off and wash with warm water. Delatone is expensive and retails for one dollar an ounce, but one ounce is enough for two or three applications—and that is all you will ever need. Even should the hair return after the first application, it will be thin and light colored. The second or third application removes it effectively and permanently.

KEEPS COURTS-MARTIAL BUSY

Lieut. Janney's Champagne Cooler Prominent in Army Annals.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Three or four courts-martial, with the story of a champagne cooler behind them all, may be brought to an official close this week with the recordings of the verdicts with the war department. Grouped, they form a tragic account of army life in the Philippines.

The trouble started with the suicide of Lieut. Clarence M. Janney in the Philippines. Lieut. Col. Robert F. Ames of the Twelfth Infantry, was court-martialed after an investigation of the death of Janney. Janney shot himself after a quarrel with his wife, while the two were dinner guests of Ames. The quarrel was said to have started over the discovery by Janney that his wife had given Ames a champagne cooler that belonged to Janney.

Newspaper reports are to the effect that Ames has been released from arrest and has resumed his command, but that a rumor is current in Manila that he was reduced twelve numbers.

Chaplain Tried Twice.

Chaplain John E. Dallam of the Twelfth Infantry, has been court-martialed twice as an indirect result of the quarrel at Ames' quarters. He was first brought before a court for criticising Capt. F. B. Wickham for what the chaplain regarded as a failure to intervene in the disturbance at Ames' house. The chaplain was reprimanded.

"I did my professional duty, undeterred by any authority under the sun and entirely regardless of rank and without respect of persons," the chaplain is reported to have said in a newspaper statement following the court-martial. He was ordered before another court-martial.

For indorsing in the newspapers the causes of Chaplain Dallam, Col. William H. C. Bowen, also of the Twelfth Infantry, was ordered before a court-martial. The findings of these courts will probably be received in Washington this week.

COUNSELMAN EATS HIS DINNER AND GOES TO JAIL.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Willis Counselman, broker, was yesterday sentenced to serve three months in the county jail for contempt of court in connection with his part in divorce proceedings to separate him from his wife, an inmate of a hospital for the insane. The sentence was imposed by Judge Chetlain in the superior court, the jurist before whom the alleged fraudulent divorce case was heard. Counselman was taken to the jail and assigned to a cell after he had requested and had been allowed permission to eat dinner in freedom.

UNCLE SAM HAS $1,733,057,808 IN CASH IN HIS STRONG BOX

Washington, Aug. 2.—A grand total of cash in the treasury of $1,733,057,808; a total balance in the general fund of $92,356,224; a working balance in the treasury offices of $30,502,804, and a decrease of $503,136 in the public debt during July is the way the monthly treasury statement shows the situation today.

The total ordinary receipts for July were $58,817,953 and the disbursements $68,411,709, exclusive of disbursements of $4,441,558 for the Panama canal and of $1,726,882 received on account of the public debt and of disbursements of $2,230,019 on that account.

The excess of disbursements over receipts is $14,536,651 against an excess of $18,637,874 in all disbursements over all receipts in July, 1909.

Total Ordinary Receipts.

The total ordinary receipts, which mean those outside of the canal and the public debt, were approximately $5,000,000 greater than in July of last year, while the ordinary disbursements were approximately $1,100,000 more than the same comparative date. The latter increase is partially accounted for by the $1,300,000 more paid on the census the past month than in the previous July. The corporation tax, aggregating $6,117,256 this month, helped to account for the increased receipts.

The census receipts of $25,051,511 mark a falling off of virtually $3,600,000 from July of last year, attributable in part at least to the rush of importations just prior to the passage of the tariff bill last summer.

Internal Revenue Greater.

The internal revenue outside of the corporation tax amounted this month to $23,464,469, which is approximately $2,256,000 more than during the previous July. The miscellaneous receipts also show a slight increase.

The disbursements run about even between the two dates except that the civil and miscellaneous payments, which include the large census out-go, overran the same account for July, 1909, by more than $4,300,000.

The movement for the formation of emergency currency associations to enable the banks to issue additional currency in financial crises, a precautionary measure, adopted by Secretary McVeagh at what he regarded as an opportune time of financial calm, continues.

REFUSES TO MIX IN CALIFORNIA FIGHT

Roosevelt Sends Telegram on Politics in That State.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 2.—The Bulletin prints this telegram from Col. Theodore Roosevelt, which it says, was in answer to a mesage informing him that his recent telegram to Philip A. Stanton, concerning the gubernatorial fight was being distorted:

"Oyster Bay, L. I., July 30, 1910.

"Fremont Older, San Francisco, Cal.

"It is simply nonsense to suppose that my statement has any other than its face value. It is impossible to twist it, and it needs no supplementary statement whatever of any kind or form. It was the statement in the Johnson papers that I sent Pinchot to speak for Johnson, which rendered my statement imperative. I refuse positively to make any statement in favor of Stanton in spite of his past services in the Japanese matter, and it is equally impossible to make a statement on the side of Johnson, though I fully appreciate Johnson's attitude. All you have to do is to take my flat statement of yesterday, and you can construe it in the only way it can possibly be construed.

NEW LIMIT PLACED ON PULPWOOD EXPORTATION.

New York, Aug. 2.—Information has been received here that the government of the Province of Quebec has prohibited the exportation of pulpwood from land held by settlers on ticket. Where full payment for lands has been made and ownership passes to the buyer, the prohibition does not apply.

The action of the Quebec authorities is said to be the second step in their movement to prohibit the exportation of pulpwood, which is used largely in the manufacture of print paper. A previous prohibition had been placed on the exportation of wood cut from crown lands. Together the crown lands and settlers' lands have heretofore furnished about 47 per cent of the pulpwood brought from Canada to the United States.

PITCHER HINRICHS HAS INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Washington, Aug. 2.—William Hinrichs, pitcher of the Washington American league baseball team, is a patient in the Georgetown University hospital here suffering from infantile paralysis, a disease which rarely attacks an adult person. Hinrichs, who is 21 years old, went to the hospital five days ago for treatment for his arm, which appeared paralyzed. Dr. S. Clifford Cox, who is attending Hinrichs, declares the young man undoubtedly is afflicted with infantile paralysis.

Eskimo Kills Army Officer.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 2.—Capt. Peter Ellistom, commanding the Royal Canadian army in the Eskimo garrison, was shot and killed yesterday by Gunner Thomas Allen of his company. Allen, who had recently been punished for a military offense, waited outside the company office, and when Capt. Ellison came out Allen shot him through the neck. After the shooting, Allen went to the woods, where he was captured by a squad of mounted police.

THEY REPORT FAIR YIELDS

Red River Valley Farmers, Now Harvesting, Predict Good Returns.

One Farmer Who Cut His Oats, Reports Fairly Good Yield.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Practically every harvester in the Red River valley is humming and as the weather is ideal the grain is being put into shock rapidly.

A few of the smaller farmers have finished wheat cutting, but the majority are not more than 25 per cent through.

Charles Johnson is the first to finish his wheat and oats and reports a fairly good crops. He has his barley left which was sowed late. The wind will be a factor in saving the shortest of the crop. With little or no wind it can be cut and bound without trouble but with a high wind it would be difficult to get it on the binder platform without flipping it all over the canvas but thus far there has been nothing but a little breeze and has therefore been very favorable to saving everything cut without trouble.

The threesermen are getting their machines into shape and the grain will be pounded out just as soon as possible. The straw is dry and the grain will harden and be fit for the threshing much sooner than with a heavy crop of green straw which would be necessary to dry for some time before it could be put through a threshing machine.

THE TRUE TEST

Tried in Duluth, It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Duluth. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

H. G. Hibke, 1123 Woodland avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble, brought on I believe by constant driving and exposure to all kinds of weather. Severe pains in the small of my back made stooping or lifting difficult and every cold I caught settled in my kidneys, aggravating my complaint. I was also subject to headaches and the kidney secretions often became highly colored and irregular in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have not had a symptom of my trouble since."

The above statement was given on Oct. 20, 1904 and on Nov. 20, Mr. Hibke added: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no need of a kidney remedy. I willingly confirm all I have previously said about this preparation, as I know it is very effective in cases of kidney complaint."

WHY MENOMINEE IS SUCH GRETNA GREEN

COUNTY CLERK HANSEN.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The location of this city, just across the boundary between Michigan and Wisconsin, and because of the laws in the latter state against "quick marriages," has made Menominee a sort of Gretna Green and the scene of many clandestine marriages. In Wisconsin five days must elapse after a license to wed has been issued before the knot can be legally tied. It is different in this state. County Clerk C. C. Hansen, from whose office the licenses are issued, has joined the local ministers in favor of the enactment of a law in Michigan similar to that of Wisconsin.

"If we get the proposed law in this state, it will do a great deal towards stopping runaway matches," said Mr. Hansen. "There are many marriages which are performed in haste and without proper thought on the part of the contracting parties."

McDONNELL HAS FINISHED WORK

Duluth Contractor Through With His Grand Forks Paving Contracts.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald:)—Grand Forks now boasts a little over three miles of Donnellite pavement, Contractor P. McDonnell of Duluth completing all of his Donnellite paving contracts in this city today. His equipment, used in Grand Forks during the latter part of last season and up to the present time this year, will be shipped back to Duluth immediately.

Donnellite pavement has been laid on several of the principal business streets of the city, being on South Third street and on International avenue, two of the heaviest traveled thoroughfares in Grand Forks. On the latter avenue a new surface has been put on, the traffic being so extremely heavy that it has been deemed advisable to afford the greatest possible protection for the pavement.

In all, there are thirty-eight blocks of the Donnellite paving.

ST. PAUL OARSMAN WHACKS INTRUDER

Lands on Individual Who Persisted in Invading Rowing Club's Car.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—An amusing but futile attempt to get a settlement out of the Great Northern was made here Sunday evening, when a man who gave the name of Curley Daniels, stating he hailed from Fargo, raised a rumpus about the Great Northern depot after the Great Northern Winnipeg Flyer pulled out for St. Paul. Just before the train started Daniels had received a blow on the jaw which sent him sprawling on the depot platform and cut his lip pretty badly. After the train pulled out he rushed into the depot and wanted the immediate address of the Great Northern claim agent, saying the colored porter had knocked him down as he was trying to enter one of the special cars occupied by the Minnesota Boat club.

Daniels had a companion, and the two had been drinking, and having passes to Fargo, insisted on boarding the Flyer. The porter told them they could not get on the private cars, but they insisted, and finally a husky member of the St. Paul Boat club, tired of the arguments Daniels and his friend were putting up, used a little of the muscle he had left after winning the most of the trophies at the Kenora regatta, landing on Daniels' jaw. Several saw who made the assault, which Daniels' offensiveness justified, and the bluff Daniels was trying to work for damages was exploded, the two men sneaking out of the city last evening after they discovered that local witnesses disputed their story.

MALT RESTRICTED.

Why Department Included That Beverage in Closing Order.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. J. Sero, special officer of the Indian department who is in charge of the enforcement in this territory of the orders preventing the sale of liquor to Indians, states that there is nothing new relative to the recent order whereby Bemidji was excluded from the territory proscribed as "dry" and some neighboring towns were placed in the "torrid" zone. He is of the opinion that as long as the saloon keepers of this city adhere to their present actions with relation to the sale of liquor to the red men, no action will be taken whereby the saloons will be closed here. With regard to the order just issued to the poolroom keepers and others in the "dry" zone not to sell malt, Mr. Sero states that the recent order includes the sale of any liquor which requires the government stamp, hence malt is among the "restricted" liquids.

GOVERNOR COMING TO AITKIN'S FAIR

He Accepts Invitation and Will Be on Hand Sept. 17.

Aitkin, Minn., Aug. 2. — (Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart will attend the Aitkin county fair here.

Secretary Warner recently invited him to make an address here during the fair, and now has the governor's reply, in which he accepts the invitation, and states that he has reserves Sept. 17 as the date of his visit here.

Sept. 17 falls on Saturday, the last day of the fair, and as this is usually the best day, it is fair to presume that the attendance on the day of Governor Eberhart's visit will be a record breaker.

The first donation for the county fair this year is from George S. Carson of Iowa City, who offers cash prizes amounting to $30 for the best milch cows, irrespective of breed, to be divided as follows:

First prize, $15; second, $10; third, $5. The conditions governing the prizes are to be formed by the members of the association.

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD.

Aitkin County Woman Make Horrible Discovery Searching for Him.

Aitkin, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Searching for her husband, who disappeared from their home carrying a rifle, after acting queerly for some time, Mrs. William Krumpola, wife of a farmer living near Mississippi Landing, came across his body lying near a fence in the pasture.

The rifle was found lying near the body of the dead man with but one shell, a 45-90, in the barrel. The bullet had entered the right temple and had torn away nearly all of the back of the skull. Evidently the gun had been discharged by placing the trigger on one of the barbs of the wire fence just inside the bars, through which the man had passed.

The dead man was 33 years of age and leaves a wife and three children—two girls, aged about 7 and 3 years respectively, and a boy, aged about 2 years.

Krumpola had been a resident of the Finnish settlement there for about six years, and had a nice farm and good buildings on it. He was a very industrious man and highly respected by all who knew him.

PARTIALLY BLIND INDIAN RUN OVER BY TRAIN.

He was at once taken to the General hospital, where the doctors found it necessary to cut off his left foot above the ankle. He comes from the Fort Totten reservation.

The old man is partially blind and did not notice the engine approaching until it was impossible for him to make his escape.

WESTERN DRAMA AT THE LYCEUM

Forbes Players Present "An Old Sweetheart of Mine."

When the unnamed hero who is responsible for "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" gave birth to this brain child of his he had the last word in Western drama.

He is the Ibsen of the "Oh, Hell" school; the Maeterlinck of the plains; the Shakespeare of the alkali dust. The heroine of "The Great Divide," who weepingly works out her purchase price in the basket business, is a pale pink kind of lady beside the old sweetheart. The Squaw Man—and by the way, it would be interesting to know whether "The Squaw Man" or "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" were written first—is outdone by this cyclone from the Texas plains. It reeks of the West—or perhaps it would be better to say, of the Broadway dramatic blacksmith's idea of the West, from the pair of white doormats one cowboy wore for trousers, to the fire eating old Texas Colonel and his 'biled shirts."

But it's interesting. It is as subtle as a pie driver at a steady job; as delicate as a Butte millionaire inhaling soup; and as logical as a Populist politician on the stump.

When a climax is coming you don't have to watch for it. The author gives you fair warning. He has the red lights out, and the bells ringing five minutes before the climax is due, and everybody is out on the edge of the seat waiting for it. And the old sweetheart doesn't show any false modesty about grabbing her former lover when she knows he is free. There is no maidenly shirking from a man who thought he was married for four years to a drunken squaw. She grabs him and doesn't lose any time about it. (Of course it's the author's fault, not Miss Wayne's.) And for the logic—but what's the use?

Nobody loses any time in 'An Old Sweetheart of Mine," and that's why it's interesting. The action permits it to "get by." There is something stirring from the time the curtain goes up until Mr. Forbes gets that half Nelson on Miss Wayne just under the final curtain, and they clinch, waiting for the gong.

The modest author could give Augustus Thomas high, low, jack and the game, and "beg out" on him. He has out-Thomased Thomas; out Moodied, Moody.

But don't think it isn't interesting. It is like a northeaster after a hot spell.

Mr. Forbes seems to be able to step into any part from Hamlet to Little Eva. He can tear off the "To be, or not to be," stuff; shine in the society of Ibsenesque forehead pounders; cynically drop Bernard Shawisms; emulate Willie Collier in a peaceful parlor farce; or shoot greasers on the Western plains, and he seems to do them all equally well. He is a whole department store of acting. Before he leaves Duluth this fall he should essay the burnt cork and try his hand at a buck and wing. That is about the only role he has not tried. His "Dick Scott' is just as good as his "Frank Fuller" of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," and that is not meant for a back handed compliment, either.

Miss Wayne, of course, is the "old sweetheart," otherwise Miss Margaret Lee. Miss Wayne is making new friends every week in Duluth, as was evidenced by the reception she was given last evening. She is a capable, hard working artist, who makes a conscientious effort to give a correct interpretation of any role assigned to her—and what is better yet, succeeds.

J. K. McCurdy is making nearly as many friends as Mr. Forbes and Miss Wayne. He is a "find" for comedy roles, and his "Slim" is excellent.

If somebody would tell Miss Desmond not to start her lines with a climax and leave something in reserve for the real climax when it came, her Wonona would be a clever piece of work. Her makeup is good; her "business" well thought out; but her lines almost a continuous exclamation mark, and shouted.

The cowboys, Frank Fielder and Harry Fisher were good, but the property man who dug up those doormat trousers, gave them poor support. He must have ransacked Mr. Forbes' cottage and picked up the kitchen foot wipers. But maybe they wear them like that in the West.

Somebody had a pair in "The Squaw Man" and there was another pair in "The Virginian."

"As it was in the beginning,
Is today the "prop man's" sinning,
And shall be for evermore."

Jack Rose had but a minor role as the sheriff, but there was nothing objectionable in his work, and Miss Watson succeeded in laying aside the attributes of a soubrette, and gave a very life like and natural performance as Juanita.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine" may have its faults, but dullness is not one of them. It's exhilarating at least, and that covers a multitude of sins.

"Charlie's Aunt."

"Charlie's Aunt" the greatest farce ever written, will be the next play offered Lyceum patrons by Mr. Forbes. This great old play will be given for a week beginning next Monday night.

COMEDY SKETCH HEADS BIJOU BILL

"His Opponent, the Suffragette," Feature of Program at Vaudeville House.

"His Opponent, the Suffragette," is the head-liner at the Bijou this week, and it is a good one. As the name indicates, the sketch is based on a political situation, in which the wife opposes the husband as a candidate for mayor. The sketch is full of action and good comedy and made a distinct hit with the audience at each performance yesterday.

Emma Don, who is billed as "England's greatest male impersonator," has a good act, which has a certain novelty in the fact that a similar act has not appeared on the Bijou bill for some time. She sings "I Must Go Home Tonight," "Flannigan," and "All Nice Girls Love a Sailor," and was heartily applauded yesterday.

Haydn, Borden and Haydn have a good musical act that went well with the crowd. They played on several musical instruments and Borden's imitation of a church organ with the harmonica was a pleasing feature.

Milo and Hattie Vagges do a bag-punching act that is novel and pleasing. They punch two, three and four bags at a time, using arms, legs and heads—an exhibition, the equal of which has never been seen at the Bijou.

Kate Fowler is no novice at the piano. She brought tones and tunes out of the instrument that one wonders it possesses, and her act was not the least entertaining on the bill.

Prisoner Refused to Keep His Feet Covered Before Judge.

Guisseppi Furlani believed in being polite in the court yesterday, when he was to be arraigned before Judge Ensign of the district court, on the charge of murder in the first degree. If it were proper for him to remove his hat before the distinguished court, he believed it equally proper to remove his shoes.

The sheriff's force was unable to convince him that as such action was not according to American etiquette, and even some of the other prisoners with whom he was acquainted could not show him the error of his ways.

It is believed that he is insane, and it may be that information will be filed against him in the probate court, petitioning for an examination, as to his sanity.

In his determination to remove his shoes he made things so interesting that several men had to restrain him. No sooner had he been taken into the court room yesterday afternoon with a number of other prisoners, who were to plead to charges of crimes, than he sat down on the floor and took off the shoes. Deputy Sheriff Lerch ordered him to put them on again, but he refused, and with the assistance of Deputy Al Arnson, Deputy Magie and one of the prisoners, he was dragged out of the court room into the sheriff's office, where after a long struggle he was hurled heavily to the floor and the shoes placed on his feet again. Once more he tried to take off the shoes, but the force against him was too great. He was then bound by heavy hand-cuffs to one of the big prisoners, who managed to handle him.

Furlani is accused of murdering Mario Furlani at Stuntz, on July 4, when he struck his victim with a steel bar, following a quarrel. He entered a plea of not guilty.

Pasquale Spigerilli is charged with grand larceny in the second degree; Katio Fabish and Dave Merizlak with a statutory crime; Eli Rajacic and Fred Susnok, second degree assault; John Hendrickson with indecent assault, and Peter Chrishaultz with third degree arson.

All pleaded not guilty, and will be tried in the district court at Virginia during the September term. They were given the privilege of entering pleas of guilty, if they desired at any time before the term of court began, upon the advise of their counsel. Warren E. Greene, assistant county attorney, represented the state in the cases.

France Honors Canadian Minister.

Alaska Coal Land Claims to Be Investigated By Christenson.

Washington, Aug. 2.—All of the Alaskan coal land claims, with the exception of the famous Cunningham group, will be reinvestigated by order of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. The work will be in charge of Andrew Christensen, who succeeded Louis R. Glavis when the latter was dismissed as chief of the field division of the general land office with headquarters at Portland, Or., which had charge of the Alaskan district.

It was Mr. Christensen, who during the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation directed the opening of a box stored in the federal building in Seattle and belonging to Mr. Glavis, which resulted in the finding of twenty-four letters that had been missing from the Juneau land office. Glavis claimed the letters were put there without his knowledge and the action was arranged by his enemies. The two men have been foes since.

Made Separate Division.

In view of the importance of the Alaskan coal fields, the investigation has been separated from the Portland office and Mr. Christensen, with the title of chief of field division in charge of Alaskan coal lands investigations, will examine the 900 or more entries, averaging 160 acres to the claim. Some of these claims were examined by Mr. Glavis. The Cunningham claims will be excepted from the investigation because they have already been reinvestigated and the record is now in the general land office, awaiting action by the commissioner.

Mr. Christensen is in Washington conferring with officials of the interior department regarding the work. He says he has received instructions from his superiors to see that everyone gets a fair show.

One month ago it was reported that she had been slain in an uprising of natives in Shantung province and the state department at Washington investigated.

LAKE NEARLY FISHED OUT

Superior White Fish and Lake Trout Are Rapidly Growing Scarcer.

Former Nearly Extinct---Even Herring Are No Longer Plentiful.

Will whitefish and lake trout eventually become so scarce in Lake Superior that fishing will be dropped as a business unprofitable?

The day is not so remote as it may seem at first thought, according to the men who handle not only the white fish that have helped to make Duluth and Lake Superior famous, but also lake trout and other fish that were abundant in Lake Superior waters not so very long ago. Even herring, usually very common, are becoming scarce.

According to the statement of one of the officials of the Booth company, white fish and lake trout are much more scarce the present season than they were last year. The company is getting daily supplies of these fish, but the supplies will not average up to the supplies secured last season. No definite figures were given to substantiate this statement.

When asked if it was a possibility that white fish might become extinct, the official of the company answered in the affirmative.

The reason given at the Booth company for the growing scarcity of white fish is the heavy demand for them. The lake is restocked from time to time with various species of fish, but, according to the statement of the Booth company official, the restocking of the lake is not keeping pace with the number of fish that are annually being taken out. It is claimed that the restocking is not always well done, and that the fry is sometimes dumped overboard from a steamer instead of being planted along the shore.

Mr. Norris died on Nov. 14, 1906, and by the terms of his will, his right to the judgment was left to Mary Norris.

The plaintiff avers that on May 28, this year, the Anderson company gave the produce company a note for $915.25 for value received, and that when it attempted to collect from the Gilbert bank it could only secure $200. Many demands for settlement have been made, the plaintiff claims, but it has not received the money.

Verdict for Plaintiff.
The sealed verdict returned last evening by the jury in the case of the Standard Grain company against the Fidelity & Deposit company, of Maryland, which has been on before Judge Ensign of the district court for several days, gave the plaintiff judgment against the bonding company for $933.05. It was claimed by the grain company that Walter M. # HAVE UPTURN AT THE CLOSE

Coppers Advance in Sympathy With Railroads and Industrials.

The copper market opened weak and sagged but on reports of a favorable nature from the crop regions of the West and Northwest the railroads and industrials took a brace and the tone was instantly communicated to the coppers. Values reacted and shorts rushed to cover. Offerings were light. The upturn brought out considerable buying, especially in Amalgamated, and values went forward sharply, closing from two to four points higher than at the opening and from one to three and one-half points over yesterday's close.

The leaders showed the greatest strength as the rally came too late to be of much benefit to the less active issues and the specialties. The tone of the market toward the close was distinctly favorable. The professionals appeared to center their efforts on Amalgamated although Lake acted well and closed strong.

It is said that between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 pounds of the red metal has been sold by a leading agency. A domestic concern bought 5,000 tons, equal to 11,200,000 pounds, for shipment west. Most of the copper was sold at 12½c to 12⅝c a pound. Some dealers are now asking 12¾c a pound. It is said that an effort will be made by leading agencies to make the selling price 13c on the next big buying movement.

The foreign visible supply of copper on Aug. 1 was 99,239 tons, a decrease of 3,420 tons within the last two weeks. This statement was regarded as highly favorable to the market and was one of the reasons that inspired the buying movement in coppers when the shorts began to put prices upward on their covering movement.

The curtailment of production continues. Within a few days the policy will apply to about 75 per cent of the country's production. Some of the big lake producers will not curtail production, as they have been pursuing that policy for several months.

The output of Greene-Cananea will be reduced this month and thereafter, according to a reliable authority. The July production is expected to be slightly in excess of 4,000,000 pounds, which is the general average for several months past. The curtailment policy, it is said, will become effective immediately.

HAS BALLINGER BEEN TOLD HE MUST QUIT THE CABINET OR HE MAY BE KICKED OUT?

Interpretation Is Put on Conference With Crane in Minneapolis.

Party Leaders Are Said to Be Trying to Force Taft to Act.

Meeting of Secretary and Senator Not at All Accidental.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 2.—Has Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger been flatly told by Republican leaders, through the medium of Senator William Murray Crane, that if he does not get out of the Taft cabinet voluntarily he may be forced to resign?

That is the interpretation put by political wiseacres on the conference of the secretary and the senator at Minneapolis yesterday.

Pressure is being brought to bear on President Taft to call on the secretary for his resignation, but thus far all such efforts have been met by the president's firm reiteration of perfect confidence in his cabinet officer. Now, however, it is being whispered that Senator Crane's mission to the West is not only to find out how President Taft stands in the eyes of the people of that section, but to gather up the sentiment toward Mr. Ballinger, with the possible result that a preponderance of hostile feeling might lead even so far as an absolute reversal of the executive's previous attitude regarding the resignation of Ballinger.

No Official Statement.

No statement was forthcoming from official quarters today regarding the meeting between Senator Winthrop Murray Crane and Secretary of the Interior Ballinger at Minneapolis yesterday. There was no disposition, however, to treat the meeting as "accidental." The statement was reiterated that President Taft would not "lift his little finger if by doing so he could secure the retirement of Mr. Ballinger from the cabinet."

When it was suggested to the White House officers that Senator Crane may have felt called upon, in order to secure party harmony, to request the secretary of the interior to resign, the only answer was that Senator Crane would have to be asked about that phase of the matter.

When Senator Crane came to see President Taft last Friday an attempt was made to keep his visit secret. Secretary Norton was plainly worried when he found that Senator Crane's presence in Beverly had been detected. The senator himself had made secrecy a condition of his coming.

Crane and His Mission.

It is known that Senator Crane was sent for to go on an important mission for the president to Seattle.

The meeting with Secretary Ballinger at Minneapolis suggests a modification of the original plans and justifies the announcement which followed the interview here that Senator Crane "might go all the way to the coast."

Secretary Norton admitted today there was more to Senator Crane's mission than had appeared in the newspapers. It was said today that Senator Crane's visit to the president was instigated more by some party leaders, including the secretary to the president, than by Mr. Taft. The president has received many letters suggesting that Secretary Ballinger, because of attacks made upon him, was proving an embarrassment in the making of plans for the coming congressional campaign.

Points at Ballinger.

Mr. Taft, having stood by Secretary Ballinger through all his troubles, and still believing in him, has refused to listen to the complaints. They have had their effect on others, however, connected with the administration and the party, and it is reported here today that certain of the leaders may have taken it upon themselves to handle the situation.

Secretary Ballinger remains to be reckoned with, however. He has repeatedly declared that he will not resign, and among his friends there is a strong belief that he will not resign unless directly asked to do so by the president. This, it is declared, the president will not do.

Following Senator Crane's interview with the president, the report spread rapidly that it had to do mainly with Secretary Ballinger and that a trip through the West to survey general political conditions would be an adjunct to the principal mission. The idea that Senator Crane was to meet and deal with Secretary Ballinger was so strongly denied by Secretary Norton that the report finally came to be regarded as erroneous and was so treated here until yesterday's meeting at Minneapolis, which seemed to throw a different light on the situation.

Mrs. Maria Hoagland Wakefield of Orono township, Hennepin county, died Sunday morning at Wayzata. Mrs. Wakeland was born at Millsborough, N. J., and was married in Greensburg, Ohio, in 1840 to Bradford Wakefield, who died in 1868. The family moved to Minnesota in 1856, and Mrs. Wakefield lived continuously on a farm in Orono township from 1857 until her death. She was the mother of seven children, of whom three sons and a daughter survive; Dr. Kee Wakefield of Hutchinson, Thomas C. Wakefield of Nome, Alaska, Warren Wakefield of Wayzata, and Mrs. B. F. Udell of Jefferson, Ohio. There are fifteen grandchildren and eight greatgrandchildren.

HE WAS CONGENIAL.

Harry Hollowell, the lumber broker, while out on a buying tour in Kentucky, was forced to seek hotel accommodations at the Eagle house in Clay City, reports the Cincinnati Meddler. The hotel was crowded to the walls, and at 1 o'clock in the morning Hollowell was awakeued by voices in the hall.

A young man was raising objections because his request for accommodations was refused. Hollowell opened the door of his room and invited the young man to share his bed with him, having sized him up as trustworthy and clean.

The latter was profuse in his thanks and started to make his toilet. First he opened his paper valise and abstracted a bottle of liquid with which he proceeded to rub his hands.

"What's the matter?" asked Hollowell.

"Oh, I'm troubled with the eczema, but I'm still your friend," replied his roommate. From the valise he procured another bottle, the contents of which he rubbed upon his neck.

"You see I am also afflicted with the tonsilitis to such an extent that I can scarcely swallow, but I'm still your friend."

The next step was to request Hollowell to drop some medicine into his left eye. "Pall," he said, "you are a friend worth having."

Hallowell looked at him with great admiration and said: "Well, my son, for a man that can't eat, see very well, or shake hands, you are about the most congenial son-of-a-sea-cook I ever stalked up against."

YOUNG AMERICA.

Delineator: "Remember, darling, this is Sunday and you must not play in the front yard," admonished a little girl's mother.

"Well, mamma," she asked, thoughtfully, "isn't it Sunday in the back yard, too?"

Sophie, after scrutinizing her new sister for several moments, discovered deep creases in the flesh of her fat little wrists and neck.

"Mamma," said Sophie earnestly, "we don't want her; she's cracked. We must exchange her right away."

Little Evelyn had received many pretty birthday gifts. "I think you are a fortunate little girl," said her aunt. "When I was a little girl I was thankful to get even one birthday present."

"Oh, dear," replied Evelyn with a shudder, "I'm glad I didn't live in Bible times."

A little 5-year-old boy, the possessor of many toys, was asked to give some of them to a less fortunate baby cousin. He generously consented, but after a moment's thought looked up and said very earnestly: "Mamma, I don't want to give all my playthings away. I never expect to have any children, but I would like to keep some for my grandchildren."

At Sunday dinner the other day a little fellow was picking the drumsticks of a chicken and swallowed one of the tendons. After much difficulty, it was removed from his throat, when he looked up and said:

It was moving day, and the family was getting settled down in the new home. Little Meribah, aged 3, after watching her father put down the parlor carpet, went to him and said:

"Papa, won't you give me the hammer when you get through with it, so's I can spank some nails, too?"

One night he was put to bed and the light blown out. In a few minutes sobs were heard coming from the direction of Paul's bed. "What's the matter, son?" said his papa. "I can't see how to shut my eyes," sobbed the little fellow.

Jack was sitting on the front veranda one summer evening, when Fido ran into the street to greet another dog. Fido's family very excitedly called him in. Jack looked on seriously a moment, then said: "I wouldn't like to be Fido, mamma."

"Why?" asked his mother.

"They won't allow him to associate with any other dogs. Why," continued Jack, "they don't allow him to associate with himself hardly."

HOT HEAT.

James H. Scarr, New York's weather expert, was talking about the heat.

"Our summer heat is, of course, a pretty formidable thing," he said, "but it's not quite so formidable as some people, for their own good, try to make out.

"When I read the terrible descriptions of our heat that appear in steamship and seashore advertisements I wink to myself and think of Sam Thomas.

"Sam was a farm boy. The farmer, while mowing one hot day, sent him off to the general store for a plug of tobacco. Sam on his return broke the farmer's sharpening stone—he stepped on it in jumping over the fence. But he kept on his way as if nothing had happened, and then, after he had handed the farmer the tobacco, he said:

"'Ain't the heat terrible, Boss? I half-believe your sharpenin' stone'll be broke by the time you get back to the of the field. It was bendin' nearly double with the heat of the sun as I came by.'"

CHANCES OF LIVING.

Youth's Companion: At the age of 86 Mme. Reynolds still found much zest in life and having retained all her faculties she felt that a few of the physical disabilities of her age were of small account and portended nothing. Her nephew, Thomas, was a man of much worth but of a certain tactlessness of speech which always roused the ire of his aunt.

A few weeks before the old lady's eighty-seventh birthday Thomas, who had been overweighted with business cares for years, started on a trip round the world which was to consume two years.

"I've come to say goodby," he announced when he appeared at his aunt's house, in a town fifty miles distant from his home. "I'm starting round the world next week and as I'm to be gone two years and perhaps longer I thought I might not ever—well, you understand, I wanted to be sure to see you once more."

The old lady leaned forward, fixing him with her beadlike eyes.

"Thomas," she said imperatively, "do you mean to tell me the doctor doesn't think you'll live to get back?"

OVERWHELMED BY GREATNESS.

The old-time pompous politician of the South is fast dying out. The present generation do not appreciate him nor do they understand how to rise to his lead. Even the ready-witted, cordial Bob Taylor when he was governor of Tennessee was nonplused when a tall, gaunt, gray-haired figure wearing a long-tailed coat and a Buffalo Bill hat strode into his office and in deep, grandiloquent tones began: "Governor Taylor, I am Mister John Wesly Gaines." "Ah, Mr. Gaines," said the governor, "I am delighted to see you; have a seat, Mr. Gaines, have a seat." But Mr. Gaines had not finished, and continued: "Governor Taylor, I am the son-in-law of Judge——" but the overwhelmed governor sprang from his chair and exclaimed: "Have two seats, Mr. Gaines, have two seats; I insist upon it!" JAPANNING THE CATSKILLS.

The experiment of introducing Japanese architecture into an American setting has been made by J. Q. A. Ward, the sculptor, whose summer home in the Catskill mountains, not far from a tiny hamlet called Peekamoose, is in Japanese style. According to a writer in Brooklyn Life, it looks as if some beautiful Japan residence had been taken up in a dirigible and then softly lowered into the American landscape.

"Mrs. Ward seems to dress in keeping with the house," continues the correspondent, "for when I saw her in her garden she wore a short gown of nankeen blue, a blue and white kimona sacque and a huge Oriental straw hat with a steeple crown and a brim as big as a cartwheel.

"Over the hills from Peekamoose, at a secluded spot known as Denning, a New York lawyer, Mr. Alexander Tison, has a large summer home built on Japanese lines and a garden which was laid out by gardeners from the Flowery Kingdom. When the iris is in bloom this garden is wonderfully charming."

SOON TO BE UNVEILED IN DETROIT

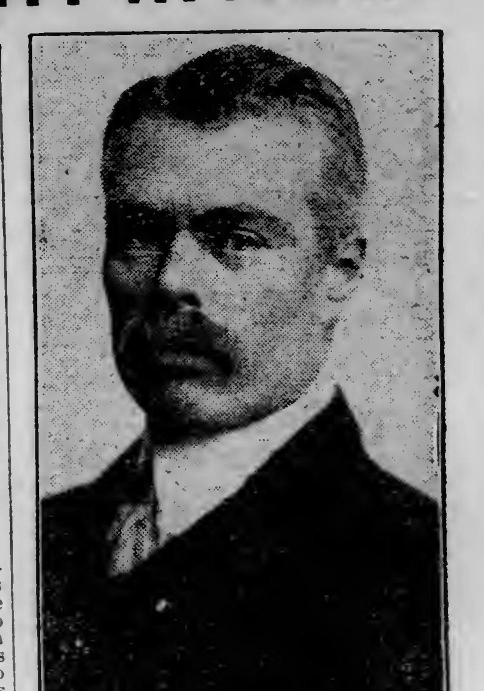
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—A bust of Christopher Columbus by the sculptor, Augusto Rivalta, will be unveiled here soon. Prof. Griffit of the museum of fine arts declares the bust to be exceptionally fine.

JOHN H. NORTON'S WORK AS COUNTY ATTORNEY

Record of Office Is of Interest to All Citizens Who Care What Public Officials Are Doing. Prosecutions and Not Persecutions His Aim.



In the administration of this office this fact has been constantly borne in mind. No county office exerts a greater power for good or evil. The end to be attained is justice. It often happens that the defendant in one case should be given a long term in the penitentiary, while in the next case the accused should be shown mercy, and perhaps in the one following there should be no prosecution at all. The way in which these difficult problems are handled will appear in that which foows:

Complaints.

Do you realize that the greater proportion of the work of this office is done outside of the courtroom? One of the principal duties is to listen to complaints and issue warrants in such cases as justify it and in such cases only. It is not only necessary to prosecute in the proper cases, it is equally necessary to refuse to prosecute in cases where the accused might be innocent or the proof not sufficient. The exercise of careful judgment in this respect may at times cause disappointment to a complainant, but it has unquestionably saved a number of innocent men from the disgrace of arrest and improsonment, and also prevented the expenditure for useless trials of thousands of dollars of the county's money. Public money is as sacred as private money.

Probation Work.

There is another phase of the work in which there is much satisfaction. It sometimes happens that young men throug drink, despondency or the influence of evil companions commit crimes. What should be done in such cases? This is what is done. The facts are investigated, the young man's past life is searched out, his habits and his circumstances are gone over. If from this investigation it seems probable that he still has the making of a man in him a recommendation is made to the court that he be given another chance in life. If after an independent investigation the court comes to the same conclusion the young man is placed on probation. He is obliged to pay back what he has stolen if the crime is larceny, "cut out" the drink and the bad companions, and obliged to report regularly to a probation officer for a considerable period of time.

John H. Norton.

If he makes good, the charge is entirely wiped out and he can go ahead with a clean slate. In the last three years and a half this has been tried with over forty men, and nearly all have justified the reliance placed in them. They are now good and upright citizens. If they had gone to the penitentiary or reformatory they might have become full fledged criminals. I do not know what you think about this, but I am glad I took the course I did with them. I would rather make a man than a criminal any day in the week.

Trials.

From the time of the first complaint until the time of trial all criminal cases are under investigation, and if at any time it appears that the defendant is innocent the proper steps are taken to free the accused. When, however, it becomes necessary to try cases they are tried vigorously, but never vindictively.

The volume of cases has greatly increased in the last three years and a half. This office has handled over 700 cases, almost twice as many as that of the three years immediately preceding. In the last three years and a half there has been 173 trials in court. In the five years previous under my predecessor there were only 152 trials in court.

The trial record during the last three years and a half has been second to no county in Minnesota, the percentage of cases won being unsurpassed in this or in any other county. This statement is not made because of any pride in having convicted men of crime but merely for the purpose of demonstrating that when it becomes necessary to try cases they are tried properly. During this term there has alaso been collected in fines $19,442, against $8,195 in the three years preceding.

Civil Work.

The responsibility for the proper execution of this work rests with the county attorney, but during the last three years and a half this department has been under the charge and control of Mr. W. J. Stevenson. All legal work in connection with the erection of the new court house was attended to by him in addition to his regular duties. It is safe to say that his services have been in the highest degree satisfactory, and for that work he is entitled to all the credit.

Office Force.

This consists of John H. Norton, county attorney; Warren E. Greene, first assistant; James P. Boyle, second assistant, and W. J. Stevenson, special counsel. These four men have handled more work than Ramsey county with the same number, and almost as much as Hennepin county with five men, and at much lower salaries and over a vastly greater area.

Mr. Norton is a candidate for reelection and believes that the experience which he and his assistants have had renders himself and them capable of performing the duties of the office in a manner even more efficient and economical than in the past, and therefore asks the support of all persons who believe in a fair and impartial administration of that office.

NORTH SHORE PAPER MILL WILL BE BIG INDUSTRY

Three Miles of Railroad and Huge Dock Being Built.

Two Townsites Platted---Cleared Lands Will Be Colonized.

There is coming into being on the north shore in the vicinity of Lutsen, the beginning of what will be one of the big industries that are portents of prosperity for Northern Minnesota.

The new industry will be located at Lockport, a mile and a half east of Lutsen and will be a pulp and paper plant. It is being built by the National Power & Paper company of Duluth, which already has constructed three dams to supply the water power with which the plant will be operated.

Work is in progress now on the construction of a concrete dock at Lockport. It will be 220 feet in length and 2,000 feet east of a natural reef that provides a nearly perfect harbor. From the dock to the first dam is a distance of three miles, and this distance will be covered by a standard guage railroad, to be operated by electricity provided by the power dams. The pulp and paper plant will be located at the dam, where there is a townsite designated as Niagara. Besides the pulp and paper mills there will be a large sawmill at this point.

Here the reservoir will be made, too. It will cover an area of 1,000 acres. From now until winter comes the work of building mills, railroad and reservoir will be pushed by the company. All the timber on the reservoir site will be logged this winter.

The second of the series of four dams is two and a half miles above the first, and there another reservoir will be made. The third dam is three and a half miles northwest of the second one, and the fourth nine miles from the third.

Will Colonize Land.

The National Power & Paper company owns 4,500 acres of land in fee, besides 10,400 acres of timber, making a total timber acreage of 15,200. When this timber land has been logged, the available cut-over lands will be colonized. It is said that the tracts are good agricultural lands.

The dams have all been built and work on the Lockport dock is progressing rapidly. The first dam will be replaced with a concrete structure soon. There will be an adequate power plant to supply electricity for all lighting and power purposes.

The properties of the company are located along the Poplar river, in Cook county, about ninety miles from Duluth. It is planned to have a complete pulp and paper plant of thirty tons daily capacity.

The first dam has a fall of 210 feet in a distance of 1,200 feet, providing an estimated continuous net horse power of from 2,000 to 2,400. It is said that a pipe line 13,200 feet in length will make possible additional horse power to as high a total as 7,000.

The Poplar river valley is said to contain the largest and most compact tract of pulp timber to be found in the Northwest, 800,000 cords of the best grade being tributary to the site. As this quantity would keep the plant going for at least thirty-five years, say the promoters, the additional stuff that might be brought to the power site would insure the plant half a century of profitable operation.

The natural market for the finished product of this enterprise is the Head of the Lakes, the Twin Cities and adjacent territory, say the backers of the concern, whose prospectus continues: "Duluth will be made the distributing and selling point, with a freight rate on paper not to exceed 10 cents per 100 from the company's mills to Duluth, against a freight rate of 16½ and 17½ cents in carload lots from the Fox River valley to Duluth. The outlet for the finished product will be by rail from the mill to the lake shore, a distance of three miles, thence by boat to Duluth. The Minnesota Northern Railroad company is now built within twenty-five miles of this power site, and will naturally in due time furnish a through rail rate to Duluth, thus giving this industry both lake and rail transportation."

EVOLUTION

Of the Methods of Battling Disease Is Predicted to Be the Fruits of the Next Great Inventions.

The world is advancing rapidly on the wheels of progress, and every day the methods of our fathers are being cast to one side as worthless and effete. A. McConnell in an interview the other day said:

"We are very near to the most wonderful changes. Nature is full of the most amazing secrets—secrets that can be turned to our advantage. We have discovered a few of them; but, as compared with what there is to know, we know nothing—nothing!"

Up to the present time most of the great inventors have been busying their brains with inventions which have a commercial aspect—inventions which tend to add materially to the animal comforts of the human race. But now the great problem is how to insure the health of man so that he will be able to thoroughly enjoy these blessings.

Within the last twelve months the attention of the great scientists has been turned towards ways and means for assisting nature to carry on successfully her ceaseless encounter against chronic diseases.

Electricity and mechanical devices have been invented for the purification of both the air and water. Currents and rays have been discovered which are death to the different microbes of disease.

It has been found that certain electric currents, such as the Radio Current, which is being used at Electro-Radio Institute, materially benefit the human body, enabling the most stuborn cases of disease to be cured without a drop of medicine being taken. This current sends a pleasant and pleasing message through the body which soothes and gently excites the whole granular system, increases the secretions, aids digestions and sends a thrill of joy to the sensorium, which, in its turn, diffuse the glad tidings to every nerve fibril in the complex organization.

The public have taken quickly to nearly all the changes that the many great inventions have necessitated. The telephone, the telegraph and the automobile have now so become objects of common use that it is hard to realize that we have ever been without them.

The public, however, have found it harder to reconcile themselves to a new method of battling disease.

The old family physician and the drug store are so closely associated with sickness that a man can't but help seeking their joint aid.

To a certain extent this is right and laudable, but the good old family physician is one of God's noblemen, and he has kept you and yours well for generations. It is not the person who is at fault, it is the method.

Our bodies are composed of certain forms of lifeless matter, and it is incredible that any good should accrue by pouring some foreign matter into this body.

The modern method of dispelling disease is ably demonstrated by the physicians employed by the Electro Institute on the eighth floor of the Alworth Building, in this city.

At this institute these doctors are demonstrating that they can successfully treat chronic diseases, and, in the large majority of cases, do so without the use of a single drop of medicine.

It is to be remembered that these physicians are practicing under difficulties, for the majority, if not all, of these cases they treat are chronic cases which have been given up by the other doctors. But it is something new; it is something which the public are not fully familiar with yet; the people have continued along one groove for so many generations that it is hard to leave the beaten track.

Already there has been a stupendous change, and more amazing changes are shortly to follow.

Slowly, but surely, the public will become convinced of the necessity of giving up the practice of ill-treating the body by constant doses of strong medicines and will adopt the more advanced theory of electric treatment, which aids instead of weakens the frame.

Electro Radio has brought credit to the city of Duluth by the institute which it has placed here.

In the Radio Institute are the offsprings of the brains of those great scientists who have sought to bring health to humanity.

It is impossible for the ordinary doctor in general practice to purchase one-hundredth part of all the apparatus which they have in this institute. In a few years the ordinary doctor's office will be a thing of the past and the doctors will collect together in different institutes where they collectively have the experience of their fellow-doctors and also have the use of an equipment which will enable them to fight the battle against disease in a modern and sane way.

Electro Radio has another message for the public. This message is particularly to the mothers of the land. For the past four years they have been working on an electrical method of purifying cream and milk without robbing the milk of any of its nourishment. In spite of the fact that extreme care is taken at all the dairies, still it is feared that the most efficiently sterilized milk cans still carry disease. When this new apparatus is perfected the awful fear of milk carrying disease to their children will be banished from the mind of every mother.

Electricity has been the master key which has unlocked the doors which have revealed nearly all of the important discoveries up to the present time and there is no doubt that the solation of the medicine difficulty lies in electricity.

The trend of science on all sides is to electricity. Discoveries made hour by hour point to one grand conclusion—the bed-rock of Nature is electricity. Life, force and mind are intimately connected with electricity. A man, brain and body, is a battery, and the nerves correspond to wires. The power that drives this body is electricity. Life is electricity.

Medicines are hard hit on every side, and the intelligent physician of today has practically stopped using them.

The word health now means a normal supply of electricity in the body and the word disease means an insufficiency of that power.

The pioneers in the forties had a hard time to open up the Golden West and there were but a few that had confidence in the resources of that wonderful country. But little by little they won their way and now it stands for the greatest prosperity in the United tSates.

At present there are but a few who are willing to believe. But just as surely as the great cities of the West built up, so will the Radio Institute build up until it will stand as a lasting memorial of the first large institute which practiced the new method of curing disease.

It will be but a matter of a few years when the public will look back on the days of the calomel, quinine, strichnine, liver pills, stomach powders, etc., and these days will seem just as distant as the days of stage coaches.

Come now and be ahead of your fellow man. Each day you delay coming means one more day of sickness and one less day of health.

800 Alworth Building.

Ethel Clara Leneve—or at least that article first directed suspicion toward them—was learned here today through a conversation with one of the officers of the steamer Montrose, on which the pair fled across the Atlantic while the police of Europe were searching for them in connection with the disappearance of Belle Elmore, the wife of the dentist.

It seems that in the rush and bustle of departure from Antwerp, Crippen and Miss Leneve escaped observation until the following morning, when the third officer saw them walking together on the deck. Attention was immediately attracted by the short steps taken by the younger of the two and her girlish voice.

Held Her Trousers Up.

"I continued to watch them," said Third Officer Mowatt, "and my suspicions increased, and then a sudden gust of wind caught the coat covering the smaller figure and lifted it in the air. Underneath I saw a large safety-pin fastening her trousers to her vest, a thing no normal man would think of doing. I reported the matter to Capt. Kendall, and it wasn't long before he had sent his message saying that Crippen and Miss Leneve were aboard."

Talks with the crew and stewards of the Montrose throw interesting side lights on the action of the pair on the voyage from Antwerp.

Convinced the Steward.

Dominick Keen, the steward who looked after their state room, had the best opportunity for observing their actions. He said:

"I was one of the first to discover, by her neat method in her room, her way of walking and her effeminate figure that 'John Robinson, Jr.,' was a woman. Then we discovered that the labels had been taken from all their clothes, that the lining had been torn from the younger Robinson's hat, and soon Capt. Kendall was convinced that he had the much-sought fugitives aboard. The pair spent most of their time in their cabin and shunned the other passengers as far as possible."

Is Model Prisoner.

Thus far Crippen has been a model prisoner, making no requests and giving the keepers no worry. There are several ways in which he might make himself troublesome to the authorities. He might ask to have the American consul notified or seek an attorney to insure that he gets fair treatment. The United States consul here is Gebhard Willrich, a former resident of Milwaukee and St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Willrich said that while he stood ready to give Crippen all consistent assistance, he had had no application to do so, and expected none. In fact, he added, he saw no way in which he could better the situation of the prisoner in any way.

Ethel Clara Leneve, who gave up home and friends for love of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and now finds herself sharing with him the odium of a murder charge, is today the central figure in the police end of the tragedy.

Crippen Is Taciturn.

Crippen still is taciturn, and seeming to have recovered his composure, and has said nothing since his arraignment which might aid the police in solving the mystery surrounding the disappearance of his wife, Belle Elmore, the American actress.

It is expected that Crippen and Miss Leneve will be returned to England for trial at the expiration of the fifteen days' grace provided by the extradition laws of Canada. In the meantime the detectives would like very much to gather from the accused additional evidence that would facilitate the subsequent proceedure. Unless present signs fail, they will receive no help in this line from Dr. Crippen.

Rest Hopes on Clue.

Accordingly it is generally believed that the police are resting their hopes on Miss Leneve. If she does not possess the key to the mystery they think that she can at least aid them materially in a reconstruction of the circumstances leading up to the disappearance of Belle Elmore. It is known that Mrs. Crippen was jealous of her husband's typist, and the police have no doubt that Miss Leneve was aware of it.

They will not use any "third degree" methods in interviewing Miss Leneve, but more subtle influences already are at work. The girl prisoner is being treated with the greatest consideration. She showed the effects of this today, appearing to be much better in body and in mind than on yesterday, when she was too ill to appear in court.

Miss Leneve has never been placed in a cell here. She has been kept in the room of one of the women employes of the privincial jail and has been allowed occasional outdoor exercise. The attitude toward her of the police is sympathetic.

Visited by Women.

Inspector Dew has repeatedly said that he believed the girl was innocent of any knowledge of wrong doing. She has been visited by other women, who have treated her most kindly. At the same time Miss Leneve is being bombarded with cablegrams from members of her family in London, urging her to tell all she knows. The pressure of friendly attitude is being exercised on her, while there is no prospect that she will come in contact with Dr. Crippen or even see him for a long time.

The purpose of this is obvious when it is considered that so far as is generally known, Scotland Yard has been unable to identify the dismembered body found in the cellar of the Crippen home in London. The police case is believed not to be complete.

To casual observers it appears that a very pretty little three-cornered game is being played between the police, Crippen and Miss Leneve. Crippen seems to be playing a lone hand, but whether the police will receive assistance from Miss Leneve is a question sufficiently in doubt to make a next move on her part a matter of chief interest.

Slept Sleep of Exhaustion.

The prisoners who have caused the attention of the world to be drawn to this old French city, slept last night the sleep of complete exhaustion following the ordeal of the preceding hours from the time they were arrested on board the steamer Montrose on the charge of murder and mutilation of the victim, supposed to be Belle Elmore, Crippen's American wife.

Crippen and the girl now face two weeks or more of monotonous waiting. There will be no more legal proceedings in the case until Aug. 8, when they will have another purely formal appearance in court to give them a last opportunity of demanding a writ of habeas corpus or any other legal relief. Unless they change their expressed intention, however, neither will apply for writs or interfere in any way with the arrangements of the police.

So far as the Province of Quebec is concerned, legal proceedings in the case are practically closed. The official documents regarding the arrest of the couple and their interrogation by Judges Langelier and Angers of the court of special sessions were forwarded last night to Ottawa for the signature of the governor-general.

Will Wait Fifteen Days.

The color is returning to Miss Leneve's cheeks, and this morning the matron at the jail hospital said she looked a trifle less forlorn than when she was taken there yesterday afternoon. Miss Leneve, who left the Montrose in garments loaned to her by the ship's stewardess, was today supplied with a neat white dress, which added to her appearance.

The authorities hope to send the pair back to England immediately upon the expiration of the fifteen days which the law requires they should spend here after their examination and identification.

CAST VOTE IN PRIMARIES

defeat Scott, Miller and Calderhead, "standpat" candidates in the "Second, Fourth and Fifth districts, and that there is a chance to defeat Anthony in the First and Campbell in the Third.

Regulars do not concede that any of their members will be defeated, although they admit that Miller and Calderhead are in danger.

The contest for governor in the Republican party also has been a clearly defined fight between progressives and regulars, Governor W. R. Stubbs seeking renomination as an avowed insurgent against Thomas Waggstaff of Independence, who has the backing of the standpatters. Outside of the contest for governor, little interest is taken in the state offices.

Fight in Oklahoma.

Guthrie, Okla., Aug. 2.—In the statewide primaries in progress in Oklahoma today the greatest interest centers about the Democratic gubernatorial race, the voting on the proposed "grandfather clause" Constitutional amendment and the Republican congressional contests. A heavy vote is expected.

In each of the first three congressional districts the present incumbents, Bird S. McGuire of Pawnee, Dick F. Morgan of Woodward and C. E. Creager of Muskogee, "standpatters," are opposed for renomination by one or more candidates running on platforms more or less insurgent. It is conceded all three have good chances for renomination.

In the Fourth and Fifth districts, which are heavily Democratic, both Charles G. Carter of Ardmore and Scott Ferris of Lawton, Democrats, will, it is conceded, be renominated without opposition.

Three Want Haskell's Job.

The Democratic candidates for governor are Lee Cruce of Ardmore, a banker; William H. Murray of Tishomingo, president of the constitutional convention and speaker of the first legislature; Leslie P. Ross of Lawton, Governor Haskell's bitterest enemy in the Democratic party and a candidate on a re-submission, anti-prohibition platform. Murray's personal following is known to be large, while Cruce has the power of the Haskell administration behind him.

Republican candidates for governor are J. W. McNeall of Guthrie; ex-Governor Thomas P. Ferguson of Watonga, John Fields and C. G. Jones of Oklahoma City.

Two women candidates for state commissioner of charities and corrections, Mrs. Kate Barnard, on the Democratic ticket, seeks renomination. She is opposed by Mrs. Kate H. Biggers of Marlow, Republican, who is president of the Women's Suffrage Asociation of Oklahoma.

Light Vote Expected.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2.—Missouri voters began at 6 o'clock this morning to choose their nominees for congress, three state officers, state legislators and many county officers. It is expected that the voting will be light throughout the state. The polls will close at 7 o'clock.

The interest in the primary election centers largely in the congressional or local contests. The Democrats, Republicans, Prohibitionists and Socialists have but one candidate, each seeking the nomination for a judge of the supreme court and state superintendent of schools. Five Democrats are contending for the nomination of state railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Champ Clark Running.

Six of the ten Democratic congressmen will get a nomination without opposition, including Champ Clark, the present minority leader in the house of representatives. All of the present congressmen from Missouri with the exception of Harry M. Coudrey of the Twelfth district, are seking renomination.

The Fifth and Fourteen districts have two candidates each seeking the congressional nomination of the Republican ticket on the "insurgent" and on the "standpat" issues.

The primary today is the second trial of the primary election law in Missouri. The last legislature amended the law by providing for alternating the names of candidates running for a given office at the top of the list in certain counties and cities.

liquor flowed freely. It was difficult to secure much information from him as the Austrian interpreters called in to interview him claimed that they were unable to understand the dialect he used.

How Quarrel Began.

He was understood to have said that between 12 and 1 o'clock at night one of the men who were congregated in front of the house, was making an undue amount of noise.

Rushing forward, the "unknown" man is said to have demanded in Austrian:

"Who told me to shut up?"

"I did," replied Rounikar.

This started a quarrel between the two men, after which Rounikar started for the house. When he had turned away from his foe, a shot was fired, the full contents of the gun entering his back.

Immediately upon discharging the gun, the man left the scene, and in the excitement that followed, no attempt was made to capture him. Rounikar was given medical aid as soon as possible, and when the seriousness of his condition was realized he was sent to a Duluth hospital, where he remained until his removal to the poor farm hospital, on July 20. At both institutions he was given the best medical treatment, but the sepsis had spread so thoroughly throughout his system that all efforts were in vain.

In the sacral region was an opening into the back, the size of a man's two hands, while gunshot wounds were scattered over his hips and shoulders. These wounds indicated that the shot was fired at close range.

Pyaemia set in almost immediately, which was followed by a large abscess in the abdominal region and the total paralysis of the pelvic organs. To the doctors, who were called upon to attend the case, it seems remarkable that he lived so long.

Rounikar came to America from Austria seven years ago, going directly to the range. He has a wife and family living in his native land, who have not been informed yet of his misfortune. In Aurora, he has a brother, Olantnl Rounikar, who was informed this morning of Martin's death.

Arrangements for his funeral will not be made until some word has been received from his brother.

Sheriff Bates stated this morning that the Aurora authorities had not informed his office of the shooting affray, and he was of the opinion that the police of that city were attending to the matter. He may receive a communication from them now that the death of the victim has occurred.

NEW COAL DOCK IS DYNAMITED, CAUSING DAMAGE OF $10,000

Dynamite partially wrecked the unloading rig of the new Philadelphia & Reading coal dock, Connor's Point, Superior, early this morning, when at attempt was made to destroy the new structure, now in the last stages of construction. The damage resulting in construction. The damage resulting in two explosions was roughly estimated today by the officials at $10,000.

The first explosion took place a few minutes before midnight and the other followed at 12:35 a. m. It appears that the first charge did not have the desired effect and that the second charge was fired to make sure of the job. The police who were on the scene after the second explosion have found no trace of the marauders as yet.

The machinery which was damaged by the explosion is the most modern of any rig ever built for unloading purposes at the Head of the Lakes or at any other port. It weighs 580 tons and cost about $80,000. The rigs are built in double spans, 230 feet long and have a capacity of about 1,000 tons an hour.

The charge of dynamite in both instances was placed in one of the trucks operated on the unloading spans. The rigging was badly bent and twisted by the force of the explosion, and according to Superintendent Goshorn of the Heyll Patterson company, contractors, who are building the dock, it will require at least a month to repair the wrecked rig and complete the dock.

Local officials of the Heyll-Patterson company stated today that no explanation could be offered why anyone should wish to destroy the dock. A few months ago, the company had a little trouble with the labor unions, while working on the Northwestern Fuel company docks, but the matter has blown over and the company is now employing men on the open shop plan and has done so for many years.

Both explosions were heard in Duluth and Superior, but it was some time before the scene of the trouble could be located. A watchman employed at the dock, when questioned by the police stated that he saw no suspicious persons about the place at any time.

DARBY NOT SATISFIED

Says President Elliott's Ruling on La Crosse's Protest Is Wrong.

Claims Umpire Anderson Properly Interpreted Ground Rules July 12.

Darby O'Brien is not satisfied with the ruling of President Elliott of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, declaring the first game of a double-header July 12 between La Crosse and Duluth "no contest." He says that the league president did not thoroughly understand the situation or he would not have made the ruling he did.

The game in question was won by Duluth, 1 to 0, and the president holds that Umpire Anderson's action in sending Safford back to third on an overthrow, thus preventing a tied score, spoiled La Crosse's chances of winning the game.

Darby wrote to the league president today as follows:

"In reference to the protested game of July 12, between Duluth and La Crosse, I do not think you are right in declaring that game no contest.

"First—In making my ground rules, they cover all throws to first base. Mr. Anderson, who is umpire, and all the umpires in the league will tell you, that on an overthrow or any throw that is bad, whether it hits the first baseman or not, the base runner is entitled to the one he is going to and the next base, if he can make it, but not any more.

"In this play, on which Safford's protest is based, La Cresse got all the better of it. Safford was on first, Helding threw badly to first, the ball bounded to right field. The ball was not on fair ground, and if it was on fair ground, my ground rules cover that.

"Umpire Anderson gave Safford two bases which, is right, first to third, but he also allowed Zalusky to go to second, which was not right, as under the ground rules the runner is allowed one and one, and no more, but can be put out taking those bases.

"The reason Manager Safford has no protest coming is, if he was not satisfied with my ground rules, as you know, according to baseball rules, it is then up to the umpire to make the rules.

Now, Manager Safford agreed to the ground rules and Umpire Anderson understood the ground rules before the game started, as all umpires must, or the game would never have been started.

"I cannot see how you can call this game 'no contest,' and I wish that you would explain to Mr. Safford that he was wrong, and instruct him with the rules, that if he is not satisfied with ground rules, that it is up to the umpire to change them. The people here, knowing that we have a chance to beat out Superior, feel mighty sore at your declaring this game no contest. I wish you would rectify it, since you did not have both sides of the case explained thoroughly to you."

President Elliott's explanation of his decision follows:

"After making a careful study of the facts in connection with an official protest made by Manager Safford of the La Crosse team on the first game of the double-header played with the Duluth club at Duluth July 12, I have come to the conclusion the game should be declared no contest and hereby order the game thrown out and played over during the visit of the La Crosse club to Duluth, Aug. 2, 3 and 4.

"My conclusions in this case are based on a ruling which deprived La Crosse of one run, which would have tied the score and given them an equal chance to win the game. According to the ground rules in force at Duluth for the game, one base was to be allowed for an overthrow of first base. With the score 1 to 0 in favor of Duluth, Safford on first base, Zalusky hits the ball to the Duluth third baseman, who throws to first, the ball striking the first baseman and bounding into right field. The play is called an overthrow and Safford is sent back to third after crossing the plate on the play before the ball is returned to the diamond.

"The conclusion on which the game is thrown out is that the ball never went into foul territory, but remained on fair ground until recovered by the right fielder, proving it must have struck some part of the person of the first baseman, in which case it could not have been an overthrow of first base, but an error on the part of the first baseman or third baseman.

"JOHN A. ELLIOTT,
"President M.-W. League."

FITWELLS AGREE TO MEET CLOQUET TEAM.

In answer to the challenge of the Cloquent baseball team, the manager of the Fitwells of this city has stated that the Duluth team will meet the Cloquet aggregation at the baseball park here next Sunday, and will play for $100 a side, the money to be posted with the sporting editor of The Herald.

The stipulation is made by the Fitwell manager that the Cloquet team be composed of the same players that played last Sunday. If the Cloquet players will agree to this stipulation, the manager of the Duluth bunch says there will be no difficulty in arranging the details of the game.

NASSAU BOAT CLUB SCULLER HOPES TO WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP THIS YEAR

WILLIAM MEHRHOFF.

In 1908 John O'Neil of Canada beat William Mehrhoff the big sculler of the Nassau Boat club and so became eligible for the championship singles for that year. He was beaten by Frank Greer. Last year Greer did not race and O'Neil won the championship at Detroit. Now Mehrhoff is entered against O'Neil in the championship singles at Washington next month and his friends of the Nassau club believe he will win.

PIRATES WIN FROM DUKES

Clausen's Curves Are Easy and Visitors Win the First.

Wonona defeated Superior yesterday by the score of 8 to 5. Up to the fifth inning it looked as if the Red Legs were going to be shut out. In this frame the Superior bunch copped four runs, their last ru coming in the seventh. The Pirates had little difficulty with the curves of Clausen, gathering six runs in the first two innings, and two more in the fourth. Except in the fifth Baillies was a puzzle to the Superior hitters. Some of the decisions of Umpire Schuler were weird and humorous, and at one time O'Dea and President Somers descended upon the ump and argued long and forcibly with him. The score:

His physical condition was unchanged. Just before taking the train, Gans said: "I know that I am going to die and for the time I am growing weaker day by day. I want to see mother and the two children in Baltimore before I die. I did not realize my condition. My last two fights broke down my constitution and made me an easy victim for consumption."

GRAND CIRCUIT AT DETROIT

All Races Won in Straight Heats and Feature Is Disappointing.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—The opening of the Detroit Driving club's twenty-sixth annual blue ribbon meet, which covers the second week of the grand circuit season, was favored with racing conditions little short of ideal. Fast time was made in all the events, and the last race of the day, the 2:05 pace, brought out the two fastest heats of the year.

All races were won in straight heats and the feature of the day, the Horseman and Spirit of the Times futurity for 3-year-olds, proved something of a disappointment in both the trotting and pacing divisions. The fields were small in both groups, only three accepting the issue in the pacing end of the stake.

Alice Roosevelt was favorite in the 2:01 trot, but Major Strong, second choice, had the speed and took the race in straight heats.

Emily Ellen was the big winner of the day, taking the long end of the rich futurity for 3-year-old trotters in which Eve Bellini was favorite. She led from start to finish in every heat and was never in danger. The third heat in this event developed the closest finnish of the day, behind the winner, Chatty Direct, Eve Bellini and Bergen came in under the whip and finished so close together that the spectators could not pick their positions. The $11,000 stake was divided as follows: Emily Ellen, $7,500; Chatty Direct, $1,200; Eve Bellini, $900; Bergen and Bon Vivant, $300 each. In addition, David M., of New York, nominator of the dam of Emily Ellen, received $300 and a handsome silver cup valued at $500.

In the 2:05 pace Watler W., met defeat for the first time since he was taken in hand by "Pop" Geers. The first heat, with Snow driving, Walter W., in the lead, went into the air at the head of the stretch, when Ross K., pushed him and the Geers horse barely escaped the distance flag. In the second heat Ross K went right to the front and led all the way. The time of this race was the fastest so far this year.

"I never said I was drugged at Reno; I never said anything like that," he told the Associated Press.

Jeffries was shown a copy of a local newspaper which printed a sensational story that the former champion had spoken for the first time since the fight and had flatly charged he had been drugged for days before the fight took place.

"I never said it; I never said I was drugged," declared Jeffries.

CLUB PICNIC NEXT SUNDAY

Oarsmen Will Row to Spirit Lake---Hackett May Come Here.

Arrangements have been completed for the holding of the first rowing picnic of the Duluth Boat club, at the Spirit Lake branch of the club, next Sunday morning.

The idea was suggested by the annual picnic held by the Minnesota Boat club each season, after the oarsmen are through with the arduous training of the season. Every oarsman in the club is expected to attend the gathering Sunday, and, moreover, is expected to row from the main clubhouse to the Spirit Lake branch.

At the picnic Sunday morning it is the intention of those interested in the rowing of the club, to propose a scheme whereby rowing will be continued at the club this fall. In arranging for the picnic, this idea was uppermost in the minds of the members of the club.

Medals have been offered by the club for an eight-oared race between two picked crews of the club. This race will be held within the next two weeks. Other medals have also been offered, and it is the idea of the officials of the club to combine these races into a fall regatta.

The officials of the club want the eight to get out some the rest of the season, and as several of the members of the crew have stated that they are going in for sculling in the working boats of the club, some medals may be hung up for a working boat race.

There is some talk that Jack Hackett, one of the greatest amateur sculers that the world has ever produced, may come here for a few days this fall and get some of the oarsmen here started in sculling work. Hackett came down on the boat from Kenora to Rainy River with the Duluth people, and during the trip down had a long talk with Julius Barnes and Murray Peyton. Hackett would like to come here and do a little coaching this fall; but whether or not he will be here, it is a matter that cannot be decided at the present time.

The former American amateur champion informed some of the Duluth people that he was going to return to the rowing game next year. Hackett is today 41 years old and has never been beaten as an amateur. He lost one race as a professional. If he returns to the racing game, it is intention to go after Durnan of Toronto, who is considered the best sculler in America.

KENNEDY WINS TENNIS TOURNEY

Defeats Dickerman in Finals ---Will Meet Washburn for Cup.

Lauren Kennedy won the singles championship of the Duluth Boat club for the season of 1910 and the right to meet Mac Washburn for the Hartman challenge cup, by yesterday afternoon defeating C. K. Dickerman in the finals of the tournament by the scores of 6-1, 6-1, 6-2

Kennedy has played the most consistent tennis of any player in the tournament, and yesterday he outclassed his opponent, though Dickerman fought every point.

Kennedy has not lost a set in the tournament. He is playing the best tennis of his career, and many predict that he will defeat Mac Washburn next Saturday.

Washburn has been playing since he came home from college, and while at the university had the practice of playing with Adams, state champion. He is in great form and should play a better game than he played last year, when he won the Hartman cup from Elmer Whyte.

The games between Kennedy and Washburn will be played Saturday at 4 o'clock, furnishing part of an attractive program that has been arranged for the club.

BARNES' BOAT MAY RACE SCHELL'S SPEEDER.

Motor boat circles of Duluth are anxiously awaiting the arrival from Lake Geneva, Wis., of the new motor boat Head of the Lakes. The excitement lies in the belief that sooner or later the new Dick Shell hoat and the boat that is being finished for Julius H. Barnes will come together in a test of speed.

In the few trials that the Schell boat has had at White Bear and Minnetonka, it has shown that it is one of the very fastest boats in the Northwest. Those who are in the know state that the motor boat being built at Lake Geneva should be one of the fastest speed craft ever seen in these prats. If the new boat comes up to expectations, a race between it and the new Schell boat will be an event that will be looked forward to with a great deal of interest by a large number of people interested in motor boats.

Big Duluths Win.

Yesterday afternoon the Big Duluth Juniors won from the team managed by Ed Quinn, the score being 12 to 11. Oswald and Johnson worked for the Big Duluth Juniors, Fogarty and Julian being the battery for the losers.

Ed Killian Sold.

AFTERMATH OF THE RACE

The Bantams Rowed Great Race and Should Have Won.

By Bruce.

From the standpoint of Duluth, there is not a great deal to say regarding the regatta that closed Saturday evening at Kenora. St. Paul, Winnipeg and Kenora carried off all the honors—and there you have the story.

As was the case last year at St. Paul, Duluth sent to Kenora the finest body of men that were to be seen in any of the shells. Yet Duluth failed to win. The failure to win is easily explained—the Duluth men wasted their physical force in rushing their slides and failing to get together on the catch. Eliminate these faults of the Duluth oarsmen, and the crews from the Head of the Lakes will bring home cups.

In the junior eight-oared race of Friday, Duluth never had a chance to win. The Duluth eight got a bad start, and while the men made a gallant struggle to overcome this loss in the first half mile of the race, from that point to the finish the Duluth men steadily lost distance.

In the race of Saturday Duluth was in the fight for second place all the way down the course. Coach L'Estrange shifted the eight for this race, advised a new stroke, a slower one than was rowed in the race of Friday, with the result that Winnipeg beat Duluth out for second place, only by a scant boat's length.

The regatta was the best that has been held for years. The finish Friday between the St. Paul and Winnipeg junior eights, was the most sensational seen for many seasons in the west. Until within 100 yards of the finish St. Paul had a lead of nearly a length on the Canadians. With a mighty and well timed spurt, Winnipeg came driving in at the finish, almost nipping the Apostles at the line.

So close was the finish, that the judge fired both barrels of his gun almost simultaneously. There was some doubt among the spectators who lined the shores of the beautiful course, as to the winner of the race. However, to those on the line of finish, there was no doubt but that the St. Paul boys had a three-foot lead at the line.

To the Duluth bantam four all credit should be given here for the great race from start to finish, and while it is not the intention here to offer excuses for any showing of the Duluth crews, it can be honestly said that had not the heavy wind of Friday swept the Duluth crew far off its course, the boys from home would have carried back the cup offered for the bantam event.

Another lesson has been learned from the Kenora regatta. Before Duluth can expect to figure in the events of the Northwestern International Rowing association, some other system will have to be inaugurated here. Both the St. Paul and Winnipeg men get more power out of their strokes than do the men who make the crews of this city. Neither St. Paul nor Winnipeg has the fine men that are sent from here—but they win. The answer can be found in the fact that these other crews row in superior form and utilize the maximum power of each man.

Next year the regatta will be held here. If is up to Duluth to get very busy very soon, if the men here expect to make a good showing. At both Winnipeg and St. Paul fall rowing is indulged in. This plan should be followed here, if the men expect to place Duluth on the list of winning clubs.

This season Duluth had the best junior eight it has had in three years. Well, the eight lost. The suggestion is appropriate—rowing in the Northwestern association is progressing, and Duluth has not quite kept up to the standard of progression.

Not a single man in either of the Duluth boats can be blamed for the four defeats of the two days. There wasn't a man who laid down on the job; it was simply a case, with the exception possibly of the bantam four race, of being up against better crews.

When the St. Paul and Winnipeg eights pulled away from the float, judges of rowing would point out the rhythm, slow slides and general get-togetherness of the men. These two eights rowed as perfectly as a well-oiled machine. There was more power in the Duluth eight than in either of the other two crews, but the men in the Duluth crew could not utilize this power and they lost.

The loss of the junior eight event was a bitter disappointment to the Duluth boys. Every man in the boat had trained hard and faithfully the present season. It was believed that the present season would be Duluth's year.

Every effort is going to be made to get the Duluth oarsmen out during the remainder of the season. The boys showed the right spirit after the race and it is practically certain that nearly every member of the eight will row next year.

CLAY COURT TENNIS TOURNEY AT OMAHA.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 2.—Play began yesterday in the first annual national clay court tennis tournament on the courts of the Omaha Field club. Over 100 players participated, among them M. H. Y., who defeated R. H. Bosh of Stuart, Iowa; Drummond Jones of St. Louis, and F. G. Anderson of Reading, Pa, who is an exchampion of New Jersey. In all seventy-one matches were played, there being ten defaults.

Kendig Takes Lead.

Cholera Infantum Cured.

"Something like two years ago my baby, which was then about a year old, was taken seriously ill with cholera infantum, vomiting and purging profusely," writes J. F. Dempsey of Dempsey, Ala. "I did what I could to relieve her but did her no good, and being very much alarmed about her went for a physican but failed to find one, so came back by Elder Bros. & Carter's store and Mr. Elder recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. I procured a bottle of it, went home as quickly as possible and gave the baby a dose of the remedy. It relieved her in fifteen minutes and soon cured her entirely." For sale by all druggists.

BALLINGER TALKS ABOUT OPPONENTS

Says They Are Trying to Make Him Scapegoat With False Charges.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 2.—In an interview which he gave out last night at Minneapolis, Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, bitterly arraigned his enemies as "demagogues" and charged that not only are they seeking to make a scapegoat of him, but that they are also trying to foment trouble between President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt.

After referring to the fact that at Seattle, his old home, every one is his friend, and that he went to Washington as secretary only after being long sought after, he said:

"Pinchot, Garfield and that bunch have been after me, trying to make a scapegoat of me. The president and I have done all we could to make this administration a success. The president is heartily in favor of a rational conservation, and so am I.

"Lot of Demagogues."

"Yes, I'll admit that there are a lot of demagogues that would like to see a breach forced between Theodore Roosevelt and President Taft. It's just the way of things. But President Taft has been wise. He has taken a broad and liberal stand for conservation and the upbuilding policies.

"There's too much lying about this conservation business. There are certain fanatics who would lead us to believe that we won't have enough timber to kindle a fire in the next generation and not enough coal left to keep it going.

"Why, they are deluding the people of the East—absolutely fooling them. They employ figures with wanton abandon. They tell you that the resources are about gone. They suggest all sorts of absurdities."

Reduced for Falsehood.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Lieut.-Commander Henry T. Baker, on duty at the Bremerton navy yard, Washington, has been reduced fifty numbers and a public reprimand sent to him by the navy department as the outcome of a conviction by court-martial on a charge of uttering a falsehood.

MAY CALL OFF STRIKE GUARDS

Governor Harmon Likely to Reduce Force on Duty at Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 2.—Governor Harmon today is considering withdrawing about half of the national guard now on riot duty, thereby cutting down the expenses of maintaining the soldiers from $12,000 to about $5,000 a day. In that event half of the street cars will be taken off and all lines abandoned temporarily with the exception of the West Broad street, Long street and High street lines. Negotiations for a settlement of the strike were renewed today with but little prospect of an agreement.

The sending home of certain troops would cut out the division formation and would relieve from duty Maj. Charles Dick, United States senator, and his staff officers.

WILL STRIKE IN THE SOUTHWEST

Miners Reject Terms of Ultimatum at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 2.—All hope of settlement has gone since the refusal by the miners last night of the operators' ultimatum, and representatives of the miners and operators of the Southwest who have been for many weeks conferring on a new wage contract left today. A general strike order will be issued immediately, according to George Manuel, secretary of the Missouri district, and 30,000 or more miners who have not worked since the expiration of the old contract, April 1, will be formally on strike.

Of the number of miners to be affected by the strike order, about 9,500 are in Kansas; about 8,300 in Missouri; 9,000 in Oklahoma, and about 3,000 in Arkansas.

Man and Factory Blown to Bits.

Bradbury, Pa., Aug. 2.—While mixing nitroglycerin at the Du Pont Powder company's factory near Howard Junction yesterday afternoon, John Sloan, the only man in the building at the time, was blown to fragments and all that remains to mark the site of the small factory is a large hole in the ground. Buildings were shaken in this city, ten miles away.

WHEAT WEAK; FLAX IS DULL

Cash Demand for Former Slow in the Northwest.

Possibility of Wet Harvest Causes Rally at Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 2.—Wheat declined today in a dull market that became more active toward the close on account of apprehension over possible wet weather in the Northwest. The market was somewhat oversold—contributing to the closing upturn. Flax was dull and values marked time.

September wheat lost 1⅛c, December ⅝c and May ⅞c. September flax gained ½s, October lost 1⅛c, November lost 2c and December closed unchanged.

Cash wheat was 6c over September, durum closed 2⅝c off, oats closed ½c off and rye and barley were unchanged.

Wheat opened easy and declined. Weaker Liverpool markets which were excessively soft, contributed the opening weakness here. There was some liquidation by tired holders, but offerings were well taken. The professional element was bearish and tried to force values downward. They met some success at the start but the market showed good resisting power after the early weakness and on the downward movements it reacted.

Trading was dull and traders pursued a waiting course, generally, as they were nonplussed over conditions and the probable trend of values. Reports from the Northwest were more favorable. Thrashing returns from several places in Southern Minnesota and South Dakota showed larger yields than had been expected. Stations in North Dakota reported an improved condition of wheat. Plants with short straw appear to be heading out well and several stations which have sent out extremely bullish messages reported that the wheat is heading out satisfactorily and that the berries are full and plump. On the other hand a few reports from Southern Minnesota said some wheat was smutty.

Country acceptances in the Southwest were lighter and the run of winter wheat showed a marked decrease. Cash markets in the Northwest were weak and in the Southwest they declined. At Winnipeg the cash situation was stronger, but no export business was reported. There was no export business here. This market got 14 cars of winter wheat and Minneapolis reported a moderate run.

Professionals sold wheat early on the report of the Illinois Grain Dealers' association which estimated the yield of that state at 44,000,000 bu.

Toward noon the trade took notice of the low barometer which is hovering over the Northwest and began to buy wheat. Around the low levels there was good buying of September and values firmed. Bulls began to predict a wet harvest and when unconfirmed reports of rain in Southern Minnesota came in the buying became enlarged in volume and the market rallied.

The wheat market was affected by weakness in the coarse grains. Corn was weak on account of heavy rains in various portions of Kansas and Oklahoma and light rains in adjacent states. The drouth in many places was broken. Oats was weak on account of hedging sales and some long liquidation.

Reports from Russia were bearish from an immediate standpoint but less favorable as regards the distant future. A cable to Broomhall said that in Southeastern Russia the weather is excellent and arrivals are increasing. In the Southwest the weather is generally satisfactory but both the yield and the quality of the wheat is poor. Reports have been received by Broomhall that rust is causing damage. Arrivals at all ports are increasing and are expected to be large. The market is firm, said Broomhall, and the demand is good.

Statistics were bearish. Bradstreet's increase of wheat being 4,900,000 bu.

Whether the farmer will continue to sell on the basis of present prices is a question of interest. Many people who have been bearish are now expecting a small movement of winter wheat and today's slump, they think, confirms their view of the situation. No one looks for a big run of spring wheat. Prices probably will be governed in the next few weeks by local conditions. There is a pronounced sentiment against manipulation and with the government likely to investigate the recent July deal it is probable that speculators will proceed with caution until the people and the government have forgotten some things which just now are in the public eye.

The general foreign situation is slightly bullish on account of the conditions in France and the estimated reduction of 80,000,000 bu in Russia. World's shipments, however, are expected to increase in the next few weeks. The foreigner has shown a disposition to take some durums and low grade flours.

MARKET GOSSIP

Foreign markets closed: Paris—Wheat unchanged to ¼c lower, flour ¼c off to 1c higher. Antwerp—Close: Wheat 2½c lower. Berlin—Close: Wheat unchanged. Budapest—1c higher.

* * *

Broomhall cabled: Wheat opened easy and 1⅛d to 1¼d lower than Friday, being influenced by encouraging harvesting reports, both from American winter and spring wheat belts and the large receipts. Following the opening the market further declined ⅝d with speculative selling not due to the heavy Russian shipments, the break in Winnipeg and the continued pressing of Manitoba and Danubian offers. At mid-day the market was weak and 1⅞@2d lower.

Corn—Weak and ⅝d lower, being influenced by the lower American cables and the pressure of Plate cargoes and parcels.

European visible wheat, 65,756,000 bu; 63,436,000 bu last week, thus showing the increase 2,320,000 bu. Last year there was a decrease of 2,000,000 bu when the total amounted to 50,000,000. French reports are being received of a better character. Harvest is progressing but yields generally are poor and quality quiet. Italy threshing is about finished and the yields are disappointing. Foreign wheat has been freely bought.

Winnipeg wired: Some light scattered showers of rain have occurred in Manitoba and northern sections of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Early this morning a cloudburst occurred at Saskatoon, drenching the town. Elsewhere the weather has been mostly fair and warm. Forecast: Manitoba, local thunderstorms but mostly fair and warmer. Saskatchewan and Alberta, west and northwest winds, a few local showers but mostly fair, not much change in temperatures.

* * *

Minneapolis wired: One car new wheat from Minnesota here today. Run of Minnesota wheat so far is smutty. Looks suspiciously like a rainy period for the three states. Cash is a little easier but a little improvement noted by some millers in flour sales.

Primaries: Wheat receipts 1,895,000 bu, last year 1,140,000 bu; shipments 495,000 bu, last year 981,000 bu. Corn receipts 693,000 bu, last year 601,000 bu; shipments 142,000 bu, last year 269,000 bu.

* * *

Snow, after a week in Kansas, says that thrashing is very largely completed, and the amount of grain stacked is less than normal. Conditions for saving and handling the crop were the best in years, and rapid progress was made as a result.

Clearances: Wheat, 55,000 bu; flour, 40,000 bbl; wheat and flour, 235,000 bu; corn, 87,000 bu; oats, 27,000 bu.

* * *

F. E. Lindahl said reports received by the Cargill Commission company from Northwestern stations were more favorable.

* * *

Argentine flax within the last eight days has been laid down in New York at a price which would make the cost of the stuff $2.28 in this market.

* * *

Bradstreet's visible changes: Wheat increase, 4,900,000 vs. increase of 623,000. Corn decrease 162,000 vs. increase of 909,000. Oats increase 442,000 vs. decrease of 1,470,000. Total wheat 88,914,000 vs. 66,366,000. Corn 7,532,000 vs. 5,052,000. Oats 9,334 vs. 7,389,000.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Foreign Influences Weigh on the Price of Wheat.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—An increase in the European visible supply, better crop reports from France, and heavy shipments from Russia were among the foreign influences that weighed on the wheat market today. Big receipts, fine weather, and a decline in corn stood as domestic factors even more forceful against the price of the cereal. An average yield of twenty bushels to the acre in Illinois, according to figures from 500 stations formed a further bearish argument. In consequence, there was quite general selling by longs. The market opened ¼@⅛c to ⅝c lower. September started ½@⅝c to ⅞c down at $1.02 to $1.02¼ and fell to $1.01¾.

Indications of a 45,000,000 bu crop in Illinois compared with 31,000,000 bu last year, caused a sharp break as losses by Hessian fly this season were supposed to be large. Prifit taking resulted in an upturn, but the close was weak with September at $1.00¾ to $1.00⅞, a net los of 1⅛@1¾c to 1⅞c.

Rains in Kansas made selling of corn popular. Initial quotations were at a decline of ½c to 1⅛c. The start in the September option was at 62¾c to 63⅛c, a drop of ¾ to 1⅛c and the descent was continued to 62¼c.

There was good buying at the decline, but the close was easy at 62¼c to 63⅜c, a net loss of 1½c to 1⅝c.

Commission houses attacked oats because of the weakness of other grain. September opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower at 36⅞c to 37⅛c, and touched 36¾c.

A firmer tone to the hog market caused shorts to cover in the provision pit. First sales were 5c to 20c higher with the September delivery at $21.50 for pork, $11.55 to $11.57½ for lard and $11.40 to $11.47½ for ribs. Additional gains were scored.

New York, Aug. 2.—Cotton opened firm at an advance of 7@14 points on continued covering and fresh buying for long account inspired by drouth damage complaints from the South west and a private condition report showing a deterioration of 6.9 per cent for the month. This naturally tended to confirm bullish views as to the probable showing of the government figures at midday and while there was heavy realizing at the initial advance which carried December and later positions into new high ground for the season, offerings were well absorbed at slight recessions.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Starts Weak With Much Pressure Against Some Stocks.

Becomes Strong on Government Cotton Report and Closes Higher.

New York, Aug. 2.—The stock market ignored the higher level of prices in the early London market and started trading today at declines from last night's closing level. Kansas & Texas fell 1¼, Southern Pacific, United States Steel and American Sugar 1 and Union Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande preferred and American Smelting large fractions.

The market became weaker with considerable pressure against some of the Gould and Hawley stocks. Chesapeake & Ohio yielded to 65, its lowest price of the year. American locomotive preferred gave way 2 points, Missouri Pacific 1¾, International Harvester 1⅝, St. Paul 1, and Delaware & Hudson and Pacific Mail 1. Full recovery was made by the active stocks later, after which the trading became dull. Illinois Central rose 1¾, Tennessee Copper 1⅝ and New York Central 1.

Reports of rains in portions of the corn belt, where they are needed, caused a firm tone in stocks. Southern Railway preferred and Colorado Fuel rose 1 and there were a few fractional gains besides. Trading became stagnant as the hour approached for the bulletin of the government report on cotton conditions. Atlantic Coast Line fell 2¼ and Colorado & Southern 1. Bonds were easy.

The Hill stocks weakened, but with the publication of the government report on cotton the whole list became strong and active. Chesapeake & Ohio, and Sloss-Sheffield Steel were bid up 2 points above yesterday's closing. Consolidated Gas, 2½; Union Pacific, 1¾; Reading and St. Paul, 1⅝; American Can, American Smelting and Atchison, 1½, and Amalgamated Copper, 1¼, and Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific, American Locomotive, Pennsylvania, American Beet Sugar and the United States Steel stocks, 1. Great Northern preferred had lost 1¼ and Northern Pacific 1⅜, which was recovered when the market turned strong. Minneapolis & St. Louis sagged 2 and Kansas City Southern 1.

The market closed buoyant and active. The advance gathered fresh force in the final hour. The resistance showed by prices influenced an active demand from shorts to cover. ## CROOKSTON BURGLARIES.

Two Establishments Entered; Carnival Company Followers Suspected

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last night A. O. Bustured's hardware store was entered by burglars, who smashed the glass in a rear window, and took about $12 from the till. The robber was jocular in that he rung up money paid out, $10.05. The bills and checks had been placed in the safe and no attempt was made to blow it. A revolver and some ammunition is also missed. Other articles may have been stolen but not in large quantities.

Joseph Lebane's meat market was also burglarized of $3, there was in the cash register. Considerable meat may also have been taken. The crime is laid to the hangers on of a carnival company which spent the night here en route to Stephen and Thief River Falls. The police searched several suspects but no arrests were made. Many of the attaches of the carnival company were intoxicated last night and Capt. Eck was called to the boarding car, where on man was badly slashed about the face with a knife, but not dangerously injured, although permanently disfigured.

NORTH SHORE NEARLY PUTS POE LOCK OUT FOR REST OF SEASON

Steamer Hits Pier and Runs Full Tilt Against West Gates.

Miraculous Closing After the Impact Is All That Prevents Disaster.

Report Is That Engines Refused to Back---Officers Decline to Talk.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—An accident occurred at the ship canal at midnight that came within an ace of not only putting the Poe lock out of commission, but ending navigation altogether through the American canal for the balance of the season.

The steamer North Shore of the Gilchrist company, sister ship to the P. G. Walker, which put the Canadian lock out of commission last season, was the offender. The steamer was approaching the Poe lock upbound at apparently full speed, when several hundred feet below the lower gates she took a sudden sheer, striking the south middle pier with such force as to tear up the coping for a considerable distance. She continued on her way into the lock, scraping the

STEAMER ALBION IS TOTAL LOSS

Wooden Vessel Is Rammed By the Chippewa at Seattle Harbor.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 3.—The steamer Chippewa rammed the old wooden steamer Albion off West Point, north of the entrance to Seattle harbor, early this morning.

The Chippewa was returning to Seattle from Everett after carrying an excursion party to Vancouver, B. C., and back, and had no passengers. Ten passengers, bound for Everett, were aboard the Albion, but as far as known none of them was injured.

The hull of the wooden vessel was pierced by the bow of the heavier steamer and the two were wedged tightly together. The passengers on the Albion, which probably will be a total loss, were transferred to the Chippewa.

Meager reports indicate that the damage to the Chippewa is not serious. The Chippewa is a steel steamer of 996 tons. She was built at Toledo, O., in 1900 and is owned by the Puget Sound Navigation company.

The Albion is one of the oldest steamers engaged in local trade on the sound. She is a wooden vessel of about 150 tons and is owned by the Port Angeles Towboat company.

PARIS SUICIDE IS CHICAGO LAWYER

Body Taken From River Seine That of William Starring.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The identity of the American who committed suicide in the Seine July 29, and whose body was recovered Sunday, has been established. He was William Starring, a lawyer of Chicago, who had lived in Europe for the last two years. Mr. Starin suffered from neurasthenia and insomnia and often had threatened to commit suicide.

On Friday night last he locked his nurse from the room and let himself down from the fifth story to the street by dropping from balcony to balcony. His wife and the nurse started in pursuit, but before they reached the street Mr. Starring had disappeared. He ran through the streets in his night clothes to the Grenelle bridge and jumped from it into the Seine. The funeral was held today.

Mrs. Starring is a native of Louisville, Ky.

Has Cousin in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—William Starring was a cousin of Mason B. Starring, president of the Northwestern Elevated Railroad company. His home was in Waukegan, Ill., and he had law offices in Chicago.

He left Chicago last May for Paris with Mrs. Starring and his daughter, Miss Charlotte, and a brother-in-law, Henry Smith of Louisville, Ky. Relatives here who knew of his illness were apprised of his death Saturday, but the message contained no hint of suicide. Mr. Starring was 53 years old.

BOYCOTT ON U. S. GOODS

Chinese Start Movement Similar to That of Several Years Ago.

Proclamation in Canton Asks All Chinese to Co-Operate.

Canton, China, Aug. 3.—A boycott of American goods and merchants, on similar lines to the one which, several years ago, caused millions of dollars damage to American trade in China, has been proclaimed here in response to complaints of the treatment of Chinese in America. The specific cause of complaint on this occasion is the objection of the Chinese of San Francisco to the detention sheds on Angel island in San Francisco bay. They have been endeavoring for some time to have them removed to San Francisco proper in order to secure better treatment for arriving Chinese.

The boycott is proclaimed by the Chinese Self Government society of Canton, an organization conducting a propaganda of "China for the Chinese," and for governmental reform to which Chinese in San Francisco appealed by letter received yesterday.

An appeal has been issued to Chinese abroad, asking them to co-operate in the boycott.

BALLINGER SAYS HE'LL NOT QUIT

Secretary Says Reports Are Work of Scurvy Politicians.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Secretary Ballinger denies that he intends to resign, and says that no significance attached to the visit of Senator Crane to the West. Secretary Ballinger said:

"I am not going to resign. They can't make me resign. All such talk is the work and sentiment and desire of scurvy politicians supported by scurvy newspapers. I am on the job and will stay until relieved by the president.

"Senator Crane is out West on a political mission in which I am not interested at all. I am out West in the interest of my department and am not interested in politics at all."

Postponed Part of Trip.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 3.—The visit of Secretary Ballinger to Minneapolis was undertaken on short notice and without the knowledge of any of his friends. The day before he started, the secretary was preparing for a trip through Oregon and California. This has been postponed.

When Senator Murray Crane's mission to Seattle was announced from Beverly, it was supposed the problem in the state of Washington that concerned the national administration most was the liklihood of Congressman Poindexter, insurgent, receiving a plurality of the votes cast at the September primaries for United States senator if the four regular Republican candidates remained in the field.

STATE BAR IN SESSION

Minnesota Attorneys Hold Their Annual Meeting in St. Paul.

John J. Esch of La Crosse, Wis., Will Make Chief Address.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Between 100 and 200 members of the Minnesota State Bar association gathered in the Saint Paul hotel this morning for the opening session of the three days' annual convention of the association. The meeting was called to order by Lafayette French of Austin, the president, who delivered his annual address. This, coupled with the reports of standing committees and routine business, took up the morning session.

The afternoon was given over to an open discussion of "Judicial Elections," "The Rule as to Opening and Closing in the Trial of Civil Actions," "Employes' Compensation for Injuries," "Traveling Expense Allowance for District Judges," and "Proposed Reforms in Minnesota Practice."

Will Discuss Supreme Court.

It is expected that Thursday will develop one of the most important features of the convention. It is probable that resolutions will be adopted calling upon the state legislature for relief for the supreme bench of the state, either by the appointment of additional judges or by an intermediate court of appeal or by a limitation of the right of appeal. The subject may be open for discussion all morning.

The annual address Friday morning, which will be delivered by Representative John J. Esch of La Crosse on "Federal Control of Stock and Bond Issues," will be one of the most important features of the gathering.

PREPARING FOR BIG BOND ISSUE

Reclamation Fund Act Furnishes Work for Treasury Department.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The treasury department officials are working over the form of the proposed issue of $20,000,000 worth of bonds to aid in the completion of reclamation projects. Congress at its last session authorized this issue and the secretary of the treasury has notified the interior department that it is ready to turn over the amount or any instalment of it on call. No date, however, has been fixed for such an issue.

The preparation of the bonds is likely to require two or three months and the department is therefore taking preliminary steps so as to avoid delay when any issue should be deemed necessary.

INSURGENT REPUBLICANS WIN ALMOST COMPLETE VICTORY AT KANSAS POLLS

STANDS BY INCUMBENTS

Missouri Nominates Present Congressmen in Primary Election.

Insurgent May Have Unseated One Stand-Pat Republican.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri's ten Democratic congressmen and at least two of three Republicans of the lower house were renominated at the primary election yesterday. The exception on the Republican side is Congressman Charles A. Crow of the Fourteenth district, against whom David W. Hill, an insurgent Republican, is pitted.

Congressman Patrick F. Gill of the Eleventh district, St. Louis, is the victor by a small margin, according to latest returns. His principal opponent is Daniel P. Meehan. Booher of the Fourth, Borland of the Fifth and Hamlin of the Seventh were the only Democrats obliged to contest for their nominations.

Nominated for Congress.

FACTION SPIRIT RAMPANT IN IOWA G. O. P. CONVENTION

Mild Indorsement of Taft May Appear in Platform.

Cummins Denounces Payne Law in Speech as Chairman.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 3.—With standpatters and progressives apparently hopelessly at variance on the essential matter of a tariff plank, the Republican state convention was called to order in the Coliseum today for the purpose of writing a platform, selecting a state contral committee and making nominations for state superintendent of public instruction and for two supreme court judgeships.

The stand-patters adopted their planks last night, knowing they could not be forced through the convention. The platform which is to be adopted will be unmistakably an insurgent congressional delegation.

Insurgents in Majority.

The two factions have been steadily growing further apart. Talk was for an indorsement of President Taft and the protective policy. By night, however, teh platform makers of this faction were in a stampede.

They prepared planks indorsing the president and Governor Carroll, calling them respectively the leaders of the party in nation and state. They indorsed Taft for signing the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, and to the law gave their unqualified approval. Nothing could better be calculated to arouse the irc of the insurgent delegates, who are in the majority by 200.

Former Congressman Lacey sounded the keynote today in a speech in which he declared that it was important that Iowa should go Republican next election.

Morning Caucuses Held.

With the exception of the Second district meeting the caucuses this morning were soon over, five choosing stand-pat members of the resolutions committee and of the state central

DOCTOR HURT IN AEROPLANE FALL

Amateur Aviator Takes Bad Spill at Garden City, L. I.

New York, Aug. 3.—Dr. H. Walden, an amateur aviator, was seriously injured today at Garden City, L. I., while testing a new monoplane. He had been encircling the aviation field for a half hour when something went wrong with the craft and it dropped fifty feet to the ground. The physician was unconscious when removed from the wrecked monoplane and was hurried to a hospital.

Experienced aviators told him his monoplane was not properly designed and warned him he would get hurt if he attempted to fly, but he smilingly insisted that he would fly safely.

London, Aug. 3.—Parliament adjourned today until Nov. 15.

Wider, the young cashier of the Russo-Chinese bank in this city, whose stealings from the bank's security box resulted in a loss of upward of $500,000 to the institution, pleaded guilty today to the indictment found against him in connection with the embezzlement. Wider was remanded for sentence on Aug. 10.

BRAINERD GIRL MISSING IN FARGO

Police Force, Aunt and Her Father Are Searching for Her.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evelyn Britt of Brainerd, Minn., has mysteriously disappeared in Fargo.

ONLY TWO ARE TURNED DOWN

Campbell and Anthony Win Over Cranston and McNeal.

Stubbs Is Renominated and May Run for Senate Later.

Calderhead Is Beaten By 2,000---Miller Loses to Jackson.

Six out of eight insurgent congressmen have been nominated in spite of everything the congressional organization in Washington and the regulars in Kansas could do to save their men. Their majorities were from 1,000 to 3,500.

Of the six stand-pat congressmen who were seeking renomination, only two are sure of having their names on the ticket this fall. In the Third district P. P. Campbell defeated Arthur Cranston, insurgent. In the First district Representative D. R. Anthony, a strong Cannon adherent, won over T. A. McNeal, insurgent. Anthony's majority will be close to 600.

Representative William A. Calderhead, in the Fifth, leader of the Cannon standpatters, was defeated by about 2,000 votes. Victor Murdock and E. H. Madison, insurgent leaders, had no opposition and will be returned to congress.

Stubbs Is Renominated.

W. R. Stubbs for governor has been renominated with a majority over Thomas Waggstaff of about 20,000, or 2,000 more than he had over Cy Leland

LEAVES BED TO KILL HERSELF

La Crosse Woman Commits Suicide While Husband Goes for Light.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Stewart L. Morgan, wife of a glovemaker, shot herself through the head at her home early today. Mr. Morgan had been awakened by hearing his wife walking about the room and not getting an answer to his calls, he went out for a light. As he did so he heard a shot and as he rushed back in the darkness he fell over the woman's dead body. Melancholia is the only motive known for the suicide.

PREPARE PROBE OF WHEAT CORNER

Federal Attorneys Begin Work in Chicago Market Case.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Preliminary federal investigation of the recent corner in July wheat was begun today by the federal grand jury, which also is investigating the alleged beef trust. John C. F. Morrill, vice president of the Chicago board of trade, appeared before the grand jury shortly before noon and was questioned at length by United States District Attorney Edwin Sims and Special Assistant District Attorney James Wilkerson.

As indicated previously by federal authorities, the information sought today was solely to give the attorneys material upon which to base a thorough investigation into market conditions before another federal grand jury to be convened later. Mr. Morrill was the only wheat corner witness examined.

NO DEMAND FOR HARVEST HANDS

Shortage of Crops Will Have Effect on the Labor Market.

G. S. Richards of the National Employment company of this city is in receipt of a letter from the Grand Forks Commercial club, in which the secretary of that organization states that there will be very little demand for harvesters in the northern part of North Dakota the present season. The letter advises the employment agents of this city to warn all laborers to be sure they have secured jobs before starting for North Dakota, as there are sufficient men in the immediate vicinity of Grand Forks at the present time to harvest the crop.

Employment men here say that the lack of demand for men in North Dakota will lead to a surplus of men here this fall, which will mean that there will be plenty of laborers for all the railroad work that may be resumed by the railroads of Duluth .

Annually in the past there has been a rush of laborers to the wheat fields of North Dakota. In the vicinity of Duluth and the Twin Cities there has been a dearth of laborers each fall for railroad work. Labor men say the outlook for the present season is that there will be plenty of laborers for all the work that may be done by the railroads in this part of the country.

NEW EVIDENCE IN CRIPPEN CASE

London Police Are Gathering Up Support for the Prosecution.

London, Aug. 3.—Several important facts bearing on the Belle Elmore murder case came to light today.

Progress is being made in the development of evidence. William Long, a former assistant of Dr. Crippen, who as a witness at the inquest over the fragments of a human body found in the cellar of the Crippen home was inclined to shield the fugitive, has since talked freely with the authorities. Long, on the day that Crippen and his companion disappeared, purchased the suit of boy's clothes in which Miss Leneve was attired on her arrest. Long says he fully believed that Belle Elmore had gone to America.

The case of the crown, so far as the matter of extradition is concerned, was completed today and the papers from the legal department of the government turned over to Sergeant Mitchell, who will sail for Quebec tomorrow, accompanied by two matrons who will take charge of Miss Leneve.

Pepper's Report Not Ready.

The evidence which will be laid before the Canadian judge is an elaboration of that taken at the inquest, but it does not include the report of Prof. Pepper, the home office expert who made the analytical examination of the dismembered body. Pepper is depended upon to determine the sex of the victim and if possible to clinch the identification. It is explained that his report is not yet complete.

Athur Newton, a London solicitor, has undertaken the defense of Crippen. Newton said that he had been retained by friends of the prisoner. He declined to tell their names.

MAY TEST WHEEL TAX

Livery Stable Owners Said to Contemplate Case in Court.

C. H. Thornton Takes Out First License Under New Law.

Several of the owners of large livery stables in the city will fight the wheelage tax in the courts, according to reports at the office of the city clerk, where the first license was issued to C. H. Thornton today. Mr. Thornton gets tag No. 1, for which he paid $12.50. He has an automobile rated at 25-horse power.

At the time the ordinance was up for public hearings before the council committee on ordinances and resolutions no opposition was apparent. No one appeared to protest against the levying of the tax, although several changes in the method of application were asked and granted, being incorporated in the present ordinance.

The tax will be quite a burden to some of the owners of numerous vehicles. They feel, it is claimed, that they are being done an injustice and are willing to take the matter to the courts for a test. By combining, the expenses will be divided, thus not falling heavily on any one man, although the case will be brought by a single person, in all probability.

The Duluth wheelage tax was drafted along somewhat similar lines to that which is being enforced in Chicago. In that city fifty-five cases were taken to the supreme court. Four out of five of them were decided in favor of the city, and at last reports here the fifth had not yet been passed upon. The local authorities believe that the ordinance will stand the most severe test. It was carefully drawn and equalized as far as possible. It is recognized that the tax will hit some harder than others, but it seems to be impossible to devise a schedule which will be satisfactory to everybody.

The tax means much to the city, as from $15,000 to $20,000 a year will be derived from it for the maintenance of the local streets. Many of them are now going to ruin because there is no money with which to prepare them. Should the case get to the courts the hardest kind of a fight will be put up by both sides.

The tax now being collected dates from Aug. 1. The ordinance was passed before that, but the city had no blanks or tags to issue until this week. All licenses expire April 30 of each year.

GRAND TRUNK STRIKE IS OFF

Men Will Receive Advance of Approximately 18 Per Cent.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 3.—The strike of conductors, trainmen and yardmen, which began on the Grand Trunk and Central Vermont systems on July 18, was officially called off last night. Under the terms of the agreement signed by President Hayes for the railroads and all the union officials, the men will receive, dating back to May 1 of this year, an advance of approximately 18 per cent, and beginning Jan. 1, 1912, a rate of wages slightly below the Eastern association schedule, for which they struck, but an advance in many instances of over 30 per cent.

In the case of the Central Vermont the same settlement applies with the exception that the standardization to be applied on Jan. 1, 1912, is to be that of the Rutland railway, a road in the same territory, and that of the Canadian Pacific, which will only apply to the Grand Trunk system.

President Garretson of the conductors and President Lee of the trainmen both declare they are satisfied with the terms of the settlement. Both have left for St. Louis

WOULD PUBLISH GERMAN RITUAL

Recommendation Is Made to the Knights of Pythias.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 3.—The features of today's program of the grand encampment, Knights of Pythias, are the competitive drills at Camp Henry Parish Brown and the big parade of the subordinate lodges and Pythian Sisters. These events were liable to postponement on account of a heavy rain, which has been falling since early morning. Three United States army officers are detailed by the war department to act as judges in the drills.

Supreme Chancellor Brown, in his biennial report for the year, shows an increase in the Pythian order's membership. On December 31, 1909, the cash on hand of the various grand lodges within the supreme domain amounted to $240,630.80, and the capital on hand of the subordinate lodges within the supreme domain was $2,761,252.65. During the year 1909, the subordinate lodges expended for relief $1,715,502.10. The total assets of subordinate lodges as reported by the various grand domains aggregated the sum of $17,568,331.77.

Would Publish in German.

Important recommendations made by the supreme chancellor of the supreme lodge are the publication of the ritual, application for knighthood and installation in the German language; the appointment of a committee to consider the advisability of the revision of the ritual, and appointment of a committee to investigate and report as to the necessity of the law regulating suspensions of members for non-payment of dues.

Twenty brigades, resplendent in the natty uniforms of their rank, paraded the principal streets yesterday flanked on either side by dense crowds of cheering people that extended for a distance of fifty-five city blocks. Maj. Gen. Arthur J. Stobbart was in supreme command of the march. On account of the seniority of the brigade commander, the knights from Illinois were given the post of honor heading the parade, Virginia following.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

Rivals to Meet.

A special challenge motor boat race to be held at the Duluth Boat club, Saturday afternoon, is attracting a great deal of attention. The participants will be the Evelyn D, owned by S. W. Richardson; La Belle Julie, owned by Rev. A. H. Wurtele, and the Fritz, Jr., owned by W. D. Jones. The boats have met before and the contests have always been close and exciting. There is great rivalry between the owners of the craft and there will be glory and satisfaction for the winner in the victory.

Ship Model on Exhibition.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The model of the United States battleship North Dakota, which was on exhibition last week at the state fair in Fargo, is now on display here.

NEW SMOKE ORDINANCE

Health Department Will Have Effective Weapon Against Nuisance.

Letter Sent to Owners of Chimneys Asking Them to Improve Conditions.

The health department has taken hold of the smoke nuisance with a determination to improve the present disagreeable conditions existing in Duluth.

Health Commissioner Webster is sending letters to the worst of the offenders, calling their attention to the fact that their chimneys are belching forth huge quantities of soot, and asking them to apply a remedy.

The remedy is left largely in the hands of the offenders. The department doesn't care what steps are taken, so long as they are effective. But the authorities state that the owners will have to do something showing positive results.

Complaints of the smoke nuisance have been pouring into the health office in large numbers. In his letter Dr. Webster states that public sentiment is strongly worked up against the dirty chimneys, and that unless something is done to improve them, legal steps will be taken to compel a change. In this connection a new smoke ordinance will shortly be introduced in the council. It will be short but to the point. The provisions will be sufficiently broad to cover all conditions and give the health authorities an effective weapon with which to get some action against those who do not comply with the department's request.

In the downtown sections, if the wind happens to be blowing from certain directions, it is almost impossible to walk down the street without getting black spots on clothes and face. Many light garments are practically ruined in this manner, and their neat, fresh appearance is destroyed.

The health department letter calls attention to the fact that the city is receiving an unenviable reputation from the smoke nuisance. It is spreading to other cities, and is working against the best interests of the municipality. Dr. Webster states that if for no other reason, the owners of the buildings with bad chimneys should improve them as public-spirited citizens.

"DEAF" MAN GETS SIXTY DAYS

Goes to Jail for Imposing on Charity of Duluth People.

Harry Lyons, who has been begging on the streets of Duluth on the pretense that he was deaf and dumb, pleaded guilty to the charge in police court this morning. He got sixty days in the county jail.

Lyons passed cards to pedestrains with pathetic verses printed on them and explaining that he needed money to complete his education as well as to support an aged mother.

Jay Cooke Howard made a complaint to the police regarding him and explained that education is free to the deaf in Minnesota. He claims that the "deaf" man had collected quite a sum of money on a street car.

"There are no deaf beggars in Minnesota," says Mr. Howard. "Every deaf person I know of in this state is self-supporting, and people should be wary of giving aid to anyone who tries to make his deafness an excuse for begging. The chances are that he is an imposter."

SUPERIOR

WILL ESTABLISH RIPARIAN RIGHTS

City Will Start Suit Against Railroads for Harbor Privileges.

The first step in what may prove to be a long fight for the riparian rights of the city in street and avenue ends at the shore line of the bay, was taken last evening, when the city council passed a resolution, which if it can be carried into effect, will give the city municipal dock sites without purchasing them.

The main opposition to this move of the city will be from the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads, which have built yards along the bay front on land which has been filled in. It is proposed to start a suit at once to regain the city's harbor rights.

The railroads now occupying the property, the city is unable to get access to the shore from the harbor and should the city wish to build a dock at the end of the street, it would be impossible for boats to get in on account of the railroad yards.

The council last evening turned down the application of Former Alderman Stewart McCutcheon for a liquor license at his place of business at Itasca.

WORK NOT RUSHED PENDING DECISION.

Pending the decision of the state railroad commission concerning the right-of-way which will be used by the Soo road in its approach to its docks on the St. Louis bay front, work at the site is not being rushed, but material is still arriving. A dredge company is doing some work in the vicinity. As soon as a decision is arrived at by the commission, it is expected that a large crew or men will be put to work.

Hurt at Coal Dock.

John Kutz, a laborer employed by the Heyll - Patterson company on Northwestern Fuel company's dock was seriously injured yesterday when some heavy material fell on him. He was removed to St. Mary's hospital. The extent of his injuries cannot be determined for a few days.

Accident in Alley.

Bruised and bleeding as a result of having fallen some distance, a man giving his name as John Morris was found last evening at 9 o'clock in an alley north of Seventh street, between Tower and Ogden avenue. The man had been drinking havily and could not give an account of himself. He was sent to St. Mary's hosptal.

EXCITING RUNAWAY; DRIVER IS ARRESTED.

A team attached to one of T. J. Anderson's delivery wagons, ran away on Tower avenue last evening, causing considerable excitement in the vicinity of Eleventh street. There were many near smashups averted and when the driver was located, the police arrested him for leaving his team unhitched. He gave his name as Oscar Dunnam.

Can Wade the River.

Attorney M. C. Brzonkala returned yesterday from La Crosse, Wis., where he has been visiting for the past few days. He states that a serious condition of low water prevails along the Mississippi river between Lake Pepin and about fifty miles below La Crosse. In many parts of the river, according to Mr. Brzonkala, one can wade across it.

STORM DOES DAMAGE IN MENOMINEE, MICH.

RESCUED BY DAUGHTER

Aged Woman Saved From Being Sent to Insane Asylum.

Daughter Claims Brother Wanted to Get Rid of Mother.

Claiming that a plot had been framed to send her aged mother to the insane asylum because her brother-in-law did not wish to take care of her longer, Mrs. Albert Johnson, of Adolph, appeared at the sheriff's office this morning asking her release.

Mrs. Johnson was accompanied by her husband, who declared that they would be glad to give her shelter and food for the rest of her days, and complained bitterly against the treatment she has received at the hands of her son-in-law, Charles Johnson, who has a farm near Midway.

Upon their request the aged woman, Mrs. Augusta Johnson, 77 years old, was released from the county jail, where she had been confined over night. She was examined late yesterday afternoon before Judge Middlecoff of the probate court, but her case was continued over till today, because the examining physicians could find no grounds upon which to declare her insane.

Mrs. Augusta Johnson, according to the story told by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, had been living with the Charles Johnsons for the past seven years. Her husband, who died on April 1, this year, had also lived with them.

Albert and his wife assert that as long as the old couple could do work on the farm, everything went along well, although Charles showed some inclination to under feed them. But when they arrived at that stage where they were unable to work, Charles's patience gave out and he endeavored to rid himself of them.

Albert Johnson stated this morning that they were given no information of the fact that his old mother-in-law was to be examined as to her sanity. It so happened that his wife was in the woods, located near the country road, picking berries, when she saw a rig pass by in which her mother was riding. She was told then that her mother was being taken to the court house in Duluth for examination.

As soon as possible she and her husband made arrangements to come to Duluth, and arrived at 6 o'clock this morning to put in their request for her rlease. The aged woman has shown some indications of childishness due to old age, but aside from this she is in perfect health.

Linley Sambourne, chief cartoonist of Punch, died in London, Aug. 3, after a long illness. Mr. Sambourne, whose signature to the leading cartoons has been a prominent feature of Punch for the last decade, commenced his connection with England's standard humorous weekly in 1867, when his first small drawing appeared through the encouragement of Mark Lemon, the first editor. He had been a continuous contributor since that date, and after long years as co-cartoonist with Sir John Tennial, was made chief cartoonist, Jan. 1, 1901. He was born in London in 1845 and in addition to his work for Punch had illustrated a number of books.

MANY BIRDS AT CLOQUET

State Convention of Eagles Brings Large Delegations to That City.

Chisholm Is Making Strong Bid for Entertaining Next Year's Meet.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The seventh annual convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles opened in this city yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a reception to the delegates in the Nelson opera house, at which the address of welcome was given by William Kelly, president of the city council, Mayor C. I. McNair having been called away on business. State President P. D. Winship of Park Rapids responded on behalf of the Eagles, and also made a brief address on "The State of the Order." Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh, rector of St. Andrew's church in this city, gave an address on "Fraternity," following which adjournment was taken to the Odd Fellows' hall, where the first formal meeting of the convention was opened, State President Winship presiding. The only business disposed of was the appointment of the committee on credentials, composed of William Laguth of Park Rapids, A. J. Cooling of Biwabik and C. W. Turner of Eveleth. Adjournment was taken to 9 p. m., when a large class of new members was initiated into the order, among them Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh. An informal pleasant time followed the business session.

Chisholm After Next Meet.

Practically a full quota of state officers are here, 100 Eagles and a band arriving from Chisholm, nearly as many from Duluth, and with the remainder of the state representation the convention is in full swing today. Chisholm is after the meet next year, and undoubtedly will get it when the place of meeting is decided Thursday afternoon.

Past State President Rupert Groff of Stillwater found it impossible to be present, owing to important business, and considerable regret is expressed, as Mr. Groff made a hit with the boys last year at Hibbing. State Secretary Jason Kidder of Fergus Falls is almost as much of a funny man, and it is said that he has a "cinch" on the state secretaryship for another year, which will make his fourth year in the office. Mr. Kidder is clerk of the district court for Otter Tail county, and has every opportunity to handle the details of the secretaryship. In the office of treasurer, which County Attorney Walter Plymat of Mankato has held for two terms, there is not likely to be any fight, but with the exception of the secretary and treasurership, a lively contest is looked forward to.

FORMER MAYOR NOT A CITIZEN

Official of Lake Linden, Mich., Had Never Taken Out Final Papers.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 3.—The naturalization in the federal court here of Leon Gillette, a forest ranger on the Helena national forest, brought to light a curious state of affairs in a Michigan town. Gillette was born in France, but came to this country at the age of 3 years. His father settled at Lake Linden, Mich., and there Gillette grew to manhood. He always considered himself an American citizen and regularly voted at every election, and a year ago he took the civil service examination for forest ranger and passed. One of the questions asked was if the candidate was a citizen of the United States and if so, how. Gillette answered that he was a citizen through the naturalization of his father. He passed the examination and was then called upon to produce proof of his father's citizenship. He wrote to his father and then learned for the first time that his father was not a citizen.

Father Had Only First Papers.

It seems that his father took out first papers shortly after his arrival in America. The law at that time permitted an alien who had secured his first papers to vote. So Gillette's father supposed that he had been admitted to full citizenship. His neighbors thought likewise and not only allowed him to vote, but honored him by electing him to serve as county treasurer of Houghton county, councilman in the Lake Linden council, and later mayor of Lake Linden. The predicament in which the Helena man found himself caused a sensation in Lake Linden and hundreds of old settlers made an investigation, with the result, that they also found that they were not citizens of the United States. Gillette has been in Montana eleven years.

MARRIAGE IS A SURPRISE

Michael J. Horgan Takes Out Wedding License in Chicago.

Michael J. Horgan, deputy sheriff of this county, this morning took out a license to marry Sarah Williams of Minneapolis at Chicago, Ill. Mr. Horgan left last evening for the Windy City, but, according to friends and relatives in Duluth, gave no one any information of his intended marriage.

Before leaving the city he stated to Sheriff Bates that he was going to Chicago to attend a wedding, but he did not state whose wedding he would attend.

Mr. Horgan is well known not only in Duluth but throughout the county, for he has been connected with the sheriff's office for many years.

FAIR

A thunder storm last night furnished the only diversion in the last twenty-four hours from the continued cool summer weather that is the joy of Duluth and its visitors. Today is one of those days the people in Kansas City, St. Louis and other torid cities read about but can't experience unless they come to Duluth. The highest temperature yesterday was 70 deg.

Cloudy weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:59 and it will set at 7:38, giving fourteen hours and forty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"High temperatuers continued in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. The highest temperature reported was 106 deg. at Oklahoma City. The Manitoba disturbance has advanced its center to Western Ontario, its easterly movement resulting in showers over Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the upper lake region, North Dakota, Iowa and Missouri during either Tuesday or last night. Further showers also fell in the meantime over South Carolina and Florida. A high pressure area that overlies the extreme Northwest has caused cooler weather in Western Canada, Montana and the Dakotas, and this condition will reach the Head of the Lakes tonight."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Moderate to brisk with squalls on Huron and Michigan this afternoon. Showers and thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight, southwest shifting to northwest winds, Thursday fair.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Showers this afternoon and tonight; Thursday fair.

FACTION SPIRITS RAMPANT IN IOWA G. O. P. CONVENTION

The entrance of Senator Cummins, the temporary chairman, was the signal for a wild burst of applause, in which many conservatives, carried away by the enthusiasm, joined. Senator Dolliver, slated for permanent chairman, came in a few moments later and received an ovation. He took a seat on the platform beside his senatorial colleague. The Coliseum, with its seating capacity of 10,000, was half filled with delegates and spectators when State Chairman Franks introduced Senator Cummins as temporary chairman.

The Second district delegation, still wrestling in caucus, was not present, in consequence of which it was stated that the resolutions committee would not be sent out to deliberate until after Senator Cummins' speech.

Plans for Platform.

On the best authority it was stated that the platform to be adopted will indorse President Taft in language which will not conflict with the most hearty approval of Iowa's insurgent delegation in congress. Early developments indicated an indorsement of Governor Carroll. Another probable plank, it was reported, would indorse good roads, employers' liability, publicity of campaign expenses, the mulct law and the election of United States senators by direct vote.

Senator Cummins did not mention either President Taft or Governor Carroll. In referring to the Republican party as the party "of Lincoln, of Grant, of Roosevelt," it was noticed he did not say anything about the party of "Taft."

The mention of Roosevelt's name brought the audience to its feet. Then from the stand-patters came cries of "Taft, Taft, Taft."

They wanted the party referred to as the party of Taft also.

Did Not Mention Taft.

The senator smiled during the outburst, but ignored the request.

"—and of Roosevelt," he attempted to resume, whereupon the cries of "Taft, Taft, Taft" were resumed by the stalwarts. As the speaker still denied the demand there were hisses. These soon ceased and the progressive leader continued his address as it lay in manuscript before him. Senator Cummins said:

"This is not an age of plain living, but it is an age of plain speaking and therefore. With malice toward none, and charity for all," I speak to you according to the truth as I see it, and according to my duty as I understand it.

"The Republican party cannot endure permanently half progressive and half standpat. I do not expect to see it either defeated or dissolved, but it must speedily become all progressive or all standpat.

"I cannot permit myself to doubt that the party of Lincoln, of Grant, of Blaine, of Garfield, of McKinley and of Roosevelt will rise triumphantly above the clouds of its civil war and be in the future, as it has been in the past, the best hope of mankind, the progressive party, not only of the nation but of the world.

"I reiterate what I have always said in every campaign during the stormy decade in which I have been in public office. We will fight with all the strength that is in us before the nominations are made, but when they are made in the appointed way we will stand shoulder to shoulder for the Republican candidates, and in this spirit, I appeal to every Republican in the state to give his voice and his vote to every candidate on the ticket, whether national or state.

The Tariff Policy.

"With these preliminary observations, I proceed to the consideration of the definite principles which touch our party faith and which make up our party history. The policy of taxing imports, not only for revenue but for protection to domestic producers, established in the very beginning by Alexander Hamilton, adopted by the Whigs, and inherited by the Republican party, has beyond dispute helped to make the United States the mightiest nation in the world.

"There is not a Republican anywhere who does not yield to the protective system unreserved and unwavering allegiance.

"There has been no controversy, and there can be none, between Republicans as to the soundness or value of this doctrine. The divergence appears when we come to apply it to international trade.

"So long as there was full and free competition in our own country it mattered little how excessive the duties were, because the rivalry among domestic producers could be depended upon to bring prices to a fair American level.

"As time passed on, however, there appeared a new factor in the industrial and commercial life of the United States, and the era of consolidation and monopoly began. With a rapidity that even now it is hard to comprehend, business of all kinds rushed into close union, and scattered capital was drawn into the strong embrace of trusts and consolidations.

Result of Protection.

"Safe from the competition of other countries, it becomes the chief object of our manufacturers to destroy competition in their own country. They accomplished this purpose so effectually that years ago in nearly every important field of production prices ceased to be the result of the time-honored laws of trade, and the power of determining profits fell into the hands either of a monopoly or an acknowledged master in protected industry.

"Then came a demand for a revision of the tariff. It originated in the necessities of the people, and was founded upon the fundamental instinct for justice. In this demand there was no disloyalty to the doctrine of protection, although for a short period the beneficiaries of excessive duties succeeded in confusing the issue.

"It was then that the standpatter adopted the name which he now bears, and his campaign cry was 'let well enough alone.' The movement, however, was irresistible and the Republican national convention of 1908, responding, not only with unanimity but with enthusiasm, to the progressive sentiment of the rank and file of the party, not only pledged the incoming congress to a revision of the tariff, but defined the doctrine of protection with a care and precision unknown to any former platform. It solemnly prescribed a rule with which to measure import duties, to the end that both producer and consumer, both capital and labor, might share in our prosperity.

How Pledge was Redeemed.

"Upon his pledge, definition, and rule we appealed to the country for the election of a Republican president and a Republican congress. The country, believing profoundly in maintaining our own industries, and reposing implicit faith in the promise that export duties would, in the revision to take place, be measured by the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, elected a Republican president and a Republican congress.

"In redemption of the pledge so made, the president convened the new congress in special session, and it did revise the tariff.

"I have never been much interested in the debate over the technical proposition that our promise was to revise the tariff downward. Beyond dispute, the people generally expected that it would be revised downward, because they knew that the duties were too high, and were greatly more than the difference between the cost of production here and abroad.

"But whatever may have been said in the campaign, I agree that there was no formal pledge in the platform to revise the tariff downward.

"There Was a Pledge."

"There was, however, a pledge that it should be revised so that the duties upon protected commodities should be the difference between the cost of producing them here and in other countries, with a fair profit added, and the intent, as everybody will concede, was that our manufacturers should be able to enter our markets and sell their products at a fair price as against foreign competitors; and it was the further intent that grossly excessive profits growing out of abnormal prices should be prevented by reducing the duties to a point that would admit importations whenever our own manufacturers raised their prices above the level of fairness and decency.

"Such was the platform and such was the purpose that it became the duty of congress to carry into effect. I believe that ninety-nine Republicans in every 100 desired a revision that would keep the faith and accomplish the purpose. I believe that the president wanted to fulfill the promises of the party, and to make good his own declarations; but the leaders of both the house and the senate refused to recognize the party pledge; refused to be guided by the rule which had been announced, and forced through congress a tariff bill without even the pretense of attempting to ascertain, or of applying when ascertained, the standard which the party had established.

Increases Without Reason.

"The bill made many reductions and many increases—but the reductions were of little or no avail, for they left the duties still far above the difference in the cost of production, and therefore permit the protected manufacturers not only to charge existing prices, but to lift them still higher, and the increases were, in nearly every instance, not only without reason in fact, but without defense in debate.

"Some Republicans, having done all they could to make the bill what it should have been, finally voted for it, and I have no word of censure for them, for they did what they believed to be their duty. Some of us voted against the bill, and we make no apology for our votes.

"If there had been an honest attempt to fix duties according to the cost of production I might have yielded my view on the question of fact; but there was no such attempt, and I, for one, refused to follow, and would refuse again to follow Aldrich, Hale, Lodge, Cannon, Payne and Dalzell into a Cannon, Payne and Daizell into a sneering, contemptuous, open repudiation of my party platform.

"It is not a Republican measure, although passed by Republican votes, for the men who are chiefly responsible for it thought more of swelling the overgrown fortunes of their intimate friends than they thought of the party principles, the party pledge, or the welfare of a long suffering people.

What Payne Law Has Done.

"It is said that the law has been successful from a revnue standpoint. This is quite true; but it must be remembered that it is very easy to enlarge the receipts at the custom houses. The Democrats could have done that their condemned and obsolete theory of a tariff for revenue only.

"It is said that it has stimulated business. It may be that it has, for the prize of enormous profits is exceedingly tempting.

"It is claimed that the average tax upon dutiable imports is something like 1 per centum less than under the Dingley act. This may or may not be so, for I have learned to doubt the accuracy of tariff statements, but granting the truth of the statement, what a superb showing it is.

"We have revised the tariff in response to an overpowering Republican sentiment, and have succeeded in taking off about one-forty-second of the average imposition upon dutiable goods.

"In all that has been said by those who have, during the last year, defended the measure, there has been no claim that we either fixed or tried to fix the duties according to the cost of production, and yet that is the test, and the only test, by which the act should be tried if we have any regard for our plighted word.

"There are many gratifying reductions in the Payne-Aldrich act, but upon the whole it is not a fair exemplification of the protective policy, nor is it an honest performance of our platform promise.

"The one thing that can be said in favor of our recent revision is that it is vastly better than any tariff which the Democrats could enact founded upon the exploded theory of levying duties for revenue only. It would be fatal to commit this country to any such doctrine.

What Should Be Done.

"The logical, sensible thing to do is to correct our mistake—none but Republicans can correct it—and under the impluse of the sentiment, growing now by leaps and bounds everywhere, they will correct it and leave the Republican name and Republican pledge without a stain in all its wonderful history.

"Our course, it seems to me, is set plain before us. I do not favor an immediate general revision of the tariff, indeed, I earnestly hope that we may never be compelled to enter upon another general readjustment of the system.

"In our last attempt it was made clearer than ever before, first, that some better way must be found than we now have of securing information as to cost here and abroad; and second, that we must amend the schedules separately. As to the first, the way will be found in the creation of an independent, non-partisan tariff commission, not to change the law, for that is, and must remain, the work of congress; but to collect and lay before congress and before the people the facts.

"When this is done there will be neither high tariff man nor low tariff man who will venture to disregard his duty. Fortunately, the demand for such a commission has become almost unanimous among Republicans, and the few who still oppose it will soon disappear from public life.

"We must make it impossible to coerce or bribe a member of congress into voting for what he knows to be wrong in order to get what he believes to be right.

Railroad Legislation.

"The most important legislation of the last session of congress was the amendment to the interstate commerce law. The regulation of common carriers is altogether the most difficult undertaking upon which the government has entered. It would be an intricate and trying problem, even if the railway corporations would cooperate with congress in the effort to enact the proper legislation, but their co-operation is not to be expected. They will, in the future as they have in the past, resist every proposal to increase the efficiency of the regulation and control already in our statutes.

"Although the law was greatly strengthened in 1906 under the puissant and patriotic leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, the experience of four years demonstrated that the power of the interstate commerce commission should be materially enlarged, and we of the West, at any rate, felt that there should be some restrictions upon common carirer corporations engaged in interstate traffic with respect to the issuance of stocks and bonds."

Wickersham's Work.

"The president assumed the initiative, but, unfortunately, as I view it, he delegated to the attorney general the task of preparing a bill to be laid before congress. I have no reason to doubt the honesty of the attorney general, but he had just come from a long professional training and association which unfitted him to deal wisely with this subject, and there came from his hands into the house and senate a bill, which, if it had passed, as Aldrich so emphatically declared it should pass, would have consigned the Republican party to eternal disgrace and defeat.

"Contrary to our solemn promise in the platform, it proposed to repeal the anti-trust law with respect to traffic agreements among railways specifying rates and charges, and to permit such agreements and the rates and charges made under them to go into effect without the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

"Many other unreasonable changes, and among them it proposed to create a useless and expensive court of commerce to do the work which the circuit court now does.

"I am glad to be able to say that, with the exception of the court of commerce, every one of these proposals found their way to the graveyard of legislative heresy and reaction, and there I hope they will lie buried forever.

"All that was good in the bill was carefully preserved, and all that was bad was either wholly rejected or materially modified.

"Upon the whole, the Republican party is to be congratulated upon the bill, as it became a law. It is a step in the right direction, and ultimately we will reach the end toward which all patriots are striving."

Postal Bank Bill.

Senator Cummins commended the postal savings bank bill except that he criticized the extent of power given to the trustees and the provision for removal of funds deposited from the locality in which the deposits are made. He also expressed opposition to the central bank plan as outlined by leading Republicans, declaring it would result in "a financial slavery more complete even than the industrial servitude which now afflicts us."

In the last of his speech Senator Cummins said:

"The Reupblican party was not born to make men rich, it was born to make men free. It cannot survive upon the feasts of millionaires, it must live at the plain table of common men. Riches are not to be despised; but wealth should be the incident of a justly ordered society and not the chief object of government.

"Full employment for everybody, fair distribution to everybody, protection for the weak, and a check upon the strong—these ought to be the watchwords of the party. The 'square deal' is now, as always, the noblest expression of governmental purposes."

I WANT THE PEOPLE TO KNOW IT

Mrs. N. E. Cook Makes a Startling Statement About Electro Radio

For many years I have been constantly going down hill, in spite of everything that could be done. I was in constant pain, could scarcely digest enough food to keep me alive, although but 57 years of age, I looked and felt like I was a century old. From a paralyzed condition of the muscles of the back I was scarcely able to support my head and shoulders, so I could walk. My head and shoulders were bowed forward and to one side until the shoulder blade on the right side formed an enlargement on my back that had all the appearance of a hunch back. My liver, kidneys, and nerves were so bad that I was unable to get a night's rest and life was a burden to me. From the many reports of the grand work that is being done on the so-called incurable cases, I finally concluded as a last resort to give this wonderful curative agent a trial. From the first treatment I began to feel stronger, slept better and began to take on new life. Now I am free from pain, enjoy a good meal, am able to hold my head and shoulders erect, and beginning to enjoy life as well as one of my age can. I want the people to know of this as it may be the cause of some poor sufferer (as I was) taking this treatment, and getting relief. I cannot recommend this treatment too highly, for any kind of treatment that will do what it did for me in so short a time will do wonders for others, and we all know that poor suffering humanity has a hard time to sift the wheat from the chaff in getting proper treatment for their ills as well as in other things, and when one does light onto something that is pure gold they should let the world know of it.

(The Electro Radio offices are at 310 Alworth building. Hours 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 8. Sunday, 11 to 12.)

STATUE OF JEFF DAVIS IN CAPITOL

Washington, Aug. 3.—It is believed in Washington that the decision of President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham that there is now law under which the state of Virginia can be made to remove the statue of Robert E. Lee from statuary hall in the capitol will be followed by the placing of a statue of Jefferson Davis there by Mississippi. A careful examination of the opinion of the attorney general has convinced officials of the government here that nothing could be done to prevent the Davis statue from being placed in the capitol.

Protests might come from many quarters against the Davis statue, just as they did against the one of Gen. Lee, only it is believed they would be more numerous. The right of the state to select whom it pleases to honor in this way is apparently established, however, according to the opinion, and it is expected that Mississippi would rather honor the once president of the Confederate states than any other of her public men.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

This evening the regular mid-week frolic will be held at the Oatka branch of the boat club. The weekly water baseball games are proving the most amusing events of the summer and the members and their friends who witnessed the first game are weekly attendants at the Wednesday evening events at Oatka. The Umpire, who is considered an unusually brave man, will be Robert Marshall.

Following the baseball game there will be an informal concert with songs by Mrs. Harriet Noakes Webber, and Mr. Bjorkquist and violin solos by Fritz Friederici and piano numbers by Clarence McDonald. The informal dancing party will follow the concert.

* * *

The swimming instruction which is provided by the club for women and children is attracting many of the club members and each Wednesday and Friday afternoon A. B. Wegener, who is in charge of the work, is busy endeavoring to teach ladies, plump and thin, to learn to get about in the water. Some of them may learn by the end of the season, but on the part of many there is an alarming disinclination toward getting wet. The pupils who have had no fear of getting the powder off their noses have had encouraging success. The regular swimming lesson was held yesterday afternoon and the next will be Friday afternoon.

STARRED AGAIN.

Miss Wayne Will Play "Beverly of Graustark."

Miss Justina Wayne, the young leading woman of the Gus A. Forbes Stock company, will be starred during the regular season again in "Beverly of Graustark." Miss Wayne is under the management of Delamater & Norris and has been engaged for a five years' contract. After next season Miss Wayne will be brought out in a new play, a dramatization of a recent book, which has not yet been announced by her managers.

"'Beverly' is a nice part to play," said Miss Wayne this morning. "It touches all of the emotions. The first act she is giddy and coquettish and she develops as the play progresses. We will play through the East and as far west as Omaha. We have forty weeks booked and only three weeks of that time in one-night stands. In a recent letter Mr. Delamater said he might arrange to come to Duluth and if he does I'll be glad. I have enjoyed my work here immensely."

SURGEON'S WIDOW FIGHTING PROMOTER

MRS. W. T. BULL AND HER CHILDREN.

New York, Aug. 3.—Promises of a sensational scandal have been made in court in the trial of the suit started by Mrs. W. T. Bull against John A. Quayley and Harvey W. Corbett. Mrs. Bull is the widow of Dr. W. T. Bull, the eminent surgeon who died this year. Dr. Bull left her a fortune of $400,000 in real estate and $50,000 in insurance. Mrs. Bull sought the advice of Quayley and at his suggestion invested $25,000 in stock of an asbestos company. Mrs. Bull has caused the arrest of Quayley and Corbett, the treasurer of the company, whom she charges with conspiracy to defraud. Quayley has a secret process for turning lime rock into asbestos. He has got a large number of Newport people to buy stock in his concern.

TRY THIS DINNER

Substitute for Meat.

Put a can of peas with a cupful of milk into a pan. Let it scald, not boil. Then add a tablespoonful of butter, salt and pepper to taste, and then add a can of shrimps. The entire cost is about 30 cents, and it makes a meal for several persons.

* * *

Salad-Eggs and Lettuce.

Cut the whites of hard-boiled eggs in eighths and soak in hot pickled beet juice. Arrange on lettuce in the shape of flowers with the broken yolks for centers. Serve mayonnaise or French dressing separately.

* * *

Sandwich Fillings.

Chopped anchovies and hard-boiled eggs are rubbed to a paste with butter and seasoned with a little nutmeg. Chopped chicken, mixed chopped olives, pickles and capers, seasoned with tarragon vinegar and mixed with mayonnaise.

* * *

Welsh Rarebit.

Grate a pound of cheese and melt in a chafing dish with a scant half-cup of ale or beer. Stir until melted, then season with salt, pepper and mustard and serve on toast. A teaspoon of butter and a few drops of onion juice and the beaten yolks of two eggs may be added just before serving.

KITCHEN LORE

Little Batter Puddings.

Make some batter as for pancakes with eggs, milk, flour and sugar; the eggs should be whipped separately, and the whites lightly stirred in just before using the batter. Grease some small patty-pans, pour some of the mixture into each, and bake until brown. Put a spoonful of jam in the center of each after baking. Serve on lace paper. The patty-pans should not be more than half full, and the puddings baked in a quick oven.

* * *

Calf's Foot Stew.

Two calf's feet, one onion, four cloves, one blade mace, a bunch of herbs (parsley, a bay leaf and thyme), salt and pepper to taste, two tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, one of chopped parsley, one pint of cold water. Simmer gently for two or three hours. Ten minutes before dishing add the crumbs, and last of all the parsley. Well shake the saucepan. Serve on hot dish.

German Carrots.

Take some new carrots, one dessertspoonful finely chopped parsley, two teacupfuls stock or water, piece of onion, four cloves, one blade mace, one teacupful of sugar, and stew till tender. Put into another pan one-half ounce of butter, when melted add one-half ounce of flour, mix thoroughly, strain the liquid from the carrots; add it, stir the sauce until it boils, and if liked, a tablespoonful of cream, seasoning, a little finely chopped parsley, and the carrots; reheat and serve. Very good served in a dish by itself or with meat.

THE EVENING STORY

SNOWDROP

By A. M. Nankivell.

Snowdrop was a pedigree bull with the widest chest and the shortest legs, and the most murderous expression in all the country. She belonged to James Hearn, a collier, who was fond of boasting that he made more by show prizes on Snowdrop than by any other kind of work.

One evening James and his friends were celebrating Snowdrop's latest score. They did themselves royally—so royally that when coming home James managed to get himself involved with a passing car. So he was taken to the hospital on a stretcher, and Snowdrop waddled behind, puffing mournfully.

For the rest of that night and part of the next day she sat at the hospital gate, stopping the traffic, and making that rumbling noise inside her chest, which is the best that bulldog can do in the way of a howl. Then James' widow, coming out from a last sight of her husband, tied a handkerchief—very wet—to Snowdrop's collar and took her home.

Funds were low in the Hearn household, and Snowdrop was marketable property. So a few weeks later she went to live with a sporting doctor, who had his eye on her from her puppyhood. She stayed with him only a short time, and then drifted on from master to master, her price sinking at every sale. No one would keep her for love or money. They didn't want to show her—they didn't want to breed her—they knew that she was valuable, and they didn't care. All they wanted was to part with her as quickly as might be.

When I met her, she was very cheap indeed, so cheap that I suspected her of mange. But her white hair was clean and wholesome, and the dealer, who was trying to get rid of her, swore by all his gods that she was a wonderful bargain. So she was, at the price. I bought her and took her home.

We loved each other from the first. She pushed her blunt, black nose against my face, and slobbered all over me, so that I was flattered into giving her more sweet biscuits than were good for her health. We lived together, and slept together, and were perfectly satisfied with each other till we met the sporting doctor.

He nearly fell out of his motor with astonishment. Then he drew up, and pointing an accusing finger at Snowdrop, who had recognized him, and was fawning on the step of the car.

"That beast!" he said.

"Fine beast!" I said, up in arms for my dog.

"Fine! Why—can—are—you tired of life? She'll kill you as soon as eat her dinner. I know—so does Parsons—so does Everett—so does everyone who's had her. I tell you, she went for me like all hell let loose. I only just saved my skin."

"She won't go for me," I said, confidently.

"Won't she? You wait and see." He was quite serious about it. "Look here, old man, joking apart, there's something wrong with that dog. Now and then the fit comes over her, and then she's the very devil. You take my advice and poison her."

"Why didn't you poison her? You had drugs handy."

"I was hard up," the doctor owned, "and she fetched a good price. I wish now that I had made an end of her. Get out, beast!"

He aimed a kick at Snowdrop, which sent her back on the pavement. She took it as meekly as she took everything else, for she was the gentlest thing alive in spite of her vicious looks.

Snowdrop and I sat together in the library after dinner that night. I smoked, and she snored in the sleep of the just. Presently I picked up the poker and tickled her softly in the ribs, so that she rolled over on her back and spread out her legs with snorts of satisfaction. I went on idly tickling her and puffing clouds of smoke. I was very comfortable and more than half asleep.

Suddenly I felt that we were not alone in the room. A workman, in old clothes, with a hat pulled over his eyes, was standing beyond the circle of light thrown by the lamp. He snapped his fingers to Snowdrop, who got up and waddled towards him. I hardly know why I did not move or speak — perhaps I thought myself asleep, and this stranger a part of the dream.

He bent down and spoke to the dog softly. I could see him rubbing up the short hair along her back. She began a rumbling growl, and I expected her to spring at him. But, instead of that, she turned and sprang at me.

She had a good grip of my coat before I realized that she meant murder. Her weight was on my chest, pinning me down, her hot breath was in my ear, and in another moment her teeth would have been at my throat. I clubbed with the poker and hit out wildly while she clung to me growling and slavering.

"All hell let loose," the doctor had said. He was not far wrong. I staggered to my feet, fighting wildly. Over went the lamp with a crash, and in the darkness I struck again and again—heavy, desperate blows, that thudded one after another on something soft.

Then a voice on me relaxed. "Snowdrop, maid! Heel up! Come then!"

The grip on me relaxed, and something fell with a thud.

It was a long time before I could pull myself together enough to find the matches and light the lamp. I was trembling and soaked with splashes of slaver and blood. On the rug lay Snowdrop—dead, with her head beaten in.

"It's my opinion," said the doctor, who came to Snowdrop's funeral, "that Hearn could not rest without his dog. His ghost was jealous of every new master she had, so it came back and set her on to them, in the hope that she'd damage them and get killed herself. Now that she's dead, he's got her again, and it's all right."

"Yes, it's all right," I said. For I knew that, alive or dead, a dog belongs to her first master, and that in this world or the next no man can be happy without the pup he has bred and fed and loved.

YOUNG MEN AND MAIDENS

By MISS EXPERIENCE.

Hard Work the Cure.

"Mollie" was deeply in love with a man, who acted most admirably towards her in every way. But the course of true love was interfered with by her father, and the man was sent about his business. "Mollie" tried to forget her banished lover, and in order effectually to do so, married. But alas! she finds that she cannot forget the dear days of long ago. She still thinks of her girlhood's lover, and still loves him with all her heart and she wants to know if I cannot suggest a means by which she can banish all thoughts of him.

I am afraid the only thing I can do is to recommend you so to occupy yourself with your duties to your husband and little ones that you will have no time to mope over a past which cannot be helped. I have known cases where a meeting of two once-upon-a-time lovers has worked a miraculous cure. As years go on people change; but one's memories of them as they used to be do not change, and very often the real man or woman is so different from the ideal that all desire to renew the old relations ceases. If you could meet your old lover I do not suppose you would find him so altogether desirable as you imagine would be the case now. But your best course will be to let him alone and to go on doing your best to forget him.

He Isn't in Love.

"Charlie" is evidently a light-hearted youth. He writes to tell me that he has recently fallen in love with a girl of 17, and he has been wondering what reply he should make if her father were to ask him his intentions. He goes on to say: "I don't really mean anything with the girl, but I should like your advice in the matter."

You do not require my advice, "Charlie." If you were really in love with the girl you would "mean something." You would mean to marry her at some future time, when your means and her age made the match desirable. As you evidently do not mean to do this, you have no right to favor her with your attentions. Remember, falling in love is a serious matter.

SHOWING OFF THE BABY

By WILLIAM ALLISON MAYSON, M.D.

Isn't it one of the most pleasant things to think about—that proud showing-off of the first baby by its delighted mother?

The first showing-off, of course, takes place very early in the baby's life. But then it is only a few highly privileged people who are allowed to see it in that few weeks old time when it has hardly any individual characteristics worth mentioning), and they steal in on tip-toe sort of thing, take one awed look, and depart.

But the real showing-off takes place a year later, or a little more than a year later. Mother is prouder still then; "pressums" has begun its first essays in talking, and can be compared (always favorably) with the other babies in the street.

Of course, mother's great anxiety is for baby to be at his or her very best, to bear out everything that has been said about it.

And the trouble is that on these so pleasantly anticipated "showing-off" expeditions baby is very seldom at its best. And that is only one of the reasons why (though it seems quite unkind) I would advise the "first baby" mothers of our little homes to curb their natural impatience for the baby to secure that admiration which is its rightful due, and to postpone the custom of the showing-off till baby is at least 2 years old, especially when, as in so many instances, the showing-off involves a journey and a stay for several days or longer in a place that is strange to the baby's mind.

Baby has learned to know about the little house and the ways of it, and careful mother has made rigorous proper habits for the baby's daily life. All these get unavoidably upset by the procedure forced upon the first baby and its owners away from home.

Every relation and every friend have to see the baby. Did mother leave one out, she would never be forgiven. And, all the time, poor baby unconsciously holding reception after reception, has to "look nice."

Baby gets admiration, right enough. Mother does not have to worry about that. But even in the baby age too much admiration is as bad as the object of too much praise is when grown up. And it is not so much admiration it gets from all the women friends of the family as sheer baby-worshipping.

In the face of that worship it is naturally only right that baby must be coaxed by mother to show off every one of its pretty little ways. Baby is the star performer of the occasion, and, like every other star performer, must please and amuse its special public.

And baby itself is immensely pleased at the time, and plays its part nobly; it gets very excited. It is afterwards, when the people it has entertained have gone, that mother has such a difficulty with the child, who fights against going to sleep; and when it does go to sleep, wakes up at the wrong time, and generally gets astray from all the regular habits in which mother has so painstakingly educated it—and makes the day a burden to mother altogether.

On the next day of the showing-off expedition the procession is repeated with slight variations. And when mother gets back to her comfortable little home she vows that, if ever there's another baby, there is one thing she will not do under any circumstances.

And the one thing she will not do is to take baby on a showing-off expedition. Father, who has also suffered, agrees with her cordially.

And both are wise. Let the relations and other baby admirers come to the baby's own home, and have long intervals between their visits. Or if, as so often is the case, it is necessary for baby to be taken for a stay so that its grandparents may see and admire it, wait till the baby is 2 years old or more. The older the better.

FADS OF THE FASHIONS

The little overwrap of the moment is called a casaque. Some smart falseurs make three or four casaques to one gown.

* * *

For a smart hat no trimming is better adapted than quills. Black lace is an excellent factor in the making of these, the spines being easy to imitate by means of a piece of milliner's wire covered with black satin ribbon.

* * *

Wraps to wear with bathing suits are shown in the shape of long capes made, of mohair, to match the suit in color, and trimmed with rows of white braid.

* * *

Boudoir slippers of pink, blue, red or black are heelless, have flexible soles and big pompon rosettes.

* * *

Black and white, purple in its many phases and some shades of gray are the accepted choice for the half-mourning toilette.

* * *

The handsome cornucopia-like sheaths out of which the large ostrich plumes wave from the present-day hats, can be devised from heavily jetted embroidery. A piece of material four inches square, cut diagonally, so as to make two three-cornered pieces, will supply two of these accessories, the two triangles being slightly padded and mounted on pieces of stiff net of the same shape. An edging of rich silk cord tied in a knot at the apex completes an effective ornament.

* * *

A cool and pretty morning frock of Scotch plaid gingham in cream, coral and white, is trimmed smartly with white pique and tiny flat coral bone buttons.

* * *

An all-black gown of tulle araignee is the epitome of elegance and grace, so swathed en momie as to be an echo of Egypt, the draperies drawn in the front into a long pastron of jet, while the lovely jet net falling over shoulders and back almost forms wings, a three-cornered diamante motif scintillating just at the breast.

A WONDERFUL LAND

By ANNABEL HADLEY.

Oh, Grandma-town is a wonderful land,
With paths that lead to everywhere;
Where children wander, hand in hand,
Some silken shod, some little feet bare.

There are stories for boys and stories for girls,
Of fairies and fluffies and "boog-ley boos,"
Of little Bo-Peep with her hair in curls,
And Cinderella with tiny glass shoes.

There are kisses for bruises and hugs for pains,
And the sweetest of cookies to drive away tears;
There are walks that lead through flowery lanes,
And lullaby songs that banish fears.

There are stories of goodies in Grand-ma town,
A roomful of dollies short and tall,
Or animal toys with soft coats of brown,
And there's Grandma herself, which is best of all.

WHEN WALKING DOES GOOD

By WILLIAM ALLISON MAYSON, M.D.

When walking for the sake of health and beauty don't walk carelessly. Hold the chest out and breathe naturally.

If you lift the head, spread the chest and hold the body well forward, you will then inevitably take long breaths.

Walkers should walk with bare hands. Every woman has experienced the sudden full sense of relief in unbuttoning and pulling off her gloves when she is in the open air.

Do not walk immediately after a meal, nor when feeling tired. Walk before meals and when you feel energetic. Walking when you feel dull and lifeless will never be of help.

Women seldom get the best results from walking, simply because they do not dress properly. The hat should be pinned on securely, so that it will stay on and the collar should be rather loose, so that the neck muscles can have full play. The skirt should be light in weight and well from the ground.

Thin people should walk slowly, in order to take plenty of good air and to put on weight. A slow walk with the clothing comfortably adjusted will put fat on the walker.

Nothing is so restful while walking as changing the speed from slow to brisk, and vice versa. Walkers immediately on coming home should take off their outdoor clothing and lie down to rest, if possible.

NURSERY IDEAS

Home Made Clothes.

To many mothers it is a delight, as well as a necessity, to do all the sewing for their children themselves, and when reliable patterns for every kind of garment can be bought there should be no fear of making a failure of anything. Ready-made clothing for children is most expensive to buy in the first place, and is rendered more so by the fact that it is seldom possible to either let it down or make it big enough to fit a growing child in any way.

There are many mothers who find it rather hard to allow their little girls to give up wearing the dainty little white underclothes for dark bloomers, but for ordinary wear they are a great saving in the washing and afford the child a thoroughly comfortable garment. Children should never be conscious of their clothes, and there are only two things that will make them so—one is discomfort, and the other an undue amount of elaboration which attracts attention.

Gymnastics for the Children.

To encourage health and beauty in children they should in an early stage of their career be instructed in simple gymnastics. About 5 or 6 years of age has been named by a medical authority as the time when they should begin their lessons in calisthenics—which should, of course, at the outset be of the simplest description, no implements whatever being used. Properly practiced, judicious movements will help to the development of the chest and muscle, encouraging beauty of form, suppleness and grace, and promote healthy circulation

SOLD WHISKY FOR MEDICINE

Boy Drug Clerk Admits Sale of Intoxicants on Sunday, July 31.

Arthur Lundquist, 18 years old, a drug clerk who was arrested yesterday on a charge of selling intoxicants on Sunday, pleaded guilty when arraigned later in police court.

Judge Cutting, who was inclined to be lenient to the lad of tender years, continued the case for three months. If Lundquist complies with the law in the future, it is probable that the case will be dropped.

Lundquist is employed at Erickson's pharmacy, 208 Central avenue, and admitted having furnished George S. Bryant with a pint of whisky on Sunday, July 31.

The boy stated that he thought that he was acting within the law as he supposed Bryant wanted the liquor for medicinal purposes.

FINED FOR FIGHTING.

Evans-O'Connor Affair Is Aired in the Municipal Court.

Mrs. J. E. Evans, who was arrested a few days ago on a warrant charging assault, was fined $20 and costs this morning in municipal court. Mrs. Michael O'Connor was the complainant.

The women engaged in a fistic quarrel a few weeks ago in a cow pasture near their homes. Mrs. Evans received a bad beating with a club, it is claimed, and her adversary had her finger bitten.

The fight grew out of a neighborhood dispute, which has lasted for some time. It appears that the women had considerable trouble over their domestic animals and that the fight grew out of a trivial quarrel.

Both of the women live on South Seventy-second avenue west.

GIRL MUST GO BACK TO HER HOME

Mary Olson Arrested With Two Young Men in Fairmont Park.

Because she fell in bad company at Fairmont park last evening, 18-year-old Mary Olson, a waitress in a West Duluth restaurant, must leave the city and go back to her home in North Dakota.

She agreed to this this morning in police court and was given a suspended sentence by Judge Cutting. The girl was charged with drinking liquor in a public park and was arrested last evening by Sergt. Barber, in company with George Burr, 22 years old and Harry Lowe, aged 20, at Fairmont park.

Burr was charged with drinking liquor in a public park and was fined $7, while Lowe paid a similar amount this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of using profane and indecent language. Burr was re-arrested this morning on a warrant charging him with furnishing liquor to Mary Olson, a minor. He also pleaded guilty to this charge, but sentence was suspended.

The trio attracted the attention of Sergt. Barber last evening about 9:15, when they appeared boisterous. After watching them for some time, he placed them under arrest and took them to the West Duluth station, where they were kept over night.

Burr admitted that he had taken two quarts of beer and a pint of whisky into the park and that he drank the liquor with the girl. Young Lowe, it appears, did not drink any of the intoxicants while in the park, but admitted the charge of having indulged in profane language.

Ryan Child Dies.

Thomas Edward, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ryan, died of spinal meningitis last evening at the family residence, 4104 West Third street. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home, with burial at Oneota cemetery.

PASTOR'S WIFE ALSO PREACHES

Mrs. J. G. Leitch, Worker Among Scotch Presbyterians, Will Deliver Sermon.

Mrs. John G. Leitch, wife of Rev. J. G. Leitch, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, who until a few weeks ago was Miss Catheryn Glover and a resident of Scotland, is an ordained minister and will help her husband in his work in Duluth.

Mrs. Leitch will preach at Westminster church Sunday, Aug. 14. While in Scotland, Mrs. Leitch was an enthusiastic Christian worker. Her mother is a well known missionary and worker among the Scotch Presbyterians.

Rev. and Mrs. Leitch were married a short time ago in Philadelphia, Pa., and returned this week to West Duluth. Last evening at Westminster church, a reception was tendered to them by the congregation, the affair being largely attended. Rev. Mr. Leitch was presented with a purse by L. A. Barnes in behalf of the congregation.

The speakers at the affair were: Rev. S. A. Jamieson, Rev. E. F. Stidd, Rev. H. L. P. Selinger, Rev. W. G. Boyle, Rev. J. W. Lowrie and J. P. Wier. Rev. and Mrs. Leitch both gave responses. Those who contributed to the musical program were: Miss Clara Goodhand, Mrs. Oliver S. Olson, Miss McLyman and the Misses Florence and Mabel Melin. Miss Anna Simpson gave a reading.

VICTIM OF CRUEL FATE

Settler's Wife Saw Children Burned to Death in Home.

Husband Died From Burns---Feared She Would Lose Homestead.

After losing her husband, her three children and her home, Mrs. Brita K. Ahlholm of Kalvala feared that she would also lose the homestead on which her husband filed seven years ago. John Manni, a notary public there, wrote a letter to the United States land office here explaining the circumstances and asking for information.

Mrs. Ahlholm will not lose her land as her offer of proof will undoubtedly be accepted by the department. The loss of a land office receipt will not affect her title to the land.

Mrs. Ahlholm's story is one of the most distressing "hard luck" stories with which the land office officials have come in contact for some time. Explaining the circumstances, Mr. Manni wrote:

"I have been asked to write to your office by Mrs. Brita K. Ahlholm of this place in regard to the homestead land filed on by her deceased husband, Fred Ahlholm, about seven years ago.

"On March 17 last, their homestead residence was destroyed by fire and three of their children burned to death. Also Mr. Ahlholm died shortly afterwards from the effects of the wounds received while trying to rescue his family out of the flames. All the property there happened to be in the house and was destroyed and also the United States land office receiver's receipt obtained while filing for the land, was destroyed. After that there has not been built any dwelling house on the land, which undertaking would be almost an impossibility for the widow under those circumstances. How can she get a copy of the lost paper and also what means will she have to take in order to get a final proof on the land?"

SHOWS NEED OF SANITARIUM

Twelve Tubercular Patients Spending $150 a Week Outside County.

Duluth has twelve tubercular patients who are spending on an average $150 a week, or nearly $8,000 a year, for proper treatment in sanitariums outside of St. Louis county, none being available here.

Mrs. Florence Lee, visiting nurse, states that they are people of moderate means, and that could the facts be gathered, there are many more being treated by physicians who are compelled to go outside the county to get proper attention.

Besides these she has under her charge seven patients who cannot afford to leave for treatment. They ought to be sent to a sanitarium at once, but they have not sufficient funds to meet the necessary expense. She says that these are only a fraction of the people of the city who come under the same classification.

Mrs. Lee will leave the work tomorrow for her vacation, resuming her duties Aug. 20.

MORE SERIOUS IN SPAIN.

Catholics Who Side With Vatican Plan Demonstration.

Madrid, Aug. 3.—The agitation among the Roman Catholic population in Northern Spain, who are in great part siding with the Vatican in the pending conflict with the Spanish government, is steadily assuming larger proportions. The organizers of the proposed manifestation at San Sebastian against the cabinet of Premier Canalejas and its policy toward the Vatican declare that the demonstration will take place in spite of the refusal of the authorities to grant permission for it. They expect 100,000 churchmen to visit the summer capital and participate in the demonstration before the king's palace Aug. 7.

The prohibition of the demonstration was issued, it is stated, upon the representations of tradesmen that the manifestation might easily develop into grave disorders.

King Talks With Briand.

Paris, Aug. 3.—King Alfonso, who, with his queen, is the guest of the French republic, had a long conversation with Premier Briand last night. It is presumed that the religious situation in Spain formed a subject of discussion.

SOO CANALS BREAK RECORD

Total Tonnage for Season to Date Greatest in History.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The traffic report of the Soo canals for July shows all records have again been smashed with freight totaling 9,975,173 tons within two boat loads of the 10,000,000 mark. Nearly 7,000,000 tons of the total freight was iron ore, while grain, lumber and wheat formed the other principal items.

The total freight for the season is 30,303,244 tons, an increase of 9,478,211 tons over the corresponding time last year, and is the largest traffic recorded up to Aug. 1 of any season in the canal's history.

ROOSEVELT AMONG MINES

Ex-President Is Guest of Father Curran at Wilkesbarre.

Spends One Day Among Men and Women of Coal District.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 3.—Col. Roosevelt, who reached this city at midnight from Scranton and was the guest during the night of Rev. J. J. Curran, pastor of Holy Savior Catholic church, arose early today and made himself at home on the big porch which surrounds the priest's parochial residence. He read the papers and commented on the beautiful mountain scenery, a good view of which could be had from the porch.

The news that the former president would be the guest of Father Curran became known last night, and early today groups of people gathered about the residence.

John Mitchell Also There.

John Mitchell, who is also the guest of Father Curran and who spent many months in Wilkesbarre while directing the big miners' strike of 1902, pointed out to Col. Roosevelt the many places of interest in the Wyoming valley.

Col. Roosevelt, John Mitchell, Lawrence Abbott and about forty others will be Father Curran's guests at lunch at 1 p. m. At 4 o'clock the ex-president and party will leave in automobiles for Bear Creek, where they will be the guests of Albert Lewis, the millionaire lumber king, at dinner.

Spends Day With Miners.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 3.—Theodore Roosevelt spent yesterday among the workers in the heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite regions. He met and talked with the men as they came from the mines, black with grime. He talked with them about their homes, their children and their manner of living. He talked with their wives and their children, and learned from their own lips how they looked at life.

He climbed to the top of a coal breaker and spent half an hour there in the stifling coal dust, so that he might see what the boys who work there have to do. He spent another half hour in a silk mill talking with the girl workers. He visited the people in their homes and saw how they lived. He plodded two miles through the dust, up hills and in all manner of places, and returned in the evening black with grime, but smiling at his experiences.

Met as Man to Man.

The best part of it all, he said repeatedly, was that he was able to meet the people as a private citizen and talk with them as man to man.

Many of the toilers had no idea of the ex-president's identity, which he took care to conceal, when possible, until after he had finished his talk. Others who knew who he was, treated him, he said, not as former president, but as a plain man who had come to see them, to talk and learn their condition.

HALF THE MILITIA TO QUIT COLUMBUS

Columbus Ohio, Aug. 3.—Nearly one-half of the 3,200 Ohio National Guard soldiers on duty in Columbus will be sent home Thursday morning on advice of Mayor Marshall and the National Guard officers. Governor Harmon acquiesced. This was agreed upon at a conference held at the office of the adjutant general.

It was the opinion of all parties in the conference that the mob spirit had been broken, and the remaining troops and the local police force, which will be reinforced by many deputies sworn in by the mayor, will be able to preserve peace.

To sell responsible Columbia Suits at $10 is always inconsistent, for quality and price bear no true relation to each other. The only excuse we have for doing it at the end of a season is that we sometimes find ourselves with too many $15, $18 and $20 suits on hand and want a quick clean-up.

SUGGESTIONS FOR NAME CONTINUE TO POUR IN

Duluth People Show They Do Not Lack Imagination.

Many Excellent Names Offered for the Boulevard Drive.

The imagination of the people of this town is a thing of beauty and joy forever.

Names and suggestions for names swamped the "Boulevard editor" of The Herald today. Even the esteemed "contemp" came to bat, but an outsider, who asked that the $10 be given to charity if he won it, was on deck ahead of the morning paper with the suggestion, "Rogers Park Drive." Chicago stayed in the game and several other towns got in. When tourists and tourines who arrived on the North West last night have driven over the most beautiful roadway in the world today they probably will get busy and tell the "Boulevard editor" of The Herald what each believes to be the most appropriate name for the famous drive.

S. M. Stocker, 13 West Superior street, asks, "How would 'The Old Beach' or 'Old Beach Drive' do as a substitute for the boulevard? "The Boulevard editor" will pass that along to the park board. A woman who says she doesn't want her name in print suggests "Hill Top Road," "Lake View Road," Aerial Road," "Hill Crest Road," "The Cliff Road," and "Zenith Road." She says the park board can change the word "Road" to "Drive." Having an aerial brige, Ruth M. Shepherd believes this town should have an aerial drive. She suggests the name, "The Aerial Drive."

J. M. Wilcox of Grasston, Minn., writes: "Observing that you offer a prize of $10 for an appropriate name for 'The Boulevard,' and taking it for granted that outsiders are included also in the contest, I suggest that you name the boulevard as follows: 'Zenith de Euclid;' the first word in honor of your own city and the last one after the beautiful thoroughfare in Cleveland, Ohio, of that name." Yes, sir, outsiders are welcome to get into the game. Suggestions will be cheerfully received even from the contributing editor of The Outlook, who generally has suggestions to spare, although other professional literary gents have been barred, to the detriment of the chances of the esteemed contemp on Superior street.

Our old friend, "K. E. B," who chalked up a few hits yesterday fattened his or her batting average today with the suggestions, "Prospect Boulevard," and "Prospect Drive." Frank Wagner who gets his mail at Lake View postoffice and therefore is competent to speak knowingly about the scenic advantages of the hillside would ring in the aerial bridge. He suggests these names: "Aerial Way," "Aerial Drive," "Zenith Way," or "Zenith Drive."

H. C. Hadfield of 28 East Superior street likes the name, "Zenith Drive," not only because of the city's none de plume, "Zenith City," but because of the meaning of the word. Mr. Hadfield thinks the drive is sufficiently high above the heads of the folk in the valley to be aptly termed "Zenith Drive."

A writer who uses the signature, "Non Resident," and who writes on a picture postcard says: "'Rogers Park Drive.' If this wins the prize give it to the red tag fund."

Louis L. Raymond of 3823 Oneota street was a few hours late in starting but he leads in percentage by a big margin. He suggests a collection of names in the form of an acrostic. Here they are: "Lakeview Drive," "Grandview Road," "Bellevue Ledge," "Prospect Way," "Aerial Way," "Arlington Ledge," "Glenndale Road," "Glenwood Drive," "Glenrock Road," "Glenhill Road," "Ledgeview Boulevard." If the park board wants to shift the words, "Road, Drive, Boulevard, Ledge or Way," Mr. Raymond will have no objections. If he wins he asks that the money be given to a charitable institution.

J. R. Zweifel says, "Why not name our boulevard the 'Alpine Drive.' My mother who lived the greater part of her life in Switzerland often referred to our famous driveway as being similar to many in the Alps for wonderful picturesqueness and scenic beauty."

"J. W. C," suggests "The Hillway." He says it is distinctive, speakable and Anglo-Saxon. "It is striking and fitting," he adds, "for the same reason as Boston's 'Fenway.'"

Josef Lonegren, 627 East Third street, gets into the game with what the sporting editor thinks is the name of a minor league team, but which the literary editor declares to be a remnant of the Latin language. Mr. Lonegren suggests "Quondam terrace." A foreign language not quite so dead, but somewhat inert gets a show from J. A. Krantz, who suggests "Buena Vista." A. T. Fox thinks "Alta Vista," would be proper. The Greeks get a place when E. J. McLaughlin hands the Boulevard editor the name, "Pantops," with the explanation that "Pan" is a Greek word for "all." A name that suggestive of ancient Rome is "Duluth Causeway," from "C. T." Mythology scores with "Mount Elysian," from Mrs. F. Storey, 422 Second avenue east.

ADMIT JAIL IS TOO SMALL

Police Agree With Report of State Agent Lindsey to Council.

The police indorse all that State Agent Lindsey of the state board of control told the council Monday night about the cramped quarters of the local jail.

For years Chief Troyer has called attention to the fact that the lockup is altogether too small and that provision should be made for an addition. The chief states that the entire jail should be remodeled, with the jail on one floor and the offices on another. What is really needed is a new jail as well as a new city hall, but this appears to be impossible in view of the city's financial condition. During the winter the situation is much more acute than during the summer. The difference in the number of prisoners handled is slight, but during the cold months hundreds of lodgers are given such accommodations as are available, the city having no municipal lodging house. The windows are kept closed and after 100 or more men have been in the "bull pen" a few hours the stench is enough to knock an uninitiated man down.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES FOR HOMES

Eliminations From National Forests Can Be Settled Next Fall.

Washington, Aug. 3. — Thousands of acres of unappropriated lands, eliminated from the national forests and restored to the public domain by recent proclamations of President Taft, will be thrown open to homestead settlement and entry this fall, according to orders issued by Acting Secretary Pierce of the interior department. The lands are located in Oregon, Utah, Idaho and Wyoming. The secretary also has restored to settlement on Oct. 22, and to entry on Nov. 21, about 9,220 acres in the Great Falls land district formerly withdrawn. The dates of opening the former forest lands together with the extent of the areas are:

Oregon, subject to settlement Oct. 22 and to entry Nov. 21; Umatilla, 69,518 acres; Des Chutes, 16,152; Malheur, 4,485 acres; Whitman, 6,756 acres, and Wallowa, 203,635 acres. The eliminated areas are scattered along the borders of these forests in the northeastern part of the state in Wheeler, Cook, Grant, Umatilla, Wallowa and Baker counties.

Settlement and Entry Dates.

Utah, subject to settlement Oct. 22 and to entry Nov. 21; Minidoka national forest, 25,170 acres in Box Elder county, all of which is chiefly unappropriated.

Idaho, subject to settlement Oct. 22 and to entry Nov. 21: Minidoka, 72,152 acres; Caribou, 33,172; Pocatello, 22,236. The eliminated acreas are largely unappropriated and consist of scattered tracts in the southeastern part of the state in Bingham, Bannock, Bear Lake, Cassia, Twin Falls and Oneida counties.

Wyoming, subject to settlement Oct. 22 and to entry Nov. 21: Caribou, 772 acres and Targhee, 5,480 acres. The eliminated areas are in Uinta county and are chiefly un-surveyed and unappropriated.

ACROBATS WERE UNDER AGE

Younger Members of Nelson Family Not Allowed to Perform.

In accordance with the state labor laws, the children connected with the Nelson acrobatic family, which is traveling with the Sells-Floto circus, did not appear for the regular performance on Monday in this city. Information to this effect was given out yesterday by Miss Jean Poirier, local representative of the state labor bureau.

In the Nelson family there are ten members to the troupe, and of these, five are under 16 years of age. When informed of this fact, Miss Poirier notified the company that the children could not perform in Duluth without violating the state laws.

This troupe has been before the public for many years, and it is claimed that acrobatic work is a family art, which has been demonstrated before the public for 200 years.

In only four states, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Louisiana and Illinois, are there laws against child labor which have stopped the act of this famous family.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH KANSAS?"

Though the Republican national congressional committee took the extraordinary course of interfering in a party canvass in behalf of standpatters and against insurgents, and though every force the regular Republican organization could bring to bear was exerted in behalf of the regulars, the news from Kansas is that in yesterday's Republican primaries all but two of the eight Republicans nominated are out and out insurgents. Murdock and Madison, at present the only insurgents from Kansas, were renominated without opposition and the Democrats have offered no candidates against them. Both Calderhead and Miller, standpatters and willing tools of the Cannon organization, are defeated. In all but two districts, where standpatters squeezed through by narrow margins, the Republicans of Kansas have picked men of the people and defeated men who had shown themselves to be amendable to the will of organized greed.

This is a good news for the people, because in six of the eight districts in Kansas men will be elected who will serve the people, no matter whether Democrats or Republicans win at the polls.

A short time ago the regular organization sent Joseph G. Cannon out to Kansas to "stem the tide" of insurgency. Behold the result! It ought to create a pressing demand for Cannon's services in aid of insurgent and Democratic candidates everywhere.

PROGRESS.

After surveying a bunch of recent state platforms, mostly Democratic, in which the initiative, the referendum and the recall are demanded, the New York World declares in dismay: "In all these states there seems to be a general movement to substitute direct government for delegated government—false progress for true progress."

With all due respect to an honored contemporary, its deduction is egregiously mistaken. This is not substituting "false progress for true progress", but progress for inaction. The people have given delegated government a full, fair trial, and found it little better than the ills from which they fled in forming the present system of representative government. No doubt direct government—the real, pure, ultimate democracy—will have its faults; but we never heard of one that we wouldn't prefer to the flagrant defects of representative government.

HECKLE YOUR REPRESENTATIVES.

Frederic C. Howe suggests in the August Everybody's magazine that the voters heckle their representatives during the summer's campaigns.

Heckling is a British custom, but it is one that this country may well substitute for its customary habit of giving campaign speakers a stolid, silent hearing which leaves them free to set up men of straw and knock them down, thus creating the impression that they are making tremendous arguments.

Heckling is simply asking questions. It has become an art in Great Britain. It adds immensely to the spice of the campaigns. It adds, too, to the value of public meetings, because it brings out real facts. Every candidate for parliament expects to be heckled, and most of them grow expert at experiencing the operation, brightening their wits by brushing them against the wits of their audiences.

And there are a lot of congressmen in this country—senators, too—who need to be heckled. They need to be asked questions. If you let them alone they will weave for you pretty pictures of their public records and of the records of their party. They are skillful at concealing defects and exaggerating merits. Only the pictures they draw are not true pictures. You can make them true if you carry your wits to the political meetings, and heckle to your heart's content.

Says Mr. Howe: "Heckle. Ask questions. If we cannot have direct government, let's make it is uncomfortable for our delegated government that it will have to represent us. Heckle. Heckle your congressman. Ask how he voted on all critical questions, and don't let him fool you; know how he voted. Ask him why. And not only the old congressman; ask the candidates who want to succeed him. No matter about parties. Privilege is bipartisan. Privilege works with both parties; it pledges all candidates; it heckles, heckles, heckles. And that's why most candidates for office serve Privilege. Privilege heckles."

That's most excellent advice. Privilege heckles. It finds out how candidates lean before it supports them, and then binds them to it with chains of gold by contributing to their campaign funds. That's why and how Privilege rules the roost.

The way to beat Privilege and to drive it out of control of this "representative" government which represents Privilege is to beat Privilege at its own game.

Heckle. Heckle for the people, for yourself. Put your candidates on record. Ask them questions, leading, direct, straight-to-the-point questions that demand straight-to-the-point answers. Take nothing for granted. Don't be content with the pretty pictures these clever gentlemen will weave for your amusement if you let them alone. Take a hand in the game. Pick up a brush yourself and do your part in painting the picture. It may not be so pretty if you help, but it will be more true than if you leave it all to the candidates.

Thank Mr. Howe for the suggestion, and then prepare to heckle. When your congressman gets out on the stump be prepared with questions. Fire them at him. Demand answers. Do the same with the candidates who oppose him. If they be honest men and true they will not fear honest and true questions.

Heckle!

NAMING THE BOULEVARD.

The Herald today publishes another list of suggestions for the proposed renaming of the "boulevard drive," all of them interesting and many of them attractive possibilities.

The more suggestions there are, the more certain it will be that the park board selection will be fitting and adequate. Therefore, come on with your suggestions. The list will be open until Monday, and all names received by The Herald up to Monday evening will be entered for the prize.

The News Tribune, which has taken an amiable interest in this matter, suggests "Rogers Hilltop drive" and demands that the prize be mailed to it immediately. The name of Col. Rogers, who made the boulevard drive possible, figures frequently in the suggestions that are coming in, and while it would be excellent thus to honor him, his name would be meaningless outside the city, and the name that is selected should be picked with regard to its efficacy in making the boulevard famous all over the country.

However, all suggestions should be considered, and the park board will be left free to make its own choice. The award of $10 offered by The Herald will be made to the person selecting the name which receives the board's approval.

A PUBLICITY AGENT FOR DULUTH.

A local story in The Herald last night said that the Duluth Real Estate exchange is contemplating the employment of a publicity agent whose duty it shall be to herald to the world the advantages of Duluth as a place to live in and to make money in.

Duluth needs a publicity agent who shall have nothing to do but just that. He should be the best man available, he should be paid a good salary, and he should be given every possible support. Though the newspapers of Duluth have fought hard to give Duluth the publicity it deserves, if we do say it ourselves, there is work to do for a publicity expert such as many other live, progressive cities are employing.

But, on the whole, wouldn't the desired result be attained easier if the real estate exchange and the Commercial club should join forces and pool their resources to that end?

A TRUE "THRILLER."

Never did the authors of "Monsieur Lecoq," "Arsene Lupin," "Raffles" or "Sherlock Holmes" conceive a situation more dramatic or a tale more thrilling than the story of Dr. Crippen, which is filling the day's news with tense human interest.

Without allowing for the element of doubt in all circumstantial evidence, on the face of the narrative Crippen brutally killed his wife, an American actress, some time last winter, and buried her flesh in quicklime beneath their London home, after hiding the bones so effectually that they are not yet found. In fancied security, he remained for several months in the charnel house he had created, telling friends of his wife that she had gone to America, and exhibiting a letter from her notifying him that she had landed. With the fatal stupidity that seems to be the grim haunter of murderers, he spelled his wife's last name, "Elmore," with two l's, thus arousing the suspicion of her friends. Later to quiet suspicion, he inserted in the London newspapers a notice of her death in Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, Scotland Yard, the famous police machine which moves with relentless certainty in truth as well as in story, had been set on his trail, and Miss Elmore's New York relatives started an inquiry which developed the fact that no person of that name had died in Los Angeles. Inspector Dew, the modern sleuth who has a hundred prototypes in story, reached Crippen's trail and clung to it to the end.

When Crippen, with the unfortunate young woman who was his second victim, fled from London, the cellar of the London house was dug up and human flesh was found in the quicklime. From that point the thrilling search for the fleeing murderer filled the public vision, its modern wireless attachment giving it unique piquancy.

No master of fiction ever painted a situation half so absorbing as that which surrounded the guilty couple on their voyage across the ocean. In a false security, yet plagued by a thousand doubts and fears, Crippen did not know that the wireless was describing his every movement, that all the world outside the steamer Montrose knew his whereabouts and that Inspector Dew, hound of the law, was passing him on a faster ship and would meet him on his arrival at the western shore where he hoped to lose himself and his confiding victim. The captain of the Montrose sent word that "Dr. Crippen has no suspicion that his identity is suspected. The other passengers also are ignorant of his identity." Yet a ship's officer had stood by when a vagrant breeze lifted the coat of the young girl who was traveling with Crippen as a boy, had seen that she had fastened her trousers to her vest by a safety pin, and had known her for a girl by that token.

The end of the flight was at hand. Even suicide was impossible, for on orders received by wireless Crippen's every move was watched. When the pilot's boat came out to meet the Montrose there were four pilots instead of one. "Too many pilots," said Crippen, dubiously. Reassured for the moment by the captain's commonplace reply, in a moment it was all over. Inspector Dew, too clumsy at climbing the ladder to pass for a sailor, was clever enough in his real capacity to be able to say: "That's the man." The next moment handcuffs gripped Crippen's wrists.

It is a thrilling tale, and it proves again that a relentless fate haunts the cleverest murderer. Time and time again men of brains have plotted crimes, safeguarding against every imaginable chance of discovery, only to have some trifle betray them and lead with deadly certainty to their detection. Crippen's capture exhibits once more the deadly Nemesis that lurks on murderers' trails.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE NEW IN POLITICS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The state platform of the Democratic party has a plank called the initiative and referendum, which, to the uninitiated means little. To those who are informed as to its workings, it means much, in fact more than any question submitted to a people in this decade.

Out in Oregon, where it is a working law, the people at large swear by the movement and the Democratic party, to which it owes its birth and upbuilding, has made a record for good law making that stands ready to be investigated at any time.

Several years ago the legislature of that state became corrupt and was bought over to send to the United States senate a number of men, from whose workings and appointments was started a series of land steals that well nigh ruined the state. And the people rose en masse and demanded a popular form of election that would forever end the possibility of such repetition. An Oregon lawyer by the name of Ureu conceived the movement that is popularly styled Statement Number One and it was indorsed overwhelmingly and has proved to be a great success. By its workings Oregon now has two United States senators elected by direct vote of the people and both of these men are Dmocrats, but the state is Republican, the reason being that the bulk of the Republicans of the state repudiated the "boss" system of their party and refused to longer be tools of such.

By having a number of voters petition, any question desired will be submitted to the people direct for their individual vote, and such vote must be accepted as final by the legislature of the state. In this way the names of the United States senators are submitted to the people direct and the legislators are barred from any chance of corruption or intimidation.

The question of local option has been satisfactorily settled, as all sections desiring such can vote it in, by so doing not interfering with the rights or desires of other parts of the state.

All other questions of state importance, such as women suffrage, irrigation, local taxation and school laws are treated in the same manner and the voters of the state inform themselves intelligently and take much interest in building up a state that is most wonderful in its development.

While the Democratic party has been accused for many years of being erratic and prone to bring itself into prominence by exploiting questions of doubtful efficacy, they are surely taking a front seat in the union at present by fostering the idea of making the initiative and referendum a law, and it is to be hoped that the voters of Minnesota will well inform themselves of this question before they turn it down. C. H. WARD.

Real Democracy in Action.

Washington Herald: Striking confirmation of the immense value of the plan of popular government is furnished by the people of Los Angeles, Cal. The leading article in the current Twentieth Century magazine deals with the subject. The author, F. M. Elliot, shows that prior to 1902, when the principle of the referendum and initiative was adopted, Los Angeles was as graft-ridden and corrupt in its municipal government as any city of the Pacific coast. With this new weapon of offense and defense the city has rescued itself and its people have saved incredible sums.

There were two of three trials of the power of the people before the principle was thoroughly understood, but in 1908, under the initative, they adopted the primary election law, after a machine-controlled council had refused to submit the amendments to the city charter providing for such a law. At the general election held under this law in December, 1909, the machine suffered total annihilation, losing every city office to the forces of good government. The most striking instance of the working of the law is given thus by Mr. Elliott:

"In 1908 the city council, in defiance of a decision of the supreme court of the state and against the advice of the city attorney and over the protest of a number of voters, sold for $500 a street railway franchise worth several hundred thousand dollars. The people at once secured the necessary 7 per cent referendum petition to veto the action of the council and refer the matter to a decision of the voters at the next general election, which was held in December, 1909, and this resulted in the overwhelming defeat of the proposed sale, the majority against it being more than 5,000 out of a total vote of 25,000. The cost of this action on the part of the people was exactly $20."

Then the city council granted what is known as the river bed franchise, a franchise controlling the entrance to the city of all transportation lines. It was granted secretly and without debate, but as soon as its granting became known the referendum petitions for every member of the council were circulated; the ordinance was repealed; and the city thereby saved at least $1,000,000 and showed the council that it was the servant, not the master, of the people.

Many such instances are given, and it is shown that, though the initiative, the referendum, and the recall have been attacked in all the courts of the state, they have stood the test, and are now accepted as the fundamental law of the municipality. It is a complete restoration of power into the hands of the people; and as the advantage that has come to the city of Los Angeles becomes known there can be little doubt that the gospel will spread and the machine rule of municipalities become a thing of the past.

A Few Good Roads Points.

Roseau Region: Good roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in the cities, an advantage to the people who live in the country and will help every section of our vast domain. Good roads like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable; they enhance the value of farm lands, facilitate transportation, and add untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they are the milestones marking the advance of civilization; they economize time, give labor a lift, and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country — bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and the religious and the educational and the industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier hearthsides; they are the avenues of trade, the highways of commerce, the mail routes of information, and the agencies of speedy communication; they mean the economical transportation of marketable products — the maximum burden at the minimum cost; they are the ligaments that bind the country together in thrift and industry and intelligence and patriotism; they promote social intercourse prevent intellectual stagnation, and increase the happiness and the prosperity of our producing masses; they contribute to the glory of the country, give employment to our idle workman, distribute the necessaries of life—the products of the fields and the forests and the factories—encourage energy and husbandry, inculcate love for our scenic wonders, and make mankind better and broader and greater and grander.

LEST WE FORGET.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: There is one thing in Judson Harmon's career that disqualifies him for the presidency. Judson Harmon has passed nearly two-score of his years in looking at public questions from the railroad and corporation viewpoint. No man who has passed the active years of his professional life as an advocate of the interests of the corporate wealth can bring to the presidency that single-minded devotion to the interests of the people that they have the right to demand.—Nicholas Longworth to the Ohio Republican convention.

Mr. Longworth's accusatory inference is to his and other half-naked minds what seems a logical and necessary inference. But we read in the scriptures that every tree must be judged by its fruits. And there happens to have been a common incident in the careers of Judson Harmon and Mr. Longworth's distinguished relative, Col. Roosevelt, which verifies the truth that it is not the soil in which it has grown, but its fruits, which determine the character of the tree.

Theodore Rosevelt has not passed any years in the service of any particular group of "special interests," real or imagined. As a gentleman of leisure—of independent inherited and trusteed fortune—Col. Rosevelt has had no concern with the "interests of corporate wealth."

Growing in this soil, acoording to the Longworthian logic, Col. Rosevelt was qualified as Mr. Harmon could not be to see infallibly and universally the offenses of "corporate wealth" and the offenders without respect of persons. But the fact and the record is the other way.

While Col. Roosevelt was president a member of his cabinet, Paul Morton, was disclosed as a flagrant, persistent and self-confessed railway rebater—as a wilful and wanton violator of the law in a manner and by a method that is universally conceded to be one of the most grievous and oppressive offenses of "corporate wealth."

Of these offenses, Paul Morton had been notoriously for years the living embodiment in railway management. When Col. Roosevelt called him into the cabinet as adviser on railway policies his railway reputation was that of "the champion rebater."

When what had been private unofficial knowledge about Paul Morton became in the course of a routine legal proceeding public official knowledge—when the facts of raul Morton's law-breaking were thus forced upon public and official and even judicial attention—Theodore Rosevelt, through his attorney general, consulted Judge Harmon about what should be done with Paul Morton.

Judge Harmon answered right. He answered in accordance with the law and the visible undisputed facts. He answered what was the truth—that on the facts of record Paul Morton's guilt was plain, and that Paul Morton's punishment was simply the routine task of presenting the evidence to a court of competent jurisdiction.

Theodore Roosevelt refused to see the truth. It would have been inconvenient and personally and officially embarrassing to see the truth. By main strength of executive power and by twisting of the law with the aid of a supple attorney general, Theodore Roosevelt officially exculpated Paul Morton, the flagrant, persistent and self-confessed law-breaker, and finally dismissed him to other fields of financial effort, not in disgrace, but with words of praise and the presidential benediction!

Acording to Mr. Longworth, the conduct of Theodore Rosevelt in the case of Paul Morton, ought to have been the conduct of Judge Harmon. But it was not.

According to Mr. Longworth, Judson Harmon ought to have taken the side of "corporate wealth" in the protection of the embodiment of its offenses in Paul Morton.

Not Judson Harmon, but Theodore Roosevelt, presented the deplorable spectacle of a judge respecting persons and not the law in judgment.

Every tree is judged by its fruits. Mr. Longworth: every tree is judged by its fruits.

Insurgent Kansas.

Kansas City Star: Once more the whole country is watching Kansas—Kansas the irrespressible! For some time that state has been the scene of the biggest battle in the political arena, the most acute contest between insurgency and reactionism. And it needed only the visit of Speaker Cannon and his subsequent exhibition of injured vanity and bumped effrontery to focus national attention on the lively and picturesque campaign.

And the great audience of spectators sees Kansas in its element. The state delights not in strife for strife's sake, but when a fight is necessary Kansas strips for action at the first signal. And it stays in to the finish. Nor does Kansas make a tragedy of its internal conflicts; on the contrary, it makes entertainment for itself and friends.

Kansas fights harder for the men it wants in office and against those it wants to keep out or put out than any other state in the Union. It leads its scrapping average. Its high average is due to the fact that everybody participates in the activities.

Just now the country is waiting to see what Kansas will do with the six representatives who ignored their party's platform, the instructions of their state and their own pledges in the last two sessions of congress. True to its idea of making things lively, Kansas did not stop with a mere protest against unfaithfulness; it matched the faithless six with six strong progressive candidates for the Republican nomination, inaugurated a six-ring circus and issued tickets to the whole country.

The rules of this encounter are sportsmanlike. They demand that the contestants shall give and take without losing their temper. For Kansas never loses its sense of humor.

Kansas hates corruption, private interest government the political machine and the boss. In its time it has put up some mighty protests against these and kindred evils. It enlisted early and prevailed mightily in the struggle against black slavery. It is now on the firing line in the war against public subservience to private interests. It is for a free government—free and representative, and representative because free.

Hardly Necessary.

Pittsburg Dispatch: It is reported from Buenos Ayers that the delegates from Peru and Chili to the Pan-American congress are endeavoring to secure the adherence of Argentina to a plan to have the conferenec adopt the Monroe doctrine as a Pan-American doctrine, that is, that it should be declared the policy not only of the United States but of all the other twenty republics on this continent. The opposition to such a declaration is reported based upon a doubt of its wisdom and as to whether it would not be taken as an unprovoked flout to Europe. The significant fact, however, is that such a proposal should have been considered by the three great powers of South America, evidencing, as it does, their complete harmony with the United States. That is worth a great deal more than any formal declaration can be. A declaration is nothing, but the spirit back of it is everything. The United States has maintained the Monroe doctrine without formal pledges of support from other republics. It does not seek such a declaration, but it will, of course, welcome the knowledge that it has the cordial sympathy and moral support of its sister republics in that policy.

Handicapped.

Puck: In the beginning (says the ancient tale) the Devil was permitted to choose whether he should be a knave or a fool, and thought himself shrewd in fixing on the former alternative. He lived to regret his choice, however.

"I find a fool can do at least twice as much mischief!" he exclaimed, after a few thousand years of experience.

Showing (concludes the tale, which is of an optimistic color) that the power of evil is working at some disadvantage after all.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Prof. Robert Foster, for many years one of the leading teachers of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, is in the city, accompanied by Mrs. Foster. They will remain as the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Valentine, during August.

Mrs. Earle, wife of J. W. Earle, formerly of Fergus Falls, has arrived in Duluth. They will make their home at 225 East First street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Peyton and two daughters will sail from New York on Aug. 9 for Carlsbad, Germany, where Mr. Peyton hopes to regain his health.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Marvin and party have returned from a trip to Isle Royale, called back by the sudden illness of Rev. Mr. Irwin of Lakeside, one of the party.

A number of residents at West Duluth are agitating the abandonment of the village form of government and its incorporation as a city.

Maj. and Mrs. M. R. Baldwin are entertaining Mrs. S. H. Jumper of Aberdeen, S. D.

Invitations are being issued for the annual excursion of the Pirates, and arrangements are being made to have this year's entertainment exceed all previous efforts. Frank Burke, Jr., will probably be the Pirate King. The excursion will be up the river on the steamer Barker, and a band will accompany the party. Thursday, Aug. 14, is the date.

Lovett, president; Albert Harrington, vice president; A. L. Warner, secretary and treasurer. J. C. Van Norman and R. M. Hunt will be stockholders and will probably remain in charge of the business.

FOR NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Northern Minnesota Crops.

Pine River Sentinel: We've had two comets this year, two crop scares, two dozen late frosts and various other things, besides the drouth, but notwithstanding the "hull" business this section of Minnesota will reap a much better than average crop in everything but small grains. If there's any other place on earth that is so well favored year after year—well, we're from Missouri.

More Schools Needed.

Pine County Pioneer: There is a crying demand for more schools and more efficient teachers, and better equipment along the practical lines of education. Manual training is in it's infancy. The boys and girls should have trained hands as well as crammed heads. The more practical an education can be the more useful it will be to the men and women of tomorrow. How does the candidate for legislative honors stand on this vital question?

Carlton County's Needs.

Carlton Vidette: Hon. T. M. Ferguson, member of the assembly from this district, has the correct idea of the needs of Carlton county. Reapportionment and a 1-mill tax are his especial desires and expectations.

Too Late for the Census!

Coleraine Optic: All race-suicidists are hereby warned to stay away from Chisholm. According to a press report that village's record for thirty-six hours is one set of triplets, two pair of twins and four single births.

Mounting the Band Wagon.

Brainerd Dispatch: The Bemidji Pioneer remarks that the seed sown by the Northern Minnesota Development association last winter in Bemidji and this spring in Crookston, is not only bearing fruit in Northern Minnesota, but is reaping a harvest in Southern Minnesota. Much to the delight of the entire state, many of the newspapers and politicians in Southern Minnesota are joining hands supporting the reapportionment movement. They realize that it is for the best interests of our great state. Thanks to our southern brothers.

Quotes the Market Figures.

Menahga Journal: The following market report copied from the Wetaskawin, (Canadian Northwest) Times of date July 22, 1910, should be of particular interest to homeseekers:

Sorry They Ever Left.

St. Cloud Times: D. Thomas, a Morrison county man, sold his farm; went West, intending to buy land; visited Idaho and Washington; returned to Minnesota; bought back the farm he had sold, and paid $250 more for it than he received. Others should profit by his example. It is said that 15,000 Canadian farmers are coming back to "the States"—sorry they ever left.

Running a Piano.

Life: "I was loitering around the streets last night," said Jim Nelson, one of the old locomotive engineers running into New Orleans.

"As I had nothing to do I dropped into a concert and heard a sleek-looking Frenchman play a piano in a way that made me feel all over in spots. As soon as he sat down on the stool I knew by the way he handled himself that he understood the machine he was running. He tapped the keys away up one end, just as if they were gauges and he wanted to see if he had water enough. Then he looked up as if he wanted to know how much steam he was carrying, and the next moment, he pulled open the throttle and sailed onto the main line as if he was half an hour late. You could hear her thunder over culverts and bridges and getting faster and faster, until the fellow rocked about in his seat like a cradle.

"Somehow I though it was old '36' pulling a passenger train and getting out of the way of a 'special.' The fellow worked the keys on the middle division like lightning, and then he flew along the north end of the line until the drivers went 'round like a buzz saw and I got excited.

"About the time I was fixing to tell him to cut her off a little he kicked the dampers under the machine wide open, pulled the throttle 'way back in the tender, and how he did run! I couldn't stand it any longer, and yelled to him that he was pounding in the left side, and if he wasn't careful he'd drop his ashpan. But he didn't hear. No one heard me. Everything was flying and whizzing. Telegraph poles on the side of the track looked like a row of cornstalks, and trees appeared to be a mud bank, and all the time the exhaust of the old machine sounded like the hum of a bumblebee.

"'I tried to yell out, but my tongue wouldn't move. He went around the curves like a bullet, slipped an eccentric, blew out his soft plug—went down grades fifty feet to the mile and not a controlling brake set. She went by the meeting point at a mile and a half a minute, and calling for more steam. My hair stood up straight, because I knew the game was up. Sure enough, dead ahead of us was the headlight of a 'special.'

"In a daze I heard the crash as they struck, and I saw cars shivered into atoms, people smashed and mangled and bleeding and gasping for water.

"I heard another crash as the French professor struck the deep keys away down on the lower end of the southern division, and then I came to my senses. There he was at a dead standstill, with the door of the fire box of the machine open, wiping the perspiration off his face and bowing to the people before him.

"If I live to be 1,000 years old I'll never forget the ride that Frenchman gave me on a piano."

Song's End.

The chime of a bell of gold
That flutters across the air.
The sound of a singing of old.
The end of a tale that is told.
Of a melody strange and fair,
Of a joy that has grown despair

For the things that have been for me
I shall never have them again;
The skies and the purple sea,
And day like a melody,
And night like a silver rain
Of stars on forest and plain.

They are shut, the gates of the day;
The night has fallen on me:
My life is a lightless way;
I sing yet, while as I may!
Some day, I shall cease, maybe:
I shall live on yet, you will see.
—JOHN PAYNE.

"Why didn't you let her?"

The Lily Pond.

Hedge on hedge of tangled grasses,
Whispering pine trees just beyond;
Ferns and rushes, banked in masses—
These surround the lily pond.

Tender blue skies bending over,
A bird that sings a sweet love song,
Scent of sage and mint and clover—
These surround the lily pond.

Anchored close beside the rushes,
Fairy barks of pink and white,
Manned by crews that hie to dreamland,
At the dawn of morning's light.

Or from the gold-framed windows,
From behind the shades of pink,
They will laugh at us poor mortals,
Stranded on the mossy brink.

Silences so deep and golden,
Romances 'mid the fern and frond;
Legends, simple, quaint and olden,
These surround the lily pond.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Chairman Mack of National Democratic Committee Visits Duluth and Says John Lind Should Accept Nomination—Sidney A. Anderson Begins Fight for Tawney's Seat—Talk About the Gubernatorial Situation.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the National Democratic committee, declares that John Lind should respond to the call of the people of the state and accept the Democratic nomination for governor. Furthermore, he believes that Mr. Lind will accept. The national chairman was in the city last evening for a brief stay, coming and departing on the steamer North West. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mack. Misses Norma and Harriet Mack, W. B. Taylor of Buffalo and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Pittsburg. Stopping at Mackinac Island on the down trip, Mr. Mack will meet National Committeeman E. O. Wood and others, and with them will discuss phases of the congressional campaign.

Chairman Mack On The Lind Nomination.

The national committee will take no hand in the Minnesota gubernatorial situation unless requested to use its good offices to bring about the acceptance of the nomination by Mr. Lind, according to Mr. Mack, who said:

> John Lind is too good a man, too good a citizen and too good a Democrat to refuse the nomination of his party. It is not as though he had been nominated by some party leader or by some small faction—it is the voice of the people and as such he should have no option in the matter. For the good of the country and for the good of the party it is his duty to accept and I have every confidence that he will.
>
> The fact that the nomination came to him unsought and uncalled for makes it the more imperative that he should be the leader of the party.
> I am very glad that he was nominated, for there is no one who could better fill the position and I feel very sure that he will recognize the call of the people of the sovereign state of Minnesota and will respond to the voice of duty.

"The prospects for the Democratic party were never better," said Chairman Mack, "both for victory in the congressional elections this year and for the election of a Democratic president at the next general election."

He said that Bryan's defeat in Nebraska was due to a local issue, and that undoubtedly the Nebraskan always will wield a large influence in the councils of Democracy.

* * *

Winona Independent: The Republican papers of St. Paul and Minneapolis are making a great to-do over what the Democrats ought to do if it turns out that John Lind will not run for governor. They want to know if the nomination will be made by the state committee, by a new delegate convention, or by a return of the old convention. When the Democrats are compelled to make a choice of this sort, they will do it without the help of any suggestions from the Republican press.

* * *

Addressing a gathering of progressive Republicans at Albert Lea yesterday, Sidney A. Anderson, the young attorney who has shied his caster into the ring as James A. Tawney's opponent in the primary campaign, outlined the manner of campaign he will make, and also what might be expected of him in the event of his election to congress. Representatives of the different counties in the district reported encouraging conditions in their bailiwicks, and altogether the session was an enheartening one from the insurgent point of view. Men who had been mentioned as probable candidates against Tawney pledged Anderson their enthusiastic support.

Plays David to Tawney's Goliath.

Mr. Anderson plans to speak in every precinct in the district. He counts on the newspapers opposed to Tawney to give the insurgent campaign the most liberal publicity. After saying that his platform will be given out within a few days, he said:

> For the present our most decided stand will be taken against the "system" which is controlling congress. Cannon and Tawney are representative of this "system."
>
> We shall urge a revision of the tariff downward. We shall likewise have much to say in regard to labor conditions, as we believe they need attention. We believe that some way should be found to curb the power of the great combines and to reduce the prices of staple articles of foodstuffs and clothing. In conclusion he made this statement in the form of a question:
>
> The Minnesota jury to pass upon the merits of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was composed of United States Senators Knute Nelson and Moses E. Clapp and nine congressmen. All voted against the measure except James A. Tawney. If you believe that the one man who hung the jury was wrong, then I want your vote. I am a progressive Republican, a man of the people and for the people.

George W. Peterson, assistant attorney general, has had published in the Long Prairie Leader a letter in which he says he is not a candidate for the judgeship to be vacated by Judge Baxter. John W. Mason of Fergus Falls and Charles Johnston are the remaining Republican aspirants in the field, with Attorney Nye of Moorhead going it alone for the Democratic nomination.

The senatorial situation in the Forty-ninth district is peculiar. P. R. Vail, the Virginia brewer, has announced in a formal statement to the public that he is a candidate for re-election. Dr. Wierick of Hibbing was recently mentioned as a candidate, and it was generally conceded that if he got into the race he would win handily. Then the Hibbing man announced that he would not be a candidate. James P. Boyle of Eveleth, assistant county attorney, was in turn popularly picked as the probable nominee, but, hearing that Dr. Wierick had again changed his mind and wanted to make the run after all, the Eveleth man stepped aside. Later the Hibbing physician issued a definite and final statement removing himself from the field.

Situation in the Forty-ninth.

At this stage of the proceedings, the Eveleth News said:

> The News would have been a staunch supporter of J. P. Boyle's had he elected to become a candidate for the senate from this district. We disagree with his judgment in his conclusion, though a representativeship is offered him on a gold platter, if he consents to make the run for the house he is as surely elected as day follows night.
>
> There is a touch of humor in Vail's announcement. He says his record shows that he has "worked in the interests of the people," when as a matter of common knowledge the persistent talk of others for the place was based on a contrary belief. In view of Vail's statement that if re-elected he will continue "the policies of the past", the men who are working for better representation of the district are likely to redouble their efforts.
>
> Giving the lie to some very dependable and truthful men who live in his own district, Vail brands as "a falsehood pure and simple" a statement to the effect that he had threatened to "blow in his whole brewery" rather than suffer defeat.
>
> It is understood that important developments will come soon in the district and that a candidate will file who can adequately and properly represent the district in the upper house of the legislature.

* * *

Brainerd Tribune: It looks as though Dan Gunn of Grand Rapids will have no opposition in the primaries for renomination to the senate from his district. Dan has made an excellent record in the senate. He is a strong man and deservedly popular and will be triumphantly re-elected.

With Frank A. Day, Fred B. Lynch and R. T. O'Connor out of the city, politicians had an interesting time in St. Paul yesterday, discussing the pros and cons of the Lind situation. All manner of theories and suggestions were advanced, and there was talk of reviving the Stanton and Johnson booms, while others insisted that Day should be made the banner bearer.

Talk About Lind In St. Paul

> It is impossible that Mr. Lind should refuse the nomination as he has done. He knows better than any one else in the state what is due to the party and he is punctilious in the observance of the little things. While I do not wish to make any charges against the authenticity of the messages received thus far from the West, still I doubt very much if they are a true reflection of Mr. Lind's sentiment at this time.
>
> There is one point that cannot be explained on the basis that interviews with him are authentic. There have been several telegrams sent to Mr. Lind by members of the state central committee. I personally know of one that was sent by Mr. Day on last Thursday evening and another on Saturday evening after the publication of the report that Lind had absolutely refused.
>
> Investigation shows that both of the messages were signed for and hence must have been delivered. It is natural to assume that they reached the John Lind to whom they were addressed. Hence the statement that Lind has no word from the committee is wrong and falls to fit in with the circumstances.
>
> This is a matter that cannot be decided until word is received direct from Mr. Lind. That this word will come I am sure because of what I know of Mr. Lind. He would never leave the party in such a predicament. It is likely that Mr. Day's last message is being answered by letter, and in that case there would be no word until tomorrow or Thursday.

* * *

In a review of the political situation in the state, the political writer of the Pioneer Press says of the Eighth district scrap: "Although the district is strongly Republican there is some feeling against Miller for his votes for Cannon when he had promised to vote against him."

* * *

It has been suggested that Mr. Lind should be met at Seattle when the steamer Humboldt, with the Lind party aboard, returns from Alaskan waters, by a party of prominent Minnesota Democrats sent there on the mission of stating to him just how the situation stands and how it came about. Nothing definite has been done about this plan, but it is being given consideration, it is said.

Delegation May Meet Lind.

"I think it ought to be done," said John E. King in St. Paul yesterday. "In the absence of any personal word direct from Mr. Lind we could not drop the use of his name if we wished to. It is the legal duty of the convention officers to file the list of convention nominees and Mr. Lind's name cannot be withdrawn without some authorized statement from him. It is not too late to lay the matter before him and it ought to be done, especially as he has apparently failed to receive messages sent him after the convention acted."

"I am in favor of sending some one, and several people, if possible, to see Mr. Lind on his return to Seattle," said Insurance Commissioner J. A. Hartigan. "I may be the only one who thinks so, but I believe John Lind's name will still go on the ticket."

A. DeLacy Wood, the veteran newspaper man of Two Harbors, has announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for judge of probate in Lake county. He has held the office before, being appointed by Governor McGill. Later he was elected to the place and he has served in a similar capacity in Cook county.

* * *

Thomas R. Brown, Jr., of Crookston denies that he is a candidate for the legislature. He is secretary of the Crookston Commercial club and says his activities in that position are so satisfying that he has no ambition to serve in the legislature.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison is the most powerful and destructive of all blood disorders. It corrupts and vitiates the entire circulation and manifests itself in the most hateful and loathsome symptoms, such as ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, and even sores and ulcers on different parts of the body. The poison causes the hair and eyebrows to fall out, and sometimes the finger nails come off and the entire glandular system is attacked. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison which does not rid the circulation of every particle of the insidious virus. The least taint left in the blood will break out afresh, when treatment is left off. S. S. S. is the real and certain cure; it goes into the blood and by removing every particle of the poison, and adding rich, healthy qualities to the circulation, forever cures this powerful disease. All who suffer with Contagious Blood Poison may cure themselves in the privacy of their own homes by using S. S. S., and following instructions contained in our Home Treatment Book, which which we will send, together with any medical advice desired, free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Shannahan, aged 10, was shot through the abdomen yesterday afternoon by a bullet from a 22 caliber rifle, accidentally fired by Oscar Essendrup as they were strolling with other boys through the brush beyond Longyear lake. ## PRINDLES MUST SOON GET BUSY

Otherwise They Will Forfeit Their Virginia Franchise Rights.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Will the Prindles of Duluth accept the street railway franchise granted them by the city council some several months ago? was the question asked at last night's council meeting. The Prindles have until Aug. 24 to accept the franchise, but as it is agreed that one mile of track shall be laid by Jan. 1, 1911, it is considered that the Prindles will have to act promptly if they live up to their contract.

The matter of the hearing of the vacation of the Mud Lake road, which was scheduled to come up, was postponed for one week. This road now runs through the yards of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, and as there are some nineteen railroad tracks crossing this highway it is the desire of the company that that portion of the road running through its property be vacated as so many trains pulling on these tracks which cross this highway would be a menace to the lives of those driving or walking along this highway.

Thomas Gill, C. M. Dorway and W. E. Hannaford were appointed commissioners to assess the value of the improvements done upon the several streets and avenues in the city.

Miss Jessie McNeil, clerk of the municipal court, asked the council for a leave of absence for two weeks, during which time her pay was to continue. The request was refused on the grounds of establishing a precedent.

The street commissioner was instructed to extend the sewer on Virginia avenue from Locust to Beech street.

City Clerk Bickford, in answer to a communication sent to the Virginia Electric Power & Water company, for the purpose of ascertaining if that company would dispose of its plant to the city before 1915, read a letter from O. H. Griggs, manager of the company, in which it was stated that in his opinion his company would not sell to the city before that time. In view of this reply the clerk was further instructed to write the head officials of the company for their answer to the request.

FIRE DEPARTMENT AUTO SCORCHED

Fireman Used Lantern to Look Into the Gasoline Tank.

With flames roaring thirty feet in the air from it, the Duluth fire department automobile was pushed out of the hall at First avene east and Third street, last evening, and the fire extinguished by a chemical engine, after the car had been damaged to the extent of about $150.

As a result of the fire some of the Duluth firemen have learned a valuable lesson in the handling of gasoline. The tank in the car was being filled with gasoline.

"That tank isn't full," said one of the firemen, and he stepped up to the car with a lighted lantern.

The tank was full and in an instant the car was enveloped in flames. The fire was soon extinguished, but not before the wind shield was broken and the paint and upholstering scorched.

REPRESENTATIVE CITIZENS OF DULUTH HONOR PRELATES

ARCHBISHOP JOHN IRELAND.

Archbishop John Ireland of the Catholic province of St. Paul and Rt. Rev. Thomas O'Gorman of Sioux Falls, bishop of South Dakota, were guests, at a dinner given in their honor last night at the Kitchi Gammi club by M. H. Kelley of Duluth. About sixty representative citizens of Duluth were present, representing the civic, industrial and commercial interests and the talks following the dinner were exchanges of greetings between the prelates and the citizens of Duluth, irrespective of creed.

The dinner was well appointed, the decorations were beautiful, the most cordial feeling prevailed and the visiting prelates were given to understand that Duluth has high regard for their ability and high station, as well as for the innumerable good qualities of Bishop McGolrick of Duluth. Archbishop Ireland and Bishop O'Gorman are guests of Bishop McGolrick for a few days before proceeding on a trip down the lakes.

In their talks following the dinner both of the visiting prelates paid a high tribute to Duluth. Archbishop Ireland seemed more interested in the men than in the things which make Duluth. "I will leave Duluth with greater confidence than ever when I know the men who are planning and working for the city," he said.

He pointed out that closer relations between business men and clerical men are of benefit to both and he said he was pleased to learn that Bishop McGolrick is not only a leader in the church but is a representative citizen of Duluth, interested in its temporal as well as spiritual welfare.

"As has been pointed out here this evening," he continued, "no matter how we may differ from one another in politics, in religion, or in any other line of thought, we know how to work with one another. This is the glory of the United States of America. no other country on men so know how to respect the convictions and beliefs of others. In America we early learned to work together for country and humanity and it has certainly been one of the causes of the great growth of our country. In America we all come together and work lovingly and earnestly."

Warring Against Socialism.

Touching on general conditions in the United States, Archbishop Ireland sounded a note of warning against Socialism. He did not mention the name of the Socialist propaganda, but his words left no doubt in the minds of his hearers of what he regarded as the greatest danger to America.

"If there is one sign of alarm in the skies of the future for our country as I see it, it is that there will be an effort to chain individualism, to give all into the hands of the government and to bring everyone to a common level which, in that case, must be the level of mediority. We are equal in liberty and equal in rights, but equals in talents never, nor in the possessions which depend on those talents. May the day never come in America when the individual shall cease to be individual. Let us march side by side—we cannot all be generals—but the whole mass is benefited by the leaders and what they have produced they could not have produced without them.

"Go on, citizens of Duluth," build up your city, your state, and your country. Let us do all we can to make this country greater than she is. We will do that not merely by material developments but by guarding the liberties and storing up the spiritual and intellectual gifts.

"The most perilous problem ever presented to humanity is before America. We founded this nation in the belief that we could have liberty in order and order in liberty. The dangers of the present loom ominously. There are clamorings for a division of property, for special laws, and there are mobs and riotings. If these go on and increase, the hour may come when America will say, 'I must maintain order at any cost, if not with liberty then with a powerful centralized government.'

"All classes must see that they do not go too far. The employers must recognize that the welfare of the employed is their welfare and the laborers must respect the rights of the employers as well. All must recognize that public order and safety of the country are far above any individual claims and privileges. Above all we must cast our ballots under the dictates of conscience for true and good men. In that way America will last and her opportunities will last."

Judge Morris Toastmaster.

Judge Page Morris of the United States court acted as toastmaster and presided over the meeting with ease and grace. He called upon as many of the representative citizens present as the time allowed, introducing them with well chosen remarks.

Mayor M. B. Cullum expressed for the city of Duluth its appreciation of the worth, the ability and the works of Bishop McGolrick during his many years' residence in the city as the head of the diocese of Duluth. He said that the representative gathering in honor of the guests of the evening was evidence of the spirit of tolerance and amicable social relations between the people of the United States regardless of religious beliefs. He said such a gathering would not be possible forty years ago, and the fact that it is possible now is an evidence of progress in thought that is not insignificant.

J. B. Cotton gave a happy little speech, expressing sentiments of good will that met hearty response from the visitors and Duluth guests as well.

Mr. Cotton said in part:

"I am at a loss to understand whether I am called upon because of my profound knowledge of ecclesiastical matters or because of supposed long experience as a churchman. Whatever may be our worthy toastmaster's motive, I am glad to be present tonight and to have this opportunity to pay my respects and to offer my felicitations to our distinguished guest, his grace, the archbishop of St. Paul, and his coworkers present, and to break bread with them and you.

"The names of these eminent churchmen are housewold words. No word of mine is needed to tell of their fame or achievements. For a score or two of years they have stood in our state and community as the leaders and head of a great church. For many years they have toiled incessantly in the work of uplifting mankind. They have administered to the temporal wants, as well as the spiritual needs, of thousands. They have contributed to the moral welfare of all our people. They have taught the doctrine of right living; labored to make better men and women; to inculcate a higher ideal of individual liberty and of greater citizenship. They have preached the doctrine of self-reliance, of love of country.

"They have likewise done their full share in advancing our material welfare. I have a most profound respect for catholicism, for the Catholic church of America. It stands for the highest ideals and a greater performance of civic and religious duty. Its charitable, educational and beneficent works are legion. We need only to recall our history to remember that practically the only thing that survived the Dark Ages was the Catholic church, with its efficient organization and its great aims and purposes. It has survived and flourished in spite of prejudice and opposition. It has gone steadily forward to accomplish its great aims. One of the fundamental doctrines it teaches to its communicants and to the world is the proper observance of and due reverence for law and order.

"When we can reflect upon the untiring and inspired work of these eminent churchmen, not only along religious lines, but in every way that makes for the real greatness of our country, their work and achievements, in comparison, make our labors and accomplishments in the domain of material things appear insignificant, sordid and selfish indeed. However, in the advancement of the human race it needs be that some must be workers and leaders in spiritual affairs while others are workers and leaders in material things. We can, perhaps, reconcile our choice of different fields of earthly labor best by accepting the philosophy of Emerson, that, in the advancement of the human race, having in mind material as well as spiritual developoment, 'all are needed by each and each is needed by all for nothing is fair or good alone.'

"Our eminent guest and his co-workers present tonight are performing a lasting service in uplifting human society. They teach and practice the fundamental creed of a proper respect for and observance of individual rights. Ours is an age of religious and political toleration. We are learning more and more to appreciate the opinions and to respect the views and beliefs of other men, whether political or religious. This must be so if we are to become a great people and have an enduring civilization. In this invaluable work, assigned from on high, the Catholic church and these eminent and revered churchmen are contributing their full share.

"I conclude by expressing the earnest hope of us all: Long may they be spared to continue their great work and to discharge their sacred duties."

Bishop O'Gorman's talk was one of the most enjoyable of the evening and his remarks were met by hearty applause. He said that he had known Duluth had a future, but after traveling over the water front and observing the marks of progress on all sides, he was sure of the ultimate destiny of the city.

"Commercial domination is in your hands and I can see no reason why you should not become the greatest city in Minnesota and put in the shade the two cities on the Mississippi that are always fighting between themselves," he said in conclusion

Bishop McGolrick took occasion to thank through those present the Duluth business men who have aided him in his work here and he also paid a warm tribute to the women of Duluth.

G. G. Hartley recalled pioneer days in Duluth and A. M. Marshall, W. J. Olcott, A. L. Ordean, John Millen and Henry Turrish gave short but interesting and pertinent talks.

Archbishop Ireland and Bishop O'Gorman will leave tomorrow on the steamer Cornell for a trip down the lakes.

INSURGENT REPUBLICANS WN ALMOST COMPLETE VICTORY AT KANSAS POLLS

two years ago. Stubbs is an insurgent, Wagstaff a regular.

From the present indications the Republican candidates for congress in Kansas will be:

Calderhead Is Beaten.

Sixth district—J. D. Young, insurgent, Beloit, majority over Reeder 1,500.

Eighth district—Victor Murdock, insurgent, incumbent, Wichita.

Governor Stubbs, who was renominated, is considered a probable opponent of United States Senator Charles Curtis in 1912. He lined up with the insurgents while Senator Curtis took part in the recent campaign in behalf of the regulars.

Nominated by Democrats.

The Democrats had no candidates for congress in the First and Eighth districts. In the First district J. H. Calger's name was written on the ballot. He was nominated. In the other districts the nomination of the following Democrats is indicated:

Second district—Grant Harrington, Kansas City.

Third district—J. H. Botkin, Winfield.

Fourth district—Henderson Martin, Marion.

Fifth district—G. T. Helvering, Marysville.

Sixth district—H. O. Caster, Oberlin.

Seventh district—G. A. Neeley, Hutchinson.

Statement by Murdock.

Wichita, Kan., Aug. 3.—Victor Murdock, the insurgent leader in congress, in his home in this city today, heard the news of the insurgents' victories in Kansas. The congressman is so hoarse from his recent speaking campaign that it is with difficulty that he can make himself heard over the telephone. Mr. Murdock said to the Associated Press:

"The significance of the overwhelming insurgent victory in Kansas is twofold.

"First—It is a complete repudiation of both Cannon and the system by which he has robbed the people of free government in the house. Scott, Miller and Reeder were chairmen of important house committees, while Calderhead was on the ways and means committee. All were beaten because they subscribed to the Cannon system.

"Second—The Kansas insurgent victory is an effort by the Republicans of Kansas to say with emphasis to the nation that the Republican party of Kansas, by indorsing Governor Stubbs and the Kansas insurgents in congress, stands for immediate and effective legislation framed to drive special and selfish interests out of control in American politics."

NORTH SHORE NEARLY PUTS POE LOCK OUT FOR REST OF SEASON

Cable Slipped Off.

The lockman saw the danger and endeavored to get the cables out, but the crew on the steamer was too excited and only one line was made fast, and that slipped off the drum in an effort to check the boat. The steamer ran upon the breast wall and struck near the center of the west operating gates, opening them for a foot or more. Bounding back under the impact the gates also, as if by a miracle, sprung back into place and mitered perfectly, shutting off the flow of water. Had they not done so the water would have rushed into the lock with such force as to carry away the gates themselves. In view of the fact that the movable dam above the canal is not completed there would have been no way of stopping the flow from the two channels through the canal, so that lockings could not have been resumed this season.

Engines Were Working.

Eye witnesses to the accident say that when the stem of the North Shore passed the lower end of the lock her engines were working strong ahead, and one of the crew on deck was sent down to notify the engineer to shut down the engine. She did not begin to back until about the time she struck the gates. Little damage was done either to the gates or to the steamer The captain and the crew of the North Shore refuse to make any statement as to the acoident, even to the canal officials. It is reported the engines refused to back.

FREE CITY DISPENSARY

Many Patients Have Already Appeared to Ask for Treatment.

Particular Attention Is Being Paid to Tubercular Patients.

Considerable interest has been manifested by the public in the new free dispensary which has recently been established by local physicians, and the success of that institution is practically assured.

Dr. William M. Hart, secretary of the St. Louis County Sanatorium commission, and Miss Lee, a trained nurse, have been placed in charge of the dispensary work, and already many patients have appeared for treatment.

Particular attention will be given to tubercular patients, of whom there are many in Duluth and surrounding country. It is claimed that this city has more than her share of tuberculosis sufferers.

The object of this dispensary, which it shares in common with other similar institutions of long standing, and undoubted and freely acknowledged worth in the anti-tuberculosis campaign, may be briefly outlined as follows:

To afford an opportunity for the free diagnosis of suspected cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, the free examination at intervals of these and other cases in any stage of the disease who may require such examination, advice as to the means to be adopted in the patient's home for the prevention of the spread of infection, suggestions as to what institution is best suited for the patient according to his condition, or as to the best means to adopt for the home treatment of those who for any reason cannot go away to take advantage of institutional care and discipline.

Of these latter patients the more intelligent are formed into small classes who by keeping careful records of their progress and meeting in small groups with the physician in charge endeavor to approximate sanatorium treatment.

Perhaps the most important function of a dispensary for tuberculosis is to serve as a center for and to augment the work of the visiting nurse in the patients' homes, that under her supervision they may be educated in standards of hygiene and taught the proper precautionary measures for the safety of those immediately around them.

The patients who are eligible for such free treatment are of course those who cannot afford to pay for the services of a physician in the regular manner. Such patients when they do notice suggestive symptoms are apt to postpone a visit to a private physician as they naturally shrink from occupying his valuable time when unable to recompense him for his services and may even postpone such a visit, and consequently the institution of rational treatment, until their case may have progressed to such a stage as to render the possibility of permanent recovery very remote. On the other hand it is scarcely fair to ask the busy physician to neglect his pay patients upon whose fees he is dependent for his income, for the purpose of giving to a charity patient all the time that is necessary for the proper examination and instruction of one suffering with tuberculosis. The average physician has not shown himself reluctant to give this time. The direct contrary of this is true, as has been demonstrated to a pre-eminent degree by the physicians of Duluth.

That the patient who can well afford to pay his doctors' bill but who is unscrupulous enough to attempt to take advantage of free treatment may not succeed, only those patients will be examined and treated at the dispensary at the court house who can bring with them a line from their physician or from the secretary of the Associated Charities to the effect that they are in every way worthy of this privilege.

Through the kindness of the county physician permission has been granted to use his office, No. 115 at the east entrance to the court house, between the hours of 3 and 5 in the afternoon of Tuesday of every week and any other days at the same hour mentioned the secretary of the County Sanatorium commission and the district nurse will be in attendance in the above mentioned office for the benefit of all suitable cases who may apply, the equipment needed for dispensary purposes having been furnished by the Duluth Anti-Tuberculosis committee, the Linnea club and others interested in the work.

FRAUD IN COAL LANDS CHARGED

Department of Justice Files Suit Over Colorado Holdings.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 3.—Charging a number of prominent persons with having fraudulently obtained valuable coal lands in Colorado, suit has been begun in the federal court by Assistant United States Attorney Hartsell. The charge is that they obtained nearly 4,000 acres of rich coal lands in Routt county now valued at $700,000 for a comparatively small sum.

FOOTBALL ON HORSEBACK.

One of the Many Novel Features Introduced By Buffalo Bill.

Of the many novelties and interesting features with the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Pawnee Bill Far East, football played by horses is probably the most unique form of entertainment to be seen in that exhibition of wonders. One can hardly believe that the art of horse training has been perfected to such an extent that a game of football can be played by men on horseback, but that such is really the case will be entertainingly proven when the big exhibition comes to town.

The ball used is of mammoth size, made of rubber, and by bumping it about the riders and their horses manipulate the sphere from goal to goal playing the game under special rules. All of the fine points of the regulation game of football are brought out in the "horse play" of the Wild West, and it is said that the game played under these conditions is highly exciting and decidedly amusing.

There will be many other interesting features with the Wild West, and many forms of amusement. Ray Thompson's trained Western range horses will contribute a surprisingly clever high school exhibition, doing "stunts" after the fashion of the trained thoroughbred. There will be all styles of roughriding by horsemen representing the equestrian nations of the world. There will be the Cossacks from Russia, the Arabian with his thoroughbred steed, English cavalry displays, roughriding by our own cowboys and American Indians, and a wide variety of "style" in all the riding exhibits.

An Oriental scene of picturesque splendor will bring the Far East features into view with regal displays, thus contrasting the pageantry of the Far East with the big Indian battle scenes, wherein a hundred full-blooded Indians will participate; troops of infantry and cavalry in army tactics and the World's Roughriders in equestrian displays. Appearing in many of the scenes and on horseback at every performance the original and only Col. William F. Cody, Buffalo Bill, will be the main feature and enduring attraction. More especially is this so as it will mark his last appearance on horseback in this city.

MUTINY IN THE NAVAL MILITIA

Several Members of Crew of the Ozark Desert the Vessel.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Mutiny and desertion on board the monitor Ozark among members of the District of Columbia Naval militia are reported here by members of the crew who left the gunboat at Annapolis Sunday and walked to this city. Twelve deserted the Ozark several days ago at Hampton Roads after trouble with the officers.

Those who have returned here declare that conditions on the Ozark, on which the naval guard was taking its annual cruise, were unbearable; that the food and water were bad, the ship unseaworthy, and the men forced to work at manual labor from morning until night without receiving any instruction in gun drills or naval practice.

GERMAN RULES FOR AEROPLANES IN FORCE.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—Strict police orders regulating aeroplane flights in the province of Brandenburg now are in force. Aviators are forbidden to fly over towns during the course of cross-country flights, of which three days' notice must be given. They also must obtain certificates of efficiency which they are to deliver to the police before they take part in competitive flights, whether cross country or within an enclosure. In the latter case competitors shall not be permitted to fly outside of the boundaries, under penalty of 60 marks ($15) fine.

CITIZENS VISIT THE GOPHER

Naval Reserves Give Reception for the Residents of Duluth.

Fully 500 guests inspected the U. S. S. Gopher as it lay at its anchorage in the harbor last night on the eve of its departure for the annual two weeks' cruise down the lakes, during which time the vessel and crew will participate in the naval maneuvers.

The Gopher was in gala attire. Colored lights gleamed from bow to stern; the officers and men were spick and span in their attractive uniforms; every piece of brass shone like a mirror, and every part of the vessel was trim to the last detail.

In spite of the fact that rain began to fall about 8 o'clock, the hour scheduled for the opening of the reception, people went to and fro until after 10 o'clock. Four launches were kept busy plying back and forth between the Gopher and the shore.

Commander Guy A. Eaton, Lieut. Commander S. S. Williamson, Lieut. Commander B. F. Howard, Lieut. C. W. Kelly, Lieut. E. G. Smith, Lieut. and Surgeon F. J. Patton, Lieut. and Paymaster Alfred Engles, Lieut. R. T. Hugo, Ensign Joseph Carhart and Ensign A. A. Farrington welcomed the guests as they arrived and showed them over the ship. Punch was served by Wardroom Boy Sibley.

The cups won by the Gopher last year were on exhibition. They were the only two trophies offered last year and the local crew took both of them. The large cup was offered by Surgeon Sherman of the regular army for the crew of officers with a surgeon who could row the best race. The smaller was donated by the Little Traverse Yacht club for the best six-oared gig crew.

All men and officers will be on board the Gopher tomorrow, when anchor will be weighed for the trip to Buffalo. The cruise will take about two weeks.

PEANUT STEAKS PROVE DRUG ON THE MARKET.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Peanut steaks, nut chops and other protein preparations have not proved profitable substitutes for the good, old-fashioned meats and vegetables, according to Ada L. Clark and other stockholders of the Vegetarian Meat company of this city, which has been cited to appear in court next week to show cause why the company should not be dissolved. The court is asked to appoint a receiver.

The complainants declare that the company was incorporated with a capital of $250,000 and that without their consent this was raised to $1,000,000. They say the company is doing little business, that dividends have been paid from the capital and not from earnings, and that the assets will not amount to more than $5,000. They ask the court to enjoin the issuance of the additional $750,000 worth of stock.

Life on Panama Canal has had one frightful drawback—malaria trouble—that has brought suffering and death to thousands. The germs cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility. But Electric Bitters never fial to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "Three bottles completely cured me of a very severe attack of malaria," writes Wm. A. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "and I've had good health ever since." Winona at Superior.
La Crosse at Duluth.
Wausau at Red Wing.
Eau Claire at Rochester.

La Crosse took the opening game from the White Sox yesterday, the score being 4 to 2. The four runs gathered by the visitors came before the second inning. The Sox rallied later in the game, but owing to tightness of smiling Mr. Watson, the O'Brienites failed to overcome the early lead of the enemy.

Blancke failed to show anything yesterday, being succeeded in the second frame by smiling Cummings. From this point the game resolved itself in a box quarrel between Watson and Cummings. Owing to the early lead secured by the Outcasts, Mons. Watson came out of the conflict with flying colors.

Slow fielding on the part of the Sox was responsible for at least one of the runs of the enemy. At one juncture of the game Don Antonio Marion held the ball and permitted a visitor to amble across the plate. But, after all, Watson pitched good baseball, and at critical stages of the game was tighter than the late Russell Sage.

Visitors Score Early.

La Crosse scored two runs in the opening round. Connell singled, was sacrificed by Snyder. George Anderson made a great catch of Ward's long liner, but Connell crossed the plate on Safford's hit to right field, which Marion was slow in handling. Safford went to second on the throw to the plate and scored when Zalusky doubled. Klein popped to Kohl.

Two more were gathered in the second frame. Kernan singled and went to third when Blancke threw Kuehn's attempted sacrifice bunt over Bunn's head, Kuehn taking second on the uneducated heave. Cummings mounted the hurling hill, Watson promptly singling, sending both runners over the register. Connell was out on the attempt to bunt the third strike and Snyder, after singling, was forced at second by Ward, Ward being caught at first on the play.

The Sox scored two in the fifth. Altermott walked. Bun lifted a single to right and Taylor, replacing Marion, drew four that failed to visit the vicinity of the plate. A passed ball scored Altermott. Schwab struck out, but Cummings hit for one, scoring Bunn. Jay Anderson hit to short and Tom Taylor was nabbed at the plate. George Anderson lifted an infield fly to small Connell.

Ninth Inning Rally.

In the ninth the Sox threatened to tie up the game. After O'Brien was down Altermott doubled to the left field fence. Bunn beat out a slow infield hit, Altermott going to third. With two on and only one out, Tom Taylor fanned and Schwab filled to Kernan.

The Sox and Outcasts will play the second game of the series this afternoon. Hughes will pitch for Duluth and Silent Joe Safford will probably send little Jack Hooker into the box. The little fellow has been pitching some great ball for the Germans, and with both pitchers working right the game should be a well contested one.

Blonde Hurler Holds Killian's Crew to Two Scattered Hits.

A change of pasture seems to have been a very good thing for Richard Brinsley Sheridan Thorsen, for yesterday the blonde hurler held the Winona Pirates to two scattered hits, Superior taking the second game of the series by the score of 5 to 3.

Wagner was hit hard by the Red Legs, only sharp fielding on the part of the Winona players preventing Superior from running up a higher score. The Dukes also played a snappy game in the field and at the bat. The score:

MOTOR BOAT RACE SATURDAY

Special Club Pennant Offered for 32-Foot Class Boats.

A special 32-foot class motor boat race has been arranged for the Duluth Boat club for next Saturday. The entries in this race will include many of the boats of the club under 32 feet, as the first race in this class was won by one of the special design 26-foot boats. The race will be for a Duluth Boat club pennant, and will be an especially attractive one, as this will be the first boat club pennant hung up for a motor boat event.

A week from Saturday comes the big motor boat race of the season. This will be the 40-foot class race, and it is expected that the new Schell boat will meet the new Barnes boat in this contest.

In addition to these entries, the Mermaid of Superior will start, as well as the Dingle Capitol, the Mack Cook boat; the Buster, Robert B. and other fast boats of the club.

It has been decided to try out the new boat being finished for Julius Barnes here. A great deal of interest will be taken in the tests of the boat. It is generally believed here that Dick Schell has a very fast boat, and if the Barnes boat shows great speed, more interest than has ever been shown in a motor boat race at the Head of the Lakes will be exhibited in the race scheduled for a week from Saturday.

There will be a water baseball game tonight at Oatka.

LADIES WILL SKIP SAILBOATS

Unique Races Will Be Held at the Boat Club Saturday.

Next Saturday will be given over to the ladies of the Duluth Boat club, and all sailboats entered in the races of that day being sailed by members of the fair sex. The rules of the day provide that each boat must carry at least one lady, and that the boat must be sailed by her. This rule will be rigidly enforced this year.

Arrangements have been made for the letting out to members free the 22-foot cat boats of the club, these boats making up a special class for the day. These boats will also be sailed by ladies.

The regular mid-week 18-foot class race will be sailed this evening. The race this evening will be the seventh of the series, and is a very important one.

A week from today the Allegro and Navaled, the Farrell boat, will race at Oshkosh, in the Inland Lakes regatta. The two boats will be loaded Monday. Owing to the fact that the crews of some of the 28-foot class boats are going to the Oshkosh regatta, the races in the 28-foot class, scheduled for Aug. 13 and 20, will be postponed.

GEERS HAS GOOD DAY AT DETROIT

Veteran Driver Sets Two New Records With the Harvester.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—Two new speed records and some excellent sport marked the second day of the Grand Circuit racing at the state fair grounds. Driving for the first time since his injury at Grand Rapids, two weeks ago, E. F. Geers, the veteran reinsman, celebrated his return to the sulky by sending The Harvester the two fastest miles ever trotted by a stallion, each miles being negotiated in 2.04¼.

This time also is the best ever made by a 5-year-year-old stallion. Cresceus held the former two-heat record for stallions and Bob Douglas, who twice finished second to The Harvester yesterday, held the 5-year-old stallion record of 2:06¼.

Geers also drove The Abbe to victory in the Chamber of Commerce $5,000 stake, winning three straight heats after being beaten at the wire by Evelyn W., in the first heat.

Clover Patch took the 2:24 pace in three straight heats, the event being something of a procession.

CHOOSING TEAM TO MEET CHAMPIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Pacific coast and Western tennis players took the honors at Lake Forest yesterday in the preliminary matches to decide who will meet Alexander and Hackett in the contest for the national championship at Newport the week of Aug. 15. The teams will met on the Onwentsia Country club courts today and the winner will be named for the Newport play.

T. C. Bundy and Hendrick, winners of the Pacific coast championship, defeated Edward H. Whitney and Richard Bishop, Eastern champions, in hard-fought sets yesterday.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

Yesterday the seniors who rowed with the Duluth senior eight last year got together and resolved to do some rowing during the rest of the present season. This move probably means that the Duluth Boat club will be represented by a senior and junior eight at the 1911 regatta, which will be held in Duluth.

When one comes to think of it, rowing was the sport that was originally responsible for the existence of the Duluth Boat club, a water organization that today stands as a model for most of the clubs of this country. When this fact is considered, and also the fact that in the days of old the oarsmen of this city generally brought home the figurative bacon, it seems out of place and strange that with the growth and progress of the club, the ability of the crews of the organization should decline.

The time is ripe for a thorough investigation and inquiry into the cause and effect of this lamentable condition of affairs. Men who have followed the annual regattas of the Northwest for years, each year express wonder that Duluth can't win, with such splendidly formed and proportioned men in its boats.

The answer is so simple and so patent that one wonders why the cardinal fault has not been corrected ere this late day. It really looks as if the men who have in the past years identified themselves with the rowing of the club are going to grasp the bull by the horns, so to speak, and strenuously endeavor to turn out a crew that in 1911 will be more than a pathetic possibility.

Duluth has the material. To be sure, that phrase is becoming thread-worn and sadly lacks originality. However, it is a very pertinent fact, if the men get to work this fall, and strange to say, the spirit of the men is more alive after two rather crushing defeats than it was before the setback of last week.

That is about the way the situation stands at the present time. If both crews get out and do some real rowing this fall, the defeats at Kenora may really stand forth as the blessings in disguise. It is up to the men, and those knowing personally the men who sat in the Duluth boats at the recent regatta will not hesitate in venturing the opinion that these men will make the best of the opportunity to show that Duluth can turn out oarsmen qualified to win firsts at the regattas of the Northwestern International Rowing association.

A Prejudiced Story.

The writer who sent out the story from Kenora, declaring that the Duluth bantam four steered an erratic race in the junior four-oared race of last Saturday, thereby driving the Winnipeg bantam four off the course and otherwise creating havoc, not to say destruction down the watery path of progress, is guilty of deliberately perverting a news story.

Duluth did become mixed up with Minnesota, but the Winnipeg bantam four was so far behind the Duluth bantam four in the race of Saturday, that there was no chance on earth for the local boat becoming in anyway mixed up with the Canadian crew. It is only fair that the people of this town should know the real truth of the race.

Kenora won the race, thereby upsetting the Winnipeg man's dope, for he had Winnipeg figured as a cinch win. He also sought to explain the fact that Duluth finally defeated the Winnipeg bantam four and resorted to the unpardonably unfair means of twisting his story.

It is to be presumed that the same writer stated that the Duluth eight rowed a "45 stroke" in the race of Saturday. After the first ten strokes of the race, 34 was the highest stroke attained by the Duluth eight. In fact, the men were told to hold the stroke down and pay attention to the slow slides. The result was that the Duluth eight made a much better showing than on the previous day.

But the misrepresented story of the Duluth bantam four—it was unfair and unsportsmanlike, to say the least.

Practically all of the men of the junior boat, and the men who did not make the boat, have promised to get out and row during the remainder of the present season. If the men carry out this pledge, and the older men really get back into the game, Duluth can ascertain before the next regatta has become a sad local chapter of aquatic history, whether or not it can produce a crew worthy of carrying the colors of the best club in the Northwest.

As it rowed, the Duluth junior eight was not a good crew. Its possibilities were great and the material and spirit were ready for the hand of a master coach, who could have taken the crew in charge and made an eight faster than either the St. Paul junior or senior eight.

Every St. Paul man interviewed at the Kenora regatta expressed the opinion that John Kennedy worked wonders with the St. Paul eights. In fact, before the coming of the Yale veteran coach, those Minnesota experts did not think their senior eights stood any chance of winning a first at Kenora. You have, most of you, read the results of last week's events. Much of the credit for the great showing of the St. Paul crews can be directly attributed to the master hand of Old Man Kennedy, who, when all has been said, is one of the truly great rowing coaches of this country.

If the crews of the Duluth Boat club get out during the remainder of the present season and show that they are imbued with the right spirit, surely the officials of the club will see their way clear to engage the services of some experienced and highly rated coach.

It is up to them to show that they are willing to retrieve the honors of the club, and once this spirit is shown, then it will be equally up to the club officers to show that they are also willing to make a determined effort to bring the Duluth crews back into the honor list.

That is the opinion expressed by not a few members of the junior eight. They believe Duluth can win, that good oarsmen can be turned out here, and, once the Duluth men acquire the best rowing form, the crews from here will make Duluth a name to be respected. There is no reflection on the work of the Duluth coaches. They gave their time to it and did the best they knew how.

Why Jamie Lost.

One of our citizens has returned from Reno with the opinion that Mister James J. Jeffries' mental equipment was not equal to the task of carrying him through the pitfalls and shoals of the Johnson fight. There are many of us who have never held a very lofty view of the mental apparatus of the Jeffries family. But then we never dreamed that the gray matter of Mistah Johnson was so highly developed. But this explanation of the sad result of the quarrel leaves open the opine that maybe Jeff could have won, if only physical ability had been subjected to the strain and wear of that strenuous July afternoon.

Martin Sheridan Again.

For years Martin Sheridan, a strong policeman of New York, has been our greatest all-round athlete. There has been no man that could defeat him in the list of events that severely tries the abilities of a man to hurdle, put the shot, pole vault, run and do other athletic events on the all-round program.

Michigan has a star, whom, the gay college boys of the Ann Arbor town believe, can pluck the athletic crown from the phlegmatic head of Sheridan. The name of the boy is Joe Horner and if Joseph is equal to the task of defeating the great Sheridan, who has won innumerable points for the American teams in the Olympic competition, the boy will become the most famous athlete in this country.

The all-round competition will be on the fall cards, and then college and athletic club men from all over the country will have the long-waited opportunity of seeing two great athletes meet in a program of events that brings out the very best of the all-round athlete.

CLOQUET TEAM ACCEPTS CHALLENGE OF FITWELLS.

S. M. Loisel, manager of the Cloquet Baseball team, writes that he is willing to accept the challenge of the Fitwell team of this city, and that the Cloquet team will meet the Fitwells Sunday, Aug. 14, or any Sunday after that, in a baseball game for a $100 side bet. He stipulates that the game be played at Superior and that the umpire be chosen from any city but Duluth.

The Cloquet manager agrees to the stipulation of the Fitwell manager, in that the lineup of the two teams be the same as the lineup of last Sunday. It is suggested that the teams play for a division of 60 and 40 per cent of the gate receipts, in addition to the side bet. The Cloquet manager stated that the money of the Cloquet team will be deposited in the hands of the sporting editor of the Evening Herald just as soon as the Fitwells agree to the proposed terms.

There is a great deal of rivalry between the two teams, so that in the event of the game being arranged, there is sure to be a sultry contest.

WILL PLAY BALL IN ESPERANTO

Umpires to Be Instructed in Universal Language for Washington Game.

Washington, Aug. 3.—"Tri Frapumo"—This is the cry that will ring out from a baseball umpire's lips for the first time in the history of the American national game on the afternoon of Thursday, Aug. 18, when the Washington and Cleveland American league teams meet here. The words are Esperanto for "Three strikes." They will be used to indicate "batter out" on the afternoon in question because the 1,000 or more delegates to the international Esperanto congress, which will be in session here that week, will be present at the game.

It will be the first time many of the foreign delegates ever witnessed the great American game.

In addition to some Esperanto calls from the umpire, the Esperantists will be made to feel at home by having distributed to them printed copies of baseball rules in Esperanto, translated especially for the occasion.

A squad of the metropolitan police force, which recently formed itself into an Esperanto class, will tell the crowding throng at the gates in the international language to "keep moving." They will do duty also in and about the hotel where the sessions of the congress will be held.

NOTED GOLF PLAYERS TO MEET AT CHICAGO.

The player who attracted the most attention was Walter J. Travis, the Garden City veteran, winner of the national amateur championship in 1900, 1901 and 1903 and winner of the British amateur championship in 1904.

The field included nearly all the best Chicago players, with the notable exceptions of H. Chandler Egan of Exmoor, twice national title holder, and Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian, who won the Western championship at Minneapolis last week from Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, Western title holder in 1909.

Besides Evans, who will play, other prominent Chicago players to start included National Champion Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, Albert Seckel of Riverside, Intercollegiate champion; Robert E. Hunter, semi-finalist in the recent Western tournament, and Paul Hunter, his brother, both of Midlothian.

Gentlemen: The hardest thing a ball player has to contend with is thirst, because if you try to satisfy it with water, you either get loggy or lose your "Ginger" or it makes you sick, while alcoholic beverages are fatal to good ball. I drink

LOW WATER HALTS FLOATING DREDGER

Unusual Drouth Conditions Stop Important Work in Roseau County.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lack of rain, while aiding in some of the ditch work where walking dredges and dump scrapers are being used, has stopped work by two of the floating dredges in Roseau county, and nothing more will be done by them this year unless a heavy continual rain falls within the next week or two. Low places are dry where ground has never before been seen in swampy sections and the contractors will have to be given an extension of time in order to finish their work.

AFTER NEW CERTIFICATES.

Polk County Is Facing a Shortage in Teachers.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The summer teachers' examinations are in session and County Supt. N. A. Thorson is conducting them in the high school building, under the supervision of ex-Supt. Thomas Sasey. There are 145 applicants, only a few over one-half of the number a year ago and a shortage of teachers is feared for the fall schools. J. F. Gilhooly, who recently disposed of his bindery at Fergus Falls has taken charge of the bindery of the McKenzie-Robbins Printing company, and will move his family here later. He is a pioneer in the business in this section, having had charge of the Grand Forks Herald bindery from 1882 to 1886.

Contractor Lewis Johnson has nearly completed the walls for the new opera house. The main steel girder, weighing 15,000 pounds, was placed today and is the main support of the balcony. A few days' delay is being caused by the non-arrival of certain pressed brick but when they are received the superstructure will be completed rapidly and the building will be ready for the opening by the middle of September, or a few days later.

BRISTOW IS COMING.

Kansas Senator to Help La Follette in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 3.—Senator Joseph L. Bristow will stump in this state for a week, beginning on Aug. 8. Senator Bristow's itinerary has not yet been arranged, and it is not even known where he will speak first, but it is believed he will spend most of his time in the southern part of the state.

Another noted speaker, who will be in the state the second week of this month, is H. W. Byers, attorney general of Iowa.

It is not now believed Senator La Follette will make his expected speech in Milwaukee this week, and the impression is growing that the senator will do comparatively little, if any, speaking in his own behalf during the primary campaign. Information as to his physical condition is scarce here, but there is information tending to show he has not recovered from his malady.

A fine of $100 is provided as the penalty for violations. Alderman K. C. Hunter is the father of the newspaper amendment to the ordinance, stating that he introduced it in accordance with the sentiment expressed by Mayor M. E. Murphy recently.

He had nothing to say when asked how much freight the company would lose by the recent orders of Indian Agent Johnson which takes effect Sept. 15, and forbids the shipment of spiritous liquors to a wide area of territory tributary to the Minnesota & International railway.

DROWNS IN PINE LAKE.

One Loses Life When People in Boat Change Places.

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Smith while fishing on Pine lake near Upsala Sunday, was drowned. The man, who was in the neighborhood of 50 years of age, was fishing in a boat with a boy. The occupants of the craft in endeavoring to change positions lost their balance and the bark capsized, throwing the man and boy into the water. The lake was extremely rough due to a high wind which was blowing Sunday but the boy managed to clutch the side of the overturned boat and keep himself above water. Smith sank at once and did not reappear at the surface. The point over which the boat capsized is thirty feet deep. It is thought that the rough water caused the failure of the fisherman to reappear after being thrown from the boat.

It found that the Kimball Co. stands paramount in their respective manufacturing industry of the highest standard of upright and grand pianos and pipe organs.

These celebrated instruments are on exhibition and for sale at the Korby Piano Co. (the distributing store for the W. W. Kimball Co.).

There are possibly two other makes of pianos that are nearly in the same class with the Kimball Piano for which you would pay at least $200 more for because of the retailers 'porfit.

The Kimball Co., because of their almost unlimited resources can sell direct from the factory to the consumer, thereby saving for the purchaser at least from $150 to $200 on a strictly high-grade piano. Then why not buy a Kimball when you can get the Kimball for the same price the ordinary retailer would ask you for only a medium grade piano?

We have several pianos of various other makes which we are offering for sale for less than one-half the price that sensational advertisers of retail stores ask for them. Give us a call and be convinced.

THREE STATES SHOULD YIELD 148,000,000 BUSHELS

Herald Estimate of Crop of Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Thrashing Returns Show Fair Crop Where Failure Was Predicted.

SPRING WHEAT, 1910.

|---|---|
| Minnesota | 78,000,000 |
| North Dakota | 37,000,000 |
| South Dakota | 33,000,000 |
| Total, three states | 148,000,000 |

The total yield of 148,000,000 bu is slightly higher than was believed possible two weeks ago, but thrashing returns from various places indicate that the short straw resulted in plump berries and that the yields near some stations, which three weeks ago predicted a total failure, will be fair.

The estimate of 148,000,000 bu compares with 212,350,000 bu, the final yield of the three states last year, a reduction this year of 64,000,000 bu in round numbers for the three states. On June 1 the promise of the crop in the three states was 258,000,000 and on July 1 the indicated yield as estimated by the government was 162,000,000 bu.

It is difficult to strike an average for the state of North Dakota, on account of the spotted condition of the plant. Cavalier, Towner, Rolette and parts of Bottineau counties show almost total failures. The western part of Bottineau county appears to be in fairly good shape. Walsh county is in excellent condition. The best areas of wheat are on the borders—northeastern, southeastern, western, west of Glen Ullin and in the central northern counties. In the closing days of July there was excellent development noted in the localities where the promise was good.

The damage district is scattered and extends into Manitoba on the North and South Dakota on the South. It is probable that the abandoned acreage in North Dakota will be about 2,200,000. The acreage sown was estimated at 7,220,000 bu.

The yield of durum and velvet chaff in South Dakota will be large compared with other crops and will add materially to the total wheat yield in that state. There is a large acreage of durum and velvet chaff in the southeastern counties. The quality of durum, according to threshing yields, is poor. A large proportion of the crop of North and South Dakota will grade exceedingly low, probably from No. 3 down.

The largest yields in this state will be in the South Central portion. Toward the north and the west the yield will be lighter. The acreage sown in this state is estimated at 5,880,000. Wright county shows an excellent condition and the acreage is heavy. The western part of Pope county is in good shape but the Eastern portion will not make such a good yield. Douglas county will make a large yield. Otter Tail, Becker and Red Lake counties will make fair yields. The drouth affected Otter Tail and caused a thin stand in Red Lake county. The Red River valley reports that the final days of hot weather did not affect the crop seriously and the yield from that region will be moderately good.

Harvesting is general in Southern Minnesota. There has been considerable trouble on account of premature ripening of the grain. Velvet chaff will not make as good a yield as was expected. Blue stem shows up in fairly good shape. Threshing probably will show that considerable grain was shrunken by forced ripening. Along the Soo and the Minneapolis & St. Louis the yields from threshing are larger than expected and the quality is better than farmers hoped. Some places reported yields of from 17 to 23 bu an acre. The average in this state last year was about 17 bu.

The flax crop is so spotted in many various stages of development that it would be impossible to come within reasonable distance of an estimate of the yield. Assuming that the gain in acreage was 13.2 per cent the decrease from last year's crop is still between 17 and 20 per cent, assuming that the government's estimate of 65 per cent on July 1 represented accurately the condition of the plant. Most people, incidentally, think that it did not. The weather in August will be a potent factor as regards flax.

There has been marked development in the condition of flax since the government's report was issued as of July 1, even in the districts that were hardest hit by the drouth. The acreage in this state held up well and the yield in this state promises to be good. South Dakota probably will produce a fair crop, more than most people believe. In some parts of North Dakota the crop is a total failure and in other parts it is in excellent condition.

While the government may show an estimated yield of flax below 16,000,000 bu, yet The Herald estimates that the final yield, with favorable weather, will be nearer 19,000,000 or 20,000,000 bu, on account of the excellent condition of the plant in this state, the larger acreage in this state than the government showed on July 1, and the greatly increased acreage in Montana which the government undoubtedly underestimated. At this time, however, an attempt to place an estimate on the flax yield in the Northwest would be worthless.

HAD A HEAVY PASSENGER LIST

Steamer North West Brings Nearly 300 Tourists to Duluth.

The trip yesterday of the steamer North West was the most successful trip of the season, from the standpoint of the number of passengers carried. There were nearly 300 passengers aboard the big steamer when she arrived in port. Of these over 240 were booked before the boat left for Duluth, while a few came aboard at the last moment.

Norman B. Mack, chairman of the National Democratic committee, was one of the most prominent passengers on board. Senator Hackney of this state, was also a passenger on the boat.

The tourist season is at its height at the present time and steamship men expect that the remaining trips of the passenger boats will show the heaviest lists of the season.

WILL ATTEMPT TO RAISE TREVOR

Capt. McDougall Thinks the Sunken Boat Can Be Restored.

An attempt will be made by Capt. Alexander McDougall of this city to float the steamer John B. Trevor, the boat that went ashore on Isle Royale, Oct. 12 of last year. No attempt has been made to float the vessel, which is owned by the Pittsburg Steamship company, as it has been believed that it was a total loss. However, it is believed that the boat can be floated and repaired.

The tug Moose and barge Limit of the Whitney Brothers' company of Superior, have returned from the scene of the wrecked vessel. Pumps and other machinery of Capt. McDougall's were taken to Isle Royale and work on the raising of the boat will be started immediately.

Capt. McDougall is on the scene and will superintend the work. The water from the bulkheads of the vessel will be forced out by air compressors, which have been ordered from Port Arthur. The vessel lies in about twelve feet of water forward and eighteen feet aft. It is not known how seriously the boat is damaged. The Trevor is of a steel hull listed at 1,713 tons and was built in 1895.

LIGHT DEMAND FOR LUMBER

No Prospect for Heavy Movement From Head of the Lakes.

With practically no demand for lumber by the Eastern manufacturers of boxes and other articles, the outlook for a heavy fall shipment of lumber from the Head of the Lakes is not very encouraging, according to a member of a firm of Duluth lumber shippers.

He stated that the lumber market is very dull at the present time, with the probable result that very little lumber would move for some time. There is comparatively little lumber moving from here at the present time, though there is a large quantity at the Head of the lakes awaiting shipment.

"There is very little demand for lumber in the market," said the shipper in question. "The outlook for a heavy fall movement from the Head of the Lakes is not very good. The Eastern manufacturers are not taking any heavy orders at the present time. Holders of lumbers, too, do not fancy the present price on lumber, so there seems little prospect for a very extended movement."

The present price on lumber cargoes is $2.25, with very little demand for boats.

JUNIATA IS LONG OVERDUE

Passenger Steamer Should Have Been in Duluth Early in Morning.

Due here at 8 o'clock this morning, the Anchor line boat Juniata has not reached here at 1 o'clock this afternoon. A telegram sent by the Duluth office to Houghton, Mich., has failed to elicit a reply so far, so that the Duluth officials of the line do not know the cause of the delay.

The passenger list of the Juniata is the heaviest of the season, and this morning a large number of people lined the dock, waiting for friends. While there is really no apprehension over the non-arrival of the big Anchor line boat, some of those expecting friends are just a trifle worried.

The officials of the Duluth Anchor line office are of the opinion that the delay of the vessel is caused by fog.

NO MORE DELAY TO CANADIAN BOATS.

Harry Hurdon, local agent of the Northern Navigation company, received a telegram today from the officials of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company, stating that the strike on the road had been settled and that the striking employes had returned to work.

While the strike on the Grand Trunk was in progress the boats of the Northern Navigation company were seriously interfered with in the loading of freight. Many of the boats came here with very small cargoes, as the result of this difficulty in getting loaded.

Mr. Hurdon stated that the settling of the strike would mean that the boats of the Northern Navigation company would get the usual service at the docks, and that the handling of package freight would be placed on a normal basis.

WANTS $13,000 FOR BROKEN LEG

Injured Miner Brings Suit Against the Oliver Company.

Alleging while at work in the Soudan mine, No. 15, near Soudan, Minn., on Feb. 15, 1909, that he had received injuries to his leg which may necessitate its amputation, Stefan Burla filed suit this morning in the district court against the Oliver Iron Mining company for $13,000.

He claims that his leg was broken six inches above the ankle, and that the bones were splintered to the knee, and that the injury is of such a nature that it will be impossible to use the limb.

For some time previous to the date of the injury, he ayers he had been working for this company on the fifteenth level, at the eastern part of the mine, where hard ore was being removed. At this place there were several sub-levels, from which chutes extended to a point directly over small ore cars used to convey the ore.

These chutes, he alleges, were not guarded, and when ore was started through them, there was no means by which it could be stopped. On the date of the alleged injuries, he and another employe were ordered to fill two cars. After filling and removing one of the cars; they moved the other under the chute, which was filled in a short time. While removing this car, he claims that a large piece of ore fell out of the chute, striking him on the leg, and breaking it.

DULUTH CLUB IN THE FIGHT

Takes a Hand in Move for Reduction of Express Charges.

Petition Filed at Washington Is Opening Gun of Long Campaign.

The Commercial Club of Duluth is a party to proceedings before the interstate commerce commission, instituted by the filing of a petition at Washington today, that is expected to bring to an end the stand-and-deliver extortions of the express companies.

The petition asks the commission to investigate the charges and net revenues of the express companies and is signed by 124 associations of commerce and commercial clubs and is the opening gun of a well-planned fight to correct present abuses.

Indirectly the attack on the express companies hits at railroad revenues, as a portion of the complaint is based upon the contracts entered into between the railroads and express companies doing business over their lines.

The Duluth Commercial club first heard of the plan to attack the practices of the express companies from the New York Merchants' association, with which organization the Chicago Association of Commerce was associated at the inception of the campaign. The local organization received from the New York originators of the movement a preliminary report showing the nature of the petition which now, probably in a revised form, has been filed with the commerce commission.

The substance of the complaint is that the express companies are now permitted to make contracts with the railroads on a 50 per cent basis, the express companies taking half of the charge collected and the railroads the other half. It is contended that this arrangement is unjust and unscientific. While the proportionate division of the "swag" varies, it is in the neighborhood of half-and half.

Here is an illustration of how it works out:

For a package sent from New York City to Yonkers, N. Y., the express company collects 50 cents. The railroad company collects from the express company one-half for carriage, and the express company keeps the other half as payment for the terminal service it renders. On the same package expressed to San Francisco the express charges are, say $15. The railroad company gets about $7 for the transportation, and the express company gets about $7 for its terminal service. The express company gives the shipper no more service on the long than on the short haul, and yet it collects $6.50 more. The railroad is paid for transporting the article twice as much as the usual freight charge would be. The shipper, therefore, pays about $10 of that $15 for nothing at all.

The object of the complaint in which the commercial clubs have joined is, first, to bring about a reduction of rates; second, to put the express charges on a scientific basis, which would involve fixing a proper railroad charge and a proper terminal charge.

The express companies, which have piled up immense profits under the present system of exorbitant charges, will fight bitterly against the proposed reform.

MONTANA FIRES GROWING WORSE

Aspect Is Most Serious Since First Outbreak Was Reported.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 3.—The forest fires in Western Montana and Idaho have assumed the most serious aspect since the first blaze was discovered sixty days ago. Forest officials here are almost overwhelmed with reports of new fires, old fires spreading, and appeals for help from the rangers. The service here echoes the cry for help. Large crews have been organized and dispatched to the more serious blazes.

Word is received that the fire on the St. Joe river in Idaho was eating its way into the Trout creek district, having destroyed an area of five miles in width and ten miles long.

In addition to the new fires which threaten the whole district, there are fires raging today at Drexel, Benton and St. Regis Junction.

COPPER MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Values Fluctuate Nervously, Closing About on Par With Tuesday.

Copper values were subject to wide fluctuations today. The action of the market was nervous and the trend of values was misleading. The market opened slightly weaker than yesterday, but quickly firmed as shorts got under cover. The upward trend of the market induced moderate buying which was of brief duration. Around noon considerable liquidation developed which wiped on the early gains and carried values from a fraction to more than a point below yesterday's close. At the close there was a rally, due to moderate buying by shorts, which brought the market on a par with yesterday's closing prices.

There was very little buying today on investment account and the advance was due almost entirely to covering by shorts. The longs did not make much of an effort to support the market and every time the shorts ceased their covering tactics the market sagged. The only bulge that was sustained was the rally that occurred at the close.

The London market was dull and values about on a par with yesterday. The red metal market was somewhat firmer. There was an active demand on the part of domestic and foreign consumers and some sales were made at 12c. The estimates of these transactions run as high as 25,000,000 pounds. The buying of the red metal has been stimulated by the belief that the policy of curtailment of production will be put into effect by nearly all of the leading producers. Another influence on the bull side was the decrease of 7,000,000 pounds in the European visible supply during the last half of July.

In the last two weeks the United Metals Selling company is said to have disposed of 100,000,000 pounds of copper at 12½c and 12⅝c and that the copper surplus in the hands of that agency is no longer a factor in the market. The bulk of this copper is said to have been sold for domestic consumption. About 35 per cent was disposed of to dealers, however. The Calumet & Hecla company recently made copper sales at 13c, the prevailing price for lake. The company is well sold up as it is not carrying much more than a thirty-day supply.

The output of the Butte mines in July amounted to 24,303,500 pounds compared with 26,356,200 pounds in June showing that the curtailment policy is beginning to have an effect in reports from that district. The report for the month follows:

HOLDS COMMISSION IN NICARAGUA REBEL ARMY

COL. PAUL MASON
Of New York.

New York, Aug. 2.—Col. Paul Mason of New York is congratulating himself that he was not in the place of William Pittman, who was captured by the Madriz forces and is now in a Nicaraguan jail. Mason has just come back from Nicaragua, where he served on the staff of one of Estrada's generals. He is going back to Nicaragua to fight with the revolutionists soon. He says all the American business men in Nicaragua favor Estrada.

BEN WINCHELL'S TURNING POINT.

F. W. K.; Ben F. Winchell, president of the 'Frisco System, was entertaining a party of railroad men in his private car. The conversation turned on what was the turning point in a man's career. Various yarns were told, but Winchell brought down the house with his experience.

"I was a lively kid, not more mischievous than other boys, but I got my turning point pointed out to me when I was about 10 years old. My father had me down at a shoe store, where, after I had been fitted out with a pair of shoes warranted to last a year, but which wore out in thirty days, my dad stopped to talk politics with some friends and left me to my own devices of catching flies, putting shoemaker's wax on the cat's feet and otherwise cutting up, until my father impatiently exclaimed:

"'Benny, for heaven's sake, what's the matter with you?'

"A lounger, Phil Teal by name, who had a reputation as the town oddity, spoke up:

"'The boy's all right. Every boy has to have his turning point in life and he's just having his, he's turning from a fool to a dam fool.'"

NEW KING OF GYPSIES IN THE UNITED STATES

EMIL MITCHELL.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Emil Mitchell was crowned "King of the Gypsies" at an office here a few days ago. No one seems to know why the gypsies always come to Washington for their "coronation." Perhaps they think that at the capital the ceremony is more binding. Mitchell succeeds Zlatcho Dimito, who recently abandoned his crown and moved to Canada. "King Emil" comes from the vicinity of New Orleans.

WANT CHANCE TO VOTE ON IT

Plan to Establish Agricultural School in St. Louis County.

County Board Will Be Asked to Submit It to Voters.

Efforts will be made by the committee appointed by the representatives of the various boards of education throughout the county to induce the county commissioners at their meeting Friday to submit to the voters of St. Louis county the proposition to establish a county agricultural school.

The proposition was placed before the people at the election two years ago and passed so far as the number of votes cast upon the proposed movement was concerned, but it was not a majority of the number of votes cast at this election.

It is proposed that the voters once more be asked to vote upon this question, and the committee which consists of Charles Schelin, of Alborn, chairman; Dr. M. N. Triplett of Floodwood; Adolph Solman of Nea, and G. O. Scrobec of Culver, will appear before the board on Friday.

It is believed by the members of the committee, that this proposed movement is the only means by which the young men of this county desiring agricultural education can secure it without much cost.

KILL THEM DEADER NOW.

"Lazarus," he said, "was raised from the dead—and yet I don't see any dead folks being raised in our time."

"No," said the Rev. Herbert H. Tresham, the biblical scholar, with a smile. "Modern medical science has progressed too far for that, eh?"

FREDERICKSON IS RELEASED

Two Days' Examination Proves He Is Not Insane.

Isaac Frederickson, against whom information was filed with the clerk of the probate court, declaring him of unsound mind, was found perfectly sane after a two days' examination by physicians.

His wife was the complaining witness. She stated that he was continually talking about large amounts of money he had. He testified in his own behalf, stating that she was attempting to get rid of him by sending him to the insane hospital, and attempting to convince him he had a large sum of money. He served a year and a half at the Fergus Falls hospital, having been released from there last May.

SILLY QUESTIONS.

"The late Myra Kelley's note-book," said a magazine editor of New York, "was full of overheard bits that she proposed to work into stories.

"One bit that will never figure in a story now she related at a dinner before she went abroad. It concerned a little schoolboy, Jurgis Borisoosky, who said to his mother one night, in the inimitable Myra Kelley dialect:

"'Ven der match's fire goes out, Mutter, vare goes it to, hey?'

"The mother answered impatiently:

"'I dunno. Such questions is silly. Vy, you might as vell ast me vere yer pa goes ven he goes out.'"

ITALY MAY YET DEMAND CHARLTON

State Department Holds That Extensions of Time Is Allowable.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Italy has not lost legal right to demand the extradition of Porter Charlton, who is in the Hudson county jail, New Jersey, charged with the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Castle Charlton, at Lake Como, Italy. Th limit of forty days fixed by the treaty between Italy and the United States to govern extradition cases having expired today, it now is held at the state department that Italy is entitled to an extension of time equal to that consumed by delays incident to legal processes for postponements instituted by counsel for the accused.

No demand has been made upon this government thus far for Charlton, and the matter still is in the courts for determination.

TOO TRUE.

"Thomas A. Edison prophesies the disappearance of the horse and the disappearance of the shop assistant," said an editor. "Transportation will be electrical some day, and shops will be automatic, slot-machine concerns.

"Mr. Edison is always original and striking. I remember the first time I ever interviewed him.

"'Mr. Edison,' I said in the course of the interview, 'what is the very best insulator?'

Aug. 18—Arrive Duluth.

Tomorrow night, the members of the two divisions of the Minnesota Naval Militia will leave on the U. S. S. Gopher for Thunder Bay, near Alpena, Mich., the rendezvous of the Great Lakes squadron.

The Duluth boys will meet at the armory at 6:30 tomorrow evening and at 7 o'clock will march to the Fifth avenue dock, where boats will be taken to board the Gopher, which is at anchor in the bay. Both divisions will have practically a full complement of officers and men and the boys are looking forward to the best cruise in the history of the naval militia on the Great Lakes.

The assembled squadron will leave Thunder Bay on the evening of Aug. 8 and will arrive at Port Huron by daylight on the morning of Aug. 9. From there the ships will proceed through the St. Clair river, passing Bar point before dark and Aug. 10 will be spent on Lake Erie. The squadron will arrive at Buffalo about 6 a. m. Aug. 11, and two days will be spent at that port.

On the first day, half of the officers and men will go to Niagara Falls and the others will visit the Falls on the following day. The officers of the fleet will be the guests of the Motor Boat club of Buffalo during their stay there and for the men there will be boat races and other contests.

The fleet will leave Buffalo on the evening of Aug. 12 and will arrive in Cleveland the following afternoon. On the morning of Aug. 14, Gov. Harmon of Ohio will be received, and on that day also there will be a program of sports for the men. The fleet will leave Cleveland 6 p. m., Aug. 14.

Aug. 15 at 6 a. m., the fleet will arrive at Detroit and at 9 a. m. Gov. Warner of Michigan will be received. At 11 a. m., the boats will leave Port Huron, arriving there before dark. At Port Huron Aug. 16, the squadron will be inspected by the board of inspectors of the United States navy. On that evening at 9 p. m., the squadron will disband and the Gopher will leave for home.

The members of the Duluth militia are enthusiastic over the cruise this year. They were the winners of almost every competitive event on the cruise last year and they have high hopes of repeating their successes this year. Commander Guy A. Eaton and his officers' crew are also determined to win for the second time the Sherman cup, which they captured from the officers of the other ships of the fleet on the last cruise.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—

DEFAULT has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by John Zuponcic and Francis Zuponcic, his wife, mortgagors, to Joe Putzel, mortgagee, bearing date July 1st, 1909, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 17th day of August, 1909, in Book 262 of Mortgages, on page 252.

Said default consists in the non-payment of $322.00 and interest at 6 per cent per annum upon that certain note for $500.00, dated July 1st, 1909, which became due, according to its terms, on December 30th, 1909, with interest at 6 per cent per annum, which is one of the notes secured by said mortgage, and no part of which has ever been paid except the sum of $178.00; and in the non-payment of $500.00 and interest at 6 per cent per annum upon that other certain note for $500.00 dated July 1st, 1909, which became due, according to its terms, on July 1st, 1910, with interest at 6 per cent per annum, which is also one of the notes secured by said mortgage, and no part of which has ever been paid.

Said mortgage was assigned by said Joe Putzel, under date of October 2nd, 1909, to Sattler Liquor Company, a Minnesota corporation, by written assignment recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on October 13th, 1909, in Book 188 of Mortgages, on page 269. Said mortgage was thereafter assigned, under date of June 25th, 1910, by Sattler Brothers Company, formerly the above named Sattler Liquor Company, to Joseph Francel, by written assignment recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on June 27th, 1910, in Book 229 of Mortgages, on page 1. Said mortgage was thereafter assigned, under date of July 7th, 1910, by said Joseph Francel to W. J. Rashleigh and Selma Knuti; who are now the owners thereof, by written assignment recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on July 7th, 1910, in Book 188 of Mortgages, on page 506.

By reason of said default, and pursuant to the terms of said mortgage, said W. J. Rashleigh and Selma Knuti hereby elect to declare, and do declare, all sums secured by said mortgage to be due and payable. By reason of such default and election, the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has ever been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage.

The property described in said mortgage, and thereby mortgaged, is Lot One (1) in Block Five (5) of the First Division of Aurora, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, excepting all mineral reservations as previously reserved by the Longyear Mesaba Land & Iron Company, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of said Register of Deeds.

There is claimed to be due, and is due, upon said mortgage at the date hereof the sum of $2,997.20.

NOW, THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statue in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises above described, which sale will be made at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the Front Door of the Sheriff's Office in the County Court House at Duluth, Minnesota, on Monday, the 29th day of August, 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, and $41.90 taxes which have been paid by the owners of said mortgage, and $75.00 attorneys' fees, as limited by statute, instead of $150.00, as provided by said mortgage, together with the costs and disbursements allowed by law.

SHORTS RUSH FOR COVER

Advance Brings Out Moderate Buying Orders in Wheat.

Thrashing Returns Are Favorable---New Flour Business Rumored.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 3.—The oversold condition of wheat was manifest today, shorts covering. The upturn induced moderate buying in September. Mills which have been unable to do much business for September or October shipment are said to have transacted considerable domestic business in the last twenty-four hours. Mills which are usually long September wheat against flour sales are said to be short against purchases of winter wheat. The rumors of flour business helped to give a better tone to the market, the advance of which was due chiefly to short covering. Offerings were scarce. Strength in Liverpool contributed to the firmness on this side.

September wheat advanced 1⅛c, December 1⅛c and May 1⅛c. Flax was dull, but stronger. A few eleventh hour shorts covered. September gained 4½c, October 2c, November 3c and December 2c.

Cash wheat closed 6c over September, durum advanced 1¾c, oats closed ⅛c up. Rye and barley were unchanged.

The oversold condition of the wheat which caused the rally at yesterday's close was chiefly responsible for the advance today. There has been a lot of short selling lately and the professionals switched to the buying side believing that the short interest was too large. Shorts covered during the day, causing values to advance. The undertone to the market was better than for some time.

Cables from Liverpool were higher but continental markets were weak. The waning of the heavy movement of winter wheat helped to strengthen cash markets. Hedging sales because of this movement were less noticeable. Traders thought the winter wheat movement had about been discounted and they were more enthusiastic on the bull side than for some time. The market received considerable aggressive support, a factor that has been lacking for some time. The expiration of the July deal shut off considerable selling and in the readjustment of values bulls are confident that the market will work higher. Reports from the Southwest said country acceptances were liberal.

Northwestern markets took a fair quantity of winter wheat. Receipts of spring wheat were moderately liberal. The weather map showed a few showers on the Canadian side of the international boundary, but very little moisture in the three spring wheat states. A high barometer is approaching the three states and the government predicts fair weather for tomorrow. Some Bulls, casting about for another reason for buying wheat, discovered that there may be a shortage of farm help in the Northwest for the harvest as the bullish reports have caused many laborers to stay away from the three states.

Returns from thrashing in the southern part of the state were excellent, running from 16 bu to 24 bu an acre. The situation in North Dakota has not shown much change in the last week. Canadian prospects are said to be improved.

Estimates on the Pacific coast wheat crop give 42,000,000 bu against 52,500,000 bu in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and the remainder of the Pacific Northwest a year ago. Thrashing is under way. Oregon will produce 15,000,000 bu, 2,000,000 bu more than last year, it is said. Idaho will increase its yield to 9,000,000, reports say, from 8,343,000 in 1909. Washington has had row. Some bulls casting about for 000,000 bu compared with more than 30,000,000 bu last year.

The North Dakota crop summary for the week ending July 30, follows:

"The small grain harvest has commenced in spots all over the state and will be general the current week. Fully better yields of wheat, and of finer quality, are being secured than was deemed possible at one time, cutting developing the fact that barley and oats are the heaviest sufferers from the late drouthy conditions. Of grains not yet cut the most favorable condition seems to be the satisfactory manner in which late wheat is filling. Reports disclose a wide range of conditions, the expected yield of wheat, oats, barley, speltz and rye now ranging from the bare return of seed to slightly less than three-fourths or almost a normal crop in some few favored localities. Reports on flax are slightly less favorable than a week ago owing to the failure of seedings on land broken this spring in the southwestern part of the state. Nevertheless, flax, with corn, which is also badly in need of moisture in some parts, holds the best average of probable yield. Late rains have helped these two latter crops to some extent and also pasturage and hay prospects but the forage situation is still acute. Considered as a whole the wheat situation is not materially changed from a week ago, more favorable reports from some localities being offset by more discouraging ones from others."

This is one of the driest years that North Dakota farmers have ever experienced. Flax on old flax lands has not only had to compete with wilt, but it has suffered under drougth conditions more severely than the crop can usually withstand. Many farmers who have sown flax on old flax lands find that the wilt in connection with the intense drouth has been very severe. I am writing this to say that no farmer should allow the fact that there is only a small amount of flax seed produced in the crop per acre to prevent him from saving the seed which does grow, for the flax plants which are able to withstand both drouth and wilt will produce seed of the highest value. Even flax which is quite thoroughly resistant during ordinary years is unable to withstand the wilt and canker under the excessive drouth conditions that have prevailed in parts of the state. Those who have any flax that has survived under these very discouraging conditions should save every bit of the seed for sowing purposes, as it will be of much value to them in future years.

Chicago Tribune: From present indications there will be no investigation of the Waterman July operations by the officials of the board of trade. President A. Stamford White left for a month's vacation trip yesterday after having conferred with Vice President Merrill and the directors that could be reached.

The failure of a squeeze to materialize on the last day of the future, and the fact that closing prices did not disclose any attempt at extortion, made it patent that an investigation was unnecessary. Cash prices in the Northwest were high at the time, and as the July price closed only a little above the September, it was regarded as a waste of time to pay much attention to the matter. Had there been a squeeze of the shorts on the last day, undoubtedly the officials of the board would have taken cognizance of the situation and made a searching inquiry.

Broomhall cabled: "Wheat opened easy, ¼@⅝d lower, being influenced by decline in America and Winnipeg. Market later became excited and strong and as shorts covered advanced ⅞@1⅜d. Offerings were light and speculators bought October freely due largely to scarcity of offerings of new wheat, notwithstanding generally favorable crop conditions. Toward midday the market lost part of the extreme advance on realizing due to larger Danubian offerings and a quieter demand for cargoes. At midday the market was excited and strong, ½@¼d lower than high and ⅜@½d up from yesterday. Corn showed a heavy undertone due to more favorable reports from America and continued pressure of La Plata offers, and prices were ¼@⅜d lower than yesterday. Cargoes wheat off coast 1, awaiting orders 7. In distant positions easy and offered freely. Corn easy, little inquiry. Argentina: Reports from the north, where the drouth is prevailing, are now more favorable as light rains have fallen over a large area. Elsewhere conditions are generally favorable. Sowing in the south about finished, but there are no estimates being made regarding acreage, as it is too early."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bullish on Decreasing Movement of New Grain.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Deereasing movement of new wheat as indicated by scanty acceptances of bids to the country had a bullish effect today on prices. There was also a general feeling that liquidation had been pretty thorough for the time. Demand by millers was held to show hope of improved investment activity. Under these conditions an advance at Liverpool was the occasion for a prompt upturn here. The market opened ⅛@1c higher. September started at $1.01@1.01½, a gain of ⅛@¾c and rose to $1.01¾.

Official figures indicating the French crop to be 11,000,000 bu. less than the smallest yield in recent years, kept the market firm. The close was at $1.01¾@1.01⅞ to $1.01⅞, a net gain of 1c to 1⅛c.

Rain and cooler weather weakened corn but the market rallied because of good buying on the part of commission houses. At the outset September was ⅛@⅝c off at 61¾@62⅛c. On reaction 62½c was reached.

News of clearing skies and renewed high temperature West resulted in considerable show of firmness. The close was at 62¼c for September, unchanged to ⅛c below last night's figures.

Light offerings of oats led to firmness after an easy opening due to the influence of corn. September started a shade to ⅛@¼c down at 36½@36⅝c, and then went to 36⅞c.

Shorts in provisions were eager to cover in view of higher prices for live hogs. The opening was at an advance of 10c to 22½c with the September option at $21.75@21.80 for pork, $11.70@11.72½ for lard, and $11.60 for ribs. All the gain was not held.

WHY HE WAS CONCERNED.

A big, able-bodied man of about middle age shuffled into a poor law guardian's office and curtly bade the clerk good morning, says Answers.

"Wot d'yer mean," he began, "by knockin' orf poor Widder Snagg's parrish pay? She's a 'onest, 'ard-workin' woman whose nose is in the washtub all day, an' it's a wicked shame to rob 'er of 'er lorful rights."

The clerk took down a big ledger and silently consulted it.

"Mrs. Snagg has married again," he said, "and the guardians have decided that she is no longer entitled to outdoor relief, and in any event, my man," he added sharply, "I should like to know if the matter is any concern of yours?"

"Concern of mine!" the man responded, "well, I should rather think so, guv'nor. If you stops the ole lady's pay, you stops my daily ounce o' shag an' quart o' beer too! I'm 'er noo' husband!"

Wednesday, Aug. 2, 1910.

Buy the following stocks for these reasons and you should make money: Butte-Ballaklava, because it is safe and is earning money right along. Amazon-Montana development, because only a few shares issued and a big property with a rich crowd back of it. I believe this will be one of the swiftest traders on the board this fall. St. Mary, because the property is very promising and the shares are selling very low. It is reasonable to expect a 50-cent market on this issue shortly. The Scotts because the mine should pay its own way from this time on, and should gradually work its way along until it should become one of the biggest earners on Butte Hill. They are now mining and they are hoisting about 35 mine cars of ore a day.

They have also opened up another vein carrying copper glance and boronite. The Scott is truly a big proposition.

WANT GOVERNOR TO INTERFERE

Cass Lake Men Write to Eberhart About Liquor Ruling.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—As soon as Governor Eberhart returns to St. Paul, which will be next Friday, according to a telegram received from him by his private secretary, Ralph W. Wheelock, he will find waiting for him a letter from a prominent citizen of Cass Lake, Minn., asking him to take a hand in settling the disputes about the shipping of liquor into certain sections in Northern Minnesota, where the department of the interior has absolutely forbidden any liquor to be received on account of its getting into the hands of Indians.

Writer Not Revealed.

Who that citizen of Cass Lake is, Mr. Wheelock has not cared to give out, but he thinks there is no doubt that the letter represents a request on the part of leading business interests of that town that the governor investigate the situation.

A short time ago Richard D. Funck, county attorney of Cass county, was in St. Paul seeking an interview with the governor on behalf of the business men of Cass Lake and Walker, with the complaint that the latest prohibitory order of the federal government disscriminates against Cass Lake and Walker by allownig saloons still to operate at Bemidji, Brainerd, Crookston, Grand Rapids and Red Lake Falls, while Cass Lake and Walker are placed in prohibition territory. Mr. Funck declared that the government was inconsistent in its order, allowing some towns that were practically in the very heart of the Indian country to sell liquor, while others were made "dry."

The governor was out of the city at that time and Mr. Funck said he would come again.

REMARKABLE INDIAN BRIDGE.

Engineering News: An interesting bridge, said to have been built by Indians, is situated about 200 miles east of Prince Rupert, B. C., near the projected line of the Grand Trunk railway.

It is built of round poles, fastened together with telegraph wire and wooden pins, the floor being the only part where nails are used to any extent, and no two joints are made alike, but it seems to do the work required of it, that is, as a means for pack trains to cross Bulkley river.

Looking at it from a distance, it seems to be nothing but a collection of poles and wire stuck together any way, with no particular reason for its not falling, the floor is very uneven, and the joints of the different members are made by lapping and binding them with wire. But by looking at it closely a person can see that the party who built it had a pretty good idea of engineering, for the bridge is an ingenious combination of cantilever and suspension construction.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

Henry Yagamachi Is Being Sought for By the Police.

Santa Rosa, Cal., Aug. 4.—Blackened human bones, fire-tarnished bits of jewelry, pieces of human skulls and a blackened wedding ring with the inscription "T. A. K." are the exhibits in what is believed by Sonoma county officials to be a gruesome triple tragedy. The charred bones are those of Enoch Kendall, Mrs. Ura Kendall, his wife, and Thomas A. Kendall, their son. They were found in the yard of their canyon home on the Starbuck ranch. The three had been mysteriously missing.

Suspicion is directed toward the missing Japanese as the perpetrator of the wholesale crime. Yamagachi occupied a cabin on the ranch and is

VATICAN IS TO ACT SOON

Papal Nuncio Is Told to Be Ready to Leave Madrid.

Weapons Are Used in Fight in Streets of Barcelona.

Rome, Aug. 4.—Mgr. Vico, the papal nuncio to the Spanish court, was given instructions from the Vatican today to be ready to leave Madrid at a moment's notice in case of an unfavorable issue to the negotiations. This preparation for a complete rupture of diplomatic relations between Spain and the Vatican would indicate that little is hoped from the answer which Cardinal Merry del Val is now drafting.

Although the Vatican is earnestly trying its best to avoid a complete break with Spain, Cardinal Merry del Val fears that Senor Canalejas, the Spanish premier, will be forced, in order to satisfy his extremist supporters, to still further accentuate his anti-Catholic policy, and the cardinal is preparing for the worst.

The note, which will be submitted to the papal congregation of extraordinary affairs, will not be given to the press here before its delivery to the Spanish premier at Madrid, to comply with the usual courtesies of diplomatic intercourse.

MURDER CASE IS ELECTION FACTOR

Tennessee Voters Are Influenced By Cooper Pardon.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 4.—Tennessee today is electing a supreme court, court of civil appeals, chancery and circuit judges and attorney general and is nominating four congressional candidates, successors to L. P. Padgett, T. W. Sims, Finis Garrett and George W. Gordon.

The overshadowing interest in the contest centers in the bearing of the result on the political fortunes of Malcolm R. Patterson, twice governor of Tennessee and nominee now for a third term. A supreme court free from the domination of the executive, is the prime issue involved, with the state wide prohibition law, the perpetuation of the Democratic party, the return of the negro to political activities and the cry of machine rule as side issues.

Judges Charge Coercion.

The slogan, "The Independence of the Courts," grows out of the celebrated Cooper case, three of the judges of the present supreme court having charged Patterson with attempted coercion in connection with this case.

The governor in response charged the court with unduly delaying the decision of the case. The pardoning of Col. Duncan B. Cooper for the killing of Senator Carmack has been used as an argument against the regular nominee. The governor and his friends promptly accepted the gage and have defended the governor's official acts.

ZEPPELIN POLE TRIP TO BE SLOW

Explorers Will Make Careful Survey of Conditions First.

Berlin, Aug. 4. — Prince Henry of Prussia, who is a member of the Zeppelin preliminary Arctic exploration party now headed for Spitzbergen to study conditions for the proposed Zeppelin dirigible balloon expedition to the North Pole, states today in a message from Tromsoe, Norway, that it is not the intention of the promoters to attempt to reach the pole before a full preliminary investigation has been made. No start by balloon will be attempted until a most complete knowledge of conditions in the ice world such as the nature of the polar air currents, the possibilities of landing upon the ice fields, etc., has been ascertained.

"It may," said the prince, "be five, ten or even fifteen years before the aim of the Zeppelin expedition, attaining the pole by the air route, will be reached."

The main object of the enterprise is scientific, not a mere pole hunt.

PRINCE CONSORT OF HOLLAND HAS FALL.

The Hague, Aug. 4.—Prince Henry of the Netherlands, the prince consort of Queen Wilhelmina, fell from his bicycle while riding yesterday and sustained a fracture of the collar bone. Prince Henry, who follows athletic recreations with enthusiasm, has several times before sustained minor injuries in these pursuits.

TAKES STEPS IN FIGHT FOR DR. CRIPPEN

London Attorney Claims Woman's Death Is Not Yet Proved.

Police Say No Record of Marriage of Fugitives Is Found.

Mrs. Ginnett Declares She Believes Leneve Woman Is Innocent.

London, Aug. 4.—Solicitor Newton, who has been retained to defend Dr. Crippen, made his first move today when he filed a formal application asking the authorities to permit an independent physician to examine the bits of human flesh found in the Crippen cellar.

It is understood that Newton will contend that they cannot be identified as having belonged to the body of Belle Elmore.

The question whether Crippen and his companion have been married has been revived, because of its bearing on the statues of the woman as a possible witness against Crippen. It is known that the police are hoping that Miss Leneve will make a witness for the crown, but if it is proven that she is the wife of the doctor, she may refuse absolutely to take the stand against her husband.

Discussing this feature of the case today, Supt. Froest said an investigation had failed to produce any evidence of their marriage.

Has Not Confessed.

Quebec, Aug. 4.—The Quebec provincial authorities were insistent today that Dr. Crippen had not made a confession. They maintained this attitude in the face of persistent rumors that some sort of a statement had been secured from the prisoner that threw light upon the mysterious fate of Belle Elmore.

This much is known:

Inspector Dew and the Canadian detectives have not visited Crippen's cell or had any direct communication with him since yesterday morning. Dew breakfasted early today and disappeared. Whether he left town could not be determined, but it is believed he sought seculsion in order to avoid the annoyance of being obliged to deny statements attributed to him. It was

JAMES S. SHERMAN,
Vice President of the United States.

HEAD OF DUMA GOES TO PRISON

Guchkoff Begins His Sentence for Fighting Duel.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—Alexander Guchkoff, who temporarily resigned his functions as president of the imperial duma in order to serve a sentence of four weeks' imprisonment for fighting a duel with Count Uvaroff, a rival leader in parliament, began his term in the Fortress of Peter and Paul today. In the duel, which was fought Nov. 30, M. Guchkoff, then a member of the duma, wounded Count Uvaroff slightly in the shoulder.

M. Guchkoff occupies the same easement as that in which Gen. Stoessel served his sentence.

REPRIEVE FOR NAVY EMPLOYE

Murderer Who Was to Be Hanged in September, Gets Stay.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Through a presidential reprieve announced today, John Wynne, an oiler employed on the United States ship Rosecrans at Honolulu, Hawaii, who was sentenced to be hanged on Sept. 5, will not explate the crime of which he was convicted until ninety days later.

Wynne killed Third Assistant Engineer McKinnon, who he had imagined was trying to make him lose his position. The reprieve was granted on the ground that the attorney general could not consider this case, as required by law, before the date first fixed.

HAMMON IS NAMED AS MAN WHO MADE OFFER

Curtis and Long of Kansas Also Declared to Be Interested.

McGuire of Oklahoma Is Among Those Mentioned By Senator.

Sensational Testimony Given at Hearing Held in Muskogee.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 4.—Vice President Sherman was named by Senator T. P. Gore in connection with what are known as the McMurray Indian land contracts, an investigation of which was begun here today by a special committee of the house of representatives.

Senator Gore, after declaring that he had been approached by Jacob Hammon with an offer of a bribe of $25,000 to remove all congressional opposition to the contracts, asserted that Hammon had said a man "higher up" in the government was "interested" in the contracts.

"When he named persons higher up I held up my hands in astonishment and said, 'Is it possible that a person so high in the United States government could lay himself open to such an imputation!'

"'Well,' replied Hammon, 'that is lots of money, you see.'"

Senator Gore at first said he was reluctant to name the man mentioned as "higher up," but later, on being pressed by Congressman Burke, chairman of the committee, declared Hammon had used the name of Vice President Sherman.

RAISED IT TO $50,000.

Senator Gore declared that when he frowned upon the bribery proffer, Hammon said the amount would be raised to $50,000.

"Hammon also told me that Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas and Congressman B. S. McGuire of Oklahoma were interested in the McMurray contracts," testified Senator Gore.

The bribe was offered at Washington, the senator testified, on May 6.

DENIES LIND WOULD REFUSE IF ELECTED

Frank A. Day Says He Has Received Official Word.

Brands Dispatches From the West as Infamous Misquotations.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—"We have official information to the effect that John Lind did not say he would refuse to serve if elected governor. We are also informed that Mr. Lind has been notoriously and infamously misquoted in press dispatches from Everett and Seattle."

This statement was formally issued this morning by Frank A. Day, chairman of the Democratic state central committee. It refers particularly to a report appearing in several papers recently, in which John Lind is quoted as saying that he would refuse to serve if elected; that he would not consider the nomination, and would not send and had not sent any word to the Democratic committee.

Was "Infamously Misquoted."

Mr. Day declares that this report "infamously misquoted Mr. Lind." The The chairman refuses to say when he received the official information or what additional statement may have been contained in this dispatch from the West. There is a suggestion that Mr. Lind is following the advice given him in the blanket telegram sent by the St. Louis county delegation. In this message he was urged to refrain from making a positive statement until he was in possession of all the facts in the case. The Duluth people believe that if John Lind is apprised of the real condition and the fight that was made on him and from what source it emanated, he will accept the nomination as a moral obligation to stand by those who went into the contest for the good of the party and really to defend Lind's name.

CANNON IS BEING A BOY

Speaker Says He Therefore Declines to Comment on Kansas.

Mackinac Island, Mich., Aug. 4.—"I know nothing of the primary elections in Kansas except that which I saw in the evening papers, as I am on my vacation, trying to be a boy and throw double somersaults—which is not hard if you know how," said Joseph G. Cannon of the national house of representatives today when repeatedly urged to express his opinion upon the insurgent victory in Tuesday's primary elections in Kansas.

"You can easily prove by any of the metropolitan papers," Speaker Cannon continued, "that I am in my second childhood, so I ought to be allowed to do anything now that I could do in my tender years.

As to Stubbs.

"I shall probably not say anything in regard to the elections. It is a case of 'had your aunt been your uncle what would have happened?' If Stubbs has been nominated he will probably be their candidate.

"I am up here to have a good time and for that only, and would prefer to let politics alone. I just want to be a boy."

TROOPS BEGIN TO LEAVE COLUMBUS

Little Prospect of Settlement of Car Strike in Evidence.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 4.—The homeward movement of the 1,500 soldiers of the Ohio National guard ordered dismissed from strike duty here began at 10 o'clock today. The Sixth regiment, Col. Lloyd W. Howard, Toledo, commanding, and the First ambulance company and Company A, Signal corps, both of Toledo, started first.

The Second regiment, Col. Edward S. Bryant, commanding, goes in two sections, the first starting at 1 o'clock and the second at 3 o'clock.

There was little prospect of an immediate settlement of the carmen's strike today. There has been no disorder and more people are using the cars today than for a week. Seventeen hundred soldiers remain here.

OUTLET FOR COAL NEEDED

Docks Have Little Space for Consignments Now Arriving.

Coal Movement Into the Country Is Said to Be Light.

Statements by officials of the various coal companies at the Head of the Lakes lead to the belief that the companies here are beginning to look eagerly for an outlet for the coal that is coming up the lakes. While in few cases official figures could be obtained, all of the dock managers interviewed on the subject, with the exception of the case of the Pittsburg Coal company, stated that there is a large amount of coal on the docks at the present time.

The manager of the Northwestern Fuel company's docks, both here and at Superior, stated that the docks of that company are filled to about 75 per cent of their capacity, with but light shipments of coal going into the country from the Head of the Lakes.

The manager of the Berwind Fuel company, which has docks at Superior, stated that the dock space of that company is crowded, but that there is more or less shipping from the dock.

From the Pittsburg docks of Superior it was learned that there are 75,000 tons of hard coal on hand and 250,000 tons of soft coal at the docks. This included both the Duluth and Superior docks. According to the manager of the dock, this is not an unusually large amount of coal to have on hand at this time of the season.

The reports from down the lakes state that the present month will probably witness a falling off in the shipment of coal, for the reason that the docks at the Head of the Lakes are becoming congested, with but little coal going out.

One of the reasons for the small amount of shipments going out from the local docks, as well as the docks at Superior, is that there is some coal in the country, and also dealers are hesitating to order early because of the poor outlook for the crops in the two Dakotas and the West in general.

However, the majority of the dock managers at the Head of the Lakes are authority for the statement that the docks here can handle considerably more coal. The statement was also made by several dock managers today that shipping from the docks is expected to increase the present month, which will relieve any of the docks which are in the least congested.

Speaking generally, it is not believed that the docks will have to refuse coal because they are congested.

SAND IN THE SLIP.

Consolidated Elevator Company Brings Suit.

The Consolidated Elevator company filed a complaint with the clerk of the district court this morning in which it demands judgment to the extent of $1,975 against the Stewart Transportation company for damages alleged to have been made to the slip north of elevator "B," in the local harbor on Nov. 16, 1909, when the defendant's steamship, A. E. Stewart, entered that slip while attempting to approach a coal dock nearby. The elevator company avers that the vessel's propellor was so low, and was operated so violently that sand and gravel was thrown into this slip, to such an extent that it required redredging. No answer has been filed by the steamship company.

DELAYED SIX HOURS BY THE FOG.

Owing to the heavy fog yesterday at the Soo and on the lakes, the Juniata, which was scheduled to arrive at 8 o'clock in the morning, was delayed and did not enter the local harbor until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. She had a large passenger list, and the many friends awaiting visitors coming on the boat were considerably disturbed over her failure to arrive on time. Other boats at the eastern end of the lake were also delayed.

WILL INCREASE FORCE.

Good Progress on Plant at Mouth of Poplar River.

J. P. Rossland, secretary-treasurer of the National Power & Paper company, the concern that is building a big pulp, paper and power plant near the mouth of the Poplar river in Lake county, is going to Lockport in the morning with a force of men that will be put to work on the concrete dock now being constructed there. The thirty men he will take up with him will double the force now employed on the work. Mr. Rossman isn't inclined to talk much about the progress being made, but he makes it plain that the company officials are satisfied with the speed that has been made and that they expect to see the whole enterprise take on definite form before snow flies.

SIX QUARTS IN HIS PECK

Peddler Is Arrested on Complaint of the City Sealer.

Mike Lapante, a peddler, was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by Sealer of Weights and Measures George Duren on the charge of using a 6-quart measure for a peck, thus cheating his customers of two quarts every time he sold them an alleged peck of vegetables.

He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried in police court Monday afternoon.

Mr. Duren states that he is determined to see that the people of the city get all that is coming to them when they buy anything that is sold by the measure. He declares that all peddlers and others who do not use measures which comply with the ordinance will be arrested. He thinks that they had plenty of time in which to make the necessary changes and from now on will adopt strenuous tactics to compel them to live up to the law.

Pasting Labels on Tin.

The reason that labels will curl off from metal surfaces is because the paste will contract in drying. If this shrinkage can be eliminated, the labels will stick on tin plates as well as any other surface. When you are fatigued or run down, try a glass of Golden Grain Belt beer. If taken regularly at meal time or just before retiring will build up the entire system, enrich the blood and do away with that tired feeling that comes during the warm weather. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

BELIEVE NEGRO IS MURDERER

Toledo, O., Aug. 4.—Believing the slayer of Sheriff Edmund Dull is in custody, the residents of Monroe, Mich., have given up the man hunt. Dull died yesterday. The search for the murderer was abandoned this morning when it became known that William Harris, the second negro suspect in the Monroe jail, had been identified by a number of persons as the man who shot the sheriff.

Travis Wilson, a negro arrested in Flint Tuesday in connection with the case, is still in custody, but it is thought his release will be ordered soon.

Excitement continues to run high.

HURT IN WRECK; WANTS $10,000

Passenger On Northern Pacific Coast Train Sues for Damages.

The case started by A. D. Goodman against the Northern Pacific Railway company in which he demands $10,000 for injuries alleged to have been received on Aug. 14 last year, when he was a passenger on one of the defendant's trains, was taken up before Judge Dibell of the district court this morning, and will be continued tomorrow.

Mr. Goodman claims that on Aug. 13, 1909, he started from this city to Tacoma, Wash., going by way of the Northern Pacific. On the following day, he claims, the train stopped at Clear Lake, Minn., before arriving at the station, and while standing on the track, a freight train collided with it.

In the wreck, he claims he was seriously injured, most of these being confined to his back. He believes that the injuries are permanent, and that instead of improving he will continue to get worse.

The company enters a general denial. Mr. Goodman is represented by Theodore Hollister, while Oscar Mitchell of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell is appearing for the railway company.

WIND MAY SPOIL PITTSBURG MEET

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 4.—Unless the air currents which have been more or less boisterous over Brunot's Island for the last twenty-four hours become more calm before 6 o'clock, Pittsburgers may not have their first opportunity to see airship contests.

Glenn H. Curtiss of Hammandsport, N. Y., entered in all of the three days events, arrived this morning. A stated program for the flights has not yet been announced.

SALE OF WOODLAND LOTS RESEMBLES LAND OPENING

THE LINE IN WAITING TO BUY LOTS.

One of the most novel real estate sales ever held in Duluth resulted last evening in the sale of about eight solid blocks in Colman's addition, near Woodland.

The rush to purchase the lots greatly resembled a government land opening, for there were squatters on the ground, squatters' rights were observed by other prospective purchasers and the rush to the sale tent immediately after the opening kept G. A. Ingram, who had charge of the sale, and his assistants, busy for several hours.

An evening sale has never before been attempted in Duluth and when Mr. Colman planned it he expected a successful sale. His expectations were more than fulfilled, for the full allotment of property to be sold last night was taken up within a very short time after the opening.

When the selling force arrived on the ground last evening they found that prospective purchasers had preceded them. D. S. Turnbull, his wife and two daughters had gone to the addition Tuesday evening, pitched a small tent on some desirable property and, despite the inclemency of the weather, had remained there all Tuesday night and all day yesterday. When the price tickets and sale tickets were placed on the stakes they took them up and when the sale opened they made the first payment on five fine lots. A representative of Alderman Jordan also camped on the ground all of Tuesday night and all day yesterday and purchased three lots when the sale opened. J. Drycke, foreman at the Hartley farm, purchased eight lots adjoining the farm.

Long Line in Waiting.

When the sale opened there was a long line of prospective purchasers in front of the tent which served as an office. Mr. Colman and his assistants worked as rapidly as possible closing the contracts and they didn't have a minute's leisure time after the sale opened until all of the lots set aside for sale last evening had been disposed of.

"I don't believe the sale will last through the week," said Mr. Colman this morning. "The rush was such last night that I believe one of two evenings more will result in the sale of all of the lots in the addition. We will be on hand every evening until all of the lots are closed out and we expect almost as heavy a rush tonight as we had last night."

Colman's addition is very favorably situated, being near the Woodland car line and within easy access from the city. The streets are all graded and sidewalks have been laid, so that purchasers of lots may go ahead and build their homes in what will soon be a settled addition. Mr. Colman expects that water and gas mains will be extended to the addition soon and that the addition will become one of the most popular residence suburbs in the city.

A few speculators were on the ground last night and desirable lots purchased shortly after the sale opened were later transferred on the payment of small bonuses.

The evening sale was such a novel proposition that a number of real estate men visited the scene and they were surprised at the interest taken and the ready sale with which the lots met. It is probable that the evening sale will become a regular plan in Duluth hereafter as a result of the success of Mr. Colman's innovation.

THE BOULEVARD EDITOR THREATENS TO QUIT COLD

Buried Under an Avalanche of Suggestions for New Name.

From "Roger's Road" and "Patrick's Peak," to "Lucre Ledge."

The "Boulevard editor," resigned nine times today but when the other members of the staff saw the letters stacked up on his desk they immediately remembered pressing business elsewhere.

Many of our old friends stayed in the game. Chicago dropped out but several other towns entered, including Smithville and Brooklyn, N. Y., and "K. E. B." came to bat twice thus fattening up an already healthy slugging average. All names were submitted by card or letter except those which came unsolicited from a man who was knocked off the driveway by a motor car last spring. He kindly volunteered the names, "Robbers' Roost," "Holdup Highway," "Lucre Ledge," "Demon's Delight," and other appellations conveying various gently concealed suggestions. He was introduced to the office bouncer.

Illustrious citizens, dead and alive, received merited attention. E. H. Smith, in his plea for "Rogers Road," or "Rodgers Ridge," said: "Col. W. K. Rogers was, I believe, the father of the scheme and the most incessant worker in the building of the boulevard. Won't some old fish eater please stand up and tell the present populace more of the work of Col. Rogers twenty to twenty-five years ago in his successful efforts to build a road over the ridge that was by some supposed to be the lake shore during the glacial period? I have often thought while enjoying this drive that something should be done to commemorate the man who did so much in the city's behalf. Let me suggest, therefore, 'Rogers Road,' or 'Rodgers Ridge,' or give the hint to some chronic christener who can suggest a name that will pay a tribute to Col. Rogers' good work."

"McKinley Drive" is suggested by William Johnson who also proposes "Twin Lakes Drive," "Willow Grove Road," and "Golden Road." "Jean Du Luth, (whose name was not Jean but Daniel Greysolon) is the subject of a communication by M. Pearson of 3915 West Seventh street. Mr. Pearson suggests the name, "Jean Du Luth Road." A young woman who signs herself, "Stenographer," puts in a good word for Judge J. D. Ensign, one of the judges of the district court, long a citizen of this town. She suggests naming the road for any one of Duluth's well known men. She prefers that it be called after Judge Ensign, however. She suggests also, "Twin Port Drive," and "The Esplanade." George Washington and Abrahaam Lincoln get a show for place from Hugh Lyle of Wyoming, Minn. Mr. Lyle is not partisan, however, and thinks the name of any man who has figured prominently in American history will do. He does not mention the name of this country's most distinguished faunal naturalist, however. He thinks Young America will be more inclined to study the history of this nation if the boulevard gets a name suggestive of a person who has performed a great service for his country.

J. J. Hill Scores.

Our old friend, Jim Hill, scores when George A. Wieland suggests "The James J. Hill Drive." Mr. Wieland thinks Mr. Hill would not object to the use of his name in this connection. F. A. Patrick, president of the park board, who, by the way, will have some strenuous work next week when he prepares to consider the bunch of names that The Herald will hand him, is favored by Claus J. Johnson of Smithville, Minn. Mr. Johnson gets into the game with "Patrick's Peak." He also suggests "The Tuxedo Drive."

Another supporter of the late Col. Rogers is A. M. Gow who turns from engineering projects on the Mesaba long enough to write, "There is only one pre-eminently proper and appropriate name and that is 'Rogers Road.' Send on the 'tenner.'" "Sellwood Drive," is suggested by Marie Chambers, A-4, St. Regis apartments. She also suggests "Jean Du Luth Drive." "Twin Ports' Driveway," "Birds-Eye View Drive," and "Aerial Driveway." The rock of Gibraltar comes to the mind of W. Dunbar, who suggests "Gibraltar," "Brae View," "Pike's Peak," "Hill Top," "Lovers Lane," "Mobile Drive," "Port View," and "Summit." He thinks Brae View would make a hit with the Scottish clans.

Kitty Hall of Lakeside who owns to having seen nine summers thinks "Kitchi Gammi Drive," would be about the nicest name that the park board could suggest. Kitty knows what she would do with that $10, too.

M. N. Youngblood is satisfied with the name, "Boulevard," but if it must be changed, call it "Grand View drive," or if something nifty is sought call it "Drive Le Grand. "A writer who signs a communication, "M. K." thinks the present name is satisfactory, that it has a done a good advertising job and ought to preserve its present name.

Miss Margaret O'Connor who suggested "Aerial drive," writes from 21 Palmetto street, Duluth Heights to tell the "Boulevard editor," that she hopes the name will be suitable. Allan Greenfield suggests "Aerial driveway," and presents a brief in support of his motion.

The names suggested by A. L. Norberg conjure up early impressions of Old Man Neptune with his crown and three pronged fork. Maybe the names do not influence you that way, but then you haven't been reading a thousand letters, more or less. Mr. Norberg suggests "The Crowned Head of the Lakes Drive," and "The Drive on the Crowned Head of the Lakes." Well?

GRANTS LONG FRANCHISE.

East Grand Forks Council Gives Street Railway Concession.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — The East Grand Forks council has granted the Grand Forks Street Railway company a fifty-year franchise. The manager of the street railway company says the line will be extended here at once.

The Polk county auditor notified the council that the county board had passed a resolution asking every city and village where saloons are allowed to pay 10 per cent of the liquor license money to county treasurers, as required by law. No action was taken on the communication tonight, but the council will undoubtedly pay the money due this year, amounting to something like $2,400.

JURY CUTS FIRST AWARD

Soo Line Must Pay Northern Pacific $2,250, Is Verdict.

Commissioners Had Fixed Compensation for Crossing at $4,000.

By a verdict returned this morning, a jury in United States court decided that the Northern Pacific Railway company may collect $2,250 from the Duluth & Thunder Bay Railway company, a subsidiary of the Soo line, as damages for a crossing to be maintained by the Soo road over the Northern Pacific tracks for two years, pending the erection of an overhead approach to the city.

The verdict is a reduction of the award of the commissioners, who decided that the Northern Pacific should receive $4,000 as compensation. The Soo subsidiary appealed from the award of the commissioners and the case was tried before a jury.

By judgment of the court some time ago, the Soo line, through its subsidiary, may enter Duluth, crossing Northern Pacific tracks and property for two years while an overhead crossing is being constructed. The question of compensation was submitted to a commission. At the hearing before the commissioners and again at the trial in court, the Soo line attorneys contended that the Northern Pacific should have no compensation, principally because the entrance of the Soo road to the city is a public undertaking of benefit to the community.

The Northern Pacific contended that the necessity for stopping at the crossing would impair the capacity of its terminals and would require the use of an extra switch engine and the employment of a crew during the time the Soo tracks cross its tracks in entering the city.

The case was the last of the jury trials at the July term of court. The court calendar is exceptionally heavy and Judge Morris will probably take up the court cases immediately.

The couple were soon to have been wedded.

YEAR WITH BROKEN BACK

Cloquet Man Lives Long Time After Receiving Fatal Injury.

After living and suffering for more than fifteen months with a broken back, Andrew Grenier, about 30 years old, died at St. Mary's hospital early this morning.

Grenier was injured at Cloquet in April, 1909, his injuries being such that they were immediately pronounced fatal. He was placed in a hospital at Cloquet and after three or four months there was removed to St. Mary's hospital here. His vitality was wonderful, but he finally succumbed.

He leaves a brother, John Grenier, at Cloquet. The remains were taken to Crawford's undertaking rooms and funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

LUMBER COMPANY LETS OUT WATER

Releases Stored Supply Along River So as to Float Its Logs.

Floodwood, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to float its logs that are hung up along the St. Louis, White Face and Cloquet rivers because of low water, the Northern Lumber company has opened the dams holding water along those streams and all of the streams have risen in consequence.

Crews of men have been stationed at these rapids to keep the material going in an effort to prevent a jam.

If the Northern Lumber company is successful in bringing the drive down, the Coolidge-Schussler company will follow with a large drive of ties, posts, telegraph poles and pulpwood.

It's Finer and Better Than Powder, They Say

"If you want a really and truly good complexion beautifier," writes Amy Lester in Fashion Helps, "try the latest New York idea. It is home-made and drys so quickly you can put on your gloves immediately after applying—something hitherto unheard of in face lotions.

"Get from your druggist two ounces of amarol, in the original 2-ounce package, put into a pint of warm water, shake the bottle thoroughly and let stand over night. When applied to face, forearms and hands it gives a smooth and delicate texture to the skin and does away altogether with the greasy appearance that is so difficult for many to overcome.

"An application of amarol is different from any other artificial aid to beauty: it is dainty and delicate and can not be detected—seems most 'natural'—and longer withstands attacks of wind, dust, soot and smoke."

A Satisfying Food.

Healthy appetite calls for the simple food elements that supply the natural requirements.

Healthy appetite is satisfied when the proper kind and amount of food is taken into the body at stated intervals. But the wiles of the modern chef and caterer have created in most of us a false and often unnatural appetite which leads into all the different degrees of indigestion, dyspepsia, etc.—food insanity.

Grape-Nuts

is a satisfying food—it is composed of the natural elements to satisfy the natural appetite and restore order in the digestive machinery which may nave been thrown out of gear by improper though often "fashionable" foods.

The crisp, firm, "nutty" granules of Grape-Nuts make honest mastication necessary. Its wholesome flavour makes it appetizing, and the albumens, carbohydrates and Potassium Phosphate from the whole wheat and barley, makes it a satisfying food—both to the sense of taste and to the body needs.

Ten days' trial will convince any one that

Du Pont Powder Concern Near Hibbing Expected to Operate By Jan. 1.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—City Engineer Al Dyer is laying out lines for the new bridge which will be built across the Winston-Dear tracks east of the city. The road which was built for the accommodation of the residents living in the different mining locations, is now completed and is about one and a half miles long.

Several buildings for the DuPont Powder plant being built at Wilpin, several miles east of Hibbing, have been finished, and basements are being constructed for twenty more buildings which are expected to be erected and finished by the first of the year. Victor DuPont of Wilmington, O., will make his headquarters at Wilpin until the plant is completed, which will be about the first of the year, when it is expected the plant will start.

GILBERT HOPES TO OWN SYSTEM

Expects Eventually to Acquire Proposed Electric Lighting Plant.

Gilbert, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposed franchise for the Gilbert Home Electric & Heating company had its first reading at the meeting of the village council. It has a five-year clause giving the city the option of buying the plant at a reasonable figure at the end of that time. The promoters intend to have the stock in the company subscribed by local men, so as to make the company a home affair. The Eveleth Electric company and the Virginia Light & Water company applied for franchises two years ago, but were put off as a municipal plant was expected to be built. Now the sewer is occupying the whole attention of the village officials, and they cannot build an electric plant in the present financial condition of the town. The electric lights are now being secured from the Gilbert mine, although many of the business men have their own gasoline plants.

Laying the mains all over town is almost complete. The Oliver Iron Mining company is putting in the mains in the Sparta addition in accordance with their agreement when the residents were moved from Sparta to Gilbert, to furnish them with water. For a time it is expected that the $25,000, which was the amount to be used for the town by the mining company would also be sufficient for an electric lighting plant, but that idea has faded.

GOES IN BATHING THEN WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Thomas Hughes Expires Suddenly on Shore of Sugar Lake.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The exertion she went through while bathing in Sugar lake, about fourteen miles north of here, probably caused the death of Mrs. Thomas Hughes, who died very suddenly Tuesday, after bathing in the lake. Her husband told the authorities that she got up in the morning, and attended to her household duties as usual. He left for town in the forenoon, and on his return he learned that Mrs. Hughes had worked about the house until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when she and a little girl, who was staying with her had gone in bathing.

Her Son Witnesses Death.

Her son and another boy were sailing in a sail boat on the lake not far away. They saw Mrs. Hughes go to shore, sit on a log near shore, and then fall over forward on her face. She laid there until picked up, dead, as soon as they could get to shore.

Mrs. Hughes was 43 years of age. She was born in Germany, coming to this country at the age of 5. She has been married fifteen years, during all of which time she has resided with her husband on the Hughes homestead at Sugar lake. She leaves beside her husband a son 15 years of age.

The funeral was held from St. Joseph's Catholic church.

FLIES ARE BLAMED FOR THE EPIDEMIC

Insects Alleged to Have Caused Much Sickness Among Chisholm Children.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unusual number of deaths are occurring at present among the children of the foreign-speaking people in and around Chisholm. Annie Wester, the 2½-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wester, was buried yesterday. The child was of Finnish parentage. Edwin Matt Saari, the 5½ months-old child of Gus Saari, also Finnish was buried today. A death also occurred in the Ula family, Austrian people living in one of the locations adjoining town. Their little boy Louis, 6 months of age, died on Monday and was buried yesterday.

The chief cause of the prevailing sickness among the children seems to be brought about by the unusual number of flies noticeable during the month of July. These pests lodging on the nipples of the bottles of the nursing babies leave filth and disease in their tracks, and nursing children fall easy victims to the contagion. The result is that a complicated form of intestinal troubles develop, which prove in not a few cases, incurable.

Chisholm Brief Notes.

The Five Hundred club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. I. Lewis on Chestnut street. The chief prize carried off today was won by Mrs. Jones of the Monroe location. Today's meeting is the last gathering of the club for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayes and family, who have been spending the last month at the summer resort near Sturgeon lake, came back to town on Monday. The entire family were so pleased over the facilities that Sturgeon lake offers for boating and fishing, that Mr. Hayes intends to erect a summer cottage in the vicinity next season.

DULUTHIAN IS GIVEN CONTRACT

E. A. Dahl Will Do Nashwauk Paving and Lay Cement Walks.

Nashwauk, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council met Monday evening to consider the bids for paving Central avenue. E. A. Dahl of Duluth received the contract to pave the streets and putting in curbing and walks. Mr. Dahl's bid was the lowest, $7,936.50. The cement walks will be put in at the rate of 15 cents per square foot and the curbing and gutter work at 90 cents per square foot. This job will be started before Aug. 20 and must be finished by Nov. 1.

The work of building the Great Northern spur by John Runquist, a contractor of Duluth, is progressing rapidly. This property is located one mile from the village on the old cemetery site, and a mine is expected to be opened there this fall. The new road runs southwest from the property, joining the Hawkins Mining company's track, just above the Great Northern depot.

WILFUL INTENT NOT ESTABLISHED

Buhl Man, Accused of Technical Law Violation, Is Given Freedom.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case against Alex Renlund, who was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of embezzling public funds, was dismissed in the district court, after a hearing, the testimony establishing that Mr. Renlund was not wilfully guilty of the charges preferred against him.

Mr. Renlund, acting as a justice of the peace of the village of Buhl, had collected certain monies which he turned over to the village instead of turning them into the state. The evidence produced warranted Judge Hughes in instructing the jury in returning a verdict in favor of the defendant.

NO FAVORITISM.

Mayor Saari Reiterates That He Will Enforce All Laws.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)——Seranaded by the band last night, Mayor Saari, who was chosen by the city council Tuesday evening, reiterated what he said at the council meeting about enforcing the law. Thanking the band and citizens for their felicitations, the mayor said:

"Any man ought to feel proud to be the mayor of Eveleth. We have got a good prosperous city here, and it is getting better and more prosperous each day. I believe the time is coming when Eveleth will be the metropolis of the range. To accomplish this we must work in harmony, just as the band in front of us is working in harmony to give us such delightful music. As to the enforcement of the laws I will say to you as I said at the council meeting last night: They will be impartially enforced. There will be no favorites. No citizen will be persecuted, but every one will be expected to show a reasonable regard for the laws of the state and the ordinances of the city."

Weapons Used Are Knives, Both Being Cut and Then Arrested.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Korpela and Mat Matson got into an altercation on Mesaba avenue this morning and knives were the predominating weapons used in the mixup. Both men were badly cut up. Korpela received several cuts on the head and a long gash on the leg. Matson received a number of ugly cuts on the left arm, but neither man is in immediate danger.

The fight was the result of a drunken row. Both are under arrest and will be arraigned before Judge Carey later.

MURDER OF THREE LAID TO JAP BOY

known to have had a violent quarrel with Thomas Kendall, manager of the place, who is said to have beaten and shot at the boy.

Had Fight With Kendall.

The ranch on which the Kendall family was slain is owned by Mrs. Margaret Starbuck, wife of a prominent Oakland architect, who resides in this city. On Monday, July 25, Yamagachi called at the Starbuck home and told Mrs. Starbuck that he had had a fight with the elder Kendall and son. On the same day a guest at the summer resort visited the cabin and came upon Yamagachi crawling out from under a couch with an open knife in his hand. The Japanese immediately left the cabin, but he was seen on the ranch again the next day.

A few days ago, neighbors, noting that nothing had been seen of the Kendalls for more than a week, called the attention of the authorities to the matter. Yesterday Sheriff J. K. Smith, with two court officials, visited the place.

Bones and Wedding Ring.

No light was shed upon the mystery until the kitchen stove was opened. In the ashes of the grate fragments of bones were found. A light trail of cinders led from the stove through the door to the yard. Following this trail to a point some distance from the house the searchers came upon an ash pile, which was found to contain a large number of human bones and several blackened pieces of jewelry, among which was a plain gold wedding ring with the initials T. A. K.

In another ash pile were found pieces of human skulls, a pair of gold spectacles and charred bones. Lying on the grass nearby was a breast pin that held a minature of Thomas Kendall and which was identified as having been worn by Mrs. Kendall.

Found Blood-Stained Stone.

A heavy stone covered with blood, which lay in an adjoining garden, under a fence, is thought to have been the death instrument.

District Attorney Clarence F. Lea believes two, or possibly three, men were implicated in the murders.

Enoch Kendall was 60 years old, his wife 55 and their son about 21. Quarrels between the Kendalls and the owner of the land were frequent. Mrs. Starbuck frequently sought injunctions to prevent the sale of livestock, and had asserted, it is said, her intention to oust the tenants from the place.

Regarding the missing Japanese, Mrs. Starbuck has made a statement to District Attorney Lea. She says that Yamagachi had secured permission to go upon the ranch and cut tamarack.

"About two weks ago," she said, "the boy came to my home in Oakland and told me Kendall had attacked him. He threatened to kill himself and acted so strangely that I called up the chief of police of Oakland and asked him to look after the boy. When I went to resume my talk with the Japanese he had gone and I have not seen him since."

repotred yesterday that Dew would go to Niagara Falls today.

Not Allowed to Shave.

Crippen has changed much in facial expression since Monday. He is not allowed to shave and a four-day growth of beard gives him quite a different look. The jail governor, Joseph Morin, said the precautions against an attempt at self-destruction were so strict that the prisoner would neither be allowed to have a razor nor even be trusted in the hands of the jail barber.

The rumors of statements made by Crippen as to the crime with which he is jointly charged with Miss Leneve have reached here usually from Montreal, New York and London. In each instance they sent the correspondents scurrying from one provincial officer to another. Nothing in confirmation could be learned.

Thinks Woman Innocent.

Roselle, N. J., Aug. 4.—"The infatuation of Ethel Clara Leneve and Dr. Crippen had nothing to do with the disappearance of his wife. I am sure of that, and I was intimate in their home life. If he killed Belle Elmore, it was in a fit of ungovernable temper over some petty quarrel. Belle was never jealous to my knowledge. Her husband admired her, took pains to serve her smallest wishes, and was genuinely fond of her. I believe Ethel Leneve came into the story later."

Such is the opinion of Mrs. Fred Ginnett, a close friend of the Crippens, who has just returned to her home here after identifying both Crippen and his companion at Quebec. An associate with Belle Elmore in the London Theatrical Benefit society, of which they were both officers, Mrs. Ginnett was among the first to distrust the death notice of her friend appearing in the London papers. She suspected a hidden tragedy, and although in this country, her activity in forcing her suspicions on the London police was largely responsible for the investigation set on foot by Scotland Yard, which first gave Dr. Crippen alarm.

Opinions Command Attention.

Since coming to this country she has kept in continuous touch with the little circle of intimates who were welcome at the home in Hill Drop Crescent, and she speaks from their knowledge as well as her own. Therefore, her opinions command attention, although they differ from those hitherto advanced.

"I believe Ethel Leneve is absolutely innocent of any criminal knowledge of how Belle Elmore came to her death," continued Mrs. Ginnett. "I believe the doctor missed his wife after he killed her, and that he truned, as a lonely man often will do, to the woman who had been associated with him in business. Certainly she showed her willingness to make sacrifices for him. Few women would cut off their hair and go through the constant humiliation of daily masquerade in ill-fitting, unbecoming garments for any man."

to the throne of Spain, and Republicans. One of the Republican faction was wounded with a knife.

The police charged the crowds and dispersed them.

Demonstrations Are Prohibited.

Madrid, Aug. 4.—A renewed and formal prohibition of the proposed manifestation of the clerical forces at San Sebastian, next Sunday, was issued today by the minister of the interior. The organizers of the demonstration persist in their plans.

The clerical press publish today further articles of extreme violence against the government. The organizers of the anti-governmental demonstration have, in circular letters to the clergy, urged them to incite their congregations to refuse obedience to the prohibition of the demonstration.

The civil authorities are considering prosecutions of the organizers of the proposed Catholic manifestation.

ITCHING, BLEEDING ECZEMA WAS CURED

By Cuticura After 5 Years of Suffering Beyond Description — Thought Death was Near — Calls Cure Wonderful.

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with itching and bleeding eczema, until I was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am so grateful I want the world to know, for what helped me will help others. My body and face were covered with sores. One day it would seem to be better, and then break out again with the most terrible pain and itching. I have been sick several times, but never in my life did I experience such awful suffering as with this eczema. I had made up my mind that death was near at hand, and I longed for that time when I would be at rest. I had tried many different doctors and medicines without success, and my mother brought me the Cuticura Remedies, insisting that I try them. I began to feel better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment.

"I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and have taken four bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and consider myself well. This was nine years ago and I have had no return of the trouble since. Any person having any doubt about this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies can write to my address. Mrs. Altie Etson, 93 Inn Road, Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 16, 1909."

Cuticura affords the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp, from infancy to age. A cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

MISSING MAN WANDERING

Letters Written By M. J. Ryan at Different Points Received.

Believed to Be Trying to Escape From Imaginary Pursuer.

M. J. Ryan, superintendent of the Lake Avenue Bethel, who disappeared a month ago without leaving a clue as to his whereabouts, is evidently wandering about the United States or Canada in an effort to escape an imaginary pursuer, according to the Bethel authorities.

They state that his mind is undoubtedly unbalanced, basing their opinion upon three letters which he has sent them from as many different places. The first was from Minneapolis, where he was confined in a hospital for a time; the second from a town in Dakota, and the last from Winnipeg, Can. In each of them he indicates that he is suffering from the hallucination that some one is after him, for what reason he doesn't seem to know.

In the first letter he says that he doesn't know how he got to the hospital. He asks, "What did I do this for? Am I crazy?" In another he says that he will take good care of his wife and child and tells them not to worry.

Efforts have been made by Mrs. Ryan to get into direct communication with her husband. She went to Minneapolis to look for him, but her quest was fruitless. She has also written several letters, but as far as can be ascertained, he has received none of them.

Mrs. Ryan doesn't like to have the police requested to take him into custody. She firmly believes if she can succeed in getting a letter to him it will bring him back to his senses and that he will come back to his family in this city. She is greatly worried over his strange disappearance and letters.

The manner in which he is traveling is something of a mystery. His letters are printed on good stationery from apparently first-class hotels. But he had only $50 when he went, leaving a considerable sum behind for his wife. He has not been in any one place scarcely long enough to earn any large sum of money.

WILL MEET IN DULUTH

State Bar Association Picks This City for 1911 Meeting.

Resolution Favoring Larger Supreme Court Is Adopted.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota's supreme court will be enlarged to eight associate justices, instead of five, as at present, if the state bar association is strong enough to bring about the required constitutional amendment. Duluth was chosen as the place of the convention of 1911.

In the presence of four members of the supreme bench, the association, at the open session today of its three days' convention, went squarely on record for a larger supreme court membership, the following resolution, offered by N P. Clapp of St. Paul, being adopted:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Minnesota Bar association that the state Constitution be amended so that the legislature may provide one chief justice and not more than eight associate justices, and that the association's committee on jurisprudence and law reform draft and present to the next session of the legislature an amendment to the Constitution."

Would Change Appeal Code.

This action was taken after Calvin L. Brown of the supreme court had outlined to the members the work of the supreme court.

Another important action at the morning session was the adoption of a resolution from W. R. Duxbury of St. Paul, pledging the association to work for an amendment permitting appeals from municipal courts to district courts, instead of the supreme court, as is now the case.

The death roll of the association was read as follows: Judge Thomas Wilson, William Pitt Murray and Warren H. Mead, St. Paul; Thomas Lowry and James Corrigan, Minneapolis. D. Geddes, Mankato; Judge James O'Brien, Caledonia, and J. E. Chamberlain, International Falls.

Library Is Increased.

Henry B. Wenzel and George Simpson, reporting for the committee on library, reported that during the year the state law library had been increased by 2,295 volumes, making a total of 65,201 volumes.

This afternoon no business session is being held.

MAN DIES AT THE POOR FARM

Little Known of Edward Horum Sent Down From Buhl.

Edward Horum died this morning at 2 o'clock at the poor farm, after having been brought there but a few hours before from Buhl. When he arrived at the poor farm hospital he was in a dying condition, and nothing could be done for him. It was even impossible to secure any history of his case, which added to the difficulty that the poor farm physician had in giving treatment.

He was sent here by Dr. A. W. Shaw of Buhl, but when he left his condition is said not to have been serious. Word has been sent to Dr. Shaw asking for information regarding the man, and for further identification.

THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL FOR BEATING HORSES.

Aaron West, arrested yesterday afternoon at West Duluth on a charge of misusing a team of horses which he was driving while hauling a load of gravel on Raleigh street, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail this afternoon in the West Duluth justice court before Judge J. B. Flack. He was given the option of a $25 fine but refused to pay it.

WET BLANKET.

Chicago News: "I've just about concluded," said the retired merchant, "to buy a small farm a few miles from town and raise fine thoroughbred hogs. The Hoglot Herald tells of a man who cleared $12,000 from hogs last year; and he has only eighty acres of land."

"I don't believe there ever was such a man," replied the hotelkeeper, "but if he really does live you can bank on it that he has been raising hogs all his life and knows the business from one end to the other. If there's any one thing that requires a fine technical education it is hog raising. I tried it myself.

"I read a lot of those swine papers and got the idea that all a man had to do in order to get rich was to buy a few hogs and watch them putting on fat. I sent away for a lot of hogs. I want to call your attention to the fact that I sent away for them. Whenever a man goes into the fine-stock business he always insists upon buying his critters from a stranger in some distant town.

"When I went into the hog business I couldn't make up my mind for a long time what breed I wanted. First, I thought I'd try the Rhode Island reds—".

"Rhode Island reds are hens, not hogs," interrupted the old liveryman. "I suppose you mean Jersey reds."

"I meant Jersey reds," went on the hotelkeeper, impatiently. "Then I was attracted by the Chester whites, and later by the polled Angus—"

"The polled Angus is a cow, not a hog," remarked the old liveryman. "A polled Angus cow has no horns."

"Neither has a polled Angus hog any horns," said the hotelkeeper, irritably. "I finally decided in favor of Poland Chinas and sent to a breeder about 2,000 miles away for several pedigreed animals. Of course, I realized that it would have been better to buy them 3,000 miles away, but I was in a sort of a hurry to begin operations.

"The hogs were shipped to me in crates and when they arrived they all had broken legs and broken ribs. Well, I fed those blamed hogs for a year and sat up nights fanning them and reading poetry to them, and then I had some young ones for sale. I advertised them in the local papers and thought there would be such a crowd on hand to buy them that special police would have to be sworn in to preserve order. A few people came around, but it seemed that none of them wanted Poland Chinas. If my hogs only had been Berkshires or Essex or Buff Cochins—"

"They're roosters, too, doggone it," returned the hotelkeeper, hotly. "Well, as I was saying, I could have sold any quantity of hogs if they had only been Jersey reds or razorbacks or Ben Davises—"

"Ben Davises are apples,' said the old liveryman.

"I see there's going to be a scrap before I am done," shouted the hotelkeeper. "Nobody wanted my Poland Chinas. So I finally had to feed them about a million bushels of corn and sell them on the open market just as if theye were scrubs.

"That's what the amateur stockman is always up against. I don't care what sort of stock you raise. It's always the wrong kind when you want to sell it."

BRAND PAYNE LAW FAILURE

Iowa Republicans Adopt Progressive Platform at Convention.

Document Gives Warm Praise to Hawkeye State Insurgents.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 4.—Republican Iowa wrote herself vigorously progressive at the convention yesterday. The session was in an uproar most of the time. Senators Cummins and Dolliver and the insurgent delegation at Washington were enthusiastically indorsed.

The new tariff law was branded as a failure in the light of the party pledge of 1908.

President Taft received the most tepid of luke-warm indorsements.

A sop of harmony was flung out in the indorsement of the administration of Governor Carroll.

Put Brake on "Steam Roller."

An attempt to use the "steam roller" to make the state central committee overwhelmingly progressive was called off, presumably at the hint of Senator Cummins.

Senator Cummins was temporary chairman; Senator Dolliver permanent chairman. The progressive majority ranged close to 300 on every question. The resolutions committee was progressive, six to five.

The foregoing is a synopsis of the day's events. To it may be added cheers and jeers, applause and hisses, music and howls of discord.

Undo Diverting Incident.

The appearance and disappearance of the "steam roller" was one of the diverting incidents of the day. It came about through the insistence of the stand-pat members of the platform committee in demanding an unqualified indorsement of the Taft administration, the legislative acts of the "regulars," the hostility to Cummins and Dolliver. It was determined to exert a little pressure just to show the minority who is running Republican politics in Iowa.

The primary law, which provides that members of the state central committee shall be chosen by the convention, was fastened upon as the means to this end. It was proposed to disregard the caucus selections of the First and Ninth districts, which are stand-pat, and to have the convention substitute progressives in their places.

Byers in the Fight.

Attorney General Byers, as a chauffeur of the "steam roller," brought that engine into view with a motion that the convention proceed to the selection of the state central committeemen. He was opposed by F. T. Prince of Elkader, who demanded that the convention proceed in the old-fashioned way. A motion to postpone action until after the report of the resolutions committee had been received, however, carried on roll call. It was growing dark when this item had been disposed of.

Then, to the surprise of everyone, Chairman Dolliver ordered Chauffeur Byers back to the garage and the caucus nominees were confirmed. This, like the indorsement of Governor Carroll, was a concession to harmony. It was a concession to the candidates who expect to go before the people next fall, and who viewed with alarm the chasm dividing the two factions. Their work in trying to get the delegates together was almost unceasing for forty-eight hours.

The Coliseum, which has seating for 10,000 persons, was about half filled throughout the day. A brass band furnished music, and a picture of Gen. Grant, facing the chairman, was meant as a reminder of the words "Let us have peace."

Effort at Stampede?

What may have been an attempt to stampede the delegates in favor of the stalwart resolutions was made when a Second district delegate—Former Congressman Ellsworth Rominger—hoisted a portrait of the president amid stand-pat cheers. But the other side answered with silence or with jeers.

Later another delegate among the progressives exposed a picture of Col. Roosevelt, occasioning a demonstration. The Taft portrait was again hoisted and the two likenesses held so as to confront each other. The demonstration interrupted a roll call for some minutes.

The stand-pat delegates went down in defeat with their colors riveted to the mast. They fought in every committee where a fight was possible, insisted on roll calls and battled every inch for their principles.

Made Minority Report.

Their resolutions, incorporated in the minority report of the platform committee and voted down by the convention, praised William H. Taft and declared "that during the year and a half of his service as president of the United States, he has fully justified the confidence placed in him by the Republican party." They also congratulated the party and the country "upon the achievements of the administration in constructive legislation, touching railroad regulation, the work of conservation and all matters disclosed in the record," and declared Taft's administration "entitled to the unequivocal support of every Republican."

They indorsed the action of President Taft in approving the tariff bill "passed by the Republican congress in pursuance of the pledges of the Republican party," and concluded:

"We indorse and commend the Iowa delegation in congress for all efforts in support of the administration of President Taft and for such aid and assistance as they have given him in carrying forward his administration and legislative policies."

Read by Hepburn.

Former Congressman Hepburn, his gray hair bristled aggressively in every direction, read the minority report. As the purport of the concluding paragraph became apparent, his voice was drowned in a chorus of jeers, hisses and cat-calls. Again and again he attempted to make himself heard, but it was only after much pounding of the gavel by Senator Dolliver that the veteran legislator was able to conclude. He moved the substitution of the planks for those in the same application in the majority report and the vote was lost 568 to 815.

The whole committee agreed upon the resolutions as adopted with the exception of the minority planks quoted.

Judges Horace E. Deemer and W. D. Evans were re-nominated for the supreme court bench by acclamation. A. M. Deyoe was the choice on second ballot for the state superintendent of public instruction.

Platform as Adopted.

The platform adopted reads as follows:

"The Republicans of Iowa declare to deserve the continued support of the people the party should oppose by every means in its power any political encachments or legislative interference by those who seek to raise extortionate profits through the acquisition of unjust privileges.

"They reaffirm their loyalty to the Republican national platform of 1908 and pledge themselves to do whatsoever they can to carry every part of it into full effect.

"They especially emphasize their long and well settled faith in the Republican doctrine of protection. Its soundness and wisdom are beyond controversy and it ought to be accepted as the established policy of the nation.

On Tariff Revision.

"The last Republican national platform announced with clearness and precision the rules for its application to imports, and when so applied it safeguards equally the interests of labor and capital and promotes equally the welfare of the producer and the consumer. They do not recognize the revision of 1909 as a satisfactory fulfillment of the party promises.

"In order to bring the tariff law into a complete compliance with the rule of the platform it is necessary that the difference between the cost of producing dutiable commodities at home and abroad should be correctly known.

"Therefore, they favor the creation of an independent, non-partisan tariff commission, which shall be the instrumentality of congress to ascertain the difference between the cost of production here and in other countries and publish the facts so that not only congress, but the people, shall be advised of the results of its investigations. Until such a commission is authorized they approve the effort of the president to secure the desired information through a board of experts employed for that purpose.

Each Schedule Separately.

"They profoundly believe that when the tariff is again revised its schedules should be considered separately so that each can be dealt with upon its own merits, and thus secure fair and impartial action upon the part of congress.

"They indorse such efforts as President Taft and his advisers have made to fulfill the promises of the national platform and which have been in harmony with the declarations of this convention.

"They commend to the nation the type of statesmanship exhibited by Senators Dolliver and Cummins and they heartily indorse their work upon the tariff bill, the railroad bill and the postal savings bank bill.

"The patriotic effort of our senators to protect the public rights from the greed of special interests in national legislation has gained the admiration of the country; the attempt to secure the largest measure of equitable revision in the tariff law was a Republican defense of the people's welfare; their insistence determined largely the beneficial features of the railroad law, and it is with pride that the Republicans of Iowa recognize the contribution of their chosen representatives to the welfare of the nation.

Revision of House Rules.

"They commend the action of the house of representatives in revising its rules giving to the individual member a greater freedom of expression and initiative in the discharge of his duty, and they indorse the contributions of Iowa's representatives to this most important reform.

"The Republicans of Iowa are the best judges of the Republicanism of the senators and representatives whom they send to congress, and they resent any attempt to exclude any of them from the honors and privileges which properly attach to membership in the Republican party."

The resolutions favor not only the strict enforcement of the anti-trust law, but favor giving additional strength and scope to the administration of Governor Carroll, and the other state officials are warmly indorsed.

FATHER DENIED CHILD.

Court Grants Grandmother Custody of Young Girl.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 4.—As the result of habeas corpus proceedings started by Charles Brooks of Pound, Wis., to recover his 14-year-old daughter, who has been living for several years with his grandmother, Mrs. William C. Hart of Marquette, an interesting story comes to light, involving a divorce, an alleged abduction, and a legal fight centering about the young girl.

Brooks and his wife were divorced, the mother being given the custody of the child. On her death bed she asked her mother to care for the little one. After the child had lived with her grandmother for several years she was invited to visit her father. He refused to allow her to return. The grandmother took the child back by stealth. Brooks brought an abduction charge against her, but this was dropped. Habeas corpus proceedings were then instituted, the court handing down a decision in favor of the grandmother.

STATE CLEARING HOUSES FOR THE POSTAL BANKS.

Washington, Aug. 4.—A central clearing house in each state for the purpose of settling all matters connected with the payment of interest and the care of accounts is a feature of the postal savings bank system adopted by the committee of officials that will make recommendations to the board of trustees. For a long time the committee faced the necessity of providing some method for the settlement of accounts of depositors in the postal banks that would avoid delay incident to the transmission of all such matters to this city. The idea of having state central clearing houses was discussed at length, and has been adopted as the best solution of that problem.

It is specified merely that at least one of the two shall be built in a government yard. The new ships will be of 27,000 tons displacement and will be larger than the Wyoming or Arkansas, now being built.

HISTORY OF BOULEVARD

W. K. Rogers Was Man Who Planned Duluth's Beautiful Driveway.

Road for Which New Name Is Sought Cost $312,000.

The contest of The Herald to select a suitable name for the renowned driveway known as the boulevard recalls to the minds of the old citizens the name of W. K. Rogers, the originator of the idea.

While he was president of the Duluth park board in 1889 and 1890 he conceived the plan which now is the key of the city's park system and succeeded in seeing his idea successfully carried out. The keynote was the boulevard, connecting Lincoln and Chester parks and skirting the brow of the hills rising steeply back of the city from the water's edge, giving a bird's eye view of the town and harbor, a panorama unexcelled for beauty and majestic scenery.

Duluth's residents at that time had visions of a city of 500,000 people in less than five years. Property was high, and it appears that the cost of the land condemned for the boulevard was in ratio to its length, for $312,000 worth of bonds were issued in 1890 to provide funds for the scheme laid out by Mr. Rogers. Part of them were disposed of in that year and the balance in January, 1891.

After some difficulty the route was laid out, the necessary land secured and the work finished at about the time the boom was reaching its climax. The men who had charge of the construction did their work well, the permanency of the driveway standing as testimony today to the thoroughness with which they carried the project to completion.

With dreams of a metropolis, the same arguments for the park system were used then as today, according to City Treasurer Fred Voss, who has a distinct recollection of the circumstances. He says that the advertising which it would bring to Duluth was emphasized considerably, adding that the claims were undoubtedly true, as he knows of nothing which has proved a greater attraction in Duluth than the boulevard. Thousands of visitors and tourists make it every year and are so deeply impressed that they speak of it wherever they go.

The city is still paying for the bonds issued for the park system at that time. The only park bonds issued since are those sold a year ago for $50,000. It is claimed that had the boulevard not been built when Duluth was experiencing its inflated prosperity, it would not be undertaken today.

BAD CHECKS CRUDELY FORGED

A teamster giving his name as Fred Smith was arrested last night by Patrolmen Walsh and O. Olson, charged with forgery. It is alleged that he put off a number of pieces of bad paper and the police express surprise that he should have been able to pass it, the work was so crudely done. They state that Smith is a green man and they don't believe that he had any previous experience in this line.

It is claimed that he put off checks on J. L. Altman, 507 West Superior street; I. Weller, 310 Lake avenue south, and the Waldorf Shoe company, 313 West Superior street. It is stated that he was trying to pass another on C. Genlein, 717 West Superior street, when apprehended. Each of the checks called for $15. They were drawn on the American Exchange National bank.

When arraigned in municipal court Smith waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE DISCREDITED.

The inadequacy of circumstantial evidence in a murder case is proved in "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," which is being played this week by the Gus A. Forbes stock company at the Lyceum. Incidental to the plot there is a murder, and within just a few minutes half the characters suspect each other of the deed, and circumstances point almost conclusively in each case to innocent persons, and it is not until the last few minutes of the play that the whole matter is cleared up and the real culprit taken off to jail. Although the audience is in the secret from the first, so quickly do matters move that the audience almost forgets who did the murder. Almost every fair-minded person has a prejudice against circumstantial evidence, and this stirring Western play will increase it.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine" will be repeated every evening this week and Sunday evening, with Saturday and Sunday matinees. The play is proving one of the most popular of the splendid list offered during the season by Mr. Forbes.

Next week's bill will be "Charley's Aunt," which has for years been called the finest farce ever written.

THE MOTION PICTURE HOUSES.

The Orpheum and Lyric theaters are atracting big crowds this week, and both are offering good bills for the entertainment of their patrons. The feature pictures at the Orpheum are "The Call to Arms," "Trailed in the Hills," "How Bumptious Papered the Parlor" and "A Vacation in Havana." Miss Nelson sings "Cutey."

At the Lyric the pictures are "The Phoenix," "Two Highland Lads" and "The Thief." Miss Erd sings "When the Yankee Boys Come to Town."

WEST END

WILL CHOOSE A NEW PASTOR

Four Ministers Being Considered By West End Congregation.

After having been without a pastor since the resignation, last December, of Rev. James L. McBride, now of Rogers park, Chicago, the congregation of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will get together Tuesday evening to decide upon a pastor.

There will be four candidates to pick from. They are Rev. E. A. Oldenburg of the East Presbyterian church of St. Paul, who made a very favorable impression, when he spoke here a few weeks ago; Rev. P. J. MacMurray of Mitchell, S. D.; Rev. W. H. McEwen of Rolfe, Ia., and Rev. J. C. Bantley of Kasson, Minn.

Rev. W. H. McEwen spoke at the Second church last Sunday. He is an eloquent preacher and is a man of considerable reputation in Iowa. It is understood, however, that he would not accept a call if one were extended because he does not wish to leave his field in Iowa.

Rev. J. C. Bantley of Kasson, Minn., who will be one of the candidates for the local pastorate is as yet unknown to the congregation. Arrangements have been made, however, to have him occupy the pulpit at the Second church next Sunday.

Rev. J. C. Manson of Detroit, Mich., a former pastor of the church, who intends to spend his vacation in Duluth, will also preach Sunday. He is pastor of the Second Avenue Presbyterian Church of Detroit.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD PICNIC

Duluth and Superior Lodges in Outing at Lincoln Park.

Odd Fellows of the Head of the Lakes are today holding their annual picnic at Lincoln park. Despite the threatening weather a large crowd turned out and the picnic will be known as a successful one among the Odd Fellows.

This afternoon, speeches will be given by Hon. T. W. Hugo and Hon. George B. Hudnall of Superior. A band has been engaged for the afternoon and evening. In the evening there will be a dance in the pavilion.

The sport program, which is being carried out this afternoon includes many features which are popular among the Odd Fellows. A ball game and a tug-of-war contest have been arranged between the Duluth and Superior Odd Fellows.

PAYS $100 FOR SELLING LIQUOR ON SUNDAY.

On a charge of having sold intoxicating liquors on Sunday, Michael E. Cudahy, saloonkeepr at 2232 West Superior street, was fined $100 in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

Cudahy was arrested July 28 and when first brought into court pleaded not guilty. He changed his plea to guilty yesterday and paid his fine.

On Sunday, July 24, several men were seen coming out of the place and the demonstration attracted the attention of the police, who subpoenaed several as witnesses. Three testified against Cudahy.

OUTCASTS AND WHITE SOX GUESTS AT DANCE.

Darby O'Brien and several of the White Sox, together with the members of the La Crosse ball team, were guests of honor last evening at the weekly dancing party of the Adams Athletic association at Lincoln park.

Jack Desmond, one of the new owners of the local ball club, Daby O'Brien, Jimmie Anderson, Rube Marion and Manager Joe Safford and Jack Zalusky of the La Crosse aggregation were among those who gave short talks. Manager John Geistman of the Adams ball team introduced the speakers.

This afternoon the Adams Athletic association will be guests at the ball park at the Duluth-La Crosse ball game.

Picnic at Lester.

The Holy Angels' Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, held its annual picnic today at Lester Park, about fifty young ladies attending the affair. The members of the society took lunches and a spread was given in the park. The day was spent in boating and other picnic sports.

Johnson-Olson.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Johnson and Edward Olson took place at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. H. Olson of 119 North Nneteenth avenue west, last evening, Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, officiating. Miss Emma Erickson and Emanuel Olson attended them. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served, covers being laid for about forty. Mr. and Mrs. Olson will make their home at 2420 West Second street.

Error in Store Ad.

Enger & Olson, the West end house furnishers, are not selling steel ranges at $4.90 as a typographical error in their advertisement in last night's Herald made it appear. The price should have been $14.90. The range is a fine one and usually sells at $28 to $30. The price stated in last night's paper is so ridiculously low that people who know anything about stoves would readily detect the error.

Anderson-Frane.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Anderson to George Frane took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson of 1702 New street. Rev. J. Wilbur Loughridge, pastor of Central Baptist church, performed the ceremony. Miss Mandy Anderson, a sister of the bride, and Edward Stenberg were attendants. They will make their home on Duluth Heights.

Freight Handler Missing.

The police have been asked to help find Joe McDonough, 28 years old, a freight handler, who has been missing from his home since Tuesday noon. His uncle, Martin Raymond of 1905 West First street, with whom he lived, last evening asked the authorities to help locate him.

The Sunday school of Grace M. E. church will hold its annual picnic jointly with the Sunday school of Merritt Memorial M. E. church Friday, Aug. 12, at Fond du Lac. An excursion boat will be taken from the Twenty-first avenue dock in the morning. A program of sports will be held on the picnic grounds in the afternoon.

NAVAL RESERVES FIND FLOATER

Body of Unknown Man Is Found in the Bay.

The crew of the U. S. S. Gopher, which sails tonight for Buffalo, found the body of an unidentified man floating in the bay about 8 o'clock last evening. The crew of the launch towed it to the dock at the Sixth avenue slip, whence it was taken to Crawford's morgue after the coroner had been notified.

The dead man was about 40 years old. He wore black clothes and a plain light shirt without a collar. The hair was brown and mustache rather short and stubby. The police have no reports of any one fitting that description who has been reported missing.

Is Hailed as "Teddy" By the Men and Gets Warm Welcome.

Mothers of Big Families Claim Attention of Ex-President.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 4.—Theodore Roosevelt traveled for 150 miles yesterday among the mountain mining towns in the Wyoming valley. He mingled with people of all stations in life, from the breaker boys who earn a few dollars a week to society women who are spending the summer at Glen Summit Springs, an aristocratic resort perched high upon the mountain above Wilkesbarre. Late last night he started back to Oyster Bay.

The colonel had the same smile for them all, but he made no secret of the fact that his chief delight was in meeting the wage earners who spend their working hours far under the ground. The miners were not embarrassed in his presence, and this pleased him most of all. They treated him as though he had worked side by side with them for years. In all the colonel passed through fifteen towns.

Miners Called Him "Teddy."

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America; Rev. Father J. J. Curran of Wilkesbarre and Rev. Father J. J. O'Donnell of Stowell, Pa., rode in the automobile with him.

At Brookside, the first stop, a group of men, most of them barefooted, stood idly in front of a store and looked up with mild curiosity as the automobile swept by. One of the group, however, recognized Col. Roosevelt and hailed him as "Teddy," by which name he went from morning to night whenever there were miners around. Col. Roosevelt stopped, shook hands all around and chatted for a few minutes.

There was one woman in the crowd who appeared to weigh about 275 pounds. Close by her side was a woman who looked as if she would not tip the beam at 100. The large woman brought up six children, which she said were hers, every one; and she introduced them to the colonel. Then she turned to the small woman and said:

"Ain't He Handsome?"

"Ain't he handsome, Minnie?"

The colonel heard her, but looked as though he did not believe the compliment was meant for him. Then he gave the signal to chauffeur and, amid a chorus of "Good-bye, Teddy," the car shot away.

At Pittston, a town of 10,000, Mrs. Mary Lewis, an elderly woman, pushed through the crowd until she managed to reach the colonel's side.

"I'm the mother of five children," she said.

"Fine! Fine!" Col. Roosevelt exclaimed.

He grasped her hand, hardened by years of heavy work, peered into her faded blue eyes and said:

"Don't you know, my opinion is that the average American is a pretty good citizen, but many times his wife is a better one."

As the automobile moved away, the former president took off his hat to the miner's wife who was the mother of five children.

Pittston made a day of it. The streets were filled with crowds, many of the houses were decorated with flags and children in the streets waved the colors. Everybody cheered as Col. Roosevelt went by.

Forgotten for Mitchell.

At Duryea, which is populated almost entirely by miners, the neat appearance of the settlement pleased Col. Roosevelt immensely. At the home of Mrs. Frank Kowalczeck he found six women already there and a good many others rushed in. As the colonel was about to leave after talking with the women of their home life, he turned to one and, pointing to John Mitchell, who was at his side, he said:

"Do you know who he is? He is John Mitchell."

The woman started as she heard the name of the man who is idolized by so many miners, and then she forgot Col. Roosevelt completely. With a cry she fell on her knees before the miner, clutched his hands and kissed them again and again. Mr. Mitchell raised her to her feet, shook her hand and backed out of the house. For the remainder of the day he kept in the background.

"Roosevelt to Buy."

The next stop was at St. Cecilia school, in the outskirts of Wyoming. Here an extremely amusing incident occurred at a nearby country tavern. A man who apparently had been spending a large part of the day in the bar room was sleeping on the porch. As the Roosevelt party rode by the bartender rushed out, gazed at the travelers and then shook the sleeper.

"Hey, wake up!" he shouted. "Roosevelt's going by."

The reveller rubbed his eyes sleepily and then sprang to his feet.

"Roosevelt going to buy?" he called out gladly, and he ran into the bar room. His disappointment was great when the colonel did not stop.

Returning to Wilkesbarre, Col. Roosevelt had luncheon with Father Curran and forty other priests, and resumed his investigations at 3 o'clock. At Kingston, the first stop, the crowd in the streets was so dense they frequently halted the automobile. At Avondale the colonel spent the happiest moments of the day. The population consists chiefly of children and they gathered about him in clusters.

Saw the Mother of Twelve.

Little Annie McLaughlin rushed up breathlessly.

"My mamma wants you to come right in and see her," she cried. "She has got twelve children."

The distinguished foe of race suicide grasped his hat and hastened to the little house. Mrs. McLaughlin was ready for him, and in proof of her assertion she produced seven children of various ages. The other five were not at home and she begged the colonel's pardon.

On the table in the parlor was a book, the title of which was printed in gilt letters on the cover. It read: "The Life of Theodore Roosevelt, the Intellectual Giant." The colonel picked up the book and said he was in no way responsible for it.

Wanted Him to Play.

One of Mrs. McLaughlin's children insisted that the colonel play the piano.

"I can't," he protested.

As the party had climbed into the automobile a breaker boy came up at full speed.

"Stop, stop," he cried, breathlessly. "There is a woman down the street who has got eighteen children and she wants to see you."

But it was getting late and Col. Roosevelt had to proceed without seeing her.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Never Known to Fail.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. For sale by all druggists.

A BEAUTIFUL FORM WOMAN'S GREATEST CHARM

"A beautiful form is woman's greatest charm," said Prof. Walton, instructor in anatomy, "and where Nature has been lax in this direction it is necessary to lend proper assistance. Many advocate local applications to round out a scrawny neck or under-developed bust, but external treatment does not go to the source, and of course, cannot accomplish much. The most successful method, I find, is the Vaucaire treatment introduced into France many years ago, and its use by la dame Parisian is the real secret of her possessing such a ravishing figure. The basis of this preparation is gallol, which can be obtained from any drug store. First, make a simple syrup, using one and one-half cups of granulated sugar and enough water to make a pint, and to this add the gallol. Two teaspoonfuls taken twice or three times each day soon produces the desired result, as gallol is a splendid tonic and feeds the shrunken or under-developed parts, rounding out the figure and giving to woman that beautiful form which is rightly hers. Care must be used, however, to see that you get the true gallol."

GOVERNMENT CONTROLS

There is government in everything—that is everything that progresses, and without the application of government, nothing can progress satisfactorily and successfully.

Government means to direct or to control, as the governor of an engine controls the speed thereof, or as the operator of a motor car directs the movements of the car through means of the proper manipulation of the controlling apparatus.

We do not ignore this rule of government in the curing of weak men, and it is through the proper direction of the application—the result of past experience—that we are able to control the curative powers of our remedies. When we apply a remedy, it is always the proper remedy, there's no experimenting.

We spent the best part of our lives in gathering the knowledge which has equipped us for the work we are doing, and our experimental days were spent in the most famous medical colleges and universities of Europe and America.

When electricity is required to aid in accomplishing a cure, we use it. We have a most complete equipment in this line, but electricity alone does not effect cures. However, there's no disputing our unparalleled skill and qualifications for handling all diseases of men with the most gratifying results, and the fact that a chain of men daily pours into our waiting room to await their turn, is proof sufficient that our work is what we claim it to be. They would not come had they not been convinced of our superior ability to cure them.

If you need medical aid, come and let us convince you that we can cure you and if we don't there's no cost to you.

CHEER UP!

It is interesting to read the great variety of opinions expressed in the financial press about what has been the matter with business in this country thus far this year.

It is especially interesting to read these ingenious theories when it is so plain to the ordinary untechnical observer that there isn't a thing the matter with this country except a state of mind.

The only trouble has been that the country, taking its keynote from Wall street, has been undergoing a siege of acute hypochondria.

The hypochondriac, you know, is an unfortunate individual who spends his time studying his symptoms through a microscope. Every trifling ill—and everybody has trifling ills from time to time—grows under his high-power microscope until it assumes all the terrors of a deadly disease. He may, in point of fact, have excellent health and strong endurance, but he tortures his mind and soul by worrying over fancied ailments until he really makes himself sick.

That is what this country has been doing the past year, and only lately, in the glad summer time when life in the open air drives gloomy thoughts away and fresh breezes sweep out the cobwebs from the mind, has the country shown signs of returning sanity.

There isn't a thing the matter, be sure, but a state of mind, which, happily, seems to be passing away.

A man in good health and spirits doesn't let little things bother him. A headache, a slight gastric disturbance, or other trifling ills are thrown off in a day.

But a man obsessed by hypochondria gloats over every little ill, exaggerates it, nurses it, makes the most and the worst of it, and bathes himself in gloom.

So with this country. When optimism is abroad and stocks are climbing, nobody pays any attention to bad news. When pessimism throws its black shadow over the land nobody pays an attention to good news, and bad news is viewed through a microscope. A few weeks ago reports of damage to the spring wheat crop found everybody—nearly—willing to believe the worst. Only a few discounted the alarming news, and bade others wait for the harvest. Among these, it is proud to say, was The Herald.

Now, apparently, the country is shaking off its plague of pessimism. Matters, it seems, are not so bad after all. There has been crop damage, but there always is crop damage. Nowhere is it so bad as the pessimists painted it. Business, it is discovered on closer examination, has been pushing ahead pretty vigorously. There are so many conflicting views about what has been the matter that it is becoming pretty clear to nearly everybody that nothing whatever has been the matter—except that hypochondriac state of mind.

The time is come to cheer up, to look on the bright side. There is plenty of bright side to look upon. Wall street isn't the whole country—thank fortune for that. It isn't even a barometer of trade. It is merely a place which, when it is not rather villainously designing, is merely hysterical—absurdly hysterical.

Business has kept right on, and will keep right on. The country will harvest a pretty fair crop. No legitimate enterprise is threatened from any source.

Banish the blues! Get busy! Quit looking for things to be gloomy about, and take note how many things there are to be happy about. Cheer up!

WHY NOT A PARCELS POST?

Why does this country, almost alone among civilized nations, deny its people the benefit of a parcels post system, whereby its parcels could be carried cheaply by mail and the people relieved of the burden of supporting express companies which on small investments return large dividends for a service which the postoffice ought to do at cost?

Maybe one reason is that a parcels post law couldn't be twisted to serve the ulterior motives of Wall street, as was the fate of the postal savings law.

When John Wanamaker was postmaster general, twenty years ago, he said there were four reasons why there is no parcels post system in this country: The Adams Express company, the Wells-Fargo Express company, the Pacific Express company and the American Express company.

Since that time almost every postmaster general has recommended the adoption of a parcels post system, but congress has made no move. Nor, for that matter, have any other reasons than the four named by John Wanamaker been urged against the establishment of a parcels post system.

Let nobody imagine that these are not real reasons. The express business is a large vested interest. Its stock is widely held, and as it is very profitable stock to carry, its holders are not friends of the parcels post. An express company cannot openly oppose the parcels post. Its stockholders and directors can and do, however, exercise great influence, indirectly but nonetheless effectively.

To show just how strong a reason one express company is why there is no parcels post, here is an extract from the Wall Street Journal: "It looks as if the Wells-Fargo stockholders have been able to 'eat their cake and have it, too.' After increasing their capital stock 200 per cent and declaring a 300 per cent cash dividend, some time ago, a quarterly dividend has now been declared on the increased amount of stock at the same rate as prevailed before that increase took place. This is the real argument against a parcels post, and yet the consumer remains ungrateful."

This country, however, doesn't need to establish a parcels post system. It has one, and all it needs is to improve it. But it is a very poor system, and it will need lots of improvement. Under it you can mail a parcel anywhere in the United States, but it mustn't contain more than four pounds, and you must pay 16 cents a pound for its transportation.

But if you happen to wish to send a parcel to Yokohama or Hongkong or Berlin or Budapest, you can send eleven pounds, and you need pay only 12 cents a pound.

If you wish to send eleven pounds to Two Harbors or Cloquet, you must split it into three packages and pay $1.76 postage. But if you wish to send eleven pounds abroad, you can send it in one package for only $1.32.

If the government could be induced only to put shipments between points in this country on the same basis that it has put shipments to points on other continents, it would be a great help.

AND IOWA, TOO.

The regular Republican organization and its corporate beneficiaries plucked up courage when the party in Minnesota fell into the hands of the reactionary element, but yesterday's state convention in Iowa should go far to dampen the reactionary hopes thus raised.

For though the Iowa insurgents didn't quite make a clean job of their congressional nominations at the recent primaries, they did elect a large majority of the delegates to the Republican state convention, and the platform adopted is in sharp contrast with the evasive, equivocal and cowardly utterances of the Minnesota Republicans.

Is the difference in the two conventions the reflection of a difference of public opinion in the two states? By no means. The differences is due wholly to the different methods of selecting delegates. Iowa has a real primary election law, which includes state officers and the selection of delegates to state conventions. Minnesota still retains the broken-down old caucus system whereby local bosses, acting under orders from state bosses, pick the delegates and turn the control of the state convention over to the state machine.

The platform adopted by the Minnesota Republican convention is a libel upon the state, and particularly upon the rank and file of the Republican party of the state. The Iowa platform is a true statement of Republican sentiment in Iowa, and it is true because the men that made it were picked by the people, not by the party bosses.

NAMING "THE BOULEVARD."

The flood of suggestions as to the renaming of "the boulevard" makes one thing clear, and that is that Mr. Patrick's suggestion that this splendid driveway needs a real and distinctive name has met with widespread approval.

So far but one person—who did not sign his name—has defended the old meaningless title of "the boulevard" and protested against a new name.

If you haven't sent in your suggestion yet, send it along. The more the merrier. Duluth should pick a name that will last for ages, and that will fix this unique elevated roadway upon the minds of people far and near and keep it famous. The more suggestions offered, the surer it is that the park board's choice will be of such a nature.

The board will have full liberty, of course, in its selection. The Herald has no choice of its own. It will serve only as a medium for gathering the suggestions that are offered, and will give the prize of $10 to the first person suggesting the name that is approved by the board, whatever that name may be.

CONCERNING KANSAS.

It would be interesting to get Ballinger's present opinion regarding that "cow on the horizon."

Maybe those other states where the regulars wanted Uncle Joe Cannon to stump them will have a change of desire now.

It wouldn't be surprising to find that the regular Republicans have dropped the adjective "bleeding" and adopted "bloody" or at least "blooming" in speaking of the Sunflower state.

"Kansas Kanned Kannonism!" How does that look to you?

Also perhaps Representative Calderhead will have colder feet when the campaign time comes around.

Probably President Taft will be tempted hereafter to refer to it as "Cantankerous Kansas."

When Uncle Joe
Went out to blow
Upon the Kansas prairies,
He raised a row
That smacks, somehow,
Of old time Tipperaries.

For Uncle Joe
And all his blow,
Demand no more is urgent.
He got a frost;
His cause was lost,
For Kansas went insurgent.

Conundrum: If the speaker of the house stumps one state and that state returns six insurgents out of eight possibilities, what will be the result if the president of the United States takes an active part in the coming campaign throughout the whole forty-eight states?

Owners of vehicles have a perfect right to test the new wheelage tax, as proposed. Nevertheless, the tax is a fair one, and should stand.

The state bar association calls upon the legislature to separate the judiciary from partisan politics. The demand is timely, and it should have the full force of public opinion back of it.

Another expedition has failed to reach the summit of Mt. McKinley. These explorers who are getting all this advertising ought to pass a vote of thanks to Dr. Cook, who made their own fame possible.

Uncle Joe is cooling off at Mackinac Island with Former Vice President Fairbanks. The lake breezes and the presence of the disciple of buttermilk ought to keep the old man's temperature down when he reads the news from Kansas.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE BACHELOR'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the issue of Aug. 2 appeared an article, "Why Bachelors Should Be Taxed." Assuming that the article was written by one of the gentler sex, bachelors will treat the subject as mildly as possible and will say nothing that can be considered harsh and cruel.

The bachelor lives within a domain all his own. His thoughts though crude are well founded, having received deep consideration, and the conclusions arrived at were the logical deductions, taken from the premises of bachelorhood.

I, for one, would object very strenuously to be asked to pay a tax for the right to retain my bachelorhood, and taking in consideration the view as taken by the writer of the article, brings me to the point where I should doubly object upon the grounds of the commercial character of marriage as set forth. It has been held that marriage is the tieing of one man and one woman by the cords of love, within the holy bonds of matrimony to share each other's joys, and when the ship enters the turbulent waters to guide it towards the sandy shores of peace and contentment.

Whatever may have been taught to us as children, seems today to have been given the lie; whatever may have been considered holy, is today considered by its commercial value; all that was based upon morality in the past is now believed to have been tomfoolery, and the only thing to strive for is that which will return a money value.

What right has the writer, what right has any body of men or women, to deny the bachelor the right of choice to marry or remain single?

Let us suppose that the bachelors, as a rule, were women haters. Would it be the best policy to follow to try to compel them to become the lovers of women or pay a fine or tax of $25 per year? Let us suppose they, as a rule, are cowards, as some claim. Would the $25 fine cause them to become more courageous? And what would be the thoughts of the woman, who, after having learned that the man she had married, had consented to the marriage only because he could escape paying the $25 fine?

It would seem that our morality had been shorn of its finery, and our present form of commercialism is worn threadbare by its consideration that nothing has value except it carries with it a money asset. What the writer says about the married man being burdened with taxes is true, but would she extend the unjust burdens to include those who have chosen to remain single.

The wrong is not a wrong upon the part of the individual, but a wrong upon the part of society. The individual is not to blame for the economic position in which he finds himself. He has great limitations with which to deal. His wages are small, his working time is limited, he has so much to do with, and cannot go beyond the limit as set by his wage.

I am of the opinion that the bachelor has weighed and pondered over the question of marriage, and have given the questions of the day more serious consideration than have those who would place a fine upon the right of bachelorhood.

I have spoken plainly without any intent upon my part of being harsh or unfair, and I do hope that none of the fairer sex will become offended at what has been said.

SOCIALISM AND ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

To the Editor of The Herald:

This time it is no less a personage than the eminent archbishop who had broken out in an attack against Socialism, he tells us—"If there is one sign of alarm—for the future of our country, it is that there will be an effort to chain individualism, to give all into the hands of the government and to bring everyone to a common level—we are equal in liberty and equal in rights—we cannot all be generals, but the whole mass is benefited by the leaders and what they have produced."

The archbishop means well but in my opinion his facts are a little to the bad when he tells us that we are equal in rights. To prove my case I need only cite the fact that in practically every state in the nation there is a vagrancy law in vogue which makes it possible for the police to arrest and have sent to the jails any person who is known to be without visible means of support—a man out of a job through no fault of his own can be held under duress just because he happens to be so unfortunate as to be minus property. All of our fundamental laws are based upon the idea of property rights. He who owns no property, has no legal rights that society as now constituted is bound to respect.

Again the archbishop is at sea when he tells us that our aim is to "check individualism." Mr. Rockefeller is not an individualist. He is a monopolist, made so because of extreme individualism. No socialist would have any fault to find with the individualism which Herbert Spencer defines as "the right of every man to do as he pleases so long as he comes not into conflict with the equal rights of any other individual." Can the archbishop truthfully say that the competitive system under which we now live and which he favors perpetuating permits freedom in economic relations?

It is true that we "cannot all be generals" but to what extent has the "whole mass benefited" by the acts of our commercial generals? Is it not true that society as an organism is diseased to the core, made so because of the abnormal pressure necessitated in the struggle for bread? Yes, some have become generals but in their wake they have left a long trail of blood, and the worst is not yet at hand. To accuse us of "clamoring for a division of property" is decidedly unfair, for there is no socialist so obtuse as to clamor for division—socialism desires to centralize the resources of the state in the hands of society. It is because there has been too much division in the past that society is now paying the penalty. Why therefore accuse us of favoring a thing that we emphatically insist upon stopping? Let us be fair and above board in our objections. If Socialism is not constructive nor uplifting, then its opponents can do no greater service to society and the deluded followers of this doctrine than to demonstrate the flaws in this propaganda. We are always ready to meet in public debate those who dispute our logic. The writer stands ready to meet at any time in any caurch, or hall, any person who is willing to disprove our propositions—and there are others.

CONSERVING PRINTER'S INK.

One Fatality Reported.

Stillwater Gazette: Candidates who do not pay in advance are taking great chances and should make arrangements with the undertaker. The Foley Independent says it will publish no political announcement unless paid in advance. To which the Eden Valley Journal adds: "It is dangerous for politicians not to pay in advance. The only one who didn't pay us two years ago is dead."

"Ain't All Dead, Either."

West St. Paul Times: That's right, make 'em pay in advance. Every time we look at our balance sheet it makes us hot in the collar, and they ain't all dead either. But they will be dead politically, if they ever hear the call of the people again, to the extent of this paper's ability. If there is anything we dispise it is a dead beat, political or otherwise.

"Not a Clean Candidate."

Itasca News: Whether it is to work the scheme to "get free," or whether it is because he actually has not the means, a man has no moral right to launch out after an office and use "gaul" to get it in the place of money for necessary expenses, any more than he would have to start into business without financial means. The man who does this is not to be considered a clean candidate; there is something the matter with his management, or he would have money, and if he has had bad luck he should not expose it to the public by trying to "sponge" into an "easy thing," but he should gum-shoe to the poor farm. Usually the fellow who is begging his way, or whose card reads "Till make that all right with you"—some of such we may soon mention—turn out to be bad officials when they do get elected, and the next and the rest of him that comes around this office to "spear" free ink will get his nose shoved into it.

Chumming.

My dad he says, "Come on with me,"
When there's a hollerday,
An' gits some cheese an' crackers we
Can eat while we're away.
An' he cuts us some bully poles
An' helps me dig the bait,
An' we start for the fishin' holes
Before our breakfast's ate.

He lets me pull in the first fish—
He had one on his line
Last Fourth, an' he jest let her swish
Till I got one on mine
Before he yanked her out, an' then
Mine was the biggest, too!
An' he said: "Gee, there ain't no men
Can yank out fish like you!"

An' he takes off his shoes an' we
Wade where the water's thin,
An' last Fourth he jest said to me:
"What! Ain't you goin' in An' have a swim?" An' in I goes
Jest like a frog—kerblim!
An' next thing he takes off his clothes
An' shows me how to swim!

An' every hollerday's like that
Between my dad and me;
An' one time mother went an' sat
Beside a ellum tree
An' done some fancy work an' read
A book till we come out,
An' had the lunch undone and spread—
Enough for five, about.

Dad photergrafted us settin' there,
Her leanin' by a tree,
One hand a'foolin' with my hair,
An' smilin' 'round at me.
My hands was in the pockets of
My pants, jest this-a-way,
An' dad said: "I tell you, I love
To have this kind of day!"

Tad Ellersly—our house ain't half
As big as their barn is—
But one time with a kind of laugh
He said to me: "Gee, whiz!
You bet I wisht that I was you,
To fish an' swim an' climb
With my dad! My dad loves me, too,
But he can't git the time."

Democrats and Insurgents.

New York World: The World congratulates the Democrats of Minnesota on the good sense shown by their state convention, which adopted a resolution commending the Republican insurgents of Minnesota "for their vote on the Payne Tariff bill."

Likewise it congratulates Mr. Bryan on his good sense—if the report is true—in giving aid and encouragement to Judge George W. Norris, the aggressive insurgent representative from the Fifth Nebraska district.

In this campaign Democrats and insurgents are fighting for practically the same things. They have no important differences. Both are opposed to the excesses of the Payne-Aldrich tariff. Both are opposed to Cannonism and Aldrichism. Both are opposed to Ballingerism and the looting of natural resources by private capital. Both are against the alliance between the Republican organization and privileged interests.

Thus far in the contest no Democrat has done such effective work for true Democratic principles as have some of the Republican insurgents—particularly Senator Bristow in his exposure of Senator Aldrich's manipulation of the rubber schedule and the cotton schedule, and Senator Cummins in his explanation of the relation between the tariff and the swollen capitalization of the steel trust. But every insurgent is doing work that Democrats ought to be doing and that Democrats ought to encourage.

Frankly, The World wishes that some of these insurgent leaders were in the Democratic party where they belong—men like Dolliver and Cummins and Bristow and Norris. They would bring to the Democracy of the Northern states, which has been painfully deficient in intellectual force, some of the conscience and courage and conviction that it so sadly needs. But if they insist on remaining in the Republican party, in the vain expectation of reforming it, that is no reason why Democrats should not work with them and assist them in a common cause.

That is one of the surest ways in which Democracy can prove that it is guided by principles and that it is fit to assume the responsibilities of government.

Back Yards.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: What do you raise in your back yard? Weeds or flowers? Rubbish heaps or vegetables? Is it of any use to you except as a place to dry the family washing? Are you ashamed of it? Do you take your friends out through the kitchen to see it No offense meant. These questions are impersonal, and are merely intended to lead up to the remark that a Cleveland citizen has, in a back yard the size of the office he works in, twenty-four varieties of flowers, and they're nearly all in bloom at this moment. Besides, he has had, all summer, more onions, lettuce and radishes than his family could use. Another desirable citizen has a back yard about 45 by 50 feet, with a border of flowers and shrubs, several vegetable beds at the end, and room enough left for the children to play in.

Theres' joy o' mornings in the early brightness and fragrance of sweet peas, morning glories, marigolds, cannas, nasturtiums, corylopsis and all their floral sisterhood, and there's pleasure when the day's work is done in the cool green of a back yard lawn. And the vegetables from one's own garden have a flavor not to be found in green goods from the grocer's. There's the joy, too, of delving in one's own ground, of planting and coddling and trimming one's own plants, of doing a little creative work in cooperation with friendly nature. Have you never felt this joy of making things grow? Do you know the balm for tired nerves or mournful hearts that lurks in mere dirt?

Cleveland is a city of homes, and by the same token a city of back yards. The yards are full of opportunities. If you have never learned the potency of spades, hoes, rakes and seeds, look across the back yard fence and see what your neighbor has done. If his lot is as bare and unsightly as yours, you are both to be pitied. These little neglected spots might bloom as the Garden of Eden.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

The annual meeting of the Van Dusen-Eliot company is being held this afternoon. A dissolution of the firm and a reorganization will take place. Mr. Eliot and the Milwaukee members of the firm retiring. The new firm will probably be composed of F. S. Daggett, now general manager; G. W. Van Dusen, now president; F. A. Gooding, now treasurer, and Albert Harrington.

United States Deputy Marshal Daggett, the officer who visited Minneapolis armed with warrants and kidnaped a number of census enumerators, was in Duluth yesterday in search of one of the men who has skipped. Mr. Daggett said the warrants were served at night, so they could better secure evidence and gain possession of the fraudulent blanks. Among the paraphernalia of the Minneapolis citizens' bureau was a cabinet of pigeon holes which were filled with names characteristic of different nationalities, so that whenever a vacant house or lot was found, a fictitious name was manufactured and the proper given name was attached. Then the man was furnished with a family, and the children were given names usually found in their nationality. This sort of business was carried on to an alarming extent, and Deputy Daggett secured several sacks of blanks to assist in proving the case.

At the first meeting of the new school board the clerk submitted his yearly report, showing receipts of $187,279, disbursements of $108,800, and a balance of $78,479. W. C. White was elected president of the board.

Down the north shore, east of Port Arthur, several very rich bodies of silver-lead ore have been located. Lot 8, abreast of McEachern island, is being operated by Daniel G. Cash of Duluth, the work being under the charge of Duncan McEachern. The vein, which was struck about 200 feet below the surface outcropping, is seven feet wide, solid ore, carrying 60 per cent lead and 14 ounces silver to the ton. The vein is in a strong trap dyke running clear across the property.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Uncle Joe's Stogies.

Wabasha Herald: There is no tariff on stogies, so Uncle Joe thinks the present law is all right.

Also Some Time Away.

Little Falls Herald: Winnipeg will have a world's fair in 1914. That's next door to Minnesota and will be very convenient.

The Democratic Ticket.

Brainerd Tribune: Now is the time for all good Republicans to rally to the support of the ticket.

Houston Post Please Notice.

Walker Pioneer: We hate to call the Houston Post's attention to it, but it is a fact that Prof. Jack Johnson is a black Republican and Prof. Jeffries is a Democrat.

But This Is Wicked!

Hibbing Tribune: Two men named Dunn and Day had a slight altercation in Albert Lea Thursday. Day done something one day this week that Dunn thinks he shouldn't have done so when Dunn saw Day a day or so later Dunn done Day up properly.

It Sounds Reasonable.

Milaca Times: A newspaper offered a certain prize for the best answer to the conundrum: "Why is a newspaper like a woman?" The prize was won by a lady in Oklahoma, who sent in the following: "Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbor's."

Do Your Shopping Early.

Brainerd Dispatch: Is the giftless Christmas to follow the crackerless Fourth?

Sour Grapes On Wheels.

St. Peter Free Press: It is remarkable how many people who have no auto, and "wouldn't buy one if they could," immensely enjoy a ride in their neighbor's machine.

The Elephant On Parade.

Red Wing Free Press: Judging from announcements the Minnesota state fair, so called, is this year going to be a Republican party show and a Midway plaisance combination with a few hundred Hamburger sandwich stands thrown in.

Opportunity to Declare for a Non-Partisan Judiciary.

St. Paul Dispatch (Ind. Rep.): The Dispatch admits that it has no advance information of the intention of the thoughtful voters of Minnesota when it comes to the selection of the men who are to sit upon the supreme bench of the state. But on opportunity is offered at the November election for a display at the same discernment which in times gone by has resulted in the election of officials whose names did not appear upon the popular ticket, but whose qualities appealed to the popular will. Whether party lines will be tensely drawn and all else subordinated to the success of a party ticket remains to be seen, but, if the logical discernment of the past is again displayed, Justice Thomas D. O'Brien will be elected to a place on the supreme bench.

The moral beauties of a judiciary maintained above and out of politics are common themes when no election is pending. If the voters of Minnesota believe in the principle of a non-partisan court, there is an excellent opportunity of registering that belief. The law itself is committed in its direction to place the judiciary first on the election ballot, which course is the announcement of the importance of the arbiters of justice as compared with other state officers.

Four justices of the supreme court are to be chosen in November, and, if the non-partisan spirit is to prevail, Justice O'Brien will be elected as one of the number. Inasmuch as it is universally conceded that his services on the bench have been of a distinguished order; that the administration of the law at his hands has been satisfactory; that in capacity, temperament and attainment he meets the high standard required for the highest court of the commonwealth, it is not easy to see how any elector who believes in the preservation of the non-partisan character of the judiciary can do otherwise than cast his ballot for Justice O'Brien without doing violence to his own convictions.

Signs of Life.

Des Moines Register and Leader: It is a pleasure, at a time when the Democracy of Iowa seems to be losing what up-to-dateness it ever had, to note a modern tone in the Democracy of Minnesota.

Here is one plank of the Democratic platform of our northern neighbor that does not drag us back to days of strict construction, tariff for revenue only, and a free saloon:

"We favor the granting of special state aid to encourage consolidation of rural schools, thus placing them upon a broader basis, where their work may result in higher conceptions of the equality of all classes, whether agricultural, commercial, industrial or professional.

"We recognize the duty which rests upon the university and state normal schools to make added provision for training teachers for the practical work which is demanded of the public schools.

"Provision should be made for closer supervision of rural schools, for an educational standard for the office of county superintendent, and a more liberal compensation for their services.

"We favor the levying of a tax on state lands for the purpose of local improvements."

The Democracy of Minnesota seems to recognize that this is the twentieth century, at least. That is something gained.

Committees.

Atchison Globe: As a general rule, a committee is a number of persons who try to make the chairman perform the task assigned to all of them.

The Landlord.

The landlord is a grasping man
On selfish pleasure bent;
His one thought is to let his flats
And make you pay the rent.
If you suggest a few repairs
You fill his heart with gloom;
It stabs him to the heart to have
To paper up a room.

The landlord's life is one of ease,
So all his tenants say;
Of course, he has some tax bills and
The water tax to pay;
And then he had to build the house
Before it could be let;
But all he thinks of all the time
Is how much he can get.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Errand Boy—(Explaining how he happened to buy an imitation article)—When I foist went in the store—

Finicky Employer—First, not "foist."

Errand Boy—Right, bos. Well, de guy behint de counter jus' firsted it on me.

Boston Transcript: Mr. Hubb—The intelligence office manager told me that our new girl was once an actress.

Mrs. Hubb—I believe it. She dusts the furniture exactly as the soubrette does it on the stage.

Cleveland Leader: "How does your new book go?"

"Great, I am convinced that it is a classic."

"A classic? What convinces you of that?"

"Everybody has either seen it or heard of it, but nobody has read it."

Life: The Maiden Aunt—No, sir! No traveling second-class on the Continent for me. How do I know with what strange man I might be locked into a compartment?

Nephew—That's so. But the man wouldn't know what was coming to him either.

Baltimore American: She—What was that noise I heard in the hall last night?

He—I guess, my dear, it was the day breaking.

At a recent dinner of the Authors' club in London Walter Emanuel, member of the staff of Punch, referred to the fact that the man with the largest sense of humor he had ever struck was an Englishman—a dentist. He went to him after suffering long with a toothache. He refused to have gas, and the dentist pulled out the tooth, leaving him writhing in pain, and took the tooth to the window, where he laughed quite heartily.

He groaned, "What's the joke?"

"Wrong tooth," said the dentist.

Chicago News: Mrs. Stubbs—John, no true man will smoke up his wife's curtains.

Mr. Stubbs—I should say not. Anybody that smokes curtains would be a freak, I prefer cigars.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: It doesn't seem like spending money to most people if they can charge it.

A girl is willing to walk when she is courted; she wants an automobile when she is married.

The worst about saving is you don't gain enough money to do you any good, and you lose all your fun.

A cook is really a wonderful person to make people try so hard to hold her in a job she doesn't know anything about filling.

Making "Copy."

Philadelphia Telegraph: Not a few newspaper contemporaries announce that Mr. Walter Wellman "contemplates" the "first" transatlantic voyage by balloon. This is a natural error perhaps and most of them are excusable. The reports are written by young men of short memories and little taste for historic research. Familiarity with the works of Edgar Allan Poe is, of course, supposable in only a few isolated cases. If they had known their Poe as well as the aeronautical world has come to know its Wellman, then the story might have been reported along different lines. A consultation of the files of the New York Sun extending back a little more than half a century would have helped some. That publication scored one of its greatest early day "scoops" by giving a circumstantial account of the arrival from Europe of a monster aerial ship with a comparatively large passenger list. The landing was made at an obscure point south of the James and as the pilot and his companions did not enter "vaudeville" after their thrilling experience, doubts arose as to the complete verity of Mr. Poe's account. But that doesn't signify.

Poe was a magazine writer; also Wellman is a magazine writer — a greater man than Poe judged by accepted standards. That is to say he makes more out of it. That the man who narrowly escaped reaching the North Pole by balloon, the man who might have been first to plant our flag at the top of the world, will be successful in his latest undertaking, is a foregone conclusion—unless he forgets to start. Mr. Wellman, sad to say, with all his accomplishments is absent-minded. He frequently forgets to start. However, he is sure to go as far as Mr. Poe's voyagers did, and, whereas Edgar peddled his stuff for a measley five dollars a column Walter, unless his business methods have become mutilated from long usage, is sure to cash in at 10 cents a word.

The Chicago explorer has a big advantage over his compatriots. He is already half way to a given point before he hears the cry of "all aboard." It is not unreasonable to predict that he will pass from landsend to landsend almost as soon as arrangements with his publishers have been completed. He doesn't even need a gas bag. He can make the flight upon the wings of his own fancy.

TEDDY BACK FROM TOUR

Reception in Wilkesbarre Near Proportions of a Riot.

Soft Coal Miners Ask Him to Inspect That Field Too.

New York, Aug. 4. — Col. Theodore Roosevelt returned to New York early today from his trip in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania. He said he was going on to Oyster Bay.

His midnight reception at the rectory of Rev. Father J. J. Curran in Wilkesbarre, was an enthusiastic affair. The streets were jammed, and when Col. Roosevelt arrived he found it almost impossible to escape from the pressure. Father Curran threw his arms around the colonel and a policeman placed his hands on the colonel's back and pushed with all his might. In this fashion he reached the house.

Col. Roosevelt said he expected no visitors at Oyster Bay today.

Petition From Miners.

Greensburg, Pa., Aug. 4.—An open letter addressed to Theodore Roosevelt, New York City, was forwarded from the executive offices of the officials of the union soft coal miners on strike in the Greensburg-Irwin field, asking the former president to visit the strike zone and make an investigation similar to the one just completed in the anthracite field of Eastern Pennsylvania.

The letter, which was signed by the union officials, lightly sketches the situation in this district from coal miners' standpoints, and was sent with the unanimous approval of the various local unions.

COPPERS ARE IRREGULAR

Feature of Day Is Strength of the Curb Stocks.

The stock market was extremely irregular today. The London market was slightly lower and the easy feeling abroad caused some misgivings on this side. Values slid from the opening as grain markets advanced. The market rallied toward the close, grain markets declining. The victory of the insurgents in the West was made the basis for selling by professionals. Drives were started several times but the buying power was good and the market rallied, closing about on a par with the opening, or a shade lower than yesterday.

The leading coppers reflected the irregular tone of the big markets. This was especially true of Amalgamated and North Butte although the range of the latter's movement was exceedingly small. Calumet & Arizona also responded to the erratic trend of the general market. The specialties, however acted well. Most of them advanced.

The feature of today's market was the strength in the curb stocks. They were not affected by the irregularity in the East. Any uncertain movement that developed was local and was based on causes relating to individual issues. Denn-Arizona developed a show of strength at the outstart and held it, advancing steadily during the session. Denn sold at $2.62½, $2.68¾ to $2.75 and off to then at $2.81¼; Red Warrior was active and the demand exceeded offerings. This stock acted buoyantly on receipt of favorable news from the mine. It sold at $2.37½. Realizing at the close sent it off to $2.31¼. Butte-Ballaklava sold at $11.25 or ¼ point higher than the Boston opening. Copper Queen sold at 29c; Shattuck at $22.12½; Amazon was strong at $3, and Calumet & Montana advanced from 85c to 86c; Calumet & Sonora sold at $14; Calumet & Corbin at 35c and 36c; St. Mary's developed unexpected strength and sold from 20c to 25c.

Amalgamated sold at $62.12½, $60.87½, $62.37½ and then at $62; Steel common sold at $67.62½, $68.12½, $67.12½, $68.25 and down to $67.50; Butte-Ballaklava in the East at $11 and $11.25; Butte Coalition at $18.50; Calumet & Arizona sold at $50.25 to $50.87½; North Butte at $24, $23.75 and $24.12½; Greene at $6.75 to $7; Giroux at $6.25 to $6.12½ to $6.25; Superior & Pittsburg at $10.75, $11.75, $11.62½ and $11.75.

RECOVERS FROM POISON'S EFFECTS

Sadie Dillon, who is under arrest indicted under the charge of murder in the first degree and who attempted suicide Monday night at the county jail by swallowing antiseptic tablets, was today removed from St. Mary's hospital, where she was given medical treatment, and placed in the women's department in the jail.

Following her arraignment in the district court, when she pleaded not guilty to the charge, she tried to kill herself. After swallowing the tablets she became frightened and cried out that she was poisoned. Al Arneson, jailer, rushed to her aid and after giving her some medicine which happened to be on hand, had her taken to the hospital.

She is said to have killed her husband, John Dillon, at their home in the town of Stuntz this spring, to which crime, it is claimed she confessed, after having made an unsuccessful attempt to cover the crime by laying the blame on some other person.

UNAWARE THERE WERE TWO.

Miss Elsie De Wolf, while taking up a collection at the Colony club for the girl blousemakers' strike, said:

"You will all give liberally, for you know the condition of these girls. Other people would give liberally, too, if they had your knowledge. But their knowledge, alas, is hazy, like old Uncle Jasper's.

"Old Uncle Jasper was buying a post card in a New Orleans postoffice, when a gentleman, approaching the next window, had a small parcel weighed and stamped for Jerusalem.

"On this gentleman's departure, Uncle Jasper chuckled and said:

"'He was jokin', wasn't he?'

"'Not at all,' returned the clerk.

"'My-oh-my!' cried Uncle Jasper, in an awed tone, 'Is it possible ye take letters to Jerusalem? I thought it was above.'"

A MISTRESS OF DETAIL.

Dr. Robert Wood of Johns Hopkins university was complimented by a young lady at a dinner in Baltimore, on the artificial mirages that he had succeeded in making in his laboratory.

"It is by attention to the least details," said Dr. Wood, with a smile, "that one succeeds in experiments of this kind. One must look after details like—er—like the landlord's wife.

"'Tommy,' said the landlord's wife to her little boy, 'who is that talking on the doorstep to your father?'

"'It's a divinity student,' Tommy answered, 'who is looking for a furnished room.'

"'Hurry, then,' said the mother, 'and walk up and down the hall whistling a hymn.'"

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: Aug. 7. Matt xix., 1-2, 13-26: Jesus on the Way to Jerusalem.

THE CONNECTION.

The series of comments on social Christian conduct was followed by this transfer of His activity from Galilee to Judea. After that rejection by the multitudes in April He stays very little in Galilee, in fact, keeps moving from place to place. Though His death will not be till the next April, His ministry to Galilee, where He had grown up and had taught so much, was ended, except for an occasional, hurried trip across her borders. Two incidents of this one little journey into Judea are preserved for us.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Docile Child.. 1-2, 13-15.

"And it came to pass when Jesus had finished these words, He departed from Galilee, and came into the borders of Judea beyond the Jordan; and great multitudes followed Him; and He healed them there.

"Then were there brought unto Him little children, that He should lay His hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said, Suffer the little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for to such belongeth the kingdom of Heaven. And he laid His hands on them, and departed thence."

1. BLESSING.—The mothers always wanted any eminent person to put his hands on the babe's head and invoke heaven's blessing. It was an honor they coveted. It was a benefit which they thought God would grant in answer to their prayer. And the touch of the good man's hand, which was supposed to have a healing power, was much prized. For these general reasons, and for special ones, they always crowded around Jesus to seek His blessing on their children.

2. TYPE.—They never had trouble in securing His sympathetic attention, even if His disciples were impatient this time and tried to wave them aside. He willingly did as the mothers asked him. He even took the babies in His arms and blessed them. But what He said was more significant still; for He said that His kingdom was for those who had the spirit of these children rather than for those who had the self-seeking, insubordinate spirit. The characteristics of the child that He approved were its trust, docility and freedom from jealous ambitions—evidently these. If any one gets into the kingdom of heaven he must be converted and become as a little child, must be taken away back to the factory and made over with those characteristics again in control, to remain permanent — trust, in Him, as the child lay contented in His arms; docility, willingness to be taught by Him; fraternal, glad to see honors go to others. The lesson was carried home to the hearts of His impatient disciples and has been brought down to us, for our highest good.

3. FRIEND.—If children ever had a friend, it is Jesus. If mothers will know their best friend, let them know Jesus. No child should be left unaware of His tender interest and His mighty power to bless.

II.

The Enslaved Young Man. 16-26.

"And behold, one came to him and said, Teacher, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why askest thou me concerning that which is good? One there is who is good; but if thou wouldest enter into life, keep the commandments. He saith unto him, which? And Jesus said, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honor thy father and thy mother; and, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. The young man saith unto him, All these things have I observed; what lack I yet? Jesus said unto him, If thou wouldest be perfect, go, sell that which thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me. But when the young men heard the saying, he went away sorrowful; for he was one that had great possessions.

"And Jesus said unto His disciples, Verily I say unto you It is hard for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven. And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. And when the disciples heard it, they were astonished exceedingly, saying, Who then can be saved? And Jesus looking upon them said to them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible."

1. QUESTION.—All questions are involved in the one—how to get eternal life, how to be saved. The young man seems to have been in earnest and something in him called out the Master's love. The young fellow thought it an important question and his longings were to remain unsatisfied till it was answered.

2. FAILURE.—He had no thought of reaching eternal life save through legal righteousness. Assuming that he was correct, that he had really kept all the commandments perfectly, as he thought, Jesus must show him what else. Had he kept them? Jesus will test him and show him two things—that he really has not kept them in spirit and that there was something else he desired more than eternal life. He had a wrong idea of it and Jesus shows him that he must get up higher than the mere keeping of regulations; must get in touch with God and do as He does. No two interests can be supreme, only one can.

3. RICHES.—Evidently they can be put to a good purpose, as the young man's could have been. Therefore, it is not wrong to have acquired them, provided it was done honorably. We do not know any other man who was forbidden to keep them, because we do not know who may have loved them better than eternal life. Jesus had, long before, taught that even anything so important as the right hand or the right eye, should be sacrificed, if it stood in the way of the highest good. God gave us the raw materials of wealth and gave us the instinct to utilize them and they are not wrong in themselves. But one is tempted to do wrong in so many ways in gaining and using it. There is nothing that yields and takes the second place so reluctantly. When one's heart is set on riches he cannot fix it on God.

4. POSSIBILITY.—The hyperbole is striking. It cannot be explained away by saying that Jesus must have referred to the little side gate through which the camel can pass only by kneeling. No, He meant the literal thing. It is only by the grace of the all-working God that a man who loves wealth can enter the kingdom.

What is the urgent lesson brought to us in this statement? Get men into the kingdom while they are children and teach them to consecrate that wealth to God. Tell them of the perils. Show them the vast possibilities of service with wealth, as Jesus showed the young man, not by always selling it and giving it away but by handling it and giving the proceeds to the great interests of the kingdom.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Some of the very finest characters I have known have been among the rich—patient, sincere, true, pure, disinterested, noble souls they were. It is a mistake to think that exquisite moral character can spring only out of want and suffering. When God sanctifies prosperity, royallest and beautifullest souls come sweeping through the straight gate of the needle's eye. When men combine gold and goodness, greatness and godliness, genius and grace, human nature is seen at its best.—Watkinson.

What a fine thing it is that God is always ready to do the impossible! "Come, Brown, I want you to help me in my Sunday school work." "I can't do that, Ridgway. I'd like to well enough, but I have no talent for that sort o' thing. I'd be a mighty poor tool for you." This text is the answer to all the Browns. It isn't the tools but the workman. I used to have an old machinist, Jim Clark. You had but to give him a hammer, a cold chisel, a file and a ratchet outfit, and you had a whole machine shop. Planer, lathe and drill-press all in one. He would make you anything. A master carpenter needs only a saw and a hatchet. God is the Master Workman, and the plain tools like you and me have only to let him take us, and he will build engines and palaces.—Ridgeway.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Is it the child spirit, or children themselves, that constitute the kingdom of heaven?

2. Does our present recognition of children foster conceit and self-righteousness in them?

3. If we have the right motives, can we do our best in making money, and not sin?

4. If one recognizes that God owns every cent, can the making of money become really a means of grace?

5. What has been the chief service of wealth in the world's progress?

6. Why have the wealthy ages and nations become degenerate?

7. How may we escape the fate of all the wealthy nations of the past?

FALLS ON KNEES BEFORE JUDGE, BUT PATHETIC APPEAL FAILS

With tears running from her eyes and supplications following one another as fast as she could talk, Mary Joseff, an Assyrian peddler, added a dramatic unusual touch to her plea for a suspended sentence in police court yesterday afternoon by getting on her knees and bumping her head against the floor in front of the desk occupied by Judge Cutting.

Rising, she swept her arms over her head in sweeping gestures, crying in broken English that she be allowed to go. She pleaded that she had no one to help her make a living; that she was alone in the world, and that she was poor. "Honest, honest, judge, I'll get a license. I won't do it again," she said.

She was brought to police headquarters by Patrolman Noren for peddling without a license, and admitted the allegation when she was arraigned. The officer took some of the wind out of her eloquent protestations by stating that she is "well-fixed." He alleged that she recently invested several thousand dollars in property in the city, at least part of the money being furnished her by her daughter, who is also a peddler.

The court refused to allow her to go, as she had been brought in once before on the same charge. This time it appears that she berated several East end women who refused to buy her wares. She was fined $5 or five days in the county jail.

She refused to leave the police station without her pack and persisted in opening it in the courtroom to display the goods she had for sale. She didn't succeed in making any sales, but managed to knock over a pitcher full of water and the tumbler standing beside it. When she was made to understand the amount of her fine she attempted to have the court accept her stock as security, but in this she was also unsuccessful. She became rather hysterical when the officer was directed to take her from the courtroom and he had to start her back to headquarters half a dozen times, so determined was she that the court take the merchandise.

UNITED WIRELESS HEADS INDICTED

Seven Officials Are Accused of Conspiracy and Misuse of Mails.

New York, Aug. 4.—Seven officers of the United Wireless Telegraph company, most of whom had previously been arrested, were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on two counts—one charging conspiracy to defraud by use of the United States mails, the other charging conspiracy in devising a scheme to induce investors to buy worthless stock.

The seven indicted are: President Christopher Columbus Wilson, Vice President Samuel S. Bogart, Secretary W. W. Tompkins, Fiscal Agent George H. Parker, General Manager C. C. Galbraith, Treasurer W. A. Dibell and Francis X. Butler, counsel and director of the company. All except Parker were arraigned before Judge Hough in the United States district court and pleaded not guilty. Parker is understood to be on the way here from Seattle to surrender himself.

All Give Bail.

President Wilson was held in $25,000 bail, Tompkins and Bogart in $10,000 each, and the others in $5,000 each. On the first charge all were paroled for one week, and on the second charge they were given two days in which to find bail. They have permission to withdraw their plea of not guilty on or before Sept. 20.

The company has outstanding $20,000,000 worth of common and preferred stock. The indictment gives a long list of statements about this stock sent out by the management, which the indictment charges were wholly false, and concludes:

"It was a part of the scheme of said defendants to sell their personal stock, pretending the same to be treasury stock, and the reason the stock sold was made non-transferable for two years was to keep the stock off the market."

CANADA WILL SPEND MILLIONS ON RIVER.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 4.—The government surveyors estimate the cost of deepening the Saskatchewan river to make navigation possible between Edmonton, Alta., and Winnipeg at $15,000,000 for a distance of 1,500 miles. This cost is exclusive of locks at Grand Rapids, the entrance of the river at Lake Winnipeg. The project will be undertaken next year.

Cholera Infantum Cured.

"Something like two years ago my baby, which was then about a year old, was taken seriously ill with cholera infantum, vomiting and purging profusely," writes J. F. Dempsey of Dempsey, Ala. "I did what I could to relieve her but did her no good, and being very much alarmed about her went for a physican but failed to find one, so came back by Elder Bros. & Carter's storo and Mr. Elder recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. I procured a bottle of it, went home as quickly as possible and gave the baby a dose of the remedy. It relieved her in fifteen minutes and soon cured her entirely." For sale by all druggists.

AVIATORS, COUSINS, MEET SIMILAR DEATHS.

Brussels, Aug. 4.—Falling from a height of 650 feet, Nicholas Kinet, the Belgian aviator, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon. Only three weeks ago Kinet's cousin, Daniel, one of the most widely known of the foreign areonauts, was killed in a similar manner at Ghent. A rear wire of Kinet's biplane snapped and, becoming entangled in the motor, stopped it with a suddenness that turned the aeroplane on its side. The machine crashed to the ground, and Kinet was crushed under it.

CRANE REFUSES TO TELL ANYTHING

Will Not Discuss Meeting With Ballinger in Minneapolis.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Senator Crane returned east yesterday after his conference in Minneapolis with Secretary Ballinger. He would not deny the report that he had asked Mr. Ballinger to resign from the cabinet, merely saying:

"I have nothing to say."

Senator Crane passed through Chicago and was at one of the leading hotels, but did not register. When asked if he had gone to Minneapolis to request the resignation of Secretary Ballinger, he replied:

"I have nothing to say. I came West on a mission, and have been to Minneapolis and am now returning East. I saw Mr. Ballinger, but not by appointment. We discussed matters in general and that's all there was to it."

On Secret Mission.

When informed that it had been reported that he had been sent to request the resignation of Secretary Ballinger, the senator replied:

"What I was sent West for, if I was sent at all, is not of public business or interest just now. I will not discuss Mr. Ballinger, politics or anything in relation to why I am here."

When asked again if he had asked the secretary to resign, Senator Crane would neither affirm nor deny, but repeated:

"I will not discuss it."

MAN HURT BY TAFT'S AUTOMOBILE, IS WELL.

DECISION IS AFFIRMED

Contractors Must Pay $5,000 for Death of Workman.

A mandamus was received yesterday afternoon from the state supreme court affirming the district court's decision in the case of Charles E. Hamill, as administrator of the estate of Charles C. Nichols, deceased, against Lanquist & Ilsley, builders of the St. Louis county courthouse, in which the defendant must pay $5,000 for the death of Nichols.

It was shown at the trial held during the May term of court, 1909, that Nichols, who was a structural iron worker, was struck by a large derrick, which fell upon him. He died on Nov. 4, 1908, two days after the accident. On May 20, 1909, the verdict was returned by the jury in the district court. A motion for a new trial was denied the defendants and an appeal to the state supreme court followed.

LIQUOR QUESTION UP TO BALLINGER

Minnesota Ceded Land Dispute to Be Settled By Secretary.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The question of modifying the recent order of the bureau of Indian affairs, applying its anti-liquor regulations to ceded Indian lands in Minnesota which never before have been embraced in prohibition territory, will be referred by Acting Secretary Pierce of the interior department to Secretary Ballinger, who is now in the West.

Moorhead and several other points in Minnesota have asked the department to exempt them from the operation of the order which takes effect Sept. 15. Mr. Pierce says the interior departments' interest in the mater relates only to the welfare of the Indians. While the treaties by which much of the lands in the northern part of the state of Minnesota were ceded forbade the introduction of intoxicating liquors, he said the activity of the Indian office in enforcing the treaty provisions would be confined to the territory considered necessary to protect the red men from intoxicants.

The order of the Indian bureau which is the subject of controversy considerably extends its temperance crusade on lands adjacent to the White Earth and Leech lake reservations.

DIES TRYING TO GET TORPEDO LOST AT SEA.

Provincetown, R. I., Aug. 4.—Thirty fathoms deep in the waters of Cape Cod bay in search of a sunken torpedo, George William Fairey, a gunner's mate on the battleship Connecticut, whose home was in Orangeburg, S. C., lost his life, according to word brought here from the fleet.

The Connecticut was engaged in torpedo practice when one of the missiles was lost and Fairey was sent out with a boat crew and diving apparatus to recover it. On his way to the bottom of the bay, he signalled "O. K." There was a pause for a moment, when he reached bottom, and then a faint signal of danger. His comrades pulled the diver as quickly as possible to the surface. Hastily opening the armour, they found him unconscious, but still breathing. All efforts to resuscitate him failed.

The cause of the accident is not known, but it is presumed there must have been trouble in the transmission of air.

La Crosse at Duluth.
Wausau at Red Wing.
Eau Claire at Rochester.

Duluth lost the second game of the La Crosse series yesterday, Silent Joe's cohorts taking the contest by the rather one-sided score of 5 to 1. Duluth should have had more runs. What chances the team had for acquiring scores were killed by some erratic and stupid base running. At least two chances to cross the hopeful plate were tossed carelessly away by the blundering stupidity of the Sox on the pathsa

Taking up the underlying cause of the failure of the Sox to win, one is tempted to ask why Tom Taylor is back with the team. He has shown no baseball the present season, has struck out probably more times than any player in the league, and has also failed to show any fielding form. Yet he is in the outfield and is not playing good ball.

Yesterday the Sox hit Hooker rather freely, but the hits were not garnered at the right time. What chance the Sox did have to score was killed by poor judgment on the paths. Schmirler had nothing but a prayer yesterday, and he forgot the most important supplicatory lines of that. In the third and fourth innings the rather down and out Outcasts got to Schmirler with sweet vengeance, driving in four runs in these two sad innings.

Outcasts Secure Lead.

In the third, the first score of the German band was shoved across the plate. After Kernan had popped to Kohl, Kuehn, the small and fair-haired German youth, pushed a slow grounder to Schmirler. That performer, seeming over anxious to get the ball to first, heaved it far over the head of Holstrom, who was back on first for the day. When the ball was retrieved from under an automobile, Kuehn was resting on second. Connell tripled against the paling that bounds left field, sending his German colleague across.

Three large and perfectly miserable runs were shunted across in the next inning, which marked the yanking unceremoniously from the game of smiling Schmirler.

Ward opened the bombardment with a single and went clear around to third on Manager Joe's sacrifice. No one covered third and Ward just naturally took one more base than the baseball possibilities usually allow under a sacrifice hit. Jack Zalusky collected more smoking material by knocking the ball out of the lot. Klein whiffed, but Kernan followed with the second home run of the game, reminding some veterans in the stands of the bombardment of Fort Sumter. Here Mr. Schmirler was persuaded to cogitate on the bench, Worman succeeding him. Kuehn fouled out to Schwab and a sad page was closed.

In the eighth the last run of the enemy was chalked up, though there was really no need for the score. Safford hit one at Altermoot and was safe by order of the scratch ruling. Zalusky sacrificed the manager along to second. Safford took third on Klein's scratch and scored on the squeeze, Kernan being retired at first on the play. Klein was caught off second.

The only and lonely score of the Sox came in the second half of this frame. After Jay Anderson had been retired, George Anderson hit one into Klein's territory for two bases and was caught trying to make the hit more elastic than it really ought to be. Kohl followed with a clout for two and was scored by O'Brien, who singled to left, but was caught trying to get to second on the heave to the platter to catch Kohl.

This afternoon the last game of the La Crosse series will be played. Hughes will probably be sent in to take the third game from the Germans. Hughes has been pitching good ball for the Sox, and should bag the game from the hopeless band from John Elliott's town.

PIRATES DROP DOUBLE BILL

Dahlgren Wins Both Games Against Joe Killian's Pirates.

Cy Dahlgren was on the mound in both games of the double bill between Superior and Winona yesterday, winning both games, the first by the score of 5 to 1, and the second by the score of 2 to 0. In the eighteen innings he officiated, Dahlgren struck out twenty men and allowed but nine hits. With faultless support the Scandinavian would have had a shut-out in the first game. He held the pirates helpless in both games and his performance yesterday stamps him as one of the best twirlers in the league.

FITWELLS WANT TO PLAY CLOQUET HERE.

The following letter has been sent to the manager of the Cloquet ball team by Manager Frank Sears of the Fitwells:

"The Fitwell baseball team begs to make you the following proposition: We will play your team at the Athletic ball grounds at this city for a side bet of $100, the winners to receive 60 per cent of the gate receipts, the losers to take the 40 per cent, after all expenses are deducted. The lineups of both teams shall be the same as those used at last game played with your team. The umpires are to be chosen by either the sporting editor of the Duluth Evening Herald or the Duluth News Tribune, the money to be deposited with either of the above stated editors not later than Tuesday, Aug. 9.

"If the above terms are satisfactory to you, kindly let us know at once, so that we can make arrangements for the grounds.

"The reason we want to play here is because we can draw a better attendance here than we can draw at Superior, and besides we are entitled to a game here, as we have now played you three games at your grounds."

The Fitwells will go to Moose Lake next Sunday.

BROOKLYN MAKES IT THREE FROM CARDINALS.

Brooklyn, Aug. 4.—After using three pitchers who were wild and ineffective, Manager Bresnahan discarded his mask and protector in disgust and went into the box himself. He had good control, but was batted freely, fast fielding saving him. Brooklyn made it three straight, although Scanlon had to go to the rescue of Crable, a left hander recently secured from Galveston, who was also wild. Huggins and Konetchy were sent to the club house in the ninth inning by Umpire Eason for disputing decisions over strikes. Score:

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Is it that Lil' Artha Johnson is at last to realize the ambition of his life?

The question is one that the American automobiling racing board refused to answer.

Be it known, brother, that long has John Artha longed to mix in the automobile racing game. Persistently has he asked to be allowed to enter his car into the racing meets of the different cities. And just as persistently as Artha has knocked at the door of the racing association, just as regularly and quite as consistently has he been turned away.

Now comes that prince of notoriety seekers, Barney Oldfield, with the statement that he will meet the black fighter in a match race—provided, Bill, that Artha comes through with that $5,000 a side, which he has often stated he would like to wager against any of the speed kings.

Now listen. We have all had to admit that Lil' Artha can fight; there remains no question along this strenuous line of argument. But when it comes to driving a machine alongside of this Oldfield boy—why, mother, bring in the clothes, it is going to rain.

If John Artha has lots of money and truly a lover of excitement, why, then, let him go right ahead and wager $5,000 in cold coin of the realm that he can beat the demon flyer Oldfield across the line. But if times are not any too obese and proudly prosperous, Artha had best have a care about squandering his money on a race of this sort.

Artha has been mixed more or less in the race question since he first blossomed forth as the hope and pride of the black brothers. But if he goes a gambling with old father fate in a race with Oldfield, perhaps the grave question as to the man who is to meet and soundly defeat Mistah Johnson will be erased from the nation's mind.

This automobile racing game is one that is for the select few who bear charmed lives. Mr. Oldfield has killed several people during his career and upon numerous occasions has just missed being sent to join the silent majority. For all that he sends his big Benz around the tracks of the country for all the world as if he had not a care tucked beneath his silk cravat.

Johnson has established a very expensive reputation as a breaker of the laws the various city fathers have established for the protection of those who are not so fortunate as to possess the wherewithal to own a chug wagon. But wait, oh wait, till he lines up against a driver of the general care-free habits of this Oldfield boy, and it is a cinch bet that Artha will long for those athletic stunts with which he is more familiar.

Artha will be taking an awful chance, and there are those just mean and cross-grained enough to hope that in the event of the black man racing Oldfield, something sudden and totally unexpected will happen to his running gear.

To the man hanging safely to the limb of the figurative tree, it looks as if John Artha is trumping the ace of fate by ever starting automobile racing with such a wild and woolly driver as this Oldfield person.

Another Reformation.

Not so long ago in Gotham a benefit was given for Young Corbett. It was pointed out that the former featherweight champion was down and out and had tasted deeply of the dregs of adversity, not to mention other dregs.

We were told that he had seen the error of his way, that the primrose path was no more for him, but to the country he would hie himself, and there in some rustic cottage, he would commune with sweet nature.

It was a beautiful little thought, and the most tight fisted of the sports dug deeply to provide the erstwhile champion with a roll of decent size wherewith to purchase the cottage and a cow or two, so that when the burning thirst came upon him, little Corbett could drink long and lingeringly at the old milk pail, hung in the coolness of the well.

Now, we hear of the arrest of Young Corbett in New York, and the placing of the charge of disorderly conduct. The fine was only a five case note, but the pudgy boy had not the money to square himself with the magistrate.

These reforms of fighters are as a rule short lived. Terry McGovern used to reform about every month and get a benefit as the result. John L. Sullivan was one of the best reformers of the profesh. Kid Broad, he of the inhuman face, was another. There are many other cases.

These geeks make their money easily and spend it. Then they wait for the cash benefit. Most of them spend the benefit money, after several have had their dip out of it. Did you ever hear of the broken down village blacksmith getting a benefit? The only thing he gets is a poem. The arrest of Young Corbett only serves to call to mind the fact that benefits to fighters must be placed in the same general class as the efforts of the Republican party to reform the tariff.

Please Smile, Mister Mack.

News along the telegraph key tells of the everlasting lambasting of Lefty Russell by the Toronto team of the Eastern league. You surely have heard of this Russell person. He is the young man that Connie Mack, the astute leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, has paid $12,000 for. He is a pitcher, or at least Mr. Mack believed he was.

Here he goes in to pitch against the Toronto team and is driven from the mound. This baseball business is worse and more risky than insuring the lives of South American officials. You never can tell. It is getting to be a mania for paying war time prices for players. Comiskey has just raised the price paid for Russell, by paying $12,001 for a young star. This player may not be worth the draft price of the minor league he comes from. But—if you are going to have a winning team, why you must buy the players.

There is not the least local application in this last.

Hurrah for Jeffries.

From the quiet and almost forgotten precincts of Los Angeles, once famous as the home of a fighter, comes the statement that James J. Jeffries was not drugged in his fight with one Artha Johnson. We have had several reasons for the defeat of Jeffries. They are all more or less interesting and unique. One of these days someone will come out and say that it was because Johnson was the better man.

The Comeback Road.

Once more the American public is going to be plunged into a comeback guessing contest. This time it is Oscar Matthew Battling Nelson, who is to hold the lid on the Pandora box. He has challenged Wolgast again, and the German has promised to meet the Dane.

For many months Mr. Jeffries kept our minds burdened with the comeback puzzle. Now we are to have the Nelson boy in the role of the man who would—if he can. Many people thought the comeback puzzle had been settled once for all. If Wolgast and Nelson fight, it would be interesting to learn just how many will plunge their money on the battle-scarred Dane.

EDOLA WINS CLUB BURGEE

Carl Lonegren's Boat Cinches Pennant By Defeating the Thistle.

Carl Lonegren's Edola last night won the pennant offered for the eighteen-footers by taking the last but one of the races that have been sailed the present season. The winning of the Edola places the outcome of the series beyond doubt, as the Lonegren boat has a five-point lead over her nearest rival.

The race was sailed over the short course, only the Edola and Thistle competing. The Edola won out by 1:10.

As a result of the race of last evening the standing of the boats is as follows: Edola, 17 points; Thistle, 12; Firefly, 6. The last race in the series will be sailed next Wednesday evening.

A series of races for the younger members of the club is being arranged in which the club boats will be used. The first race is scheduled for Aug. 20.

JOE GANS MAY REACH BALTIMORE.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 4.—Battling against consumption for the greatest possible stake—his life—Joe Gans, the former lightweight champion pugilist, passed through here last night on the Santa Fe train to his home in Baltimore. Gans seemed improved. His attending physician said he might live for ten days or two weeks if a relapse did not come.

Yesterday a telegram was sent by Gans' present wife to Madge Gans, Chicago, a former wife of the pugilist, asking her to meet the train when it arrived in Chicago.

SAILORS WILL PLAY OARSMEN

Arrangements Made for Baseball Game Between Boat Club Members.

Arrangements are being made at the present time for a baseball game between the oarsmen and sailors of the Duluth Boat club. If the arrangements are completed satisfactorily, the game will be played at Athletic park and the proceeds probably devoted to some charitable institution.

In the rowing department of the club there are some very strong ball players. Three pitchers can be picked from the crew men. There is little Artie Michaud, with his fadeaway ball and big out drop. Then Louis Thompson has almost as much speed as Christy Mathewson, Simon Forgette is another twirler who has lots of box tricks.

The oarsmen played a baseball game while away on the regatta trip. They defeated the village team of Spooner, Minn., and in that game showed some real classy baseball. With the record of one victory and no defeats, the rowing men are anxious to meet the sailors on the diamond.

In the sailing department of the club there are also some very good baseball players. Chauncey Colton is a baseball player of tried ability. Charles Brewer is another member of the yatching men who can shine on the diamond.

Heretofore there have been games between the married and single men of the boat club. It is proposed this year to have the game between the oarsmen and sailors take the place of the game that in the past has provided much amusement for the members of the club.

DUDIE ARCHDALE EASY WINNER

Geers, Driving Little Mare, Wins M. & M. Stake at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—The Merchants' and Manufacturers' $10,000 stake was won easily in straight heats by the little black mare Dudie Archdale, with the veteran Geers in the sulky, at the fair grounds yesterday. The race was too one-sided to be to any great degree exciting, and the odds of 3 to 1 on Dudie Archdale over the entire field minimized the interest taken in the betting.

Yesterday's feature race was the third $10,000 event that the black trotter has won in as many weeks, the other two having been the Furniture Manufacturers' stake at Grand Rapids and the Paper Mills' $10,000 event at Kalamazoo.

Geers was applauded from the crowded grand stands each time he hobbled out on a crutch to take his sulky.

This week's meeting is the second at which Geers won both the Merchants' and Manufacturers' and the Chamber of Commerce stakes, two of the biggest annual events of the trotting turf.

The 2:20 trot went to Joan, after Sable Maid had captured the first heat. Wataga led the first heat to the half mile, but then dropped back. Sable Maid won her heat in a close finish.

May Day took the first heat of the 2:12 pace in 2:05½. In the second heat she led into the stretch, but broke badly and fell back to ninth position. Peter Pan won the heat. May Day won the next two heats from Peter Pan in slower time, the third heat affording one of the most exciting finishes of the afternoon.

Alcyfras and Water Hal each took a heat in the 2:07 pace, which was not finished.

FOLLIE LEVI WINS FEATURE AT EMPIRE CITY.

Empire City, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The feature of the card of getaway day was the Arrow Selling stake which resulted in a very easy victory for the 1 to 2 favorite, Follie Levi. She was under a strong pull all during the early part, but in the stretch came with a rush and won easily by a length.

CROOKSTON BOY KILLED

Telsford Dupont Rides Bicycle Against Team and Is Kicked to Death.

Rendered Unconscious, He Expires at Hospital Two Hours After Accident.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last evening, shortly before 8 o'clock, Telsford Dupont, 15 years of age, was thrown from his bicycle under a team of horses, which kicked him in the head, crushing his skull, death ending his sufferings at 10 o'clock at St. Vincent's hospital.

The boy was riding north on Broadway parallel with a team owned by a local furniture store, driven by Oliver Suprenant. The driver turned his team towards an alley and Dupont, not looking where he was riding, ran into the side of one of the horses, which wheeled and kicked him. He fell under the horses' feet, where blood clots and hair told of the fatal injury. He was hurried to Dr. Norman's office and then rushed to St. Vincent's hospital, but examination indicated at once that his injury was fatal.

Widowed Mother Grief Stricken.

His mother is a widow and is housekeeper for Father Tapin of the French Catholic church. She was notified and reached the hospital completely prostrated with grief. The boy never regained consciousness.

The accident was witnessed by scores, as it took place just across the street from the Hotel Crookston. The driver was not responsible for the fatality, which was a pure accident. Dr. Thomas Spence, who witnessed it from a second-story window, completely exonerated the driver, who is nearly distracted as a result of the fatal mishap.

DEPOSITORS GET 61 CENTS.

Suspended Security Savings Bank of Ashland Making Final Payment.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Receiver Schlecht is paying off the final dividends to Security Savings bank depositors, in the amount of three-fourths of 1 per cent, which will make a total of 61 per cent, that depositors have received.

When the bank failed, six years ago, there were about 1,600 depositors, but among this large number, quite a number of very small depositors have never filed claims, and according to law, not having made any claim for six years, the amounts due them will go to the state by Oct. 1. These amounts will foot up to about $2,500. Several years ago G. F. Sanborn offered to buy the remaining assets of the bank, for a net sum of about $20,000, which would have made the dividends only about 35 per cent, but the offer was refused, and Mr. Schlecht considers under the circumstances, that paying 61 cents on the dollar, is not such a bad showing after all. There will be no money paid after the ¾ per cent distribution now taking place, and on Oct. 1, the receivership will be closed.

BANKER KAISER IS OPTIMISTIC

Bagleyite Says Crop Results Will Not Be as Poor as Feared.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Kaiser, the Bagley banker, who was here yesterday afternoon en route home from Detroit, Minn., was optimistic regarding crop conditions in this section.

"We have a short crop," he said, "but it will be a crop that will more than pay expenses. It is not a disappointing crop, as indications have pointed to a short crop all summer because of the lack of rain. For this reason farmers and business men have been conservative and are not going to be embarrassed by the shortage.

"More money is going to be realized from the crop than was anticipated three weeks or a month ago, and things are going to move along nicely. The farmers are in good shape and the majority of them have good bank deposits and are in good shape in every way. We have nothing to grumble over, and have demonstrated what this section will do in the driest year ever experienced. Farmers are cultivating the land better, and as a result a crop is realized under most adverse conditions."

BRAINERD GIVEN WARNING.

Selling of Bottle Goods Liable to Close Up Saloons.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Indian Agent John T. Frater of Onigum, was in the city yesterday, and when seen relative to the dry conditions in the upper country, stated the fact that Brainerd and Bemidji had remained wet would cause a lot of attention to be drawn to these two towns. Any infractions of liquor laws would be promptly dealt with.

A thing which would certainly cause trouble and eventually might result in putting Brainerd in the dry territory was the almost universal practice of selling bottled whisky and other bottled goods. When such stuff falls into the hands of Indians every effort is made to trace the source of the Indian's supply.

Traveling Water Tanks Used By Railroads Fighting Flames Along Tracks.

Sandstone, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high winds of Wednesday fanned the fires in the burning swamps into a fury and the flames spread rapidly all along the line of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways in this county and assistance was asked from Brookpark repeatedly. The traveling water tanks which the railways use for checking fires along its lines were all in use and little could be done in such high wind to keep the blaze down.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE.

Remarkable Success Being Attained in Williams County, N. D.

Williston, N. D., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Williston, the center of one of the greatest sugar beet districts in the United States, is the hope of the local business men as a result of the wonderful success that farmers have already met with in the raising of these beets.

On the North Dakota experimental farm, located near here, sugar beets were raised very successfully. In fact, the beets raised were the subject of very favorable comment by a number of government officials engaged in making a tour of the Northwestern stations for the purpose of determining what work was being done. These men were C. C. Schofield, E. C. Chilcott, H. D. Kling and S. L. Warner, all connected with the department of agriculture.

Williams county soil, they declared, was remarkably well adapted to the raising of the sugar beets.

MANKATO BURGLAR BUSY

While Family Is Out Doors Watching Circus Parade.

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 4.—During the circus parade here, while the family of J. A. Presley were out viewing the affair, a burglar took advantage of the absence of every one and ransacked the house and made quite a haul. He got in by breaking a rear screen door, and then proceeded to go through the house and help himself with whatever he desired.

The articles taken were mostly those belonging to Ruth Presley, daughter of Walter Presley, and granddaughter of J. A. Presley. These consisted of a ladies' gold watch, valued at $75, some finger rings, bracelets and fobs and a little money.

The watch was one that belonged to the mother of the little girl, and is a very fine time piece, and aside from its monetary value was highly prized by the family on account of the sentiment connected with it.

ADDITIONS BEING BUILT TO JAMESTOWN COLLEGE.

Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jamestown college will have two new buildings by the time of the opening of the fall term, unless there should be an unforseen setback in the operations, which just now are in a very satisfactory condition. A new girls' dormitory and the president's residence are the structures that are being raised, and both are of the very best brick construction. The question of raising funds for the completion of the buildings is one that President Kroeze and four committees are just now interesting themselves with considerable success.

SMALL FRUITS SCARCE.

Housewives Will Not Have Extra Supply of Canned Goods.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Canned fruit is likely to be a good deal of luxury the coming winter. Local grocers report that summer and fall fruits are scarcer and higher in price this year than for some time. In Northern Michigan, the fruit and berry crop is almost a total failure, due to frosts in the late spring and to the early summer drought. Blueberries and raspberries are not to be found in sufficient quantities to pay pickers to go out into the woods and slashings for them, and the outside buyers, who regularly come here about this time have passed up this territory altogether this season. Even the home grocerymen cannot get enough berries to anywhere near supply their trade.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"Oh!" said the plump matinee girl.

"Oh!" said the one who wore a blonde bundle of jute that she fondly imagined looked as though it grew there.

"Oh!" said the matinee girl with eye glasses.

"Oh!" boomed the contralto whisper of the one with freckles on her nose.

"O-o-oh!" they said together in chorus, and a sigh as of the gentle tremor of spring passed over the Lyceum. Gus Forbes had come on the stage, quiet, intense, masterful, with an ache in his heart, and dust of gray over his right temple, slightly cynical, glad that he had been loved, preserving high ideals, with a broad sombrero, and a careless cigarette drooping from his mouth, a sombre gleam in his eyes and spurs clicking on the floor, and gloves with fringe on them and so intense—who wouldn't sigh.

"O-o-h!" it almost became audible. Mr. Forbes came right forward and said the words he had learned just as if zephyrs were not passing back and forth on the other side of the footlights.

"I am here," he said, and you ought to have seen that Mexican Jose just shrink and shrivel up. It was grand.

"Oh!" said the plump matinee girl with an intensity that one would hardly have expected.

"M-m-m!" said the one who wore a bundle of blonde jute where most people have hair, fairly holding her breath in ecstacy.

"H-m-mm," said the one with eye glasses, while she took them off that nothing might be between her and her hero.

"Oh gee!" said the contralto one who had freckles on her nose.

With a glorious indifference Mr. Forbes played on. He suffered and said no word. He wondered sorrowfully why his wife could not let whisky alone. He thought bitterly of the neglect forced upon himself and his child—no, no, that was another play—anyway he suffered. And with his suffering suffered the matinee girl. With his sorrow, sorrowed she and when one gleam of hope flutterel onto the horizon, how Mr. Forbes and the matinee girl both leaped for it.

"Doesn't he look grand?" asked the plump matinee girl.

"When it comes to wearing Western togs," said the one with the blonde bundle of jute, "he has Dustin Farnum skun a mile."

"My eye," said the matinee girl with eye glasses. "He certainly knocks the spots off of anything in the cowboy line I've ever seen."

"Oh, gee!" said the matinee girl who wore freckles on her nose.

"What's next week's bill? Let's get our tickets on the way out,' they said all in chorus.

Doesn't it seem that it's just about the time you've reached Nirvana or some one of those lofty and unexciting planes, that you walk along in the dark with your arms outstretched and it is then that one arm goes on each side of the door and its edge endeavors to disarrange your nose that isn't any too shapely at best? How quickly comes the descent from Nirvana!

DANCES IN LONDON.

Russian Dancer Appears at Fashionable Cotillion.

In view of the local engagement in November of the Russian dancers, Pavlova and Mordkin, the following item, in which Mordkin figures, will be of interest to many who are anticipating the "ocular opera" of the Russian dancers:

"There was a striking and beautiful imitation American freak entertainment at a recent cotillon given in London by Mrs. Vincent, an extremely wealthy lady of honor and niece of Speaker Lowther. After the first figure, wherein only thirty-five picked couples participated, the music stopped and there was wheeled into the room a huge basket of flowers. Suddenly the flowers fell apart, and out jumped Mme. Paverola, the famous Russian dancer. Between every figure of the cotillon Mme. Paverola or her late partner, M. Mordkin, danced, receiving $500 for each number, making the total cost of the entertainment one of the most expensive in London.

"During the first number, owing to the absence of rosin on the floor, Paverola slipped, but did not injure herself, the hostess exclaimed gleefully: 'If she had injured her ankle I would have been obliged to pension her with thousands of pounds. How fortunate!'"

THE DOCTOR

Refreshing Sleep.

To imagine that anyone will be benefited by being boxed up in an airtight bedroom for seven or eight hours is one of those senseless beliefs which die very hard. But even among those who have so far advanced as to recognize the necessity for fresh air in their bedroom during the hours of slumber, there are few who know that it is bad to sleep in a light room. The best way of darkening a bedroom is undoubtedly by the use of outside shutters, after the style of Venetian blinds which allow free passage to the air. But few houses are so fitted, and the only thing we can do in the majority of cases is to have a dark green Holland blind inside. The bed, if at all possible, should not face the window, yet very often this is the only position for it, and the dark blind then becomes a necessity. The action of the morning light on the eyes of a sleeper is most injurious; it acts on the brain, too, and is the cause frequently of the feeling we will describe by the words "more tired than when I went to bed."

Inflamed Gums.

If the teeth are washed twice daily, with the occasional help of some disinfectant tooth powder, inflammation of the gums will rarely occur. When it has actually set in, any matter between the teeth and gums should be pressed out, all tartar removed from the teeth, and the following mouth wash used frequently: Two drachms of chlorate of potash, five drams of glycerine of borax and water to make ten ounces. Here is another useful mouth wash, which is both soothing and antiseptic: Half a drachm of salicylic acid, three drams of rectified spirit and camphor water to make eight ounces.

Blood Blisters On the Hand.

In case of blisters from rowing or the like it is best to "grin and bear it," for nature hardens the palms eventually. Glycerine of tannin, or brandy and salt, or menthylated spirits would harden skin to some extent, and 10 to 20 drops of tincture belladonna twice daily would check sweating to some extent. Lotions of alum, boric acid, or salicylic acid are also cooling and astringent, but nature soon compensates by hardening skin quickly after a week or two "in harness."

THE EVENING STORY

TROUBLE IN CHINA

By Arnold Goldsworthy.

"This Chinese trouble seems to be getting serious," said Dixon, as he laid down the paper.

"Oh, I don't know," said the captain, filling his pipe with a leisurely calm; "there's always going to be trouble out there, but it never comes to much. I remember once being in command of a cargo boat off the coast of Pekin—"

"If you'll excuse the interruption, captain," interposed Griggs, "I should like to point out that Pekin is at least a hundred miles from the coast and—"

"Yes, I know it is—now," said the captain, with a weary sigh; "but I'm talkin' of days before you were born. I remember the facts distinctly because I owned a bit of ground there when Pekin was on the coast. But the great earthquake of '66 picked the city up bodily and flung it several miles up country. During the rush a couple of houses were routed up and dropped on to my land; and then, of course, the delicate question arose as to whether those houses belonged to me or whether I had a case against the owner of them for unlawful trespass."

"A very nice legal point," said Dixon, "I should like to know how it was settled. I have heard a good deal about the skill of Chinese lawyers."

"Well, it was soon settled as far as I was concerned," replied the captain. "The mandarin said that if I liked to present my claim with proper formality I should be entitled to the choice of two alternatives. Either could have liberty to leave the place within twenty-four hours or be taken outside the city gates and skinned alive by the public executioner. After thinking the matter over I decided to leave the place. But to come back to my cargo boat. Just as we were running into Pekin harbor, a missionary came alongside in a rowing boat and warned us not to land, as there was trouble to Europeans on shore. I told him he could stay out of it if he liked, but as I'm rather a handy man to have around where there's trouble about I was going to see the fun. I soon found that the missionary was right, for I hadn't been on shore two minutes before a Chinaman stabbed me in the back, and that clearly pointed to trouble of some sort."

"It certainly did look as if someone was trying to make himself unpleasant," said Dixon.

"Yes," said the captain; "but I've a short way with Chinamen. I grabbed the rascal by the shoulder and threw him across my knee and snapped his backbone like a twig. Then I cut his pigtail off—"

"To keep as a memento, I suppose?" said Griggs.

"Rubbish!" said the captain. "A Chinaman's pigtail was worth a bit of money in those days, and I've always had a pretty keen eye for the main chance. When I got on the top of the street there was crowd of about fifty Chinamen, and one of them shouted to me in pidgin English that if I didn't go back to my ship I should be killed. But I never did take truck from Chinamen. I picked up the nearest one to me and threw him right into the crowd, bowling over half a dozen of them like ninepins. Every time one of them ran out to me I treated him in the same way till inside of two minutes the whole lot of them were lying on the ground stunned and helpless. I was just cutting off their pigtails and congratulating myself on a profitable morning's work when I heard a cry for help in English and the next moment a pretty young girl came tearing down the street towards me."

"Lucky captain," murmured Dixon.

"May be your idea of luck, but it isn't mine!" retorted the captain. "I've always found that when there's any trouble it's always worse when there's a woman in it."

"Hear, hear!" said Griggs. "I'm a married man myself."

"I don't mean like that," said the captain, "because I'm a single man. What I mean is that when there's trouble about, women want such a lot of looking after that they make the danger worse for everyone else. This girl, for instance, was coming along, followed by two or three hundred of the fiercest Chinamen you ever saw. I could have taken care of myself very easily, but her presence complicated matters a lot. In a flash I decided what to do. There was a two-story house alongside, and I rushed into that, knotting my pigtails together as I ran up the stairs. When I got to the first floor window I dropped one end of my pigtail rope and shrieked to the girl to hang on to it like—er—like anything. She was a smart girl, I'll say that much for her, and she didn't want to stay and argue about it as so many of these women do. She hung on and I pulled her up to the window two seconds ahead of a ruffian who was close at her heels with a knife as long as your arm."

"And you both lived happy after that, I suppose?" Dixon said to the captain.

"I don't know anything about the girl," said the captain, "because I left her shortly after that, and never saw her again; but I've had a pretty good time myself, thanks."

"But you didn't leave her in that house alone?" queried Griggs.

"Of course not," said the captain, snappily.

"As a matter of fact there wouldn't have been much left of her in ten minutes if I had, because when the Chinamen saw how smartly I had fooled them they were so mad that they set fire to the house. When I saw them running up to the door with burning fagots and heaps of straw, I shouted out that I would begin shooting at them if they didn't go away. Unfortunately just as I was ready to carry my threat into effect I discovered that while I had brought powder and bullets with me—cartridges were too dear in those days—I had left my pistols behind me on the ship. 'Pon my word, for the moment I thought we were done for that time."

"Did you escape alive after all?" inquired Dixon with a sly wink at the crowd.

"What d'ye mean—escape alive?" queried the captain angrily. "How could I be sitting here telling you the story if I didn't escape alive?"

"I don't know," said Dixon promptly. "But you seem such a very resourceful person that I shouldn't have been surprised to hear that you had a way of coming to again after you had been burned to ashes."

"You're talking through your hat, young man," said the captain with a derisive smile. "As a matter of fact, the girl and I escaped unharmed, and I'll tell you how we did it. It took me the best part of two minutes to think up a way out of the hole we were in, and I admit that it is rather a long time to be hesitating when every second counts, but I told the girl to follow me up to the roof of the house, and as soon as we got there I could see my ship lying in the harbor a mile away. With the girl's help I tore up one of the rafters of the house and laid it on the roof so that it pointed in the direction of the ship. Then I routed up one of the chimney pots, and stuck one end of the rafter in the mouth of it while I filled the other end of it with all the powder I had brought with me. There was a bit of risk about the experiment, but the girl was very plucky, and she said she was willing to take it if I was. So we both sat astride the rafter and hung on like grim death while I fired the powder. It would have done you fellows good to have heard the roar of disappointment that went up from the Chinese devils as we shot from the roof and went sailing through the air towards the harbor. We struck the water within wo or three yards of my ship, and a few minutes later we were safe and sound on deck. There was some talk about giving me the Humane society's medal for life-saving, but it never came to anything."

"I can quite understand that," said Griggs. "The Humane society is usually rather particular about the facts of the case when it is giving rewards."

"Well, haven't I given you the facts?" queried the captain in a tone that implied that he could not see what more was wanted. "I've talked my throat dry over 'em. What more can I do?"

"Moisten it again, captain," said Dixon. "Waiter!"

WHY MEN DISLIKE WOMEN'S CLUBS

By CLARA PALMER GOETZINGER.

The secret of why so many men, especially husbands, dislike women's clubs is because so many wives have so little system in their homes that they either leave their homes in a muddle every club day, or else work like slaves the day before and are almost sick the day after in order to attend the club.

Perhaps other men dislike the mannish performance of some of the club advocates of the past. During the present generation there has never been a sign of stiff collars, stiff hats, divided skirts, etc., in the woman's clubs. On the contrary the attire of most club women is sweetly feminine and alluring indeed.

The great difficulty I find in many of the most exclusive clubs is to restrain the lavishness of gowns and expenditures for hats, etc., second to (the great and only reasons why women's clubs should exist) cultivation, protection, preservation, progression, education, and genuine philanthropy.

If these six great and glorious reasons for the existence of club life for women come second to the clothes of the members of any club, the object is lost and the club absolutely useless, aimless, and snobbish.

The objects of any useful club will make the influence of its results forcibly felt before the attire or financial status of its members are considered. To possess brains and to know how to exercise them is by far a richer asset than to inherit wealth with small knowledge of how to use it.

Choose a woman's club which is known by its deeds of good than by its membership. Choose a club which will teach you something and from which you can learn to retain an interest and expand upon the questions of the day rather than to meet members of the "400." If you have no higher object than to "meet people" do not join any club. Not but that "meeting people" is one of the ways of progression, but it is the gateway only, and not the entire path.

FADS OF THE FASHIONS

An odd and pretty frock is of yellow messaline with a tunic of back net.

Parasols now come with handles colored and twisted into the semblance of Chanteclers.

Funny little pencils that are attached to one's neckchain or slip into one's purse or gloves are German novelties. They are in the form of a wee green frog—from whose mouth the pencil issuges—a demijohn, a bottle, a golf club, a fiddle, a watch and other familiar objects not usually used to write with.

* * *

The spray of orchids is the distinguishing mark of the smartly dressed woman of the moment, and one sees the ghostly blossoms—ghostly in spite of their purple, rose or pinkish-mauve tint—stretching their delicate petals across the corsage of the gleaming evening gown or adding a touch of exotic softness to the smartly severe cut of my Lady Modish's tailored coat.

* * *

Quite the most sensible and practical attire for the young girl's everyday wear is a neat serge skirt and simple, dainty washing blouses.

* * *

Velvet or ribbon bows may be given new life without removing them from the hat by using a curling iron. It should be made quite hot, then covered loosely with a wet cloth and inserted into the loops, opening iron as wide as loops demand and holding it there until loops are dry, when they will look like new.

A tiny notebook that may be carried on one's fob or neckchain has a nickel cover, which is kept in place by a pencil which runs through two rings attached to the two sides of the cover. The tiny pads which fill the cover may be bought separately to replenish the wee book.

HINTS FOR THE BOUDOIR

By MILDRED WYCKOFF

Be Your Own Manicure.

You can train yourself to be your own manicure; there is no need to buy a book on the subject, nor is an elaborately fitted manicure case necessary.

Four implements suffice, and in fact three are all that are absolutely required—a pair of nail scissors, a nail file and a chamois-covered polisher will answer all purposes, but an orange stick stick may be added for keeping the cuticle, or scarf-skin, back from the nail.

Prepare the nails for manicuring by holding them for a few minutes in a bowl of warm soapy water. This softens the nails, so that they can be cut or filed without breaking. They should be kept just the length of the fingers, and trimmed in an oval curve. After trimming the nails, push the scarf-skin down closely about the base, so that the lunula—commonly called the "half-moon"—shows distinctly.

As your nails have been neglected, it will take time and patience to get them right; but a few weeks' attention daily will accomplish wonders. If the scarf-skin has grown upon the nail, do not trim it off, but push it carefully back, using the rounded tip of the file; if necessary, lift the skin from the nail, but avoid breaking it.

A little polishing powder may be used once or twice a week, and a light rubbing with the chamois polisher every day gives the finighing touch to manicuring.

* * *

The Matter of Massage.

Massage treatments should not be fewer than two a week. If the professional services of a masseuse cannot be afforded, one must work at home night and morning with system and faithfulness. Five to fifteen minutes should be spent each night in rubbing out lines, and if out too late to do justice to the treatment, cold water dashed onto the face in the morning (following a hot sponge and cold-cream massage of five minutes) will make the face look well and feel firmer and better all day. Just a few moments' proper care each day will achieve wonderful results.

A Pleasant Mouth Wash.

Half a teaspoonful of lemon juice squeezed into a glass of lukewarm water, with which you clean your teeth, gives a delighted feeling of cleanliness to the mouth. Rinse it after with water only, as the acid of the lemon, if left in the mouth, injures the enamel of the teeth.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Conversation Is Triumphant and Taft Is Conserved to the Glory of Eberhart---Senator Vail Takes an Apprehensive Look at His Fences---St. Louis Delegation Commended for Good Work---Wisconsin and North Dakota Topics.

Now is conversation triumphant, and President Taft will attend the conservation congress at St. Paul next month. The eloquent conversation of Governor Eberhart, of Herman Lindeke and of the other members of the delegation of persuasion that journeyed to Beverly having prevailed, the president has consented to address the gathering where Roosevelt and Pinchot will be the favorites. So, if he doesn't change his mind again, President Taft will be heard in Minnesota Sept. 5. Secretary Ballinger, however, is not insisted upon as one of the headliners on the speakers' list.

Is the Triumph of Conversation.

Speaking of Ballinger, that secretary was in Minneapolis yesterday, on the way from Chicago to the coast. He made those characteristic remarks when he was told of the report that Senator Crane had tipped it off to him to tie a can to himself:

"It's all nonsense. It's a mean, contemptible lie without a grain of truth. It has never been suggested to me that I resign, and I have not been asked to resign. Furthermore, I have no such intention.

"I want to say most emphatically that not a single word passed the lips of either Senator Crane or myself, relative to myself or my personal affairs."

* * *

P. R. Vail, the Virginia brewer who wants to succeed himself in the state senate as the member from the Forty-ninth, was in Duluth Tuesday and yesterday. He is said to be a bit nervous about his fences, although nobody has yet filed against him for the nomination. It is understood, however, that he realizes there is something due to drop in the district that will be disastrously shocking to his single ambition and has made up his mind to spend that brewery judiciously if not prodigally.

"Paddy" Vail, the Unavailing, and His Fences.

Of course, Mr. Vail has said that he never did say he would spend "the whole damned brewery" to beat whoever might run against him, but he seems to be in the minority on that point, anyway.

Anyway, Mr. Vail is intent upon the business of fence-mending.

* * *

St. Louis county's Democracy continues to receive words of praise for its good work at the Minneapolis convention, when it fought stubbly for the performance of duty in carrying out the unmistakable mandate of the rank and file of the party. Even among the delegates in the convention against whom its efforts were in the main directed the St. Louis delegation was accorded the compliment of having stuck to its guns and carried the day and the press of the state has not been slow to add its tribute of appreciation.

Another Bouquet For St Louis County

The Albert Lea Standard has this to say of the delegation's steadfastness in the hurly-burley of the onslaughts of the Twin City noise-makers:

"In the trying hours of the Democratic state convention, when the gang was resorting to every possible desperate tactics to defeat the majority which stood for the overwhelming sentiment and the honor of the party throughout the state, St. Louis county, Duluth, forty-eight votes surely every time, was splendidly in line with colors true and backed the reform forces to the limit. The aid and comfort that such support gave was of inestimable importance and greatly helped to win the day. And so here's heartfelt thanks to the noble men of St. Louis! Glory be, and forever, to steadfast and splendid Duluth!"

A. S. Chase of Faribault, who was in the city last evening, said that in Southern Minnesota popular interest in the Lind nomination and its baffling sequel has been intense. It was generally believed in that part of the state, Mr. Chase said, that Mr. Lind would, without question, accept the nomination, and he added that even now many of the people of that section are convinced that in the end the Democratic nominee for governor will accede to the demand of the people and consent to serve.

Still Believe Lind Will Accept.

This sentiment is growing in many quarters. The silence of the voyaging ex-governor and the guesses and surmises of those he left wondering behind him are having the effect, apparently, of inducing a belief that when he does return he will be found reconciled to the task set before him by the rank and file of his party.

Leading Republicans of Duluth profess to see no chance of acceptance on the part of Mr. Lind. Some of them, facetiously inclined, have volunteered to run, "if you can't find anyone else who will."

Sidney A. Anderson, insurgent candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the First district, has promulgated his platform and the progressive league of the district will follow suit with the publication of its platform tomorrow or Saturday. Mr. Anderson, after announcing that he is a candidate and saying he believes the voters are entitled to know why he is, continues:

Platform Of An Insurgent.

"I make the following declaration of principles and pledges:

"I believe in a representative form of government, and that the system called Cannonism is a menace to a government by the people, a source of unequal distribution of the burden of taxation and of discrimination in favor of big business in national legislation.

"I will not vote for Cannon for speaker, and am in favor of committee appointments being made by the house.

"I am in favor of an immediate revision of the tariff downwards to the extent of the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad.

"I believe that the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is a discrimination in the interest of the East against the West, and I favor a more equitable adjustment of the tariff schedules, so that the farming interests shall not bear an unjust proportion of the tax burden.

"I believe that our natural resources are the birthright of the people, and therefore favor the conservation policies of Theodore Roosevelt, and the preservation of the natural resources for the people.

"I favor liberal appropriation by congress for the detection of land and timber thieves and persons who, by fraud, have enriched themselves at the public expense.

"Believing that the issue in this campaign is whether the people or the interests shall rule this nation, and that the rights and interests of the people should be fully protected against the constant encroachments of corporate interests, I submit to every right-thinking voter this declaration of principles, and solicit your earnest support at the coming primary election."

Political conditions in Wisconsin are chaotic, according to B. E. Edwards, the street railway magnate of La Crosse, who is in Duluth. Mr. Edwards takes no active part in politics, but is a close observer of public affairs. For all of that, however, he seems to feel that the trend of things political in the Badger state is past finding out.

Badger State Politics Is Interesting.

"The Democratic organization has been badly demoralized," he said, 'since the coming of La Follette into the field. An attempt is now being made to recast the lines of party association, but without much prospect of success. The fight in the state this year will be much the same as it has been for some time---La Follette against the field."

C. W. Grimes of La Crosse, not a magnate but a traveling man whose line is electrical things, and who is a non-conductor of standpatism, said at the Spalding last evening that he took the liveliest interest in the Wisconsin political puzzle, and has no hesitancy in declaring that La Follette will be the victor, in spite of the desperate efforts of the stalwarts to down him.

"And did you see what they did to 'em in Kansas!" he said.

The Blue Earth Post suggests that Candidate Quigley, who has filed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Second district against Congressman W. S. Hammond, is about due to write a letter to Mr. Hammond, Mr. Ellsworth and Col. Ward, "requesting them to get off the earth" and leave it to be settled between Quigley and McCleary whom it shall be that will represent the district in congress next year. Mr. McCleary ought to agree to that, at least. But as the signs portend that Mr. McCleary isn't going to cut much of a figure in the pre-primary campaign, it probably makes little difference what he may think of this scheme, or of any other scheme.

E. A. Lindgren, who was indorsed for county treasurer by the Democratic county convention at Eveleth, and whose intention it is to file as a candidate soon, went up on the ranges today on business relating to land deals. He is widely and favorably known on the ranges, and probably will not overlook the opportunity his business trip affords to interview prospective participants in the approaching primary and general elections.

There will be a meeting of the West Duluth Republican club in the rooms of the West Duluth Commercial club Saturday night, when the committee on arrangements for the club's annual banquet will report. It is proposed to hold the banquet Aug. 25. The date will not be definitely fixed until the meeting is held.

FLICKERTAIL POLITICS

Complete returns from all counties show that the vote cast in the North Dakota Republican primaries ran from 11 to 16 per cent lighter than two years ago. The heaviest vote was on the long term senatorship indicating not only that greatest interest centered on that office, but also that the candidate is fortunate who draws top place on the ticket. Contests for attorney general and commissioner of agriculture also were one-sided.

How The Flickertails Voted.

These are the figures, official except that the canvassing board has yet to pass upon them:

For United States senator (long term)—Hanfin, 2,306; McCumber, 26,455; Marshall, 25,287; Midtbo, 3,717.

For lieutenant governor—Burdick, 29,421; Sharpe, 23,726.

For secretary of state—Henry, 18,015; House, 10,328; Norton, 19,833; Vosber, 6,049.

For attorney general—Adamson, 18,697; Miller, 34,745.

For railroad commissioners—Anderson, 29,099; Paddock, 20,643; Mann, 32,676; Massingham, 10,676; Purcell, 25,299; Stutsman, 25,871.

* * *

Maintaining the traditions of their factions, the stalwarts and the progressives are again at war in the Republican party, the organization of the state central committee being the bone of contention this time. Its personnel is being made up this week by the county committee meetings which must all be held before Aug. 10. Fights for control have been witnessed in all of the county committees that have so far organized, Barnes, Burleigh and Ramsey furnishing the initial fireworks.

Scraps For Committee Places.

At the meeting of the state committee at Bismarck, Sept. 10, the results of these county contests will become known. It is unlikely that definite information as to the complexion of the organization will be obtainable before that time.

The fact that the primary election does not provide for any definite method of calling the county committees together resulted in two calls being issued in Burleigh county. One of these calls had the meeting fixed for Monday of this week, while the other one had it set for Tuesday. The Monday call prevailed and organization was effected with the Patterson forces in control, E. G. Patterson being chairman with W. H. McMasters as state committeeman.

Each county committee elects members of the state committee from each of the legislative districts, and in the counties where there is more than one legislative district, rivalries for places as state committeemen will be exceptionally warm. Grand Forks, Cass and Ward each has three legislative districts, while a great many others have two. There are forty-seven legislative districts in the state.

SOME BRIEF INTERVIEWS WITH ZENITH CITY VISITORS

TRI-STATE TELEPHONE OFFICIALS HERE.

A. J. Seymour of Minneapolis, chief engineer of the Tri-State Telephone company, was in the city yesterday and, accompanied by A. J. McCulloch, local manager of the company, and Charles Stockerson of Detroit, Mich., went to the Twin Cities last night. These gentlemen are to confer with the general officers of the company on the affairs of the local exchange and perhaps out of these conferences will result some plans of much interest to Duluth. The Tri-State has begun work on the new West end exchange building and will erect a second branch in West Duluth, besides a large central exchange building on First avenue.

STREET RAILWAY MAGNATE SEEKING COOL BREEZES.

B. E. Edwards and Miss Edwards of La Crosse are in the city a few days, guests at the Spalding, seeking relief from the heat that has prevailed for months in the Southern Wisconsin city. Mr. Edwards is a street railway magnate in that city and one of its old residents. He says that in all the time he has lived there he has never before experienced such a hot, dry season. The pastures are bare and the trees are losing their foliage, but the crops have not been destroyed. Mr. Edwards and his daughter will go to Isle Royale in a few days.

FIRM OF HOTEL OWNERS IS BRANCHING OUT.

John Rigby of the firm of Perry & Rigby, proprietors of the Spalding hotel in Duluth, the Threadgill in Oklahoma, the new Leland in Springfield, Ill., now being built, and prospective owners of the Quincy, in Quincy, Ill., is in the city with a party of friends on a pleasure trip. They came to this city on the Juniata yesterday and will return to Oklahoma by train. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. Rigby, Mrs. Baker, R. L. Anderson and A. D. Farmer, all of Oklahoma city, where Mr. Rigby represents the firm as resident proprietor of the Threadgill.

The Perry-Rigby company is now negotiating for the purchase of the Quincy hotel, the leading one of that Illinois city, and it is probable the deal will be definitely decided upon, one way or the other, in a short time. Mr. Rigby's visit to Duluth has no immediate bearing on these negotiations, however. He is taking a vacation.

Speaking of business conditions in Oklahoma, he said that they are good, that the state is prosperous and that Oklahoma city is growing steadily. The cool weather at the Head of the Lakes is being enjoyed immensely by the visitors from the Southwest.

WILL NOT TALK ON SPANISH SITUATION.

Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul, who is visiting in Duluth, absolutely refused to talk on the Spanish crisis when a Herald man asked him for a statement yesterday. He declared he had nothing to say on the subject.

Relations between the Catholic church and the government of Spain are strained. As one of the foremost prelates of the Catholic church in America, Archbishop Ireland's views on the subject were looked for with interest, but he declined to give them.

CHIPPEWA FALLS AS SHOE MANUFACTURING CITY.

B. D. Viles of Chippewa Falls, Wis., manager of the Chippewa Falls Gas company, is a visitor to the city, accompanied by his son. He is on a pleasure trip, but takes time to do some conservative and effective boosting for his home town. Chippewa Falls, Mr. Viles says, is becoming a big shoe manufacturing point. There are half a dozen factories there now and another one is being built. It will be a four-story brick building. Since the decline of the sawmill as a mainstay of the Northern Wisconsin town, Chippewa has had at times painted its own future in pigments of gloom, but optimism, with growth and prosperity to back it has succeeded to that phase of feeling, Mr. Viles said.

REMEMBERS DULUTH AS MERE VILLAGE.

A. S. Chase of Faribault, a banker, who formerly lived in Duluth, spent several hours in the city last evening, accompanied by Mrs. Chase. He regretted that Col. Graves, minister to Sweden, had left the city for the East before he arrived in Duluth. They are old friends. It is three years since Mr. Chase has visited the city and he mentioned many changes that have been made in that time.

"Col. Graves and I remember when Duluth was little more than a cowpath and a couple of houses," he said. "I have always believed Duluth was going to be a great city and everything I see today convinces me that my belief has always been well founded. Practically all my property interests are right here and I consider Duluth my home in many ways."

OBSTACLE IS REMOVED

Minnesota Canal and Power Company May Proceed With Plans.

Granted Permission By Government to Use Public Lands.

With the issuing of a permit to the Minnesota Canal & Power company, a local concern, by the interior department, signed yesterday at Washington, by Acting Secretary Pierce, the Duluth company has won its first victory in a litigation which has been carried on in the courts of Minnesota and the United States supreme court for almost fifteen years.

This permit removes the big obstacle, the attorneys for the company claim, and from now on the plans may be pushed, although it will require considerable time to bring matters to a successful conclusion.

The company proposes to harness the waters of St. Louis county, converting them into gigantic power producers for the benefit of the municipalities and concerns which have need of large amounts of electrical power. While it will be a competitor of the Great Northern Power company, the local men connected with the Minnesota Canal & Power company state that there will be sufficient business for both.

It is the plans of the company to build a navigable channel from Birch Lake to Lake Superior. Birch river, which flows to the north into Rainy river will be dammed, and a canal made west to Embarrass river and lake, and then from these to St. Louis river.

In the western part of Duluth, a large plant will be erected which will furnish electrical power. The minimum of more than 30,000-horse power will be produced at this point, while as high as 75,000-horse power can be produced if necessary. This will be accomplished through the ability of the company to open out a stream from St. Louis river of more than 600 cubic feet of water per second.

Three Reservoirs.

Three reservoirs will be constructed by the company, one at Birch Lake, the second, to be known as the Isabelle reservoir, including the Bald Eagle and Gabbro lakes and nearby waters, while the third will be made from the Kawisiwi river, and will be known by that name.

The company was incorporated on April 15, 1893, when plans were first made to carry out this project. A survey of all the land needed in the scheme was made, and shortly afterwards a petition was presented to the district court of this state for the condemnation of land necessary. The court denied this petition. Several other petitions were made but all received similar denials.

In 1904 the matter was taken before the United States supreme court, where it was decided that the company would have to secure governmental permission to use government land before any condemnation proceedings could be carried out.

This decision was followed by a petition to the department of the interior, and another one to the war department. For six years this matter has been before the two departments and nothing was accomplished until a few weeks ago, when word was received by the officers that their petition had been granted. Nothing was officially completed until yesterday when the permit was signed by Acting Secretary Pierce.

The license is a revocable one, in which it is clearly stipulated that no easement is granted to the company, it is understood that the company is given the right to use this land for the development of power for public use as long as the company complies with all the laws and regulations imposed by the department.

This is the first permit for the development of public lands for water power sites issued by the government during the Taft administration.

The officers of the company at the present time are: George Braunling, of New York, president; H. H. Hanford, Duluth, vice president; James L. Cromwell, Duluth, secretary and treasurer; Harry G. Gearhart and Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer of Duluth, attorneys. Mr. Cromwell is the successor to Omar H. Simmonds, who died during the past year.

Petitions are now being made by the company to be presented to the district court for the condemnation of land necessary for the proposed reservoirs and canal. Very little land has been purchased outright, although, it is claimed, some options have been secured. Since the decision of the department of the interior in the issuing of the permit, no trouble is expected in the condemnation proceedings.

Active work on the building of the canal will not be started for some time after the securing of the land, as there are many improvements over the old plans under consideration.

This company claims that it will have the advantage over the Northern Power company, in that it will not only use the natural flow of the St. Louis river and other bodies of water which will make up the canal system, but it will have these reservoirs, elevated at high altitudes, which will furnish greater power. At West Duluth there will be a waterfall of about 604 feet. The company's competitor, they claim, has but the natural flow of one river, which has been dammed.

SENATOR GORE SAYS THAT SHERMAN WAS INTERESTED

The bribery offer, said Senator Gore, followed his opposition to the approval by congress of what are known as the McMurray contracts which affect the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes of Indians.

By these contracts, he said, J. F. McMurray, an attorney and associates, were to receive 10 per cent of the profits on the sale of 450,000 shares of coal and asphalt lands belonging to the Indians. As a New York syndicate stood ready to pay $50,000,000 for the lands, the 10 per cent to the McMurray interest for "attorney's fees," would realize $3,000,000, said the senator.

Senator Gore appeared before the special investigating committee which convened here today as a direct result of charges made by him in the United States senate on June 24.

Miller on Committee.

Besides Chairman Burke of North Dakota, other members of the investigating committee are: Congressman Philip P. Campbell of Kansas; Clarence B. Miller of Minnesota; John H. Stephens of Texas, and F. W. Saunders of Virginia. Chairman Burke said the committee, after taking evidence here, would visit McAlester, Oklahoma City and other parts of the state to obtain from the Indians direct information as to how the contracts were obtained from them.

When called upon by the chairman of the committee, Charles H. Burke of South Dakota, to testify, Senator Gore told his story.

"In 1908," said Senator Gore, "President Roosevelt refused to give his approval to certain contracts which McMurray had secured with the Indians as tribes. Under the law the contracts made with the tribes of Indians were not valid until approved by the president. In the same year McMurray procured contracts individually with about 10,000 of the Indians whereby the Indians were to give 10 per cent of the gross receipts in the sale of their lands.

Would Not Support Contracts.

"McMurray came to my office at Washington and wanted me to support his contracts. I told him I would not do so, but on the other hand, I thought it would be absurd for the Indians to pay that vast sum of money for services which the government was in duty bound to perform. The McMurray interests then went to President Roosevelt and I sent a telegram to the president urging him not to approve the contracts.

"It was notable how active were the McMurray interests. When I called on the secretary of the interior to protest against the contracts I was told not to talk so loud, as Ex-Senator Long of Kansas was present and he was interested in the contracts.

"I had introduced in the senate a resolution requiring that all contracts made with Indians should be approved by congress before they became valid. On May 5 last the committee having it under consideration instructed Senator Hughes of Colorado to report it favorably.

Tells of Hammon's Visit.

"The very next day Jake Hammon of Lawton, Okla., came to my office. He said he had a telegram to visit me and he was interested in the McMurray contracts.

"He mentioned the name of an official very high up in the government. And when I expressed astonishment, Hammon said: 'Well, you know, there is a lot of money in this thing. If you say the word I will arrange for the $50,000. There will be no checks in this deal, and no marked money. It will be all new, clean money.'

"Hammon said: 'There's a lot of money tied up in this deal and a big fee for somebody.'

"He then explained he wanted me to withdraw my bill, or at least have it reported unfavorably. It seems he did not know it had already been reported favorably."

Curtis and McGuire.

"When I scoffed at the offer of a bribe even if it were raised to $50,000 as Hammon suggested it might be," testified Senator Gore, "my visitor (Hammon) in my office at Washington went on to say that other members of congress were interested in the contracts. He said Senator Curtis was interested and Congressman McGuire of Oklahoma was interested and then he mentioned the name of a man higher up in the government. I was appalled when I heard that name."

"What was the name of that man higher up?" asked Chairman Burke.

"Well," replied Senator Gore, "I don't like to say. Indeed, I could not repeat it without a great deal of reluctance."

"Now, Senator Gore," explained Mr. Burke, "this committee has come here to get all the facts and we want you to tell all you know."

Vice President Sherman.

"Well, as that is true," responded Mr. Gore, "I will tell all I know. The man mentioned by Hammon as being higher up and interested in the McMurray contracts was Vice President Sherman."

No further questions were asked concerning the mention of Vice President Sherman.

On cross-examination by C. B. Ames, counsel for Mr. McMurray, Senator Gore testified as to the relations existing between himself and Hammon. He said the relations had always been extremely friendly and he frequently had business deals with Hammon which entailed loans of money.

"Do you regard Hammon as a trutaful man?" asked Attorney Ames.

"In most cases, I do, but I think he would deviate a little on occasions."

When the committee adjourned at noon, Senator Gore was still on the stand.

KERSTEN RULES AGAINST BROWNE

Court Denies Motion to Quash the Bribery Indictments.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Judge Kersten today refused to quash the indictments against Lee O'Neil Browne, Democratic minority leader of the Illinois legislature, charging him with purchasing votes for William Lorimer for United States senator.

The court deferred judgment on the plea of Browne's counsel that the testimony of Representatives Link, Myers and Beckemeyer, to the effect they had been paid or offered money for voting for Lorimer, be barred from this, the second trial of Browne.

The first trial resulted in a disagreement after the jury had been out 115 hours.

Judge Kersten later announced that his decision regarding the testimony of the other legislators would be rendered when the prosecution sought to put them on the stand. The first 100 veniremen appeared in court today.

WONDERFUL WORKS OF SCIENCE

The Dreams of Yesterday Accomplished Today—Astonishing Results Coming from the Studio of Radium.

When Radium was discovered so short a time ago the world little dreamed of the immense value to mankind this elusive substance would be.

Chief of its many virtues and curiosities is its faculty of relieving mankind of old perplexing, chronic diseases which have hitherto been a stumbling block to the most scientific thinkers.

The time may be counted in months since the wonderful discovery was made that Radium had the property of imparting its radio activity to almost any substance.

Water, being one of the best absorbents of gas, it readily absorbs also the emanations of Radium, although it be separated from the water by being inclosed in a glass jar or aluminum tube and the tube placed in the water.

It has been discovered that this water becomes so impregnated with radioactivity that it is efficient in the proper dose in relieving certain condition as Radium itself externally.

The fact has been ascertained that all the noted waters, such as Carlsbad, and other noted health resorts, owe their efficiency wholly to their degree of Radio-activity, which they rapidly lose when bottled and carried away, so that in two or three days they become inert. The most astonishing fact discovered by these scientists is that one does not have to visit any of these places for relief, because with a tube of the proper radio-activity this water may be made in such a scientific manner that two teaspoonfuls, equal two quarts of the best radium water of the Joachimstal district, thus putting it on the scientific basis in regard to strength and dosage. In our home city an energetic firm has procured the means of making almost unlimited quantities of this high potency water with the intention of using it in connection with Electro-Radio in the treatment of Rheumatism, Tuberculosis, Kidney, Liver and Stomach Troubles, as well as all other Diseases of a depressing nature.

This wonderful substance, combined with Electro-Radio, as used by this firm, is working such wonders in this city that it bids fair to become one of the chief attractions to people visiting from a distance.

Already their offices in the Alworth building are filled to overflowing with invalids of all manner of diseases who are loud in their praises of the splendid results they are getting. Office hours, 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 8.

Perhaps some of the most remarkable results which have been obtained in the short time they have taken treatment may be mentioned the following people who have testified to the good results already received: Mrs. Bickford of 424 East Fourth street, who has suffered with chronic stomach trouble for years. She reports that she has received the greatest relief inaginable and wants her friends to know about it.

Mrs. Alfred Johnson of 2713½ Helm street has suffered so much from a nervous trouble that her mind was deranged when she began. Her husband stated that she has recovered and is more than delighted.

Mrs. Florence Dysslin of 5 East Third street had been given up. They never expected nor did she, of a recovery. After several dangerous operations she could not retain anything on her stomach for five minutes. She has improved to such an extent that she will soon be well again.

THIEF WALKS INTO A TRAP

Campers on Grassy Point Turn Prowler Over to Police.

Early Morning Marauder Meets an Unexpected Warm Reception.

Campers on Grassy Point in West Duluth, made a sensational capture at an early hour Tuesday morning, when a 21-year-old youth, the son of a respectable family in the western part of the city, attempted to carry off some of the belongings of the campers.

Chief Troyer was notified, and made a hurried call to see the prisoner. The piteous cries of the young culprit, and his earnest pledges to never repeat his tactics, secured his release.

An ingenious scheme devised by the campers, and the firing of several shots in the air, brought the young intruder to his downfall. When he was bound by ropes and chains which had been put in readiness for such an occasion, earlier in the evening, and a lantern lighted, the campers expressed their astonishment in an almost jubilant manner:

"Why, there's my sweater," shouted one.

"And, see, he has my old hat on," exclaimed another.

"He's wearing those trousers I lost the other night," said a third and so on.

The young man then confessed that he had made several invasions upon the camp, at each visit carrying off some property.

In this vicinity there are several camps, but the only one missing anything is that conducted by a number of young men who are employed by the Marshall-Wells company. The nearest camps to this one, is occupied by Henry Hewitt, Rev. W. J. Lowrie and Rev. G. Bennie, who came all the way from Saskatchwean, Can., to spend his summer here.

When the Marshall-Wells crowd noted that things were disappearing every night they planned for the vandal's capture. Tying strings to different parts of the dining tent, and the other ends to their fingers, they retired to await developments. The excitement of the expected capture, however, soon wore off, and all were sound asleep. After midnight the young man came around, going directly to the dining tent. He disturbed things sufficiently to arouse the sleepers, and in a moment all was excitement.

One picked up a shot gun, and let out a yell, that warned the youth of his danger, and he started for his escape.

"Stop, or I'll fire," shouted his pursuer. But the invader would not stop. "Bang" went the gun in the air.

The burglar stopped, and soon he was carried into a camp, where he was tied and held down for many hours awaiting the arrival of the police.

He has been seen frequently during the day time in the different camps, and it is believed that at these visits he was planning for his nightly entrance.

ACTIVITY ON GRAND AVENUE

New Buildings Going Up on West Duluth Thoroughfare.

Building activity in the Grand avenue business district is becoming noticeable.

A brick structure to cost $4,000 is going up next to the Palmer block near Fifty-sixth avenue west. It will be occupied by Peter Holten, grocer at 5525 Grand avenue.

Excavations have begun for a brick and cement structure for P. H. Nelson, a Grand avenue hardware dealer. It will be built on the south side of Grand avenue near Fifty-seventh avenue west. It will be a two-story affair with a 50-foot frontage and will cost about $10,000.

A two-story frame building with a 25-foot frontage on Grand avenue is under construction at Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand.

TOOK PRIZE FOR LOG ROLLING

West Duluth Man Wins Contest Held at Cloquet.

Chris Tracey, a West Duluth man, took championship honors in a log rolling contest held at Cloquet, yesterday.

The affair was held under the auspices of the Eagles of Minnesota, who met in annual convention this week at Cloquet. The log rolling contest was a part of the sport program.

Other West Duluth delegates who attended the Eagles' convention were: A. L. Stevenson, William Jacobson, Harry Collins, Charles Johnson and Frank Martell. The trip was made to Cloquet in an automobile.

The delegates from the local order had much to say in regard to the hospitality of the Cloquet lodge and stated this morning that the convention was one of the best ever held.

OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Mrs. Mattie Makeel Succumbs to Long Illness at New Duluth.

Mrs. Mattie E. Makeel, an old resident of New Duluth, died last evening at her home following a long illness. She was 50 years old.

She is survived by four children, three sons and one daughter, all under age. Three years ago, her husband was killed in a railroad accident.

Short funeral services were held this afternoon at the family residence at New Duluth. The body will be sent this evening to Appleton, Minn., where burial will be made.

RAILROAD WILL NOT RUN THROUGH FIRE HALL.

Local officials of the Canadian Northern railway deny the story published in the morning paper, stating that surveys had been made by the engineers of the road, which would run the line through No. 8 firehall.

There is not the remotest possibility that the firehall will be touched by the railroad right-of-way, according to the official, who stated that all talk of this kind was "bosh." Surveys are now being made to the south of the firehall, where in all probability the right-of-way will be placed.

Many people living on the right-of-way are now leaving their homes and seeking new quarters at West Duluth. Real estate men say that there promises to be a shortage of desirable residences this fall.

Giroux Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie Giroux, wife of David Giroux, 5102 Polk street, who died Tuesday at the Duluth hospital was held this morning from the St. James Catholic church with burial at Calvary cemetery. Mrs. Giroux was 28 years old and was a sister of Emil Talbot, whose death by drowning occurred about a month ago.

NO WARNING LIGHTS ON WATER TRENCHES.

Several complaints have been coming to the West Duluth police of late in regard to the carelessness of workmen employed by the water and light department on a job on Grand avenue, near Fifty-eighth.

A trench has been dug on both sides of the street and at night the place has not been properly protected with danger signals. Last evening, a man whose name was not learned, drove into one of the trenches, but was not injured. The horse was helped out by people passing by.

Confusion of Names.

The fact that a Mrs. J. E. Evans was recently arrested in West Duluth for assault, has caused much annoyance to another woman of the same name, living on the same avenue. The woman who was arrested was Mrs. Etta Evans. The other Mrs. J. E. Evans is not related to her.

Child's Funeral Held.

Alma Christina, the 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Michelson of 329 South Sixty-fourth avenue west, died last evening of pneumonia. The funeral was held this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home with burial at Oneota cemetery. Rev. G. Nylander officiated.

BUTCHER FINED FOR SELLING BAD MEAT.

Because he was caught selling hamburger steak, containing chemicals, C. J. Johnson, a Central avenue butcher, was fined $20 and costs late yesterday in the West Duluth justice court, before Judge Flack.

A. D. Sibbald, food inspector, who obtained a small quantity of the food at the shop, was the complainant. He made an analysis finding that chemicals had been used to preserve the meat.

Johnson was arrested yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Mission Church Social.

A social will be given tomorrow evening in the parlors of the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Green street, under the auspices of the various societies of the congregation. The principal speaker will be Rev. J. J. Daniels, pastor of the Mission church at the West end. Mrs. J. J. Daniels will contribute to the musical program.

Announcement has been made of the wedding of Miss Ruth Thompson and Allan Clausen, both of Proctor, Saturday, at the home of the bride's parents. The groom is a fireman for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road.

The D. M. & N. baseball team will play the Cloquet aggregation Sunday on the latter's grounds. A large delegation from Proctor will go to Cloquet for the game.

DULUTH EAGLES ON COMMITTEES

Local Members Fare Well in Distribution of Honors at Cloquet Meet.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state convention of Eagles in session here received a telegram yesterday from the Grand Worthy President, Frank Herring of South Bend, Ind., asking for data as to the number of delegates present, time of opening convention and its success. This is the first time in the history of the organization that a state aerie has been recognized to this extent by a grand officer. The grand aerie this year offered a prize of $100, divided $60 and $40, to the two lodges among the state aeries having the best drill team.

The convention opened Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock with Worthy State President P. D. Winship in the chair. A report of the committee on credentials was called for, and eighty delegates reported, representing thirty-six aeries.

The chair appointed committees as follows: Auditing and secretary's books, J. A. E. Grenier, Cloquet; William Languth, Park Rapids; V. N. Grady, Duluth. Resolutions, E. B. Lott, St. Paul; Edward Thompson, Chisholm; J. Clement, Fergus Falls; C. U. Jenkens, Eveleth; J. H. Silbar, aerie No. 1004. Resolutions on the death of Past State President George M. Wormwood of White Bear, aerie 692, who passed away since the meeting at Hibbing, H. L. Levoy, Montevideo; T. J. Madden, Duluth; Hugh McEwen, Grand Rapids. Resolutions to Cloquet aerie, expressing appreciation of their hospitality, L. H. Lilly, Mankato; L. Zandt, Hibbing; Carl Nelson, Detroit. Resolutions to grand aerie, asking that they recognize the state aeries to the extent that affiliation may be the result, Hugh McEwen, Grand Rapids; W. E. Brown, Duluth; R. J. Clark, St. Paul; J. A. Fesenbeck, Cloquet.

State Secretary A. M. Knight of Fargo, delivered an address to the Eagles last night, and a big parade was a feature of the evening.

MONUMENT TO JOHN GREENWAY

Construction of Concentrator a Great Feat, Says J. F. Piggott.

J. F. Piggott, a mining and civil engineer who has been active in many development and operating fields, is in the city preparatory to taking up his residence on the Cuyuna range, where he will be engaged in professional work for some time to come.

For several years he has been at Coleraine, taking a prominent part in the construction of the great concentrating plant there. Several days ago he severed his connection with the Oliver Iron Mining company at Coleraine and shook the amber colored dust of the place from his boots and garments, just as John C. Greenway did several weeks ago. Mr. Piggot talks interestingly of the plant that has been built at Coleraine under the supervision of Greenway and is enthusiastic in his praise and appreciation of the work done by the former rough rider, who is now in Arizona. Before Mr. Piggot left Coleraine every remaining vestige of Greenway's personal property was put on a car for shipment to Arizona, even to the kitchen range that the Greenway family used in Coleraine, together with the cat and dog that helped to make the Greenway domicile homelike. Also the Greenway gardener and the gardener's wife have gone from Coleraine, where nothing remains to tell of Greenway but that great concentrator, the greatest engineering structure of its kind in the world.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

SARATOGA MEET OPENS

May Mark the End of Racing in New York State.

The Futurity Will Be Run on Last Day of Meet.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Muggy weather with some promise of clearing today, was the weather condition for the opening day of the Saratoga racing season which will continue until the close of August. The Saratoga meet will close the racing season in this state, the final big race of the year—the Futurity—being run here on probably the last day of the meet.

There was not the crush here today of race followers as of other years, but those that came still displayed the same zestful interest in the game. The $7,500 Saratoga handicap, one mile and a quarter, brings together some of the smartest horses of the year. The great Fitz-Herbert, owned by Sam C. Hildreth and ridden by Shilling, was the favorite, with the champion 3-year-old Dalmatian for his side partner. The James R. Keene colors will be sported by Ballot and Maskette, while another contender for the race is R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Olambala. In all nine starters are down to face the starter.

The track was dry and fast today and the pretty race course with its middfields and lawns sparkling green and refreshing.

Sheriff Westburn has engaged a corps of deputies to see that the betting laws are not infringed, and only oral wagers within the meaning of the state statute will be permitted.

The running here of the Futurity, which has been transferred from Sheepshead Bay, on Aug. 29, or 30, may mark the end of racing in New York state for a long time. On Sept. 1, the Agnew-Perkins laws go into effect, and unless they are passed on favorably to the race tracks by the courts, horsemen think it possible there will be no racing next year.

Racing people say if the sport is resumed next year the meets will only be held at Aqueduct, Belmont Park, Jamaica, Empire City and Saratoga. Sheepshead Bay, Gravesend and Brighton may never open again, the land becoming so valuable that it may be sold for real estate purposes.

WALRUSES WIN FROM SEA LIONS

Close Water Baseball Game Played at Oatka Branch.

The water baseball game at Oatka Wednesday evening was won by the Walruses by a 1 to 0 score. A large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed the game, which was close and exciting throughout.

Bather Robinson of the Walruses started the excitement with a flying-fish drive for two bases over left field, the longest hit made so far this year. Jamar followed with a motor-boat drive through short, advancing the catcher to third, from which float he scored the winning swim on Bob Marshall's submarine bunt and squeeze play.

Only two Sea Lions reached the first buoy, where they drowned on double plays, while the Walruses threatened to score twice from third.

Batteries for the Walruses, Jamar and Robinson; for the Lions, Stanley and Harris. Umpire Guy Warren saved himself a ducking by stating that he had a valuable watch on his person.

An amusing feature which was not on the program was the upsetting of a canoe containing two young men in tennis suits, who endeavored to retrieve a foul ball, both leaning over the side at the same time.

DESIRE TO MEET JOHNSON ROUNDED OUT OF HIM.

New York, Aug. 4.—If Billy Ford, the Philadelphia heavyweight ever had serious intentions of engaging in combat with Jack Johnson, he relinquishes the idea today. Ford was unconscious for over an hour from blows given by Billy Brown in a match at the Sharkey Athletic club last night, and physicians worked over the beaten fighter until he was revived.

Ford was given an unmerciful lacing, receiving lefts and rights until he fell unconscious.

TOURNAMENT FOR YOUNGER PLAYERS.

A junior tennis tournament will be gin next Monday at the Duluth Boat club, for members of the club under the age of 20 years. The tournament will be for singles, and the rules require that all entries be handed in before Saturday evening. The tournament will be conducted along the same general lines as the tournament that has just closed. All members of the club under the age limit are eligible, and the officials of the field department especially desire a large field of contestants. There are a number of fast young players at the club, so it is thought that the play will be especially interesting.

FLOATER IS IDENTIFIED

Body Found in the Bay Is That of Hendric Linden.

The floater discovered in the bay last evening by members of the naval militia has been identified as Hendrio Linden of 286 St. Croix avenue.

Linden is believed to have committed suicide. He disappeared last Friday and was heard to say just prior to his disappearance that he wasn't feeling well and if he became sick, he wouldn't suffer. He is believed to have jumped in the bay in a fit of despondency.

Linden had lived in Duluth for some time and is survived by a wife in Finland.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Drains, Sewers and Sanitation, to which was referred report of the Board of Public Works dated April 25, 1910, relative to sanitary sewer in Superior street from Sixty-first to Sixty-third avenues east with outlet, and report of the city engineer dated May 7, 1910, relative to same sewer, which latter report was made on request of this council, find that there is a conflict in the two reports. The report of the city engineer is specific as to the depths and elevations while that of the board states in general terms that the sewer is not deep enough. It will appear from the engineer's report that even were it necessary and practicable to lower said sewer that it would be much more expensive than to construct a supplemental sewer on the north side of the pipe. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

H. P. CURREN,
WILLIAM L. BERNARD,
THOS. J. STOREY,
Committee.

Resolved, That it is hereby directed that a copy of the report of the city engineer relative to the sanitary sewer in Superior street from Sixty-first to Sixty-third avenues east with outlet, be certified to the Board of Public Works, and the said Board of Public Work is hereby advised that in the opinion of this council it would be impracticable to lower the sewer in Superior street to a sufficient depth to allow of sewer connections under the force main adjacent thereto.

Alderman Curren moved the adoption of the resolution.

Alderman Wharton moved to amend the resolution by striking out the word "impracticable" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "practicable."

After some discussion and statement by Alderman Wharton that it was proposed that the extra cost of the deepening of the sewer should be assessed against the property, the city paying the cost of removing the filling and replacing the same, on motion of Alderman Barnes the report was referred to the city attorney for report to the council as to the power of the city to assess such cost against the property benefited by the sewer in question.

The ordinance submitted by Alderman Hogan entitled "An ordinance to amend an ordinance entitled 'An ordinance to regulate the construction, alteration, repair, removal and inspection of buildings within the corporate limits of the city of Duluth, the protection of the lives of persons therein and the protection of property against fire,' passed Jan. 8, 1906, as amended," (being an amendment relative to exits from assembly halls) was brought up.

Alderman Shartel moved the adoption of the ordinance and it was declared adopted upon the following vote.

Yeas—Aldermen Barnes, Bergstrom, Bernard, Getchell, Hector, Hoar, Hogan, MacDonell, Makowski, Merritt, Moore, Shartel, Storey, Wharton—14.

Nays—Alderman Curren—1.

SPECULATORS IN CONTROL

Advance in Wheat Is Due to Professional Activity.

Values Sag at Close---Crop News Is More Favorable.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 4.—of speculative buying, due to prevail- of speculative buying, due to prevailing pit sentiment that prices will continue to advance. Estimates on the Northwestern crop confirmed the low yield, but were more favorable than had been generally expected. Toward the close values slumped as early buyers were disposed to take profits. The character of buying was not of a nature to make a healthy market, and the firmness of values was due chiefly to an absence of offerings.

September wheat advanced ⅞c, December ⅜c and May ¾c.

Flax was dull but strong. September gained 4c, October 5c, November 5c and December 5c. Decrease in stores here and a growing opinion that the yield this year will be under that of last contributed to the strength.

Cash wheat was 6c over September, durum 1¼c up, oats ¼c up. Rye and barley were unchanged.

Cables were higher both from the continent and Liverpool today. Moderate export business in durums and Manitobas contributed to the strength of the situation in the early hours. The advance was due chiefly to speculative buying which was not a first-class character. On the break at noon the market was almost bare of offerings. Trading was light except soon after the openings when the market was active.

The pit sentiment was bullish, the professionals being confident that higher prices are inevitable. This feeling induced some speculative buying. Smaller shipments from Argentina contributed to the strength of the market. The short interest has been fairly well run in but a few belated ones got under cover today.

Cash markets were stronger and there was a better demand although the improvement was only slight. Minneapolis reported an improved demand for winter wheat at higher prices. Old No. 1 northern also was firmer. Primary receipts continued heavy but the apparent wane of the heavy run of winter wheat has injected more confidence into the situation. Country offerings in the Southwest were fair and the cash demand was slow. Stocks at Chicago and in the Southwest are accumulating rapidly. In the absence of a cash demand these supplies probably may act as a drag on the market.

Farmers in the Northwest apparently are not putting effort to hold back wheat. Receipts of old spring stuff in the Northwest were fairly liberal and were especially favorable in this market compared with last year. Stocks in the Northwest are showing a decrease. Some of the wheat received here was shipped out of store at Minneapolis.

Reports indicate that the yield of winter wheat will be large. Evidently the crop experts were all wrong from start to finish on nearly every state in the West and Southwest. The Illinois report of a yield of 44,820,000 bu is a striking indication of the misjudgment of the experts who covered that territory earlier in the year. The average yield is estimated now at nearly 30 bu an acre, 29.95 bu being the figures issued by the Illinois grain dealers. Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri are sending better reports, also.

The government figures on winter wheat probably will show a pronounced gain from the estimated yield as of July 1. The spring wheat states present a more hopeful outlook. While the crop will be exceedingly short it will make a better yield, both as to quantity and quality, than was expected at any time last month.

The government figures will be issued Aug. 8, probably at 1:30 p. m. The report on spring wheat, it is believed, will show an improvement over that of July 1. B. W. Snow, crop estimator for Bartlett, Frazier & Co., issued his report on the final yield of the spring wheat crop today. He made the yield of the three Northwestern states 147,000,000 bu. This is 1,000,000 bu lower than the estimate of 148,000,000 bu issued by The Herald yesterday. Most of the other estimates thus far have been from 7,000,000 bu to 15,000,000 bu below these figures.

The flour trade shows improvement and the volume is of fair proportions.

Reports from the Southwestern flax crop are favorable. It is producing from 2 to 3 bu per acre more than last year, and the quality is excellent. It is estimated that Kansas will produce 750,000 bu, or more than twice the estimated yield of last year. The first thrashing showed returns of from 10 to 16 bu to the acre, but later returns will lower the average for the state to between 9 and 10 bu. Some Southwestern seed has been sent to market, but it is not likely that crushers will buy much of the Southwestern crop until the Northwestern situation becomes more settled.

Crushers are coming to the belief that the flax crop in the Northwest will be shorter than was first estimated. While considerable flax was so badly damaged that it will not make a stand, yet at least two weeks must elapse before a fairly accurate estimate can be made on the crop. Good stands are in scattered localities, and they do not make much of a showing compared with the wide area of the damage district in the principal flax-growing counties. Some people think that with favorable weather this month the flax crop will have a good chance of maturing and making a better yield than is now looked for. The weather is now considered favorable. The cool temperatures enable the flax in bloom to fill out well, and this condition will serve to increase the yield. A smaller production than last year is looked for by most people, despite the increased acreage.

Later, however, the undertone became strong and prices advanced ⅝d to ⅞d from opening and 1⅛d to 1¼d from the low with shorts and speculators buying, due to less favorable reports from Argentina, private reports of rains in France and in improved inquiry for both Russian and Danubian parcels. At midday market was excited and strong, 1⅛d to 1⅜d higher than yesterday. Corn was ½d higher. After opening ¼d higher advanced ¼d on good demand for spot and the better demand for plate parcels. The Northwestern Miller said: The weather during the week in the Northwest has been dry and favorable for harvesting, and wheat-cutting has progressed rapidly. In Southern Minnesota it has been completed and thrashing started in places. The yield is large and the quality fine. In fact, the yield in this territory is much beyond expectations. Cutting is well advanced in South Dakota, and a little thrashing has already been done in the southern part of the state. As to yield, the situation seems little changed from what it was; however, the quality of the wheat, from all reports is high. More encouraging reports as to wheat yield comer from North Dakota. From late information it would appear that the tops wheat heads, expected as a result of hot weather to contain small, immature kernels, or no kernels at all, had filled out or were filling pretty well, and might considerably augment the yield in the north. However, with the straw very short in places, it will be a problem how to cut and secure much of the wheat. The quality of the Northwestern wheat crop, as a whole, promises to be high. The dry, hot weather has worked to make the grain unusually dry and strong in gluten, and it seems hardly possible that it would be in other than prime condition to grind at once.

Chicago Tribune: George E. Marcy of the Armour Grain company, denies absolutely that the firm or any one connected with it had any direct interest in the so-called July wheat deal. The only way they were interested was that, like hundreds of others, they had cash wheat which they purchased in the country or on the board of trade against which they sold July, and as fast as this wheat went into the elevators it was delivered on their sales.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Export Sales and Bullish News Cause Wheat to Advance.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Export sales, less favorable crop reports from France and Argentina, shorts and speculators buying at Liverpool—such were among the elements that formed an upward course for the wneat market today.

The Pacific coast sent news that France had been buying there steadily for a week past. A strong party of the larger local traders started to bull prices and kept at the task persistently notwithstanding heavy selling by one of the leading houses here. Opening ⅜c to 1c higher, with September at $1.02¼ to $1.02⅝, the market steadied a shade under the last named figures.

Purchases here supposed to be for French account, kept the market in a bullish temper, until near the close when prices showed reaction. The finish was firm, however, with September at $1.02⅜@1.02½, a net gain of ½c to ⅝@¾c.

Offerings of corn were slim and scattered in the face of a good general demand. Wheat strength offset the effect of cooler, wet weather southwest. September started ⅜c to ¾c up at 62⅝c to 63c and clung around 62⅞c.

During the last part of the session the market eased off somewhat with wheat. The close was firm; nevertheless, at 62⅝c for September, an advance of ⅜c, compared with last night's close.

Local shorts were buyers of oats. Hedging sales were small. There was a rise of ⅛@¼c in September at the opening, first sales being at 36⅞c. A further advance to 37⅛@37¼c followed.

Selling by local longs made the provision market easy. A decline of 5c to 7½c was shown at the outset, with the September delivery at $21.50 for pork, $11.62 to $11.65 for lard and $11.55 for ribs. There was a little rally later in pork.

THE PORTRAIT.

Oscar Hammerstein, at a studio tea in New York, told a story about a beautiful young woman who is a famous portrait painter.

"It had been announced, before my last trip abroad," said Mr. Hammerstein, "that she was to paint a well-known millionaire. I met her on my return, and my first question was:

"'By the way—about Stox's portrait —did he sit for it?'

"The beautiful young woman laughed and answered: 'No, his wife wouldn't stand for it.'"

LIKE HIS STYLE.

The late William M. Laffan was an incisive writer. At a dinner at Laffan house, his Long Island residence, Mr. Laffan once said of writing:

"To be brief and pointed, that is, in my mind, the secret of a good newspaper style. I may say I founded my own style on a remark made by a widow to a tombstone dealer.

"This widow, a hard-featured woman, visited the dealer to tell him about the epitaph for her husband's tomb.

"'I don't want no windy, lyin' rubbish,' she said, in a bitter voice. 'Let it be sumpn short and simple, like this:

"'"Hiram Simmons,
Aged 78 Years.
The good die young."'"

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Open Lower, Rally, But Turn Weak Again and Decline.

Market Practically at Standstill After Noon and Close Lifeless.

New York, Aug. 4.—The tone of the opening stock market today was heavy, with the principal trading stocks under pressure. Union Pacific was the only conspicuous exception, although there were some minor stocks showing small fractional gains. Third Avenue declined 1¼, Reading and Amalgamated Copper 1 and Northern Pacific, Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie and United States Steel substantial fractions.

After a brisk rally in which the early losses were mostly made up, the market became weak again, but did not generally fall as low as previously. Rock Island preferred and American Smelting were depressed a point. Great Northern Ore certificates advanced 2 points, Wheeling & Lake Erie 1¼, the first preferred 1½ and Great Northern preferred and American Beet Sugar 1.

The room traders in stocks talked politics and sold stocks during the morning. Published reports that stock market accounts of large capitalists have been taken over by bankers did not relieve the pressure to sell. Amalgamated Copper declined 2, United Railways and Investment preferred 4, Chesapeake & Ohio 1¼ and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Leclede Gas, Iowa Central and International Pump 1. Noon prices showed fractional recoveries. Bonds irregular.

While the market was practically at a standstill the undertone was better and ruling prices were well above low figures of the morning. Kansas & Texas preferred and International Harvester gained a point.

The market closed heavy and lifeless. The retirement of short contracts put out by room traders earlier in the day seemed to be responsible for the slow advance in prices. Long Island, in the final hour, rose 3, Toledo, St. Louis & Western 2, Pressed Steel Car 1½ and Westinghouse Electric 1. The buying demand gave out at the rally and prices slipped back.

COPPER STOCK BROKERS.

404 West First Street, Commercial Building.

Thursday, Aug. 4, 1910.

Big market this fall on all copper stocks. It's in the air and you cannot get away from it. A lot of buying is going on and those who buy now should make a lot of money. Amazon Development is, as I believe, one of the surest for real strong advance. Mr. Wm. T. Smith is president and he does things. He is now at the mine and J. A. Percival and John Robbers should arrive there today. It certainly looks good with so many strong people back of it. The Ballaklava boys get their big dividends and much of this money will, I believe, go in the Amazon proposition.

The Scott is hoisting ore all the time and should soon be earning big money. Market on shares low, but the mine is a regular bonanza. About 35 or 40 mine cars of ore are being hoisted daily and they are increasing shipments every day. Beat it if you can from a mine point of view.

St. Mary is showing considerable strength and advanced to 25c bid. This one should easily advance, for it is one of the most active stocks listed and there is a kindly feeling toward this proposition all along the line.

Red Warrior and Moscow are both developing big ore bodies and the St. Mary is located on same formation and will undoubtedly make good in a big way.

SOT IN HIS WAYS.

Mrs. Henry De La Pasture, the popular writer was talking on the Arabic, en route for New York about marriage.

"A pretty girl," said Mrs. De La Pasture, "couldn't make a better resolution for 1910 than not to marry an old man, no matter what his wealth. She might also resolve not to marry a widower. Widowers are, as you Americans say, so sot in their ways.

"They tell about a pretty girl of 20 who married a rich widower. This girl was, in fact, his fourth wife.

"Well, on the return from the honeymoon, the husband, after dinner, took up his hat, overcoat, and umbrella.

"The wife, beautiful in a white decollete gown that was no whiter than her shoulders, said:

"'Where are you going, dear'?

"He gave her a stern look and answered coldly:

"'My dear, I am not in the habit of telling my wives where I am going every time I step out of the house.'"

STEAMER PRINCESS MAY IS SINKING OFF THE ALASKAN COAST

Is Reported to Have Big Passenger List of Tourists.

Wireless Carries Message of Distress to Two Points.

Accident to Canadian Pacific Boat Returning From Skagway.

San Francisco, Aug. 5.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Princess May, running between Vancouver and Alaskan ports, is ashore on Central island, off the coast of Alaska, according to a wireless message received today by the Merchants' exchange. The Princess May is a steel screw steamer of 5,717 tons.

Big Passenger List.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 5.—The wireless station at Point Grey, six miles from Vancouver, on English bay, has picked up a message saying that the steamer Princess May is sinking off Ketchikan, Alaska.

The Princess May was returning from Skagway to Vancouver when she struck on Center Island, at the mouth of Clarence strait, near Ketchikan. She is supposed to have a large passenger list, the tourist season being at its height.

RYAN DENIES ANY COPPER ALLIANCE

Scouts Story of Amalgamated Pact With the Guggenheims.

New York, Aug. 5.—The persistent report of an alliance between the Amalgamated and Guggenheim copper interests designed to bring about an adjustment in the copper market between production and consumption was flatly denied today by John T. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company.

"There is no ground for any such report," said Mr. Ryan, who had just returned from Europe.

He spoke of the foreign copper situation, saying that the European stocks of copper were below normal and the consumption of copper increasing at an amazing rate in England, France and Germany.

BANKS HESITATE TO GIVE GUARANTY

Southerners Taking Hopeful View of English Cotton Trade Ruling.

New Orleans, Aug. 5. — Southern bankers are taking a hopeful view of the situation created by the action of English bankers in demanding that cotton bills of lading, sent with drafts to foreign ports, should be guaranteed by American banks. The position of many banks in the South is at the same time one of doubtfulness as to guaranteeing bills of lading. Many banking institutions are yet to be convinced that they can make such guarantee without endangering their assets.

It is asserted that national banks, under the law, cannot guarantee bills of lading, and that state banks will not make such guarantee because they are unwilling to assume the financial responsibility thus entailed. Bankers of New Orleans and other Southern cities say they would not object to validating certificates, but that this would be as far as they would care to go in insuring buyers of American cotton against loss by possible fraudulent practices.

SETTLERS BUILDING CHURCH ALL OF SOD.

Fox Ridge, S. D., Aug. 5. — What without doubt is the most novel church building in South Dakota is being constructed by homesteaders in this part of the ceded portion of the Cheyenne river and Standing Rock Indian reservations. The church is being built of sod, and will have walls three feet thick. Twenty or thirty years ago such a building would have been common, but in these days it will be looked on as a freak in the building line.

FRAZEE AND ELBOW LAKE BANKS WANT DEPOSITS.

Washington, Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First National Bank of Frazee and the First National Bank of Elbow Lake, Minn., today filed applications to the postoffice department to be designated as depositories of postal savings bank funds.

Drouth Damaged Wisconsin Crops.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 5.—Farm crops in Wisconsin have been so badly damaged by the lack of rain that their condition ranges from 52 to 78 per cent of the average for this time of the year, according to the monthly report issued by Secretary John M. True of the state board of agriculture.

FURNISHED FUNDS TO HELP WALL STREET

SIR ERNEST CASSEL.

New York, Aug. 5.—Sir Ernest Cassel came to the rescue of the American market when a syndicate of which he was the head furnished the money with which Kuhn, Loeb & Co. took over $30,000,000 worth of stock of the Pearson syndicate. Sir Ernest is not popular in social London, although as a chum of King Edward he was received everywhere.

SPAIN READY FOR TROUBLE

Troops Are Being Rushed to San Sebastian for Sunday.

Catholics, Determined to Hold Demonstration, Are Gathering.

Madrid, Aug. 5.—Alarmed by fears that the proposed demonstration of the clerical forces at San Sebastian, the summer capital, will assume the character of an uprising, the government today began to rush troops into the city. A regiment of Hussars left Madrid for San Sebastian this morning, followed by another regiment of cavalry and two battalions of chausseurs. A regiment of infantry also was ordered to San Sebastian from Vittoria.

Both Gen. Weyler, the captain general of Catalonia, and Count Sagasta, the minister of the interior, will go to San Sebastian to be in immediate charge in case of disorder.

Blame Carlists and Churchmen.

The government believes that the Carlists and the members of the religious orders, which are numerous in Northern Spain, are openly inciting their followers to violence. The governors of the Basnue provinces and the adjoining province of Navarre today issued orders to the mayors of all the municipalities in these provinces to warn the Roman Catholics against assembling or entering the city of San Sebastian with arms, and that the most energetic measures would be taken to repress any attempt at a manifestation.

Catholics Are Gathering.

Bilbao, Spain, Aug. 5.—Since the government has ordered the railroad companies not to furnish special trains for the proposed demonstration at San Sebastian Sunday, the Catholic adherents are already commencing to leave for the summer capital on ordinary trains. Feeling in the city runs high.

The committee which is organizing the demonstration today sent a telegram of protest to the king against the interference of the authorities with the manifestation, and also issued a statement urging their followers individually to telegraph similar messages to King Alfonso. Telegrams of sympathy were sent to the pope.

SEVEN PERISH IN $1,500 FIRE

Are Overcome By Smoke in Jamaica, L. I., Lodging House.

New York, Aug. 5.—Seven lives were lost early today in a fire which destroyed a three-story lodging house in the foreign quarter of Jamaica, L. I. The blaze started in a hallway, the only exit, and spread so rapidly that few of the inmates had an opportunity to escape.

The lodging house was occupied for the most part by poor workmen employed in the neighborhood. The owner, George Dunbeck, occupied apartments with his family on the ground floor. He and his household escaped safely in their nightclothes by climbing through the windows to the street.

The dead, five man and two women, were foreigners. They were asleep at the time and were all suffocated by smoke as they lay in their beds.

The blaze was a small one and a single company of firemen with one line of hose extinguished it within a few minutes. The property loss will not exceed $1,500.

TAFT AIDS DEDICATION

President Takes Part in Ceremony in Honor of Pilgrim Fathers.

Provincetown's Town Criers Announce Visit of Nation's Chief.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 5.—No greater duty ever evolved on Provincetown's two criers, George Washburn Ready and Walter Smith, than their announcement today of the coming of President Taft and the dedication of the granite shaft on Town Hill erected to the memory of the Pilgrim Fathers. This old custom of crying important events through the streets remains intact in Provincetown.

The corner stone of the monument was laid Aug. 7, 1907, by President Roosevelt. Its dedication today by President Taft attracted a crowd that taxed to their limits the narrow streets of this old fishing town. A fine northwester was blowing straight across the bay from Beverly to Cape Cod and, running before the wind, the president's yacht, Mayflower, came flying across the water to be welcomed by a mighty array of the nations' naval power.

Met by 2,000 Sailors.

Preparations for receiving the crowd and the distinguished guests were completed last night and before the exercises today the fleet sent ashore 2,000 of its sailors, who formed along the streets from the wharf where the president landed, to the grandstand.

The principal act of the dedication

CASHIER BEATS BANDIT'S GAME

"Bad Man" Fires Dillon Building to Draw Crowd But Is Caught.

Dillon, Mont., Aug. 5.—Because A. J. Breda, cashier of the State Bank of Dillon has plenty of nerve and is a good dodger of bullets, an unidentified, would-be bank robber is in jail here in spite of a well-planned attempt at daylight robbery. The prisoner tallies with descriptions of a bandit who held up an Oregon Short Line train near Ogden a few weeks ago.

The bandit came into town yesterday and deliberately set fire to the barn of S. S. Patterson. As soon as the news of the fire spread, practically the whole population rushed to the Patterson place. The bandit meanwhile rode to the bank, tied his horse, entered the building and with leveled revolver ordered Cashier Breda to put up his hands. The cashier, however, made a dash for the door, and managed to dodge the bullets the intruder sent after him.

With the sound of the shots the interest of the citizens changed from the fire to the shooting, and they streamed back toward the bank. The bandit mounted his horse and galloped off, but in crossing a cement pavement the animal fell, throwing his rider senseless on the ground. He was captured and taken to the local jail. He refuses to give his name.

TWO PRESIDENTS HELP TO HONOR PILGRIMS

EARTHQUAKE SHOWS ON THE SEISMOGRAPH.

Washington, Aug. 5. — Heavy earthquake shocks were recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown university last night, lasting forty-seven minutes. The shocks began at 8:46 p. m. and continued until 9:33. They consisted of two maximum shocks and a series of lesser disturbances. Indications were that the center of the disturbance was about 2,000 miles from Washington.

ST. PAUL'S POPULATION ANNOUNCED---214,744

Washington, Aug. 5.—St. Paul, Minn., has a population of 214,744 according to the enumeration of the thirteenth census, figures of which were made public today by Census Director Durand. This is an increase of 51,679, or 31.7 per cent over 1900, when the population was 163,065.

HAMON TESTIFIES IN LAND FRAUD CASE AT MUSKOGEE

"READ THEM OUT"---BRYAN

Nebraskan Denounces Democrats Who Voted for Lorimer.

Says Fools in Legislature Are Almost as Dangerous as Knaves.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 5.—In a statement published in his paper today in reference to the meeting in Lincoln, Ill., to protest against legislative corruption, William J. Bryan declared that the Democratic legislators who voted to elect William Lorimer to the United States senate should be read out of the Democratic party.

"Any Democrat who voted for Lorimer for 'patriotic' reasons ought to be retired to private life and kept there long enough to learn what patriotism means," said Mr. Bryan. "It is almost as dangerous to have a fool in the legislature as a knave.

Those "Patriotic Arguments."

"A Democratic legislator who could be convinced that he was performing a patriotic duty in voting for Lorimer could be persuaded to do anything desired by a lobby—provided the same patriotic arguments were used. He is not fit for any representative position—it is hardly safe to allow him to run at large.

"Turn them out. The party cannot pause to defend those who are guilty or who, if innocent, have aroused suspicion which can never be removed."

ECCLESIASTICS MAY BE DROWNED

Three Divinity Students Disappear During Storm on Lake.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Three ecclesiastics who were crossing the Lake of the Two Mountains from Oka to Chateauguay yesterday afternoon during the severe electric storm have disappeared and it is believed they were drowned. They are Robert Armstrong of Portland, Or., a Mr. Hamson of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. Cronin of Baltimore, whose full names have not been learned. The first two were completing their theological studies at the Montreal Grand seminary, and the latter at Baltimore seminary.

Mr. Armstrong, who had the grade of deacon, was to be ordained to the priesthood next December.

Wisconsin Congressman Talks on Carriers' Issues of Stocks.

Makes Address Before the Minnesota State Bar Association.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Speaking before the Minnesota State Bar association at its final meeting here today, Congressman John J. Esch of La Crosse, Wis., chose for his subject "Federal Control of Stock and Bond Issues of Interstate Carriers."

Mr. Esch spoke at length of the practice of "stock watering" by railroads, giving some details as to the nature and extent of the evils of present and past over-capitalization, and summed up his conclusions in suggesting possible remedies by congressional enactment as follows:

"That no common carrier shall issue stock, bonds or notes payable more than one year from date of issue, except when necessary for the acquisition of property, extension or improvement of its line and facilities, the improvement or maintenance of its service or refunding its lawful obligations.

Pay Par For Issues.

"That such issues shall be paid for at par, and if paid for in property or services the reasonable value thereof shall be fixed by the interestate commerce commission.

"Make it unlawful to issue scrip dividend or stock dividend, or to pay any dividend except in cash derived from earnings.

"Require the written consent of the interestate commerce commission to all proceedings looking to the consolidation, reorganization or merger of carriers.

"Require every such carrier to make and file immediately a full, specific and separate report to the commission of every issue of stock, bonds and notes or other evidence of indebtedness.

Powef of Commerce Commission.

"Give the interstate commerce commission visitatorial power in all matters connected with capitalization.

"Extend provisions of this proposed legislation, so far as applicable, to all carriers subject to the interstate commerce act as amended.

HOPE TO FLY AT PITTSBURG MEET

Aviators Are Promised Good Weather With Less Wind.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 5.—The weather bureau promises better weather for the second day of the Pittsburg Aero club's aviation meet on Brunot's Island field than was turned out by that department yesterday. Today's events, which will start late, have not been programmed.

Yesterday's plans attracted nearly 10,000 people to Brunot's island, where for four hours they watched the dust fly. A wind blowing nearly twenty-five miles an hour all afternoon whipped the sandy track of the Matinee club into clouds of blinding dust.

After waiting long for the wind to die, until at sunset when most of the crowd had left, J. C. Mars ventured to give the few persistent enthusiasts some reward by crossing the field once at a height of but a few feet from the ground. The biplane careened dangerously in the gusty breeze and Mars declared it would be suicide to attempt a real flight.

Gave Wind Checks.

Glenn H. Curtiss and Capt. Thomas Baldwin are entered for the meet. Three days have been set for the flights and those disappointed yesterday were given "wind checks" entitling them to another visit to the island.

SHERMAN NOT TO BE CALLED

Alleged Offerer of Bribes Flatly Denies All Charges.

Representative Creager Tells of Talks With the Oklahoman.

Vice President Says He Cares Only for Good of Indians.

Muskogee, Aug. 5.—Jake L. Hamon, accused by Senator T. P. Gore with having offered him a $25,000 bribe to influence legislation in congress for the sale of Oklahoma Indian lands, took the stand before the congressional investigating committee today.

Chairman Burke of the investigating committee authorized a statement that Vice President Sherman would not be summoned to appear before the committee. It was stated that no evidence had been introduced to show that Mr. Sherman could throw any light on the investigation.

Mr. Hamon when interviewed declined to discuss Senator Gore's charges and said he would make no statement except in response to categorical questions. The following questions in an interview were then put to him:

Q.: "Did you offer a bribe to Senator Gore?" A.: "I did not."

Q.: "Did you offer to give him an interest in the McMurray contracts?" A.: "I did not."

Q.: "Did you offer a bribe to Congressman Creager?" A.: "I did not."

Q.: "Did you offer him an interest

THREE DEAD IN WRECK ON ERIE

Landslide Near Middletown, N. Y., Is Cause of Disaster.

Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A landslide on the Erie railroad five miles west of here early today caused the wreck of an eastbound fast freight train and the loss of three lives. The dead:

JAMES J. BRADLEY, engineer, Port Jervis.

HOWARD E. TAYLOR, fireman, Port Jervis.

GEORGE CARPENTER, brakeman, Jersey City.

The landslide is believed to have been due to a heavy rain.

SHRINKAGE IN MEAT PRODUCTS

Falling Off in Live Stock Movement Shown for Half Year.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Considerable shrinkage in the commercial supply of some of the prime necessaries of life is indicated by the movements of livestock and meat products in the United States during the first half of the present year. This decline was shown both in domestic and in foreign commerce.

The shortage in the commercial supply of livestock is best shown by a comparison of the half-yearly figures, which totalled 16,463,756 head for the first six months of 1910, as compared with more than 20,000,000 in the same period last year and nearly 21,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1908.

Big Loss in Hogs.

This loss is due almost entirely, it is reported, to the smaller number of hogs brought to market, the shortage in them thus far this year being about 25 per cent. The curtailment in the commercial supply of cattle so far this year has been 6 per cent less than normal, while the receipts of sheep at the seven leading markets shows a decline of 11 per cent. The decline in the supply of sheep began after 1906, that of cattle after 1907, and that of hogs after 1908.

FIRE OUSTS GUESTS OF SPOKANE HOTEL.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 5.—Fire early today destroyed the John W. Graham wholesale and retail building at 710 Sprague avenue, and caused $150,000 damage. The smoke drove half a hundred occupants of the Victor hotel, adjoining, into the street clad only in their night clothes. No one was hurt.

WIND AND RAIN AFFLICT VICTIMS OF BIG FIRE.

Campbellton, N. B., Aug. 5.—Wind and rain raised havoc today with the Campbellton fire sufferers, many of whom, since they lost their homes in the recent conflagration, have been living in tents. The wind ripped up the tents and left beds exposed to the heavy rain.

KILLED IN MONTANA.

Two Brothers Living Near Minot Perish in Mine Explosion.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 5.—The bodies of Harold and Bror Matson, aged 35 and 30 years, respectively, were brought to the city and taken to the home of their parents fourteen miles north of Minot and three miles east of Lynch postoffice, where interment occurred.

The men were killed by the explosion of dynamite at the bottom of a seventy-five foot shaft sunk on a copper prospect near the Little Amazone mine, in the vicinity of Boulder, Mont.

Together with their brother-in-law they had been working on the prospect for some time. They usually put in several shots before leaving the shaft at night and the next day cleared the debris and sunk the drills until time to quit for the night, when another shot was put in, a slow fuse attached and they left the mine for the night.

Just how the explosion occurred will never be known, but it is probable that one of them in working had struck with his pick an unexploded cartridge.

The last charge they exploded uncovered a rich vein of copper ore and develops their prospect one of the best in the section of the country where they have been working.

EAGLES AGREE ON PER CAPITA TAX

Cloquet State Aerie Decides to Impose 6 Cents Upon Each Member.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 5.—The Fraternal Order of Eagles of Minnesota have closed a thoroughly successful convention here. One of the most important features of the closing session was the presentation of resolutions looking toward a determined effort to gain recognition from the grand aerie and bring about affiliation, also to make affiliation obligatory upon every aerie.

A per capita tax of 6 cents per member was decided upon. In consideration of possible affiliation with the grand aerie the salary of State Secretary Jason Kidder of Fergus Falls, was not decided upon, as such recognition would double the work of the secretary. Secretary Kidder was openly commended by a number of prominent Eagles at the session for his faithful work. He is entering upon his fourth year in the office, and was the only one re-elected. The convention closed with a resolution of thanks to Cloquet for the hospitality extended.

LEAVE FOR LOWER LAKES

Naval Reserves Off for Annual Maneuvers of Great Lakes Squadron.

Steamer Gopher Carries 260 Duluthians When She Leaves Port.

The annual cruise of the U. S. S. Gopher began last evening, when she left the local harbor for the lower lakes to form a part of the Great Lakes squadron.

More than 260 Duluthians who are members of the Gopher squad gathered at the Armory last evening, preparatory for the two weeks' pleasure trip. At 8:30 they started on a march, headed by the buglers for the Fifth avenue dock, from where they were carried by a launch to the local war vessel.

It was nearly midnight when the anchor was weighed, and the boat quietly steamed out of the harbor. This was nearly four hours later than the scheduled time, the delay being caused by the impossibility of securing the necessary provisions on time.

When the men were placed aboard the boat, arrangements were made for watches, and then the bugle sounded for all to roll in. It was 11:35 when the Gopher started, and about 2 o'clock it was opposite Two Harbors.

Commander Guy A. Eaton announced that upon the return of the Gopher, another cruise would be immediately made, this being to Isle Royale, upon which trip Governor Eberhart and about forty of his friends would be guests. Two weeks will be spent at this resort, the cruise beginning on Aug. 22.

The Great Lakes squadron is made up of seven naval vessels, with the U. S. S. Wolverine as the flag ship of the commander. The other vessels are the Nashville of Chicago; Don Juan de Austria of Detroit; Yantic of Hancock; Essex of Toledo; Dorothea of Cleveland, and the Gopher of Duluth.

You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." It's the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, Hemorrhages, La Grippe, Asthma, Hay Fever—any Throat or Lung Trouble. 50c, $1.00. A feature of the new knitting mill is a special dining room which has been provided for those employes who bring their lunches. The west half of the first floor and basement of the new building is leased to E. A. Nelson, who has opened a new vaudeville house there.

The old knitting mill building adjoining the new structure has been remodeled. It is understood that it has been sold to an Eastern firm, which will occupy it with a hardware store in the near future. On the avenue side, the building has been remodeled, providing space for two stores. The upper stories have been remodeled, but as yet it has not been learned to what use they will be put.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 5.—Out at Camp Henry Parish Brown, companies of the uniform rank, Knights of Pythias, today engaged in competitive drills for prizes which will be awarded Saturday. The supreme lodge is in session today, and band concerts in camp will be an afternoon feature.

Following precedent, the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias elevated Vice Chancellor George J. Hanson of Calais, Me., to the office of supreme chancellor, and after a prolonged session elected Thomas J. Carling of Macon, Ga., supreme vice chancellor, on the fourth ballot.

Minneapolis Man Elected.

Other officers elected are as follows: Supreme keeper of records and seal, Fred F. Wheaton, Minneapolis; supreme prelate, Rev. Joseph H. Spearing, Shreveport, Iowa; supreme master of exchequer, Thomas D. Meares, Wilmington, N. C.; supreme master-at-arms, Edward W. Norton, St. Thomas, Ont.; supreme inner guard, Harry A. The Pythian Sisters were in session and voted not to consolidate the rituals, thus disposing of a warmly debated subject.

MEN NEEDED IN THE WEST

John Dalrymple Claims There Is Work for 20,000.

Reports of Crop Failure Have Kept Regular Harvesters Away.

Owing to the many reports of crop failure, men who have been in the habit of going West for work have stayed away from the wheat fields this year, with the result that there are now many men needed and wages are reported to be high. It is claimed there is work for 20,000 men.

The Herald was in receipt of the following letter this morning from John S. Dalrymple, manager of the Dalrymple farm, one of the largest in the Northwest:

"Duluth Evening Herald, Duluth, Minn.: Gentlemen—Harvest is two weeks earlier than usual and now general in the Red River valley. On account of the crop-failure stories that have been published, men have not come in and are now very scarce and wages are high. Twenty thousand men could find employment in the harvest fields at once.

"Will you kindly state these facts in your paper in order to get men into the country to help save the crops. Yours truly,

"JOHN S. DALRYMPLE."

LIKE A POODLE DOG!

Woman Leads Negro Boy Whom She Bought By a Chain.

New York, Aug. 5.—Mlle. Polaire, who came to this country with the determination to live down the reputation of being the ugliest woman in the world, went away on the Kaiser Wilhelm II, leading a negro boy whom she declared she had purchased for $2,000.

The boy was about 19 years of age. He wore about his neck a silver chain which had a tag attached to it, with the inscription:

"I belong to Mlle. Polaire. Please send me back to her if I am lost."

The French woman insisted that she had really bought the boy in the city of New York.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

WARMER

It "felt like fall" last evening, in the words of many hundreds of Duluthians, but this morning broke clear and warmer. The thermometer got down to 48 deg. during the night, but the weather man looks for warmer weather tonight and Saturday.

The sun rose this morning at 4:52 and will set at 7:35, making fourteen hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

A year ago today it was clear and warm.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Cooler weather prevails throughout the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and greater part of the Lake region, in consequence of a high pressure condition central over the Red River valley. The eastern disturbance caused further showers over Eastern Canada and Atlantic states during the last twenty-four hours. Low pressures central over Arizona and Southwestern Montana have caused showers in New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Alberta and British Columbia, and also a decided increase in warmth over Montana and the Western Dakotas. Generally fair weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Light to moderate west to northwest winds becoming variable. Fair tonight and Saturday.

Chicago, Aug. 5. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan — Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly warmer tonight.

Wisconsin — Generally fair tonight and Saturday; slowly rising temperature.

Minnesota—Fair tonight, warmer in west and south portions; Saturday partly cloudy and warmer.

Iowa—Generally fair and warmer tonight and Saturday.

North Dakota — Partly cloudy with probably showers tonight or Saturday; warmer tonight in east portion.

South Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Saturday; warmer tonight in north portion.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday in east portion.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

WESTERN DRAMA PROVING POPULAR.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine," which is being presented this week by Gus A. Forbes and his company at the Lyceum, is proving highly popular with the summer theater goers and each performance is greeted by an enthusiastic and interested audience. Western plays have an appeal all of their own and "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" is a stirring play of action that presents an interesting contrast to the romantic comedies and light farce which preceded it.

Next week Mr. Forbes will appear as Charley's relative in the classic farce, "Charley's Aunt." The play has not been seen in Duluth for many years and the advance sale for next week's performance is already large.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine" will be repeated this evening, the second matinee of the week tomorrow afternoon and again tomorrow night and Sunday afternoon and night.

FIND MOTHER DEAD AND FATHER BADLY WOUNDED.

Lorain, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Frank Walkinshaw, a brother of V. V. Walkinshaw, director of public safety, last night shot his wife dead and then turned his revolver on himself, inflicting a wound from which he may recover. Mrs. Walinshaw filed a petition for divorce a week ago.

The tragedy was discovered by the four children of the couple, who found the unconscious body of their father lying across the dead body of their mother at the top of the stairs in their home. Walkinshaw had been absent from home for two weeks and is said to have been drinking.

HISTORIAN SAYS JAPAN WILL FIGHT AMERICA.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 5.—Japanese newspapers received here published speeches by Takenokoshi Yosshuri, a noted Japanese historian, in which he says a war between Japan and America is inevitable, and urges immediate expansion of Japanese armaments. He holds the collision will be precipitated when the lease of the South Manchurian railroad expires, when, he says, China will insist upon the return of the railroad zone, and America will support China.

MOTHS MENACE CHICAGO PARKS

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Chicago's spacious parks and private groves are being so ravaged by the tussock moth that City Forester Prost has appealed to the common council for $10,000 with which to fight the pest.

"The insect has multiplied so rapidly the last few years as to menace seriously the health of the public and the tree life of the entire city," said Mr. Prost in his appeal. "Not satisfied with its usual object of attack, the softest wooded trees, it is ruining our best varieties, the elm and maple. Massachusetts has spent $1,000,000 fighting the insect and a host of cities have conducted regular crusades against it. In a spray of a solution of arsenate of lead lies our only hope of saving our trees, which are in a more precarious condition than is genarally supposed.

"I would like to see the city pay, say, 10 cents a quart for the cocoon egg masses, to encourage the children to fight. Owners of trees should aid the forestry and park departments by burning the cocoons when found. I would say it would take half the appropriation asked to check the pest's ravages, and the rest to entirely eradicate it."

Dress Suits for Baseball.

During the commencement season at Brown university the seniors give a dance, which lasts till the morning hours. After the girls have been taken home, the entire senior class adjourns to the field and there, in the haggard dawn light, in evening clothes, play a baseball game, conducted according to the best traditions of the sport. For that restless, tired feeling during the warm weather try a good malt tonic, such as Golden Grain Belt beer. Its life-giving, health-sustaining qualities will put health and strength into your system. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

GUNS AND KNIVES USED IN FIGHT OVER MAYOR.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 5.—One man was probably fatally cut, two were seriously slashed or shot, and two were badly battered last night in a battle in front of the Wellston city hall between policemen and sympathizers of Charles J. Roberts, who twenty-four hours before was declared mayor of that place, displacing Rev. Ira L. Hicks. Wellston is a suburb of St. Louis. The injured were all Wellston citizens.

LIEUTENANT FINED FOR ACCIDENT TO VESSEL.

Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 5.—News has been received here of the court martial sentence of Rolla F. Anderson, first lieutenant in the Coast artillery. Lieut. Anderson failed to give the angle to the battery commander before a 12-inch mortar was fired in target practice. The projectile struck the United States steamship Maj. Evan Thomas, damaging the vessel and endangering the lives of all on board. Lieut. Anderson has been ordered confined to the post for two months and fined $100.

NEW WARROAD HOTEL.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bids were opened here yesterday by Architect B. D. Kock for the construction of the new hotel at Warroad. There were many bids and the general contract has not yet been awarded, but will probably go to a Bemidji firm. The plumbing and heating was awarded to V. E. Beaudry of the Crookston Plumbing & Heating company, and the contract amounts to about $9,000. The hotel will cost complete about $51,000 and will be the finest in Northern Minnesota outside of Duluth.

BIG BALANCE CARRIED OVER

Board Has $7,796 on Hand for Unorganized School Districts.

More Than $5,000 Available for New Buildings Next Year.

The annual meeting of the county board of education of unorganized districts was held yesterday afternoon at the office of county superintendent of schools, S. W. Gilpin, in the courthouse.

The report of the board's treasurer, W. A. Holgate, showed that the receipts amounted to $17,654.59, while the disbursements were $9,857.63, leaving a balance for the ensuing year of $7,796.96. The levy made for the year 1911, which will be used for the maintenance of schools in unorganized districts, and for the construction of new schools was set at $16,300. Of this amount, it is estimated at $11,200 will be needed for running expenses while $5,100 would be available for new buildings and sites.

A contract was awarded to David Winton of Cook, Minn., for the erection of a one-room frame school building, on a stone foundation, in section 2, 51-12, for $962.

Petitions were received from the organized school districts numbered 62, 52 and 63 for dissolution. These will be considered at the meeting which will be held some time during September. It is claimed in these petitions by the boards, that these districts cannot raise the $300 required, and that they are deserving of support from the county.

The clerk of the board was authorized to install heating plants in four schools in the town of Pike, at a cost of $400. Repairs and improvements to other schools was also ordered.

The board appropriated $280 for the purchase of books for the libraries in schools numbered 2, 3, 6, 10, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16.

The county board of education is composed of Neil McInnis, chairman; W. A. Holgate, treasurer, and S. W. Gilpin, clerk.

The Herald's excursions are popular, or they would have been discontinued long ago. Every season more people take advantage of the outings afforded by The Herald at a cost that is insignificant compared with the enjoyment derived.

Every Monday morning at 9 o'clock the steamer Newsboy leaves Fifth avenue dock for a trip up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, the old Indian trading post. Visitors to the city declare that this is a scenic trip that cannot be excelled anywhere in the country. Fare for the round trip, 25 cents. The boat returns from Fond du Lac at 4:30 p. m. Chamber's Grove affords a splendid place for picnic parties. Every facility for boating and bathing.

The boat leaves Booth's dock at 4 o'clock, remains an hour at Two Harbors and returns by moonlight. Fare for the round trip only 30 cents. Here is a 60-mile ride in the cool of the afternoon and evening that is unsurpassed. Buy your tickets at The Herald office.

SAYS HARMON WILL BE RE-ELECTED IN OHIO.

Thomas Cromwell of Columbus expects Judson Harmon, the Democratic candidate, to be elected governor of Ohio for a second time this fall. Interviewed last evening, he said Harmon has a long lead over the Republican candidate, Warren G. Harding of Marion, and had strengthened himself with the people by his compromise and boldness in dealing with the lynchers of the youthful grogger raider at Newark.

"The Republicans are divided into factional camps, each convinced it is the only worthy one. Harding's friendly relations with former Senator Foraker is another feature that is likely to have an ill effect on the chances of Republican success.

"I believe Garfield and Burton and Longworth and Brown and Thompson and such friends as they can influence will support Harding, but there are a lot of old scores that have got to be settled among Ohio Republicans sooner or later and I very much fear such a thing must be attempted this year. Harding is a very able man and one popular with all of us, but he has got his work cut out for him for three months to come. I hope he realizes it.

"I do not know what special claims we can present to the voters of Ohio this year as against Harmon, except the one that is to my mind unworthy of serious consideration—that he will not serve out his term, but will use a second election as a stepping stone to a great proselyting campaign for his nomination for president in 1912.

"No man can say what Ohio will do in the case of its twenty-one congressmen and whether Senator Dick will get six years more is a very grave question. I realize that the public will view our action with special interest, because we belong in the president's state, and, of course, most of us will do what we can to hold up his hands, but, mind what I say, it is going to be like grinding rick, with a rather dull mill all the way."

CLAIMS WIFE DESERTED HIM; SEEKS DIVORCE.

On the grounds of an alleged desertion said to have taken place on April 4, 1909, Arthur Boutin has started suit in the district court to secure a divorce from his wife, Anna Boutin, the papers having been filed with the clerk yesterday afternoon. Boutin states that they were married by Judge Flack of the West Duluth justice court in the fall of 1905 and that they have a daughter, Grace Bernice Boutin, 3 years old.

Having secured work near Rainy lake, in the fall of 1908, the plaintiff states he left for that place, where he remained during 1909. He avers that his letters to her during 1909 were returned by her with severe rebukes. He alleges that he had built a home in the northern part of the state, where he expected to take his wife.

Mrs. Boutin, he claims, is now in Superior and will not give him possession of the child. He, therefore, only asks for a divorce decree.

"SUNSHINE POET" IS SUING FOR DAMAGES.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Miss Alice Hallowell, known as "the little sunshine poet of America," who has numbered among her friends several former presidents of the United States, has filed a damage suit for $10,000 against Clarence L. Gilpin, a Maryland farmer, charging cruel treatment.

One year ago Miss Hallowell, according to the papers filed, was visiting her two sisters at Sandy Springs, Md. When the "little sunshine poetess" refused to leave, she alleges, Gilpin was asked to take her to Washington, which was done by forcing her into a closed carriage, and, in spite of her struggles and screams, tying the door. One of the sisters said her testimony would exonerate Gilpin, who is said to be related to a former mayor of Philadelphia.

NO REST FOR OVERWORKED "BOULEVARD EDITOR"

Suggestions for New Name for Driveway Are Still Pouring in.

One Contributor Grows Poetical---Morning Paper Tries Again.

The overworked "Boulevard editor," has not seen much poetry in his present situation, but there came a ray of light into the deep, dark, dank gloom today when an invocation to the sweet muse of poesy drifted in from A. G. Catlin of 115 West Eighth street.

Mr. Catlin in defense of his selection, "Rocky Way," as a new name for the most famous boulevard in the world, twangs his harp and gives to the world this tuneful lay:

Take a trip up Rocky Way
And you the same as I
Will find the views are there each day
That money cannot buy.

And the pleasure of the trip,
Impressing you the most,
Will always be upon your lip,
While traveling coast to coast.

And if ever you feel blue,
Just think of Rocky Way,
And you will find that pleasure true
Will live the longest day.

The "Boulevard editor," feeling somewhat depressed, cast his mind on "Rocky Way," but didn't do much good until "W. H. C." asked in a letter, "How would you like to take an auto ride over the 'Crest Way' or a drive over 'Observation Pike?' The "Boulevard editor," prefers the auto ride and he'll be waiting at the gate.

The morning paper, after being retired on a foul fly—literary genis being barred from this engrossing game—came to bat again. Says ye editor: "Rogers Hillcrest road. This will cost The Herald ten plunks." Maybe, but not for you, O clipper of Pegasus' wings.

Col. Rogers found another Sponser in F. W. Norquist of 2320 Piedmont avenue. He suggests "Rogers' Decorum Drive," "Rogers' Decoration Drive," and "Rogers' Willowy Drive." Says Mr. Norquist: "From suggestions sent in, many like to see Col. Rogers' name appear in connection with the new name for the Boulevard. I think it appropriate for the city of Duluth to pay honor to the man who planned and decorated the city with such a beautiful and famous driveway which, I am sure, will still be there and attractive after we have gone beyond.

Rev. J. A. Bjerke, pastor of Our Savior's Evangelical Lutheran church thinks the Boulevard should be christened "Tabor Road." Mr. Bjerke says, "Mount Tabor is in Palestine and is well known to the Christian world. Tabor is a high mountain with gentle slopes on all sides. From Tabor the surrounding hills and valleys can be seen. I suggest 'Tabor Road.'"

A letter somewhat out of the ordinary suggesting "Rose-Veldt," which means "Rose of the field," came from Roselind Dunphy of 331 Twenty-sixth avenue west. She writes, "If the citizens of Italy saw fit to honor one of our greatest statesmen by changing the name of one of their finest boulevards and calling it "Rose-Veldt," should not the citizens of Duluth do an equal honor to our former president and one of the greatest men of our time by naming one of the most magnificent driveways in the world the "Rose-Veldt Driveway."

The contest will be closed Monday when the communications will be given to the park board, which will choose the new name for the Boulevard.

WILL FATTEN LIVE STOCK

On Large Tract of Rich Land in Beltrami County.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.—A deal has been closed whereby 5,000 acres of fertile lands near Hines, Beltrami county, have been transferred to a corporation to be known as the Beltrami Land company, for the purpose of fattening stock for the markets. The principal movers in this deal are: A. L. Morris, president of the bank at Tenstrike, and Charles S. Carter of Hines, who owns considerable land near Hines.

Knowing the nature of the soil of this section and its great productiveness for nutritive grasses and root crops, Mr. Carter has satisfied himself that grazing of stock would prove highly satisfactory and would prove a financial winner. He and his associates will clear the land and raise timothy and clover for feeding.

HOME BUILDERS VERY BUSY FOLK

Industrious Colony of Hollanders at Belfield, N. D., Reclaiming Prairies.

Belfield, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald)—Holland's farming methods will be adopted by the colony of Hollanders that recently settled on lands in this section that were purchased through a syndicate of foreign bankers. Already these new people are commencing the work and next year they will sow their first crop on the thousands of acres of land that they have purchased.

Since the arrival of the first colony some two months ago, Belfield has been a very active place. Bringing a comfortable amount of cash from their old homes, these farmers have rapidly taken a deep interest in building their new homes, and every week there has appeared here and there over the prairie a new home. The buildings are neat and complete and indicate that the Hollanders are here to stay.

Following Other Activities.

There are many activities in which these new settlers will be particularly prominent. One of them is a brick yard, and they propose to manufacture all of the brick that will be used in their homes from now on. In the party of colonists there are men of various trades and professions, and they are rapidly settling up what will soon be one of the strongest foreign districts of North Dakota.

Breaking plows have been operated for some time and a considerable amount of virgin soil has already been turned over. The very thorough manner in which the Hollander farms is evidenced in their breaking, which farmers of this section pronounce to be of the very best. This method of farming the Hollanders will continue to employ, and as a result Belfield should soon be set up as a model farming community.

These new people in the state have rapidly taken up the American custom. They have made friends with the people of Belfield, dress neatly, their homes are comfortable and everything makes it appear that their settlement will be one of which Stark county can take just pride.

IS GIVEN FOUR YEARS.

Kenmare, N. D. Young Man Pleads Guilty to Serious Charge.

Kenmare, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.) — Four years in prison was the sentence given Conrad Dahl, one of the local young men involved in the embezzlement of cash from the Farmers' elevator here and the destruction of the elevator and several other buildings by fire.

Dahl entered a plea of guilty to the charge, taking the same course that his partner did some time ago, there being two young men mixed up in the affair. It was through the efforts of young Dahl's father that he made the plea of guilty.

ALLEGED HAY THEFT.

Forage So Valuable in North Dakota Trouble Results.

Sawyer, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Advanced prices of hay, now prevalant over the Northwest, got Edward Teiterman of this city, into trouble. He is charged by W. P. Miller with a theft of a quantity of hay from the latter's farm. Miller contends that he found Teiterman cutting the hay from his land and that he warned him against further operations, but without avail. The defendant has retained counsel.

HAD HORROR OF WATER.

Winona Hermit Has Not Taken Bath in Twenty-five Years.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 5.—The authorities of Winona county descended upon the little shack occupied by Bob Bristol, an aged hermit who has lived on the shore of the Mississippi west of here for twenty-five years with his two dogs. The man was aged and lying on the dirt-coated mattress on the floor. He admitted his cooking dishes had not been washed for a quarter of a century and that he had not taken a bath in that time.

Attention was called to him by a complaint by a neighbor who claimed he threatened him because he removed from Bristol's property a fence which obstructed a public highway.

The complainant said Bristol was insane. The hermit will be taken charge of here but will not be taken to the asylum.

EAU CLAIRE SCHOOL CENSUS SHOWS FALLING OFF.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 5.—The annual school census for 1910 has been filed and shows that there has been a decrease of 355 in the number of children of school age as compared with the number last year. In 1909 the total number was 6,421, while the present census shows a falling off to 6,066. It is thought more children passed the maximum school age than entered it the present year.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The regular August meeting of the Women's Council was held this morning at the clubroom of the library with Mrs. J. L. Washburn presiding. The routine reports of the various committees were heard. The report of the special committee on the series of lectures to be given in this city in October was presented by Mrs. F. L. Barrows. The committee met yesterday with Mayor Cullum and Dr. Webster and other of the city officials who will lend their assistance to the course of civic lectures which will be presented by Mrs. Crane.

Mrs. Crane will come to Duluth Oct. 1 and remain in this city for five days, speaking of various civic enterprises and projects that may with advantage be followed by the city. "I feel that bringing Mrs. Crane to the city is as valuable as any work that the council has ever undertaken," said Mrs. Washburn. Mrs. Crane will speak at St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Brainerd, as well as at Duluth, during her visit to the state. She has recently given a course of lectures in Kentucky that were productive of great results and which were most heartily indorsed by the state and city officials, as well as the people of the state.

The report of the summer vacation school was presented by Mrs. E. W. Matter. The schools in domestic science and manual training have been conducted this year at the expense of the board of education with a committee of the council looking after the details of engaging the teachers and providing supplies. The domestic science school is giving daily lessons to eighty girls of the seventh and eighth grades, and sixty boys are enrolled at the manual training school. The council members feel that the summer schools are a vital and necessary work and that the amount of money which has been invested has brought adequate and encouraging returns.

The president appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, Miss Ensign and Mrs. Julia M. Barnes to assemble the rules which governed the council in the past.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held the first Friday of September.

COPY OF REMBRANDT

Is Hung in Newspaper Room of Library.

The copy of "The Cloth Merchants" of Rembrandt owned by Arthur Kreiger of this city, the original of which is hung in Ryks Museum at Amersterdam is now hung on the north wall of the newspaper room at the public library. The painting which is the size of the original has been loaned to the library for an indefinite period by Mr. Krieger. In a recent book, "What Pictures to See in Europe in One Summer," by Lorinda Munson Bryant, the author writes of the original of this picture as follows:

"Rembrandt found in 'The Cloth Merchants' that a portrait quality best suited the corporation picture. In this painting we have the same keen, bright faces so characteristic of the Dutch merchants of today; in fact, one can scarcely realize that nearly 300 years have rolled by since Rembrandt painted these men. Dark clothes, wide white collars, and broad beaver hats have changed very little in Holland in three centuries. Were hands ever more instinct with life and personal traits, and bodies more responsive to well balanced minds? These men are simple merchants discussing some details of their calling, but there is not a face expressive of greed and a desire to appropriate the lion's share. We wish to shake each man by the hand and asks his views of the vital questions of the day. Not a man among them has his 'price.' Notice again how the faces are all in the light and the clothes and hats subordinated at the artist's discretion. Such unique effects produced by the arbitrary placing of light and shadow, were never achieved before or since, but of course there never has been but one Rembrandt."

The picture which is at the library was exhibited at the art exhibit held at the courthouse in June.

THE EVENING STORY

THE HOUSE

By William Mannaring.

The old woman sat motionless, starring with unseeing eyes at the slowly dying fire. The daylight faded gradually from the little square window, and the twilight merged into utter darkness. A sudden spurt of sparks from the expiring fire threw a ghostly light on her wrinkled face, lusterless eyes, and scanty whisps of snowy hair. And as she sat, silent and still, tears rolled down her cheeks.

She was roused from her stupor by the rattle of the latch and the sound of a sharp voice.

"Are you there, granny?"

The old woman started out of her chair, as she answered, "Yes, yes, neighbor. Come you in while I gets a light."

She fumbled along the high mantle shelf until her hands touched a box of matches. Lighting a candle, she placed it on the three-legged table that stood in the center of the room, and the feeble, flickering light revealed a spare, hard-featured woman standing in the doorway.

"What! an' no fire?" she said, as she advanced into the room. "Nights be chilly yet, granny, if the day be a bit warmish."

"I was thinking," quavered the old woman, half apologetically, "an' the fire went out unbeknownst."

"You shouldn't think." The other spoke sharply, in a high pitched voice. "Here, I've brought you a bite of victuals, them's better nor thoughts." She took from under her apron a covered plate and placed it on the table. "My man didn't eat hearty tonight, so I had some over."

"You'm a very good neighbor, to think of——"

"Pish! 'Twould ha' gone to the pig, an' he's doin' very well as 'tis. Besides, human bein's wants grub, I say, an' it puzzles me, granny, how you rubs along."

A wry smile passed across the old old woman's face.

"That's what I was thinkin' when I let the fire go out. I can't rub along much longer, an' that's a fact. I've got a matter o' ten shillins, an' when that's gone there's the workhus, I suppose."

"We've all got that to look forward to, granny, and they won't eat you in the 'house.'"

"Oh! neighbor, but I don't want to go there." The old woman turned an appealing face to the other, and clasped and unclasped her hands as she spoke. "Just think o' bein' buried in a pauper's coffin, Mrs. Ford; and after all the years I've worked and striven to keep a place o' my own about me—an' I must end my days after all in the 'house.' Oh! it's hard, neighbor—cruel hard."

Mrs. Ford shuffled her feet, and looked everywhere except at the figure of the old woman huddled up in the rickety armchair.

"Have you heard anything o' that son o' yours, granny?" she said at last. A smile stilled the twitching of her tremulous lips, and she looked up eagerly.

"I've heard nothin'. Nothin' since he went away five years agone, an' but what if he'd come before my money was all gone, I'd no fear o' the 'house' then, neighbor. I'll be happy ole woman when my boy comes back."

"Well, it's to be hoped he'll come soon, granny."

The younger woman moved towards the door as she spoke, and as she closed it after her she muttered, "An it's to be hoped he's altered, or he won't be much good to her."

II.

The man stepped out of the publichouse, wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, and slowly shambled along the shady side of the street. His jacket was buttoned up close to his chin, and the frayed ends of the trouser legs trailing the dust at every step almost hid the heelless shoes. He halted irresolutely outside one of a row of small cottages, and after glancing furtively up and down the deserted road, raised the latch and hesitatingly entered the little room.

"Anybody in?" he queried.

The old woman, sitting in her accustomed chair, turned her head at the sound of his voice, peering with blinking eyes at the sunshine that blazed in through the open doorway.

"Who is it?"

"It's me, mother. Don't yer know me?"

She rose quickly, and stood one hand on the arm of her chair, the other shading her eyes from the glare of sunlight against which the man's figure made a black, ill-defined patch.

"Me, Jack, yer son. Don't yer know me?" he repeated.

"Oh! my boy, my boy!"

She ran to him, and pulling him by the arm into the dimmer recesses of the room, forced him into the chair she had just vacated.

"An' you're come back at last!"

She had pulled his frowzy cap off and was stroking his head. "Oh, John! I've wanted you sore."

She was crying now, and the man moved restively under her caresses. At length he put her awkwardly from him and growled: "You might give us some grub, mother, I'm nigh starved."

She busied herself laying out the meager contents of the larder, and when all was ready the man moved forward from the dim corner and took his place at the table under the little square window. He ate wolfishly, his eyes fixed greedily on the food before him, and the old woman assiduously replenished cup and plate as they became empty. At the same time she gradually realized his unkempt condition, but said nothing until he had finished his meal and thrown himself, with a grunt of satisfaction, back into the rickety arm chair.

"I'm afraid, John," she queried timidly, "you've been seein' hard times?"

"Yer're about right there, mother," he answered. "I've been on the road this last couple o' years. On tramp, yer knows."

"Poor boy." She patted his hand. "Never mind, you'll stay with me now in your home."

"That's jest what I can't do, and it's what I wants ter talk ter yer about. Yer see, I got into a little trouble wi' the perleece last night a few miles back along. A open winder yer knows."

"Oh, John! The perleece."

The old woman commenced to walk distractedly up and down the room.

"But they'll take you to prison," she sobbed. The man laughed harshly. "That's a fact 'less I can get away."

He hesitated a second, and then continued, hurriedly, "Can't yer give us some money, mother, so as I kin git away from this part o' the country?"

She stood, a look of despair slowly deepening in her faded eyes, and then silently she crept to an inner room. She remained away so long that the man began to drum impatiently on the arms of his chair. She returned at last, and walking up to him laid a few pieces of silver in his ready hand.

"It's all I've got, John—10 shilluns it is, an' I was keepin'—never mind, take it, my boy—I——"

Then with a sudden access of terror she pushed him out into the sunny street.

"Oh! go, my boy, go! They may be coming now."

TRY THIS DINNER

Vegetable Soup.

Chop fine a quarter of a cabbage, two turnips, two onions, a little parsley and three stalks of celery. Fry in butter, and three quarts of water, and simmer until the vegetables are soft. Rub through a sieve, reheat, season to taste, add one-half cup of boiled rice, and thicken with the yolks of two eggs, beaten smooth, with a little of the soup. Serve with croutons.

Meat—Fricasee Lamb's Hearts.

Cook separately in water to cover, two lambs' hearts and an equal quantity of lamb's liver. Drain, chop fine, add half a cup of bread crumbs, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful each of thyme, parsley and onion. Reduce the cooking liquid to a cup by rapid boiling, mix with the meat and crumbs, and put into a buttered baking dish and bake for half an hour. Garnish with slices of hard-boiled eggs.

Vegetables—Tomato, Pepper and Cauliflower Salad.

Peel some small tomatoes and cut in small slices; lay on ice to become firm. Cook a quarter of a head of cauliflower, drain, cool and season well with a tablespoonful of oil, vinegar and salt, using two tablespoonfuls of the oil, half a teaspoonful of vinegar. When ice cold put this on a dish and around the edge lay alternate rings of green peppers and the tomato slices. Serve with either French dressing or mayonnaise.

Dessert—Orange Ice.

Cut the oranges in half and press out the juice and pulp on a glass grinder. Add the juice of one lemon to each pint of orange juice and dilute with one quart of water, and add two cups of sugar or more if needed. When dissolved strain into the freeer, turn slowly, when stiff remove the dasher, pack and let it ripen.

HEALTH AND THE CELLAR

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

The condition of the cellar is far more important than that of the parlor. In light rooms dirt is comparatively harmless. In dark places it is a lurking danger. No old wood, no vegetables, no rubbish of any kind, should be allowed to cumber the cellar, which should have a waterproof and airtight floor, to prevent ground air and soil moisture from rising to the living rooms. Whether the floor and walls be cemented or not, it is necessary that all cellar doors and windows be daily opened for free circulation of air.

The water from the eaves, if not saved in a cistern, should be carried so far from the house in well-laid pipes that there will be no contiguous surface dampness or wet foundation walls.

Dampness is a ready vehicle for disease, as well as a fruitful cause of it. Another source of danger is decaying vegetable refuse in garden or grounds. Careless servants leave rhubarb leaves, pruning of vines or weeds wherever they fall, instead of taking them to the compost pit or burning them. If they are out of sight they are out of mind, till they recall themselves in visitations of headache, aching bones or irritable tempers.

In short, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty from disease as from other usurpers. Voltaire said that incantations would destroy a flock of sheep if administered with the proper quantity of arsenic.

But if we put a superstitious faith in country air, to the neglect of constant scrutiny and intelligent precaution, it is likely that our last state will be worse than our first. It is when the early autumn weather sets in, bringing cool nights, treading close upon the heels of day, that the demon of fever and infection is most apt to walk abroad, and our householders will find there is no time so good as the later autumn weather, just as the black frost falls, for exorcising the being that makes such destruction. Then, in the safe chilliness of the nights and days the places that he has haunted can be barricaded against his return, and the nests in which his evil attendance has brooded can be cleared of their presence for once and all.

THE DOCTOR

The Cure of Indigestion.

When we hear of a person suffering from indigestion, our first care should be to inquire into his diet, for in a large majority of cases the cause of the trouble is food and the way in which it is taken.

There is a form of indigestion, acute and sudden, which may attack anyone after partaking of food that is in every way wholesome, but this is due to the condition of the body when the food is eaten. To do a hard day's work, during which time he eats little or nothing, and then to make a heavy meal rapidly will bring on a fit of indigestion even in a man who does not ordinarily suffer from it.

If one is obliged to go for a prolonged period without food, the first meal taken should be a very light one, such as will be easily assimilated, after which a second may be taken. Other causes of indigestion are "high" meat or stale fish, over-ripe cheese or fruit; still more frequently alcohol, especially when taken on an empty stomach.

Chronic Dyspepsia.

But apart from sudden attacks of severe pain, it is very usual to find people complaining of continual indigestion after taking even the simplest food. This comes from a weakened state of the stomach and faulty digestive process, due generally to want of care in eating.

In the first case we may ask, "Do you masticate the food thoroughly, or is everything bolted in the quickest way?" Scarcely any food can be mentioned that would be in a form suitable for digestion if put straight into the stomach, yet this is what we do with all the food when we bolt it.

How can the gastric juices act on lumps of meat or anything else? We must first break everything small with our teeth, during which process the saliva mixes with it, and prepares it for digestion, therefore, you cannot eat too slowly.

It is well to drink little during the meal, one cup of tea at breakfast taken rather at the end than at the beginning of the meal is enough, and many patients will find relief by abstaining from drinking altogether at ordinary meal times, and taking their liquids separately.

FREE AFTER TEN MONTHS

Millionaire Bradbury Leaves San Quentin Prison Hale and Sprightly.

Plan to Provide Fund for Convicts Vanishes With Liberty.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 5.—William B. Bradbury, the masterful and domineering millionaire of San Francisco and Corte Madera, stepped from the penitentiary at San Quentin after having served ten months of a year sentence imposed on the conviction of perjury, health in his walk, strength in his carriage, and on all-prevailing peevishness in his temperament.

The genial humility which marked him in his hours of incarceration vanished with the oncoming of his liberty. The realization that he was once again a millionaire and no longer a numbered thing, cured him completely of whatever symptoms he had shown of late of friendliness to all about him. And though he declared his intention of giving $2,500 as a basis of a fund for the use of paroled convicts, the statements were indefinite, and, as the day advanced, and the knowledge of his liberty became born on him with the greater force, they became more and more shadowy. Ultimately, at noon, his wife, speaking for him, said the matter of Bradbury giving away $2,500 for a paroled convict fund might be decided later, but at present—

Took $5 Release Money.

Also, the millionaire did not hesitate to take the $5 offered by the state to poor prisoners. The penitentiary rule is that every man that enters prison with less than $20 is to be given $5 to help him on his way. Bradbury had $11.40 on his person when he exchanged his business suit for the fashions in stripes.

As the hour of Bradbury's release approached every man who could possibly have any business around the office was there; for the millionaire during his term had become in San Quentin a vast joke. His millions were useless. He was merely a certain number who cleaned the cuspidors in the hospital and whose outbursts of anger were objects of extreme hilarity among his criminal fellows.

His Health Good.

The first noticeable feature about the man as he stepped forth to receive his discharge was his health. When he entered San Quentin he was a physical wreck, tottering and doddering under the weight of 71 years and much tribulation. When he stepped out his eye was clear, his skin ruddy and he was as vigorous as a colt. The prison pallor was absent. He came out a hale and hearty old man.

Bradbury looked to where Captain of the Yard Ellis was seated at his desk. The spectators craned. Would he take the $5? Capt. Ellis shoved the gold piece toward the old man.

"That's from the state to"—he hesitated—"to help you along a little bit. The sum is allowed all prisoners who enter the penitentiary with less than $20 in their possession."

Bradbury straightened perceptibly. He pulled out his eyeglasses, adjusted them with trembling fingers and—and—both hands reached for the shining yellow cash.

Took Money Eagerly.

"It's a long time since I felt money," he said.

From the onlookers came a snicker, but Bradbury was oblivious to it all. For Capt. Ellis was counting out the rest of his money and the old man watched with gleaming eyes. He picked up the gold and silver with nervous fingers and jingled them in both his hands, murmuring and muttering to himself the while. Suddenly the look of satisfaction vanished and on his face came fear—downright, abject fear.

"Where are my jewels?" he cried out. "Give me my diamond! You have my gold studs. Where are they? Where are they? And my check book! My check book! You have it. You took it when I came Give it back to me. Where is my check book? Give me back my check book.

Warden Hoyle loomed in the doorway and bent over the aged figure.

"Now, now," he said with grave firmness, "you remember you gave an order to have you check book passed on to your wife? She has it."

"I forgot," said the millionaire. "It is a long time in here my friend and—I forgot."

Asked for a Purse.

"You have your things— and your money?" said Hoyle.

"Yes, yes, my money—my money." He jingled the coins again and once more peace and contentment came into his eyes. Then, with a cunning leer, he added:

'And a uprse, my friend. Don't I get a purse into which to put the money? A small purse?"

"You get no purse," said the warden, somewhat sternly, and the millionaire winced at the tone. With his discharge and his money in his pocket, Bradbury began by palpable degrees to lose that attitude of chastened humility. A newspaper man, with whom he freely conversed when a prisoner, he refused to recognize, ignoring the outstretched hand and the offered congratulations.

"Now I am going out," Bradbury began talking to Hoyle. "I intend to see if I cannot start a fund for paroled convicts.

"My intentions are to see if I cannot start a fund with $2,500. When a man is paroled and needs the money he can borrow from the fund at an interest of 10 per cent per annum. If a man borrows $45 he can pay it back at the rate of $11.44 a month. The high rate of interest is necessary, because there will be some who will not pay. It is my play to place the $2,500 in some trust company."

Bradbury heard the sound of wheels on the gravel outside and saw approaching a carriage with his wife and nephew. He jammed his silk hat on his head and strode out.

"Can you spare a minute?" asked a newspaper man.

"I can spare nothing," he snarled over his shoulder. He climbed into the carriage without even a nod to his wife and nephew.

"Drive home," he called to his coachman. The whip fell and the horses were off at a rapid speed. Behind followed rigs containing newspaper men. The moment his carriage entered the Bradbury place, servants closed the big gates, shutting all others out.

Convicted of Perjury.

Bradbury was convicted of perjury, the complaining witness being James McCue. The latter had borrowed money of Bradbury, mortgaging some property as security. As the note fell due McCue, unable to meet it, went to a bank to make an additional loan to meet Bradbury's claims, but the latter it is alleged, who had great influence with the bank officials, notified them not to lend McCue any money. The matter was taken to court and Bradbury swore he had not so notified the bank The case was fought bitterly, but Bradbury was convicted. He appealed and won his point in the appellate court, but the supreme court reversed this latter ruling. As a last resort he made a plea to the governor for a pardon, but Governor Gillett was obdurate and he entered San Quentin penitentiary Sept. 2 to serve a year's team. Two months were taken off for good behavior.

His imprisonment at the age of 71 was a sensational climax to a life crammed with sensations, bickerings, and endless litigation with his neighbors. His reputation for closeness in money matters is such that it even penetrated the doors of the penitentiary.

At the annual concert and minstrel show on Independence day this trait of his is made the subject of the convicts' witticisms, one of the many hits at his being that he looks over his eye-glasses instead of through them in order to make them last longer. Bradbury was present at rehearsals, and when he heard the gibe he chuckled in great glee, taking it in the nature of a compliment to his shrewd business sense.

ROCKEFELLER'S WHISKY BATHS

Are Prescribed By His Physician to Preserve His Strength.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 5.—John D. Rockefeller has taken "to whisky," not, however, in the form the average human being takes it. The world's richest man is just as far from being a toper as he ever was. Furthermore, his reputation as a total abstainer from liquor is just as clear as it has been all during his life. His taking to whisky will not increase the revenue of the grog shops, nor does it indicate that in his old age he is becoming liberal in his views.

The restaurant habitue need not look forward to seeing the oil king pull up in his automobile and enter a cafe to get a toddy or any other sort of stimulant. The whisky to which John D. has taken is meant to prolong life and render him nimble for his daily recreation on the golf links of Forest Hill. In other words, he has become addicted to the whisky bath.

Despite his frequent allusions to his youth, Mr. Rockefeller is feeling his age, and the whisky baths have been prescribed by his physicians to preserve his strength and render him able to withstand the rigors of golf, his favorite pastime. This was learned from a member of the household.

Mr. Rockefeller has found the exertions resultant from strenuous exercise straining, and, instead of coming off the links fresh, as was his wont, he now is fatigued, and his physician fears rheumatism will set in unless he takes whisky baths.

In line with his physician's prescriptions the oil king has adopted an innovation in his living methods. Instead of sleeping until 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning he has begun to get up every morning at 5 o'clock. His hour for retiring at night has been moved ahead by several hours, and his day now resembles very much that of a farmer.

DIVORCED FROM CHINESE.

Young French Woman Claimed to Have Been Ill Treated.

Paris, Aug. 5.—The Paris courts have divorced a young French woman from her husband, a Chinese, whose marriage made a sensation a few years ago as the bride, Mlle. Breteuil, was a member of a leading family in Parisian society. The bridegroom, Oh Kay, came to Paris to study law; he was extremely rich and of good standing in his own country.

The divorce was pronounced by default, for the husband neither appeared nor was represented. Mme. Oh Kay testified that she had been cruelly treated and that she had escaped with her little child, thanks to the assistance of the French consul, from her Chinese home. Her evidence showed that, as is often the case in these marriages, as long as they remained in Europe the husband acted like a European, but when they moved to China he became once more a Chinese.

OUTLOOK IS IMPROVED

Dairymen and Cheese Makers Beginning to Be More Hopeful.

Creamery Butter Is Slightly Lower---Potato Prices Are Firmer.

Price changes this week were only moderately important although they were of considerable interest because values in some instances moved in a direction opposite to the trend which most people thought should have been taken. The people formed their opinion some time ago when pastures were burning up and dairymen and cheesemakers were beginning to despair. Conditions rapidly improved, however, after the drouth was broken and the late hay crop started to make a good growth. There was a better yield in the lowlands than had been looked for. Upland pastures were generally burned up, however.

Fancy creamery butter declined 1c this week from 29 cents to 28 cents, while there was a firmer tone in dairy butter. There has been a tendency among many people to buy good dairies instead of creameries when the former are fresh and in prime condition. This contributed to the firmer tone in dairy butter and to the decline in creamery. The low price on dairy in the fore part of the week was 24 cents but toward the close dealers were holding supplies for 25 cents and there was no disposition to shade prices. On the other hand supplies of creamery were liberal while the demand was not sufficiently broad to move supplies as rapidly as receivers desired. They were under the necessity of making concessions and when prices were shaded stores moved faster. Packing stock was unchanged at 21 cents.

The cheese market was firm and the demand was good. Heavier receipts of limburger caused a slump of 1 cent in prices. Limburger was reduced to 18 cents. Both American and foreign makes held firm and there was no change in their price position. Prices are comparatively high but the demand this summer has been unusually heavy in the face of relatively small supplies.

* * *

The purchasing ability of the potato consumer apparently increased during the week, or the turn of the tide carried the public's favor to the new potato. The public has not taken hold of the new potato as rapidly as had been expected and prices declined to 95 cents a week ago and some dealers made better concessions. A broadening of the outlet for supplies and receipts that were far from burdensome caused dealers to advance prices on new potatoes which were quoted today at $1 a bushel. The old crop is still selling at 50 cents a bushel. When old potatoes got down below 25 cents last spring, when the maket was demonalized, the publii shunned the vegetable probably because it was cheap. As prices advanced the public's taste for the tuber returned which is an item of interest in the campaign against the high cost of living. The Minnesota crop promises to make a big yield and from present indications there will be no shortage in the potato crop.

* * *

California fruit moved well this week. Oranges were in demand and other fruits such as plums, Bartlett pears, California grapes and peaches were active. Delaware grapes arrived in excellent condition and were slightly lighter in value than the California fruit.

* * *

Owing to cooler weather receivers were not subject to great risk of loss and prices on vegetables remained firm. The demand was good and the outlet for nearly all varieties was broad. Green corn which came from Wisconsin was a favorite because of its newness and the moderately reasonable prices. The corn crop will be a bumper proposition and prices probably will approach lower levels. Home grown onions, wax beans, cucumbers and pie plant were well taken. Illinois cucumbers by reason of their cheaper values were active.

* * *

Meats, with the exception of lamb, declined on account of an increase of run of stock from the ranges. Beef was erratic from 7@11c last week to 6½@11½c this week, the cheaper cuts declining and the better grades advancing, the vagary of popular demand favoring the more expensive cuts. Pork loins dropped to 8½@9c from 9½@10c. Veal declined from 9@11c to 8@10c. Lamb advanced from 12c to 13@14c. The run of lambs is being cleaned up by packers and it is probable that prices will work higher.

* * *

The poultry market is lower on account of heavy marketings from nearby territory.

* * *

The fruit crop in Michigan will be normal, according to a bulletin issued by the state agricultural department. Tree fruits and grapes are in good shape. The report shows the condition of the potato crop to be 88 in the southern counties, 87 in the upper peninsula and 90 in the central portion.

* * *

In the jobbing trade, dried fruits are a big feature. Jobbers are urging their customers to invest in dried fruits immediately on account of the continued advance which gives no indication of a decline. Shortage in some lines is unprecedented and the biggest demand in years is causing prices to soar. Grocers also are booking larger orders for future preserves than ever before. The small pack of peas and cherries is the basis of claims by some canners that they will be unable to fill all of their orders.

* * *

New crop Japan teas that are coming into the market are unsatisfactory, being of poorer quality than last season but with higher prices on account of a short crop.

"The trade in dried fruits and canned goods," said a jobber today, "instead of being of the usual summer dullness is of the ante-holiday order. Trading in dried fruits is generally heaviest before the winter holidays."

Sugar prices are stationary despite the flurry of considerable importance in the Eastern sugar market on account of a strike at some of the leading refineries. The demand is good and prices to the retail trade have been stationary. Rice is in good demand at firm prices. The break in mill prices of flour has stimulated buying by the retailers and the consumptive demand is moderate.

WIFE PARTNER OF THE HUSBAND

Training in Domestic Knowledge Out of Date, Says Suffragette.

New York, Aug. 5.—"The woman of today refuses to live on her father. The woman of tomorrow will refuse to live on her husband."

This is the statement of Miss Elizabeth Ellsworth Cook, who has been christened the "pocket edition of women suffrage." She's a Cornell A. B., too, and a business woman. Continuing, she said:

"The business woman of today and tomorrow needs special and scientific knowledge of her job in the business world. But, whether she is married or single, she does not need specialized domestic knowledge. Why should she —when she can buy it?

"Now, I say the modern woman of today, or tomorrow, either, is never going to be weighed down by that tremendous course of double training, because she is not necessarily going to be any more 'domestic,' in the old-fashioned sense of the word, after her marriage than before it. Already the modern woman refuses to stay at home and live on her father when for half of what he gives her for clothes he could hire a servant to take care of the house. Fifty years from now a woman will be ashamed to live on her husband."

"By the way, do you believe that the marrying age for women is getting later and later?" I asked.

"Well," she said thoughtfully, "my grandmother was married at 16, my mother at 22 and here I am nearly 26.

"But," she went on more seriously, "that seems in the way to prove the point as to the increasing lateness of the wedding day. But, you know, I think it's a very good thing. I don't think women are half so liable to make mistakes as when they marry younger. It stands to reason that they have a better judgment and reasoning sense at 26 than at 16. And the sentimentals to the contrary notwithstanding, one should use one's heart in picking out a husband. The best kind of marriage is just an ideal business partnership, and you are much more likely to make advantageous business deals after you're 20 than before it."

CAPT. MACADAMS MISSING.

Was Searching for $100,000 Pearl Stolen From Buddha Image.

New York, Aug. 5.—Capt. H. C. V. G. MacAdams, of Hereford, England, who came to New York a little more than a week ago in search of a blue pearl, said to have been taken from the eye of an image of Budda during the Sepoy revolt and to be worth $100,000, has succeeded now, according to his attorney, in losing not only the jewel, but himself as well.

Reginald H. Schenck, who says he is acting for the Rajah Ranee in his search for the Buddha's eye, went to police headquarters and had a general alarm sent out for the captain.

Mr. Schenck said that on July 25, when the captain was in Boston on the trail of the jewel, he received this telegram from him:

"Case and jewel gone between station here and Touraine hotel. Have called Pinkertons."

Soon after receiving the telegram Mr. Schenck was called out of town. He understood that the captain was on his way to New York and left instructions to be given him at his office if he called. Mr. Schenck returned and found that no captain had turned up.

SAMARITANS HOLD PICNIC

Annual Outing of Duluth Order at Lester Park.

Big Crowd Watches Sport Program and Attends Dance.

The Modern Samaritans had full sway at Lester Park yesterday, the occasion being their annual picnic. Hundreds visited the park at the eastern end of the city both afternoon and evening. Others with their families went out in the morning with big lunch baskets, crammed to the top with dainties and remained throughout the day.

Until evening the women were in the big majority, but later the men folks were very much in evidence. There was dancing at the pavilion afternoon and evening. The hall was well filled at all times. In the afternoon the attraction was so strong that it threatened a ttimes to interfere with the athletic events which were scheduled as the big bill of the day. The contests were of a high order and most of them proved to be not only exciting but furnished considerable amusement for the spectators as well as the contestants. The results of the different events were as follows:

Hundred-yard dash (for Samaritans only)—Percy Christie, first prize; Mr. Berglund, second prize.

Fifty-yard dash (for Samaritan ladies only)—Annie Purdy, first prize; Mrs. Person, second prize.

Girls, 6 to 10—Miss Sherwin, first prize; Miss Roy, second prize.

Heaviest lady in Beneficent Degree—Mrs. Fowles and Mrs. W. W. Allen.

Extra race for ladies between Wisconsin and Minnesota lodges—Mrs. Berglund, first prize, lodge pins donated by Imperial council; second prize, Mrs. Anderson.

Extra race, open to all ladies—Mrs. Harper, bouquet of flowers, donated by William Jaap, Lester Park greenhouse.

Considerable praise was given the executive committee, which had most of the arrangements in charge. The members of the committee were L. Hatly, William L. Anderson and W. W. Allen.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting a barrel for the throwing contest between the ladies. It had evidently been forgotten and those sent out as a searching party had strict instructions to get the biggest one in the suburb. Small barrels were strictly prohibited.

WITNESS SAYS HE WAS THREATENED.

"If you say that I hit the policeman, when I am on trial this afternoon, you will come around blind in three months," is the threat W. P. Bronnet says Theodore Zatoles made to him yesterday morning, according to his testimony in police court yesterday morning.

Zatoles was arrested last week on the charge of resisting an officer and blocking the street with his popcorn and peanut wagon. He was found guilty and fined $30 and costs.

The statement of Bronnet, who saw the fracas between Zatoles and Patrolman William Riedel, startled the court and the attorneys. He made it in response to a question from Prosecutor W. F. Dacey as to whether or not he had talked with Zatoles about the trial before coming to court.

At the time Zatoles was arrested it was claimed that he resisted the officer when he attempted to put him under arrest after he had warned him to get off the street, where he was standing in violation of the traffic ordinance. The patrolman claimed that Zatoles struck him in the eye. In the fight that followed the glass in the rig was smashed and blood flowed freely. Zatoles was taken to the station with the assistance of Patrolman Andre.

UNWILLING TO SPEND MONEY FOR NEW JAIL

County Commissioners Feel That Economy Is Necessary for Present.

Road Foreman Claimed to Have Been Appropriating County Supplies.

Not deeming it advisable to incur further county indebtedness, the board of county commissioners at their regular monthly meeting this morning at the courthouse, decided that some means should be devised by the sheriff, county attorney and judges of the district court, whereby the jail situation could be relieved.

They suggested in a resolution unanimously passed, that all prisoners should be speedily brought to trial and upon conviction sentenced, and disposed of accordingly.

The sheriff is also directed to appear before the board at its next meeting, at which time he shall advise them if any remodeling can be done, which would temporarily increase the capacity of the cell room for city prisoners.

This resolution was passed after consideration had been made of complaints that had been received that the county jail was too small for the large number of prisoners that are confined there.

It was stated that many prisoners were held over for a long time after they had been found guilty, and some of the commissioners believed that when they were convicted and their crimes called for penitentiary sentence, they should be sent there immediately.

* * *

Complaints were received by the board from many that John J. Ljung, who has been employed on several county roads as boss, had been using county supplies, principally dynamite, for his own purpose. Several affidavits from men under him were presented. This matter was left over for the next meeting, at which time the results of the investigation, which will be made, will be reported.

* * *

Upon the petition of the Duluth Commercial club for the appropriation of $300 for the promotion of the St. Louis county exhibit at the state fair, which will be held at Midway, St. Paul, during the week of Sept. 5, that amount was given. In the past years the board has appropriated similar amounts.

* * *

An appropriation of $4,000 was made for the building of a road connecting Floodwood and the town of Island. This road will be a continuation of the Hartley road. Work was started some time ago on this highway by Commissioners Overton, but there was not sufficient money to carry out the plans.

* * *

For the ditching and regrading of the Hutchinson road, within the Duluth city limits the commissioners appropriated $2,000. The Walsh road, which the commissioners examined during the past week, was legalized.

* * *

Petitions were received for the building of roads in townships 55-16 and 56-17, 62-20 and 21, and 63-20 and 21, and for 51-19 and 20. Hearings upon these petitions were set for Oct. 7.

* * *

The hearing for the division of school district 19, was set for Oct. 7, while the hearing for the establishing of a new school district in township 69-20 was set for the September meeting.

* * *

Upon the petition of voters in 65-21 and 66-21, an election district was established, and the postoffice at Nett was made the place for the holding of elections.

* * *

F. H. Lounsberry & Co. of this city, were awarded the contract for the publishing of supplies for the coming fall election, their bid being $391.40.

* * *

The services of the cruiser engaged by the county surveyor and assessor, for the estimating of the value of timber lands, was ordered discontinued.

* * *

R. W. Wilson, who has the contract for the filling in of approaches on bridges, filed a bond for $1,300, with John Auger and Charles Regnam as securities. This was approved.

* * *

Reports of county officers were read, which showed that the receipts in the sheriff's office were $996.08, while his disbursements were $969.90 for the past month. The clerk of the court took in $2,160.23, the register of titles reported $176.90, while the register of deeds received $1,267.27. The clerk of the probate court took in $48.65.

* * *

A permit was granted to the residents of the town of Cook, to use the space along the county roads, for the building of a telephone line.

* * *

The liquor license petition presented by Joseph Rano of Wacoota, was turned down, while permits were granted to John F. Doherty of Great Scott, and to Redfield & Crist of Meadowlands.

YOUNGSTER HURT IN "SHAM BATTLE."

Playing soldier with wooden swords got a group of young children at Twelfth avenue east and Second street into trouble this morning.

It appears that in a sham battle one of the youngsters was knocked down. More frightened than hurt he cried until one of the neighboring residents called the police. Patrolman Guild was sent out and found that no serious harm had been done. He told them to be more careful in the future and they all promised to be good. He allowed them to keep their "swords," but told them they must be careful to injure no one.

MUTINY ON FREIGHTER

Captain of Douglas Houghton Drives Men to Posts With Revolver.

Young Women Passengers Lock Themselves in Their Cabin.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 5.—While 100 miles from Gary early Wednesday, nine of the crew of the ore boat Douglas Houghton, Capt. ("Fighting") John F Parke, mutinied and were quelled only after two men had been shackled with bali and chain and confined in the dunnage room of the vessel's hold. During the fight a party of frightened, screaming women passengers returning from a lake trip, crowded into a cabin behind locked doors, momentarily expecting an atack upon themselves.

A deckhand had a short time before peeped through a cabin window, spying on the women, and he was later found slashing a tarpaulin with a knife. The captain ordered the man to be put in chains. Later the crew broke open the dunnage room and freed the prisoner.

When Capt. Burke saw the man again on deck he ordered him back to the hold at the point of a revolver. Immediately the officer was surrounded by a crowd consisting of Fred Reese, the wheelman on duty, two firemen and five deck hands.

"Fighting" John Parke is of enormous build and fierce determination. He drove the men back to their posts, assisted by the second mate. The wheelman and the deck hands were then placed in irons until Gary harbor was reached.

It was a special trip of the great ore boat, in that it carried a party of five young women, all related to officers of the Steel corporation, who were making an annual pleasure trip to Duluth and return. The party consisted of Cecelia Kirk, Cleo McClusky, Miss Louise Maxwell, Edith Anderson and Mrs. Louise Maxwell, chaperone of the party.

The two weeks' trip had been made without mishap and the party of young women were watching the lights of Chicago harbor, shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning when the trouble occurred.

WOOL SWELLS LAKE TRAFFIC

Large Shipments From the West Are Passing Through Duluth.

At the package freight docks here, and by the various agents of package freight lines at the Head of the Lakes, it is stated that the present month the westbound package freight business, which has been heavy the entire season, is liable to show a slight falling off, and the eastbound business, which has been correspondingly light all of the season, is certain to show an increase.

The reason for this condition is that a large amount of wool from Montana and other states of the West is daily coming to the Head of the Lakes by rail, to be shipped East by the lake route.

There is already a large amount of wool at the local docks. July is tre big shearing month in the sheep-raising states of the West, and this commodity begins to arrive here for eastern shipment all through the month of August. The shipment of wool is expected to materially increase the package freight business of the eastbound route.

There is a slight increase in the flour movement to the East also. The Eastern mills are beginning to take more flour than was the case six weeks ago.

DREDGING CONTRACT AT PORTAGE LAKE.

Specifications will be sent out by the local United States engineer's office this week calling for bids for dredging work at Portage Lake. The amount of work is about 94,000 cubic yards, which will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

It is expected that all of the local dredging companies will bid on the work, which will be begun as soon as the contract has been awarded.

The specifications will be sent out next week as early as possible, and the bids received at the government office as soon as the different dredging companies have had sufficient time to become familiar with the specifications.

WANT TUGS TO PULL THE LARGE VESSELS.

Manitowoc, Wis., Aug. 5.—The city will ask permission of the war department to adopt an ordinance requiring loaded vessels operating up the river to employ the services of a tug, the measure being intended to protect the river channel, which has lately been filled in, from cave-ins caused by the churning of the wheels of big coal boats when plying up the river.

MANY YARDS OF PEARLS

New American Hostess in London Rather Astounds British Society.

What Idle People Find to Do---Regatta Week at Cowes.

London, Aug. 5.—Everyone who was present at Mrs. Miller Grahams' dinner party and concert agreed that this was the social event of the season. Mrs. Miller Graham is no stranger here, of course, but until she gave this party she was unkonwn as a great hostess. Had King Edward lived he would have been present, the promise having been given by him to Mrs. Miller Graham last season at Marienbad when she entertained him so brilliantly. "A jolly little woman who knows how to do things in first-rate style," was King Edward's definition of her."

Although nearly all of Mrs. Graham's guests wore half-mourning, the gathering was, nevertheless, an amazing sight. Jewels of a wonder world adorned the women. In the case of the hostess herself one saw little save her piquant face, her head, neck, shoulders and gown being almost hidden by gems. When her crown came near the light it seemed as though a miniature sun had rested upon her head. A man on the staircase, during an interval was betting with Mrs. Frank Mackay as to the number of yards of pearls which festooned the hostess's draperies. The wearer was eventually appealed to and admitted that there were twenty yards. When it is known that these are flawless and perfectly matched their worth can be imagined. With such pearls about, the duchess of Marlborough will have to look to the laurels, so to speak, of the Vanderbilt pearls. If she does not take care Mrs. Miller Graham will carry off the honors for the wondrous beauty and enormous size of hers one of these days.

The new hostess is one of those fortunate women who can wear heaps of gems and not look vulgar; on the contrary they suit her. She is a trifle too sedate in her manner to go down with the majority of English folk, who like their American hostesses breezy and unconventional. She had something nice to say to everybody as she stood at the top of the stairs just by the entrance to the ballroom where the concert was held. After the Drexels' ballroom, this one at No. 41 Grosvenor square is the finest of any private house in London.

What her friends wanted to see Mrs. Miller Graham give was a cotillion and had it not been for the court mourning, it was her intention to have treated them to one or two which would have staggered society. She has a gift of originality in arranging figures which would have been appreciated immensely. One of the cotillions she had intended to give would have shown a Russian sleigh containing the Russian dancers now in London, who, with a picked number of the guests, would have performed a picturesque dance.

Proud Grandmother.

"I assure you, I am the proudest grandmother in England," said Mrs. James Henry Smith the other day to another youthful grandmother who was rather bemoaning the fact that she had to play the part.

There is much gossip anent the title which the Duchess De Vizer's baby is to assume. In the ordinary course of events, she should be a princess, but as his royal highness, her father, has married a commoner, things are altered. Some beautiful gifts have reached Grosvenor Square for Mrs. Smith's granddaughter, even that haughty old lady, Maria Pia, grandmother of the king of Portugal, showing her interest by forwarding a silver medal representing Saint Anthony of Padua. Queen Amelia, the king's mother, has sent a gold safely pin for a christening gift, while Mrs. Smith herself has inundated her granddaughter with costly things.

The nurseries are not in the wing of the house which Mrs. Smith assigned to the duke and duchess on their marriage, but, by special request, in her own quarters. They have been decorated by the same well-known firm which arranged those of the queen of Spain and the countess of Granard, and is in these cases, hygiene has been the first consideration, though Mrs. Smith has managed to introduce a note of royal splendor as well. No one who enters these rooms can fail to see that they belong to a little princess. The royal monogram and crown are on evryething from the baby's tiny bath with its silver fittings to the rose point lace coverlet on her cradle. The little princess' lace robes and pelisses are mostly of historic lace, literally worth their weight in gold; their value in hard cash would furnish incomes for more than one large family.

Americans at Cowes.

There is to be a great gathering of Americans at Cowes for the regatta week. I hear the new Lady Acheson—Mildred Carter that was—will blossom forth as a hostess on her fine yacht, Caprice, one of the numerous gifts presented to her by her adoring parents, who both seem so proud of her popularity and her success that, as some one expressed it, "if she wanted the moon they would try to get it for her." The Caprice used to belong to the duke of Somerset and though not a big yacht, is a fine one and beautifully decorated and appointed. Lady Acheson has invited a number of friends to stay with her on the Caprice for the week, among them Lord and Lady Maidstone and Miss Nicoll, a pretty American girl, who is one of her oldest friends. This girl came in for special notice at Viscountess Acheson's wedding and great things are predicted for her socially. Mrs. Frank Mackay will also be among the American visitors.

Invited by a Queen.

I hear Mrs. Monte Eliot—Nellie Post that was—has had a special invitation from the queen of Spain, who is to be the guest of her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg at the Isle of Wight, to come and see her. This has resulted in Mr. and Mrs. Eliot taking a house on the island for the regatta.

The nowledge that no royalty will put in an appearance at the regattas this August has interfered greatly with the letting of houses. So far Egypt, a residence which either the late Consuelo, duchess of Manchester, or Mrs. Potter Palmer took regularly every year, is not disposed of. In the old days there was more than one struggle between these two prominent and interesting widows for the possession of this—from many points of view—most desirable house in the place. King Edward and Queen Alexandria invariably paid the American duchess a visit there during the regatta week. The king of Spain, too, at the time of his engagement to Princess Ena of Battenberg, was wont to pay unceremonious calls upon her grace, popping in when the spirit moved him for one of the extra special cigarettes or cigars, which she always was careful to keep for her friends. The duchess kept it a profound secret where she procured this matchless tobacco. Even King Edward was not supposed to have known.

Asparagus Cure.

Newest of diet fads is the asparagus cure which society people have been taking lately. Twice a day asparagus is eaten in considerable quantities, a pound being allowed for each person. Society got wind of the fact that King George had been ordered it, and immediately followed his example.

Lady Essex, always a vegetarian, is one of those who has had asparagus served at luncheon and dinner in different guises each day. At a recent dinner party in Grosvenor square this vegetable appeared at four different courses. It was served in the soup, as an entree, as a vegetable, and finally in an omelette. At Aix-les-Bains, asparagus forms part of the cure, appearing on every menu at the fashionable restaurant and hotels. It is now the custom to furnish to each guest a tiny pair of silver tongs with which to eat it, many people objecting to hold the stalk in their fingers.

EXCITING RIDE IN AUTOMOBILE

German Crown Prince Tries to Catch Train He Missed.

Berlin, Aug. 5.—The German crown prince has just had an exciting ride of ninety-four miles in an automobile in an attempt to catch the Silesian express, which he had missed. The distance was covered in two hours.

As the prince's car dashed up to Goerlitz station in Berlin the train was steaming out. The prince, it is reported, shouted to his chauffeur: "Catch it somehow!" and a wild race began through the crowded outskirts of Berlin, then on cross-country roads made soft by heavy rain.

The train's first stopping place was Konigs Wusterhausen, but the prince knew that it was impossible for him to catch it there and so dashed on, tearing into Luben, sixty miles, at ten minutes to twelve, just as the train departed. Ten minutes later the motor reached Lubbenau, the center of the Spree forest. The road was lined with children and their nurses, in huge multicolored skirts, who watched the motor fly past to the station which was reached, like the others, just as the train left.

The crown prince promptly demanded by telegraph that the train should be stopped at Cottbus, the next station. He then jumped into his motor and the rush began again through a canal intersected country.

Cottbus was finally reached at 12:31, one minute after the train had left. A special, however, was in readiness on the siding and flinging himself into its single carriage the prince was whirled by a huge express engine over the next 58 miles to Gorlitz, where the express was being held for him.

The drive from Berlin to Cottbus, a distance of ninety-four miles, had been done in two hours, while the express had covered in 110 minutes rail distance of seventy-two miles.

GAYNOR CALLS POLICE STUPID

New York Mayor Denounces Course of Officers as Senseless.

New York, Aug. 5.—Mayor Gaynor's sudden descent Wednesday on the night court has borne fruit in another characteristic denunciation of police stupidity, venality and brutality. The mayor's candidacy and election indirectly grew out of his activity in what he asserted was police persecution of a Brooklyn boy, and he believes still the relations of the police to the public at large touch every private citizen intimately.

"Two-thirds of the cases brought in Wednesday night were stupidly and needlessly arrested," he said indignantly, "and one or two of them corruptly to extort money, and I understand that the proportion is the rule.

"One policeman brought in a boy who threw a rubber ball on the street. He should have stopped him only. Another brought in a boy who danced on a building platform in the street. Another brought in two men who had been quarreling; their dispute was perfectly harmless. It was only necessary to stop them and tell them to go along. A London policeman would hardly notice them.

"One officer arraigned a cook for stealing a cold chicken. Some one said he stole it. That an officer may not arrest without a warrant for such a crime, unless he saw it committed, seemed never to have entered his head. He looked too stupid to understand it. There was no evidence of the larceny."

PAN-AMERICAN BUILDING TO BE AT BUENOS AYRES.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 5.—The Pan-American congress has unanimously approved the erection at Buenos Ayres of a permanent building for the purpose of the congress. A resolution has been adopted lauding Andrew Carnegie as a benefactor and voting him a medal for his services in the cause of humanity.

A second resolution was adopted recommending that the Pan-American commission at Washington arrange for a celebration on the opening of the Panama canal.

BIG TIDE BOTH WAYS ACROSS NORTH BOUNDARY.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Immigration from and emigration to Canada is the subject of a statement issued by the immigration bureau. In the twelve months ending March 31 last there were 74,912 arrivals of aliens and citizens from Canada against 61,517 the previous twelve months. In the same period there were 103,789 departures of aliens and citizens from the United States into Canada against 59,832 the previous twelve months. Citizens arriving were not all counted during 1909 and it is estimated that 15,000 arrived during the year. That number has been included in making up the total of 61,517 arrivals.

S.S.S. REMOVES ALL HUMORS FROM THE BLOOD

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor in the blood. Healthy cuticles are only possible where the circulation is pure; and therefore the cure of any skin trouble can only come from a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., cannot cure. True, such treatment relieves some of the itching and discomfort, helps to reduce inflammation, and aids in keeping the affected parts clean, but it does not reach the blood, where the real cause is located, and at best can only be palliating and soothing. S. S. S. cures skin diseases of every character and kind, because it purifies the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes the humors that are causing the trouble, builds up weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Poison Oak, and every other variety of skin affection. When S. S. S. has driven the humors from the blood, and purified the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the cuticle is again nourished with rich, healthful blood, and comfort is given to disease-tortured skins. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

THE TRAIL OF GRAFT.

Not long ago one McMurray, an Oklahoma attorney, engineered a deal by which a New York syndicate bought 450,000 acres of coal and asphalt lands from the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians. McMurray's modest bill, at the rate of 10 per cent, was $3,000,000.

It looked pretty big to Senator Gore, the blind statesman of Oklahoma, and he introduced a resolution in the senate requiring congressional approval before the Indians were compelled to pay such a fat fee.

Immediately there was a great commotion among interested parties. Senator Gore says that Vice President Sherman, with Senator Curtis of Kansas called at the White House in behalf of the McMurray claim. Presently one Hamon, according to Senator Gore, came to see him and asked him to withdraw his resolution. Hamon, says Gore, offered him $25,000 and intimated that it might be made $50,000. To impress the blind senator with the importance of putting the contracts through, Hamon told him that various senators and representatives were interested, and that Vice President Sherman also was interested.

Impressed, but not quite in the way Hamon had expected him to be, Senator Gore told the senate about it, and when the resulting investigation started yesterday he told all he knew, admitting the name of Sherman into his testimony with manifest reluctance.

Mr. Sherman denies having any association with the deal. Prehaps he can prove it. Perhaps if he has any connection with the land deal, it may not involve any connection with the attempted bribery. At any rate it all ought to come out in the full light of day. There should be no whitewashing such as the Ballinger committee is engaged upon.

By the way, have you noticed that when anything of this sort breaks out, and the taint of suspicion touches men in public life, it is usually the "regulars" who are concerned? "Sunny Jim" Sherman was a subservient henchman of Cannon in the house, and a faithful adherent of the privilege-supported regular organization of the Republican party always. Nobody has dared let his mind dwell on the unpleasant question: "What if Taft should die and Sherman should become president?" That question presents still more awkward possibilities now.

THE REAL GOOD IN THE PAYNE LAW.

With all the reviling that has been done to the Payne tariff law—and The Herald has done its share and will add to that amount as time goes on—it must be admitted that the act has had one good effect. It has served to wake up the people of the United States as they have not been awakened in many decades and as they badly needed to be awakened at this time. It is not a good law. It is a bad one. And the more you study the trickiness of it and the evasions and circumlocutions by which it accomplishes the things it appears expressly designed to prevent, the worse it proves to be. But it has served the purpose of waking the people up, and for that reason alone it may be a good thing that it was adopted.

When Abraham Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg address the whole country was keenly attentive to affairs of the nation. There was not a man in the whole United States who had not a positive opinion on public affairs, and who could not back up that opinion with arguments based on conditions as they actually existed. Lincoln knew this, and knowing it he felt confident that the principle of government of the people, by the people and for the people was firmly established.

But Lincoln was a statesman, not a seer. He knew his times and their tendencies, but he could not see into the future and warn his fellows against what lay in store for them. He did not know that the real fight for the preservation of representative government would not be waged on battlefields with flags flying and shells screaming and scattering death. He did not know that the decisive struggle would be carried on in the homes and minds of the people; that those who engaged in it would not march as heroes, but would be reviled as fanatics; and that the great foe would not be an army of gray-clad men armed with rifles, but a spirit of apathy, of indifference, of laissez faire such as would have been incomprehensible to one living in the stir and fervor of the times in which he moved.

The spirit of apathy was not seen or even suspected by Lincoln. His life was cut short before the shouting and the tumult had entirely died, and he saw nothing of the approach of the new enemy. But after the more direct effects of the war had worn off, when the daily life of the nation had regained its equilibrium and the people as a whole had resumed their common walks of life, then this spirit began to appear. The village councils were less largely attended. In the cities the caucuses became less and less representative. Here and there a scheming politician or a non-officeholder with an ax to grind saw where he could get some private gain from the public store. Apparent immunity engendered boldness, and the practice grew until men had almost forgotten that it ever had been disreputable.

All this while the public had slept, or rather lay indifferent. How long it would have remained in that condition none can say. But with privilege strongly entrenched and the traitor Gen. Apathy in command of the forces of right government, the Payne bill was made into law—and the people woke up.

How far the awakening is to extend and how long the lesson of the Payne bill will last, depend upon the people themselves. At present they are thoroughly aroused. But they must remember that if they are going to get the real good out of what President Taft calls "the best tariff bill ever passed by a party in this country," they must stay awake.

The price of another return to apathy and indifference will be the loss of that government of the people, by the people and for the people which our fathers and grandfathers fought for and won.

NAMING "THE BOULEVARD."

If you have thought of a good name for "the boulevard," don't withhold it because the "boulevard editor" thinks he is being swamped by the flood of suggestions, and threatens to elope from his job.

That's just a way he has. Real work always is appalling to folks that are used to soft snaps. But even the worst of them get used to real work when they have to.

Send on your suggestion, if it isn't in yet. The lists will be open until Monday evening, after which they will be compiled for the convenience of the park board. Of course the park board will not be restricted to the list of names presented to it. It may get up one of its own, though that would seem to be a hard job in view of the large and interesting variety of suggestions that have come through The Herald. But if it should, the $10 prize will be awarded to the first person who sent in through The Herald the name that is nearest to that picked by the board.

SHERMAN'S SPEAKING TOUR.

The same day that brought the startling story that Senator Gore charges Vice President Sherman with being interested in the nasty Indian lands deal now being investigated brings the interesting news that Vice President Sherman had just arranged with the Republican national congressional committee for a speaking tour of a month's duration, to include Nebraska, Oklahoma and perhaps the Dakotas, where he will be expected to spread the gospel of regularity and reaction.

In the meantime, however, a very necessary act of preparation for this tour will be for the vice president to explain away his connection with the ill-smelling mess that has shocked the nation. Otherwise his services, like those of Speaker Cannon, are likely to be more valuable to the other side than to the side he speaks for.

BRITISH POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Some idea of the benefits that will come from the postal savings bank system in this country may be gained from the experience of Great Britain with its postal banks.

While some bankers profess to fear that the postal banks will compete with their business, it is doubtful if many of them will feel the competition seriously. The postal banks will pay only 2 per cent interest. All private savings banks pay 3 per cent, and in the East many of them pay 4 per cent, though there is a tendency of late to reduce the higher rate.

The postal savings banks will draw most largely from those who have never patronized banks at all. Either because they doubted the safety of the private banks, because they had been educated in the use of postal banks in Europe and would trust no other, or because they hesitated to bother big banks with very slender savings, thousands have either spent their money or have hidden it at home. The postal banks will be absolutely safe, because they are backed by the government. They will be recognized by foreign-born people who have used postal banks at home and will use no other here. They will accept any saving, no matter how small, and nobody need be ashamed to open a postal bank account with a small sum. For that matter, private banks welcome small savings also. An account can be opened with one dollar at almost any bank. Yet many who might thus have started growing bank accounts have felt backward about going into a large, imposing bank with a tiny account. They will feel differently about the postal bank.

Thus millions of dollars will be called out of hiding into the postal banks, and through them into the channels of trade, adding enormously to the supply of currency available for business uses and as a foundation for credits.

The British postal savings bank system was created in 1861 when Gladstone was chancellor of the exchequer. In 1862 there were 2,535 offices, with 178,495 depositors and deposits of $8,491,105. In 1908, the latest year available, there were 15,257 offices, 11,018,251 depositors, and deposits amounting to $803,241,070. The number of offices has in less than half a century been multiplied by six, the number of depositors by more than sixty, and the amount of deposits by nearly a hundred.

The older savings or trustee banks also have shown good growth, but it is not in proportion to the savings banks, which are now available to practically every subject in the United Kingdom. In the two systems combined there are now about 13,000,000 deposits with $1,100,000,000 to their credit.

Thrift has been encouraged by the British savings system. Thrift will be encouraged by the American postal savings system when it is whipped into workable shape.

THE REAL STAKE.

One feature of those Oklahoma Indian land contracts which seems to have been overlooked is almost as important as the issue of whether Attorney McMurray is to get the full fat fee of $3,000,000 claimed for putting the deal through.

That feature is what kind of deal this is for the Indians which the purchasers are so anxious to put through that they have been willing to promise large sums to smooth its passage.

A New York syndicate is paying $30,000,000 for 450,000 acres of coal and asphalt lands belonging to the Indians. That may be a satisfactory price. It is $66.66 2-3 per acre, which doesn't sound like an exorbitant price for good farm lands, not to speak of valuable mineral lands.

It would be interesting to know whether everybody is agreed that the Indian wards of the government, who are asked to pay a fee so large for this deal that there is an ample margin for bribery, are getting a decent price for their lands.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CONSERVATION OR WHAT?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Bernard N. Baker of Baltimore, president of the national conservation congress, is exciting some doubts as to his fitness for the position. In the light of various Utopian, Socialistic and extravagant proposals it looks as if he regards conservation merely as a huge joke, and spending as his true occupation. Although a Democrat, he has lately become enamored of Roosevelt and contact with this gentleman may have educated him up to the same Socialistic paternalism and extravagance that it does everybody else. As a "globe trotter," however, Mr. Baker can exceed Roosevelt.

Mr. Baker has lately thrown out several proposals, which call for state and federal aid for their realization. We might have thought the serious work of conservation would have left him neither time nor inclination for such contradictory work, but here again comes in the Rooseveltian inconsistency. The last of Mr. Baker's proposals is for a great "ornate boulevard" between Baltimore and Washington, 500 or 1,000 feet wide, and costing at first start some $20,000,000. Every state, the federal government and foreign countries are expected to contribute to its construction and maintenance. As a side show it is to have a miniature Panama canal.

The full details of the plan are analgous to nothing so much as the Utopian schemes set forth by Socialists and stand for what Henry George would call "progress and poverty," as some of the poor mothers of Maryland have already pointed out. But Mr. Baker, imitating Roosevelt again, has set out to secure a "committee of 100" to carry out the boulevard idea. The first name on the list is that of Miss Jane Addams of Chicago. Hull House, a lady well enough of herself, but so Socialistic in her inclinations that a Chicago daily has called her Hull House "a poisoned well" of Socialism. Running down the list a number of Socialistic workers can be noted until the full-fledged Socialist, Morris Hillquit of New York, is stumbled over.

The Intercollegiate Socialist society claims Mr. Hillquit as one of its executive committee, and the whole aim of the society is to educate all college students up to the desirability of Socialism—a work in which it is not altogether unsuccessful. The enlisting of these Socialists and of Socialist workers, like Roosevelt, in a cause is sure proof that the cause has something in it more or less Socialistic and to that extent deserving of reprobation from all patriotic and economical citizens. Such is Mr. Baker's persuasiveness and pleasantness that it has hardly occurred to any whom he has approached on the subject to question the great national need of the boulevard, or to do anything but yield hasty assent to the proposal.

If Mr. Baker is to command respect as to the nation's conservator he should drop all his Utopian proposals at once and confine himself to the conservation work in hand. If he cannot do this he will give evidence that conservation work has not in it the merit sufficient to demand time and attention other than the securing of various political and commercial ends peculiarly interesting only for a comparative few. Mr. Baker, however, has said that conservation concerns every man, woman and child in the country. This brings it down to the common people, whose mind I here speak and who must see the jewel of consistency shining from the person essaying the role of a nation's savior.

Mr. James J. Hill has given evidence of being better constituted for conservation than any man in the country. He says conservation pertains not only to national resources, but also to municipal, state and national expense all along the line, and that in the persent existing indebtedness not $1 should go out for anything until everything is paid up, until we have had time to catch our breath and until we have had time to discriminate between Socialistic folly and substantial progress. For war alone he makes exception. The country is burdened with schemes and schemers who are seeking by every possible moral, religious, educational, medical, philanthropic and political proposal to secure fame and fortune for themselves, regardless of consequences.

Mr. Baker calls his conservation largely philanthropic. He has secured Roosevelt as chief speaker at the conservation congress in St. Paul in September—now let us see what it will be called after the Roosevelt foot has been put in it.

FRANCIS B. LIVESEY.
Clarkson, Md., Aug. 1.

Governor Lind of Minnesota.

Great Falls, Mont., Tribune: The Democratic state convention in Minnesota has just adjourned after nominating John Lind as its candidate for governor despite his decided refusal to accept such nomination. Mr. Lind has served two terms already as governor of Minnesota being each time elected on the Democratic ticket. He can easily be elected again because the people of Minnesota know and trust him and vote for him regardless of party politics. Mr. Lind is one of those former Republicans who left their party and joined the Democratic party when they perceived that the party of Lincoln had abandoned Jeffersonian principles and became a bulwark of wealth and special privilege and the Democratic party had turned its face once more to the early principles of its founder. John Lind was one of the original advocates of free silver coinage, even before Bryan and Towne and others got into the fight.

Unfortunately for the interest of the common people of Minnesota John Lind never liked public life. He was always reluctant to be a candidate for any office. It was not sufficient that the office sought the man in his case. It had to do more. It had to persuade him that it was his absolute duty to accept it and to persuade a most reluctant listener. Both times when he was nominated for governor and elected to that office, it was only after strenuous objection and protest on his part that he consented to be a candidate.

We have no means of knowing whether he can again be persuaded to sacrifice his personal inclinations and serve the people as governor or not. His services to the state have been so great already that he may well plead indulgence to his personal wishes. With John Lind to lead the Democrats of the state of Minnesota victory would be assured. Without him they have a poor chance to win. It is interesting to know that Governor Johnson, who lately died, was discovered and pushed to the front by Governor Lind. It was his fond hope that in retiring from personal participation in politics he had given to the Democratic party in his state a worthy successor. But Governor Johnson was removed by death at a time when his fame as a Democratic leader had become national. Hence the demand that John Lind once more should forsake the walks of private life which he loves best and become a leader of the Democracy.

Lind.

Washington Star: Former Governor Lind of Minnesota is to be congratulated, and at the same time condoled with. It is seldom a man is so pursued by political admirers. He has served his people well at home and here in Washington, and they would draft him for further service. But he has had enough of office, and flees from the bare suggestion of another campaign. He is of the best type of our public men—honest, clearheaded, and devoid of all parade or pretension. When in congress he was as highly respected as any member of that body.

WHAT THE TARIFF COSTS US.

In Rent.

Henry George, Jr., in New York World: Rent is one of the biggest elements in the increasing cost of living. It is a charge upon the user for two things—the land and the building. The tariff does not make the land any dearer except as it concentrates industry in particular places, but it does make building material dearer. Iron and steel, lumber, cement, glass, nails and a thousand things down to the tools used in construction are jacked up in price by the tariff.

In a speech in congress soon after the war, that foremost Republican, James G. Blaine, said that during all that struggle lumber had not become the subject of one penny of taxation. He continued to say:

"The gentleman from Ohio may talk on this subject as he pleases, but I say that whenever the Western frontiersman undertakes to make for himself a home, to till the soil, to carry on the business of life, he needs lumber for his cabin, he needs lumber for his fence, he needs lumber for his wagon or cart, he needs lumber for his plow, he needs lumber for almost every purpose in his daily life."

Does he need them less now, thirty years and more after this speech was made? And what of the city man, East as well as West? What of the New York man? Does he not need lumber in a vast number of purposes in his daily life? Yet that which we did not tax when we needed revenue to carry on the life-and-death struggle of the war we now tax during profound peace. Why? Because then we had what seemed to be limitless, unmonopolized forests. Now what remains of them are in the hands of monopoly combinations. They demand "protection" against foreign lumber. They get it in the tariff—and then they proceed to put the price of lumber up.

We similarly pay tariff tribute to the iron and steel, to the cement, to the glass, to the paints, to the lead and to a lot of other trust barons on our building materials.

We have the cement materials here in this country, and owing to our large use of machinery our labor is cheapest, so that we can produce cement as cheaply as any other country. For the same reason we can produce paint as cheaply and the glass used in building. As for lead, we are the greatest producers in the world.

Then what does the tariff cost us in rent?

If it adds only a fifth to the cost of the building occupied in whole or in part by the average man (a conservative estimate), and the value of such a building does not exceed that of the land it rests upon (a still more conservative estimate), then the tariff costs that average man one-tenth of his rent. A big item at all times, this is very serious in these times of reduced incomes and generally higher prices.

A Great Bridge Story.

R. F. Foster, the card expert, writes a most remarkable and interesting bridge story for the August fiction number of the American Magazine. In the cuorse of his story he describes the following extraordinary no-trump hand:

"Things went on uneventfully until the deal reached Mrs. Vanstart (who was her husband's partner) on the next rubber. Von Mastin took the liberty of reminding her that it was her deal by reuniting the pack for her, after Mrs. Seldon (Von Mastin's partner) had cut it.

"The declaration seemed to bother Mrs. Vanstart, her husband having meanwhile laid down his cards, after sorting them rather hastily. Finally she passed it, and dummy immediately declared no trumps.

"Von Mastin smiled softly, ran through his cards several times, and finally said he would double, the hand on which he decided to do so being seven clubs to the king-queen jack, the king and one spade and four small diamonds; no hearts at all.

"Vanstart picked up his cards again, regarded them carelessly for a moment, and laid them down again. All he had was four aces, the ace of hearts being blank. Then he asked who doubled, and on being told, he said he was content. Mrs. Vanstart redoubled on the instant, as she held eight hearts to the king-queen-jack, three spades to the queen and two small diamonds; no clubs.

"Once more Van Mastin ran through his cards in the same leisurely fashion, with the same smile on his face. 'Let us make it worth ninety-six a trick,' he said finally.

"Redouble!" snapped Mrs. Vanstart again, with ill-concealed triumph in her face.

"'Let me see,' drawled Von Mastin. 'I supose I should make it fifteen-thirty-six, but we shall want a little time to play the hand.' Then, addressing his partner, he asked in the same even voice 'Shall I play?'

"Von Mastin led the king of clubs. When dummy laid down four aces, Mrs. Seldon looked at her partner in blank amazement, but he did not appear to be in the least disconcerted. After some hesitation and a slight movement of annoyance, Mrs. Vanstart passed the trick discarding a diamond from her own hand. Von Mastin went right on, his partner failing on the third round. Dummy won the fourth round and led the ace of hearts, Van Mastin discarding a diamond. Then dummy le a small spade. Mrs. Seldon, holding four to the jack-ten, covered. The dealer played the queen and Von Mastin took the trick with the king and proceeded to make three more club tricks. This brought dummy down to the ace and small in spades and diamonds, Mrs. Seldon having the jack and one spade with the king and queen of diamonds, so that the two aces were all dummy could make.

"'Let me see,' said Mrs. Mastin quietly. 'Three by cards at seven-sixty-eight must be about two thousand three hundred and four points against a hundred aces. But we win the rubber.'"

At Gran'ma's.

My gran'ma's got th' bestest place to play,
An' it's all ours, that's why I like it so.
It's jest th' longest way from here, You know,
We ride in cars for prit' near all one day.
My gran'pa meets us when we stop—an', say!
We all pile in the wagon, then we go
Along the road till gran'pa calls out "Whoa!"
An' then we're there, an' I jest wish we'd stay,
'Cause gran'ma's got some little calves, an' she
Has got some mamma cows that always gives Us milk, if you jest squeeze 'em good, an' we Saw hens that sleep in trees when it is dark.
You bet it's fine out where my gran'ma lives,
With grass, an' trees, an' all, jest like a park!

My gran'ma she gives me good things to eat;
She keeps 'em in her pantry on a shelf.
A little boy, he shouldn't help himself,
My gran'ma says. Her jelly's awful sweet
An' pa says gran'ma's cake jest can't be beat.
I broke a plate—my gran'ma called it delf—
One day, an' gran'ma hollered, twelf"
Your pa broke three of 'em; his little feet
Slipped; he was reachin' for the peach preserves."
Then pa he laughed: "Don't teach this youngster tricks.
Don't put him wise to his own daddy's curves!"
What did pa mean? Oh say, you bet I like
My gran'ma. When I'm big I'm goin' to live with gran'ma an' her old dog, Mike.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Asa Daily, the well-known lumber dealer of Lake avenue, has sold his business to B. L. Hill, his health requiring a rest from all business cares. Mr. Daily has been prominent in the lumber trade for many years and has been very successful. He has also sold the ground on which his mill was located for $13,500.

McMillan & Stebbins, architects, are commissioned to draw plans for the M. S. Burrows & Co. building on the corner of Third avenue west and Superior street. It will be 50 by 140 feet, of brick and brownstone, and will be fitted up for one store on the ground floor and offices above. It will be planned for eight stories, but only half is to be put up now.

The Boston Realty company, which recently purchased the St. Louis hotel for $300,000, has also bought very extensively on East Fourth street, its purchases there totaling fully $45,000, mostly improved property. It has bought the Tayler place, 100 by 200 feet, on the lower east corner of Fourth street and Seventh avenue east, with dwelling, for $15,000, and the Field place, on the west upper corner, 100 by 160 feet, with dwellings, for $18,000, and the Jordan place on Fourth street between Seventh and Eighth avenues east.

John Inglis, the wheat expert of Chicago, formerly of Duluth, has made a critical examination of the wheat crops of North and South Dakota, with the exception of the Red river valley counties of the latter state, and does not exalt the prospects exceedingly. The crop in South Dakota, he says, is literally burned up in many places and is generally away below the average.

Most all of the machinery for the woolen mill at West Duluth has arrived. It is expected that the mill will give employment to about 150 men.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

It Makes Him Peevish.

Madison Independent-Press: A North Dakota banker says the crop failure may prove a blessing. He says the farmers will be more economical as a result. Economical! Of course they will. If they have nothing they are quite likely to be economical with it, but it always makes one feel tired to hear such brainless idiots talk about people being economical.

And Be a Hated Coal Baron?

Stillwater Gazette: There are people who possess veins of wit and humor all right, all right, but we would much prefer, even during this heated period, a vein of coal that is sixty-five miles long and seven miles wide, as has recently been discovered in Pennsylvania. That's a vein that is a sure bread winner ,with a few luxuries on the side.

That $8,000,000,000 Crop.

Brainerd Tribune: If country boys could be taken through the congested districts of a city on a hot night they would decide to say on the farm and try for a share of the $8,000,000,000 crop.

Carlisle and the Public.

Red Wing Republican: The death of John G. Carlisle which is heralded in a brief paragraph only shows how quickly men drop out of the world's notice. Carlisle was secretary of the treasury under Grover Cleveland and a quarter of a century ago was one of the most prominent public men whose ability as a statesman was generally recognized.

Ardor and the Bars.

Hibbing Tribune: Carrie and her little hatchet are becoming as historical as George Washington and his cherry tree. But getting behind some bars dampened her ardor.

Chicago's One Good Point.

Mankato Free Press: That fellow Nicholls has made the discovery that but six persons in Chicago are entitled to a place in the aristocracy. This speaks well for Chicago.

Bemidji's License Money.

Brainerd Dispatch: Bemidji will endeavor to have the 10 per cent of the saloon license tax turned into the revolving fund of the city instead of being turned into the county fund, on the ground that the law was passed in 1909 and was to go into effect Jan. 1, 1909, and the 10 per cent of the 1909 tax does not come under it as it was available before the law was passed.

A Bloodthirsty Standpatter.

Wykoff Enterprise: A cable message from the Orient says that a number of alleged reformers have officially notified the Chinese emperor that they would commit suicide on a certain date unless he accedes to their proposed reforms. Ye gods, if La Follette, Bristow, Cummins, Murdock and a few more of our alleged reformers had consciences that would impel them to issue a similar ukase!

What to Do with That $4,000,000.

Pine River Sentinel: An item has been going the rounds of the state press to the effect that Minnesota is so rich in moneys that the state treasury is overflowing and that it will not be necessary to levy any state taxes in 1911. With $4,000,000 of a surplus in the treasury, the article further states, the state officials are wondering what is to be done with the surplus riches of the commonwealth.

There are reasons given in the article for the great wealth which the state now possesses but among these reasons nothing appeared to the effect that for years the State of Minnesota has used the natural resources of the central and northern part of the state in building up the treasury instead of using the state's money as it rightfully should to settle up the central and northern portions. Even today the new settler who comes to this part of the state has stumbling blocks put in his path by the state officials controlling the land department instead of being aided and encouraged in his commendable pluck in trying to do his share in settling up our thousands of idle acres.

What to do with that surplus?

We would suggest that the state use a small portion of this money to pay taxes upon the thousands of acres of swamp, school and other lands which now do not contribute one cent to the state or county treasuries.

We would suggest that the state use another small portion to help the struggling settler build a few roads to the land so that when a home seeker comes among us he may be able to get in and out without building the road to the place entirely himself.

We would suggest that another small portion of the money be used to drain a few thousand acres of land in this part of the state that at present is useless but if drained would make the richest agricultural land in the world.

We would suggest that another small portion of the money be used to better our school system—good though it is, probably the best in the U. S.—to give our boys and girls graded school facilities in the country instead of making them leave home and parents to obtain the schooling which their parents pay taxes for.

We would suggest—not least if last—that the state abolish the present system of making trouble for Central and Northern Minnesota settlers, and use another small portion of the money to make it easier for them to hew their home from among the stumps, and then if anything is left of that measly $4,000,000 use the whole blamed business to advertise Minnesota's vast resources that go to make it the best state in the whole of Uncle Sam's domain.

Voting Not All.

Providence Bulletin: A suffragette argues that inasmuch as it takes only a few moments once in a while to go to the polls and vote, there should be no fear that the ballot for women will seriously interfere with domestic occupations. But, manifestly, this is not all of it. The real stress of participation in public affairs is entirely overlooked, as illustrated in the circumstance that many men are compelled to be away from home many nights, often until a late hour, in order that they may attend political meetings and symposia on the state of the Union.

Saying Grace.

Charles Lamb: I own that I am disposed to say grace upon twenty other occasions in the course of the day besides my dinner. I want a form for setting out upon a pleasant walk, for a moonlight ramble, for a friendly meeting, or a solved problem. Why have we none for books, those spiritual repasts—a grace before Milton—a grace before Shakespeare—a devotional exercise proper to be said before reading the "Faery Queen?"

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Everybody's Magazine: "We were waiting for the elevator to come down," said a commercial traveler, "after discussing the probability of an aeroplane's crossing the Atlantic within a year, when, just as the cage was about to ascend, one of the party said: 'I'll bet $10,000 that it won't be done'—and the elevator took him up."

New York Sun: Stella—Can you cook?

Bella—No, but it doesn't matter; Jack has dyspepsia and no appetite.

The Tatler: She (after the embrace)—Oh, how dare you! You have offended me. What shall I do?

He—Er—Why not "turn the other cheek?"

Puck: Houston—How do you suppose the Egyptians managed to get the Pyramids where they are?

Mulberry—O, their congressmen probably franked them.

Boston Transcript: Bobbie—Pa says you're a self-made man.

Visitor (proudly)—Yes, my boy, I am.

Bobbie—Ain't you sorry now you didn't let somebody else help you?

Chicago News: "Young man," said the home-grown philosopher, "it is always best to begin at the beginning."

Not if you want to go up a river it isn't," answered the wise youth.

"How in the world does it work?" asks the patron.

"Instead of the usual bell ringing it has an attachment that jingles like a pair of ice tongs."

Washington Star: "I was very much disappointed in that spring chicken you sold me," said young Mrs. Torkins. "It didn't seem at all like the genuine article."

"Madam," replied the affable grocer, "You must remember that this year's spring was one of the most deceptive on record."

Success Magazine: The day before she was to be married the old negro servant came to her mistress and intrusted her savings in her keeping.

"Why should I keep it? I thought you were going to get married," said her mistress.

So I is, missus, but do you 'spose I'd keep all this money in the house wid that strange nigger?"

Washington Star: "Do you believe that music prevents crime?"

"To a certain extent," replied Mr. Sinick. "When a man keeps both hands and his breath busy with a cornet, you know he can't be picking pockets, attempting homicide or slandering his neighbors."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A child thinks his parents beat him because they deserve it themselves.

The only objection to virtues is how dull they make people, but it's enough.

A man will hunt the world over for money; he expects religion to find him.

A girl never trusts a canoe, but she can make any man believe she does because he's managing it.

No matter how suspicious a woman is about all other women's figures, she could never make herself believe anybody would be suspicious about hers.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The oyster is wise. It never opens its mouth until forced.

A man with a sunny disposition seldom has a hot temper.

Probably the most popular illustrated paper is the bank note.

After giving us a lift the elevator man is ready to run us down.

Flattery will open a woman's heart much quicker than it will a man's purse.

Better a man who fails in his efforts to do something than one who never tries.

As every bride is beautiful, we have often wondered where all the homely married women come from.

It is more blessed to give up without a struggle than it is to receive it in the neck from a sandbag.

And occasionally a man strays from the straight and narrow path for the purpose of picking up a few dollars.

Ai, old bachelor says that you can't keep women away from weddings. Well, what would weddings amount to if it wasn't for women?

Morality and Beauty.

Mrs. Havelock Ellis in the Forum: So many people think, if they have an ill-fitting dress, eat a badly cooked dinner, and have no ravishment in the clean, sweet uses of the senses, they are leading a moral life. It is a profound depth of immorality to be able to live without beauty, and perhaps the most tragic thing in our social system is, that while one class has a surfeit of luxury and show, which they mistake for beauty, another class is deprived of beauty altogether. It is more beauty we want, and less luxury.

is not an experiment. Six years ago it opened its doors with a modest plea in behalf of its aims and its methods, and the records of the young men and women whom it has sent to college and to higher institutions of learning amply justify the claims it then made in its behalf, and its past successes will only stimulate its staff to higher efforts.

It admits boys and girls, and covers the field from the primary grades to college. Its teachers are specially trained for the work and, except in the primary grades, are men. Its course of study is broad and elastic, and besides the regular studies includes Manual Training, Experimental Science, Music and Drawing.

It has satisfied others; it will satisfy you.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Boyle of Eveleth to Fight Vail of Virginia for Seat in Senate---Candidacy of Raab a Jocund One---Sulcove and Healy for the House---Representative Handlan of St. Paul, Senator McColl's Opponent, Visits Duluth.

James P. Boyle of Eveleth, assistant county attorney, will file today or tomorrow as a candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator from the Forty-ninth district, and within a short time L. A. Sulcove of West Duluth will file for the Republican nomination for the house. John A. Healy of Hibbing has already filed as a candidate for the other house seat. So far as known, Messrs. Sulcove and Healy will have no opposition for the nominations they seek, but Mr. Boyle has a fight on his hands.

Situation in the Forty-ninth Is Taking Form.

P. R. Vail of Virginia, who represented the district in the senate two years ago and by his record brought down on himself the condemnation of the predominating better element of the constituency, has filed as a candidate for renomination and re-election. He is working ceaselessly to make strong the political fences that have been so fatally weakened by reason of the distrust in him aroused by the methods he pursued as a member of the legislature, and he has made it patent to all that he will leave no stone unturned or unhurled in his efforts to win in the campaign. So strong is the sentiment against him in all parts of the district that many political observers have been freely predicting his defeat, even before it was shown beyond question who would be his opponent at the primaries.

Mr. Boyle said last night that he would be in Duluth today to file for the senate. He has for some time been looked upon as the logical man for the place. He is a clean cut, straightforward, conscientious and able man, one who is declared to be in every way qualified for services in the upper house of the legislature. He can do more, say those who know both men, for St. Louis county and Northern Minnesota in one month of the legislative session than "Paddy" Vail could do in a month of sessions. For that reason, it is believed that Mr. Boyle will have no real difficulty in overcoming the opposition, savage though it may be, of the Virginia brewer.

Mr. Sulcove has not definitely decided to file as a candidate for the house, but it is very probable that he will do so. Mr. Sulcove is president of the central council of the Republican clubs of Duluth and is one of the most active party workers in the city. He was formerly assistant superintendent of schools for St. Louis county, retiring from that office last February, and there had been some talk of his filing for the nomination for superintendent this time, but as that would entail the necessity of establishing his legal residence outside the city he decided that he could not afford to make the sacrifice.

Mr. Healy is being congratulated by his townsmen at Hibbing on his candidacy for the house and is being assured on all sides that he will have the heartiest of support.

* * *

James Handlan, who represented the Thirty-fourth district in the house two years ago and is now a candidate for the Republican nomination for the senate against Senator Henry McColl, was in the city today, returning to St. Paul from Cloquet, where he was elected vice president of the Order of Eagles. Mr. Handlan was a candidate for the state presidency, but his opponent succeeded in doing what he hopes Senator McColl will not be able to do at the primaries next month.

St. Paul Politician Pays a Visit to Duluth.

Senator McColl is not an easy man to beat in St. Paul. He has been a member of the upper house for two terms, succeeding "Dick" McNamee, when that sturdy Democrat died. Previous to beginning his service in the upper house, Mr. McColl was for two terms a member of the house of representatives; so, naturally, he is pretty well intrenched in the district.

JAMES P. BOYLE,
Who Will File for the Senate in the Forty-ninth.

Mr. Handlan has been a member of the legislature just as long as Mr. McColl has served, however, although he has been in the house only. So there's the makin's of a good fight in the good old Third ward this year.

The St. Paul representative professed to lament over the outcome of the Democratic state convention, and, like the boy in the comics, he said to St. Louis county, "Now look what you went and done." However, he added a few minutes later, when Dick O'Brien was mentioned, that:

"Smart? Well, I should say he's smart. He was the only man in the delegation that had it right. I was hollerin' against Lind like mad, when he grabbed my coat and asked:

"'If you don't want Lind, who do you want, Jim?'

"Well, I didn't have anybody."

* * *

City Clerk H. W. Cheadle has thrown something of a bomb into the camp of a portion of the Republican forces in Duluth by replying to articles that have been published in regard to the assessment of property in the city. The intent of Mr. Cheadle is clear. He seeks merely to acquit the charter commission, the conference committee and the city council of blame for the concededly inadequate and disproportionate assessment levied. What he says can best be told by quoting his open letter to the public, in part as follows:

City Assessment Made Text of Letter.

"The appropriation made by the council for salaries in the assessor's office for the current year was $12,800. This does not include anything but salaries and was composed of the following items: Assessor's salary, $1,800; clerks, regular $3,420; clerks, special, $7,580. This amount which was appropriated for salaries was $800 in excess of the total amount which the assessor asked in his report to the city comptroller for the running of his department and is $5,886.46 in excess of the salaries paid in 1908, the last year in which a real estate assessment was made.

"The council and conference committee understood that they were making provision for a revaluation. In addition to this excess, a man was provided during the greater portion of the year 1909 for the purpose of getting ready for the revaluation of 1910. The total amount of the salaries of special clerks is avilable for the first six months of the year during which the assessment is made.

"As a matter of fact, according to figures furnished me by the city controller, the total amount of salaries paid in the department for the first six months in the year was $5,943.76. Deducting from this six months' salaries of assessor and regular employes as provided for, $2,610, would leave only $3,333.76 expended as salarales of special clerks, leaving the sum of $4,246.24, which was available for the work or revaluation, which was not expended."

* * *

Elwood L. Raab, who really lives in the Fiftieth senatorial district but purports to be running for state senator in the Forty-ninth district, is about to have his wish. He has complained, in his peculiarly inconsequential way, that he has no opponent—that he can't get any votes unless he has some one to run against. In view of the fact that Vail, the Virgina brewer, has long been in the field as a candidate for renomination, this remark is so badly a confession of an improper purpose in his candidacy on the part of Raab that those who hear him say it cannot but laugh pityingly. For there seems wide acceptance of the theory that Raab filed for the senate simply to help his friend Vail.

Raab and the Honorable "Paddy."

When the Democratic county convention was held at Eveleth last month Raab visited his "home town." Ambling about the Glode hotel he was joshed considerably and at last turned uncertainly to a group of Duluth and range politicians and said:

"I bet $200 I'll win," with a graceful sweep of the hand.

"You're on," came the chorus with offers to put up the money, check or cash, on the spot.

"Oh, I'm not looking for your money. I want to bet with Vail. Yes, with Vail. Won't bet with anybody but Vail. I'll bet Vail $200 I'll win. Bet him anywhere from $200 to $1,000 I'll win. Don't want anybody's money but Vail's."

With an inconsequential air he ambled away.

Which seems to throw some light on the origin and inspiration of the candidacy of the Hon. Elwood Raab for the state senate from the Forty-ninth.

Fergus Dodds of Troy, N. Y., a member of the up-state public utilities commission, who has been at the Head of the Lakes for a number of days to look over his property holdings on the Wisconsin side of the bay, and whose political views are distinctly independent, says he has long been a Republican but doubts that he is one now. Mr. Dodds, who is a retired business man, takes a lively interest in current political events. To him the most interesting question presented by conditions today is, what will Roosevelt do? Will he sit tight for Taft and his administration, or will he espouse the popular cause and fight valiantly, as he so well knows how to do, for the many against the few?

Taft, Roosevelt and Hughes.

"There never was so unpopular a president before in the history of the nation as Mr. Taft has proved to be," said Mr. Dodds. "He's bull-headed in his determination to do the wrong thing. His environment, which he has made for himself, is essentially bad, and it seems that he lacks entirely the talent, so noticeable and so warmly commended in his predecessor, for finding out what the people want and then doing it.

"I notice that Mr. Roosevelt is down among the Pennsylvania coal miners. It may be that his visit there means simply that he will write an article on conditions in the anthracite region for his magazine, but it appears to me that if Roosevelt continues to swing round the circle as he has done since his return from abroad, something is likely to result that will not be pleasing to the present administration. I mean that it looks not improbable that Roosevelt will again be nominated for the presidency."

Mr. Dodds scoffs at the idea that there is not a feud on between the president and the ex-president. He calls attention to the fact that as soon as he emerged from the jungles and reached Italy, "Teddy" held a conference with Gifford Pinchot, and that this interview was followed by others in Paris and London. Pinchot returned to America and immediately got in touch with James R. Garfield. Then the two insurgent friends of "the man from Elba" set out on a speech-making tour and ripped the garment of the administration to tatters. Mr. Dodds cannot but believe there is a direct connection between the conferencs and the speeches.

"Will Taft and Roosevelt meet at St. Paul next month?" he asked.

When told that Roosevelt is scheduled to speak on the day following Taft's appearance, Mr. Dodds intimated that he thought it unlikely the two men would meet.

"Theodore Roosevelt is today the most powerful individual in the nation, and if he is to maintain his high prestige and strong hold on the affections of the people, he must break with the Taft crowd, even though he did nominate Taft and commend him to the people. That is my earnest belief," declared Mr. Dodds.

The New Yorker was enthusiastic in his praise of Governor Hughes of New York, saying that the Empire state never had so good and great an executive.

"He reminds me very much of Roscoe Conkling," said Commissioner Dodds. "His personal appearance and distinguishing bearing, his exceptional intellectual attainments and his thorough-going honesty of purpose are strongly reminiscent of that statesman of an earlier day.

"His appointment to a place on the supreme bench seems to me to be in every way to be commended. It's about the only good thing Taft has done since he became president."

* * *

Just what information Frank A. Day has received from the West that leads him to make the emphatic statements credited to him yesterday on the Lind candidacy remains undisclosed but that this information is positive and authentic may be gathered from Mr. Day's remarks. It will surprise few St. Louis county Democrats to learn that Mr. Lind has not said that he will not serve if elected governor. The St. Louis county delegation went to the Minneapolis convention convinced that the community it represented wanted the nomination to go to Lind and the delegates stood pat on that proposition until their purpose was accomplished.

Day's Remarks About Lind.

Knowing as they did that it was in response to the popular demand that Lind was nominated, and being convinced that Mr. Lind would not under such circumstances ignore a call upon his patriotism and devotion to the public welfare, they have relaxed into an attitude of waiting to hear direct from Mr. Lind what his course will be. This direct assurance cannot come until Mr. Lind returns from Alaska. He has before him for consideration the olanket message from St. Louis county, besides many other communications, and local Democrats feel content with the situation as it stands, counting as they do on Mr. Lind's devotion to the best interests of state and party.

In the meantime, Mr. Day's announcement that Mr. Lind has been misquoted has a reassuring effect.

J. H. Whitely, who is a resident of Duluth and a candidate for the Republican nomination for judge of probate, has got out a novel card that is likely to attract attention, even if it doesn't make votes. On one side is printed his business card and a portrait in half-tone. On the other side appears the following:

My name is WHITELY, not

Plain WHITELY.
Spell it the easiest way until Sept. 20, and then make an (X) after it.

The advisory council of the Republican clubs of Duluth, at a meeting last evening, was addressed by a number of prominent party workers, including L. A. Sulcove, who may file as a candidate for county superintendent of schools; Charles E. Adams, who is John H. Norton's rival for the nomination for county attorney, and C. T. Knapp of Chisholm. Campaign methods and prospects were discussed and an optimistic spirit pervaded the gathering, which was in the council's headquarters, 202 Palladio building.

N. A. Young, assistant county superintendent of schools, filed yesterday as a candidate for the Republican nomination for superintendent. Mr. Young is a resident of Eveleth and has been an able worker for educational advancement in the county.

DETECTIVE'S FINE WORK

He Takes His Life in His Hands in the Camorra.

Succeeds in Bagging His Game---Bearing on Petrosino Murder.

Naples, Aug. 5.—America as well as Italy will be interested in a criminal trial which will come on in the courts near this city some time in August, for it is expected that many revelations will be made concerning the mysterious secret society, the Camorra. Incidentally, light may be thrown on the murder of Lieut. Petrosino of the New York police, while he was investigating the Italian connections of the American Black Hand society. What at first appeared an ordinary crime for gain or revenge has come to be a struggle betwen the Camorra of Naples and the forces of law and order.

One morning a little servant, who slept at her own home, rang as usual the bell of her mistress's apartment, which was not answered. This caused her no surprise, as when her master and his wife, Gennaro and Marie Cutinelli Cuocolo, had been out late at night they often overslept themselves the next morning. She returned later and, silence following her efforts, became alarmed and called in the police. They broke in and found Signora Cuocolo dead in her bedroom, her body bearing dozens of knife wounds. Her jewelry was missing and apparently it was a vulgar crime for gain. And the woman's husband, where was he? Had he murdered her after a quarrel and escaped? That question was answered within the hour, when news came that the body of a man had been discovered in a lonely street at Torre del Greco, on the outskirts of Naples, with forty knife wounds in his body, and that he had been identified as Gennaro Cuocolo.

Of Wealthy Family.

Cuocolo was a vigorous man of about 40, with chestnut hair, and light mustache, and was always elegantly dressed. At the time of his death he was clothed in a dark blue suit, had rose-colored silk underclothing and black silk socks. The only thing found in his pockets was a silver watch, a penny and a handerchief. In his hand he clutched a common table knife, evidently placed there after death. He belonged to a wealthy and honest family, his father being a leather merchant, but he from a youth showed a disposition toward the unhealthy sides of life. He went from bad to worse and one night, meeting Maria Cutinelli, unconsciously signed his death warrant, both morally and physically.

Maria began life amid the crime of the streets, passing from one vicious lover to another, until she had become part and parcel of the Camorra, knowing its secrets, protecting it and by it protected. She began her arts upon the weak character of Cuocolo, acquiring such a supremacy over him that when the fancy came to her to be married he dared not refuse, and she became his legal wife. Thus the Cuocolo couple in the course of time rose to be the instigators and moving spirits in most of the great crimes of Naples, but his part being to plan, not to execute, he was seldom disturbed by the police in his work.

On the night of the murder a small supper party made itself conspicuous by its lighthearted mirth at an inn about 100 feet from the body of Gennaro Cuocolo. Was there any connection between these two events? After investigations the members of the merry party were all arrested. The arrest brought on the scene four other well-known men, popularly supposed to rule the Camorra: Enrico Alfana, better known as Erricone, his brother Ciro, Gennaro Ibelli and Giovanno Rapi.

Head of the Camorra.

Erricone was a personage in his way. Of apparently unlimited wealth, he was the head of the Camorra and the most powerful man in the province of Naples. His arrest filled the papers for weeks, but no evidence could be procured and after less than two months he and his friends were released. The acquittal of these men apparently ended the affair and crime and the Camorra forgot so trivial an incident and thus was caught napping at the critical moment.

Unknown to the Camorra the investigations were placed in the hands of the carabineers, a military body of the finest men in Italy. One day the criminals of Naples woke up to find their chiefs again in prison and the authorities with overwhelming evidence in their possession.

Erricone had eluded arrest and could not be found, but even this comfort was not of long duration, as he was recognized and denounced in New York, and eventually extradited to Italy. This fact indirectly led to the death of Petrosino, as it was he who secured the slippery Erricone, and it was to avenge this arrest that the Italo-American detective was assassinated in Palermo. Erricone is now waiting, with the others the trial for the double Cuocolo murder, which will take place at Viterbo in August.

The evidence gathered by the carabineers, as far as known, goes to show that Erricone, jealous of Cuocolo, denounced him in an anonymous letter to the Camorra as a traitor, as he had plenty of enemies, it was decided to suppress both him and his wife.

Reads Like a Romance.

The collection of the evidence by the carabineers, especially by Sergeant Sapezzuto, reads like a romance. One hot and sleepy morning in June Sergeant Capezzuto was in his office alone and dozing, when a man drove up and asked to see the commandant. Irritated at having his rest disturbed, and not much liking the look of his visitor, he said shortly that the commandant was out. The man hesitated, scratched his head, and then ventured, "Can I speak to you with safety?"

"Of course! Why?" was the reply. After a few moments' silence the diffident stranger then said: "Do you remember the Cuocolo murder?" Capezzuto did not allow himself to show any interest and answered impatiently: "What a question to ask! What has that got to do with us?"

"I—I am a friend of jus...e."

"That may be, but I do not see the point."

"If you would like to know—"

"Ah! Then you know?"

"I? Nothing, but there is one who could speak!"

With a shrug of disbellef, Capezzuto exclaimed: "Why do you not go to the police with this unlikely story?"

"I have, but they put me out. Go to such and such a prison and there is one there who can speak." Refusing to say another word he drove off.

The next day Capezzuto had been at the prison, found his man, and learned from him that if he could make a certain Gennaro Abatemaggio talk, he would soon know the whole story.

Acted the Spy.

The sergeant sacrificed his heavy mustache, changed his worn and shabby clothes, and went to a small town where an acquaintance was local head of the Camorra. After gaining the man's confidence, he represented that he was tired of so tranquil a life and desired to go to Naples, with letters of introduction to the Camorra there. Then began the dangerous and difficult part of his quest. He was hand and glove with the most desperate and clever criminals in Italy, and at the same time communicating and frequently conferring with his superiors. With him were associated four other carabineers, as courageous as himself, all working for the same end.

In the beginning he appeared seldom at the meetings of his new companions, and, taking no part in the discussions, gradually left this way. As they grew more accustomed to him he went oftener, and ultimately every evening, often finding himself alone, or with one companion, in the midst of fifty or sixty criminals, some of whom disliked and distrusted him. One false step or sign of hesitation, and he would have been murdered with less mercy than a dog.

This went on for two months, by which time he was tolerated and left alone. As during this period the Camorristi had been unmolested, they argued that he could not be a spy. In these months he continually met Gennaro Abatemaggio and became convinced that he did hold the key to the position.

Finally Told the Story.

Abatemaggio was only 19 years old, a coachman by profession, small, vulgar and stupid looking, the son and brother of criminals. An assassin, thief and bully by heredity, he lacked courage, and for this was despised by his companions. Of this weakness Capezzuto took advantage. Where others insulted he soothed, but still the secret, always on his lips, was never spoken for want of courage. Undeterred, the detective crept nearer and nearer, took up his quarters as a boarder in the house of Abatemaggio, catching a word here and there, making love to Abatemaggio's sister, who was as corrupt as himself, until one day, in a burst of confidence, his quarry told what he knew.

The accused are now awaiting trial. They are Erricone, who is accused of being the instigator of the crime; Gennaro de Marinis, a kind of understudy to Erricone; Gaetano Donadio, the actual murderer; thirty others of less importance, and Abatemaggio himself. Over 500 witnesses have been heard during the preliminary investigations, the evidence being contained in fourteen follo volumes.

CAPTAIN MISSING FOR TWO YEARS

Capt. Slocum and His Yacht Spray Not Heard From.

New York, Aug. 5.—Capt. Josh Slocum, wire-muscled, sea-tanned New Englander, long and lean as a sand rib at low tide, and his yawl-rigged spray have vanished from the high seas as completely as if they have been swallowed by old Davy Jones. His wife, who lives at New Bedford—home of captains courageous—has notified the authorities that since Nov. 12, 1908, when he sailed in his little craft for the West Indies, the captain has not been spoken or heard from. Late in 1908 a liner sighted the tiny cockleshell—the Spray is thirty-five feet over all—making heavy weather of it in the Carribbean. Since then no word has come from the Spray or her lone navigator.

Mrs. Clocum, wife of the vanished skipper, is living at Vineyard Haven. Of his three sons the oldest, Victor J., is on a whaling voyage; Benjamin A. is in business at Lynn, Mass. The third son, James Garfield, Slocum, lives in New York.

Capt. Slocum and his yawl have "ratched beneath the crossets that tusk the Southern Pole," and blistered in the tropics. In his tiny vessel Capt. Slocum has sailed 46,000 miles alone. In her he traversed vast ocean solitudes upon whose heavy surfaces he has looked down many a time from a flying clipper ship.

On Jan. 20, 1888, the bark Aquidneck, of which he was skipper, was wrecked off Paraguay. She was a total loss, and, it seemed that her captain and crew, among whom was his son, were destined to leave their bones to whiten on the beach. But Capt. Slocum put heart into his men. He got them to work. They collected wood, such as it was, from the scanty forests twenty miles inland, and while the crew punched holes in coins from the ship's trading chest and used them as rivet burrs, Mrs. Slocum helped sew sails.

In the craft so strangely fashioned from makeshift materials they voyaged 7,000 miles. She was named La Libertad and in her the shipwrecked mariners sailed along the coast till they were picked up by a passing vessel.

THIS FISH YARN IS A GOOD ONE

Big Bass Hooked to Pole and Line for Five Years.

Winsted, Conn., Aug. 5.—Hey, you fishermen, can you beat this? Five years ago Moses G. Butler, of West Cornwall, while fishing in Cream Hill lake, in that town, rested his pole across the bow of the boat to light his pipe of tobacco. In the twinkling a large fish seized the bait and the pole disappeared.

Butler spent several days with grappling hooks searching for the missing pole and line, but no trace of it could be found. Thursday while Attorney John Patterson, W. D. Bosler, E. D. Cartwright and W. H. Tully were fishing on the same lake, Patterson had a bite, and the reel sped out some sixty yards of line. The battle between men and fish lasted half an hour, and the bass, which weighed six and one-half pounds, was landed with a net.

A hook was found fastened through the roof of the fish's mouth, attached to a second line. The line was down in the water, and at the end was a pole with a reel attached, which Cartwright readily recognized as the pole which Butler had lost five years ago.

The bass had lived within the radius of the length of the line, some seventy-five feet, and appeared none the worse for carrying the burden of hook, line and the pole. The pole, reel and line are in a remarkably good state of preservation.

CHEF TO THE KING.

M. Cedard Holds Highest Place in English Culinary World.

London, Aug. 5.—As a rule, the prince of Wales when he becomes king retains the servants of his own household, those of the late king being pensioned off. King George has adhered to this custom and M. Cedard, who has for more than eleven years presided over his kitchen has been appointed chef to the king, thus gaining the highest distinction in the English culinary world.

M. Cedard's fame as a cook began to spread when he took charge of the kitchen at Bute House, the residence of Mr. Bischoffshelm, the banker, where he had to provide for many royal dinner parties. From Bute House, M. Cedard received his first royal appointment — to act as cook to the duke of Connaught during his tour in India. On his return from the East, M. Cedard took the place of the famous cook, Mrs. Chance who after years of service with King George, then duke of York, had decided to retire.

Schuylkill Haven, Pa., Aug. 5.—For putting up a sign, "Be sure your sin will find you out," opposite the residence of a well-known politician of this county, James Davidson has been placed under arrest, charged with making threats.

Davidson, who is a religiously inclined young man, has been putting up texts from the Bible on cliffs and walls overhanging railways and highways, and has been doing this without the least idea that any one would regard it a threat, he says. He declares he did not know who lived in the house when he put up the sign objected to.

(BY BRUCE.)

Duluth won one of those see-saw games from the German bund society yesterday through the virtue of Darby O'Brien's homer, the ante-over hit coming when we we were three large runs to the bad, and giving us the contest by the score of 8 to 7.

While the game of yesterday dragged in spots, it was also interesting at times, from the fact that both teams assumed the lead at different stages of the hostilities. Col. Altermott and the orator figured in the four-base clout column, and had it not been for the heavy hitting of these good souls, Duluth would have been soundly trounced for the third time in the series.

Altermott scored one ahead of him with his long hit, while there were three on the paths when Darby hit the second homer of his career. The orator may never hit another outside the fence—but in the long winter evenings to come he can tell his family of the home run that won the game, up Duluth way.

La Crosse Scores First.

In the second inning the Germans jumped into the lead. After Safford had flown to the outfield and Zalusky had gone down via the infield, Klein singled through short. He stole second and came home when G. Anderson made an error on Kernan's line drive. Klein came home on the play. Kuehn struck out.

With Spade down in the second, Connell hit for two bases and scored when Snyder singled to right, Snyder taking second on the throw in. Ward and Safford went out on hits to the infield.

Amid joy and vociferous cheering Duluth tied the score in its half of the fourth. G. Anderson opened the inning by drawing four that were of a straying nature. He was forced at second by Kohl, that young man stealing second without hesitation. He went to third when a wild throw went over second. O'Brien fouled out to Zbyszko. Zalusky and Altermott drew a base on balls, stealing second. Both men scored when Holstrom hit a screamer down to second base. Holstrom was caught trying to purloin second.

In the charming sixth two more runs came embling across the plate. G. Anderson opened the entertainment of this round by singling merrily past third. Kohl struck out and O'Brien was retired at first. At this point Col. Altermott knocked the ball over the left field fence, and robust visions of victory filled the minds of those loyal and credulous fans in the stands.

A fair dream of victory seemed dispelled in the weird seventh inning, the placid Germans driving five large runs across the plate. This terrible round was started by Klein, who was retired on an infield hit. Young Mr. Kernan singled to left and Spade beat out an infield hit. With the bases full Connell flew to O'Brien, and the pressure became less suffocating. But here Snyder singled to left, scoring Kernan and Kuehn. Ward was hit by a pitched ball and a base on balls to Safford forced Spade over. Zalusky singled, scoring Snyder and Ward, and Klein up for the second time of the inning, was retired via O'Brien and Holstrom.

Wherein We Win.

After this doleful shattering of what seemed a dream of victory came the glorious climax of the contest. Jay Anderson reached first on Connell's error. G. Anderson was hit by an erratic curve and Kohl beat out an infield hit. At this perfectly propitious point, Orator O'Brien, the pride of the prairies, hit the ball over the left field boards, and once more proud victory mounted our banners.

The next three men were retired, but what we had gathered proved just enough to bring sweet-faced victory home.

The Outcasts could do nothing during the remainder of the game, though in the ninth Small Connell got as far as second base.

This afternoon Joe Killian's band of Pirates will play the Sox. While the Pirates have not fared very well at Superior, they are playing good baseball and are in the game all the time. The series that starts this afternoon should be a strenuous one. The Pirates are mighty peeved about being shoved out of second place and will try to have revenge on the unoffending Sox.

GANS WILL LIVE TO SEE PARENTS

The Negro Fighter Will Win His Race With Death.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 5.—Joe Gans, one-time lightweight champion of the prize ring, will live to see his parents in Baltimore, toward whom he is speeding in a race with death. Wasted by the ravages of tuberculosis and only able to faintly articulate between gasps "Fix my head" or "drink," the once applauded gladiator of the fistic ring, passed through Pittsburg this morning. His train arrived from Chicago at 6:30 and departed for the East twenty minutes later, and is due at Baltimore at 3:20 this afternoon.

With Gans is his wife, his attending physician, Dr. H. T. Southworth, of Prescott, Ariz., and "Kid" North, an old-time ring partner of the former pugilist.

Dr. Southworth to the Associated Press said that Gans had dozed fitfully during the trip from Chicago where they left at 5:30 last night and had taken only a small glass of milk for nourishment. The physician said that it had not been necessary to resort to the administration of oxygen since leaving Chicago, and expressed the opinion that the patient would live to reach Baltimore and if the weather was not too hot would survive for ten days or two weeks.

The physician expressed some anxiety as to altitudes and inquired closely to the height reached in the trip over the Allegheny mountains. He appeared most anxious over the trip around the Horse Shoe curve and the country between this city and Altoona. When told that the altitude was about 1,200 feet Dr. Southworth was relieved and said that his patient could stand the trip comfortably.

BIG DULUTHS JR.'S LAY CLAIM TO CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Big Duluth Juniors yesterday defeated the Netletons by the score of 10 to 4. The result of the victory gives the winners three out of five games played between the two teams. The Big Duluth Juniors have also won twenty-one out of twenty-four games played, and claim the championship of the 13-year-old teams of the city. The claimants of the championship are open to meet all teams of their age in defending their claim of the 13-year-old championship.

In the game of yesterday, Hiltman and Johnson were the battery for the Big Duluths; Nelson and Hoag working for the Netletons.

"OLD MASTER" IS PASSING

Joe Gans Probably Greatest Lightweight the Ring Ever Produced.

Beating Received From Nelson May Have Hastened His Death.

(BY BRUCE.)

Joe Gans is about to lose another championship to the greatest finisher of them all—the Grim Reaper. There appears to be only a few days left to the once king of the lightweight division, who was invincible for a long period of years.

The present condition of Gans brings to mind the question: Why do those great colored fighters succumb to early disease?

There was the case of Peter Jackson, who went home to Australia to die, not so many years ago. Then poor, little George Dixon died when he should have been in the prime of life.

In the case of the two other great colored fighters, dissipation played a strong part in bringing about their early deaths. Jackson went the wine route to the limit, and little Dixon squandered his money like a suddenly rich Pittsburger, buying wine and indulging in other pleasures after winning big fights.

Gans has never taken the best of care of himself. Many have wondered why he could go along fighting in such truly marvelous form for so many years. Then comes the answer—his constitution suddenly gave way under the strain.

That terrifically gruelling fight with Battling Nelson under the pitiless, glaring sun of the Nevada desert, probably had much to do with the decline of Gans. What a mighty tough man this Nelson is! Now we come to the full realization of this fact. Perhaps, when he has been going along as many years as Gans, he, too, will break under the strain the fight game has exacted of his powers of endurance.

In these modern days of lightweights, judges have often wondered if Kid Lavigne in his prime could have beaten the great Gans. Until the second Nelson-Gans fight there seemed no lightweight destined to rob Gans of his crown. That gruelling Goldfield fight must have taken a lot out of Gans, for in his second meeting with Nelson, the wonderful black fighter seemed but a feeble shadow of his former self.

Joe Gans gone! His death will mark the passing of another of the old guard. They are rapidly passing away. Some way the present crop of fighters does not seem as great as the former champions. In some respects, Gans was the greatest boxer-fighter that the ring has ever produced. Just how great he was will never be known, for Gans saw fit to play the part of a faker in many of his fights. His reformation came when Joe was nearing the end of the pugilistic path.

"The Old Master". The name was well deserved, for Gans knew about all there was to know about boxing. He was the greatest of his day, and many will believe that there will never be another lightweight the equal of the wonderful Baltimore negro, who at the present time is racing across the country in a grim race with death.

OLAMBALA WINS AT SARATOGA

Wilson Entry Takes $7,500 Handicap---Giftline Wins at Detroit.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Before a crowd of 10,000 persons, R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Olambala, the 9 to 10 favorite, easily won the $7,500 Saratoga handicap, the feature race of the opening day's card. The victory of the colt was popular as Mr. Wilson is well liked by the natives.

The handicap was run over a track which was a sea of mud, as just before post time a terrific thunder and lightning storm broke over the track. Restigouche broke in front and Shilling let him slip right along, closely attended by Stanley Fay, while Olambala trailed in the rear under a pull. In the run down the back stretch, but well pulled to the middle of the track and with clear sailing, Olambala moved up very fast. At the far turn he was a head in front of Ballot and in the next furlong he drew away into a four lengths lead, winning pulled up.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—The free-for-all pace at the Grand Circuit meeting at the fair grounds today, was an easy win for Giftline. Aileen Wilson lost second place to Darkey Hal in the first heat by breaking when almost under the wire. The second heat was a procession with Giftline leading all the way and winning in a walk. Darkey Hal had an equally easy time in holding second place in the heat.

The time of the free-for-all was disappointing as the track was fast and all three contestants had records under 2:03. The first heat today was paced in 2:03 1-4 and the second in 2:04 3-4.

Alfonso, the favorite before the 2:16 trot, which had fifteen entrants, drew the pole for the first heat, but was back in fourth place at the finish and was then withdrawn on account of lameness, all bets being declared off.

Annette R. won the race by taking three heats after Dora had captured the first two. Dora won the first heat by a great burst of speed.

In the 2:15 pace, the judges put Hogan up behind Nellie G., after the second heat in place of Minnie, but the change made no difference in the result. Nellie G. led to the quarter post in the first two heats, but Hallie Loo led all the way in the third.

The 2:09 trot was easy for Nancy Royce after the first heat, which ended in a driving finish. Hail Worthy wrested second position from General P. almost under the wire.

OARSMEN WILL HOLD PICNIC

Arrangements Made for First Annual Outing---Baseball Committee Appointed.

All of the oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club are requested to meet at the shell house at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, so that an early start can be made for the first annual oarsmen's picnic. The start will be made at 10 o'clock, so that it is desired to have all the rowers on hand promptly.

It is planned to row up to the picnic grounds in all kinds of boats. Lapstreaks, barges and shells will be used by the gay picnickers. The trip will be made in rowing suits, for it is planned to make the affair an undress one, where small formality will be called for.

Steaks will be bought and cooked by some expert in the crowd. The picnic is planned primarily to get the oarsmen together and promote more spirit for the fall rowing. The Minnesota Boat club holds an annual picnic after the regatta, at which plans for the season are discussed.

At Duluth it has been the habit for most oarsmen to forget all about rowing just as soon as the season is over. This year the officials of the club desire the men to keep up rowing so that increased interest will be taken in the regatta that will be held the present month. The picnic is planned with the idea in view.

Yesterday Artie Michaud, he of the careless habits; Charles Brewer, Simon Forgett, Hans Haroldson and Sid McDonald were appointed a committee to arrange for the baseball game between the oarsmen and sailors. The contest will be staged at Athletic park and will be one of the events of the season.

There are some classy ball players in the two departments of the club, so that the game will be one that promises to be well worth witnessing. While the oarsmen are confident that they will have little trouble in bringing victory home, there are some very wise young men in the sailing department, who smile mysteriously when the game is mentioned.

FIGHT PICTURES SHOWN IN PEORIA.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 5.—The Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures have been showing in Peoria the entire week, Mayor Woodruff having granted licenses for the public display of the films.

Small crowds have been in attendance at the performances and while the pictures are excellent reproductions, little interest has been shown by the public. There has been no demonstration of any kind between the whites and blacks, the only opposition shown being by the local ministers.

TRAVIS FAVORITE IN CHICAGO TOURNAMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—With the beginning of the thirty-six-hole semi-finals for the Glenview III cup at the Glenview club's annual invitational golf tournament today, Walter Travis of Garden City club, New York, formerly national and British chmpion, was favorite. The wonderful putting of the veteran yesterday in his match with Charles Evans, Jr., formerly Western champion, led the local experts to predict that Travis would overcome the long drives of John M. Sellers of Glenview, with whom the New Yorker teed off today.

The other semi-final match was between Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, national title holder, and R. L. Ames of Glenview, a former baseball and football player at Princeton university.

Kending Leads Beets.

Frank Kendig continues to hold the lead in the pool play between himself and Ed Beers. The fourth game of the series was played last night, Kendig running out his 125 points while Beers was making 86. The result of the play last night gives Kendig 500 and Beers 386 points.

AN END TO SKIN TROUBLES

Action of Poslam Is Rapid—Easy to Prove What It Will Do.

"To think," says Mr. L. J. Cooper, North Haven, Conn., "that I have been trying everything (to cure eczema) for fifteen years, and now poslam has done it. The first application stopped all the itching."

When a remedy is available like poslam, which in all skin troubles stops itching and accomplishes cures so rapidly and readily, there is really no reason why such affections should be allowed to go unchecked, particularly as no one is asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining and trying one of the free trial packages. This will be sent by mail to any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

While primarily intended for the treatment of eczema, acne, tetter, barber's and all other forms of itch, etc., poslam promptly cures all the lesser skin affections, such as pimples, blotches, fever blisters, red noses, inflamed skin, rash, herpes, sunburn, clears the complexion and keeps the skin in healthy condition.

A special 50-cent package of poslam is prepared for minor uses, and this, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is for sale by all druggists, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior.

MUST PLOW VERY DEEP

Then Give Soil Thorough Harrowing in Order to Conserve Moisture.

Present Drouth Has Taught Farmers of North Dakota Good Lesson.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conservation of moisture is a subject that has aroused a great deal of attention among North Dakota farmers this year as a result of the drouth situation. While agricultural experts have been teaching moisture conservation for several years, it must be admited that the results have not been entirely satisfactory, and conditions this season have given the farmers an opportunity of seeing for themselves the advantages to be derived from carefully watching the moisture situation.

The storing up of moisture in the ground by deep plowing and good harrowing is the solution of the problem in North Dakota, declare the experts who are interesting themselves in the situation, and at the present time they are engaged in pointing out to the farmer methods that he can adopt in his work this fall which will prove beneficial to him next year, and in other years to come.

New Farmers Are Learning.

There is in North Dakota a very large number of new farmers, men who have previously farmed in Central East states where the rainfall is so much greater than it is in North Dakota. It is these farmers who appear to be particularly interested in the question and they are anxious to get all the information possible on the subject of moisture.

In prosecuting their campaign for moisture conservation, the men behind the movement are urging that farmers arrange their farms in such a manner as to give one season over to securing a supply of moisture in the land. By plowing deep and harrowing well, the land is placed in condition to receive and retain a good supply of water. The killing of weeds, which use a great deal of moisture, is also urged as being a very great factor in the successful prosecution of the campaign to get better results. Raising corn is also included in the list of desirable occupations for the farmer who belives in the conservation of moisture.

MINNESOTA HAS A CHINESE BABY

Chin Sang of International Falls Father of Slant-Eyed Youngster.

International Falls, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.—One year ago International Falls was accorded the distinction of having a Chinese wedding, Chin Sang, the restaurant man near the depot, taking a bride in the person of a little Oriental woman, whose birthplace was San Francisco. The next chapter of the story comes from the Northern Minnesota hospital, where a husky son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Chin Sang. The hospital authorities report the mother as happy and contended with her surroundings, while the father devotes as much time as possible to his business, his chief interest in life at this time being in relating to his customers the fact that "Me got China baby boy hospital, yes, yes," with his voice increasing in volume and emphasis as he tells the tale.

William V. Kane, county attorney, acted as Chin Sang's logal adviser at the time of the wedding and the ceremony was performed in his office by Rev. S. L. Parfish, at that time pastor of the First M. E. church. In appreciation of their kindnesses at that time, Mr. and Mrs. Chin Sang have christened their offspring William Parish Chin Sang.

ASHLAND ICE WAR.

Objection to Increased Prices Will Start Co-operative Company.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ashland is to have an ice war. The citizens are revolting against what they claim is exorbitant in the way of prices charged by the Chequamegon Ice company, which has the field to itself and the movement to start a rival and co-operative company has been started.

Several weeks ago a number of the business men of the city, feeling that they were not getting the price they should on ice, decided to start an ice company of their own. A meeting was held, and a committee was appointed to solicit stock subscriptions from the merchants of the city. They met with success and this evening the company will be formally organized and officers elected. The new company will be named the Co-operative Ice company and among its stockholders will be most of the prominent business men of Ashland.

ROGERS MUST SETTLE.

Soo Doctor Convicted of Smuggling Loses His Appeal.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.—The United States court of appeals at Cincinnati has handed down a decision affirming the verdict of the United States district court of Marquette in the case of United States versus Dr. T. N. Rogers of this city, charged with smuggling.

The doctor was found guilty when the case was tried in Marquette a year ago, and a fine of $100 imposed. His attorney, carried the case to the Cincinnati court, counting upon the fact that intention did not constitute a violation of the customs laws, and that the act had not been completed because his client had not passed out of the enclosure. He cited some very similar cases where the courts refused to convict, but the judge drew a distinction and ruled that passing the officers at the entrance of the enclosure without declaring the goods violated the law, and he sustained the lower court.

D., Aug. 5.—The recent order of President Taft regarding the suspension of public lands from homestead entry in which were included 200 townships along the state line between North and South Dakota, has met with the opposition of fourteen commercial clubs in that section of the two states.

These organizations met here and adopted resolutions against the order and appointed one delegate from each state to go to Washington to secure if possible, a modification of the order. They also have requested Governor Vessey to accompany these delegates to the national capital.

These lands were recently withdrawn from entry on the ground that they were coal lands.

The coroner is investigating to learn just how the accident occurred.

A. Stedman, motorman of the car which struck the boy, says he saw him try to cross the tracks in front of the car. He thinks the bicycle wheels slipped, throwing the boy onto the track for the boy was falling in front of the car when Stedman first saw him. The brakes could not be applied quickly enough to save his life.

The conductor of an outbound car said the boy caught on the rear of his car and rode for some distance, letting go when he reached Twenty-seventh street.

CRUCIFIXION OF TODAY

A Methodist Divine, Tortured By Drug Habit, Turns Thief.

Mankind Suffers More Every Day From Drugs and Opiates Than Disease Itself.

Electro-Radio First Diagnoses and Then Heals You With Electricity.

"A man may suffer terrible physical pain and be brave enough to stand it. No one can stand the awful shrieking of every bit of one's body for the drug that will bring him relief from a craving worse than deathh. I tell you they are pressing down on the brow of humanity a crown of lancets; they are crucifying mankind upon a cross of drugs."

These were the words of the Rev. George W. Briggs, a prominent Methodist divine, who is now in the city, having turned thief so as to get in prison to be helped in fighting the drug habit. Today the Rev. Briggs is a happier man, full of confidence that he will be able to overcome the most powerful influence in the world. Yesterday he gave a statement to Electro Radio experts which is as follows:

"Physicians ought not to give drugs, as they destroy the body and soul. I never knew what opium was until about six years ago, when it was given to me to ease pain in a case of great sickness. I had an operation performed on me which left me in a condition unable to fulfill my public duties as a church lecturer. I went to a friend of mine, a young physician, and stated my case. He at first gave me paragoric and then laudanum; ten drops was the first dose. That was the beginning of the whole business. I filled my lecture engagements and by the aid of laudanum went through all right, and at the end of sixteen months he performed an operation and my trouble passed away, but that little ten drops of laudanum had risen to an ounce a day in sixteen months, and while my other trouble was cured, I had infinitely more trouble with the laudanum habit I had formed. Now these are the facts. It went from ten drops to an ounce every twenty-four hours. I kept it by the pound and took eight drams at a dose. After going from bad to worse, finally I was taken to the Bellevue hospital, New York city, and after suffering the agonies of a living hell, the habit was broken in me. From Bellevue I went to a gymnasium on the Hudson river. It is not Muldoon's, but it has Muldoon's plan. It is William Brown's place, an infinitely better place, and there is not a drop of medicine given to a man. All he gets is electricity and nature. I filled my lungs with pure ozone, God's electricity.

"Then what am I doing here? I was cured, and I should never have returned to the horrible habit, but a friend of mine got me into financial trouble, and I spent ten sleepless nights trying to straighten my affairs. I did so at a terrible cost to myself. I happened to find a bottle of laudanum. I took a few drops, and it was the old story over again. I understand you are curing by electricity. If you can stop the morphine or any drug habit, for God's sake stop it. I mean to say, let the physicians stop the use of all kinds of drugs. People don't realize how terribly hard it is for a man to quit. I am a strong man and have done strong things and hard things, but the drug habit has ruined me and millions of others, made many orphans, populated the lunatic asylums and filled the penitentiaries of the world."

Hear the plea of the Rev. George Briggs: "FOR GOD'S SAKE, STOP THE AWFUL DRUG HABIT." If you should fall sick, visit our institute and see the happy faces of the people we are bringing back to health without one grain of drugs.

Place, Electro Radio Institute. Address, 810 Aiworth building.

This is the simple statement of one man. There are thousands of others like him. Maybe even you yourself. It always starts in the same way, just a little dose given to relieve pain, and then the habit starts.

The Electro Radio company has predicted the time will come when they could find a machine that would harness up the city's current and pass it without harm through the body of the most delicate child. They have now the machine which produces the Radio Current. This form of electricity has all the deadly jars and jolts removed from it, and it flows as smooth as oil through the body, removing from every pore all harmful and diseased matter and bringing the blessing of health to every one.

If you are a drug fiend, we can cure you of the habit. Maybe you may become ill and form the drug habit. This you are bound to do unless you come to the Radio Institute, where you are cured by the essence of nature condensed into tubes and current. Drugs may bring you relief, but they kill the symptoms but not the disease. They leave you chained down to a habit more harmful than any ailment.

We are not experimenting; this city is full of results and cures that we have accomplished. The successful way we have treated your own neighbor is our best recommendation.

Perhaps some of the most remarkable results which have been obtained in the short time they have taken treatment can be noticed in the cases of Mrs. Bickford of 424 East Fourth street, who has suffered with chronic stomach trouble for years. She reports that she has received the greatest relief imaginable and wants her friends to know it.

Mrs. Alfred Johnson of 2713½ Helm street has suffered so much from a nervous trouble that her mind was deranged when she began. Her husband stated that she has recovered and is more than delighted.

Mrs. Florence Dysslin of 5 East Third street had been given up. They never expected nor did she, of a recovery. After several dangerous operations she could not retain anything on her stomach for five minutes. She has improved to such an extent that she will soon be well again.

ON THE IRON RANGES

MANY LOGS WAIT FOR MORE WATER

Reservoirs Intended to Supply St. Louis River Have Been Emptied.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.—The floating of logs down the St. Louis river from the log station near Forbes to Cloquet was stopped yesterday because of the low water. The reservoirs around Biwabik have been emptied four times this season to float the logs, but now the reservoirs are empty. Many millions of feet of the logs are stacked up at the logging station. The crew that has been working with the logs has been laid off.

Both sides of the St. Louis river near Forbes are lined with roll ways of logs piled in some places as high as thirty feet. One of the crew was nearly drowned the other day, but he managed to swim from under one batch of logs where he had fallen into the river to an open space. The St. Louis river at that time was quite high. Not for many years has the river been as low as at present. The recent rains has had very little effect.

Gordon Cohn Has Charge of Virginia Ball Players.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gordon Cohn has succeeded Judge James P. Carey as manager of the local baseball team. Judge Carey's official duties occupy so much of his time that he was unable to give the position as manager of the team the time it requires. Mr. Cohn's first victory since taking over the management of the team was the defeat of the Two Harbors team in a double-header game in that city last Sunday. Mr. Cohn states that he is arranging a series of games with some of the fastest amateur teams in the state and that during the remainder of the season many first-class exhibitions of the national game will be seen on the local grounds. ## SAINES PROVES HIS INNOCENCE

Man Alleged to Have Been Implicated in Hold-Up Establishes Alibi.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Instead of being implicated in the attack on R. D. Oliver and Andrew Mickelson as the two were returning to the Leetonia mine on the evening of July 17, wounding the first named in an attempt to hold them up, James F. Saines, arrested on the charge, was at work at the Morton, and has established a complete alibi. Mr. Saines is a manly apearing young fellow, and one glance at him was sufficient, with the evidence offered, to prove that he didn't belong to the highwaymen class.

Given Good Character.

His friends felt rather aggrieved that he should be accused. His preliminary hearing showed that a serious mistake had been made.

J. C. Fox, superintendent of the New York Foundation company, was one of the witnesses Wednesday in the hearing that was postponed from Tuesday, and testified that the man who did the shooting was a "sand hog" in his employ at the Morton mine, and that the culprit left for parts unknown the same evening as the affair took place.

Mr. Fox stated that the man, whose name is King, came to the bunkhouse and was so noisy that drastic measures were necessary to keep him quiet. Some time during the night he skipped, leaving his pay uncalled for.

As an indication of the popularity and character of Saines, the chief engineer, timekeeper and fireman of the Morton mine stated that Mr. Saines had worked that Sunday until 6 o'clock, and as the assault took place shortly after that time, it was shown that he had not been in the vicinity.

BOOTLEGGER HAS ONE LOWER LIMB

But He Manages to Get in Trouble and Is Now Under Indictment.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A full-fledged bootlegger possessing only one leg is the anomaly presented in the arrest here of Alec Lezeski of Carson Lake on a warrant issued out of the district court at Virginia alleging that he has been selling liquor without a license. The warrant grew out of an indictment returned by the grand jury. His bonds have been fixed at $300 and these he expects to furnish.

It is alleged Lezesko has been plying his illegal traffic at Carson Lake, much to the dissatisfaction of the officials at the Morton mine, the latter claiming that the drinking men obtain "explosives" from Alec's liquid arsenal and are never fit for work.

MAY ENLARGE THE ADAMS PIT

Reported Present Open Workings Will Be Made Largest on Range.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The diamond drills continue busy around here. It is understood that the mining company has found considerable ore under a part of Chickertown, a section of this city, but it will be some time before they commence to take it out. An extensive change is also expected at the Adams mine in the near future, as much more stripping is contemplated. If the present plans go through, the local open pit will probably be the largest single open pit on the range. Much overburden will have to be taken away, and the pit will be extended on all sides.

Almost all of the stock pile ore has been taken this way, and the mining company will direct all of its attention to the open pit and shaft ore. The No. 1 Spruce stock pile is practically cleaned up and the same will be true very soon at the No. 4. At this shaft the cleaning up of the stock pile will allow freedom in placing the new steel trestle, the cement piers for which are already in place.

The shipping from all the local workings is going on at the usual strong pace, although it is expected that there will be a considerable increase in the shipping season as the navigation season draws to a close.

It cost less than $1,000 a mile.

HAMON TESTIFIES IN LAND FRAUD CASE AT MUSKOGEE

"Never Mentioned Sherman."

"Did you mention to Senator Gore or to anyone else that Vice President Sherman was interested in the approval of the McMurray contracts?"

"I never mentioned such a thing to anyone."

Q.: "Did you say Senator Curtiss was interested in the McMurray contracts?" A.: "I did not."

Q.: "Are you yourself interested in the approval of the McMurray contracts?" A.: "I am not."

Mr. Hamon declined to answer other questions, saying he expected to appear before the committee, when he would tell all he knew.

Besides Mr. Hamon, another important witness to be heard is Congressman B. S. McGuire of Oklahoma, who was charged by Congressman Creager with having occupied the same suit of rooms with McMurray at a hotel in Washington, and by Senator Gore with having been interested in the approval of the contracts for the sale of the 450,000 acres of coal lands on a 10 per cent attorney's fee basis.

Curtis to Testify.

Senator Curtis will be a witness and will take the stand either tomorrow or Monday. He sent a telegram to Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota, chairman of the investigating committee, saying he was anxious to testify that he was in no way involved in the land deal other than to have at heart the best interests of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians who now own the land.

Resuming the witness stand before the committee today, Congressman C. E. Creager of Oklahoma, on cross-examination, told further of details of his experiences in Washington in connection with the attempted $3,000,000 Indiana land deal. McCreager was on the stand when yesterday's session ended, having followed Senator Gore.

Told About Hamon.

Congressman Creager again testified concerning his meeting with Jake L. Hamon, charged by Senator Gore with being promoter for J. E. McMurray, who held contracts for the sale of the land on a 10 per cent basis.

"What was the length of time of the conversation which you said you had with Hamon at the hotel at Washington and at which he said you might obtain an 'interest' in the contracts if you helped put them through" asked C. B. Ames, counsel for McMurray.

"About two minutes," said Mr. Creager.

"Did you state to Senator Gore that an attempt had been made to influence you?"

"I did not. All I said was that at the proper time I would rise in the house to a question of privilege."

Friendly With McMurray.

"On or about May 6 did Senator Gore call you up on the telephone and tell you a little bird had whispered to him something important about the McMurray contracts?"

"He did not."

"You were on friendly terms with McMurray?"

"Yes, I saw him frequently."

Mr. Creager then said he was the author of a bill providing for the sale of the lands on a $30,000,000 basis.

"Did McMurray help you frame that bill?"

"Yes."

"Then that bill expressed the wishes of McMurray?"

"Some of his wishes. We went over the bill together."

"Were your conferences with McMurray secret?"

"No, not secret. We often talked in private."

Made no Advances.

"Did McMurray ever make any improper propositions to you to influence you to obtain legislation for him?"

"He never did."

"Did your bill meet the approval of the Oklahoma delegation in congress?"

"Not entirely. They approved of it as a whole, but disagreed as to some details."

"In previous testimony you said that Congressman McGuire of Oklahoma lived at the same hotel in Washington with Hamon and McMurray. Did you mean they actually occupied the same rooms?"

"Congressman McGuire frequently was in their rooms, but I think the rooms were one or two stories higher up. The hotel was frequented by congressmen generally."

No Attorney Fees.

Questioned by Senator Gore, Mr. Creager said his bill provided for the sale of the lands by the secretary of the interior and did not provide for any attorney fees. If this bill had passed, he said, the attorney fees would not have been granted.

Efforts to show that at the time the McMurray contracts were under discussion, Hamon was in Washington on other business, were made by Attorney Ames in a cross-examination of D. F. Gore, brother of Senator Gore.

The attorney pointed out in his questioning that Hamon was representing Governor Haskell of Oklahoma. Senator Gore at that time had introduced a bill providing that a senate committee appointed to investigate the "third degree" should also investigate the conditions which led up to the indictment of Governor Haskell in the Muskogee town lot cases.

Supplemented Gore's Story.

In his testimony yesterday Congressman Creager supplemented the testimony of Senator Gore. He said on June 15 last he had been invited by Hamon to meet him in a private room at the Occidental hotel in Washington.

Having gone there, Mr. Creager testified, he was informed he could have a substantial "interest" in the land deal if he would withdraw his opposition to the approval of the McMurray contracts by congress.

Asked by Congressman Miller: "Were any figures mentioned as to how much you were to receive?" Mr. Creager replied:

"No, I did not let it go as far as that. I made it plain I was not open to being influenced in that way. I had already gone on record as being firmly opposed to the granting of such an enormous fee to attorneys."

Congressman B. S. McGuire, who was charged by Senator Gore as being "interested" in the McMurray contract, was said by Mr. Creager in his testimony to have been at the time of his visit an occupant of the same suite of rooms with Hamon and McMurray at the hotel.

Gore's Clerks Testified.

Clerks of Senator Gore testified to having been invited by McMurray and Hamon to "frog leg" suppers at Washington at which the Indian contracts were to be talked over. These invitations, it was declared, were all turned down.

On one occasion, one of the clerks testified, Hamon said Senator Gore was awfully hard on his friends.

Senator Clarence Curtis of Kansas wired the investigating committee denying he had ever been interested in the McMurray contracts and offering to appear here when wanted. The committee announced he would be summoned to appear at once.

Statement by Sherman.

Big Moose, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Vice President James S. Sherman today made the following further statement regarding the testimony brought out in the Indian land contract investigation at Muskogee yesterday, in which his name was mentioned:

"I never heard my name mentioned in connection with the contracts which were the subject of Senator Gore's testimony yesterday. I never had any interest of any kind in any Indian contract other than the interest I have for years had in the welfare of the Indians and which I shall ever have—no personal interest, I mean. The story, so far as my name is concerned, is without foundation whatever. If any person has said I have any personal interest in this or any other Indian contract he has stated what was not true."

Last night he said:

"The story that comes to me about the charges made by Senator Gore at Muskogee today is absolutely without the slightest shadow of foundation."

Surprise at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 5.—An implication that an unnamed employe of the department of justice was involved in the McMurray investigation surprised officials of that department. There are no charges pending against any one in connection with the inquiry, which had its inception in the closing hours of the last congress, when Senator Gore declared improper influence had been brought to bear in behalf of legislation in favor of the so-called contracts. If any definite basis develops for calling an investigation within the department as the result of the sensational charges of Mr. Gore, it is conceded action would be taken at once.

TAFT AIDS DEDICATION

of the monument was the unveiling of a bronze tablet over the door facing the harbor, which was given by President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard.

The town clock was stirking 9 when the Mayflower came around the little white beacon at the end of Long Point and passed in between the lines of battleships.

Eight Battleships in Line.

Eight of the great vessels were here to greet the president—the Connecticut, Michigan, Mississippi, Idaho, South Carolina, Louisiana, Kansas and New Hampshire. As the Mayflower headed in, the first gun boomed from the flagship Connecticut, followed by twenty-one guns from all the ships. The sailors manned the rails and the entire ships' companies stood at attention.

The Mayflower dropped anchor at the head of the line at 9:30 a. m. and President Taft immediately went on board the Connecticut, where he received the commanding officers of the fleet. The reception on the Connecticut lasted for about half an hour, and then the president started for shore.

Made the Address.

President Taft delivered the address at the dedication. His opening words were descriptive of the landing of the Pilgrims at Provincetown and the causes which drove them from England. He said:

"Here, two hundred and ninety years ago, a band of 100 Pilgrims, in a small, crowded and leaking vessel, first saw their new home. Other efforts had been made on the New England coast to found colonies for profits, but this was the first attempt made by men seeking political and religious independence to secure an asyium in America, where they might escape restraints imposed by the first of the Stuarts.

"They fled to Amsterdam and then to Leyden to enjoy the freedom of religious worship for which Holland was then distinguished among the countries of the world.

Difference in Motive.

"Other colonies attempted in New England and elsewhere failed for lack of courage in the colonists. The difference between all these and the Pilgrims was the motive which inspired them to come."

President Taft referred in some detail to the exposure and privation suffered by the settlers.

Dodge Center Elevator Burns.

Dodge Center, Minn., Aug. 5.—The local elevator burned Wednesday night, causing a loss of $5,000. The building was owned by John Howard and rented by the Western Elevator company.

HOW TO MAKE THE FAT COMFORTABLE IN SUMMER

If you are fat and have difficulty in breathing or walking or eating and if you find that the heat is exhausting to you during the heated term you will be interested in knowing that the famous Marmola prescription is now being prepared in tablet form and that one of these little tablets taken after each meal and at bedtime will reduce your fat at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces per day. These tablets stop fat from being made and they assist the body to throw away the fat already made in a natural manner. They are harmless and you will find that their use will build up your system to a higher degree of perfection than ever before. They have perhaps the greatest army of responsible men and women who have written of their effectiveness than any other prescription ever written. You need not diet or exercise and you may eat when and what you will. The food you now eat turns into fat. The food you eat will make no fat if you take a Marmola tablet after the meal; and more that that, you will so strengthen your digestive organs that you will need no assistance in a short time even from Marmola Tablets. Every drug store sells them or you may write the Marmola Company, 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. A case of Marmola Tablets costs only 75 cents everywhere.

RUNAWAY IS HOME.

Brainerd Girl Who Went to Fargo Is Brought Back.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Etheline Brecht the 15-year-old daughter of J. H. Brecht of this city, who ran away and was traced to Fargo, as told in The Duluth Herald, and then to Detroit, Minn., was brought back from the latter place by her father.

At Detroit she found employment in the family of the local clerk of court, her intentions being to earn enough money there being to enable her to return to her home.

The clerk of court noticed the account of the missing girl in The Duluth Herald and Brainerd papers and suspecting that she was the lost girl, he telephoned to the chief of police at Fargo.

The father, J. H. Brecht was informed and went to Detroit immediately and found the girl at midnight Wednesday. He brought her home yesterday noon.

MONTANA SHEEP BEING FATTENED IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Granville, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.) — Montana sheep raisers are finding North Dakota an extremely satisfactory place for the grazing of their herds at the present time, and between this city and Des Lacs, Ward county, there are large numbers of them being fattened up for the market. This is the first time in several years that the sheep have been allowed to graze in this section of the state, the turning over of the land about ten years ago to the homesteader depriving the ranchman of the privileges he had previously enjoyed along that line.

FEATURE DAY AT THE CLUB

Four Big Events Are on the Boat Club Program.

Ladies' Day for Sailors—Challenge Tennis Match—War Canoe Finals.

Tomorrow will be a feature day at the Duluth Boat club, no less than four big events being scheduled for the afternoon.

The program will begin at 4 o'clock.

It will be ladies' day at the club and in the yacht races the boats will all be sailed by members of the fairer sex. There may be men in the crew, but no man's hand must touch the tiller.

The deciding race between the war canoes will be held tomorrow. The rivalry between the two crews of young women, the Reds and the Blues, has become very keen. Each crew has won a race, and there was one tie. Tomorrow's race will decide the winner.

The challenge tennis match for the Hartman cup will be played between Larsen Kennedy and Mac Washburn. Washburn now holds the cup, and Kennedy as winner of the recent tournament, has the right to challenge him for it. The match should bring out the best tennis ever seen on the boat club courts. Kennedy showed that he was in a class by himself at the recent tournament, and Washburn has been playing all spring and summer at Minneapolis and in Duluth, and is in good form.

A special race for all motor boats thirty-two feet in length and under has been arranged. The entries for this race follow:

| Boat— | Owner. |
|---|---|
| Constitution II | W. S. Telford |
| Mirest | Dr. Jera |
| Clipper | Fred Holmberg |
| Mermaid | A. Dauplaise |
| Edward C. | Harry Coney |

MOTOR BOAT HITS DEADHEAD

Dingle Capitol Nearly Sinks in Tower Bay Slip.

Running into a deadhead near the Interstate bridge yesterday afternoon, the Dingle Capitol, a launch owned by Mack Cook of Duluth, was nearly sunk before it reached Tower bay slip.

Mr. Cook and J. A. McMillan, a salesman for the A. L. Peck Candy company, were the only occupants. After reaching the dock a second accident occurred which almost sank the craft for the second time.

An effort was being made to hoist the boat from the water by the aid of a cable, which cut through the thin shell. It was finally hoisted to land, where it is being repaired.

The boat is one of the fastest in the local harbor and was formerly owned by Richard Schell. Mr. Cook, the present owner, was formerly a pitcher on the Superior league team.

CASE ADJOURNED.

Victim of Attempted Murder Still Too Weak to Testify.

An adjournment for two weeks was taken this morning, when the case of the state against Nick Schommer was called in police court.

Schommer is charged with attempted murder. He shot Effie Johnson, 19 years old, four times several months ago. The girl was not able to appear against him this morning, and the case was adjourned again.

Schommer is still in jail, being unable to raise bond money.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR BIG RACE MEET.

A large attendance is expected.

With the Amateurs.

Th Pittsburg Coal company baseball team yesterday afternoon defeated the Water, Light & Power company aggregation, by a score of 10 to 5.

The Soo line office team took the Omaha aggregation into camp yesterday afternoon in a fast game played on the normal school grounds. The score was 9 to 5, and the contest went five innings.

Noted Pacer Dead.

Champion, a $1,200 stallion, said to be one of the best bred horses ever owned in Superior, died at the barn of its owner, H. C. Beck, yesterday after a week's illness. Champion is a brother to Shamrock, also owned by Mr. Beck and which is now racing on the Michigan circuit.

Gets Appointments.

Dr. N. C. Bulkley, formerly of Superior, was yesterday appointed as medical inspector of the Eyeleth city schools with a salary of $100 a month. He is also to be health commissioner of the city with further remuneration. He will not attempt to practice privately but will devote his entire time to his official duties.

Charged With Theft.

New Home for Elks.

A deal, providing for the construction of a three-story building on the southeast corner of Ogden avenue and Eleventh street, is expected to be closed within a few days between the Elks' club and a Minneapolis concern. Four corner lots were purchased for this purpose some time ago.

Resigns to Take Duluth Job.

ELECTED BY STATE BAR

J. D. Shearer of Minneapolis Is President of the Association.

S. T. Harrison of Duluth Chosen on Board of Governors.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officers were elected as follows today by the State Bar association:

President, James D. Shearer, Minneapolis; vice president, C. A. Severance, St. Paul; treasurer, R. A. Stone, St. Paul; secretary, Charles Farnham, St. Paul; board of governors, John Monnan, Waseca; H. L. Schmitt, St. Paul; Eli Southworth, Shakopee; Chester Caldwell, St. Paul; Dan Fish, Minneapolis; George W. Stewart, St. Cloud; C. A. Fossness, Montevideo; S. T. Harrison, Duluth; E. E. McDonald, Bemidji.

An effort to secure the indorsement of the association for an increase of pay for federal judges failed. An invitation from the American Bar association to join that body and send delegates to its coming meeting at Chattanooga, Tenn., was accepted after Justice Jaggard of the state supreme court, and Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis, had spoken in favor of the proposition.

Wants Big Duluth Meeting.

That the association is prosperous financially was shown by the report of Treasurer Stone, which said that there had been received during the last year $1,538.

The expenditures were $1,009, leaving a balance on hand of $583.

The report was greeted with applause and Rome Brown suggested, "Let us declare a dividend."

Before adjournment President French urged that the country members do what they can to increase the membership in an effort to make the Duluth meeting next year more largely attended.

STEADY ADVANCE IN COPPERS

Better Tone to the Market Throughout a Fairly Active Session.

The copper market advanced steadily from the opening on good buying, London was higher than yesterday and the effect was communicated to this side. Trading was entirely professional and narrow. Coppers were in better demand and sentiment was not so pessimistic. Professionals espoused the bull side. Stocks were scarce and the market was sensitive to the buying side.

John D. Ryan, president of Amalgamated, returned from Europe and denied the rumor of a proposed copper merger. He said he thought metal conditions will improve. Mr. Ryan talked several hundred more words but what he said was unimportant.

Toward the close coppers eased off slightly but held their strength well. The industrial market declined and Steel common closed below the opening. Railroads also were weak at the close on account of the strength in grains. Coppers alone preserved a strong position. This was due to unexpected support at the close even after professional sentiment had seemingly turned against the copper list and was beginning to take profits.

The curbs were strong today and most of the issues showed gains. Red Warrior sold at $2.31¼, $2.37½ and then at $2.50. This issue was one of the most active on the local board and was in strong demand. Butte-Ballaklava sold at $11.25 to $11.50. This property is shipping 135 tons of ore daily to the East Butte smelter. Mining is confined to the 800 and 900-foot levels. Cactus sold at $1.75, Denn at $2.75, Shattuck at $22.50, Amazon at $3, Calumet & Montana at 85c to 84c and back to the opening, Calumet & Corbin at 35c and 36c, Cliff at $1.31¼. This stock advanced on the favorable report which was mailed to stockholders this week. A. D. Thomson, president, said a dividend would be declared as soon as financial conditions warranted a distribution to shareholders. Keating sold at 95c and 94c, St. Mary's sold at 23c and North American at $3 and $3.12½.

Amalgamated sold at $61.75, $63.50 to $62.12½ and $62.37½; Butte-Ballaklava in the East at $11.37½ to $12, Butte Coalition at $19 to $19.25, Calumet & Arizona at $51 to $52.62½, Ojibway at $6, Giroux at $6.37½ to $6.62½, North Butte at $24.50 to $25.60 to $25, Greene at $7, $6.87½ and $7, and Superior & Pittsburg at $11.50 to $12.12½.

SPALDING HOTEL HAS NOT BEEN SOLD.

Edwin H. Lee, manager of the Spalding hotel, asked today if there was any foundation in truth for a rumor which gained general circulation, to the effect that negotiations for a transfer of ownership of the hotel had been perfected, said emphatically:

"There is nothing in it at all. No such negotiations have been carried on by the management of this hotel."

Mr. Lee was told that such a rumor has been intermittently in circulation for some time.

"Yes, I have heard of it, but it has nothing back of it."

EIGHT GOVERNORS AGREE TO ATTEND

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Acceptances from state governors of invitations to attend the National Conservation congress in St. Paul are coming in so slowly that Governor Eberhart has decided that it will be necessary to send out a complete second batch of invitations, stronger and more urgent than the originals.

Up to date eight governors have written definitely that they will attend the congress. They are Governors Deneen of Illinois, Stubbs of Kansas, Noel of Mississippi, Norris of Montana, Burke of North Dakota, Vessey of South Dakota, Hadley of Missouri and Draper of Massachusetts. Thirteen have written that they cannot say or that they probably will be unable to come, giving a number of reasons for their decisions. The rest of those who have replied to the invitations say definitely that other engagements will keep them away. Most of the governors have named delegates, although some of the state quotas of representatives have not yet been received.

Governor Eberhart announced this morning that as soon as possible he would supplement his first set of invitations, written personally, with another lot, which will go to all the governors of states and territories, and to the District of Columbia.

DEW DEFIES THE PRESS SLEUTHS

Says They Will Not Know His Movements With Crippen.

Quebec, Aug. 5.—The continued absence from Quebec of Inspector Dew added another minor element of mystery to the Crippen case today. It is thought that his wish to escape unwelcome attention is not of itself sufficient to account for his trip to Montreal and his further journey to Toronto and Niagara Falls, begun last night.

It is strongly suggested that his mission is to arrange to get his prisoners out of the country with less publicity than attended their arrival. If this purpose is to be accomplished the departure from this side must be made in secrecy.

"Nobody but those immediately concerned," Dew is quoted as saying, "will know upon what steamer we land or when we land on the other side."

This has been accepted by the newspaper men as something of a challenge, and so has aroused special interest in the inspector's immediate doings. It is supposed that he is now engaged in interviewing steamship and railroad officers to ascertain how the trip back to England may be accomplished in the most secret manner.

NEW CAMP OF WAR VETERANS

The organization of a new Spanish-American War Veterans' camp was effected last evening at a meeting in Memorial hall in the courthouse. The meeting was well attended, there being representatives present from several of the volunteer and regular regiments that served in the Spanish-American war.

The officers, elective and appointive, are as follows: Commander, C. G. Howard; senior vice commander, Don Carlos W. Musser; junior vice commander, John P. Burnett; adjutant, J. E. McGregor; quartermaster, F. G. Hanson; chaplain, Samuel A. Thomson; officer of the day, F. D. Knowlton; officer of the guard, C. F. Anderson; trustees, David D. Kreidler, J. E. McGregor and Alonzo Coons.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and the next meeting night was set for Aug. 25.

RAILROADS

NEW TIME CARD FOR M. & I. ROAD

It Will Become Effective Aug. 14, in Connection With Northern Pacific.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—An Aug. 14 a new time card will take effect on the Northern Pacific and Minnesota & International railways, which will provide that the Brainerd local, which now leaves St. Paul at 6:30 p. m., will leave at 7 p. m. and reach Brainerd at 12:10 in the morning. This train will carry the through cars for Minnesota & International points northbound.

No. 12, which now leaves Brainerd at 5:45 in the morning, will leave at 3:45, connecting with the Minnesota & International train from the north and reaching Minneapolis at 8 a. m., St. Paul at 8:30 a. m.

This change will be an improvement over the old service in that it will enable Brainerd passengers to reach the Twin Cities in time for breakfast and have a longer day there than under the present schedule, which puts them in at 10 or 10:30 in the morning, much too late for breakfast, and makes the day a short one.

The afternoon train for the Twin Cities will probably leave Brainerd ten minutes earlier than at present.

WABASH FREIGHT AGENT IN DULUTH.

H. G. Holden, assistant general freight agent of the Wabash, with headquarters at St. Louis, is in the city today. Arthur P. McCune, commercial agent of the same company, with headquarters at Minneapolis, is also here today.

Mr. Holden stated that freight business upon the railroads of the West and Southwest was improving, and while not as good at the present time as before the slight depression in business, the condition was improving, and there was also the promise of greater improvement.

Mr. Holden and Mr. McCuen are looking over the Head of the Lakes territory.

PATTERSON MEN LOSE AT POLLS

Independent Judiciary Ticket Is Elected in Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 5.—While Chairman Robertson of the regular state Democratic headquarters here has given out no statement today, the leaders of his (the Patterson) faction practically admit that the independent judiciary ticket has carried the state by 25,000 majority. Chairman Vertrees, in an unofficial statement this morning said he saw no reason for changing his forecast made several days ago of a majority of 40,000 in the state for the independents.

Shelby County Vote.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 5.—Complete returns from Shelby county, in yesterday's county and judicial elections, show that the regular Democrats returned a majority for three of their ticket for the superme court and a majority for the entire ticket for the court of civil appeals.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 5.—Figures from six-sevenths of the voting precincts in Oklahoma give Lee Cruce a lead of 16,139 over his nearest competitor for the Democratic nomination for governor. Meager returns have been received on the Republican ticket, but McNeal is leading, with Ferguson and Fields running a hard race.

W. B. Harrison, campaign manager for M. C. Garber, concedes the First district congressional nomination to Bird S. McGuire by 800 votes. Other estimates give McGuire 2,800. Garber is an insurgent.

W. H. Murray, one of the dfeated Democratic aspirants for governor, has issued a statement charging fraud. He says he will carry the matter to the supreme court.

EMULATES THE ARABS

W. G. Stewart "Folds His Tent and Silently Steals Away."

Leaves Inventor of Advertising Novelty "Holding the Bag."

W. G. Stewart, who has been promoting an advertising water wheel in the city, is characterized by his creditors as a second J. Rufus Willingford. It is claimed that he has collected hundreds of dollars in the city, and that he has departed for parts unknown.

Whether or not Stewart, who is 64 years of age, can be arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses is as yet undetermined by the authorities. The case has been laid before the police, but as yet no warrant has been issued for the arrest of Stewart.

A little over a month ago Stewart came into the city and announced that he was forming a stock company to put an advertising wheel on the market. To begin with he induced a butcher into paying the rent of his office. Then, on the strength of a bold front, a profusive flow of language and an alluring proposition, he borrowed money right and left. He even "touched" the janitor of the Palladio building, where he had his office, for $1.

The janitor is congratulating himself because his loss was not larger. Several young men in Duluth are out from $200 to $300 each, having invested their savings after listening to his story of doubled capital in a week or a month. In each instance he induced them to put their cash in a local bank subject to check, giving them his personal note for the amount in return. They were to enter the employ of the company, the contracts being so drawn that the only pay they were to receive for the early part of their services was experience. After they had learned something about the business they were to get a small salary, which would be increased from time to time. Now all of them state that they have paid dearly for their experience and that the next man who wants them to invest any hard-earned cash would be much safer if he would bring a policeman with him when he makes the proposition.

Jewell "Holds the Bag."

Stewart has left John Jewell, the inventor of the scheme, "holding the bag." Stewart has run a big number of bills in the city in the name of the company. They are pouring in upon Jewell in a veritable flood. Each mail brings half a dozen and whenever he is in the office there are constant callers who want to collect on debts contracted by Stewart in the name of the company, known at that time as the "Northern Engineering Finance company."

Firm in the belief that he has an invention worth millions of dollars Jewell is attempting to put the company on its feet. He declares that because of the rascality of Stewart he has been "put in a hole," but will now put the proposition upon a fair basis. He has continued the exhibition rooms in the Commercial building on Fourth avenue west, where the advertising wheel is on display.

The widow is placarded with signs telling of the worth of the company. One bears the declaration that "We want something more than wind. It's reality we are looking for and must certainly have it. People may be skeptical regards this statement, but such are not good citizens."

Another says, "Jewell, the inventor of this proposition, has been subject to many impositions. He has started the manufacturing of machines and will soon have a factory in Duluth."

A third informs the reader that the Jewell company has been incorporated under the state laws of Minnesota and has no connection with the Northern Engineering Finance company. Another sets forth the facts that the revenue will amount to over $20,000,000 a year. Another sets forth the statement that "It is honesty and truthfulness wanted in all undertakings. Otherwise it is impossible to expect any success. Fakes should be put out of existence."

O'CONNOR WANTS DAY AS CHAIRMAN

But Latter Says He Will Retire From Political Life.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. T. O'Connor is for Frank A. Day, despite reports to the contrary. It was supposed that the leader of St. Paul Democracy would oppose the reappointment of the chairman following the mixup at the state convention in Minneapolis last week.

"Nothing to it," says Mr. O'Connor, adding: "The retirement of Mr. Day to private life would be a big loss to the party. He is a hard worker, successful campaigner, and one of the best generals the state has produced. I should like to see him retained as chairman all the time."

Which statement should set at rest any supposition that there is a conflict between the city and the state leaders.

In spite of this Mr. Day will adhere to his original intention of retiring from politics. He repeated his statement this morning and declared Sept. 1 would mark his passing. The leading Democrats say that every effort will be made to retain Mr. Day, and following the statement made by Mr. O'Connor it seems evident that the committee, which will meet in ten days, will insist upon reappointing Mr. Day.

Still no word comes from the absent gubernatorial nominee. The Democrats are solacing themselves with the reflection that they know he did not say he will not reply to the committee's telegram.

PROFANITY AND RAGE EXPENSIVE

Joseph Tremyloff was fined $50 and costs or forty days in the county jail in police court this morning for assaulting Thomas Curtis in the Union station.

It appears that Tremyloff was using profane language and that Curtis called his attention to the fact that women and children were within hearing distance. Angered at the rebuke it seems that Curtis was given a hard beating, being sixty years of age and too weak to defend himself.

If your "big think" just now is about clothes, you'll find "thought food" in plenty in the ads.

Our First Anniversary Sale Starts Tomorrow

It's just a year tomorrow since we opened this store—a year marked each month by pleasant surprises as the patronage extended us by the Duluth public has been far beyond our expectations, and for which we are duly grateful. We thought this city would support a store dealing in ready-to-wear apparel for women, operated on a live and let live policy, and we guessed well, as many and many ladies have said to us in the past few months: "Mr. Friedman, I used to pay — — — $60 for the suit you sell for $45," or "I used to pay $42.50 for the suit you sell for $27.50." Duluth women used to pay well for their suits, coats, skirts, jackets, etc., but it's all changed now—the Friedman store is here to stay. We leave in a few days for the Eastern markets to complete our fall purchases—many orders were placed months ago with our own makers. Our stocks and prices this fall will win your continued patronage.

FOREIGNER AFTER WHEAT

France Buys Danubian Grain—Duluth Sells Durums Abroad.

Market Advances With Sharp Bulge at Close—Flax Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 5.—The advance in wheat values which started after the opening and was moderate in the early part of the day was accelerated toward the close by reports from France that that country was buying Danubian wheat in Austria. Further strength was derived from reports from Winnipeg which said the foreigner was buying wheat in that market. The Winnipeg market was exceptionally strong. The foreigner's activity in the Duluth market was confined to the purchase of durums.

September wheat advanced 1⅞c, December 2c and May 2c.

Flax was strong although trading was light. September advanced 6c, October 4c, November 4c and December 4c.

Cash wheat closed 5c over September. The closing cash price here was on a parity with the Minneapolis close. Durum gained 2c, oats ⅝c, and rye and barley were unchanged.

The strong foreign situation and the bullish attitude of professionals caused values to advance today. News from Argentine was distinctly unfavorable and contributed to the upturn. News from France was bullish and the strength of the Paris market was due to unsettled weather and further damage claims. There is a large shortage in the French crops and reserves are small. It is likely that France will be forced to buy American red winter wheat the coming season. France has been a consistent bidder lately for Pacific coast wheat. The holding attitude in Argentina and the strong future markets caused cash wheat to advance at Antwerp. Berlin was higher on a good demand and light stocks. Outside offerings, said a cable, were light.

The first new spring wheat to arrive in this market is due tomorrow. It will come from the Dalrymple farm near Casselton, N. D. It tested sixty-one pounds. Where 13 bu to the acre was expected the yield was 14 bu and where 11 bu was expected the returns were 12 bu. The cash market here was weak in the forenoon but cash prices firmed during the day. The premium was weaker, being 5c over No. 1 northern compared with 6c yesterday. The demand for spring wheat at Minneapolis was good and offerings were scarce. About a dozen cars of new wheat were received by Minneapolis today. Premiums there were stronger, being 6@7½c over No. 1 northern. Millers bought December wheat. Receipts of wheat here showed a falling off. There was practically no demand for offerings and the cash market was extremely dull.

There was a better export inquiry at seaboard although no business was done. Baltimore reported that that market was on an export basis with Antwerp but that no favorable answers had been received to offers. The market at Winnipeg was strong as there were showers throughout the three provinces and showery weather may prevail in the near future. In the three Northwestern states the temperatures were cool and the skies generally clear. The weather is extremely favorable to cutting and thrashing, which are general. The yields appear to be larger than were expected a few weeks ago. The quality of the new wheat is higher than was expected. South Dakota seems to be an exception, many stations reporting considerable wheat that will grade at least as low as No. 3.

The total world's crop of wheat is estimated at about 3,000,000,000 bu, considerably below last year. On this basis some people think foreign spot markets will be stronger and will retain their strength throughout the year. These people predict higher prices and think that when the readjustment of values has been completed the world's market will be established on a higher plane. While some primary markets in this country will have heavy supplies by the middle of this month, the stores are not expected to be burdensome and a decrease at these markets is looked for later in the month. The congestion of futures is made less probable by liberal stocks. There does not appear to be any reason to believe that stocks in the Southwest and at Chicago will not be plentiful for several months to come. The situation is somewhat different in the Northwest and will depend on the final yield of the spring wheat crop, the milling demand and the rapidity or hesitation with which farmers send their stuff to market.

Oats held considerable strength today. Covering by shorts in the Chicago pit and the strength in corn seemed to be the basis of the advance, said a wire from Chicago.

Flax firmed toward the close although trading was slow. The cool temperatures are making some people apprehensive of probable early frosts to which the flax plant is particularly susceptible. Interest is centered in the new crop options which displayed considerable strength, chiefly because offers were scarce. Crushers are buying a little seed for August and September delivery before the new crop begins to move. The interest of the crusher in the new crop options is neglible on account of the light demand for oil.

Receipts of flax in this market nave been moderately good, considering the light supplies in the country. Receipts are under those of last year, up to this time. Stores are more than 300,000 bu under the supplies at the Head of the Lakes at this time last year. Recent shipments by the leading longs in the July flax deal caused a sharp decrease in stocks in the last few days. This interest controls most of the flax now in store here.

Estimates of the flax crop are between 15,000,000 bu and 18,000,000 bu, although it is too early to form a fairly accurate estimate.

MARKET GOSSIP

Snow's Illinois reports, and his correspondents cover the state thoroughly, do not indicate as large a yield as those of Secretary Strong of the Illinois Grain Dealers' association. Snow's figures suggest an average yield of about 17 bu to the acre, while the others are equal to over 20 bu to the acre.

* * *

Estimates of what the government August figures will show on corn vary but there appears to be quite a disposition to look for an indicated yield of about 3,000,000,000 bu. Snow estimates that the outturn suggested will be above toat figure. The trade is inclined to believe that the reported corn crop disaster in Southern Kansas and Oklahoma may be ignored largely owing to the excellent prospects elsewhere.

"In barley a favorable situation for the seller is developing," said Somers-Jones of Chicago. "The crop is generally so good and dry in quality that buyers already think it fit to store. Average crops of barley for several years have been short of requirements, and maltsters are entirely willing to take hold early in order to secure needed supplies. It points strongly to well held or higher values from now on for any barley fit for malting purposes.

The French wheat crop is now semi-officially estimated at 287,000,000 bu; against 360,000,000 bu last year; a decrease of 73,000,000 bu or 26 per cent. The worlds wheat crop is estimated at 3,000,000,000 bu against 3,350,000,000 bu last year, and an average crop of 3,200,000,000 bu for the past four years. In connection with the above estimate King of Toledo said: "If this estimate is true, the cash position abroad this season will probably be strong. Consumption is now so great that a total production of less than 3,000,000,000 bu threatens a pinch of supplies at the end of the season."

Broomhall cabled: Wheat at the start was quiet with an easier undertone being influenced by lower American cables and ¼@⅜d lower. Following the opening the market showed some support and prices recovered the decline. Reports are received here of unsettled weather in France and continued bidding by the continent and dearer Danubian offers. Toward midday, however, dullness carried prices again loger. Argentine shipments for the week are larger than expected, cargoes on passage and off-coast 18c, and talk of heavy Danubian shipments this week served to check the advance. At midday the market was dull, ⅛d higher to ⅜d lower than yesterday.

Corn was unchanged with a steady undertone, due to the dearer Plate parcels and the firmness in American grade of spot here. Australian shipments for the week, 768,000 bu against 592,000 last week and 208,000 last year. India shipments for the week, 1,752,000 bu against 2,232,000 last week and 1,584,000 last year. Broomhall predicts the shipments next week at 1,280,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bearish Sentiment and Sales Control Wheat Trading.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Some of the larger commission houses took a decidedly bearish stand on the wheat market today and were backed by elevator people who appeared to have a supply for sale on all bulges. Larger shipments from Argentina than were expected and talk of heavy consignments from the Danube were indirect sources of sentiment unfavorable to the bulls. A number of the local professional traders were fighting on the buying side but today unlike yesterday seemed to be without support from the Northwest. Indifference on the part of millers was cited as an argument for lower prices, and so was the free movement from first hands. The market opened unchanged to ⅛c off with September at $1.02⅛@1.02⅜, a loss of ⅛@⅜c. Following came a decline to $1.01⅞.

Buying based on reports of export business in durum at Duluth led to a sharp advance. There was also news that excessive rains had inflicted fresh damage to the crop in France. The close was firm with September at $1.03⅞ to $1.04, a net gain of 1⅜ to 1⅝c.

A moderate amount of short selling overcame initial tendency to firmness in corn. September started ⅛c up at 62¾c, touched 62⅞c and fell to 62½c. Covering by pit traders who oversold on the dip brought about a rally. The close was firm with September ⅝c up at 63¼c.

Business in oats was light and most local. The opening figures for September were a shade higher at 37c, and improved another sixteetnh. Then there was a reaction to 36¾@36⅞c.

Provision trade was chiefly in lard, which was being sold by one of the packers. Quotations eased off somewhat after opening 5c lower to a shade higher. First sales of the September option were at $21.47½ for pork, $11.60 @11.62½ for lard, and $11.45 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 5.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 1@12 points, in response to weak cables and further showers in North Texas and Oklahoma. Liquidation was not urgent, however, and on a renewal of bull support, in conjunction with covering, prices rallied 8@10 points within a few minutes. Local opinion was that Texas showers thus far had been insufficient to check deterioration. Later August was bid up sharply and other months followed to within 3@4 points of last night's closing.

Spot closed quiet, 15 points higher; middling uplands, 15.60; middling gulf, 15.85. Sales, 2,915 bales. Futures closed steady. # DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Market Has Early Advance But Gains Are Wiped Out Later.

Attempt to Take Profits Causes Decline in the Final Hour.

New York, Aug. 5.—Opening dealings in stocks today were hardly more than nominal, but prices showed some sharp gains over last night's closing. Union Pacific rose a point and Southern Pacific, Kansas & Texas, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago Great Western preferred and United States Steel large fractions.

The market did not yield much when profit-taking sales began and room traders began to bid up prices vigorously. Reading, Union Pacific, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper were bought liberally, and advances established of a point or more in many stocks. American Sugar improved 2 points, Delaware & Hudson 1⅝, Union Pacific 1½, Reading 1⅜, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Great Northern nore certificates, and American Beet Sugar 1¼, and St. Paul, Chicago-Great Western, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 1.

Speculative confidence was engendered by the belief that weak accounts had been removed by improving crop prospects and by the easing money market. The gains in Union Pacific, Reading, American Smelting and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie reached 2, Western Union 3½, Westinghouse Electric 2¾, Amalgamated Copper, 1⅝; Denver & Rio Grande preferred and United States Steel 1½ and Chesapeake & Ohio, Kansas & Texas, Missouri Pacific and Republic Steel 1¼. Iowa Central preferred declined 1⅜ and American Steel Foundry 1. Bonds were firm.

After a long period of dullness and some reactions the market advanced again with some of the railroad stocks selling higher than in the forenoon. Chicago-Great Western preferred improved 2 points and Atchison, American Cotton Oil and General Electric 1¼.

The market closed weak and dull. The attempt to take the day's profits involved a sharp decline in the final hour and the market was restricted to the professional party. Previous gains were reduced to fractions or wiped out. Pressed Steel Car preferred advanced 3⅜, aL Clede Gas 2 and American Locomotive 1¼.

REPORTS FOR NEW LIABILITY LAW

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Compulsory employers' liability is contemplated in a revision of the Illinois laws covering workmen's accidents proposed by the Illinois Employers' Liability commission as shown in its tentative report, issued today. After a series of public hearings, the report announces that a bill will be drafted and submitted to the governor calling for radical changes. Employers will be held liable in all cases unless the employe's negligence be greater than that of the employer, regardless of the previous "fellow servant" rule, the assumption of risk or contributory negligence of the employe.

Provides Death Penalties.

Death penalties of $1,500 to $5,000 are provided in the plan, and temporary disability pensions of 50 per cent of the workman's salary. Claims would be preferred under the law just as wage claims now are presented, but disputes may be settled by arbitration. All employers of more than five persons will be made subject to the law in the bill.

The final report, containing the draft of the bill, will be submitted Sept. 15. The commission was appointed by Governor Deeneen in accordance with an act of the last session of the legislature.

GIRL SHIELDS THE MAN WHO SHOT HER.

Lockport, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Afraid to tell her parents that she had been shot, Ruth Richards, 18 years old, daughter of a farmer at Warren Corners, crawled home and up to her room last night, after being shot in the mouth and through the left lung by Frank Ranney of Buffalo, her fiance. The two went riding and Ranney says he accused the girl of favoring his rival. They quarreled and the shooting followed. Ranney gave himself up. The girl may not recover.

Why does not Mr. N. F. Hugo or Thomas Furniss, one of the general manager and the other the secretary of the Butte Alex-Scott company issue to the stockholders a report of the conditions of the mine. Is it because they do not have time to do this? I think it is pretty near time for the people who are interested to find out a thing or two. They have been hoisting ore right along from the 1,400 and 1,600-foot levels, and cars have been shipped to smelters. They can ship a lot of ore from the Scott mine and put a lot of money into the Scott treasury.. We understand these are their intentions, but what one of the outside stockholders has been informed directly from the management what they intend to do?
About 45 men are employed and big deposits of ore are being opened up, but nothing is being heard from those at the head of the company.

STEEL STRUCTURAL WORK WILL BE BEGUN WITHIN THREE WEEKS

Real Progress Is Being Made on Duluth's Steel Plant.

Foundation for Machine Shops Is Rapidly Nearing Completion.

Bridge Across St. Louis Will Soon Be Ready for Trains.

Within three weeks steel will reach the site of the new plant of the Minnesota Stee company, the subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, and with the steel will come the men who are to make a whirl-wind start on the construction of what eventually will be one of the greatest plants of its kind in the country.

All the work that has been done on the site in the months that have passed since operations began, has been of an essentially preparatory nature. When the steel comes, a new phase of construction will have been reached and the progress which will be made after that time will be strikingly in contrast with the comparative leisureliness that has characterized the work so far.

In less than a year, the Minnesota Steel company should be making steel at New Duluth. Undoubtedly the work has lagged somewhat, but when it is impossible to get structural steel for the erection of the buildings needed, there has been no pressing necessity for high-pressure progress. However, now that the preparatory operations

HOODOO HAUNTS ENGLISH CRAFT

Submarine in Which Eleven Died Is Scene of New Disaster.

Portsmouth, Eng., Aug. 6.—Two officers and five men were dangerously injured today by an explosion of petrol on the navy submarine A. 1. So great was the force of the explosion taht the coxswain was blown completely out of the conning tower and fell into the sea.

The A. 1 seems ill-fated, being the same boat which was sunk in collision off Portsmouth early in its career, all aboard being drowned.

The A. 1, a single screw submersible boat of the modified Holland type, is 100 feet in length and 12 feet 8 inches beam. She has a displacement of 180 tons. She was sunk off Nob Lightship on March 18, 1904, and her crew of eleven drowned. Later she was raised and the bodies of the officers and men recovered.

TWO AMERICANS FALL OVER CLIFF IN MOTOR.

Innsbryck, Austria, Aug. 6.—An automobile in which a woman, whose name is given as Mrs. Rivers of New York and her son were riding, was driven over a precipice on a carriage road near Nasserett, in the Austrian Tyrol. The driver was killed. Mrs. Rivers was seriously and her son slightly injured.

TAFT MEETS ANOTHER PRESIDENT

PEDRO MONTT,
President of Chile.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 6.—President Taft today entertained President Pedro Montt of Chile as a luncheon guest. President Montt is on his way to Europe, but stopped in this country to pay his respects to the head of the largest of the American republics. On landing at New York he was welcomed in behalf of the United States government by Assistant Secretary of State Chandler Hale.

GIRL TELLS OF MURDER

Witness of Chicago Dentist's Death Says He Knew Slayer.

Describes Crime as She Saw It From Her Window.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—An eye-witness to the murder of Dr. W. F. Michaelis appeared before the police today in the person of Elizabeth Breden, a 17-year-old girl. She said the dentist seemed to know his assailant.

Miss Breden told how, looking from her bedroom window before retiring, she saw Dr. Michaelis, with whose appearance she was familiar, talk in a low voice with a stranger last night.

"Soon," she said, "the stranger, a short man, drew a revolver and raised it slowly to the doctor's face. To me it seemed as if the doctor did not see the weapon. If he did, he made no effort to disarm the other. Then the latter shot.

Staggered Across Street.

"The doctor fell, but arose and staggered across the street and fell. I was terribly frightened, but in a minute or more I leaned out of the window and saw the doctor had raised himself to a sitting position.

"I think Dr. Michaelis knew the other man. They met under my window after approaching from opposite directions. Their talk lasted about four minutes."

Neighbors have told conflicting

ALASKA FIELDS MOST VALUABLE

Geological Survey Says Coal Deposits Exceed Those in the East.

Washington, Aug. 6. — "Accessible coal of the best Alaskan fields—even at a half cent a ton in ground—is worth more than most of the coal lands in the Eastern states, notwithstanding their nearness to lines of transportation and to market."

This statement is contained in a bulletin issued by the geological survey today, under direction of George Otis Smith.

During the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation, A. H. Brooks of the geological survey, testified that the accessible coal in the Bering river and Matamuska was worth half a cent a ton in the ground. This small figure created the impression in the minds of many people that the Alaskan coal lands were of small value. The bulletin just issued says that, priced at the rate named by Mr. Brooks, the best Alaska coal lands are worth from $50 to $500 an acre, values far above the average price of bituminous coal lands in the United States.

NAVAL MANEUVERS AS THE MAIN FEATURE OF PROPOSED CARNIVAL

Duluth Has Chance to Bring Great Lakes Squadron Here.

Plan to Combine Maneuvers With Regatta and Venetian Fete.

Duluth has the opportunity of being advertised from New York to San Francisco and from New Orleans to Winnipeg, and of holding a unique entertainment that will be the talk of the tourists of America, at no expense to the city, unless is it the nominal one of a few prizes, which the business firms of the city would be only too willing to donate.

The plan was suggested to The Herald by a well known professional man of the city yesterday. In a nutshell, he said: "Why not go after the naval maneuvers of the Great Lakes squadron for 1911, and in connection with them, hold the Venetian fete of the Boat club, the annual regatta of the rowing association, which has already been secured for next year, a motor boat regatta, and a sailing regatta? Make a week's water carnival of it; work up a real carnival spirit; and advertise this city as the greatest home of summer sport in America. The beauty of the plan is its simplicity and

HUNGRY MOUSE MAKES TROUBLE

Eats Date Off Marriage Certificate---Widow Nearly Loses Pension.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 6.—A mouse might have been the cause of the loss to Barbary Dennis of Grand Island, Neb., of a government pension as an old soldier's widow. Today she wrote the clerk of the county court here: "I've been married since 1862, but can't prove it. A mouse ate the date out of my certificate." She was furnished a certified copy.

HOUSTON'S POPULATION HAS ALMOST DOUBLED

Washington, Aug. 6.—Houston, Tex., has a population of 78,800, according to figures enumerated for the thirteenth census, made public today by Director Duran of the census bureau. This is an increase of 34,167 or 76.6 per cent over the population in 1900, which was 44,633.

THINK THUGS KILLED RICE

Police Evolve Clew to Murder of Rich Cleveland Lawyer.

Caretaker of Home Tells of Attempt to Dynamite the Place.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 6.—After examining the Rice family coachman, Chief of Police Kohler announces that the robbery theory in connection with the murder of Attorney W. L. Rice has been abandoned. A second employe of the Rice estate is now being examined.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 6—County officials and the police of Euclid Heights village today are working on the theory that William A. Rice, the wealthy attorney, who was found dead in the street near his palatial home last night with two bullet wounds over his right eye, was the victim of robbers who were frightened away before they had a chance to rifle the clothes of their victim. Two foreigners were seen within a half block of the scene shortly before the murder.

The supposition is that the robbers were frightened away by an automobile carrying Drs. W. H. Phillips and L. H. Gerge and their wives. The automobile picked Rice up, but he died on the way to the hospital.

No Known Enemies.

Rice was not known to have any enemies, though T. C. Castcock, caretaker of the Euclid Heights home, told the police that some time ago dynamite was discovered under the porch of the Rice mansion.

Rice's law partners will search his private papers in hopes of discovering a clew.

The news of the murder was conveyed to Mrs. Rice and her four daughters, who are spending the summer at Weona, Mass.

ROADS CONGRESS ENDS SESSIONS

American Delegates at Brussels Say They Learned Something.

Brussels, Aug. 6.—The international road conference which opened its sessions here July 31, finished its work today and adjourned. The American delegates say that the great lesson of the congress for America is the showing of the absolute necessity for the introduction of a uniform system of road building in the United States. Joseph W. Jones of New York, one of the representatives of the Automobile Touring Club of America, said that chaos is bound to prevail so ong as the idea that local engineers should have full control of road building in America.

The American representatives believe that the American roads, especially in the South, are too wide and lack the requisite depth of foundation. The idea that it is cheaper to keep them in repair than to rebuild them entirely also prevails.

The Americans favor an American road congress, to meet annually.

LIND WILL ACCEPT OR NOT REFUSE TO LET NAME BE USED

Two Letters Are Received From His Son at Everett, Wash.

Denies That He or His Father Gave Out Any Interviews.

Portland Man Who Talked With Lind Sure He Will Accept.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Lind will accept the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Or, at least, he will not refuse the state central committee the right to put his name on the ticket.

It seems safe to make these statements, following the receipt of two letters from Norman Lind of Everett, Wash., son of John Lind.

One of these letters was received by Frank A. Day on Wednesday, and was the basis for the statement that Mr. Lind had given out no statement of refusal before sailing for Alaska, In his letter Norman Lind says:

"None of the messages with reference to the action of the Democratic state convention were given to my father during his stay at Everett and Seattle. They were all handed to him as he was boarding the steamer Humboldt for his Alaskan trip."

Gave No Interviews.

Another important statement in Norman Lind's letter referred to the interviews purporting to have been given out by Mr. Lind. He says no interview on the subject of the nomination was given out by either Mr. Lind or himself after the meeting of the convention.

On this basis it is taken for granted by the local Democrats that the reports from the West were founded upon statements made before the convention acted, or were deductions from some word dropped by a friend of Mr. Lind's.

A letter was received today from a Minnesota man in Portland, who entertained John Lind during his stay in Oregon. This writer says that he is sure Mr. Lind will accept the nomination. His statement is the result of many interviews with Mr. Lind during the two or three days immediately preceding the meeting of the Minnesota convention.

Sure Lind Will Accept.

In his letter he does not qualify his remark, but says:

"I am convinced that Mr. Lind will accept the nomination."

The letter was written a couple of days after the meeting of the convention and, of course, after John Lind left Portland for Everett. But as the statement makes no mention of a platform there is no reason to believe that the writer can have made a mistake, nor is there anything to indicate that he would purposely misrepresent conditions.

Mr. Day still refuses to give out the Norman Lind letter, but he gives no explanation of his refusal. He admits that the letter was received, and it is likely that it will be published in full in a day or two.

United States Senator From Kansas.

ARMY MAY FIGHT FIRE

Request Is Made for Use of Troops in Montana and Idaho.

Year Likely to Be One of Record Disaster to Forests.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Request has been made for troops to protect national forests in Montana and Idaho from fires and to assist in extinguishing the flames.

Gen. Wood, chief of staff army, has applied to President Taft for an order authorizing the use of soldiers for this purpose.

The current year threatens to be one of the most disastrous to the national forests from fires in the history of the country because of the drouth conditions in the West. Officials of the forest service are perturbed over the situation and have decided to adopt energetic measures.

May Incur Deficiency.

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, who is in the West on a tour of inspection, has expressed a willingness, according to reports, to incur a deficiency, if necessary, in the appropriation made by congress to fight the fires this year.

The danger is especially acute in Western Montana and Northern Idaho. District Forester Greeley at Missoula, in a report, says forty large fires in the reserves in that territory have been brought under control, but that ten to fifteen still are burning. The conditions this year do not arise oftener than once in every period of ten or fifteen years.

GUARDS GIVE TO STRIKERS' FUND.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 6.—The Second regiment, Ohio National Guard, Col. E. S. Bryant of Bloomdale, Ohio, commanding, will give the striking street car employes of Columbus a money donation.

Col. Bryant said today that the Second intended to try to outdo the Sixth regiment soldiers and Toledo militiamen, who Friday gave the strikers $500 in cash.

MAKING 'EM DANCE.

12,000 MEN MAIMED IN MINNESOTA EVERY YEAR

Half of State's Industrial Accidents Preventable, Says McEwen.

Factory Inspector Will Begin Tour of Duluth Shops, Monday.

Labor Commissioner William E. McEwen has inauguarated a campaign of education that has for its object the minimizing of industrial accidents, and one that is calculated to maintain the Minnesota labor bureau in its position of leadership among the states of the union.

Commissioner McEwen hopes that the work which is being done by his staff in this direction will result in the establishment by the state of a museum of sanitation and safety, where employers and employes may learn how to avoid preventable accidents and keep posted on the progress that is continually being made in this line of effort and invention.

While the same work is being carried on in St. Paul and Minneapolis, Factory Inspector Harvey on Monday

PRINCE WILL NOT MARRY SISTER

King Chulalongkorn of Siam Has Trouble With the Boy.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 6.—The crown prince of Siam is adding gray hairs to the head of his royal father, King Chulalongkorn, by defying the traditions of a long ancestral line in refusing to marry his sister.

According to Rev. William C. Dodd, a Presbyterian missionary, who arrived here yesterday, all Siam is agog over the prince's announcement. From time immemorial, the missionary says, it has been the Siamese custom for the crown prince to wed his sister, or if he has none, then a half-sister, the daughter of one of his father's numerous wives. The present crown prince has asserted his independence by publicly declaring he intends to have only one wife and that one of his own choosing.

Banks Want Postal Funds.

Washington, Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First State Bank of Mountain Lake and the State Bank of Hopkins, Minn., today filed applications to be designated as depositories of postal savings bank funds.

Asks Railroad Aid.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 6.—Governor Norris has sent telegrams to the presidents of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Milwaukee railroads appealing for assistance to fight the forest fires in Western and Northwestern Montana.

Choctaw Tells of Proposal to Pay Him $25,000 in Land Deal.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 6.—New bribery charges mingled with denials of accusations already made, to add still more to the tangled mass of contradictions that is growing out of the statements of United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, before the congressional committee in session here, that he had been told by Jake Hamon that Vice President Sherman was "interested" in the sale of lands belonging to Indians, in which a bill for the allowing of $3,000,000 "attorney's fee" was presented to the last congress.

J. F. McMurray was the man today accused of offering a bribe. The denials were begun by United States Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, who shielded the vice president as well as himself in his testimony.

D. C. McCurtain, a Choctaw Indian, governor of the Choctaw nation and an attorney for that tribe, testified that J. F. McMurray had offered him $25,000 not to approve the land deal.

Curtis On the Stand.

Not only United States Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas but also Vice President Sherman disapproved of the contracts whereby an "attorney's fee" of $3,000,000 was to be allowed in the sale

PARK POINTERS FEEL THEY HAVE GRIEVANCE

Protests Will Be Made Against Closing the Radisson School.

Board Members Convinced It Is Wisest Move to Make.

Park Pointers in the neighborhood of the Radisson school still seem to feel that they have a grievance against the board of education for the step taken at its last meeting, when it was decided to close the Radisson building.

It is understood that a number of the residents will appear this evening at the high school, when the annual meeting will be held, and make a formal complaint.

Members of the board cannot understand why the Park Pointers should have any complaint when, they claim, they are doing everything in their judgment to improve the school service, and give the pupils the best care possible.

But with the two parties misunderstanding each other, there may be a warm debate at the meeting this evening.

The board of education decided to abolish the Radisson school upon a recommendation made by the committee on schools, which made a thorough investigation of the school. It was stated by the members of the board, that this school, which is a two-room, frame building, is entirely inadequate for the best service to the children. There are stoves placed in the middle of the room, which give poor heat. It is claimed that no stove can give satisfactory heat. The pupils sitting near the stove are over heated, while those near the windows are freezing during cold weather.

It is impossible at this time to erect a new school, first because there are not the funds, they claim, and furthermore, because there is not a demand for a larger school. The enrollment at the Radisson school during the last year was 55, of whom only 51 pupils were entitled to apportionment, under the state laws. These few pupils, the members say, are not to be entitled to a large school, with a teacher for every grade, or even for every two grades. It is also claimed that the ground upon which the Radisson school now stands, does not belong to the board, but is park property, and the board of park commissioners would have a right to demand the removal of the building at any time.

It is proposed to have the pupils taken to the Whittier school, which is located at Twelfth street, only eighteen blocks from the Radisson. The board will furnish all the pupils with car fare to this school, and in this way all will be well taken care of.

During the past year the enrollment of the Whittier school was only 146, of whom 137 were entitled to apportionment. This building is a modern five-room, brick building, each room having accommodations for 45 pupils. With the present enrollment, each room had only about 29 pupils. With the addition of the 55 pupils from the Radisson school, the Whittier will be used almost to its capacity. It is believed that the Park Pointers will find it to the advantage of their children to have them go to the Whittier, as they will be better graded, and have instruction from older and more competent teachers.

But the Park Pointers feel that if their children are compelled to go long distances to school, they will suffer from the extreme cold of the winter. In regard to the payment of fares by the board, they seem to be of the opinion that the board will be willing to do so for a year or two, but after that time there will be a change in the affairs whereby the parents will have to stand the burden of the expenses.

It is probable that some understanding will be arrived at this evening, and the matter amicably settled.

The old board will assemble at the usual hour this evening, when old business will be disposed of, after which an adjournment will be taken. Following this the new board will meet, officers will be elected and committees for the ensuing year appointed.

The business will be purely of a routine nature. The committee on schools and grounds will report on its progress in regard to the purchase of the lots at Fortieth avenue west and Ninth street, upon which site a new building will be erected in the near future, when funds are available.

PROSPECTUS IS ISSUED

National Power & Paper Company Has Plans for Big Industry.

The National Power & Paper company of this city has just issued an interesting prospectus which illustrates the conditions surrounding the power and paper plant that the company is now constructing on the Poplar river, in Lake county, and covers in a comprehensive manner the details surrounding the enterprise. The advantages that the company will have in the manufacture of paper at the power site it controls are exceptionally good. Cheap water power, fuel, and the low cost of pulpwood, practically at the door of the mill will, it is claimed, add greatly to the profit of the plant, even though the finished product were selling for less than at the present time. The mill and power plant will be located right in the timber section from which the supplies will be drawn.

It is figured that the lesser cost of operation and of raw product for the mill will mean a difference of at least $9 per ton profit to the company on the finished product, based on present selling prices.

Provision has been made in the plans for additions to the power and paper plants.

The company will have its own townsite, stores, sawmill, cedar yard, sawmill dock and railroad.

It is claimed that the earnings of a plant proposed will be large and that the dividend on the stock to be issued will be a handsome profit, compared with the amount and value of the assets. The directorate of the company comprises conservative business men, two of whom are bankers.

The staff of engineers and the superintendent have been selected and the company intends to rush the construction work as fast as possible consistent with good business judgment.

The prospectus is well written and has a convincing tone to its arguments on the advantages for investors that may take up the proposition. It also shows that the matter has been thoroughly investigated by men who are familiar with the conditions which go to make up a successful power and paper plant.

THREE MUST STAND TRIAL

Inspectors Will Probe Sinking of the Steamer Goodyear.

Two Captains and First Officer of Wood Are Held.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 6.—Three men must stand trial before the local inspectors of steam vessels in this city, in the government's effort to place responsibility for the frightful tragedy of May 23 last, when the steamer Frank H. Goodyear was sunk in collision with the steamer James B. Wood, with a loss of eighteen lives.

The licensed officers against whom charges have been preferred are Capt. Russell F. Hemenger, master of the Goodyear, and one of the few survivo rs ofthe wreck; Capt. T. D. Gibson, master of the Wood, and D. McLaughlin, first officer of the Wood.

Trial Set for August 16.

They have been notified to appear for trial before Capt. Willis W. Stewart and Frank Van Liew, local inspectors, at 10 o'clock the forenoon of Aug. 16. Capt. Hemenger and Capt. Gibson are charged with the violation of rules 2, 5, and 15 of the rules, while the first officer of the boat must defend a charge of violating rule 15.

Rule 2 relates to giving danger signals and slacking speed when vessels are approaching each other at close quarters and the pilot of either fails to understand the course or intention of the other.

Rule 5 provides for the nature of the signal and the method of passing by vessels meeting "head and head" or on courses to the starboard of each other.

Rule 15 reads as follows:

"Every steam vessel shall in thick weather, by reason of fog, mist, falling snow, heavy rain storms or other causes, go at moderate speed. A steam vessel hearing, apparently at not more than four points from right ahead, the fog signal of another vessel, shall at once reduce her speed to bare steerageway, and navigate with caution until the vessels shall have passed each other."

Collision Was in Fog.

The collision between the Wood and the Goodyear is reported to have taken place in a dense fog about 6 o'clock in the morning, when the Goodyear, bound down, and the Wood on her way up light, was about thirty-five miles north of Pointe Au Barques, Lake Huron. Vesselmen at the time expressed considerable surprise that an accident of such a nature could be possible if both vessels were observing customary precautions. The first officer of the Goodyear, August Zaetch, Algonac, Mich., was one of those lost.

The local inspectors in this city have had the matter in their hands ever since a few days after the wreck. They were directed by Capt. C. H. Westcott, supervising inspector of steam vessels for the Eighth district, to make as careful and thorough an investigation as possible and place responsibility for the wreck on the person or persons at fault, regardless of who, he or they might be.

Testimony at Last Taken.

Inability of the local inspectors to secure statements from Capt. William McElroy, master of the steamer Sir William Siemens and his crew caused most of the delay in reaching a finding. This testimony taken in Cleveland last week, will be presented at the trial of the men under charges. The Siemans, with a barge in tow, passed up, over the spot where the collision took place, a few minutes after the Goodyear sank and the testimony of those on board was regarded as having an important bearing on the investigation.

Since the sinking of the Goodyear Frank H. Bassett, Algonac, her assistant steward, and one of the survivors, lost his wife and child in the wreck, has lost his own life. He was killed a few days ago by electric shock while fixing the trolley on a suburban car on the Mount Clemens line.

ORE BOATS KEPT BUSY

Shipments for Past Week Exceed Those of Last Year.

Season to Date Shows a Big Increase Over 1909.

For the week ending today, the ore figures of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad show the total of 283,900 tons. Added to the figures for the present season prior to the week ending today, the total ore shipped to date from the docks of the Duluth & Iron Range amounts to 4,388,058 tons.

Up to the 1st of August last year the total figures of the Duluth & Iron Range amounted to 3,436,451 tons, so that, leaving out of question the fact that the first week of August is not included in the figures of last season, it will be seen that the Duluth & Iron Range road has shipped more ore the present season to date than was shipped from the docks of the road during the fore part of last season.

The figures of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern also show an increase for the present season to date over a corresponding period of last year.

During the past week of the present season, 521,057 tons of ore were shipped from the docks of the Missabe. This is against 481,235 tons of a corresponding week of last year. The month to date for the present year shows the same total as the present week, as the past week is all of the month to date. The month to date of 1909 showed a total of 483,298 tons.

To date for the present season 7,962,545 tons of ore have been shipped down the lakes from the docks of the Missabe. This is a material increase over the tonnage shipped down the lakes during the same period of 1909, when 5,917,433 tons represented the total.

The figures of the two Duluth roads show that the present season is busier than the average man would infer, from the talk of a quiet season on the Great Lakes.

Yet despite the fact that the records of the Missabe and the Duluth & Iron Range roads show a heavy increase of ore shipments, the independent line boat officials state that practically all of this ore is being hauled by the regular line vessels, and that the independents are getting very few ore cargoes.

HOPEFUL TONE TO COPPER MARKET

Investors Seem to Be Gaining Confidence in Stocks Again.

The copper market opened firm and after a period of irregularity, values marched steadily forward. While much of the early trading was in the nature of "evening up," yet toward the close moderate buying developed and values closed at the high levels of the day.

London was higher and the effect was noticeable on this side at the opening. There was some outside buying, also, which gave the professionals courage to operate with more confidence in future values. Values measure up to prevailing conditions, according to some people, while others think the market discounts probable future adversity. There is less unloading of stocks on the declines and the market seems to have a better technical position. Whatever are the factors which are exerting the most strength, the situation has developed into one of hopefulness.

The red metal market this week had a better tone. The demand was stimulated by evidence of a curtailment in the output. The buying power is only for immediate requirements and there is still a hesitancy about stocking up for future consumption. The attitude of the consumer appears due to a decline in the demand for finished products and the menace of the large surplus which acts as brake on metal values.

The local market displayed considerable strength, the specialties acting unusually well. Trading was light as there apeared to be willingness on the part of both professionals and people with stock to sell and prospective buyers to wait until the beginning of next week. Saturday is generally a dull day on account of the short session and the holiday. Butte Alex-Scott, part paid, sold at $4 and the full paid at $7. The undertone was slightly weak. Butte-Ballaklava was stronger at $12; Calumet & Arizona sold at $52, later advancing to $54 in the East; Red Warrior was strong at $2.37½; Amazon showed strength, advancing from $3 to $3.12½; Calumet & Montana sold at 85c and 87c; Calumet & Sonora at $13.12½ and St. Mary's at 24c.

Amalgamated sold at $63.12½, $63 and $63.62½; Steel common at $68 to $68.62½; Butte-Ballaklava in the East at $11.50 to $11.25; Butte Coalition at $19; Calumet & Arizona at $52 to $54; Giroux at $6.52½ to $6.50; Greene at $6.87½ to $7; North Butte at $25.25 to $25 and up to $26; Superior & Pittsburg at $11.87½ to $12.12½.

H. E. Smith, vice-president of the St. Mary Mining company, has returned from the Star district of Utah. He said that developments of the St. Mary company are satisfactory. A drift from the first level west of the shaft and along the contact to the north has developed promising indications of ore. Fifteen tons of ore have been taken from various places in the drift. An air compressor and power drills have been installed preliminary to putting down the shaft further, it appearing that the workings are over the ore body. Mr. Smith thinks the shaft will cut the main ore body in about twenty days as there is fifty feet of sinking to be done.

The Mowitz shaft, said Mr. Smith, is down 675 feet, equivalent to the 500-foot level of the Red Warrior. The management is drifting west from the shaft to develop the ore bodies in the upper levels. The eastern portion of the property will be developed from the workings on the 500-level of the Red Warrior. The Red Warrior shaft is down to the 500-level and a drift is being run to the north to a point under the undeveloped ore bodies on the upper levels. The Red Warrior, said Mr. Smith, will soon be in a position to ship commercial ore heavily.

MATCH COMPANY FOUND IN TRUST

Department of Justice Nearly Through With Long Investigation.

New York, Aug. 6.—An investigation of the Diamond Match company and the Standard Wood company by the department of justice has resulted, the New York Tribune says today, in the discovery of a combination among bundle wood manufacturers similar to the cardboard pool successfully prosecuted by the government under the Sherman anti-trust act. The territory covered, according to the complainants, embraced the New England states, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and the methods used are said to have been effective in eliminating competition.

The Standard Wood company is capitalized at $1,500,000 and the Diamond Match company at $15,000,000. Not so much the magnitude of the business as the character of the complaints being received determined the government to take action. Accordingly the investigation, which is now nearing completion, was begun in Maine nearly a year ago.

The RED CROSS PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

Under The Auspices of Dr. Rea Bros. & Co. Minneapolis, Minn. Will be in Duluth St. Louis Hotel Saturday August 13th, From 9 a. m. Until 8 p. m. and Sunday Until Noon.

Sending Their Free Doctors to the Principal Cities of the United States.

The Red Cross Association doctors are licensed by the state for the cure of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children. They will give to all, who call, consultation, examination and advice, absolutely free, making no charge whatever, except the actual cost of medicine used in each individual case. All that is asked in return for these valuable services is that every person treated will state the results to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality that at last treatments have been discovered that are absolutely sure and certain in their curative effects.

The experience of treating thousands of cases makes a physician able to cure diseases quicker than the ordinary doctor. The physician of experience and success is able to cure these chronic diseases that the ordinary physician can do nothing for. The physician of experienced success has his remedies at hand, those that are tested and tried and those he knows does not have to experiment with and knows that cure follows their uses as well as he knows that night follows day.

Few people realize the advantage of doctoring with special doctors. Not doctors that cure everything, but doctors that know how to cure the diseases that they pretend to cure. An association of doctors where each and every one's opinion is centered on the disease of an individual character is better than one opinion on the disease.

The Red Cross Association of physicians and surgeons are well known. They are one of the most successful combination of physicians in the United States. They are the products of Modern Medical Science. They cure where others fail, and their skill is known throughout the civilized world.

They want to prove that they can cure you and they will prove it at their own cost and without a penny of expense to you, except what is necessary for such medicine as they may prescribe for you.

You may wonder why you have not been cured. It is easy to explain. Maybe your doctor never had a case before which is like yours. Probably you have complications which baffle him so he keeps on guessing, hoping to eventually strike the remedy which will help your trouble, and he is treating symptoms only, never getting at the root of the disease. Can you afford to be suffering while you are being experimented on? If you cannot, then go to master physicians who treat more cases in one month than the ordinary doctor perhaps treats in a life time.

The master specialists know how to treat you. He has treated others of the same disease. No matter what your ailment may be, whether disease of the lungs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys, bladder, piles, rheumatism, gout, skin diseases, neuralgia, female diseases, epilepsy, appendicitis, goiter, eye and ear trouble or any chronic disease. Pin your faith to these specialists and you will be rewarded.

Cancer and tumor treated by the Hypodermic Injection method, no pain, no loss of blood and no detention from business. Thousands cured, as their testimonials will show. Appendicitis and gall stones cured without operation.

Deafness often cured in sixty days.

Remember the date and free offer.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their fathers or guardians.

National Anthem.

The majority of national anthems are not conspicuous for beauty, either of words or music, says London Chronicle. The only one composed by a musician of the very first rank is the Austrian anthem, for which Haydn is responsible. And in no country has the composition of a really great poet been adapted except in Norway. The superiority of Golden Grain Belt beer as a table beverage is also acknowledged by the intelligent public in general. Keep the home table supplied with this nourishing beverage. ## E. A. SILBERSTEIN LEAVES FOR THE EAST.

E. A. Silberstein of the Silberstein & Bondy company left for the East on the Omaha train this afternoon to complete the fall purchases of women's wear for his store.

Just before his departure a reporter, who interviewed Mr. Silberstein on the strike situation among cloak and suit manufacturers in New York, was given the following statement:

"I do not believe that the strike of cloak and suit operators in New York will last more than a few days longer. There have been many conferences between strikers and manufacturers in the last few days, and with each conference the two sides seemed to be getting closer together.. In any event, it will not affect the early arrival of fall garments in our store, as a great many of our orders were placed at home in anticipation of the strike, and deliveries will therefore be as early as usual. My trip at this time is concerned more particularly with novelty furs, exclusive gowns, unusual mantles and wraps, which have only recently been brought over from Paris, and which are the last word on correct styles for the coming fall season in this country."

DR. CRIPPEN ONCE LIVED IN MONTANA?

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 6.—Many oldtimers claim that Dr. Crippen when very young, lived in Deer Lodge, Mont., with his father, a physician. Judge F. H. Woody, one of the old timers of the state, recalls having known a Dr. Crippen in Deer Lodge in the early days and later traced him to Los Angeles. It is believed that his son is the Dr. Crippen now in the public eye, and an effort to establish such relation will be made.

Deer Lodge, Mont., Aug. 6.—S. B. O'Brannon, who arrived in Deer Lodge in 1869, knew Mrs. Crippen until he left Deer Lodge about the year 1872. Dr. Crippen was a practicing physician in Deer Lodge at that time, he was a Canadian, and was in sympathy with the French in the FrancoPrussian war and he was a very active member of the organization formed in Deer Lodge to raise funds for the French during that war.

SLIGHT SCRATCH MAY BE FATAL

West Duluth Girl Cuts Foot While Bathing---Blood Poisoning Follows.

As a result of a slight cut on her foot, which she sustained while in bathing with a number of other children, Manda Digness, 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Caroline Digness of 27 North Sixty-sixth avenue west, is dangerously ill with blood poison at her home.

About a week ago the Digness girl and a number of her playmates were bathing in the swimming pool at Sixty-third avenue west. She stepped on a piece of broken glass and as the wound was a slight one, nothing was thought of it at the time.

The cut became infected and this week the girl has been very ill. Dr. D. E. Seashore, a West Duluth physician, is attending the case. As yet, the child has an even chance of recovery.

BURGLAR GET AWAY WITH $23

A burglar entered the home of Nels Johnson at 6211 Tacony street, West Duluth, last evening and while the family slept, secured $23. The money was taken from a pocket book on a side board.

Entrance to the house was gained by unlocking the back door leading into the kitchen. The thief evidently went to the dining room and found the pocketbook in a drawer of the sideboard.

Within easy reach was a valuable set of silverware, which could not well be overlooked by the burglar. However, it was not touched.

Johnson, who is employed by the Marshall Wells Hardware company, reported the burglary to the police this morning and Lieut. Charles Wilcox is conducting an investigation today.

As yet, the police have discovered no clue to the identity of the burglar.

DULUTH AT THE STATE FAIR

C. P. Craig, who represents Northeastern Minnesota on the board of directors of the Minnesota State Agricultural society, and who has returned from St. Paul after attending a meeting of the state fair managers, prevailed upon his colleagues of the board to let the state know what a great asset the commonwealth possesses in the seaport at the Head of the Lakes.

As a result, there will be placed in a conspicuous place in the new agricultural building a compilation of statistics graphically setting forth the little known but nonetheless vast extent of traffic that centers here.

Long after the ore bodies of the North have been exhausted many years hence, the lake port will remain as a basic asset of the state, but just what this means is not comprehended by many people in portions of the state comparatively remote from the Head of the Lakes. It is to make known to all the state the significance of this asset that the statistics are being prepared.

Plenty of Apples.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 6.—C. P. Rothwell of Martinsburg, W. Va., secretary of the International Apple Shippers' association, has submitted his annual report on the condition of the apple crop on Aug. 1, compared with the same date a year ago.

REMARRIAGE A FAILURE

Second Attempt at Matrimony No More Successful Than First.

Clara Habhegger Seeks Another Divorce From Her Husband.

The second marriage of Clara Hebheger and Albert G. Hebheger was no more of a success than their first, according to a complaint filed this morning with the clerk of the district court in which she asks that a divorce decree be granted her.

She complains of his cruel and inhuman treatment to her, alleging that he has struck and choked her and even threatened at various times to shoot her.

His "low, base and degrading" manner about the home, she avers, has been unbearable to her as well as to the other people who live in the same house. She states that she lives at 329 Fourth avenue east, where she conducts a boarding house.

Their second marriage took place at Duluth on June 24, 1909, and she states that each is 39 years old. They have two children, aged 7 and 5 years respectively, from a former marriage.

At the time of their wedding last year, she claims, she was conducting the boarding house, and ever since has been running it. She took her husband into her home, but she avers, he became abusive to her about two months after the wedding. She alleges that he is a habitual drunkard, and of a low moral character.

The boarders and roomers, she claims, had threatened to leave if he remained in the house any longer. He left some time in February, and since then all attempts to find him to serve the summons on him have been of no avail.

She asks for a decree, a reasonable alimony and the care of the children.

* * *

Fannie Reynolds Ingham, 32 years old, wants a legal separation from her husband, Delmar D. Ingham, 32, on the grounds of desertion, which she alleges took place on January 28, 1907. They were married on Oct. 10, 1900, at Blairstone, Iowa, and have two children.

* * *

Claiming that her husband is addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors, at which time he treats her in a cruel and inhuman manner, Hilda Thompson asks the district court for a divorce from Andrew Thompson. She states that she is 39 years old, and that he is 46, that they were married in Duluth in August, 1892, and that they have two children. She alleges that once at the point of a revolver, he forced her to her knees before him and uttered to him a beseeching prayer. Moreover, she states, he has compelled her and the children to work for their own support, and that since last October he has contributed only $65 toward the expenses of the family.

Important to Horse Owners.

McDevitt has removed his office from the Board of Trade livery to the Zenith Board and Sale stable, 524 West First street, where he has equipped one of the most up-to-date veterinary offices in the West, with several box stalls for hospital use, as well as a canine hospital. Dr. McDevitt has met with very good success since coming here from St. Paul a year ago, and will now remain permanently.

GETTING FACTS ABOUT NEW LINE

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order that the passenger department of the Soo might be well up in information of the new line, which passes through Bemidji, W. R. Calloway, general passenger gent, and Mr. Green, advertising man for the road, accompanied by a photographer, were here Thursday, having come from Duluth over the Cuyuna Range line of the Soo. They came along the right-of-way of the Plummer-Moose Lake line to the federal dam and thence walked a considerable distance to Cass Lake and on to Bemidji, gathering data of the intervening country and inspecting the roadbed. Mr. Calloway is an enthusiast for the conservation of the resources of Minnesota and he was impressed with the necessity of preserving the water supply and a considerable portion of the timber of this section as furthering the permanency of the natural beauty and much of the productiveness of the country.

Passenger Service Next Year.

In speaking of the passenger service that would be installed on the Plummer-Moose Lake line, Mr. Calloway stated that he did not believe that such service could possibly be established before Jan. 1, and that which would be put on then would be of a purely local nature. "In fact," said Mr. Calloway, "I am of the opinion that it will be well on towards summer of 1911 before a first-class passenger service can be put on. There are of course many things to contend with in getting the roadbed just right in this country where there is much low land, and it will take some time to get the track just right for rapid travel. It will be necessary to test the tracks with actual travel by a train before any weak spots will appear, and we expect the usual amount of defects to be shown, all of which require time and considerable work to remedy.

Asked as to whether the Winnipeg-Duluth-Chicago passenger trains would be running through Bemidji inside of the next twelve months, Mr. Calloway would not commit himself, but intimated that if the Soo people desired it, they could probably have them by that time, but he could not speak for the Wisconsin-Chicago end of the Soo.

RAILROAD ENGINEERS WILL DEMAND MORE PAY.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Representatives of engineers employed on sixty-two railroads West of Chicago, at a special conference of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers here, has decided to demand a flat wage increase of 15 to 18 per cent. After reaching this decision, the conference, which has been in session since last Monday, adjourned.

ONLY THREE DAYS MORE

Northern Counties Are Backward in Preparing Fair Exhibits.

Only Fourteen Have Made the Necessary Deposit of $50.

Northern Minnesota counties are not coming to the front fast enough to get the representation at the state fair that they should have.

Only about fourteen of them have sent to the fair managers the $50 deposit that is required to show good faith and to insure that those counties which promise to make exhibits will have their produce on view. Since the Bemidji and Crookston development association meetings practically all of the more advanced counties have signified their intention to enter exhibits in the competition for county prizes, but many of them have failed to make good so far. Aug. 10 is the last day for entering exhibits. The board is anxious that action be taken at once, so that the work of getting out the premium list may be completed.

Secretary MacKenzie of the Northern Minnesota Development association is urging all the counties to lose no time in completing their arrangements to add to the attractiveness of the displays made by this part of the state

St. Louis county is to have an exceptionally good exhibit this year but is not a competitor for prizes.

Efforts are being made, however, by A. B. Hostetter, agricultural agent for the Duluth Commercial club, to prepare an exhibit for the state fair, which will equal the best of them. People from other sections of the state and from the Northwest will be shown that St. Louis county is one of the leading districts in the country in the raising of agricultural stuffs.

He is cutting corn, oats and rye today from the county poor farm, which he will prepare for the exhibit. He has already communicated with farmers throughout the county to send in samples of their farm produce, and special attention will be taken to arrange an artistic display.

Last year many of these localities were late in sending in samples, and so they could not be well shown at the fair. He has asked that all the samples he sent to him at the court house in Duluth at an early date, when he will prepare them. He especially wishes samples from Floodwood, Embarrass, Cook, Ely and Hibbing, territories which were late last year.

Yesterday he returned from the Jean Duluth farm, where he secured many samples of oats, corn and rye. Already harvesting is being carried on at this farm, and the crop is large and of a high quality.

Among the samples which he will send to the fair, Mr. Hostetter has many varieties of strawberries from different sections of the county.

Berry Pickers Out.

The annual flocks of raspberry pickers have started for the woods and hills back of the city to gather the crop, which is now ripe. The berries are not up to the standard of other years, but they are more plentiful than was expected. This is largely due to the recent rains. Some unusually fine berries are found in low shaded spots, but they are the exception.

Wheelage Tax Not Paid.

The wheelage ordinance isn't being compiled with as rapidly as the city officials had expected. Out of several thousand vehicles in the city licenses have been issued by the city clerk's office for but sixty. The revenue amounts to about $300. Road Nlies Two Petitions.

Two petitions were filed this morning by attorneys for the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company, one seeking the appointment of a board of three commissioners to pass upon the valuation of the land in West Duluth, which could not be agreed upon, after which condemnation proceedings will be started, and the other asking that portions of the plats of Stowell's addition, Clinton Place and Macfarlane's Grassy Point addition, to be vacated.

Arrested for Threats.

Mike Konovic, an Austrian, was arrested at New Duluth yesterday afternoon for threatened breach of the peace. Konovic denied the allegation in police court this morning and will be tried Tuesday morning.

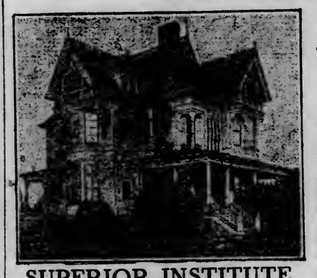
Endorses The Neal Three-Day Drink Habit Cure After Sending a Patient To The Superior Institute Who Was Cured Perfectly In Three Days.



SUPERIOR INSTITUTE
Corner Belknap and West Seventh
Take "East End" Car
PHONES:
Wisconsin Broad 37. Peoples 4117.
H. G. STILES, Manager

Superior, Wisconsin,
August 1, 1910.

To The People of the State of Wisconsin and Head of the Lakes:

Some two months ago my attention was called to the Neal Three-Day Drink Habit Cure by the Company opening an institute in this city.

Recognizing the social evil of the drink habit and the curse of liquor, I became interested and was instrumental in sending to the institute one of our Superior citizens, who, otherwise, except his drinking, was a splendid man. But liquor had him bound hand and foot, for he had been a habitual drinker for more than twenty years, and late years to great excess.

While the patient was under treatment in the institute I visited him and I am so pleased with the results of the treatment that I have no hesitancy in giving the Neal Cure my endorsement, for he was a changed man, completely, and said that all desire, craving and appetite for liquor had been taken away from him, in three days.

The Neal Cure is a Godsend to any man who is bound by the chains of strong drink.

A. F. SHINNER,
Bishop of Superior.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Flavin's Letter

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 9, 1910.

To Whom It May Concern:

My attention having been called to the Neal treatment for the cure of the drink habit, and their claim that it did cure in three days, elicited my personal investigation, and to do so, it became necessary for me to send one of my people to the institute to be treated. This I did, and I am pleased to say that he was cured perfectly, and the patient assured me with great forcefulness that he no longer had the inclination to drink, and that all desire, craving and appetite for drink had been taken away. It is a grand, good work, and a great benefit to humanity.

M. FLAVIN,
Pastor St. Ambrose Church,
Des Moines, Iowa.

CURED IN THREE DAYS

A PERFECT CURE.

The Neal internal treatment cures the periodical, occasional or moderate drinker, the habitual and excessive drinker, and the nervous man who has to drink to keep from becoming more nervous. It takes away all inclination to drink, all desire and craving for drink, by neutralizing the poison of alcohol in the system and ridding the blood of the poison by a rapid process of elimination, leaving the drinker in the condition that he was before tasting liquor, so far as the effect of alcohol may be concerned—all appetite for drink gone and he a new man.

NO HYPODERMIC INJECTIONS.

Refuse to take any treatment for the drink habit where hypodermic injections are given, for they are so liable to result in blood poisoning, from the use of an infected needle, through the carelessness of others.

PLAIN CONTRACT GIVEN.

INSTITUTE TREATMENT.

The comforts of a refined home are afforded all patients at the institute; board, room, physician's attendance, with every care and attention and the utmost privacy.

HOME TREATMENT.

The treatment sent to the home with plain directions for taking and may be given to a six-year-old child with no thought of injury. All mail sent in plain envelopes, sealed; everything strictly confidential. Call, write today, or 'phone Broad 37, Peoples 4117, for copy of the contract and free book. Neal Institute, Corner Belknap and West Seventh, Superior, Wisconsin. Bank References as to the company's responsibility cheerfully given.

We have a Neal Institute in each of the following cities: Des Moines, Iowa; Fargo, N. D.; Sioux Falls, S. ## DEATHS AND FUNERALS

LINDEN — Hendric Linden, whose body was found floating in the bay by the crew of the U. S. S. Gopher, was buried from the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford yesterday. The expenses were paid by the county. It is believed that Linden took his own life, as he had been heard to say that he wouldn't suffer from illness. He had been sick for some time.

Although he had been ill for about two years, the news of his death comes as a sudden shock to his friends and relatives. Mr. Currie came to Duluth about twenty years ago, and since then he has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacArthur, of 814 West Fifth street. He was about 70 years of age. He was a member of the Masonic lodge, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and the Sons of Scotland, and is survived by two brothers, Lachlan and Donald, both of Collingwood, Ont.

EIGHTY DULUTH GIRLS LEARNING THE RUDIMENTS OF PLAIN COOKING

THE BRYANT SCHOOL COOKING CLASS.

Cooking is an art, according to Miss Florence Gaumnitz, instructor in the summer school for girls at the Bryant building at the West end, and the average school girl, high school pupils not excepted, knows but little about it, when she enters the domestic science course in the public schools.

This summer Miss Gaumnitz has been instructing eighty Duluth girls, not alone from the West end, but also from the East end, in the principles of ordinary, everyday cooking. She makes no attempt to show her classes about any of the fancy dishes, because she believes that this would not be practical.

Bread-making in every stage was recently demonstrated to the girls and every pupil went through the process herself and learned her lessons by experience. Not only were they instructed in how to make bread in the cheapest way, but they were also taught how to judge good bread.

The past week, the classes have had instruction in the canning and preserving of fruits and jellymaking. Yesterday the classes were at work on salads. The remainder of the summer term will be spent in practical work, all of a character which will not interfere with the work which they have had during the regular school year or will take up next semester.

Miss Gaumnitz, the instructor, is a graduate from the University of Minnesota, where in her senior year she was elected to membership in the Sigma Xi society, an honorary fraternity for scientific research. After spending three years in the state experimental station, where she had charge of the domestic science work, she came to Duluth.

Last year she was domestic science teacher in the Bryant building, classes attending from all of the West end grade schools. After the summer term is over, Miss Gaumnitz will give up teaching. She has not announced her plans for the future.

WILL MEET IN DULUTH

Annual Summer Congress of Salvation Army Will Be Held Here.

Several Prominent Officers From Chicago Will Be Present.

Plans for the annual summer congress of the Scandinavian Salvation Army workers of the Northwest, which will be held at the West end next week, Aug. 11 to 15, are now being made, and it is expected that the affair will be the best of its kind which has been held for some years.

Col. Ben Nelson, who has charge of the Western province of the Scandinavian Salvation Army with headquarters in Chicago, will be the principal speaker at the affair. He will arrive in Duluth Wednesday in company with at least three other delegates from the Windy City. Delegates will attend from Wisconsin and Minnesota and most of the meetings will be held at the army hall, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street.

The other delegates from Chicago will be Staff Captain M. Holstein, Adjutant Anna Lindberg and Capt. M. Fristrup. Ensign Gabrielson of Minneapolis will attend the meetings. The convention will begin Thursday evening, when the delegates and friends will take a moonlight trip "around the horn" in a chartered boat.

The sessions of the congress this year will be divided between Superior and the West end. Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock a children's meeting will be held at the army barracks, Fifth street and Cumming avenue, Superior. Staff Captain Holstein will be in charge of the gathering. In the evening another meeting will be held in Superior.

On Saturday the sessions will be held in Duluth and in the afternoon another children's meeting will be held, Staff Captain Holstein of Chicago again taking charge. Col. Ben Nelson will be the principal speaker at the evening meeting. On Sunday three services will be held at the West end hall at 11 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and at 8 o'clock in the evening.

On Monday the delegates will hold a picnic at Pond du Lac, the trip to be made up the river on an excursion boat. This will close the activities in Duluth, but the Delegates will go to Minneapolis from here, where another week will be spent in a similar manner. The convention there will begin Aug. 17 and will last for five days.

From the local branch, Adjutant E. Wallin, Capt. Theressa Carlson and Cadet Hannah Hiden and others will attend the Minneapolis congress.

"SWEDISH MOODY" WILL SPEAK HERE

Rev. E. A. Skogsbergh Will Deliver Three Sermons in Duluth.

Rev. E. A. Skogsbergh, sometimes known as the "Swedish Moody," who for twenty years was pastor of the Swedish Mission Tabernacle church of Minneapolis, the largest Swedish church in the United States, is in Duluth on a vacation trip and tomorrow will preach three services at the Head of the Lakes.

In the morning he will conduct services at the Swedish Mission church at Superior and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon he is scheduled to speak at the Swedish Christian Mission church at Fifty-ninth avenue west and Green street. In the evening he will occupy the pulpit at the Swedish Mission church at Twenty-first avenue west and Second street.

Rev. Mr. Skogsbergh is considered one of the best Swedish pulpit orators of this country. For the past year, since he left the Swedish Tabernacle at Minneapolis, he has been located at Seattle, Wash., where he is the pastor of another large congregation. He is building another large church, which has a seating capacity of 2,500.

Rev. Mr. Skogsberg attended the recent anniversary celebration of the church at Chicago and since that time has been spending his time in the Northwest, before returning to the coast.

Braithwaite-Greeley.

The marriage of Miss Grace O. Braithwaite to Dr. Liston Q. Greeley, both of the West end, will take place at Lincoln, N. Y., Wednesday. Invitations have been issued for the wedding. The bride was a teacher in the Adams school last semester.

UNION SERVICE AT TWO HARBORS.

The congregation and Young People's Society of the First Swedish Baptist church will journey to Two Harbors tomorrow, where they will hold services jointly with the Swedish Baptust congregation of that place. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the local church, will preach at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Scandia hall.

West End Shortrails.

William Frazer of Frazer, Wis., a pioneer settler in Northern Wisconsin is visiting this week at the home of A. J. Burdash of 128 North Twenty-eighth avenue west.

Mrs. Joseph Fortier is reported to be seriously ill at her home, 13 Exeter street.

Miss Minnie Johnson of Minneapolis has returned to her home after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olson 2233 West Tenth street.

Dr. L. Q. Greeley of the Sloan block left today for Lincoln, N. Y.

The French Naturalization club held an interesting meeting last evening at the new school hall of the St. Jean Baptiste church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. A good program of speeches was given and ten new members were added to the rolls, making a total membership of 450.

Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor of the two Episcopal churches at the West end, will spend Sunday with friends at Aitkin, Minn.

Rev. J. A. Anderson, presiding elder of the Lake Superior district of the Swedish Methodist church, living at Marinette, will preach at the First Swedish M. E. church tomorrow evening. In the morning the speaker will be Rev. C. Akerman of Hibbing. Communion services will follow the evening sermon.

There will be a union service of the First Baptist and First Swedish Baptist churches tomorrow evening at the former church. Rev. Swaney Nelson will preach.

STILL SELL OLD STOCK

Brokers Trading in Butte & Superior in Spite of Notice.

Any person who buys the old Butte & Superior stock, which today was quoted by some brokers at $1.06 bid and $1.12 asked, takes his chances on getting delivery, as the company is under no obligation to deliver such stock and has issued a notice that it will not do so.

The reorganiztaion has been effected and the par value of the new stock is $10, ten shares of the present stock being exchanged for one share of the old. The transfer books of the company, which were closed a few days ago, will be open probably on Monday for registry of the new stock and holders of the old Butte & Superior stock can have their stock exchanged for the new issue.

Some brokers are said to be trading in the old stock, as they make more commission selling the old stock than the new, values in the aggregate being equal. No broker has a moral right to quote the old stock to his customers, according to those brokers not dealing in it, as he cannot always guarantee the customer that the old stock will be delivered. The Butte & Superior stock is on the unlisted board of the Duluth stock exchange, which no longer takes cognizance of the old stock. For two or three days the new stock has been posted, but no transfers have been recorded because the new stock has not yet been issued.

If the books of the Butte & Superior company are opened Monday for transfer, as seems likely, the old stock will have no standing whatever except in its relative value to the new stock. If any of the new stock has been sold the buyer probably agreed to wait until the transfer books were opened so he could get delivery. The trade was thus in the nature of an agreement. No such sales have been recorded at the Duluth stock exchange.

Parting Cable Kills.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Herning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Herning, 1551 Minneapolis street, was killed by the parting of the cable of a log loader at Townsend, where he was at work.

LOGGER EXPECTS A GOOD SEASON.

J. C. Eaton, who is one of the well-known loggers of this district, who was in the city yesterday, has completed most of the roads he has been engaged in building in Lake county, in the vicinity of Grand Marais. Mr. Eaton's road building operations have been carried on in preparation for next winter's logging operations. He expects a prosperous season.

MERCHANT PRINCE OF MINNEAPOLIS HERE.

L. S. Donaldson, the Minneapolis merchant prince, has been at the Spalding for a day or two. Just what his mission to Duluth may be has not been disclosed. Mr. Donaldson recently acquired all of the real estate included in the Minneapolis down town block on which his store, the famous "glass block" is situated, and it is supposed that he plans to add to his great retail merchandising structure until it covers the entire square. It is not believed that his plans provide for immediate or early construction of so extensive a building, but it is known that Mr. Donaldson's faith in Minneapolis as a retailing center is boundless.

WON'T STARVE IF CROP DOES FAIL.

"I guess we won't starve to death this winter, out in Dakota, even if the crop is something of a failure," said J. F. Sparks, who owns a large Dakota farm, and who is at the St. Louis hotel today.

"Most of us out there have a little money stowed away in the banks, and some of the boys can sell their automobiles. Then we can sit back and economize for a few months. There is generally enough to eat on a farm, and you won't find many of the Dakota farmers going to the poor house, in spite of all this talk. We probably won't be traveling much on our profits this year, but there's nothing wrong with Dakota.

"The crops were pretty bad, all right, but in many cases they are showing up much better than we feared for a time."

STATE WILL HELP CAUSE

Takes a Hand in the Co-operative Movement in Northern Minnesota.

The state of Minnesota has arranged for a series of meetings designed to encourage and develop the farmers' co-operative movement in Northern Minnesota and has placed the work in charge of L. H. Bugbee of Wrenshall, president of the Producers' Co-operative association.

While Mr. Bugbee is an enthusiast in this cause, the distinction conferred upon him by his selection for this work is not without its cost. The schedule of meetings indicates that Mr. Bugbee must get up about 4 o'clock in the morning and drive through the country to keep his appointments. His itinerary:

Aug. 13, Normanna.
Aug. 15, directors at Duluth.
Aug. 16, 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Ogilvie and Mora.
Aug. 17, 10:30 a. m., Sandstone; 7:30 p. m., Askov.
Aug. 18, 10:30 a. m., Bruno; 2:00 p. m., Holyoke.
Aug. 19, Moose Lake.
Aug. 20, Onamia.
Aug. 22, Meadowlands.
Aug. 23, Alborn.
Aug. 24, St. Louis River Valley (Palo).
Aug. 25, Cromwell.
Aug. 26, 1:30 p. m., Barnum; 7:30 p. m., Deer Park.
Aug. 27, Wrenshall.
Aug. 29, 3:00 p. m., Farris.
Aug. 30, Hines. (Tenstrike) arrive Bemidji, 10:45 p. m.
Aug. 31, 10 a. m., town of Northern (Bemidji); 4:30 p. m., Bagley.
Sept. 1, 11:30 a. m., Shevlin; 3:00 p. m., Alida
Sept. 2, 10 a. m., Solway; 3 p. m., Guthrie.
Sept. 3, 10 a. m., Grand Rapids; 4 p. m., Floodwood.

Bemidji is taking a lively interest in the co-operative movement that has already demonstrated its value in the vicinity of Duluth and it is probable that a co-operative association will be formed in the territory, naturally tributary to that city. When Bemidji accumulates a surplus of produce, Duluth will be ready to absorb it, and the reverse will be true also, so that the spread of the co-operative idea is bound to result in general good to Northern Minnesota.

FALLS FROM BOAT AND IS DROWNED

Spooner, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Nesje, aged 30, nephew of Iver Nesje, a local merchant, was drowned in the Rainy river Thursday night. He was making a trip up the river with two companions in a gasoline launch. A rowboat, containing provisions, was towed by the launch. Nesje pulled the tow up to the launch and got aboard to see if any water was leaking into the rowboat. A lurch by the boat threw him into the water and he yelled for help. His companions were unable to stop the launch and return to the spot where he went down the third time until it was too late. Darkness also hindered their efforts to save him. The body has not been found.

The deceased was employed by the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company and has a homestead up the Rainy river.

A Dainty Toilet Article.

Every lady who desires to keep up the attractive appearance, while at the theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling and on all occasions should carry in her purse a booklet of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is inavaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed and is far superior to a powder puff as it does not spill and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparting a cool delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 5 cents in stamps or coin. F. T. Hopkins, 37 Great Jones street, New York.

DRUNKARDS NOT WANTED

Court Turns Down Applicant for Citizenship Who Was Intoxicated.

Because Erick Magnus Nelson appeared before Judge Dibell of the district court this morning in an intoxicated condition he was denied the right to become a United States citizen. His application was turned down, and it will require his going through all the formalities he had just completed before he can again appear.

Yesterday afternoon and this morning were devoted to the making of citizens. Twelve were admitted yesterday and three this morning. Several were turned down because they had not fully complied with the rules or failed to turn up at the time specified.

Isadore Burlack was refused citizenship and his case dismissed because he had a reformatory record. Since his first application to become a citizen Burlack had appeared before the court during the trial of some friends in the capacity of a witness and while on the stand he perjured himself. He was convicted on this charge and sentenced to the state reform school.

KILLS HIMSELF ON HOMESTEAD

He is a brother of Col. C. Noble, who resides at 122 East Third street. No details of the affair were received.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Unidentified Politicians Talking About Running an Unidentified Republican on an Unidentified Ticket If Lind Declines---Authentic Advices From the Coast---Boyle's Candidacy for the Senate---Political Notes.

Here's the latest. "If" John Lind refuses to run for governor on the Democratic ticket, a group of Republicans and Democratic insurgents of an unknown species will push to the front an independent candidate, who is said to be a Republican and a friend of Lind. This dark horse is said to be a non-partisan Republican and the men who are back of him are said to have held two meetings in Minneapolis at which the proposal to offer an independent candidate was discussed at length. The personnel of these gatherings is said to have been predominatingly Republican. There is no hint as to the identity of this near-candidate, other than the statement that he is "one of the most prominent men of the state." And that tribe is numerous in an election year.

Independent To Run If Lind Does Not.

Senator S. D. Works of Mankato, quoted at Crookston the other day, made a few remarks that may tend to discourage talk of an independent candidate. He said:

"Lind may yet be the candidate of the Minnesota Democrats for governor. If he does not, it is up to the state committee to name a man who will. Personally, in the event that Lind is not the candidate, I should like to see L. L. Brown of Winona, named. The Republicans had a chance to give us a race this fall, but threw it away. The Democrats are militant. We can win and we are going to win."

It is now definitely known in Duluth that John Lind never said the things credited to him in dispatches from the coast. He did not say that he would not serve if elected. This assertion is made with definite knowledge of its truth. From a source that is a guarantee of the authenticity of the advices, comes word of a confidential nature that sets at rest any possible doubt on this point. The situation remains as it has been. Until Mr. Lind returns from Alaska there can be no change, one way or the other, in this situation.

"John Lind is hurting himself by his silence," was a remark heard on Superior street last evening, and inquiry brought out the rather remarkable information that from some source a story has been sent abroad that the steamer Humboldt is equipped with wireless and that Lind has been in communication with St. Paul all the time. There is nothing to that yarn. The Humboldt is without means of communicating with the coast and on board that vessel John Lind is as completely isolated from the world as he would be were he marrooned on a coral reef in the South seas.

James P. Boyle of Eveleth, who failed yesterday as a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator from the Forty-ninth district, is expected to inject some ginger into the fight in that district. He is so well known, has such an admirable speaking manner and backs his oratory with such sound sense and reasoning power that he is bound to make a strong impression on the voters of the Forty-ninth, say his friends. That he will be nominated and elected they have no doubt, and they say that as a member of the upper house of the legislature his abilities will make him one of the most useful members Northern Minnesota can well have at St. Paul.

Boyle's Friends Rally To His Standard.

Of course, it is admitted by Mr. Boyle's friends that he cannot have this election as a gift. He must fight for it, and fight hard. However, his opponent is not invulnerable, by any means, and his friends have taken so enthusiastically to the idea of his candidacy that it will not be a lone, single-handed fight. They have offered him every encouragement and it is understood that Mr. Boyle relies upon them to do their utmost in his behalf.

Many voters of the district who have not yet become acquainted with the Eveleth man have indicated their intention to join with him in the fight he must wage and to do all in their power to defeat the incumbent, P. R. Vail, who seeks renomination.

* * *

J. E. Foubister, who some time ago confessed to an ambition to serve in the house from the Forty-ninth district, said last night that he will not file for the Republican nomination. He assured L. A. Sulcove that he would support that gentleman for the place. Mr. Sulcove will file Monday.

* * *

Elias Warner of Cottonwood county is a candidate for the house from the Fourteenth district. D. A. Stuart of Windom represented the county two years ago and is a candidate for reelection.

* * *

Charles S. Carter of Hines, Beltrami county, is being mentioned as a possible candidate for the house. He is postmaster at Hines.

* * *

"Pussyfoot" Johnson has gone from the North country, but he left an influence behind him. In Polk county, where is located troubled Crookston, candidates for county offices are strangely few, so far as public acknowledgement of desire for office is concerned, and the condition has aroused much interest. It is learned, however, that there are a lot of candidates, but they're just "pussyfooting" around. Gum shoes are cut off the running in the north.

* * *

In many legislative districts pre-primary apathy prevails and this condition is particularly noted in the Forty-fifth, where none of the candidates has done any campaign work. Daniel Anderson and Senator Swanson have come to no blows over the toga each desires to wear, and the numerous aspirants to seats in the house are content to say nothing about their aspirations.

LITTLE LIBELS ON BIG POLITICIANS

FRED B. LYNCH

(From St. Paul Dispatch.)

If you want any private information from Fred B. Lynch, step right in; if you want it for publication, beat it.

If you want some one to help you out of a tight place and have exhausted all other possibilities, go to Fred. B. Lynch.

If you wish to run for governor against your will, let Fred B. Lynch manage your campaign.

If you wish to know the real inside workings of the Democratic party, take the top gently off Fred Lynch's head and see things you never dreamed of seeing.

"Believe me," what Fred B. Lynch doesn't know about Minnesota Democracy wouldn't interfere with the digestion of a canary bird. He knows it all, but there are only a few people who know that he knows, and Fred B. isn't around tooting any political horn. He likes the game and he likes the Democratic party, and thus far he has let it go at that.

Big Man in Various Ways.

Senatorial ambitions? Well, may be, but he isn't admitting anything that might be used against him later on. If you ask him about them he'll just smile slowly as though his good humor came a long way down and say: "I've about as much chance to go to the senate as you have," which may be true, but doesn't always tickle the questioner.

He's a big hulk of a man, this member of the Democratic national committee. And he's done some things that made others gasp for air. It's not more than a thousand years ago that Fred B. Lynch kicked his heels against a worn desk and dug his hands down into empty pockets. He doesn't indulge in that particular form of recreation any more. He has to get a pick to dig the money out of the way when he wants to put his hands in his pockets to get a pen-knife.

He is Also a Poet.

Just a few of those most intimately acquainted with Fred B. Lynch know that at heart he is neither a politician nor a financier; he's a poet. He has taken great pains to gloss over this "blot in the 'scutcheon," but once in a while the scar shows through. You couldn't get him to admit it with a crowbar, and if he felt that the world really knew this one pet secret of his life he'd walk the streets with the air of a condemned criminal. Yet, as a matter of fact, if there be any choice between poets, Fred B. Lynch is of the least bad class. He doesn't write verses; he just reads 'em and loves 'em.

A kindlier soul than Fred B. Lynch never lived. There are a great many things that might be told about him in this connection, but it would embarrass him if any of the things he has done to help the less fortunate were recorded here.

FRED B. LYNCH.

Branded As a Party Leader.

Lynch is one of those rare birds that can actually do things without making enemies. No one says anything but good of him.

By the way, that great discoverer, Frank A. Day, claims credit for "discovering" Mr. Lynch. Lynch would have "blushed unseen" but for Day, if one permits the optimistic chairman to tell his own story. If Lynch were convinced of the truth of this it probably wouldn't be safe for Frank Day to call, for the big man has but one great wish—to "rest in peaceful seclusion." He'll have a hard job doing this for the rest of his life. He has gone to the mat with John Lind in this fight of a party against a man, and he's branded as a leader, otherwise he never could have broken into this column.

STEEL STRUCTURAL WORK WILL BE BEGUN WITHIN THREE WEEKS

have advanced so far that the site is ready for the structural steel men, there should be every reason to expect speed in what construction remains to be done.

Concrete Work.

The concrete foundations of the big machine shop are being completed. This shop, the foundations of which cover a long stretch of ground, is the building that will be first to go up during the coming new period of construction. It will be of steel and concrete, with one high story. The concrete foundation is massive and the supplementary supporting walls are unnerous—not more than fifteen feet apart.

The structural steel that will be used in this building will come from the Minneapolis plant of the American Bridge company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation. When it comes it will be all ready to be put in place and rivited together. This work is done rapidly, but it is dangerous work. A man who has had considerable experience with this class of industrial labor shook his head when told that the steel soon will be on the site and remarked:

"That's when men will begin to get killed. I understand that not a life has been lost so far in the work of constructing this plant, but when the structural iron workers get here, look out for casualities, if not fatalities."

The concrete brick plant is running full blast near by the machine shop foundations and as soon as the structural iron is in place concrete blocks will be turned out as rapidly as they can be used in the rearing of the shop's walls.

Some distance east of the concrete plant a steam shovel is doing its gigantic task, rapidly loading train after train with gravel and sand. This is hauled around a horse-shoe shaped track to the side of the concrete plant, where the containers are tilted by a gang of five brawny laborers and the material is left heaped beside the track. Sand and gravel are separated before the train transports its cargo to the plant.

Another busy track runs alongside the power house, to the west of the machine shop. Between the two structures there is a deep gully, which is being filled in. A train of about twenty cars is backed along the track to its terminus just at the farther end of the power house wall. On the last car of the train is an unloading plow. It looks not unlike a great snowplow and it weighs many tons. Attached to the prow of this plow is a strong cable, which is attached to the last car of the first section when the train is cut in two for unloading. As soon as the middle cars are uncoupled, the engineer gets a signal from a man who stands on the upright side of the unloader, where no dirt falls. The engine toots a bit and then starts off, hauling the first half of the train and the plow, which, grinding and screeching as it is dragged over the steel plate protected car ends, shoves the dirt off the flat cars and into the fill. When the plow reaches the flat car at the end of the stationary section nearest the engine, it is stopped, with less than half that car's load removed from that car.

The engine backs the remaining loaded cars up to those that have been plowed bare; the cable is attached to the engine, and the operation is repeated. This time the plow is stopped again when on the first car of the train—which is last in the unloading process—so that always there is on the train more than half a carload of dirt.

It takes about ten or twelve minutes to unload a train of twenty cars by this method, and only five men are visible during the time it is done, if the engineer and fireman be accepted as invisibilities. When the engine pulls its trailing flat cars away from another visit to the ever-active steam shovel, the five men fall to and with scoops send the dirt at the brink of the slope down into the fill.

Water Pipes in the Air.

A striking thing about this fill, to the untutored mind, is the simple manner in which water supply pipes are laid from the neighborhood of the machine shop to the power house. They are strung through the air and the ground put in to fill the space under them and to cover them over.

From the vicinity of the machine shop, off to the north where the ground is being prepared for the construction of the first of the blast furnaces, sewer pipes are being put in. This is an important, difficult and slow piece of work, because of the needs of the prospective plant and the nature of the ground.

The furnace has not taken definite form. Preparatory work is being done there, however, that will make it possible to push the construction rapidly when it is gotten under way. Near this part of the works the additional power plant will be built. The power house in use at present is permanent, but it will afford far less than the capacity which will be required. The power derived from it is hardly sufficient to carry on the operations now in progress. The steam shovels and pile drivers are constantly in use, the concrete plant uses much power and the other numerous pieces of power driven machinery make heavy drains on the plant.

Off to the west from the furnaces, but between its location and that of the power house now used, will be the rolling mills. No visible work has been done on its site.

The costly bridge over the St. Louis river is almost completed. All that remains to do is to put up the steel where the bridge is to span the Northern Pacific tracks on the outskirts of New Duluth. This will not require much time when the steel is all on hand. The work is in progress now.

NAVAL MANEUVERS AS THE MAIN FEATURE OF PROPOSED CARNIVAL

the light expense. The government would pay for the naval maneuvers; the Boat club already pays for the Venetian fete and the regatta. The city might have to help out a little, but we could give them a carnival which would be talked of all over the country."

Not a New Idea.

For two or three years past the plan of holding a carnival has been more or less discussed, but the idea of securing the naval maneuvers and making them the central feature of the carnival is a new one. The naval maneuvers would furnish just the needed excuse for such a carnival, and it is believed that they can be secured.

The maneuvers have never been held on Lake Superior, and Duluth can offer unequalled advantages. In the first place, the high rocks of the north shore provide a perfect natural target for the practice with the big guns.

Along the shore of Minnesota Point, sand forts could be erected, and the vessels could hold a sham battle there, attacking the point in small boats under cover of fire from the vessels.

The maneuvers of the fleet are most interesting, even to a landsman. There are now nine vessels in the Great Lakes squadron, and between 1,600 and 2,000 militia men. The maneuvers include races between the small "pulling boats" of which there are about forty; exercise with sails, such as putting up the mast and removing it; ship drills; signal drills; fire drill; "man overboard;" "abandon ship;" landing parties on the point; night drills; search light drill; semaphore, wig-wag and various signals and target practice.

The harbor and the lake shore provide an ideal maneuvering ground for the boats. The maneuvers have been held on Lake Huron, Lake Michigan and Lake Erie, but never on Lake Superior. It is Duluth's turn, and all Duluth has to do to get the maneuvers is to go after them. This is already being done in a quiet way by some of the members of the naval militia, but it is believed that the proper wires could be pulled at Washington to land them. Duluth would not be asking any favors in going after them, but merely what the city is entitled to, as a result of having had the crack ship of the fleet for several years.

These maneuvers would cost the city nothing unless some entertainment were provided for the visiting militia men. They would form the nucleus of the week's water carnival.

The Venetian Fete.

The Venetian fete is already in existence and needs little adding to. It is admitted, by all who have seen it, to be the most beautiful water spectacle that can be imagined. With the impetus given it by the water carnival it could easily be doubled in size. The accommodations of the boat club are already taxed by the crowds that attend it, but excursion steamers and floats and barges could take care of many thousands more.

Duluth has already secured the rowing regatta for 1911 and crews from Winnipeg, Fort William, St. Paul, Port Arthur, Kenora and possibly Minneapolis will be here next July to contest with Duluth crews for the rowing supremacy of the Northwest. This regatta is in itself a big thing, and is more and more attracting the attention of the rowing enthusiasts of the country. At Winnipeg, St. Paul and Kenora thousands of people witnessed the races held during the last three years

A motor boat regatta is also in prospect for next year. The Duluth Boat club is planning to hold a series of races open to all the speediest motor boats in the country and these races would provide a most interesting program for one or two days.

It would require very little planning to arrange a first-class sailing regatta, with the other attractions to draw the sailors to Duluth, and the fastest sail boats on Lake Minnetonka and White Bear lake could be brought to the city for a week.

Log rolling has always proved a popular sport in the Northwest and a log burling competition would provide a novel entertainment for the tourists.

War canoe races, canoe races, swimming races, high diving exhibitions and countless minor water sports could be included in the program and all with the facilities now at hand. In fact, Duluth could provide a week's entertainment of water sports for the tourists that could not be equalled any place in America.

If the city could be decorated for a week, the railroad and steampship lines induced to advertise the carnival and offer low rates, and an attractive and catchy name secured for the week's entertainment, it is believed that it would offer more inducements to the thousands of tourists seeking novelty and recreation than any event of its kind now in existence in the United States.

The key to the situation is the securing of the naval maneuvers. If the Commercial club and other public bodies will take the matter up, it is believed they can be secured and the other plans can be worked out at leisure. Prompt action is necessary to secure them, however, as some decision may be reached during the coming week, when the vessels will gather at Buffalo.

will begin a tour of the industrial plants of Duluth, with a photographer as his aid, and photographs will be taken of the safety devices in use in the local factories and plants. These photographs will show the machinery with and without the safety attachments, and will be added to the collection of such pictures in the possession of the labor bureau. They will form part of the bureau's exhibit at the state fair.

"We plan to have a publicity bureau which will devote its attention to the task of minimizing preventable accidents by means of educational work," said Mr. McEwen, who returned this morning from his office in St. Paul. "In the last year there were approximately 12,000 industrial accidents reported to the state labor bureau. This total does not include the accidents on farms, nor in the operation of railroads, but does include those occurring in the railroad shops. Many accidents were not reported, because of the employers' unfamiliarity with the new law requiring that they be reported. There were many minor accidents upon which no reports are required. Only those enforcing an absence from work of a week or more come under the provisions of the section of the law.

Half Are Preventable.

"It is a fact that 50 per cent of these accidents are preventable. This has been demonstrated in the experience of the department. Safety devices and safeguards can prevent them.

"We want to interest the employers and the public in this effort to bring about a decrease in the number of preventable accidents. In Germany great progress has been made. The government maintains at Charlottenburg, near Berlin, a museum of safety and sanitation which is a powerful influence in the education of employers and employes in this regard. It is housed in a building twice the size of The Herald building and is devoted to the exhibition of safety devices of every character and description. These devices, attached to dangerous machinery, make it impossible for the workman to be injured. If the workman gets his hand or his finger in the machinery, it stops instantaneously. There was one safety device shown, attached to a job printing press, which automatically pushed the workman's finger out of the mechanism if it got caught there.

Lives Thrown Away.

"You may remember that two men were killed in Duluth last year by being caught on the shafting near which they worked. They were whirled around the shafting until life left their bodies. In Germany such a thing can not happen, because of safety devices about the pulley, and even if a workman should be caught in that manner any person at any of the machines could instantly bring the whole machinery of the shop to an instant stop by means of a safety switch above his machine.

"I spent three days at this museum, one of them a Sunday. On that day the museum was visited by more than 5,000 persons, who came for instruction on the operation of machinery and the prevention of accidents. The government is conducting a persistent and effective educational campaign, with the result that there has been a decrease of 53 per cent in the number of preventable accidents in the last five years.

"It is my privilege to inaugurate a movement along such lines in the state of Minnesota. We have a small collection of safety devices in the department offices at St. Paul and desire to interest the employers and employes in the movement to establish a museum of safety and sanitation in the state. We expect to go before the legislature and ask for an appropriation for this purpose.

"There is in Minnesota an army of 100,000 workingmen. Each year approximately 12 per cent of this great army is maimed and made halt by preventable accidents. If in a battle, in which that number of Minnesota troops was engaged, a like proportion of casualties resulted, the entire state of Minnesota would go into mourning, but as these industrial accidents are spread over a longer period, but little attention is paid to them.

"I do not pretend to say that all accidents are preventable, for many will always occur in the industries. But it is particularly desired to do what can be done to reduce the number of accidents caused by negligence on both sides and to eliminate completely those which are preventable.

"Several Duluth concerns lead the state in providing proper safeguards about every place in their institutions where danger lurks. Photos of these are desired to show what can be done.

"Incidentally, I might say that in Germany every safety device is painted red. It is always conspicuously before the workman to warn him of danger. It is a fact that here the man who works about dangerous places is the one who is most frequently the victim of accidents. He fails to recognize the danger because he never has been hurt there before. Accidents always occur where they are least expecting them, as with the man who hits the clothes-line when chopping wood.

"In our work the great majority of employers have shown us the utmost consideration and friendly assistance, and are glad to receive recommendations from the department.

"Once in a while we encounter the employer who is impatient over suggestions that the department offers. Recently in congress a speaker advertised to a tragic incident of which I had knowledge just after it happened. The speaker told of a factory inspector in Illinois who was urging upon the employer the desirability of making a slight change in his plant. A set screw was being considered and its dangers discussed, when the employer, flourishing his arms in characteristic gesticulations, declared, 'No one ever has been hurt by that.' No sooner had he said this than his sleeve was caught and in an instant the man was killed."

stories of seeing one man talking to the doctor just before the shooting and of seeing two men running away after the killing.

A well dressed woman, all agree, had visited the dentist's office a short time before and her identity is being sought.

His gold watch and $180 were found on his body by the police. His widow, who is now out of the city, will be asked upon her return if she knows of any person who had cause for enmity against her husband.

Never Spoke After Shooting.

Dr. M. A. Martin, sitting on the porch of his home nearby, heard the shot and saw two men run away. When Dr. Michaelis fell to the walk Dr. Martin went to his aid and asked him:

"Do you know who shot you?"

He is uncertain whether the wounded man's nod of the head was affirmative or not. The victim did not speak after the shooting.

Mrs. Michaelis, who was in Fairmount, Ind., with her daughters, Misses Ruth, Marjory and Mary, was expected to return here today.

DEADLY CORN SHREDDER ALREADY GETTING BUSY.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS BETTER THAN INDICATED

New York, Aug. 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today, says:

Business conditions are irregular and at some points unsatisfactory, and yet, while falling short in volume and profits of that state of buoyancy that existed at the beginning of the year, it is better than the superficial aspect of the leading markets makes it apparent.

Reports from the principal trade centers are of especial interest because in the main they are optimistic. One declares that belief in fair activity in the fall is more general. Another reports considerable improvement, notably among jobbers of woolens and cottons. Another reports quite an active wholesale movement in dry goods. A leading city in the Northwest reports increased confidence, larger buying and some reinstatement of cancelled orders. A neighboring market reports sales equal to a year ago.

Pig iron production continues to diminish, but the demand for steel products and particularly for wire, pipe and structural materials, is large. Prices as a rule show little change, but the tendency is still downward and concessions to induce business are said to have been offered in certain quarters. Pittsburg reports that no increase appears in new business, although there was a good total in steel bars, but prices are not firm, $1.40 being quoted for contracts, a reduction of $1 per ton.

The low condition report on cotton was one of the underlying causes for a further hardening of values in primary cotton goods and yarn markets. Curtailment of production has become drastic and is also influencing prices. The demand from printers, converters and the manufacturing trades, who must anticipate their wants, is better, but jobbers still buy conservatively. Export trade with the Far East is slow, but there is very satisfactory miscellaneous business with Hayti, Manila, San Domingo, Central America and some South American ports. Spring openings on woolens and worsteds have not been attended with any keen buying yet. Buyers are numerous in the central markets and operations are still very conservative.

New orders for footwear come in slowly, but New England plants are fairly well engaged and manufacturers have a considerable volume of reserve contracts on hand. The price question retards new business somewhat. The leather market is still awaiting developments in most quarters. Trade in domestic packer hides is less active, but sufficient business is consummated to advance the market about half a cent on all varieties.

INDIAN GOVERNOR SAYS M'MURRAY OFFERED A BRIBE

of $30,000,000 worth of Indian lands in Oklahoma.

This assertion formed the substance of testimony given by Senator Curtis today before the committee appointed by the house of representatives to investigate what are known as the McMurray contracts.

Senator Curtis came here to testify following testimony given by Senator T. P. Gore, who declared he had been informed that Mr. Sherman and Senator Curtis each were "interested" in the contracts, the approval of which by congress and President Taft was sought by J. F. McMurray.

Charges by Gore.

Senator Gore charged that a New York syndicate stood ready to purchase the lands for $30,000,000, and the contracts held by McMurray called for a ten per cent "attorney's fee," whereas the Indian treaties with the government provided for the disposal of the land without any expense to the Indians.

On the floor of the senate and in his testimony, Senator Gore charged that the proposed sale was an attempt to "rob and plunder" the Indians.

Taking the stand before the committee, Senator Curtis related the details of a conversation which took place at the White House between President Taft, Vice-President Sherman and himself last April. The senator explained that he was a member of the senate committee on Indian affairs, and that previously, as a member of the house, he has been for fourteen years a member of the house committee on Indian affairs. He also related that Mr. Sherman had been chairman of the house committee previous to his election to the vice presidency. That said the senator, accounted for their having been called at the White House to discuss the McMurray contracts.

White House Conference.

"Some time last April I was called up on the telephone and asked to go to the White House," testified Senator Curtis. "The president, Mr. Sherman and myself then began to talk about Indian affairs. The president suggested the possibility of reopening the question of the Indian enrollment. It seems there are about 14,000 claimants who assert they are Indians and who were left off the rolls and consequently are not enjoying the privileges accorded to Indians.

"I told the president it would be a serious mistake to reopen that question. The president then asked about McMurray. I told him I had known McMurray for years and as counsel for the Indians he had never lost a case.

"The president then wanted to know what we thought about the contracts allowing 10 per cent attorney's fee. The reply of both myself and Mr. Sherman was that in this instance we did not believe the Indians needed any attorney on a 10 per cent basis or any other basis.

Sherman Gave Advice.

"We called attention to the fact that the treaty between the Indians and the government called for a sale of the land by the government, and no counsel was needed. It was pointed out that to give attorney's fees in this case would be simply to deprive the Indians out of that much profit guaranteed to them by the government. That formed the substance of our talk.

"We further suggested to the president that he should never take any action on any Indian contract until he referred the matter to officials who had thoroughly investigated the subject."

Congressman B. S. McGuire of Oklahome, also mentioned by Senator Gore as being "interested" in the contracts, was scheduled to go on the stand today.

Mass of Denials.

With United States Senator Thomas P. Gore reasserting his charge that he had been offered a bribe of $25,000 or $50,000 to influence his action in congress, and with Jake L. Hamon, accused by the senator of having offered the bribe, denying he had ever done any such thing, the investigation yesterday simmered down to a mass of denials.

For four hours Hamon, former chairman of the Oklahoma Republican state committee, entered a continuous series of denials relative to his alleged relation with the McMurray contracts. Hamon also answered Congressman C. F. Creager with a denial.

Replying to the congressman's charge that Hamon had suggested that an "interest" in the contracts might be available to the congressman if the latter helped remove opposition to congressional approval, Hamon testified:

"It was just this way. I was down here in Oklahoma attending to my business, when a friend told me Creager had said I had approached him improperly in regard to the McMurray contracts. So I hopped on a train and went to Washington. I got hold of Creager and said: 'Look here, you know I never said any such thing.'

"Got That Impression."

"Then Creager said: 'No, Jake, that certainly was the impression I got—that you suggested I might get an interest in the contracts.' I replied: 'You certainly are mistaken.'

"Then Creager said: 'Well, if you say I shouldn't go, I won't go before that investigation committee down at Muskogee and testify that you approached me.'"

Among Hamon's denials were the following:

He denied that he at any time had been closeted with Senator Gore in the senator's offices at Washington to argue the approval of the contracts.

He denied he had ever mentioned Vice President Sherman, Senator Curtis of Kansas, or Congressman McGuire of Oklahoma as being "interested" in the contracts, as charged by Senator Gore.

He denied he had ever spoken of a bribe to anybody about the legislation, or that he ever was interested in the McMurray contracts.

He denied that at the time the contracts were being discussed he had called up Congressman Creager on the telephone at Washington, asking for an appointment, but said Mr. Creager had called him up; Mr. Creager previously had testified that Hamon asked an appointment, at which the interest in the contracts was spoken of.

Denied D. F. Gore's Charge.

He denied he had ever said: "Dick, the senator is becoming mighty hard on his friends," in the presence of D. F. Gore, brother of Senator Gore; D. F. Gore had testified that Hamon made the remark just after the senator refused the alleged bribe.

He denied that he had ever said: "I want to make a lot of money and don't care how I make it," in the presence of J. Leroy Thompson, Senator Gore's stenographer; Thompson had previously testified Hamon made the remark.

Interrogating the witness, Congressman Saunders, a member of the committee, said: "Now, Mr. Hamon, you have denied the testimony of all of the witnesses who have preceded you. You have branded the assertion of the senator, his brother, his clerk and the congressman as being absolutely false. It would appear from your denials that a conspiracy had been entered into to grossly misrepresent you. How do you account for that?"

"That's beyond my power of conjecture," replied Hamon. "I never had one penny's interest in the McMurray contracts and never offered a bribe to anyone.

Says Gore Wanted Help.

"It is barely possible that I did see Senator Gore on May 6, last, when he says the offer of a bribe was made. I saw him frequently, but at this time I believe he took me up into the library of the senate and closed the doors. He wanted to talk over with me his coming campaign and see how I could help him out financially. Although I am a Republican and he a Democrat, I was in the habit of helping him out."

"You and Senator Gore had been good friends, had you not?" asked Chairman Burke.

"Yes, I had known him as a friend for about nine years and had business dealings with him."

Asked to explain some of his business dealings, Hamon said several years ago at Lawton, when the government decided to sell at public auction some lands belonging to the Indians, he Senator Gore, and others entered into a combination not to bid against each other so that the property might be obtained cheaply.

All of them secured some of the land, he said.

Chairman Burke—"Don't you know that there is a federal statute against a combination to prevent competitive bidding?"

Hamon—"I did not know of that law then, but I have since thought of it. It was just a desire on the part of all of us to get the land as cheaply as possible. It was understood among us that we would not bid against each other.

Quizzed by Miller.

Congressman Miller—"You know that the proceeds from that sale were to go to the Indians; do you think that was honorable toward the Indians?"

Hamon—"We did not look at it that way. In fact, we do not do things out West just in the same way you do in the East."

In some of his business transactions with Senator Gore, Hamon testified, money loans were involved.

More evidence from Senator Gore probably will be heard. The senator announced he intended to accompany the committee to McAlester, where sessions will be held Monday. Senator Curtis and Congressman McGuire probably will testify tomorrow.

ON THE IRON RANGES

TO IMPROVE ITS SYSTEM

Virginia Fire and Police Commission Plans to Better Service.

May Acquire Modern Hose Wagon Operated By Gas Engine.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the present fire hall quarters are inadequate is the opinion of the police and fire commission, but the lack of funds stand in the way of needed improvement. This year's tax levy will not provide the necessary money to make the improvements wanted, and the commission is trying to devise some means whereby sufficient funds to build the addition can be procured. Plans and specifications have been drawn for an addition 27 by 75 feet, two stories with basement, and the sum of $20,000 is the estimated cost, together with additional apparatus. It is proposed to equip the department with a hose wagon operated by a gas engine. The wagon is fully equipped with hose, ladders, and chemicals, and costs about $4,000.

Six additional men will be needed when the proposed new addition is complete and together with the present equipment and the new apparatus contemplated, Virginia will have one of the best equipped fire departments in the state.

The alarm system is undergoing a complete change. On Chestnut street and Central avenue the wires connecting this system will be laid in conduit and lead cable and the boxes placed on ornamental cast iron posts.

New Men Appointed.

Owing to the retirement of M. T. Rooney and Stewart Murray from the department, the chief has been instructed to appoint men in their places. John A. Krusell has made application for a position on the department and Arthur Stickney is already serving on probation. Maj. Smith, who has been on the department for some time, is now a regular.

Three new Universal hose couplings have been ordered for the department, and the commission has set aside the second Monday of August of each year as the date for the annual hydrant test.

Chief of Police Walsh has been empowered to select two additional patrolmen and a night jailer, one patrolman in place of Bartley Morton, resigned, and one to patrol the South side, the jailer to take the place of Nels Anderson, who has resumed his position as janitor of the city hall. W. D. Vreed has been put on to patrol the North side, and Harry Adams, who has been on the force for several months, is now a regular.

Bills aggregating $1,445.21 were allowed by the commission.

Dry Goods Merchant After Run of Hard Luck to Try Twin Cities.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—I. Lewis, one of the first dry goods merchants to locate here, has decided to close out his business and go to the Twin Cities. During the last two years Mr. Lewis has experienced two serious reverses in business, one during the great fire of September, 1908, when his entire stock and building were reduced to ashes and again this spring when his entire stock was, for the second time, totally destroyed by fire and water.

W. H. Dawson, district deputy of this district of the M. W. A. is in the village to help the local membership in the work of recruiting new members, and with a view also of repeating this year what the Chisholm lodge did last year, which was to carry off the pennant from all the M. W. A. lodges of the state in the matter of securing new members for 1909.

Jalo J. Kekoni has lately returned from a business trip to St. Paul, where he purchased all necessary equipment and additional stock for his new drug store, which is to open in the Bergeron building.

The normal school will now have four large, airy and well-lighted schoolrooms. Mr. Anderson will have the work done some ten days before the terms of the contract will have expired.

The cement walks are nearing completion and the five cluster lights on Lake street have been mounted on the white way posts. The effect of the improvement will be pretty at night, and with the nice new walks, the main business street of Chisholm will be as pretty and attractive as any of its size on the Mesaba range.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

CLOUDY

This was a beautiful day, one of those sparklingly lovely days that seem so distinctive of Duluth as 9,864 tourists have remarked during the summer. Everybody admitted today that this was a lovely day and there is no particular use of evading the issue. And so for the 879th time it is admitted, it is or was a lovely day.

The sun rose this morning at 4:53 o'clock and will set at 7:34 o'clock, making fourteen hours and forty-one minutes of sunlight.

A year ago today it was cloudy and threatening.

Of weather conditions Mr. Richardson comments as follows:

"The northwestern disturbance is now central over Southern Saskatchewan. During the last twenty-four hours it caused light rainfalls, but local showers or thunderstorms in North Dakota, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and higher temperature in the Red River valley. Cooler weather prevails this morning throughout the Rocky mountain region, in consequence of a rise in barometric pressure. Further showers fell along the Atlantic coast and over the St. Lawrence valley as a result of the depression overlying Eastern Canada, while the Arizona low pressure caused showers in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado. Temperatures of 90 deg. or more were the rule Friday over the greater portion of the South. Indications favor scattered showers at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes—Light to moderate, variable winds; partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, except probably showers on Western Superior.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy, with showers tonight or Sunday in west portion.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy with probably showers in extreme northwest portion tonight; Sunday fair.

Iowa—Partly cloudy with probably showers tonight or Sunday.

MEAN MUCH TO SHIPPERS

New Rules of Interstate Commerce Commission Are Important.

Railroads Must Point Out Increases When Rates Are Raised.

Hereafter when railroads change their rates they must do it in such a way that shippers will know at first gance, when the schedules come to hand, whether the changes are increases or decreases; and when the interstate commerce commission suspends any schedule of rates or any rate, the transportation companies must advertise to the shipping public that such suspension has been ordered.

"Special Order No. 7," received in Duluth yesterday, reads: "In the matter of indicating increase in rates, fares, or charges.

"It is ordered, that all tariff publications, classifications, or supplements thereto, filed with the commission on or after Sept. 1, 1910, must indicate by the use of blackface type or by the use of symbols with proper footnote explanations, all charges in rates, fares, or charges which are increases over rates, fares, or charges formerly in effect, and all changes in rules, regulations, or classification ratings whereby any rate, fare, or charge may be increased."

The reform contemplation under this order is one that has been sought by the National Industrial Traffic league for a long time. Thousands of tariffs are filed each day at Washington and they bear no marks indicating whether the changes in rates represented by the figures mean increased or decreased taxes on commerce in transit.

It has been impossible to do more than file these tariffs away, and to see that they conform to the legal requirements, and if the commission is to carry out the new law, it must either compare every item in these new tariffs in order to know which rates constitute increases, or such increases must be indicated by the carriers themselves when publishing the new tariffs or supplements. Under this new ruling the shipper also will have his attention directly called to all increases in the rates on the traffic in which he is interested, and thus will have the opportunity of filing a protest with the commission and invoking its power of suspension, in the event the commission has not thought it necessary to suspend the increase on its own initiative.

The commission's mandate as to suspension of tariffs is contained in "Special Order No. 6," which follows:

"It is ordered, that when the commission, under authority of section 15 of the act to regulate commerce, as amended, suspends a tariff publication, or supplement thereto, each and every carrier shall, by itself or agent, upon receipt of lawful notice of such suspension, immediately post at its stations and file with the commission, on one day's notice, supplements stating that such tariff publications, classifications or supplements thereto are under suspension, and that the rates therein contained will not be applied or charged until further notice, or until such specified date as the suspension order of the commission may name.

"Such supplement must bear on its title-page the following notation:

"In compliance with special order No. 6 of the interstate commerce commission of the 13th day of July, 1910.

"EDWARD A. MOSELY,
"Secretary."

WOMAN FAINTS AND LOSES $2,000 JEWELS.

New York, Aug. 6.—With $2,000 worth of diamonds in her hand bag, Miss Tinnie Bonner, a saleswoman for a jewelry firm, fainted on the street today. While a policeman was assisting her to her feet, somebody from the surrounding crowd plucked him by the arm and said: "Here's the sick lady's handbag." It was empty when she opened it.

N. A. YOUNG

N. A. Young, assistant county superintendent of county schools, has filed for the Republican nomination for county superintendent of schools. Mr. Young is a resident of Eveleth and is very popular on the ranges, besides being well known in Duluth. He has issued the following statement regarding his candidacy:

To the St. Louis County Voters:

I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for county superintendent of schools. I am a resident of Eveleth. Since Feb. 1, last I have been assistant county superintendent of schools, and for seven and one-half years before taking that position was principal of the schools at Soudan and Aurora. I was graduated from the Illinois State Normal university in 1902 and have since been continuously connected with St. Louis county schools.

If nominated and elected my sole aim will be to provide the county with such schools as requirements demand and to maintain those already established at the highest point of efficiency. N. A. YOUNG.

GROCERS PLAN A BIG EVENT

Annual Picnic at Fond du Lac Thursday, Aug. 26.

Duluth grocers and their friends are looking forward to the Retail Grocers' seventeenth annual picnic, which will be held at Fond du Lac, Thursday, Aug. 25. The committee on arrangements began work early this year to make the event the biggest picnic ever held at that popular summer resort and the prospects are that their expectations will be realized.

The steamers Newsboy and Mascotte have been chartered for the day and ample provision has been made for the comfort and convenience of those who attend. A special feature of the picnic will be the athletic prize events and the cash prize waltz. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody to participate in the celebration.

BIG INCREASE IN INFANTS' DISEASES.

Only the fact that Duluth is an extremely healthy city has saved it from an epidemic of disease during the hot weather, according to several local physicians. There has been a noticeable increase in diseases of infants, the records showing that several deaths have been due to cholera infantum. Dr. Webster, health commissioner, says there has been more intestinal trouble this year than during any of the eighteen years he has been in Duluth. He explains that it is probably due to the decomposition of foodstuffs, although it is so, slight that it cannot be perceived by taste or smell. He also thinks that appendicitis has been more prevalent than usual.

For Loss of Appetite
Take Horsford's Acid Phosphate.
It is especially recommended for restoration of appetite, strength and vitality. TRY IT.

NORWAY NAMES BRYN MINISTER TO AMERICA.

Christianna, Norway, Aug. 6.—S. H Bryn, consul of the Norweglan legation at Paris, has been appointed minister from Norway at Washington. He succeeds Ove Gude, who died July 1, 1910.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The state department has not been formally advised of the appointment of Mr. Bryn as minister of Norway to the United States. Acting Secretary Wilson said, however, that informally the name of Mr. Bryn had been presented to the department a few days ago as the probable successor of the late Minister Gude.

GLASS EYE STOPS SHOT INTENDED FOR SUICIDE.

New York, Aug. 6.—Emile Mammon, a confectioner's assistant, failed in an attempt to commit suicide last night because the bullet from his revolver was deflected by his glass eye. The young man was ill and homesick. "America" he had written his mother in Germany, "is too big a place for me."

WE COME INTO THIS LIFE WITHOUT OUR CONSENT

We leave it against our will, but we can live and enjoy life while we are here. The first step toward the enjoyment of life is the possession of perfect health. Perfect health is the greatest asset of man and it can be enjoyed by all who diligently seek it. The services of the most successful specialists in men's diseases in Duluth, are at the disposal of all men who require medical aid.

We study and learn our patients and their diseases, we know our remedies with their good and bad effects and when we give one we give it with a clear-cut idea as to why and for what it is given and its effect on the average patient—not what we hope it may do for an individual patient. When we have diagnosed a case we know what form of remedy is required. If it is electricity that is used, if other remedies are required we use them and when necessary we use electricity together with other remedies.

The methods of the past, and a part of those of the present, may be compared to the blunderbuss, flintlock, black powder age of firearms. That of the scientific physician of the present and the future must be that of the modern high-power, effective, smokeless and comparatively noiseless rifle; for a few drugs and the active principles of our best-known medicines may be depended upon to give results that are fairly definite in assisting the organism in its contest with the disturbing factor. These we may use when a definite end is in view to be attained by their actions.

MEN if you are ailing from any physical disorder, let us diagnose your case. It will be a pleasure to us and may result in the regaining of your health.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LATE RAINS GREAT HELP

Showers Came as the Wheat Was Heading Out, Doing Much Good.

Red Lake Falls Man Hopeful About Red River Valley Crops.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Labissoniere and P. B. Goss, well-known business men of Red Lake Falls, spent yesterday in an automobile trip through the farming country between that place and Crookston, and also made a circle fifteen miles south of this city to the southern boundary of Polk county, in Scandia township, looking over the crop situation.

"The general crop situation has been viewed through pessimistic eyes in this section," declared Mr. Labissoniere. "While I would not attempt to claim that there are sections that are not damaged, I am positive that in many sections of Polk and Red Lake counties better than an average crop will be thrashed. This is certainly true of Eastern Polk county. Of the west end I know little.

"We examined fields of three-rowed wheat which will run from 25 to 28 bushels per acre, and we have lots of fields in Red Lake county which will yield that amount. The few showers we had when the wheat started to head out did a vast amount of good. The heads shot up, making the grain easy to harvest as regards length, and the heads filled in great shape. The wheat is going to grade well and will weigh heavy.

Trip Made Him Optimistic.

"I have looked the situation over very carefully, and I am more optimistic since this trip than at any time this year. We saw harvesters in nearly every field, and the yield is more easily judged when the grain is being cut. We conversed with scores of farmers, and they talked just as I am talking now. Coupled with this is the perfect weather for harvesting and the fact that only once before in twenty-five years have we had such a start in harvesting. That year, about fifteen years ago, some cutting was done on July 28, and there was considerable cut this year before that date.

"The corn crops look fine. Farmers have been enjoying sweet corn for the past week, and have lots of it. The pastures are pretty bad in places, but milch cows can soon range on the fields and get all manner of the best of forage. When the thrashing machines tell the story, it will be found that the Red River valley will have a grain crop that will exceed the expectations of fully 75 per cent of the people. It will be the old story repeated—we always get pretty good returns in this section on a dry year, but get a bad scare along with it."

BACK FROM MISSOURI.

Parole-Breaker Who Fled State Is Returned to Stillwater.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Roy Green was apprehended in Missouri and returned to state prison as a parole violator. He was a young man when convicted of forgery in Washington county and sent to the reformatory at St. Cloud.

The offense charged was passing a bad check upon a butcher in St. Paul Park. He was sent to the reformatory from Washington county, Nov. 21, 1906. He was once released from the reformatory on parole, but was again taken into custody and sent to the state prison for incorrigibility. Again he was paroled and left the state soon after being released last January. His conduct has been such that he will probably serve the maximum penalty.

Warren Clark has also been returned to the state prison for violating his parole. He was arrested for intoxication in Minneapolis. He was given a sentence of ten years for robbery in Itasca county in June, 1904, and was paroled June 30 of this year.

Charles Reeves has been received at the state prison under a sentence of two years for grand larceny in the second degree.

HANCOCK EAGLES VERY INDIGNANT

Mad at City Council for Demanding License for Street Carnival.

Hancock, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hancock city council at its last regular session refused the use of the streets for the Barkoot Carnival company at the Eagles' reunion to be held the week of Sept. 19, unless the city is compensated by the payment of a license of $25 a day.

The Eagles have contracted with the Barkoot people to come here and give their shows, and a delegation of the Hancock aerie was present at the council meeting to apply for a permit to use the side streets and to ask that the collection of a license fee be waived. The council was willing to grant the use of the streets, but thought that a license fee should be collected, and a motion was carried to this effect, the fee being fixed at $50 a day, or $30 for the week. The question was argued for half an hour or more during which it was decided that the sum asked was rather heavy and it was changed to make it $25 instead of $50 a day.

The action of the council has greatly incensed the Eagles and Secretary C. E. Rouleau has called a special meeting of the aerie for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Rouleau hall, at which every member is desired to be present, to consider what further steps shall be taken in the matter.

LEFT TO HIS FAMILY.

Eccentric Rochester Man Did Not Leave Property to Churches.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 6.—The will of the late August Krause of Dover, who died recently in a bathhouse at Atlantic City, has been filed here and the document proves that the many statements published that the eccentric bachelor would leave all his worldly possessions to various churches was without foundation.

Krause went to Germany some time ago to visit relatives, and upon his return, stopped at Atlantic City. It had always been one of his desires to take a dip in the waters of the Atlantic at this favorite resort, and it was following a bath that he was attacked by heart trouble causing his death. The deceased was a bachelor and very peculiar, and it was said that he had oft made the statement he would never leave his property for his relatives to wrangle about, but would give it to the churches.

S. H. Somsen of Winona, presented the will in the Olmstead county probate court. George Pfefferkorn of St. Charles is named executor. The estate is valued at $50,000 and is left to his brothers and sisters and their children.

SHIP MUCH PRODUCE.

Section Around Jamestown Furnishes Eggs and Butter Galore.

Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 6.—G. W. Brown, a produce dealer, has paid out within the last sixty days some $35,000 for eggs from this part of the state. The eggs have been shipped to Western dealers. He is paying out about $8,000 a week for butter shipped in from various points. Butter is now 2 cents a pound higher than this time last year. The demand in Alaska still keeps good. Among the creameries whose output is purchased is that of Edmunds. Although this is a new creamery the farmers are patronizing it in good shape. A new buttermaker was recently secured.

The matter of food for stock is the most serious one which confronts the farmers and there is already noticed a falling off of the supply of milk at this time of the year when it should be the greatest.

IS STATE SECRETARY OF FRATERNAL EAGLES

Brookston, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A most peculiar accident occurred at the local coal chute Thursday evening, about 9:30 o'clock. Engine No. 1191 had pulled up to the chute to obtain a supply of coal, and the fireman had let down the pocket, when he slipped and fell to the bottom of the tender. About five tons of coal were precipitated upon him and it was some time before he was extricated. The engineer obtained assistance and had the coal shoveled from the unfortunate fireman. He was in bad shape when rescued and was sent to the hospital at Cloquet for medical treatment.

Boy Burned By Gasoline.

Instantly there was an explosion, resulting in the painful burns to the little fellow. The other children escaped, but were badly frightened.

WILL REMOVE STONES.

Crookston Automobile Club Plans Improving Adjacent Highways.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crookston Automobile club, which is a member of the Minnesota as well as the National Auto association, is preparing the various routes which will be properly posted with signboards by the Goodrich tire people, who will have two special cars here for that purpose, the work to be done under the auspices of the Crookston club. The local club is also planning a tour to Maple lake, in a few days, in which every available car will participate, each containing several husky men armed with pinch bars, and every stone in the fine prairie road to the lake will be removed, thus making the drive one of the finest in the state. The wheel tracks are as smooth as paving, but the grass overhanging partially covers rocks, which if hit at full speed means a bent axle or a more serious wreck. This, and all other main roads radiating out of Crookston will be lined with guide posts which will be a great aid, not only to autoists, but to all travelers through the country districts.

COWBOY SHOOTS RATTLERS.

Reptiles Unusually Thick in South Dakota This Summer.

Kyle, S. D., Aug. 6.—Never in the history of this part of South Dakota have so many rattlesnakes been seen as in the present summer. The great increase is supposed to be due to weather conditions. It has rained here little and the temperature has run high. The bad lands, a few miles north of here, are fairly alive with rattlesnakes. At the mouth of a cave in the bad lands, fifteen miles north of here, one day last week, Peter Baxter, a cowboy, came upon a nest of snakes. With his revolver he shot twenty-nine. His ammunition than having become exhausted, he continued the attack with a club, in this manner killing forty-six.

ST. ANTHONY CROPS FINE.

Section Around That Part of Stearns County Flourishes.

St. Anthony, Minn., Aug. 6.—This section of the county will have about as fine a crop of wheat as has been harvested here for years.

Thrashing has started and from the reports received, wheat will go all of thirty bushels to the acre. This section has a heavy soil and the grain withstood the drouth very well. While the dry spell did some damage its results are not nearly so disastrous as was first anticipated. A slight rain Thursday night did much good to corn and potatoes.

SOUTHERN MINNESOTA DOCTORS CHOOSE OFFICERS.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 6.—The Southern Minnesota Medical association, which has been in session here, has adjourned. The papers included a wide range of medical subjects and were read by men prominent in the profession in the southern part of the state. The election of officers resulted: T. L. Hatch, Owatonna, president; H. F. McGaughey, Winona, vice president; C. E. Crewe, Rochester, second vice president; W. T. Adams, Elgin, secretary-treasurer.

LAKE PEPIN VERY LOW.

Steamers Cannot Land; Stock Feeding Where Boats Once Ran.

Maiden Rock, Wis., Aug. 6.—Lake Pepin is so low at this point that the steamer Red Wing no longer can land at either of its usual landings and is obliged to land at Rattlesnake Hollow, some distance below the village. Grass has sprung up and cattle are grazing where the largest steamers usually have found no difficulty in running.

MARINETTE EDITOR IS VINDICATED BY COURT.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank E. Noyes, publisher of the Eagle-Star, has been discharged on the charge that he had obtained money from the county under false pretenses. (Copyrighted, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

THERE are judges and judges in these United States of ours, some sitting in the Supreme Court with all the pomp and circumstance that the ingenuity of man can invent to add to their impressiveness and others, perhaps, toying with a six-shooter in a cabin in a little frontier town. Wherever they are, they represent the majesty of the law and they are likely to be extremely jealous of their personal dignity and of the outward signs of respect that must be shown them by their less important fellow citizens.

They feel that their brain work, their judgment, their impartial weighing of all the points of a case, is of so vast importance to so many people that no pomp is too great to raise them above the common herd.

Yet, when the Supreme Court of the United States again has a chief justice you could in all truth say to him: "Come with me and I will show you half a dozen men, most unostentatious in appearance, with nothi g whatever to mark them from their fellow men, with no pomp and no circumstance and with no theatrical ceremonies to make them impressive. Yet these half dozen men are more powerful than you. Their decisions affect the whole American people more intimately and more personally and more dearly than any that you can make. They wear no gowns and sit on no thrones, yet a false decision on their part would probably stir up such an upheaval of popular indignation as no question brought before you could excite."

Then you could take the chief justice out to Chicago and show him a big, smooth-faced, kindly-eyed but reserved man working at a desk much as the head of any unromantic business concern works, and you could say:

"That's Ban Johnson. When he delivers a decision, it affects 50 per cent of all the Saturday half holidays in the United States. All he has to do is to pack his grip and take a trip tosome other city without announcing his intentions and every newspaper in the East has a big display heading on the first page speculating as to what it means."

Or, you could take him in the fall to New Haven, Conn., to the office of a big clock manufacturing concern up there and show him the president, another business man with bald head and twinkling eyes, and you could say:

"That's Walter Camp. Before the football season starts, every college man and school boy and 'rooter' in this great country of ours wants to know what he has to say before the pig skin is snapped back for the first play."

So, too, you could take him among the teeming tenements of lower New York and show him "Charley" White, who has refereed more big prize fights than any living man and whose decisions have transferred millions of dollars from one pocket to another. Or, an equal authority in the same line, you could show him Johnny Eckhardt sitting in his Philadelphia burlesque theater. You could take him to the dinglest kind of a third story office on Murray street, New York, and show him James E. Sullivan, without whose approval no amateur runner or jumper or shotputter or track athlete can consider himself in good stand. You could stop him at almost any big sewer job in Manhattan and find out that it was being done by James Pilkington, president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, an autocrat of the oars whose subjects are numbered by thousands. You could show him a bronzed, serious faced man turning out "copy" for a magazine in Liberty street, New York, and you could tell him that the myriads of golfers from the Atlantic to the Pacific look to this man, Walter Travis, for judgment on almost any disputed point. So, too, you could show him the veteran James Dwight in the Somerset club, Boston, or "Al" Hoskins in his Philadelphia insurance office, the two rulers of the tennis world; and while you were in Philadelphia you could take him around the corner to the office of a cricket magazine and show him a slim young Englishman, H. H. Cornish by name, and point to him as the American arbiter of the English game.

How did these men gather into their hands this immense power which has been given to them? They are bald-headed and middle-aged, most of them, and the strenuous young athlete in the fulness of his physical vigor is likely to cry out, "What do these old codgers know about the game, anyhow?"

The athlete is not prone to read much into the history of his particular form of sport. He knows the men who are champions now and he has a hazy recollection of the men who did things as long ago as five years back, but the fame of the sportsman is fleeting and he is soon forgotten. So these men are known not for their triumphs on track or field but simply because they have become the arbiters of the games they represent. Yet they have all been doers of great deeds and their decisions of today are founded upon a knowledge gained by strenuous physical effort and the victory of their own prowess over that of their rivals. They are the men who have "played fair," for in nothing is dishonesty so quickly uncovered as in sport and it is only the scrupulously conscientious man who can attain to the positions that these men have won.

Ban Johnson, Baseball Czar.

Ban Johnson couldn't possibly retain the absolute confidence that all baseball "fans" repose in him without this integrity. He is an excellent example of the impartial judge, for he has often rendered decisions against his own personal interests and, while he has made many big fortunes for other men, he is today only moderately well off as fortunes now are rated. He has a generous salary of $25,000 a year, voluntarily raised to this figure by the men in his league, and he earns every cent of it.

Francis C. Richter, the veteran baseball writer, himself almost as much an arbiter of baseball as is Johnson, declares that there is no business man in the United States who is so well worth the money he is paid or who spends so large a proportion of it in advancing the interests of the men he serves.

"Johnson is by all odds the biggest man in any sport today," said Richter recently. "There is no problem too great or too complex for him and yet, while he deals with great things of national importance, his mind is so keen and active that it is in complete control of the smallest detail of the many petty things that are constantly brought to his attention.

"It was Johnson and Johnson alone who settled the umpire question, who forced the owners of all clubs to uphold the dignity of the umpire against the rowdy player and by that one triumph he placed baseball in its present position of popularity. He changed it from riot and confusion to orderly and fair procedure and inspired the public confidence without which it could not possibly have attained the position it now occupies with the public."

Johnson is one of the hardest working men in the United States. Winter and summer he is tied to his labor with little chance for rest, and the interests of so many people depend upon the thoroughness and fairness with which he does everything that he cannot afford to leave details to subordinates. He has to dig into each question personally and to dig into it all the way down to rock bottom. As a member of the national commission, he faces between 400 and 500 problems every year; the decision reached in each is filed in exhanstive written form together with all the papers bearing upon it, just as is done in the supreme court of the United States, and yet, so strong is the public's confidence in Johnson's integrity and the thoroughness with which he does things, that recent years have brought no objections to his verdicts even when these verdicts are the opposites of the popular ones.

Like nearly all men who deal with big things, Johnson is very reserved with his acquaintances in general. He is genial and very human, and he loves the good things of life in moderation, but it is only a few intimates who get under the surface with him. To others he is a charming companion, an interesting talker, a good story-teller, but a man who confines his conversation to general subjects and who has never been known to betray an important matter in a moment of indiscretion. Johnson has no such moments. He has trained himself through many years to the practices of diplomacy, and, in the baseball world, he is the type of man of whom we make ambassadors in international relations.

Byron Bancroft Johnson, to give him his full name, was born in Cincinnati, the son of a professor. In his boyhood and college days he was a clever baseball player, and when, after graduation, he took up newspaper work, he drifted naturally into baseball writing. He was a free and frank critic of the abuses that were then rife in the fame, and it was not long before he ran afoul of President Brush of the Cincinnati club, to whom Johnson was a constant thorn in the flesh.

In 1893 Charles Comiskey prevailed upon the pugnacious baseball writer to give up his newspaper work and become president of the Western league. Brush controlled the Indianapolis club, and for this reason Johnson was afraid there would be constant dissensions, but Brush was only too glad to get his severe critic out of Cincinnati journalism. So Johnson accepted.

His long fight with Brush is now a matter of baseball history; so, too, is his gradual growth in power, until, in 1899, his Western league became the American league. His invasion of the East in 1901, to become fully established by the famous peace treaty of Jan. 10, 1903, changed the entire baseball situation and established it on the bases upon which it now rests, with the two major leagues working in harmony and combining their efforts for the betterment of the game. That they have succeeded is shown by the fact that the total attendance at the games of the two big leagues for the year 1909 was 7,978,108. These are the subjects of Ban Johnson, the arbiter of baseball.

The Czar of Track Athletics.

Next to baseball, in number of devotees, is amateur track athletes. There is scarcely a school in the United States, be it large or small, but has its track and field sports, and they are all conducted under the rules laid down by the Amateur Athletic union, which is to say, James E. Sullivan, president and director.

Sullivan is a strong man from whatever angle you view him. He is genial and kindly and easily approached as he sits in his dingy little pigeon hole of an office on Murray street, New York, but there is a forcefulness and a domineering strength suggested in every action and tone and attitude that convinces his visitor that Sullivan would be a bad man to fool with. Even the grip of his jaw as it sets his teeth firmly into a big cigar means tenacity of purpose and pugnacious determination.

The muck-raking magazine writers love to picture Sullivan as the leader of the "athletic trust," but the man who has officiated at 40,000 separate events on track, field or gymnasium floor and whose decisions are still accepted with respect by tens of thousands of athletes does not worry about the charges of the muck-raker. There are bound to be rebels in a kingdom the size of his.

Sullivan is a man with no false modesty. He has been so often publicly assailed by men against whom he has given decisions that he is now perfectly willing to point to his record in justification of the position he holds. He is not boastful of his achievements; he merely relates them, when asked, in a perfectly matter-of-fact and disinterested way, much as though he were speaking of Smith, Jones or Brown, but the list of his triumphs is so long and his victories and his other activities have been so notable that the pronoun "I" is bound to crop out oftener than it should in the conversation of most men. Yet it is almost impossible for Sullivan to talk athletics without this pronoun for the simple reason that there has not been an important athletic event for many years with which he has not been mixed up in some way or other. One wonders how he can have accomplished so much for sport and still have attended to his big publishing business.

Yet his business has really been an outgrowth of his athletic activities, for the first important step he took independently, after leaving a ten-years' employment with the late Frank Leslie and then with Mrs. Frank Leslie, was to become, in 1888, editor and one of the publishers of the Athletic News, one of the first sporting papers in this country, the principal mission of which was to support and spread the Amateur Athletic Union, which was formed in that year. Sullivan was one of the founders of the Union and was on its first board of managers.

The fighting abilities of this czar of amateur athletes were well shown during his days as editor of sporting papers. His greatest rival in this field was the Francis C. Ritchter, already spoken of and then, as now, editor of Sporting Life. Sporting Life was hurting Sullivan's Athletic News. There did not seem to be room for both papers, so Sullivan planned a coup that should put his rival out of business. He called a trusted man into his office and said:

"You go over to Philadelphia and hire every man and boy in Richter's office, no matter what you have to pay them. Do it secretly and arrange it so that they will all leave at once."

It was a bold stroke but it failed. It is, however, a good example of the extreme methods to which this determined man will go to win out. It is this "wholesale" view of things that has enabled him to cope with the big figures with which he deals. He is the kind of man whom it would be impossible to keep in a small town; he must always be doing things on a big scale; he must handle thousands where others would be content to handle hundreds or tens.

He began his athletic career as a pupil in a grammar school in New York city and trained in a marble yard back of the present St. Patrick's cathedral. He belonged then to St. Aloysius society, but it wasn't big enough for him. He joined the Pastime Athletic club and carried off over 100 prizes in six years. He won the all round championship of the Pastime and became its president in 1884, all the time winning everything in sight.

The Pastime, having yielded to him everything it could, became too small. He wanted something bigger. So, while still its president, he organized the first boxing championships of New York state and the all-round athletic championships of America. This was more to his liking. He had become national.

Each year since 1901 he has been appointed referee of the intercollegiate championships and he has been director of athletic games at many international expositions. He was appointed by the crown prince of Greece secretary of the American committee of the Olympic games in 1906, and, because of that work, was appointed by Roosevelt in 1908 to the be United States commissioner to the Olympic games in that unpleasantly historic year when international athletic relations became so strained.

All this time he had been filling a score or more of important official positions in American athletics year after year. But yet he wanted something bigger—something really immense that nobody else ever had before and that he could claim for his very own. So he formed the Public School Athletic league in New York, which now has 650,000 members with 125,000 contestants annually, and then he organized the Catholic Athletic league with about 60,000 members. As has been said, he has been an official in over 40,000 separate athletic events and unless somebody invents some new field of athletic effort for him to enter and control and expand and organize, James E. Sullivan is likely to die of a broken heart

The Twin Czars of Pugilism.

Time was when the names of Charles White—"Good Eye Charlie," they called him—and John P., or Johnny Eckhardt, were names to conjure with for the followers of pugilism. White's fame was great though he did little outside of New York city and since the repeal of the Horton law and the death of big boxing in the metropolis, he has gradually dropped out of sight except for those who know him as a political lieutenant of Big Tim Sullivan. Johnny Eckhardt, on the other hand, made a regular business of refereeing and he traveled from Boston to New Orleans and from New York to the Rocky Mountains. And everywhere he went his word was law in pugilism.

Five or six years ago he left the squared circle and went into the "show business." The writer asked him why, the other night.

"Oh, well," he said, "in my day, I was used to dealing with men. When we made a match we made it with men of affairs, who knew what they were talking about. Now you have to deal with a lot of fresh boys. Kids who ought to be in school try to tell you how to run the game and think you are a back number if you don't do as they say. So I got disgusted and quit."

But Eckhardt has not lost his love of the game by any means. He is now managing a burlesque theater in Philadelphia and the first thing he did when he took charge was to arrange for the regular Wednesday night boxing bouts after the show. He referees these contests himself and, in memory of the great days when he was the official referee of the Coney Island Athletic club, he has had built an exact duplicate of the famous Coney Island ring with white enameled posts, blue enameled screw buckles and red-plush covered ropes.

In talking to Johnny Eckhardt today it seems impossible that he could actually have taken part in the stirring events of thirty or more years ago that he loves to relate. He admits to 48 years of age but were it not for the silvering hair above the ears and temples, he looks like a man of 30. His skin is smooth and as unlined as a young girl's and his clear grey-brown eyes are as bright and snappy as a schoolboy's. Yet he was a famous referee in the days that are now history and he saw most of the old bare-knuckled fights that can be related only by old-timers.

There isn't a calmer or quieter or more soft-speaking man in the world than this arbiter of bloody battles. Yet, in the ring, he is a vastly different person. They tell stories of the fury he has shown when his orders were not obeyed—how he once kicked a second in the face for repeated failure to follow instructions, how he threatened big Gus Ruhlin and Marvin Hart with a beating if they didn't fight harder, how he stuck to a fair decision he had made even when a notorious safe-cracker pressed a revolver against his breast, how he stood side by side with mankilling Jerry Dunne, each with a chair in his hand, while a hostile mob surged about them, ready to maul the referee who had insisted on fair play for an unpopular negro fighter.

"I don't know how it is," says Eckhardt, "but when I get in the ring I know I've got to be boss and there doesn't seem to be any way to make me give in. Out of the ring I'm afraid of everybody, but when I'm refereeing I'mthe captain of the ship and everybody's got to admit it."

It was Eckhardt who was largely responsible for the big purse offered to fighters today and he loves to tell how he, backed by "Judge" Dick Newton, the Coney Island watchmaker, went to the bar of the Hoffman House in New York and bid against the Crescent Club of New Orleans for the Jim Hall-Bob Fitzsimons fight in 1893. The largest stake ever fought for up to that time was $25,000, hung up in South Africa, but that had never even been approached in this country.

The Crescent club had given Hall and Fitz $5,000 each to bind the match. Eckhardt started the bidding with an offer of $20,000.

"$21,000," said New Orleans.

"25,000," said Eckhard.

"$26,000," said New Orleans.

"$30,000," said Eckhardt.

So it went—$31,000, $35,000, $36,000, $40,000—when Fitz, white as a sheet at such an unheard of thing, ended it by saying that he was in honor bound to accept the next New Orleans figure of $41,000.

Charley White was known more as a great handler and trainer of young fighters than as a referee. He brought more stars of pugilism from the amateur ranks than any other man and it was he who launched young Griffo upon his spectacular career. White's activity as an arbiter in the ring was confined almost entirely to the Seaside Athletic Club of Coney Island, where he was the referee for the two Sharkey-Ruhlin contests and for the Jeffries-Corbett fight.

"Walter Camp Says—"

It will soon be time now for the newspapers to appear with their annual headings, "Walter Camp Says——" A football season does not really begin until this quiet, unassuming business man, who is the head of a big clock factory in New Haven, Conn., delivers his dictum as to what should or should not be changed in the rules. So completely is Camp identified with football that it will probably surprise most readers to know that, during his college days, he was even greater as a baseball player, and that his triumph of scholarship and literary ability enabled him to enter Yale without conditions, to make the first division on scholarship qualifications, to take both junior and senior appointments scholarships and to win both the ivy and class odes in competition in his senior year. He is and always has been a most remarkable combination of physical and mental power for, while he was doing all this, he was also captain of both the football and baseball teams in his freshman year, and was captain of the varsity football and baseball teams throughout his college course. In fact, he was again elected to head the baseball nine the year after graduation, but he did not believe in graduate captains and so resigned.

Camp's literary activities started in his school days and have continued ever since, his name being constantly seen in the magazine. Besides this, he is the author of many volumes, most of them dealing, of course, with college sports, though one of his books reveals him as an authority on bridge whist.

"There has really been nothing remarkable in the achievements," said Camp recently, "except that I happened to take an interest in athletic sports when they were on the beginning of their upward career."

Walter J. Travis, the arbiter of golf in America, was born in Australia in 1862 of English parentage. He came to this country in 1886 as representative of a big firm of English and Australian iron merchants with whom he was associated for over twenty-five years.

"I saw the error of my ways," he said a short time ago, "and became a naturalized citizen."

The game of golf claimed him as a devotee in October fourteen years ago. He was in London just previous to this when he heard that a club of which he was a member was about to start a golf club which afterward developed into the Oakland Golf club.

"I took up the game in self-defense," he said. "I was brought up on cricket and went in for tennis, bowling, bicycling and billiards. I had ridiculed golf. I came to scoff and remained to pray. Golf is now my sole hobby."

Travis has won the amateur championship three times—in 1900, 1901 and 1903; the British championship in 1904; the Metropolitan championship in 1900, 1902 and 1909, was second in the open championship in 1902 and has won a number of minor titles. He is now the editor of the American Golfer.

America's Cricket Arbiter.

Last year, when the Belmont, Pa., cricket eleven was playing the Toronto Zingaris, the Canucks had rolled up fifty-nine runs for only four wickets. A slim, loose jointed, near-sighted young man was sent into bowl for Belmont at this crsis and when he calmly took four wickets without allowing the visitors another score and when the famous Bart King performed the "hat trick," taking three more wickets in three balls and the Zingaris were retired without having added to their score, the spectators went wild This is declared to be the only time such a feat has been performed in first-class cricket.

The slim, loose-jointed young man was H. H. Cornish, editor of the American Cricketer and admittedly the leading authority on the game in the United States. Cornish, born and bred in England, has played cricket ever since he was big enough to hold a bat. As a boy of 17 he bowled for the Gentlemen of Sussex against the Gentlemen of Philadelphia in one of the first international matches played. Later he played for three years for the Sussey second team which he captained frequently. When Cornish was only 18 years old and had just begun to win a reputation as a cricketer, Alfred Shaw, England's greatest authority, declared that the young man was by all odds the finest amateur bowler in England.

Some of the Cornish's records seemed to bear out this opinion later. He went to Balliol with the Peripatetics and shut out the famous college for eight wickets with only one run. Then in one of the great "country house" matches of which England is so fond, he bowled for H. D. G. Levenson-Gowers against C. J. Buxton, taking eight wickets for sixteen runs in the first innings and seven for fourteen runs in the second. Long before that, however, he had set a record that he has not since equaled He was a 16-year-old school boy when he played for Mid-Surrey against Surrey. In the first match he took six wickets for seventy-two and in the second he bowled twenty-four overs, twelve of which were maidens, and allowed only twenty-four runs for six wickets.

Cornish has played with or against practically every well known player in America, England, Australia and Canada but, oddly enough he had never played against the famous W. G. Grace, the "grand old man" of English cricket, until the very last match in which he took part before he left his native country nine years ago, to settle in America. And his proudest memory is that he batted W. G.'s bowling for forty-one not out.

Nine years ago, as has been said, Cornish came to America and became assistant editor of the American Cricketer five years later. In 1906, upon the death of F. H. Clarke, Cornish succeeded him as editor-in-chief, and he has since become the recognized authority on the English game in this country.

He seldom has time for field work now, but last year he went to Montreal and in spite of a broken rib, played with the United States team against the Canadian eleven. As his first big match had been with Sussex against Philadelphia, this gave him the distinction of being the only man who has played both for and against American elevens in first-class matches.

The Lawn Tennis Czars.

A. L. Hoskins, secretary of the United States National Lawn Tennis association, refuses to admit that he is an authority on the game.

"Of course, I settle a good many of the questions that are brought up for adjudication," he says, "but Dr. Dwight is the real athority. You can only make me out a bad second."

Nevertheless, while Dr. Dwight is president of the association, it is doubtful if even he analyzes and weighs so many disputed points during the course of a year as does the modest but very busy secretary. Dr. Dwight attends to the big things; Hoskins settles the rules by which the game is popularly played.

Mr. Hoskins is Philadelphia born and bred and he is proud of it. Ever since he was 10 years old, which was not so very many years ago, in spite of the bald head which he always strokes ruefully in speaking of his age, he has been a member of the Belmont Cricket club and for many years past he has been re-elected its president as regularly as the annual meeting rolls around. He has always stood well up toward the top in the ranking of American tennis players, and, in 1899, he and Miss Elizabeth Rastall won the mixed doubles championship of the United States. Mr. Hoskins is the head of a big insurance firm which has grown from a small beginning in nine years until today it occupies the whole of a big building.

Of Dr. Dwight, it is impossible to write much because he does not like to talk about himself. He admits being

TWO NEW TOWNS WILL SPRING UP ON THE NORTH SHORE FOLLOWING THE CONSTRUCTION OF LARGE PAPER AND PULP MILLS, SAWMILL AND POWER PLANT

SITE OF THE FIRST BIG RESERVOIR, AND OF THE PAPER AND PULP MILLS.

The accompanying illustrations show the beginnings of what is to be an important Lake county industry, financed and managed by Duluth and Northern Minnesota men. The National Power & Paper company, recently incorporated, has begun the construction at Lockport, situated at the mouth of Poplar river, of a large concrete dock, which is within the haven of a good harbor formed by a natural reef.

This dock is the outpost of the new industrial invasion of Lake county. Up along the courses of the Poplar river are four dams, the nearest one a distance of two miles and a half from the Lockport dock. At the first dam there is a townsite, called Niagara, which will be the factory location. Vast quantities of pulpwood in the tributary region will here be converted into paper in a complete modern pulp and paper plant, operated by steam and electricity. Fuel for steam power is ready at hand and the dams and reservoirs will provide electric power, some of which will be used to operate the three miles of railroad being built from Niagara to Lockport for the transportation of the finished product to the lake shore, from where it will be shipped by boat to Duluth. Later, the plant will have direct rail connection with Duluth, the Minnesota & Northern road being already built to within twenty-five miles of the site. It is estimated that raw material is available in sufficient quantities to keep the plant running fifty years.

POPLAR RIVER, WHICH WILL FURNISH THE POWER.

SCHIFF LIKES THE ALASKAN OUTLOOK.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 6.—Jacob Schiff, the New York banker, arrived here last night from Alaska, where he has been examining at first hand the resources of that district, in behalf of investors. He is quite optimistic over the outlook there. He made careful note of every phase of the country and is ready to present an interesting report to Wall street.

Accompanying Mr. Schiff are Gen. Wilson, who was in command of the United States troops at the Boxer uprising in Pekin; Prof. Loeb of Harvard and George Arthur Plimpton, the Boston publisher. All have many trophies of big game hunts in Alaska and Northern British Columbia.

ILLINOIS BRIBE PROBE HALTED

Sangamon County Grand Jury Has Returned 115 True Bills.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 6.—The Sangamon county grand jury has adjourned after having returned a total of 115 true bills, of which ten were against persons acused in the legislative bribery scandals. The jury was in session nearly three months and more than 100 witnesses were heard in connection with the charges of graft in the state legislature.

The discharging of the grand jury does not mean that the probe is at an end. According to State's Attorney Burke the investigation has only begun. The next grand jury probably will meet the first part of October unless it is deemed expedient to get a jury together before that time.

Indictments in the legislative investigation have been returned against the following persons:

State senators—D. W. Holstlaw, Iuka, perjury; John Broderick, Chicago, bribery; Stanton C. Pemberton, Oakland, conspiracy.

State representatives—Michael S. Link, Mitchell, perjury; Joseph S. Clark, Vandalia, conspiracy; Lee O'Neil Browne, Ottawa, conspiracy; Robert E. Wilson, Chicago, conspiracy.

The indictments against Senator Holstlaw and Representative Link were nolled under the "immunity bath" agreement.

WOUNDS THREE AND IS KILLED

Shelby, Ohio, Aug. 6.—After a brief but bloody running battle in which three men were wounded, Harley May, aged 23, was shot to death by Patrolman Jacob Gates late yesterday.

May, who was a hostler, started trouble in a Main street saloon by shooting at the bartender. He missed the bartender, but shot George Cline, a farmer, through the upper portion of his chest.

Going into the street May calmly reloaded and shot Patrolman W. G. Shaw through the breast, inflicting a possibly fatal wound. The youth then fled down Main street and took refuge in a private residence where a posse, led by Patrolman Gates found him. May fired first, slightly wounding Gates, but the latter on his first shot pierced the young man's jugular vein with a bullet and the lad, clutching his revolver, sank dying to the doorstep and expired before he could be removed.

Cline, the first man wounded, will probably recover, but Patrolman Shaw's condition is serious.

Winona at Duluth. Two games.
La Crosse at Superior.
Eau Claire at Red Wing.
Wausau at Rochester.

(BY BRUCE.)

Before mounting the mound for yesterday's engagement, Monsieur Blancke informed his team mates that his arm was in no shape for that brand of pitching calculated to win a baseball game. Mr. Blancke held the tribe of Winona to four scattered hits and to one lone score, and performed as nicely as a real good little boy when mother has company.

Just what Messrs. Pearl and Byers informed Mr. Killian before ambling boxward, it is quite impossible to say. But those possessing an inkling of the character of Mr. Killian, can imagine what that gentleman said. Both of these boys were treated shamefully by the reformed White Sox. They were both retired from the mound, Outfielder Crangle finishing the game and pitching better ball than either of the regular boxmen.

In all, the Sox gathered fifteen hits, winning the matinee by the swollen score of 9 to 1. It was a great afternoon for the band of hope brigade. Those who have sat in the stands and sun-kissed bleachers these dog days and fumed and gnashed their teeth under the cruel stabs of cold defeat, yesterday had the opportunity of cheering long and loudly. Runs came fast and furious for a brief spell, and were accompanied by loud-voiced yells.

While Blancke showed a trifle wild in the opening rounds, he settled and pitched a great game—one of the best seen on the home grounds the present season. All of which leads to the question as to what this boy could do, were his arm in good working order. His curves were breaking nicely over the corners, and in his capable hands of yesterday, the fierce Pirates were quite tame and restrained.

White Sox Start Scoring.

In the opening round we gathered one sweet score. J. Anderson singled through tall Mr. Pearl and was sacrificed to second by the other Dromio, Anderson. Here King Kohl hit sharply to right and Jay raced across the plate, Edward going down to second on the throw to the plate. O'Brien and Altermott went down on infield offerings.

In the second the enemy gathered their only run of the large afternoon. It happened when Dang was treated to a base on balls at the baseball lunch counter, went to second on Goodman's infield out and registered when Uncle Joe Killian hit to left for two bases. Joe was over greedy and was caught trying to go to third on his hit. Pearl—who was cast before swine, figuratively speaking—struck out.

In the second, just to keep ahead, we scored one more. Holstrom led off with a merry triple to the fence in right center. Cummings hit a short fly to right, and then Schwab hit a single to the same field, scoring Holstrom. Blancke and J. Anderson were retired via the infield route.

Wherein We Score Many.

Here follows the prosperous third. Runs came so fast in this round that the score keeper in left field lost proper count, when players came chasing each other across the plate in twos and threes.

Mr. George Anderson started the inning by doubling past short. Kohl hit to right for his second hit, sending the speedy Andy across. Home Run O'Brien hit a slashing double against the left field fence, just missing clearing that obstruction by inches, and King Kohl was over. Altermott singled past Shortstop Davy, sending O'Brien to third. Holstrom drew four, and Cummings, in the role of outfielder, hit through the pitcher's box, scoring both O'Brien and Altermott. Mr. Schwab singled, sending Holstrom across. Blancke grounded out to first, Cummings moving up on the retirement. J. Anderson singled to right, Cummings moving over the happy thought plate, closely followed by Schwab. J. Anderson was caught trying to steal, and G. Anderson, up for the second time of the inning, struck out.

And thus was the scoring for both sides ended. We had a plenty, and the Pirates were unable to solve the sharply-breaking benders of the indisposed Blancke.

Mr. Pearl lasted only two short innings, each of which, however, was filled with excitement. Mr. Byers lasted only until the fourth, when Outfielder Crangle was beckoned in from the daisies and assigned the mound work. He did it right well, too.

This afternoon the Pirates will hook up for two games. The first baseball argument will start at 2:30. It is getting to the stage where Uncle Joe must win games to have any chance of second place, and count upon it, Sophie, that he will make strenuous efforts to annex both the attractions this afternoon.

INFIELDER DOLL TWIRLS INDIANS TO VICTORY.

Red Wing, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Red Wing defeated the Eau Claire leaders here yesterday by the score of 9 to 3. Shortstop Doll pitched for the Indians. The infielder had the Schooners guessing in all but one inning of the game. When the game was hopelessly lost, Third Baseman Moore of the leaders went into the box and finished the contest.

Kick's running catch of Doll's long hit to the left field fence, was the fielding feature of the game. Score:

LA CROSSE LOSES FIRST

Superior Takes Opening Game By Close Score of 4 to 3.

Superior took the opening game from La Crosse yesterday by a 4 to 3 score. Clausen was effective in all but the eighth inning, when three runs were gathered off his delivery. Whittaker and Hooker performed for the German band, and both were hit rather freely by the ambitious Red Legs. While Superior is charged with four bungles, some great fielding was done behind Clausen, preventing the Saffordites from becoming dangerous at several stages of the game.

WAUSAU HELPLESS BEFORE CY YOUNG'S PITCHING.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cy Young held Wausau to two scattered hits yesterday, holding the Jacks to one run. But for errors behind him the tall southpaw would have shut the invaders out. Brody and Walliser were chased from the game for wrangling with the umpire. Score:

FIVE IN A ROW FROM ST. LOUIS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Brooklyn made it five straight from St. Louis by winning yesterday's double-header. Rucker was invincible in the first game. Higgins and Hulswitt were banished because of too much kicking over a decision by Umpire Eason. Dalton ran into a fence in the eighth, chasing a foul fly and was knocked senseless, being carried off the field, but recovered later. The second game was easy for Brooklyn, who batted Hamon freely. The fielding of Hummer and Daubert was sensational.

SONOMA GIRL WINS FEATURE

Captures Free-for-All Trot in Closing Card at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—Sonoma Girl, after causing some anxiety by breaking and misbehaving while the trotters were scoring for the first heat, settled down and won the free-for-all trot in straight heats yesterday at the fair grounds. It was the closing day of the grand circuit meeting at Detroit, and there was a good card but no record-breaking time. Sonoma Girl got a bad start in the first heat, but took the lead from Margin at the three-quarters pole by going up on the outside, and won the heat, with Oro and Jack Leyburn close up in second and third positions respectively and Margin many lengths behind. The second and deciding heat was largely a repetition, Margin leading much of the way and Sonoma Girl taking the lead in the stretch. Margin and Jack Leyburn divided third and fourth money.

King Cole, a hot favorite in the 2:09 pace, finished in fourth position in both heats and was set back to ninth in the final for interference at the first turn.

In both heats Merry Widow won in the stretch after letting Asa Wilkes lead to the three-quarters pole.

In the 2:13 trot Gamar led all the way in the second heat, and in the first and third heats had little difficulty in taking the lead from Willy In the last quarter. Pennock had to whip Willy at the finish of the third heat to save second place, as both Tearollano and Margate were coming up fast.

In the 2:18 pace, which May Queen won in straight heats, Halgen took the lead in the first heat, with Clover Patch second. Then Halgen broke and Clover Patch led to the three-quarters pole, May Queen going to the front in the stretch and winning by two lengths. The other two heats were easy for May Queen, who led all the way.

GARDNER AND TRAVIS MEET

Battle of Champions in Golf Tournament at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Walter J. Travis of the Garden City club, New York, three times winner of the national amateur golf championship and once British champion, is today playing the final rounds of the Glenview club's annual tournament with National Champion Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale club, Chicago. Gardner defeated Travis two and one last summer in the third round of the national amateur championship tournament at the Chicago Golf club.

Since his return from Yale, Gardner's game has constantly improved. He had no difficulty yesterday in downing K. L. Ames, a former Princeton athlete, in the 36-hole semi-finals. Travis won his way to play Gardner by defeating J. Sellers of Glenview, but his putting was not so deadly as in previous rounds of the present meeting.

NEW YORK WINS IN RACE FOR PLAYER.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 6.—By a margin of fifty-nine minutes, the New York Americans succeeded in closing negotiations with Manager Steve Griffen of the Danville, Va., club ahead of the St. Louis Nationals for the purchase of Shortstop Priest of the Danville team. Bresnahan of St. Louis had been after Priest and Danville set the price at $850. The St. Louis manager offered $500. New York closed on Priest for $850. Just fifty-nine minutes after negotiations were completed, a telegram from Bresnahan agreed to pay $850.

Priest formerly played in a league made up of teams representing the government departments in Washington.

CAN NELSON COME BACK?

New Problem Confronts the "Sport Experts" of the Country.

The Battling Dane Can Perform Feat If Anyone Can.

(BY BRUCE.)

Man has through these passing years, been the theme for innumerable poems, essays and epics from the inspired pen of those who dwell on the immortality of the soul. Of these modern days, we have been developing the "red-blood" school, a prolific group who write reams of the enduring bodies of men, their endurance and abysmal qualities.

In these days of hurry and scurry the poor abstract soul has taken the count, as it were, and the muscles and sinews of the man have been placed under the microscopic gaze of the boys of the modern school.

Here we are to have another large speculation as to the immortality of the fame of a certain man. The man is Battling Nelson. Today he is crossing the country, on his way to Yellowstone park, where he will rest his somewhat weary frame in preparation for one more try against the come back obstruction to every enduring fame.

In times past, men filled with the fire of ambition have tried in vain to restore to their enervated bodies the vitality and energy of former days of athletic greatness. The spring that Ponce de Leon looked for but in vain, has never been discovered by the most astute trainer in the country.

Men have tried with patience and indomitable energy to nurse back to ripe performance those qualities that made them invincible in their day. We have seen the great and mighty John Lawrence Sullivan sink weary and beaten at the ringside, grasping in clutching hands the ropes of the ring, that he might not fall tottering to the rosined flor of the arena. We have beheld the spectacle of James J. Corbett, ghastly and exhausted, counted out, a ghost of his former self. We had read of Bob Fitzsimmons tottering to certain defeat, his vitality exhausted and his body robbed of its once great strength. We have seen, last of all, James J. Jeffries, a veritable giant, collossal of strength, a cave man in these days of modern life, shorn of his great strength, even as Sampson of old, falling in ignominious defeat, a wasted remnant of former greatness.

We have beheld all these direct testimonials to the law of physical life. We should know that a man cannot "come back." Like Kipling's "Man That Was," these examples have furnished a strikingly lurid example of the fact that man lives, in all his magnificent being, but for a stated period, if he rushes through life at a throbbing, forced pace.

But now we are about to behold a stubborn, seemingly accomplished man, who believes that where others have failed he can succeed.

Battling Nelson has ever been the wonder of the ring. Medical men have declared that he lacks something that the average man is heir to; that where the ordinary mortal can suffer keenly, this man fails to comprehend the pains that would drive others to unconsciousness.

This Nelson is about to butt his shaggy head against the iron rule. He is stubborn and persistent in his belief that he is the master of the man that almost literally murdered him in the ring of the Los Angeles suburb. Is this belief founded on stubbornness, or does this really remarkable man possess that quality of stamina that those other heroes of the squared circle did not have at the one great crisis of their careers?

It is a theme that will be seized upon with eager interest by the "red-blood" school. Even the decadent school that was wont to study the immortality of the soul, might find a congenial theme in this struggle of man against the laws of his being. There is truly something epic in this sight of a stubborn, fighting, man-brute, rising up crying against the immutability of the law that created him. It is like Thor of old, rising his hammer against an obstructing world.

A man who will fight the way Nelson has fought, must possess a soul, however crude and uneducated that soul may be to the higher refinements of life. Now we know that James J. Jeffries does not possess a heart that was capable of withstanding a great trial. His heart and mind gave away before his body suffered the terrible pangs of blows and draining shocks of fatigue.

Nelson always fought on when he was on the verge of unconsciousness. It has always been his instinct. His soul and heart know not of the feeling of quitting. Now he is still filled with the strong instinct of fighting. He is going to try to come back.

If there was ever a man that could perform this athletic miracle, this go back to Elba athletic stunt, this Nelson is the man. Therefore the experiment will possess interest out of the ordinary. Will he succeed where Dempsey, McGovern, Gans, Young Corbett, Lavigne and others have failed?

THE DRAMATIC IN BASEBALL

Critical Moments in the Great G ame When Excitement Runs High.

IT IS the ninth inning, says the New York World. The home team is behind the visitors and needs two runs to win the game. The first batter up strikes out. The second connects with the opposing pitcher's curves for a single that lands him on first base. The next man to face the pitcher hits the ball. He is thrown out at first, but there is a man on second base, advanced by the sacrifice. Still, two men are out. Things looked decidedly blue to the home team rooters.

Then the crafty manager sends in a pinch hitter—a man who is accustomed to step into the breach—a player noted for his ability to hit the ball. The fans wipe beads of perspiration from their brows, while the pinch hitter very deliberately knocks a bit of sod off his shoe with his bat. He steps to the plate and an expectant hush falls over the thousands gathered to see the game.

The result means everything to the home team. The aggregation of bronzed smooth-muscled athletes have been playing great baseball. They have fought their way close to the top of the heap in the race for the pennant. A victory will give them the lead in the league race; a defeat will give them a temporary set-back. The setbacks, even temporarily, have been known to work havac with that fine bit of mechanism—a baseball team.

So, while the fans are wrought to a fine pitch of suppressed excitement, the players, outwardly calm, await the actions of the pinch hitter. A strike is called. From somewhere on the coaching lines the man on second gets a signal. It is invisible to the crowd. But the perspiring athlete on second base interprets it. He capers down the base line, hovering between second and third like a bird ready to dart in either direction. He is watched by the shrewd eyes of the players on the opposing team. The pitcher throws the ball for the batter to strike at. Then the player who has been wavering between second and third bases apparently undecided what to do, becomes an animated sprinter. He has caught his signal to steal. Down the base line he dashes. The crowd is on its feet, yelling frantically, gesticulating wildly, shouting encouragement to the runner. He travels fast, but the ball comes whirling at the third baseman from the catcher at apparently greater speed.

It is a moment of intense excitement. Can he beat the ball? Not by running, surely, for the sphere is coming straight as a bullet toward the hands of the alert, waiting third baseman. But the runner, when ten feet from the base, suddenly throws himself headlong at his goal and in a cloud of dust grasps it with hungry fingers. The third baseman catches the ball with the precision of long practice and tags the runner.

Is he safe? Is he out? Are the two contradicting questions uppermost in the minds of the crowd. The umpire of bases had stationed himself behind third before the runner made his frantic dash. Upon his decision rests the fate of the home team. To the crowd in the grandstand the cloud of dust raised by the sliding athlete acts as a screen. Then the umpire wheels and drawls in stentorian tones "Safe!"

All but the strongest voices of the hardened rooters are husky by this time from cheering. Those whose voices have failed pound madly with their feet, pandemonium reigns for some minutes. In the meantime the pinch hitter it still on duty. The game is far from won. He must hit the ball safely so that the runner on third base can reach home and tie the score. And he proves equal to the occasion. When the fielders get the ball into the infield he is perched on first base and the dust-covered athlete who stole third has sild to the home plate. Again the umpire calls "Safe!" And the score is tied.

On the first ball pitched the pinch hitter darts for second base. Like his team mate, he, too, hurls himself at the bag. But unlike the previous "stealer" he throws his feet forward and drops his body a bit to the right in falling. He falls away from the bag, in other words. There is method in his feat. The catcher's throw to second is a bit to the right and the second baseman has to reach to the right side to receive the pellet. Consequently the runner drops to the side away from the baseman. This time there is no doubt that the runner is safe.

This particular pinch hitter seems imbued with greater ability as a base runner than ever before in his career as a baseball player. But still the wily manager is doubtful as to his player's ability to steal another base. With a reputed erratic hitter at bat something must be done to win the game. A ten-second sprinter is sent out to run for the man on second base.

And the ten-second man lives up to his reputation as a base runner. While the erratic hitter is having two strikes called on him he speeds toward third base. The inevitable slide is necessary, for the members of the opposing team, anticipating the attempt to steal, watch like hawks. Such a shout goes up from the crowd that none notices the umpires momentary indecision as he crouches peering through the cloud of dust raised by the runner. Finally he calls the runner safe, but the shouts drown his throaty call. The wave of his arm, however, signifies to the crowd that the runner has reached the third station in safety.

That, with slight variations, is the history of many a game of baseball. Base running and an ability to dare physical injury in sliding won that game, as it wins many others. In fact, without good base runners, who have the art of sliding down to a science, few teams, if any, can win.

But even a decade ago, while base running was hardly the science it is now, a good base runner won many a game. John M. Ward, the famous old ball player of the Giants, now a prosperous lawyer, was considered by many experts the best base runner of his day. In fact, some claim he was the superior of any base runner, past or present. In 1889 Ward practically won the world's championship for New York from Brooklyn by his base running.

Ward stole two bases at a critical moment in that game, when a base hit meant much. He reached first on his own hit, and then, with Roger Connor at the bat, Ward made a desperate steal for second before Connor had a chance to hit the ball. He was safe. Then Ward signaled Connor that he would attempt to steal third, and Connor stood motionless at the plate. Ward was off with a dash and his spikes hurled the gravel right and left. Again he was safe, and then Connor hit safely to bring Ward home with the tying run. That was in the ninth. It was not until the eleventh inning that Ward got another opportunity to show his speed as a base runner. Then he hit the ball to the infield and beat out to first what looked like a certain put out. And at the same time Slattery, who had led off the inning for New York with a hit and had been advanced to third, showed his ability as a base runner by scoring on Ward's little hit and winning the championship.

Sliding for bases successfully wins baseball games, to be sure. Furthermore, it is one of the most spectacular features of the game. To see a player dash madly at a base and then throw himself at it, running full speed, while the watchful guardian of the base awaits with outstretched hands to receive the ball and put the runner out, makes a dramatic picture on the great diamond.

Like many other spectacular feats, sliding for a base is dangerous. It is dangerous to the man sliding and it is almost equally dangerous to the baseman who is at his station ready to hold off the runner. Many basemen are spiked during the season in the big and little leagues by having the cleated shoes of the runner driven into their legs. With few exceptions the basemen in the different leagues of the country have been spiked at some time or other during their baseball careers. Some of them have never recovered to the extent that they can show their best form.

The runners chance a serious injury every time they slide for a base. As a player becomes more adept in the art of sliding the danger is lessened. But at the same time it is never eliminated. Each year sees a big list of players on the injury list as the result of sliding. The injuries may be said almost to rival the commonplace injuries of the football field.

HALL AND LONG IN TENNIS FINALS.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 6.—W. M. Hall of New York and Melville H. Long of San Francisco, are scheduled for an afternoon battle for the national clay court tennis championship at the Omaha Field club. Every middle west player was eliminated in the semi-final round. There were early indications for the biggest gallery of the tournament to see the final round. The present tournament will decide the first clay court national championship and precludes the playing of a challenge round.

The only local player left in the championship race is Arthur Scribner, who is paired with Long in the race for the doubles cup. They will compete with Ray Branson and his teammate, Barton, both of South Dakota.

A meeting last night of the tennis players of the country decided to organize the American Association of Clay Court Tennis Players. The new organization starts with over a hundred charter members. Promotion of clay court tennis is the object, and the success of the Omaha tournament has given impetus to the movement to arrange a permanent meeting place for the clay court tournament.

RAINS BREAK THE DRY SPELL

Worst Drouth of the Last Quarter Century Is Ended.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The heavy rains which have fallen in various parts of the West during the week have broken the severe dry spell which has worried the settlers for more than two months. Reports to the weather bureau show that practically the entire Western country, from Eastern Wyoming and Colorado to the Pacific Coast states, and from the Canadian boundary to Mexico has just experienced one of the worst drouths of the last quarter century. The only times in recent years when the lack of water has been felt as much were in the summers of 1894 and 1901.

Prior to this week, rain to amount to anything has not fallen for months throughout the Rocky Mountain region, the Great Southwest, nor in parts of the Far and Central Northwest, and as a result everything reached the condition which the settlers call "burned up." The long siege of scorching weather has caused great losses of many natural resources, particularly the forests, where conditions became favorable for the spread of fire, and water in the streams used for irrigation and for power development. In the distribution of rain this year, it looks to the Westerner as if the East received it all.

In many states the rainfall has been less than 65 per cent of the normal amount, and in some places it has been as low as 28 and 35 per cent. This is serious in a country where the normal rainfall is always low, compared with the Eastern and Northwest coast states. While the Eastern states have had in most cases from ten to twenty-four inches of rain since March 10, the Western states have been having only one and one-half to six inches. As a general average for the Western states, this is only about 45 per cent of the normal fall.

In some sections, rain is still needed to relieve the situation. The forests are as dry as tinder, and flames are licking through valuable timber in a half dozen states. Many water holes in some regions are drying up, and cattle are compelled to walk many miles for water. The ranges are seared, and the dry, dead grass and other forage plants offer less than half nourishment for stock. Both cattle and sheep, and particularly sheep, are suffering as a result, bringing about a serious loss of food resources. Crops are suffering, especially in the dry farming region where there is no irrigation, although crop losses are reported not to be as heavy as might be expected under the unfavorable conditions.

More rains are hoped for by all the interests affected by the drouth. This week's rainfall in parts of the Rocky Mountain states, the Southwest and the Far Northwest has done much to check losses. It is now up to J. Pluvius to continue his good work and visit the many other sections where he will find a hearty welcome.

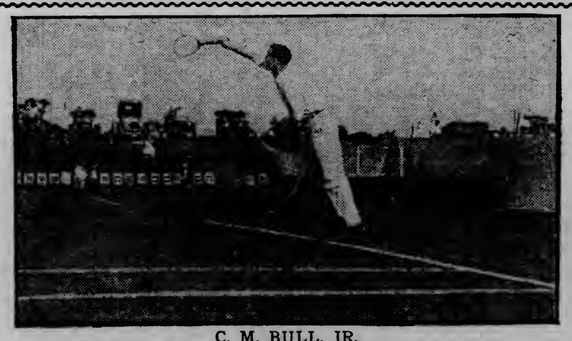
C. M. BULL MAY BE THE NEW NATIONAL TENNIS CHAMPION



C. M. BULL, JR.

C. M. Bull, Jr., may be the coming champion at tennis. McLoughlin of California beat the big men near Boston last week and yesterday Bull beat McLoughlin. Still one cannot judge entirely by these preliminary tournaments because McLoughlin is playing in bad form due probably to the unaccustomed heat of the East and he may get back into condition before the national tournament. Most of the big ones—Clothier, Larned and others—are out of condition this year and experts predict that a new champion is due.

THE NEVADA CONSOLIDATED

One of Furnaces of Steptoe Plant Has an Accident—Giroux Is Sinking Again—Shipments From the Ely-Calumet.

Ely, Nev., Aug. 6.—An accident to Furnace No. 2 at the Steptoe smelter occurred last week and as a result it is now out of commission. In the meantime work is being rushed on Furnace No. 5, which will probably be ready to go into service soon after the first of the month.

After the blowing in of the first furnace at the Steptoe plant two years ago this month, the bottom of each succeeding furnace as it was erected was lined with molten slag from the other furnaces. This slag when cool formed a solid slab nearly three feet in thickness over the entire bottom of the furnace. The reverberatories at McGill are among the largest of their kind, measuring 112 feet in length by 19 feet in width. They are constructed with great care to withstand the tremendous heat which is necessary to reduce to a molten state the calcines which form the charge. With the exception of an accident to Furnace No. 4 about a year ago, this is the first trouble of any magnitude that has occurred at the reverberatory plant since the first furnace was blown in two years ago.

The accident to Furnace No. 2 will no doubt have some effect in reducing the output of copper from the Steptoe plant.

The work of cementing the walls of the pumping station on the 1,200-foot level of the Giroux shaft has been completed and the frames are being set for cementing the ceiling. Frames are also being put in for the cement foundations of the engine and boiler house. The work of sinking the big shaft from the 1,200-foot level has been resumed and will be continued with three shifts. At the 1,400-foot level, when it is reached, another pumping station will be cut and a 600-gallon pump, already on the ground, will be installed.

The Ely Calumet shipped a car of ore which, it is estimated by grab samples, will average 24 per cent copper, and this shipment will be followed by others. The tunnel has now been driven along the vein for a distance of forty feet, and it is practically all in ore of the grade shipped. The winze is down fifteen feet and it is also in ore of the same class.

An air compressor and drilling plant for the Clipper shaft of the Ely Central has been received.

The Eureka shaft is now down 560 feet. The crosscut has been extended more than seventy feet.

ORE IN THE OLD MAYFLOWER?

Former Superintendent of the Mine Wonders If Leasers Could Not Make Good on the Property---Was Once Famous.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 6.—Bassette Gleason, one of the well-known mining men of the Northwest who is now living at Silver Star and operating a small property in the Tobacco Root range, is spending a few days in Butte, accompanied by his family. Mr. Gleason was at one time superintendent of the famous Mayflower mine, which was purchased about twelve years ago by Former Senator W. A. Clark and which won a name for itself as being one of the richest ever discovered and worked in Montana. Just how much money was taken from the property will never be known, for Mr. Clark kept its earning ability among the secrets of his office, and the superintendent and the smelter people are about the only others who ever had a chance to know its production. Anyway, the mine was developed to a depth of 1,170 feet, and then abandoned, or rather operations were suspended.

Gleason talked interestingly about the property yesterday. He said he had wondered if leasers could not make good on the property, taking out ore from some shoots or pockets that might be uncovered. In his opinion, development with a diamond drill in one certain locality in the mine might give good results, but this was a surmise only, although he thought pretty well of the surmise.

The old Mayflower is in rather a queer formation, between shale and limestone and with dolomite close by. The ore was the most peculiar stuff a man ever looked at. Some of it looked like agate. Hold a piece of the stuff up to the light and you could see black spots all through it, for the rock was almost transparent. Ordinarily a man would throw that kind of stuff away as being worthless, but the Mayflower miners did not. They shipped it, for it was worth $500 or $600 to the ton. The bottom level, which is about 300 feet below the level of the bed of the Jefferson river, was also a queer looking proposition. It was filled with egglike boulders of quartz, varying from the size of a pigeon's egg to that of an ostrich's egg. They all carried values, however, and paid well for shipping.

All the ore from this mine went to the East Helena smelter for treatment, for it carried its values in tellurium. There was on reddish streak in the mine, and in this the values were especially high. Old mining men have said that gold ore cannot live in rock unless it is inclined to be honeycombed, but this theory certainly failed in the Mayflower, for that red streak was so hard that it was almost impossible to drill it. Sparks used to fly like rain, and when it came to driving an upper cut there was no man living who could ever hold a drill unless his hands and arms were doubly protected. Residents of that section of Madison county are hoping that some day work on the Mayflower will be resumed and that a diamond drill will be put to work prospecting the ledge. There are hundreds of people who have seen the district, and they are confident the Mayflower chimney is not the only rich chimney that exists in that peculiar formation.

FEUD HAS BEEN TERMINATED

Differences Between the Daly West and the Daly Judge Have Been Settled---Nevada Hills Company Ships High Grade Ore.

Salt Lake, Utah, Aug. 6.—The Daly West-Daly Judge feud has finally been terminated and the Ontario drain tunnel will be driven into Judge ground immediately. Daly West is already driving on the 1,550-foot level towards Judge. It will take three months to connect with the 1,950-foot level, removing water that prevented the Judge company from working below the 1,500-foot level.

This tunnel gives immediate access to the Daly Ontario fissure at depth. It will also open virgin Daly West ground heretofore untouched owing to strained relations between the companies.

Word has reached Reno from Fallon that the first three cars of ore from the Nevada Hills mine have reached Fallon and that the ore has been shipped from that point. It is also stated that the ore will average $700 a ton, and that at the present time there is more han $2,000,000 worth of ore in sight in the mine.

This is the first shipment made from the Nevada Hills since George Wingfield and his associates formed the combination of the Nevada Hills and Fairview Eagle, and it will be followed by others. The Nevada Hills is now being actively worked.

Shipments of high grade ore from the strikes recently made in the Nevada Hills property at Fairview are being made to the Western Ore Purchasing company, at Hazen, and development is adding to the known importance of the find.

Preparations for the mill which is to be erected at the property is progressing rapidly, and the mill will be placed in commission as soon as possible. J. B. Fleming, who was in charge of construction work on the Goldfield Consolidated mill, has gone to Fairview, to take charge of the building of the new mill there.

NEW SOUTHERN NEVADA CAMP

Rich Ore Discoveries at Athens, About Sixty Miles From Tonopah---Gold Values Run Much Higher Than in Tonopah District.

Tonopah, Nev., Aug. 6.—The new mining camp of Athens, situated about sixty miles northwest of Tonopah, is attracting a great deal of attention. Although the camp is nearly a month old, its population passed the 200 mark and is growing rapidly.

Townsite boomers are already very active and lots in two different townsites have been placed on the market, but present indications do not point to the district having a sensational boom.

The formation of the district is practically the same as that of Tonopah, with the exception that the gold values run much higher. The quartz ledges can be traced for miles and pannings can be secured at many points that show values ranging from $5 to $50 a ton. The deepest working in the camp is about thirty-five feet.

A large number of leases have already been granted, and many applications for leases are being made. At present about fifteen assets of leasers are operating and other outfits are making preparations to begin work as soon as possible. Several of the leasers have already secured shipping ore that will run better than $50 a ton, but no estimate can be made as to the tonnage, owing to the insufficiency of development.

Well-known mining men whose word is regarded as authority in the mining world have stated that Athens has the best indications of any camp in Southern Nevada, not excepting Tonopah, Goldfield and Rawhide. This statement has also been made by many practical miners who have inspected the district. The ore is free-milling, and as the camp is only about twenty miles from the railroad, shipping facilities are fairly good.

The original strike was made on ground located by Scott and Martinez, two experienced prospectors. Specimens of rock taken from the Scott and Martinez claims show large quantities of free gold, and it is believed that these men have a very valuable property. Just across the hill from the Scott and Martinez locations, Dyer and Bollinger have a number of claims on which the surface indications are about the same as on the original discovery. All claim owners have been very liberal in granting leases and are exacting a very small royalty.

About a week ago a party of Rawhide mining men, after visiting the district, thought well enough of the showings to pay $10,000 for a lease, which they are now operating on pay ore.

The camp already boasts of forty or fifty tents, while the usual number of stores, restaurants, saloons, lodging houses, etc., are on the ground.

CLARK NOT TO BUILD TO ELY

Montana Ex-Senator Denies Railroad Report---Does Not Know Cole-Ryan Plans---Smelters at Anaconda and Great Falls Running to Full Capacity---Reduced Forces at Mines.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report that Senator W. A. Clark and others associated with him in the control of the Salt Lake road would build a branch line to Ely to carry the ores from the Giroux mines at Ely to the smelter of the International Smelter company at Tooele is not correct, according to a statement made by Senator Clark.

"There has been considerable talk of constructing such a line, and, in fact, surveys have been made, and we talked over the proposition with the different parties interested," said Mr. Clark, "but as far as we are concerned that is as far as it has gone.

"During the past winter the big floods tore out a large section of our road running from Salt Lake to Los Angeles. We have been devoting all our attention since then to the main line.

"About a month ago we completed the repairing of the line so that it could be opened. There was about eighty miles where we were virtually out of business and had to almost rebuild. Now we are planning an improvement of that line which will make a similar trouble in the future almost impossible. At points a new right-of-way will be constructed entirely and at others the roadway will be so improved that there will be no danger from floods.

"The present year will be given up entirely to that work, and no new projects or extensions will be planned until that is finished."

Senator Clark also denied that he was interested in the proposed new railroad lines that are being talked of in Washington and Oregon, or in the Pittsburg & Gilmore line.

His main object at present is to put those properties he is already in control of into shape with roadbed and equipment that will make them substantial properties in every respect.

Questioned as to whether any of these interests allied with him were considering the building of the talked-of line, Mr. Clark said that as far as he knew nothing of the kind was contemplated. Of course, what the Cole-Ryan people might do in that line he could not say.

The surveys that have been made, he said, showed such a road could easily be constructed, and it would reach through a rich ore-producing section that would prove quite a feeder for the big smelter at Tooele, but as far as he is personally concerned he has no idea of building that line at present.

Mine Forces Reduced.

According to the statements of Anaconda officials the smelters at Anaconda and Great Falls are running to their full capacity with ore from the mines in this city, although there is no doubt that the number of men underground has been reduced and that the quantity of ore being hoisted is much less than it was two months or even one month ago. The miners' union officials make the assertion that over 2,000 men have been laid off and that there is a reduction of about 3,000 tons of ore per day. The reduction includes the independent mines such as the Tuolumne, Butte-Ballaklava and East Butte. The Parrot has not been in operation for a long time, neither has the Rarus of the Butte-Coalition company or the Neversweat of the Anaconda group. Basing their opinion on general condition and reports from the East, mining men believe that there will be a curtailment in this district of 25 per cent in accordance with an understanding said to have been reached by all the big producers.

Clark Reduction Works Closed.

The Clark reduction works, purchased over one month ago by the Anaconda company with the Clark mines, has been closed down for good. It was kept in operation until a few days ago cleaning up, but now the smoke has disappeared from the big stack. There were 425 men employed. The concentrator portion of the building has been leased by Mr. Clark and he is operating it for the treatment of the zinc ores from the Elm Orlu mine. About fifteen men are employed. It is stated that the reduction works will not be dismantled for the present, although it is not believed that the Anaconda company will ever send any ore there for treatment, otherwise they would not have allowed the street railway company to have removed the rails from the Original mine to the works.

Davis-Daly.

The Davis-Daly tramway from the Colorado mine to the Northern Pacific tracks is ready for operation, but it is not known when any ore shipments will be made to the Basin concentrator. Development work on a small scale is going on in the Colorado mine on the 1,400 and 1,800-foot levels and the crosscut from the 1,400-foot level to the Hesperus is being extended. There are lots of ore blocked out of good commercial values. It is believed that nothing will be done in the way of resuming active mining operations until Mr. Heinze's return from Europe which is said to be early next month. Among some mining men it is not thought that any ore will be shipped to the Basin concentrator until there is an improvement in the copper market.

Stewart Mine.

If all reports are true Mr. Heinze is going to make some money out of his Stewart mine in the Coeur d'Alene dis-

GLOBE DISTRICT IS ACTIVE

Bright Prospect for Summit Property—Serious Problem in Old Dump—Warrior Still Developing Ore—Live Oak Drills Getting Results—Williams Shaft of National Sinking Rapidly.

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 6.—There are sixty men at work at the Summit camp and mine under the direction of the Summit Mining company. A more enviable field for a mining company to begin operations in could hardly be imagined, and the outcome of assured success cannot be avoided. A mine that could pay the enormous profits that the Gibson property did under the old regime, when no thoroughly systematic mining was employed, should have a bright and dividend paying future in the hands of President Eaton and his associates.

As far as available and immediate assets go, the old dump that has accumulated in past years is the most evident resource to the casual observer. Here lie at least 100,000 tons of ore that averages about 4 per cent copper. Exact measurements cannot at present be given and, although a survey has been made of this dump and elevations have been taken, calculations of the ultimate tonnage are not yet at hand. The figures given above, of 100,000 tons, are, however, perhaps too conservative for good judgment.

Unfortunately, during the past operations at the Gibson mine, when high grade ore, that is ore of 20 per cent or more, had to be shipped, the lower grade material, up as high as 15 per cent, in copper, was necessarily laid aside. Some of this lower grade material was mined directly with the high grade stringers and afterward hand picked. Some of it was taken out in simple development work. The dump, as it stands today, is a mixture of these lower grade sulphides and waste, which was naturally taken out of the mine at various periods. The exercising of very little forethought and care would have kept the waste and the lower grade sulphides separate. As the situation stands today, the new management is faced with a problem which consists of working over a dump in which the values are not evenly scattered, baren in some places and running as high as 15 per cent copper in others, it will not be an easy proposition to systematically handle the ore. From the general appearance of the ore, which consists chiefly of nodules of chalcopyrite and bornite, mixed at times with small quantities of chalcocite, it is essentially a jigging proposition and apparently 60 per cent of the values may be saved by that means.

Warrior.

A crosscut has been started southward into the ore body from the westernmost drift on the 300-foot level of the Warrior mine. This drift, owing to the fact that the ore body at this point would not sustain a permanent extraction drift, was driven in the foot wall of the ore-bearing trough. Here the ground is more permanent and stable and through it a drift can be kept open to the winze from the 200-foot level crosscut. The crosscut mentioned is at present just coming above at the 300-foot level into the ore body.

Shipments of high grade ore averaging about 10¼ per cent copper are being sent to the Old Dominion smelter. The daily shipments aggregate about eighty tons of ore at present. This is to be regarded, not as a diminution, but simply as a fluctuation in the production which not infrequently runs as high as 120 tons every twenty-four hours.

Live Oak.

Churn drill hole No. 11 on the Live Oak property is completed and the same satisfactory results obtained thtre as at the other locations. The ore body at this point was approximately 100 feet in thickness. Hole No. 12 at J. 28, 700 feet west and 100 feet south of the vertical shaft, is at present at a depth of 275 feet in schist. Hole No. 13 is situated 500 feet west and 300 feet south of the vertical shaft; and is 150 feet deep in the Schultze granite capping. Hole No. 14 has just been started and is now at a depth of 13 feet. It is situated at L 26, 300 feet south and 800 feet west of the shafc.

The Arizona and Eastern railroad is surveying for a new line from Miami to the Live Oak mine. Plans are now on foot for the erection of the concentrator and methods for the blocking out of the ore body are under consideration. Whether the management will attempt the mass caving system employed at the inspiration or the block caving idea worked out by Mr. Lawton at Miami is still a question. It would seem that in the early stages of the Live Oak mine the more conservative method to be employed by Mr. Lawton would be the most desirable. It admits not only of wide, elaboration in any of the various mass caving systems should it become advisable in the future, but is, in itself, a very conservative method if mining.

National.

The Williams shaft at the National Mining Exploration company property is down 784 feet. Monday last a station was cut and drifting commenced on the Black Hawk vein. On the 66-foot level, the southeast drift on the vein is 104 feet from the shaft, in badly shattered limestone, impregnoted with hematite. The southeast drift is 256 feet from the shaft and is being driven at the rate of about three feet a day. Approximately 8,000 gallons of water is being hoisted a day.

Arizona-Michigan.

Work at the Arizona-Michigan property is progressing in two places. The Blackbird shaft is down approximately 400 feet on the incline. It is the intention of the management to continue sinking this shaft and at the same time to cut a station on the 400-foot level. The crosscut will then be started north into the hanging wall, in search of the Telfair vein. In sinking the shaft, this vein was apparently faulted horizontally at about 300 feet from the collar of the shaft.

The crosscut at the 400-foot level will be driven north whatever distance is necessary to encounter the vein. The shaft is at present in silicified shale and is progressing downward

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Body of Red Oxide of Copper Disclosed on White Pine Property—Development of Importance to Lake and Algomah Companies—Kearsarge Gets Good Showing of Copper Ground.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The exploratory operations of the White Pine Copper company in the Porcupine mountains district disclosed a body of red oxide of copper. The occurrence of copper in this formation is unusual in this district, and with the Algomah property and the occasional showings of other ores of copper in limited quantities in some of the other mines of this district, the metal is found native. The extent of the White Pine ore body has not been determined, and unless of greater extent than is usually shown by ore bodies found in this district, may be considered of little or no importance as a source of production.

Lake and Algomah.

A development of considerable importance to the Lake and Algomah companies is the recent disclosure of copper ore in the third and fifth level south drifts in the Lake mine, indicating the extent of this ore body first opened in the Algomah trenches. The Algomah company is now crosscutting the territory between its exploratory shaft and the Lake boundary with the object of determining the formation in which operations were begun. Lake's recent disclosures of ore seemingly indicate that the Algomah shaft is sinking in the Lake formation. Though considerable ore has been encountered at various points on the Algomah property, the more desirable native copper has not yet been met with.

Gratiot.

The Gratiot Mining company, a Calumet & Hecla subsidiary, is shipping about 300 tons of rock daily to the Centennial-Allouez stamp mill. Shipments are made up from rock taken out in the course of development work, and though no official figures concerning the yield per ton have been given out it is generally understood that the rock is yielding in the neighborhood of 1 per cent copper mineral.

Indiana.

The Indiana Copper company is clearing the ground at the site of the No. 2 drill hole, which yielded a drill core of sensational richness last fall, and it is altogether probable that a shaft will be started at this point before winter. The greater part of the Indiana property is covered by a very heavy overburden of sand and gravel, but it is not expected that much difficulty will be had in sinking a shaft on the site selected. The company has three diamond drills in operation. The Nos. 7 and 9 drill holes are down about 500 feet. Both are driving to intersect the rich copper bearing bed cut in the No. 2 drill hole.

Seneca.

The operations of the Seneca Mining company continue centered in shaft sinking and drifting in an effort to locate the commercial copper ground in the Kearsarge horizon. The shaft has reached the fifth level, where crosscutting is now in progress. Drifting at the third level shows a more settled condition than was noted nearer surface, and a better showing in the way of copper values is also being had. Though the general situation is much improved over the past, the net results of operations thus far reveal little of value.

Mayflower.

The Mayflower company is engaged in making a cross-section of its property lying next east of the Wolverine and South Kearsarge mines. Two diamond drill outfits are in service. The property has received considerable attention of this nature in the past, and results have been far from encouraging.

Atlantic.

The Atlantic Mining company continues in search for commercial ground in the Baltic-Superior horizon, and more recently has been obtaining good results. Drifting is in progress at several levels, and at the sixteenth and twenty-fifth levels is yielding much encouragement. The north drift at the sixteenth level has entered what appears to be an extension of the Superior lode and though rather barren in spots is at present promising well.

Keweenaw.

The Keweenaw Copper company is again securing a fairly good showing of copper ground in the shaft which is being sunk in the Kearsarge lode. Operations on the Mandan property were abandoned some time ago and all activity in the opening and development of copper ground is now centered in the work on the Kearsarge formation. Exploratory operations are in progress on the Phoenix ash

STEADY PROGRESS AT DENN

Depth of 1,500 Feet Will Be Attained Soon—Shipments of Rich Oxide Ores From the Shattuck Being Made Daily.

Bisbee, Ariz., Aug. 6.—Work at the Denn-Arizona continues to show the same steady progress and the ground encountered in the shaft is the same hard, black, lime rock which was struck at a depth of 1,200 feet. This rock is excellent material in which to sink a shaft as it is hard and firm and will not crowd or displace shaft timbers as is the case when the ground is soft and cavy. Drifting and crosscutting has not yet been resumed and all effort is directed to the sinking. In the past week shaft has been sunk twenty feet, which shows an increase of five feet over the weekly average of fifteen feet. The shaft is now down 1,480 feet and at the rate of progress made during the past week a depth of 1,500 feet will be reached within a week, when work on a station will probably be commenced.

Shipments of rich oxide ores from the Shattuck-Arizona are being made at the rate of 175 tons per day. The ore will average 17 per cent copper, which very few mines can equal. No sinking is being done at the present as already sufficient ore has been blocked out on the levels to supply the demand for some time to come. The most of the ore shipped is from the upper levels and the sulphide ores on the lower levels will remain untouched until the copper market becomes stronger.

The Hoatson shaft of the Superior & Pittsburg continues to maintain its record as one of the richest and heaviest shipping mines of the Warren district. The bulk of the ore from this shaft is mined on the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth levels, although considerable is also mined on the eleventh and fifteenth levels. The bin capacity has been greatly increased and the loading of railroad cars very much facilitated since the erection of the new steel gallows frame. This has raised the height of the landing platform and has made the work of handling the mine cars much lighter. The work of cutting the station on the 1,300-foot level of the Briggs is about completed as is also the tunnel which is being driven for a second connection between that shaft and the Hoatson.

THE GREENE CONSOLIDATED

Decision By Referee in Favor of the Company in Suit Instituted By Stockholders of the Cobre Grande Copper Company.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 6.—Adrian H. Joline of Boston, acting as referee, has rendered a decision in favor of the Greene Consolidated Copper company in the suit brought against that company by A. W. Hallenborg on behalf of himself and other stockholders of the Cobre Grande Copper company of Arizona.

This, and two other similar suits, have been pending for seven or eight years and have involved the title to many of the mining properties now controlled by the Greene Consolidated Copper company. Prior to the formation of the Greene company these mines were owned by the Cobre Grande Copper company, and stockholders of that corporation were given an opportunity of either exchanging their Cobre Grande shares for Greene stock on the basis of four (par $2.50) for one Greene share (par $10) or receiving the equivalent in cash. Of the 200,000 shares of Cobre Grande stock about 180,000 shares were acquired by the Greene company.

Even before the formation of the Greene Consolidated Copper company in 1899, Col. William C. Greene and George Mitchell optioned various mining properties in Mexico to a man named Costello; the latter did not live up to his agreement, with the result that Greene did not receive one-half the proceeds from mineral sales, and was in danger of being unable to pay for the properties as his various options fell due. By force of arms Greene took back the mines, and although liquidation in various courts followed, maintained possession of them until he sold out to Cole and Ryan.

He formed the Cobre Grande Copper company to work them and then later organized the Cananea Consolidated Copper company, to hold the stock of which the Greene Consolidated Copper company was formed under West Virgina laws in 1899. The three suits now pending against the Green Consolidated Copper company were all instituted by minority holders of the Cobre Grande company, who claim that fully deprived of the mines in controversy by Col. Greene and associates, and later turned over to the Greene Consolidated Copper company. The suits sought to

NOW DRIFTING ON THE ALTA

High Copper Values Are Anticipated Below the Old Workings---Corbin-Pennsylvania Company Is Making Good Progress in Development.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 6.—The recent opening up of the Alta vein at Corbin by the Boston & Alta company is creating considerable interest among those interested in Corbin mining properties, and the developments which have been made in this and other properties during the past few weeks promise to have considerable bearing on the future of the camp.

At a depth of 660 feet a crosscut was run to the vein, which at the point of intersection shows a width of about thirty feet. The vein filling is somewhat broken up, but there is a good showing of copper values, and with drifting it will be a point below the older workings of the mine, from which such fabulous values were taken years ago. The developments to date prove the theory that great copper values would be found at depth.

A short distance east of the Alta, and on the same vein, the Corbin-Pennsylvania company is doing a great amount of development work with good result. This property was worked to a considerable extent some years ago, but was suspended because of the lack of capital. Upon taking over the property the Corbin-Pennsylvania company cleaned out the old shafts and workings and with a small amount of additional work has opened up some excellent veins. In one of the dirfts the company has encountered chalcopyrite ore running better than 6 per cent copper and about twelve ounces of silver to the ton, and as the dirft proceds the ore body shows a tendency to widen out and the values are steadily increasing in value.

At the Corbin Metal company's property the shaft has attained a depth of 500 feet, and the work of drifting on the vein has been commenced. Some very excellent values have been encountered and the property gives promise of making a record during the next few weeks.

The Boston & Corbin company is doing some splendid work in sinking, and during the month of June made more than 100 feet in the shaft. On the 700-foot level recent drifting has resulted in opening up some fine ore, and it is the opinion of Manager H. E. Emmerson that the lower levels will offer some surprises in copper values.

EARLY SMELTER WAR IS SEEN

First Unit of the International Smelter at Tooele in Operation---First Real Competition the Guggenheims Have Had in Utah.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 6.—When Governor Spry touched a match to one of the furnaces of the International smelter at Tooele last week he started a fire that may blaze from here to London and back again. The completion of the first unit of the International inaugurated the first effective competition the Guggenheim plants have had in Utah since they entered and dominated the smelter trust. The competition of such plants as the United States, Highland Boy and Bingham Consolidated was merely nominal, as those smelters treated oustom ores only as an incident to the handling of their own products.

In the International the Guggenheims are likely to have a genuine rival backed by capital which, for practical purposes, is unlimited.

The five-furnace unit, with its daily capacity of 1,800 tons, is only the nucleus of the design in the minds of the builders. Construction work will not stop with the firing of the copper furnace. The mechanics in the employ of the company have been promised work for months to come and are settling in Tooele as if they expected to stay there. The next result of their labors will be a lead stock. Official announcement of this additon may be expected any day. The copper furnaces come within 500 tons of the present capacity of the Guggenheim's Garfield smelter, but until a lead department is provided there will be no way of meeting the trust in the silver-lead field. Age mars the efficiency of the Guggenheim smelter at Murray. A modern lead smelter should be able to handle a larger tonnage with much less labor, and hence at lower cost.

The evidence of coming hostilities is not to be found in published utterances of the smelter magnates—their remarks would be appropriate in any well-conducted Sunday school. It is a survey of the smelting field that suggests carnage. Utah's furnace capacity is more than sufficient for the present ore supply. The 800-ton Tintic smelter, the 150-ton Ogden smelter and the 300-ton Majestic smelter have long been idle, and the 800-ton plant of the Yampa company at Bingham has just decided to go out of business. There are furnaces enough in the state to treat double the quantity of ore in the market.

To keep a mammoth plant like that at Tooele working full time the International will have to cut deep into the patronage of the trust, and that means war—or surrender.

The suppression of the Yampa smelter at this time is an indication that the skirmish lines are coming together. Operating costs at the Yampa were low—remarkably so. Yet the company finds it profitable to ship its crude ore, as it has long shipped its concentrates, some eighteen or twenty miles to Garfield. All of which sugests that a radical concession in treatment charges has been made in order to secure a substitute for the daily 800-ton output of the Utah Consolidated, lately transferred from the Garfield to the International.

LEGAL TREATMENT OF DRUNKENNESS

Shortcomings of Present Court Methods—Instances of Alcoholic Repeaters—Farm Colonies a Remedy.

By BAILEY B. BURRITT,
Assistant Secretary State Charities Aid Association of New York City.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

Inebriety is the source of many of the most important problems of government. Recent figures show that 28.9 per cent of the male cases of insanity in New York are due to excessive use of alcohol. In Pennsylvania 41 per cent of the imbeciles owe their condition to intemperance; 30 to 40 per cent of epileptic cases have their origin in alcoholism. The report of the board of prison commissioners of Massachusetts for 1908 states that 86,365 or 60 per cent of the total arrests were made for public intoxication. Drunkenness as a cause of poverty is continually noticed in everyday life.

In spite of the prominence of the problem, we have been content everywhere to adopt a laissez faire attitude. The improvidence of the habitual drunkard is proverbial. The improvidence of state, county, municipal and town governing agencies is equally a fact.

The treatment of the problem in New York city is typical of the practice in nearly all the large cities. In 1908, 37,391 were arrested for intoxication. The magistrate of one court where the records were carefully indexed, discharged 1,402 of the cases appearing before him or 49.9 per cent. Of the remaining cases 20 per cent were committed to the workhouse, 2.3 per cent were put on probation and the rest fined from $1 to $10 each. Two-thirds of those fined were committed for inability to pay the amount imposed.

So far as fines are paid, they are usually met by the friends or relatives or those arraigned. They pay rather than suffer disgrace. The fine paid in this way is quite useless so far as it affects the person fined.

The use of the short sentence is even more ineffective. The man leaves the district prison or workhouse without money and in most cases without friends. He can secure shelter in a saloon and probably by performing menial service for the bartender got an drink. This is the most natural thing for him to do. The alcoholic repeater is the natural result of the short sentence.

The more acute cases are cared for in the public wards of the hospitals. In 1908, 11,000 or 12,000 cases were treated from two to five days. They are then set free having derived no permanent benefit.

The number of persons who appear again and again for drunkeness is alarming. In one case, a man now 51 years of age has been in the workhouse sixty-two separate times. He has spent 3,163 days there at a total cost for maintenance alone of $1,868.53. Another case has been in the workhouse thirty-four different times, in the alcoholic wards of a city hospital thirty-one times, in the municipal lodging house twice, in the almshouse once and in two other hospital two times each. He has spent a total of 1,943 days in these various places at a total cost of $1,323.12. Still another case, a man about 55 years of age has been in the workhouse, almshouse, or hospitals seventy-one times for a total of 5,884 days at a total cost of $2,492.37. In Utica, N. Y., one person has appeared before the police court at least 160 times for public intoxication.

Although the charter of New York City calls for a cumulative sentence for those who have been sent to the workhouse once or more within the preceding two years, the provision is practically inoperative through lack of adequate means of identification. Also in New York there is no law by which an habitual drunkard who does not become publicly obnoxious can be committed to any institution.

There is substantial unanimity as to the general lines along which changes should be made. The finger print system of identification has been thoroughly tried out and should be employed in each court after conviction. Magistrates could then adopt the sentence to the record of the person.

A graded series of remedies is needed. First offenders should be released without their appearance in court. For the next grade of cases probation should be tried and a fine imposed to be collected in installments. More serious cases should be committed to a farm colony. To carry out this plan involves extending greatly the principle of probationary oversight of petty offenders. This principle is comparatively recent in application, but the results are so satisfactory that it has passed the experimental stage.

Seven states provide for the commitment of habitual drunkards on the petition of relatives accompanied by proper medical certification. When a man has completely lost his self control and is a constant burden to his family, it should not be necessary for him to become so obnoxious to the community as to incur arrest for disorderly conduct before he can be committed to an institution.

Medical authorities are unanimous in their belief in the farm colony treatment. The prime necessities are: isolation from alcohol for a continuous period of time, abundance of light and fresh air, therapeutic baths and as much outdoor work as the patient is capable of physically. Not all cases of inebriety, however, can be treated alike. Physical differences due to the stage of the disease require classification and diversified treatment. Incipient and advanced cases cannot be treated together.

The advantage of such colonies are that a large number of rounders would be taken from the streets, courts, prisons, workhouses and hospitals. Many cases that are a constant menace to society would be removed. Families that are burdened by caring for fathers and brothers who are habitually drunk would be relieved. But most important the individual would be isolated from alcohol and placed in a healthful environment and helped to lead a wholesome and partially self supporting life.

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Two Diamond Drills Working at Imperial Mine on Marquette Range—Ore Thought to Continue Under Lake Michigamme.

Michigamme, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two diamond drills are in commission at the Imperial mine, in this portion of the Marquette range, engaged in locating the iron-bearing formations. The Imperial is being operated by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company under lease from the Michigan Land & Iron company. As the lands of the latter concern are now in the hands of the United States Steel corporation for exploration and development, however, it is possible that the Cleveland-Cliffs company may not operate the property after its lease has expired. This will be seven years hence. For this reason it is the evident intention to locate and take out all the ore possible. The Cleveland-Cliffs company, itself, owns a large acreage in the Michigamme field. That the iron-bearing formation continues beneath Lake Michigamme is well known, the ore having been followed to the very shores of that body of water by the Cleveland-Cliffs company in its operations at the Michigamme Hard Ore mine, which has been idle now a number of years. However, while it is certain that ore exists beneath the waters of the lake, the quality may not be sufficiently good to warrant its working at this time. There are mines at both the east and west end of the lake, while the Republic fold comes in at the southern arm. The old Michigamme Hard Ore workings are upon the northern side of the body of water so that Lake Michigamme may be said to have ore upon all sides.

The Gleason and Goodman tracts in the Iron River district of the Menominee range, the development of which is now being undertaken, will be the first properties that the New York State Steel company has ever operated in Michigan, though the concern is now working several mines on the Mesaba range, where it become interested a few years ago. The Gleason and Goodman were optioned to M. E. Gleason in 1908. Mr. Gleason at once began drilling and continued the work until the latter part of last summer, when they were taken over by the New York State Steel company, of which H. F. Kendall of Virginia, Minn., is general manager. The terms of the lease called for the highest ropalty and bonus ever paid in the Iron River field. The royalty is 50 cents a ton. The Steel company has continued the drilling operations and seven or eight holes have been sunk, showing the properties to contain a considerable body of ore of high grade quality. The deposit is estimated to contain fully 3,000,000 tons. The surface averages 110 feet, so that shaft-sinking, doubtless will be difficult.

An Important Step.

The opening of the Gleason and Goodman properties is an important step in the development of the extensive territory to the north of the village of Iron River. The Mineral Mining company already has bought the James mine to the producing stage and it is opening the Konwinski property, adjoining it on the south. Much diamond drilling has been done on other tracts, and it is not unlikely that ultimately a number of additional producers will be opened in the field. Another piece of new work that is being started in the Iron River district is the sinking of a shaft to develop the ore that has been found with drills on the Hall property in section 19, 43-34. This tract has been explored by the Florence Iron company. The overburden is exceptionally heavy throughout most of the area and it has been considered that exploitation of the deposit would be particularly expensive. Standpiping, however, has revealed a location where the surface is only half the thickness shown by the drill holes, and the shaft will go down at this point. Both the Chicago & Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul companies have surveying parties at work in various portions of the region tributary to Iron River, and considerable railroad construction work is in prospect. Definite plans have not yet been announced, however.

The Newport Mining company, controlled by Ferdinand Schlesinger of Milwaukee is to erect a hospital at Ironwood for the accommodation of its Gogebic range employes. The building will be of brick, 100 by 40 feet, and two stories high. The Bonnie shaft at the Newport mine has been closed on account of the lack of demand for the quality of ore produced there. The men have been transferred to other workings of the property.

BUY INTO GUERRERO MINES

Sewing Machine Magnates Secure Large Acreage in Mexican Camp of Tasco --- Another Copper Furnace Being Installed at Matehuala Smelter.

Mexico City, Aug. 6.—American, London and Scotch capital is pouring into the camp of Tasco, Guerrero, where some big deals are pending. Some officials of the Singer Sewing Machine company have bought a big area of mineral land in this district, showing the earmarks of a possible silver product. They secured the property through C. W. Whittemore, who pinned his faith to the camp. One London company has put up $250,000 for development of the Rosario mine in Tasco, where there is being made an investigation to determine the best reduction methods to be employed in a mill that will be built.

A 5,000-horse power hydro-electric plant will soon be built at a point on the Tonantongo river, about twelve miles east of the town of Ixmiquilpan, state of Hidalgo, to serve the districts of Zimapan, Ixmiquilpan and Actopan, where an unusual amount of development work is being done. Into the same districts the Pachuca, Zimapan & Tampico railroad will soon be running.

A company with a capital of $150,000 has been organized to develop an attractive silver proposition on the Santa Rosalia ranch, near Real del Monte, Hidalgo. The new company is called the Dinamarca. The Robert S. Towne interests, owning copper claims near Encarnacion, Hidalgo, are contemplating the erection of a smelter at that camp and the building of an electric railroad to the diggings from the station of Sayula, on the National Railways of Mexico. To generate power for the line a plant will be erected on the Tula river with a capacity of at least 20,000 horse power.

The San Luis Potosi smelter has secured a 15-years' lease of the Leads Queen mines, agreeing to pay a royalty of 25 per cent of the gross ore extracted. The group of claims is in Asientos district and the advent of the smelter people is taken as a most auspicious omen for the camp's future.

An average of about 2,000 tons of ore per month is being handled by the Santa Maria de la Paz, one of the great mines of Matehuala district of San Luis Potosi. The product is treated at the Monterey and Matehuala smelters. The diggings are being unwatered and the output will be almost double after another thirty days.

An additional copper furnace is being installed at the Matehuala smelter by the American Smelters Securities company, the improvement intended to increase the capacity of the plant to 750 tons a day. When this is done the Guggenheim mines in this district will cease shipments to the Aguascalientes smelter.

THE GREENE CONSOLIDATED

recover the mines and compel an accounting by the Greene Consolidated company.

In December, 1909, a compromise settlement between a large majority of the Cobre Grande stockholders and the Greene company was brought about, but the plaintiffs in these suits refused to abide by the settlement.

In the recently instituted suit against the Greene Consolidated company, T. F. Cole, John D. Ryan and others, brought by minority stockholders of the Greene Consolidated Copper company, Alfred Romer, E. C. Rice and Emil Berolzheimer have entered general denial to the complaint along practically the same lines as the present directors of the company. These three men were directors during payment of dividends under the Col. Greene management, and while the present directors, who were not then identified with the company, denied, on information and belief, that dividends had ever been earned, these three defendants deny that they have any knowledge as to whether the 40-cent dividends were earned "except that the books of the company under the method of bookkeeping then practiced purport to show that the dividends paid were duly earned."

CLARK NOT TO BUILD TO ELY

trict. Over 200 tons of ore are being shipped daily to the smelter and Manager Bacon is authority for the statement that the property is making $500 a day. In sinking a new shaft in the mine an ore body was discovered which ran the whole width of the shaft. The Stewart is pronounced one of the most promising mines in the whole Coeur d'Alene district and that is saying a good deal.

Butte Central.

W. L. Credon, the engineer, who is making an examination of the silver reserves in the Ophir mine of the Butte Central Copper company, is still prosecuting his work. Beyond saying that he will be ready to make his report to the directors early this month, Mr. Credon will not make any statement as to the result of his work so far. Until he has completed his examination and his report has been received by the officers of the company, nothing will be known as to the future of the mine, although it has been unofficially stated that as soon as the report is made, the work of shaft sinking will be commenced. Mr. Credon informs the officers of the company that it would be advisable to erect a mill for the treatment of the silver ores, it is confidently expected his advice will be accepted and the work of erecting the mill pushed along as rapidly as possible. Supt. McConnell is very confident that good copper ore exists at depth.

Butte-Ballaklava.

The Butte-Ballaklava dividend of 50 cents is being received this week, and some of the stockholders of the company are so jubilant over reports they have received that they are predicting a dollar dividend before six months roll around, even if copper conditions remain about as they are at present. The company at the present time is shipping 225 tons of ore a day, which is realizing about 17 tons of copper metal, besides high values in silver.

Reins Company Sued.

John F. Reins of the Reins Copper company has commenced a suit against the company to recover on a promissory note for $20,000 on three assigned claims for services to the company. The note was executed at Pittsburg, April 28, 1908, by W. F. Johnson, treasurer of the company, and bears interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. The assigned claims are as follows: G. L. Thompson, $736; R. S. Wilson, $717.50; H. C. Dahl, $833. The total amount claimed to be due, with interest, is $24,787.07.

Raven.

The Raven company assessment of 10 cents a share, which was ordered a short time ago, is due and payable at the office of the International Trust company, Boston, Aug. 15. By this assessment the company expects to receive enough money to pay off the bonded indebtedness and leave the property entirely free of debt, and to have a balance sufficient to carry on development work for nearly one year. The shaft of the Raven has been sunk to a depth of 1,500 feet, but it is stated that owing to the great inflow of water, little drifting has been done, and cannot be until the pumps, which are daily expected, are installed. In addition to other work, men have commenced to sink a shaft on the Snoozer, to reach through Raven ground the Snoozer veins, and at the same time establish the right to the ground in dispute. In ordering the assessment the directors state that owing to the condition of the money market it was found impossible to renew or extend the mortgage bonds, so it was necessary for the company to take from its treasury the funds it had intended to use for development work and pay the bonds as they fell due. It is stated that the ore so far found in the shaft is not of a quality to warrant mining, but it is hoped to find good bodies of ore as soon as drifting can be done.

bed and the general results there are proving highly encouraging.

Hancock.

The Hancock Consolidated Mining company has again resumed sinking in the No. 2, or main working shaft, in which work was temporarily suspended during the erection of the steel shafthouse. The new boiler plant and compressor house are up and ready for service, and the hoisting plant awaits only the installation of the hoist. The underground operations of the company are centered in shaft sinking below the 2,400-foot mark in the No. 2 shaft and in drifting at the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth levels in the winze tributary to the No. 1 incline shaft. The newer openings are driven in first-class copper ground in what is designated as No. 3 lode. The No. 1 lode, in which considerable work was done by the old company many years ago through the No. 1 shaft, and which underlies the No. 3 lode, will probably be tapped by the main working shaft in another month's time. The No. 1 shaft openings are connected by crosscut with the No. 2 shaft at the thirteenth and eighteen levels.

GLOBE DISTRICT IS ACTIVE

at the rate of about two and a half feet a day. Progress is, at present, due to the nature of the ground, a little slow.

The crosscut southeast at the Telfair shaft has progressed 1,100 feet, computing from the dip of the Old Dominion vein on the surface, this crosscut should have pierced the vein at about 815 feet from the shaft. Evidently an offset fault has taken place, one of the results of which has been that the vein was jumped to the southeast farther. The crosscut northwest on this same level has advanced 550 feet from the shaft and it has not yet encountered the De Witt vein.

The Telfair shaft is a three-compartment shaft, five and one-half by seventeen feet, eight inches in the clear, well timbered and in good condition and operated by means of a Fairbanks-Morse, 25-horsepower gasoline hoist.

Superior & Boston.

The McGaw shaft of the Superior & Boston Copper company is at present at a depth of 761 feet from the collar or 210 feet from the present sixth level. It is expected that by the first of August a depth will be reached that will warrant the establishment of the eighth level. The shaft will then continue for the establishment of the ninth level.

The stopes from which most of the ore is at present coming are located on the sixth level about 320 feet west of the shaft. Stoping is being done between the sixth and the intermediate level which is ninety feet above. The system employed is in no way different from that used on the east side stopes of the Old Dominion mine. It is applicable only to veins under twenty feet in width and is most efficient in veins of an average width of ten feet.

A triple-expansion Prescott pump on the sixth level is handling about 550 gallons a minute. This water comes directly from the sinking of the shaft and is pumped to the sixth level from the bottom of the shaft by a Prescott sinking pump.

A 3½-inch Ingersoll-Sargent piston drill is used in each compartment of the shaft. The muck is hoisted by a bucket. The drift southeast from the sixth level is about 140 feet from the shaft and is at present progressing at the rate of five feet every twenty-four hours. The face of this drift is in diabase. Shipments of fifty tons a day are at present being made over the new branch of the Arizona Eastern railroad to the Old Dominion smelter. This arrangement between the Arizona Eastern and the Superior & Boston people seems to be a definite one. The ore averages bettween 8 and 9 per cent copper, and one and a half ounces in silver and 7 per cent water.

Miami.

With the exception of the curtailment of the development work, things at Miami are progressing as usual. The reason for laying off part of the underground force is that the mine is at present in such a vast stage of development that further underground work would not be advisable. It may seem at a glance that the possibility of opening up to omuch ore could not be a disadvantage, but when it is considered that underground drifts and crosscuts are decidely expensive and that a drift opened up two or three years before it can possibly be used is drawing interest, it is evident that the action of the Miami people is a wise one.

The mine as it stands today has ten levels. Beginning at the 220-foot level, there are sub-levels twenty-five feet to the 370-foot level. Below the 370-foot level the next is fifty feet down, or at a depth of 420 feet. This 420-foot level is to be the main haulage way in the first operations at Miami, and on it are to be installed the electric locomotives for haulage purposes. The next lower level is the 470-foot, fifty feet further down and the last one to date is 100 feet lower, or 570 feet from the surface. This is also to be a haulage level when the proper time comes. On the various sub-levels above the 420-foot level, drifts and cross-drifts cut up the ore body into blocks, measuring 50 by 100 feet, and in some cases 50 by 50 feet. Raises are then put up to the capping or the upper limits of the ore body, every fifty feet from the 420-foot haulage level.

Old Dominion.

Work at the Grey mine of the Old Dominion people is not as yet in full sway. The men who have leased the east side of the mine are at present getting everything in order for future operations and waiting the installation of the new hoist. The concrete foundation is in place, but the hoist cannot be installed for a few days until the concrete has had time to set. The hoist to be placed at the Grey mine is of Wellman-Seaver-Morgan manufacture, electrically operated.

A 30 by 30 foot hoist house is under construction at the Buckeye mine, and a small office building, blacksmith shop and a store house will be completed in the near future. It is quite evident that operations and exploitation are being seriously undertaken. The old two-compartment shaft is now being enlarged to include three compartments. The work is for the time being done on company time but in all probability contracts will be let soon. For the first 300 feet the present three-compartment shaft will simply be enlarged by one compartment. The shaft will then probably continue for another 200 feet making for the present a total depth of 500 feet.

In the Old Dominion mine proper, there are 300 men being employed underground with approximately 200 at work on the surface plant around A shaft.

Further than that, he will admit nothing, yet he is to lawn tennis all that any leader is to any other sport.

James Pilkington has won everything that an oarsman can possibly win. He is now past the age when he can pull in a race with the husky young giants of the shell, but, in his day, there was not a man who could pass him unless he was going in the opposite direction.

He is the revered president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, and his word is absolute law among the members just as it is with the thousands of men he has employed in the gigantic tasks of sewer engineering with which he has made his fortune. His honesty has never been questioned, either in sport or in business and his friends tell a good story which shows his integrity.

It happened while he was the American sculling champion. He was matched to row double against another pair when, for some unaccountable reason, the betting changed against him and his mate. Pilkington heard a rumor that his mate had been "bought up." He said nothing until they were well out into deep water and then he leaned over in the shell and shouted:

"Look here, you blooming cut-throat, you've got to swim, drown or win this race. You know me."

They won.

Mr. Pilkington has been president of the national association ever since 1903.

Northwestern Show Offers Rich Prizes to Exhibitors.

South St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—A new addition to the premium list of the Northwestern Live Stock show, which is to be held at South St. Paul, Nov. 15 to 18, this year, is a class for feeder sheep, in carload lots of fifty head, wethers or ewes 1 year and under 2, and also car of wethers or ewes under 1 year.

The prizes offered for each lot are four in number, aggregating $195, and in addition to that a prize of $75 for the champion carload.

It is expected that this class will bring forth a large number of entries, as the territory of the show comprises some excellent sheep-raising districts. There is not a state in the territory embraced which does not produce a large number of most excellent sheep eligible to this class. The class does not make any distinction as to pure breds or grades, and is open for all comers. Ownership of stock sixty days prior to the day of the show is the main condition imposed in this competition.

GREAT MEN AND BEER BREWING

WHENEVER this great nation needed the assistance and personal services of strong, patriotic men to further the cause of liberty and humanity or to repulse invasions and oppressions, the brewers and their friends were among the first to respond.

History tells us that many of the best men of their time were connected with the business, such as Wm. Penn, who caused the erection of the first brewery in Pennsylvania, or Samuel Adams, the acknowledged father of the Revolution, who managed his father's brewery at Boston, or Patrick Henry, the jovial host of Williamsburg, Va., who made the famous speech: "Give me liberty or give me death." And the immortal Lincoln, when accused by his rival, the great Douglas, in one of their famous debates, of being engaged in the traffic, turned the tables by saying: "The difference between Douglas and me was that I was doing the selling and he was doing the drinking."

Surely the brewers and their friends have always been foremost in promoting public welfare, and according to Andrew D. White, the great statesman, they have done more for real temperance than their fanatic opponents can ever do.

THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

At last Duluth has a fully organized Associated Charities—an institution that it has needed for years.

The next thing is to equip it with money enough to enable it to perform its valuable public services adequately.

Its organization complete, the Associated Charities now is asking public-spirited and generous people of means to contribute to a fund that shall enable it to do the large work that is cut out for it. The response should be prompt, hearty and generous.

The Associated Charities is a city's clearing house for charitable work. Its chief function is to apply system and business-like methods to the distribution of charity. Its objects are to see that no deserving cases are overlooked, that undeserving applicants are rejected, and that the work of charity is directed so as to make the poor self-supporting.

In the past Duluth has been noted for the generosity of its people, but giving has been indiscriminate and unguided. It has overlapped, so that some have had more than they deserved and some have gone uncared for. Usually it is the forward, greedy petitioners that get too much, and the backward, modest needy ones that get too little; and this works out to the unfair profit of the undeserving and the total neglect of the deserving.

Having gained this highly valuable organization which has been so greatly needed, it is up to Duluth to support it. The Associated Charities is now engaged in providing a modest fund of $5,000, which it is believed will be enough to give it a good start. It is reported that though the campaign for funds has just begun, the responses are many and generous. This is gratifying, and it is to be hoped that no difficulty whatever will be experienced in raising the full amount of money required.

VINDICATION.

Quite the most depressing result of Senator Bristow's courageous attacks upon Senator Aldrich, Boss of the Republic and vice regent of Special Privilege, is the latter's intimation that if the campaign against him continues he may conclude to change his mind about retiring from the senate, and seek another election "as a matter of vindication."

If anything could induce us to plead with Bristow to refrain from further attacks upon Aldrich, it is that intimation.

It may be granted freely that if Aldrich wants to be re-elected to the senate from Rhode Island, he can be. But it would not be a vindication of anything except the power of the Aldrich machine in Rhode Island. It would be a thing with which the plain people of Rhode Island would have nothing whatever to do; and only the plain people can provide a vindication worth while for any public man. If Aldrich really seeks a vindication, let him bring about popular election of senators and then let the people of Rhode Island pass on his candidacy. Surely they are not all dumb, driven slaves, even in that tight little state.

But a re-election through the ordinary processes, which would mean a re-election by putting the Republican machine of Rhode Island into operation, would be no vindication. That well-oiled mechanism, which is the special pet of half a dozen trusts and the particular joy of Wall street's baser element, would grind out a re-election for Aldrich as easily as a brand-new sausage machine would turn out sausages when fed with the proper ingredients. And be sure the cotton mill trust, the woolen trust, the rubber trust and their associates will supply all the ingredients needed for that re-election of Aldrich if he seeks it.

So maybe Senator Bristow would better be called off, if his persistent lambasting of Aldrich is going to bring about Aldrich's re-election.

And then again maybe he would better keep right on. Maybe it would be just as well to have Aldrich vindicate himself by another machine-made election to the senate. Aldrich is a pretty good object lesson. He is so patently the trusted tool of big business, he is so patently the product of a political machine fed by Special Privilege, that he has served a useful purpose in showing the American people into what sort of hands their representative government has fallen.

If Cannon goes out, the Republican organization will try to put in his place a man who will do his work as well as he did it, but who is not quite so notorious and who will therefore not excite public clamor.

If Aldrich goes out, the Republican organization will conspire with its corporate allies to put in his place a man who will do his work as well as he did it—maybe better—but will not so inflame public indignation.

Tawney in Cannon's place and Crane in Aldrich's place would leave congress still subject to the will of Special Privilege, and maybe, for awhile, there wouldn't be so much talk about it.

The best way to cure the situation is to leave Aldrich and Cannon where they are until they have so aroused the American people that there will be a clean sweep from cellar to garret.

A GOOD IDEA.

Elsewhere in The Herald tonight a local story opens up an enticing vista of possibilities for a midsummer water fete in Duluth next year that would eclipse anything of the kind ever held on the Great Lakes, and that would advertise Duluth far and wide.

The Northwestern regatta already is secured for Duluth.

Efforts are being made to bring to this city next year the Great Lakes naval militia maneuvers.

These two events could be combined, carnival features added, and the whole worked up into a splendid water fete that would attract thousands and advertise Duluth far and wide.

Surely there is no better place anywhere for such an event than Duluth. Surely Duluth energy and enterprise are up to the task of making the utmost out of it.

The expense would be small, relatively. The regatta and the naval maneuvers would to a large extent take care of themselves. The Duluth Boat club—an institution of which Duluth should be proud, by the way—would be the backbone of the arrangements, and the Commercial club could work with it effectively.

The plan is worth while. Its carrying out will give pleasure and profit.

THE JUDGE AND POLITICS.

The Minnesota State Bar association, at its meeting in St. Paul this week, passed the following timely resolution:

> That supreme and district court judges should be nominated by judicial conventions, held at times other and somewhat remote from the time of holding the conventions for the nomination of candidates for political office. The law should provide that such conventions shall nominate not less than two or more than four candidates for each vacancy to be filled, and that these candidates shall be put upon the ticket at the general election as "judicial candidates" and without any party designation.

The committee on legislation was instructed by the association to frame such a law and push it before the next legislature.

By all means, such a law should be adopted in this state. The Herald has urged it for years. A measure very similar in terms to the proposal of the bar association was introduced in the house of representatives by P. E. Dowling of Duluth when he was a member of the legislature, and at that time The Herald urged its passage.

It is wrong to soil the ermine of the bench with the filthy touch of machine politics, yet for years Minnesota has nominated its candidates for the supreme bench by the same machinery which nominated candidates for purely political offices. The primary election has helped to a small degree to relieve the district bench from the shame of party politics, yet even under the primary election system candidates must either run as Democrats or Republicans or resort to the doubtful expedient of "running independent."

There is no more reason in selecting a district judge or a justice of the supreme court because he is a Democrat or a Republican than there would be in selecting him because he was a Unitarian or a Congregationalist, a vegetarian or an anti-vivisectionist.

To subject the judgeship to the unspeakable scramble of a political convention is to invite mediocrity, incompetency or corruption to the bench. Everybody who has had the remotest association with a state convention knows that it is a thing of barter and trade; that nominations are made with a view to political expediency rather than to personal fitness, and that often the cunning organizer and trader of delegates has the power to defeat the most upright and able candidates.

A few years ago there was a roll call on candidates for the supreme bench in a Minnesota Republican convention. While it was in progress, and before the count was made, a political worker noted for his lack of scruples got the clerks to hold up the count while he circulated on the floor. By deft trading he got enough votes changed to beat an excellent judge and nominate in his place a man who afterward left the state without paying his personal property taxes.

Party primaries, and especially party conventions, are no fit places for the selection of judicial candidates. They should be nominated separately, and absolutely without regard to their party affiliations, and their names should go on the ballots at the general election without party designation.

If such a system prevailed in this state now there would be no doubt whatever, for instance, about the election of such a man as Justice T. D. O'Brien. As it is, he can be elected only if enough voters come to appreciate the fact that he is an upright judge of most unusual ability.

"I NEVER THOUGHT."

Ever hear that before? "I never thought of the probable consequences of my act." It is the miserable excuse of the man who has wrought mischief by his folly. Confronted with the ruin that has come out of his acts, he says: "I didn't think."

Erwin Johann Wider is the latest to make this shameful confession. He is the young man who stole securities worth $680,000 from the Russo-Chinese Bank agency in New York, to eke out his salary of $25 a week and permit him to play the Wall street game. Caught, arrested, lodged in the Tombs, he broke down, wept, and told his story:

"I never thought," he said, "of the consequences of my act. I never thought of anything except that I had an opportunity in Wall street to make money. And it seemed so safe, too."

It is an old, worn, commonplace story, that of young Wider. It happened that his opportunity and his daring being larger than usual, he flew farther and made a more prodigious downfall than most, but his story is that of thousands of other young men who "never thought" of anything except that they believed they could make money on stolen money; and it always "seemed so safe."

It is always the beginning that counts. A trusted employe, striving to live beyond his means or to get rich quickly in the deadly whirlpool of speculation, takes a small amount from his trust funds, intending to make more money with it and to restore his stealings. Maybe he does make money. It seems easy and safe, so instead of putting back his stolen capital he decides to make still more money in the same way. Or maybe he loses his first stolen capital, and steals more in the hope that he can retrieve his losses and square himself. At first merely seeking to make money for himself on "borrowed" capital—he fools himself into thinking it is borrowed, though he knows down in his heart that it is stolen—presently he is trying only to win enough to straighten out his accounts. If he can only win that much, he thinks to himself, he will quit and never do it again.

But the gambling place—whether it is Wall street, a local bucket shop or a green-covered table in a back room, it is all the same—yawns greedily for such fodder. It is part of its steady income. It would be far less profitable without it. Ruin, sure and deadly, camps contentedly on the trail of the young man who starts this terrible game, knowing that it is only a question of time before it will have its victim.

So it was with Wider. So it has been with thousands. So it will be with thousands more so long as the opportunity for gambling is open, and the proprietors of the game care nothing whether the players chip in their own money or money they have stolen from others.

From his cot in the grim Tombs young Wider told the moral:

"But I never had a chance. It was always, always, messages from the brokers for 'More margin!' 'More margin!' They seemed insatiable. Not however, until I was in so deep that I couldn't see the way out did I get reckless. I didn't think I was reckless at the beginning, but I realize it now. Then, when I had got in practically up to my neck, I went the limit. I couldn't be much worse, I thought, and any day it might turn in my favor. And here I am."

So endeth the chapter. "And here I am!" And there, but for the grace of God and his own integrity, might be any other young man who dreams of sudden wealth with his hands dangerously near the convenient strongbox that holds the trust funds.

It is a very old story, but a very sad one; and the saddest part of it is that as there have been many Widers in the past, there will be many more in the future so long as the gambling place offers "open game" and no questions asked to all who come with money, whether savings or thefts.

HOME-SEEKING—A GOOD SIGN.

The manner in which residence lots at low prices, offered on easy terms, are being snapped up whenever they are offered, is a very interesting and highly encouraging symptom.

In three or four cases lately enterprising individuals have bought acre tracts lying near the city conveniences, divided them into lots, and offered them for sale at reasonable prices and on easy terms. In every instance these lots have been bought eagerly, and the demand, as yet, seems nowhere near satisfied.

This shows three very important and satisfactory things:

First, that the wage-earners of Duluth are seeking homes;

Second, that they are realizing the solid worth of real estate as an investment; and

Third, that they have faith in the future of Duluth and the kind of civic loyalty that makes them want to pitch their tents here for the rest of their lives.

There can be no better sign in any city than such a praiseworthy spirit of home-seeking.

There is no better thing for a community than to have a large proportion of home-owners.

The tendency of the man on a fixed income is to spend what he makes. If he lodges or rents, he spends his earnings anyway, and gets little back from them except perhaps temporary pleasures.

If he ties himself up to a lot and pays the instalments on it, he is spending his income, but part of his spending is investment.

Then, when the lot is paid for, he has learned how, and he will have the courage and persistence to build a home in the same manner.

In fact, in a large proportion of cases that is about the only way the man of fixed and relatively small income ever does get ahead. It forces him to divert out of his expenditures a certain amount that goes into permanent investment. The first instalment paid on a lot and the other payments arranged for, he will pay these instalments as regularly as he pays his rent and his grocery bill. When the lot is paid for he has learned how to save, and by the same process he can build himself a home.

When house and lot are paid for, whatever the little estate is worth is so much to the good. He would have spent the money anyway, and if he hadn't spent it on a lot and home he would have had little or nothing back from it.

The Herald always has advised its salaried readers to do this way. It offered this advice because it believed it to be good for those who took it and because it knew that it was good for the community. It wants to see Duluth a city of homes, and it applauds the spirit that now bids fair to make it a city of homes.

THE HARVEST.

John Dalrymple's word to The Herald that North Dakota needs 20,000 men for the harvest doesn't square with the black predictions of the pessimists who said that the spring wheat country was ruined. It means that in spite of drouth damage a lot of wheat will be harvested, and that while this isn't going to be a banner crop year by any means, it will be still farther from a crop failure. The Herald is glad to hear it not only because it is good news, but because it justifies this newspaper's optimism at a time when prophets were filling the heavens with gloom.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A BOUQUET FROM WRENSHALL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Allow me to cangratulate you upon the high character of your paper, The Duluth Herald. It looks well, reads well and sounds well. Your editorials are of a high standard, especially those relating to politics.

Your editorial on "Cheer Up" in last evening's Herald was spiced with common sense, with words of encouragement.

It has been my opportunity to read the editorials in some of the issues of the New York World, Chicago Record-Herald, St. Paul Dispatch and the Pioneer Press, and I venture to say that The Herald is as good a medium of news—when it comes to live news—as any of the above named papers.

I do not wish to have my name published in connection with these few lines, fears for which are perhaps wholly unnecessary. X. Y. Z.

"NAMING THE BOULEVARD."

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is but one term to apply to the names submitted so far, for the "Boulevard" and that is, inadequate.

No words, used as a name, in the English language, can be typical of or appropriate to this driveway.

Throughout Wisconsin are many towns and small rivers bearing Indian names, the rolling cadence and pleasing rhythm of which are delightful to the ear and satisfying to the tongue, and, moreover, descriptive and appropriate.

The writer through ignorance of the aboriginal language is not privileged to suggest such a name, but The Herald and the worthy gentlemen of the park board could, no doubt, find some one who is familiar with its application.

With such a wealth of unusual and original American diction to choose from, there is no reason why the "Boulevard" should not be christened with a real American name, typical of this country and appropriate to the scenic grandeur of this vicinity.

No other words but those of the aboriginal American can furnish a name that cannot be duplicated and one applicable only to this, our unique driveway, second to none in all the world. WILLIAM E. TOWNE.

The Belles.

Hear the babble of the belles—
Idle belles!
What a world of spicy scandal their gossiping foretells!
How they chatter, chatter, chatter,
Through the livelong afternoon!
What they say is no great matter,
But your character they shatter
To the tinkle of the spoon;
Telling tales, tales, tales,
Before which Munchausen pales.
Such a flood of idle tatle 'tis spontaneously wells
From the belles,
From the whispering and the hinting of the belles.

Hear the tatle of the belles—
Pretty belles!
What a handsome crop of libels their gossiping foretells!
How they magnify the motes
On the optics of their friends,
While the eager ear attends
Every idle tale that floats
Round the town;
Building up their gay romances until every soul they know
Is done brown.

Hear the buzzing of the belles—
Ancient belles!
How they revel in the trouble that their gossiping foretells!
In their eager hunt for scalps
Changing molehills into Alps—
And they fib, fib, fib,
And the infant in its crib
Put to shame;
While Old Nick might stand aghast
At aspersions deftly cast
On your name.
Oh, the belles, belles, belles, belles!
How the wordy torrent swells,
As they gabble and they babble and they tattle o'er their tea!
Telling tales, tales, tales,
About everyone you see;
While imagination fails
To distinguish where the facts come in and where at truth they balk
In their talk—
With their tongues that fly like flails;
Till no living man but quails
At the mingled, mangled mess of truth and falsehood in the tales
Of the belles,
In the gossip and the scandal of the belles.

—Judge.

Woman Suffrage in Parliament.

Washington Post: Parliament has closed the mouth and tied the hands of the suffragette for a year. It was a clever bit of strategy. Framing a bill which elastically covered the demands of all shades of the votes for women shouters, the measure was railroaded to its third reading without a hitch. A majority of upward of a hundred seemed to indicate a sudden and decided change of heart, and that a million women were about to be put on the voting lists. But a moment later the expectant throng of suffragettes cooling their heels on the steps outside had their hopes dashed. Playing a card from up its sleeve, the government moved the bill's reference to the committee of the whole, and the trick won.

A year may elapse before the bill is reported back from a third reading—a year of surcease from petticoat rushes, volleys of bric-a-brac, catcalls and curses, and other feminine ways of baiting cabinet ministers, lords and commoners, sparing not royalty itself. Having no valid reason for doubting parliament's good faith in the matter, or for suspecting that ultimately the majority of 109 would be turned into a substantial minority, the suffragette was silenced.

Swimmin'.

Edwin L. Sabin in Lippincott's: The man who never, exposed all to the air and the sun, has "love" from bank or raft or boat into the friendly waiting tide; the man who never thus has taken a "header," even though he skinned his face upon the bottom, and got water up his nose and into his ears; the man who never has willingly abandoned his bared body to the embracing limpidity of stream, pond, lake, or sea; the man who never has known, on this perfect equality with nature, the buoyant companionship of the waves and the current, of mermen and of scampering fauns; that man has missed much.

Swimming is a great sweetener of the temper; bathers are a merry folk; water, somehow dissolves away the humors in the disposition.

"Swimmin'" and "bathing" are not synonymous. Swimmin' is essentially democratic. Bathing is a test, in a measure—but bathing is susceptible of gradations and modifications. Bathing has its nalads; swimmin' has its fauns and satyrs. Bathing may be strictly a society event; swimmin' is only social.

Before the gods, it takes fortitude in man or boy, bent upon swimmin', to discard all pretense and stand out shorn of artificialities, for what he actually is—even to the pallor of his long-smothered skin, and to the funny mole like a wart on the small of his back. The spindling bond-clerk who handles millions and wears pink socks wanes to insignificance beside the compact coal-heaver, and Little Lord Fauntleroy, stripped of his velvets, is the inferior of Mickey the Kid, stripped of his rags.

Under the uncompromising gaze of one's peers, one's much cultivated dignity shrivels and departs. Ah, what carefully concealed skinniness is at last confessed! What physical shortcomings! Something of a judgment day on earth is this. For in swimmin', plain, unbedecked swimmin', there can be no partiality.

Lesson in Finances.

Robert Barr in Saturday Evening Post: Many years ago a friend of mine was walking down Broadway, New York, with an elderly person, accounted at that time one of the richest men in America. Two motives actuated the millionaire in this promenade; first, he saved the 5 cents that would have been expended in a street car fare and second, he desired to make a purchase. He wished to acquire that harmless, necessary article we call braces in England, and which are termed suspenders in America. He made inquiries at one shop after another, but Broadway prices ruled, and these prices were too high to suit one who had made his millions by buying in the cheapest and selling in the dearest market. Finally he said to his companion:

"Let us cross over to Sixth avenue and see if we can't do better there."

The wisdom of this move was soon illustrated, for the pair of braces he ultimately purchased was 6 cents cheaper than the price asked on Broadway.

My friend, who was a poor man, was amazed at this action on the part of the millionaire, who had spent as much time and worry on the outlay of 50 cents as another man might have done on the disbursement of $10,000.

"Do you mean to say that you have taken all this trouble merely to save 6 cents?"

The millionaire stopped and looked at his companion as if he could not credit him with the recklessness implied by that statement; then he drew from the pocket of the trousers ultimately to be held up by these newly purchased braces a silver dollar, and holding it visibly in the palm of his hand, said solemnly:

"Merely to save 6 cents? Young man, do you realize that one of the most difficult things in the world is to make that silver dollar earn 6 cents in the course of a whole year?"

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Inside of a Man.

A rather unpleasant incident has set me pondering on what men are on the inside. An old friend failed to receive a letter from me, duly mailed, relating to a subject on which we had already conferred and concerning which I was not able fully to accede to his desires. The letter miscarrying, his sensitiveness on the main question led him to send me a very brusque, peremptory note, in which my old-time friend revealed a phase of his nature entirely new to me. He had some provocation, I admit, and by this time we have patched matters up beautifully. But what surprised and for the moment distressed me was the outcropping of a trait which I had never thought he possessed.

Every now and then our acquaintances startle us by such disclosures of themselves. The fact that they do this adds to the zest of human intercourse. Not infrequently some capacity with which he had not credited them comes to light, some hidden loveliness of the spirit which makes us profoundly grateful and stirs our admiration. But alas quite as often we are saddened by the revealings of impatience, irritability, vanity, envy, or selfishness.

This happens often enough to make us less and less inclined as we grow older to estimate men by their appearance.

Here comes a man down the street. He wears a broadcloth and a silk hat. Behind him walks a man in overalls. Here comes a woman richly dressed and behind her a plainly-clad woman. Over yonder are massed together a number of persons handsome and homely. But what do these distinctions tell concerning the inside life? Precious little. The only way to find out what a man is on the inside is to live with him long enough to get at his real spirit. The folks who eat with us and work with us and play with us are the ones who know what we are at the center of our lives. And yet they do not know us absolutely. That can be affirmed only of God and measurably of ourselves.

Therefore our estimates of others should always be tenderly made, always subject to revision, always made with the remembrance that we know others only in part.

Still more important is it to give such attention to our inside life as will enable it to bear the closest scrutiny and that will also foster a legitimate sense of satisfaction with what we are. Depend upon it the chief joy in life arises from within and not from without. What folly to prink long hours before the glass and scant the time given to storing the mind with useful thoughts! Whom do I live with most closely, your relatives, your friends or yourself? I want to appear well before men, but I want to be what I seem to be. I want an inside life that shall be sufficient in itself and not dependent upon outside attractions.

Within are the large and rewarding and inspiring thoughts. Within are the great loyalties to others. The wounded French grenadier submitting to the surgeon's knife, could honestly say: "Cut a little deeper and you will find the Emperor." Within are the fountains of feeling that refresh us when life becomes a dry and weary thing. Within is the soul's response to God and the capacity for fellowship with him.

Over and again Jesus emphasized the inside of a man's life, the color of the skin, the amount of adornments, the spoken word, the general bearing, everything purely superficial, counted for naught in comparison with the real self within. If that is true and pure and aspiring, if the inner chamber houses noble thoughts and sweet affections and generous impulses, then you are living the richest, happiest kind of life, no matter what your external surroundings are. THE PARSON.

Nothing But the Dollar.

New York World: There were important developments in public affairs during the past week, but the most notable thought was that embodied in these lines from the speech of Senator Burton of Ohio at the Columbus convention:

"I sometimes wish that our senators would talk less about increased bank deposits, revenues, iron and steel products, and more about human welfare. There is no question but there is a great degree of social unrest."

This social unrest may be in part a protest against sordid political and social conditions. In spite of many individual philanthropies, we as a nation are chiefly concerned with accumulation, combination, profit and greed. We gather into barns, we glut the vaults, we stuff the banks, we pile up our hoards, we keep keen eyes on each other, and then in our public relations we quarrel about it all. Politics, law, religion, society, ethics, economy, have little to do but keep books on these processes, discuss them, question them, approve them or criticise them—cautiously.

We find great political parties failing to pieces, distinguished leaders losing their hold upon the people, religion in some places losing its lack of force, and the authority and sanctity of the home and family fallen to a low estate. Why? Is it because in our public activities so little account is taken of human welfare and so much thought is devoted to the one consideration of gain?

The Ohio senator touched lightly upon the plight of a people famished and yet satiated. We have run the full course of avarice, national and personal. We have sounded all the depths of delusive finance, legislation and foreign adventure. We have multiplied wealth until the gorgeous East has faded. Yet there is social discontent, and there is what amounts to popular incredulity, disgust and despair.

We are holding an Oriental race in political bondage. We tax one American for the benefit of another. We have lawbreakers so powerful that our penalties do not reach them. We deny to 10,000,000 Americans many of the rights that belong to them. We are spending hundreds of millions every year for war. We are wilfully extravagant and wasteful. We worship money, success, prosperity, so called. We despise poverty. Where are the virtues of the national soul?

Is there never again to be a popular plea for human welfare—without a coupon and without a dividend?

Much Ado About a Comma.

London Outlook: Canon Beeching at a very busy season of the year has been allowed to occupy more than a column of the Times over a question which at first sight seems a trifle because it is concerned with the position of a comma in the Lord's prayer. It appears that since 1903 or thereabouts the three printing establishments which are allowed a monopoly in the production of the prayer book have given us "Thy will be done, in earth as it is in heaven," instead of "Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven." Most people have failed to notice this change, because congregations have on repeating the prayer with the pause after "earth," which is hallowed by ancient custom. But in Westminster Abbey and a few college chapels the new arrangement of the clause is coming into daily recitation.

THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL

Is not an experiment, as is proved by the records of the young men and women whom it has sent to college or higher institutions of learning. Their record also proves that intensive study does still yield a positive pleasure.

Our specially trained teachers working with small classes are unusually successful in keeping in touch with their students, who are thus kept in that hopeful attitude so essential to successful efforts. Not mental fulness but mental discipline is our aim.

We have satisfied others; we can satisfy you.

POLITICS AND REBELLIONS

By SAVOYARD.

More than once, in my imperfect way, I have attempted to illustrate the discipline and the valor of the Republican party by reference to the Spanish veteran infantry in the Netherlands under Don John, Alva and Alexander Farnese. Their ancestors had been trained to war in the four centuries of strife in the peninsula between the Cross and the Crescent, wars that had developed as brave a chivalry as history tells us of.

The "great captain," Gonzalo de Cordova, had done for the Spanish infantry what Cromwell, later, did for the "Ironsides," fashioned them so they would stand in rank and fight with a desperate and seren courage from dawn to dark, however bloody the field.

• • •

And when the Netherlands rebelled Philip II sent the flower of the Spanish soldiery, commanded by the most consummate captain of even that heroic age, and the war was long, desperate, ruthless. In the pitched battle nothing could withstand the impetuous and desperate valor of the Spanish; but as soon as the victory was won the veteran mutinied and carried horrible rapine throughout the provinces, and thus they "insurged" till the next call to arms, and then they were shoulder to shoulder till another victory was won.

• • •

And so with the Republican party. It is full of "insurgents" till election day. Last winter Republican stock was quoted at less than 20 cents to the dollar; today it is fetching more than 90 cents. And if it does not go above par by November the Democrats will have to act wiser than they ever have done since 1890.

There is no doubt that the country is disgusted with the G. O. P. Unfortunately it does not trust the Democratic party, and, for that matter I know of nothing our party has done since it re-elected Grover Cleveland in 1892 to command the confidence of the country. We need a man. Perhaps we got him in Harmon, or Marshall, or Gaynor. As to that, we shall see.

• • •

There have been three rebellions in the Republican party. In 1872 the Liberal Republican movement was set on foot in the Untied States senate. It was led by Carl Schurz, Lyman Trumbull, Charles Summer and Senator Tipton of Nebraska. The debate was one of the most brilliant in parliamentary history, and when Schurz grappled with Conkling, the senate was illuminated by the Rolands and Olivers these two Titans hurled against each other. It surpassed the encounters between Douglas and Seward, eighteen years earlier, and was not surpassed by the tremendous struggle between Ben Hill and Matt Carpenter seven years later. It was the more bitter because it was a family quarrel. Fortunately the "old Roman," the ablest man then in public life, Allen G. Thurman, was leading the Democrats. He directed that the quarrel should be fought out on the Republican side, though, when the thing began to get cool, he and Casserly of California, would throw into the furnace some combustibles that kept the fires of faction at fever heat.

And the fruit of it was a new party that met in national convention in Cincinnati in May, 1872. It was a patriotic squad. David Davis, the man who had done much to nominate Abraham Lincoln for the presidency in 1860, and who was now on the supreme bench, had been named for president by the Labor party. Henry Watterson knew that he was impossible, and but for him the Liberal Republicans would have nominated Davis.

• • •

The plan was to nominate Charles Francis Adams or Lyman Trumbull. The great editors, Watterson, Bowles, Halstead, Whitelaw Reid, Horace White, and Hyde of St. Louis, prepared the country for a glorious reform, all being there overseeing the thing. It would have worked wonders, but for the fact that Frank Blair and Gratz Brown were practical politicians, and they threw the fat in the fire by the nomination of the best man, then living, grand old Horace Greeley.

• • •

Gen. Grant was a greater man than he was a general; he was a greater general than he ws a statesmn, and he was a greater statesman than he was a politician. Hhis chief attribute was a simplicity of character that was grand. Where he trusted he trusted fully; he was incapable of suspicion, and it is that vice of suspicion that chains many a big soul to earth. But Grant could hate, and when once he found that one he trusted proved faithless, he was forever done with that man. As well try to raise the dead as to restore that one to his confidence.

Had the election been held in July I make no doubt that Greeley would have been elected. Enthusiasm would have done the thing; but by September the tide began to recede, and by October it was a hopeless case. It broke Greeley's heart, and in hell they are roasting Tom Nast like a herring for the part he played in that tragedy that took from American journalism its greatest figure, and removed from American citizenship its biggest heart. O, the cruelty of politics! It is almost as insane as the fanaticism of religion.

• • •

The next serious rebellion in the Republican party was in 1884, when the mugwumps resented the nomination of James G. Blaine, author of the "Mulligan letters." But the hand of fate was in it. The seed sown in congress in 1886, when Conkling charged Blaine with dishonesty, and Blaine retorted that Conkling was a turkey cock, now brought a crop of tears in the Republican wheat crop. That tens of thousands of Tammany men voted for Blaine because they hated Cleveland and believed Blaine a Catholic there is no doubt; but George William Curtis, Henry Ward Beecher, the New York Times and the New York Evening Post gave to Cleveland two mugwump voters for every Irish Catholic John Kelley pledged to Blaine.

And yet the G. O. P. would have stolen the election but for two circumstances. They had stolen it eight years before, and Grover Cleveland was governor of New York. They pretended that Tammany stole 5,000 votes from Ben Butler. If Tammany stole any votes on that occasion it bestowed them on Blaine. Besides, there is an alibi. Had that community contained 5,000 voters who were willing to see old Beast Butler president, a just and indignant God Almighty would have rained on that town the fire and brimstone that made Sodom and Gomorrah, cities of the plain, the Dead sea. They thought they had stolen enough votes to elect Blaine, or they would have stolen more.

• • •

The greatest calamity of our politics since the Civil war was the work of Dave Hill. Had he re-elected Cleveland in 1888, the silver question would have been composed and the tariff made honest, constitutional and Democratic. All he had to do was to say to the whisky crowd: "I will not win at the expense of the national ticket." That would have fixed it, and had it been necessary he could have clinched it with a threat: "If you elect me and defeat Cleveland, as governor I will sign any measure the temperance folk send me."

That would have made the Democratic party triumphant. It would have been the death warrant of the Republican party. The panic of 1893 would have been avoided. The silver craze would not have vexed the country and ruptured the Democratic party, and David B. Hill would have been inaugurated president of the United States in 1893. Above all, Teddy Roosevelt would not have come to keep the country in hot water.

• • •

And in 1910 there is another rebellion in the G. O. P. Dolliver made a grand speech the other day. If not too lazy, I am going to write a letter with it for a text. If the Democratic party shall discover sense enough to put up a panel of draw bars, or herd a flock of geese, they will now begin to howl tariff and nothing but tariff, and kep it up til November, 1912.

All the other issues are fakes out of the Roosevelt mold.

Cholera Infantum Cured.

"Something like two years ago my baby, which was then about a year old, was taken seriously ill with cholera infantum, vomiting and purging profusely," writes J. F. Dempsey of Dempsey, Ala. "I did what I could to relieve her but did her no good, and being very much alarmed about her went for a physican but failed to find one, so came back by Elder Bros. & Carter's store and Mr. Elder recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. I procured a bottle of it, went home as quickly as possible and gave the baby a dose of the remedy. It relieved her in fifteen minutes and soon cured her entirely." For sale by all druggists.

CONCRETE COAL DOCK AT SUPERIOR HAS A CAPACITY OF 500,000 TONS

THE NEW PHILADELPHIA & READING COAL DOCK.

When the new Philadelphia & Reading Coal company's dock is completed, Superior will have the most modern coal dock at the Head of the Lakes, if not on the entire chain of lakes.

Work was started upon this dock several months ago, and it is expected that it will be finished in the course of a few weeks. Considerable delay was caused by the dynamite explosion which occurred Monday night and Tuesday morning, when more than $10,000 worth of machinery was destroyed, but arrangements for its replacement has practically been made already.

When finished the dock will have cost over $1,000,000. It is the only dock at the Head of the Lakes that has a solid concrete base, while the base of the large steel shed, to be used for the storage of anthracite coal, is also made of concrete, and the steel rigs are founded upon a similar material.

This dock will have a capacity of more than 500,000 tons of coal and the company will be able to handle during the year over 1,000,000 tons.

The steel rigs, which the accompanying cut shows in the backgrounds, are 460 feet long. They will be used for the unloading of coal from the boats, and can unload 1,000 tons per hour. They are movable and so can be used at any part of the dock.

In the steel shed, which of itself has a capacity of 160,000 tons of hard coal, there are two similar rigs with a working capacity of 500 tons per hour. These are stationary.

The main part of the dock will be used for the storage of soft coal, and has a capacity of 350,000 tons. As soft coal does not need covering no shed will be erected over the main part.

This dock will be accessible by the Terminal and the Omaha railroads, so no trouble will be experienced by the company in the shipment of coal to or from the dock. At present the company has an old dock on the St. Louis bay front, but when the new dock will be completed, the old dock will be abandoned.

ONLY ONE DAY MORE OF BOULEVARD NAME CONTEST

Steady Stream of Suggestions Shows No Sign of Decreasing.

Proctor Knott and Governor Johnson Remembered By Contestants.

The "Boulevard editor" consumed the midnight juice (electric) last night and at the finish he was in such a limp condition that even the sporting editor seriously doubted whether he could "come back."

So many suggestions for the rechristening of the Boulevard came in that those that arrived this morning were held for Monday's publication as on Saturday the facilities of The Herald are so overtaxed that it is difficult to print a serial story on that day. The literary editor suggests that the names for the Boulevard be thrown together with a flossy title, such as "Alisa Paige," and made one of the six best sellers.

Several citizens remembered the late John A. Johnson and half a dozen suggestions embodying his name were received. Albert E. Hawkins of 412 West Fourth street was the first to suggest "John A. Johnson Drive."

A. G. H., comes to bat with "Jacob's Ladder," but fearing the park board may reject this on account of implied levity, "Zenith Causeway," is suggested. "Will send a receipt for the $10 as soon as I receive it," concludes A. G. H.

"We are willing to divide with Mr. Billson, so make it Rogers' Coronet, and send us each five," says the chief quill pusher on the morning paper. After having demanded the entire ten plunks this spirit of generosity is highly commendable. But what does Mr. Billson think about it?

Elbert Bede says, "Why not call it 'The Panorama.' That would be suggestive, snappy, short and slangy. I may apply the 'ten' on 'sub.'" If the much discussed ten plunks were applied on a subscription to The Herald this paper might be accused of using premiums to get subscribers. In this respect we are like Caesar's wife. Also, if the "Budget" were removed from The Herald's exchange list the political editor would pine in vain for something to stir his ire on a dull day.

Mrs. H. C. Johnson, 115 East Superior street, suggests "The Herald Route." Thanks are extended, but the real estate editor says the road is somewhat crooked. Our old friend of revered memory, tinged with the delicate odor of the delectable mint julep, Proctor Knott of Kentucky, sah, gets a place from John A. Morterud of 2624 West Fifth street. He suggests "Proctor's Dream drive."

Gustav Swendson honors a well known citizen of this town by suggesting "Munger drive," after Roger S. Munger, one of Duluth's grand old men, a man who has done more to build up Duluth, has spent more time, has been less selfish, more faithful than all the rest.

Albert H. Addison, cashier of the Central National bank of Peoria, Ill., suggests "Upland drive." Peoria has a beautiful boulevard along the steep banks of the Illinois river. A portion of it is called "Upland drive." Mr. Addison thinks the name would be appropriate for Duluth's famous driveway.

A jesting person who signs himself "The Major," suggests "Hackman's Delight Overlook Driveway, Do-It."

Mr. J. J. Desmond, publicist and secretary-treasurer of the Duluth White Sox, modestly suggests "Desmond drive."

Monday will be the last day on which names will be received. The prize of $10 will be given to the person coming nearest to suggesting the name adopted by the park board.

RUSSIAN CAPITAL FACES EPIDEMIC LIKE THAT OF '08

St. Petersburg, Aug. 6.—Russia's scourge, the cholera, continues to spread with most alarming rapidity, particularly in the southern mining districts and in St. Petersburg, where the conditions are fast approaching the proportions of the great epidemic of 1908.

Figures furnished today by the central sanitary bureau show that in the week beginning July 24, there were 15,244 cases of cholera and 6,944 deaths. Of these, 4,780 cases and 2,233 deaths were reported from the province of Yekaterinoslav and the territory of the Don Cossacks in South Russia.

A report from the United Mine Owners' association, covering forty-eight mines and four foundries, gives 2,970 cases and 1,250 deaths. The extent of the panic among the miners is shown by figures furnished from eighteen mines, from which 18,000 of the 46,000 employes has fled.

Panic May Close Mines.

In answer to the appeal of the as- (Continued on page 5, fifth column.)

sociation for special measures to check the epidemic and stem the panic, which threatens to stop the production of coal and iron in South Russia, the government today decided to send to the mining region a special commission to study the situation, empowering it to organize sanitary preventive work.

The mine owners, it is announced, will bear a considerable part of the expense of fighting the scourage.

The provincial assembly of Yekaterinoslav today assigned $200,000 for the cause.

Railroad Employes Frightened.

The desertion of work by the laborers extends also to the railroad employes and the workmen in the ports in South Russia, threatening to cripple the export movement of grain. Advices from Yekaterinoslav report that the transport of the crops is at a standstill.

The epidemic continues to make enormous progress in the capital, where the daily average of cases jumped last week to 30. Yesterday 182 cases or suspected cases of cholera were taken to the hospitals, and there were 30 deaths. The hospitals now contain 962 cases of cholera. The high record reached in 1908 was 412 cases a day.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

SOX SECURE NEW PLAYERS

A new player will be seen with the White Sox in the remaining games to be played at Athletic Park, before the team leaves for the next road trip.

Kinkelin, a baseball player from Los Angeles, who has been playing with Los Angeles and also some in South Dakota, and who comes highly recommended as an outfielder and first baseman, will receive his first trial today in right field, and if he makes good, will probably occupy that position during the remainder of the season.

The new man is said to be fast and also able to clout the spheroid. As a good hitting outfielder is the most important acquisition that the Sox can secure, the fans hope that the new man will prove the player the team has been looking for.

Michael Kramer, who has been playing independent baseball in Webster, S. D., has also signed his contract and will be given a trial before the team leaves for the next road trip.

OARSMEN WILL GO TO PICNIC IN SHELLS.

All of the members of the club are requested to attend. The wives and friends of the members are also extended a cordial invitation.

PREPARE CASE FOR THE INDIANS

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Daniel Henderson of Washington, D. C.; F. W. Houghton of Milwaukee; Harvey S. Clapp of Duluth, and George B Edgerton of St. Paul, are today conferring over the case of the Mille Lac Indians against the United States government. The case will be heard by the court of claims at Washington some time during the October term, and the four attorneys, who represent the Indians in the suit, are here going over the evidence.

Among other things they will decide whether it will be necessary for them to take any more testimony in the case. If they decide to call more witnesses it is quite likely that J. A. Anderson, assistant to the attorney general, and Maj. James McLaughlin, special Indian agent of the government, will come to St. Paul and make their headquarters here during the hearings.

The case has been pending several months. The Mille Lac Indians are trying to recover from the United States government $3,000,000, the alleged value of timber taken from their lands many years ago by certain lumber companies.

SOCIETY

The summer continues to be one continuous picnic. For the automobile enthusiasts it is a motoring picnic; for the sailors it is a water affair; other folks have it as a lake shore outing; and with others it is a piazza party. This is the routine of the summer, interrupted long enough for a few affairs of greater formality and picturesqueness. Almost everybody is inundated with summer visitors and everybody is arranging for them to have a happy time. One man during the past week who loves a quiet hour, who likes to lie on the green sward during his idle moments to loaf and invite his soul, said with appalling frankness: "We have summer visitors at our house who not only expect but insist upon being entertained."

Between whiles everybody is thinking up a new name for the Boulevard.

TRY THIS DINNER

Quick Beef Soup.

Chop fine one pound of beef, one carrot, one turnip and one onion, cover with one quart of cold water and let it stand an hour. Then add a clove, salt and pepper and a few drops of kitchen bouquet. Simmer for an hour and a half and strain through a sieve.

Meat—Fried Chicken.

Clean and wash a chicken of the frying size twice the age of a broiler; cut it up, divide the breast into two pieces, and lay it in cold water for half an hour. Have on the stove a frying pan with lard an inch deep in it. Season the chicken well with salt and pepper, and dredge well with flour. Drop into the boiling lard and turn frequently till it is beautifully brown. It must not cook done on one side before turning on the other, as it will not be so evenly and nicely cooked. Maryland cooks often invert a pan over the frying chicken to cook it in the very best way.

Vegetables—Peas, Parisian Style.

Put a can of peas in a saucepan with a sprig of parsley, an onion sliced and a few leaves of lettuce. Toss them over occasionally and when cooked add a tablespoon of butter blended with a tablespoon of flour. If too thick add water or milk and cook for fifteen minutes.

Dessert—Apricot Fluff.

Mix one and one-half level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with one-fourth cup of cold milk; stir into this one cup of scalded milk; continue stirring until thick, then add one cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. Have prepared three-fourths of a cup of dried apricots, which have been cooked and strained through a fine sieve. Add to the mixture and cook 15 minutes. Remove from the fire and add gradually one well-beaten white of egg. Flavor with vanilla or sherry.

NAVIGATOR JOE

By Clinton Rogers.

As Navigator Joe shuffled out of the freight yards he glanced furtively around him. Then he drew a newspaper from his pocket and from the interior he produced a grimy, hard-crusted sandwich, which he devoured.

Joe might have been a typical tramp from his appearance. His looks suggested anything, judging from dirt, grizzled beard, and frayed, cast-off clothes.

Some time prior in his life he had allowed the information to get forth that he had been a sea cook. Then they dubbed him Navigator Joe, and Joe himself knew nothing further as to his own name. A scarred cheek and a sightless eye betrayed the attentions of a rude mate at some stage of Joe's seafaring life.

Now as he shuffled along the tracks he wiped his mouth reflectively with the back of his hand and made for a hedge row, where he spent the balance of the afternoon in sleep.

Joe awoke hungry. He rose to sitting posture and took a survey of the street. No forbidding forms in blue were in sight, so he slunk along in the shadows, keeping an eye open for saloons which might suggest a bite of free lunch.

Joe had ridden North for the summer. Like all the aristocracy of his set, he traveled North and South with the seasons, although his peregrinations were troublesome affairs, vexed with the attentions of railroad detectives and brakemen, who objected to ornaments upon the brakebeams and the rods of the freight cars.

A friendly sight of swinging doors met his gaze. Joe cautiously walked past and eyed the bartender over the top of the temporary wicker-work door.

"Wonder where he's from," muttered Joe. "Might try him on Galveston or New'r Leans."

Joe sidled through the door.

"Howdy, pard," said he. "I'm just in from New'r Leans an' I'm broke. Gimme a beer will you?"

Joe slid over towards the lunch as the bartender looked up with war in his gaze.

"Beat it," said he calmly, and resumed his newspaper.

Joe went forth into the night. Again he sauntered down the street and again he met with rebuff.

But, in his way, Joe was a philosopher. He did not mind rebuffs. He was used to them. Fourteen years he had been the under dog in the fight for free lunch and free beer. He had taken it as the accepted thing when his collar was seized and the slack of his ragged trousers were suddenly grasped and he was propelled into the street at a half trot.

Therefore he walked along now, carefully avoiding the sections that were too much alight and keeping his good eye open for a friendly saloon.

Joe didn't have a cent. Consequently he was without the besetting cares of wealth. But he was hungry.

Suddenly he saw a ray of hope. Looming in scrawny letters upon a windaw filled with bottles he read, "The Galveston Cafe."

"I get this feller," said Joe. It was one of his tricks to recall old friends of bar tenders and saloon keepers in divers places upon the map where his travels had taken him.

Joe was just about to enter when some one touched him upon the arm. He turned and saw a pitifully frail little woman, huddled up with a shawl over her head and shoulders.

"Please, mister, if you're going in there, will you tell my Tom—my husband, to come out," said she.

The ragged man looked down at her. Through the opening of the shawl he saw a pale, pinched, girlish face looking up at him through troubled eyes.

"Sure I'll tell him," said he. Suddenly Joe's shoulders straightened. He went through the doorway without slinking. As though he had a mission—as though he had money in his pocket.

Two men were standing at the bar. One clutched the rail and swayed unsteadily. He was a young fellow, dressed like a mechanic, with a face that might have been honest before the mysterious working of liquor had spoiled it.

The other was older, and he had a keener face and keener eyes. He looked as though he had drunk more than the younger man, but felt it less.

"See, here, Tom," said he, as though completing a threat he had made before, "I know you took it—nobody else was there."

The young man flushed.

"You're a liar," he cried.

The bartender stood at the end of the bar. He saw trouble in the air.

Joe knew that trouble was in the air. For an instant he hesitated. Then he remembered the pleading look of the girl outside. As he moved towards the men they swayed apart.

Tom struck forward with an uncertain fist. The other flashed a revolver from his pocket. Joe was abreast of them now. The weapon was raised. The light from the lamp overhead flashed from it.

With the quickness that train-jumping breeds, Joe sidled in between just as flame spurted from the muzzle and the dingy little saloon was filled with the roar of the report.

Joe slowly sagged down upon the floor. Casting the weapon away, the owner ran through the side door. Tom, white-faced and shaken with fear, fell into a chair.

The woman, frightened, ran through the doorway and clasped her husband's head to her breast.

"Tom, Tom, you're not hurt, are you, Tom?" she wailed.

Joe slowly and lazily stretched out upon the floor. His head rested against the brass railing. His eyes were closed.

The bartender bent over him. He tore loose the ragged shirt where the blood was seeping from an ugly hole in his breast.

He leaned over the prostrate man.

"Ain't there something I kin do for you, pal, before the police come?" he said.

Navigator Joe opened his eyes dreamily. Then an amiable grin spread over his dirty, shaggy face.

"Gimme a beer," said he.

How you give your fragrance
Out to every one.

Rude the foot that tramples
On your slender head;
Gentle hands should lift you,
If you need, instead.

Pretty little posey,
Drinking in the shower,
As you grow so sweetly
In the sun-kissed bower.

Picnic Luncheon

SO often we hear the girls say: "Oh, what shall we prepare for our picnic luncheon?" Now, if any little ladies, planning on a picnic in the woods, will follow the suggestion here given for a picnic luncheon, I am sure they will never regret it.

In the first place, picnic dishes should never be of the "smeary" kind. One wants things one may eat without soiling the hands or, better still, the clothes. How often do we see people carrying glasses of jelly to a picnic! And the result is stained fingers, mouths and oftener stained frocks.

Deviled eggs aplenty, for all children (and grownups, too) love deviled eggs. Thin slices of buttered bread, wrapped in paper to keep them moist. Ham and cheese sandwiches, also wrapped in paper. Sliced cold chicken, small sour pickles, sweet cakes of any description save the "smeary" layer sort. Old-fashioned sugar and molasses cookies are best for a picnic. And there should be plenty of lemonade. To save much bother in making it, the lemon juice should be prepared at home, strained and bottled. Sugar should be boiled into a syrup and also bottled. Then all there is to do at the picnic is to pour the syrup and lemon juice into a pail and fill up with cold spring water. There is no part of the picnic luncheon work so objectionable as the making of ordinary lemonade, such as squeezing the lemons and stirring in granulated sugar, which will not dissolve without long standing. And one who has once prepared the juice and syrup at home will never again wait till reaching the picnic grounds to make the lemonade in the old-fashioned way. Some fruit juice may also be taken in bottles with which to flavor the lemonade. Blackberry juice is especially fine. Plenty of fruit, such as bananas and apples, also add greatly to the picnic repast.

THE JOLLY SAILORS. BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

THE "Jolly Sailors" were three in number: Johnny Graves, Pete Davis and Arthur (commonly known as Art) Thompson. Little did Johnny Graves know of water and water craft. Less did Pete Davis know of such things, and nothing at all about boats or boating did Art Thompson know. And that was why Johnny was the captain of the "Jolly Sailor." Pete the mate and Art the Crew. The vessel owned—or borrowed, to be exact—by the "Jolly Sailors" was an old row boat once used by an old fisherman who delighted in rowing up stream just for the sake of floating down again, as he dangled his fishing line into the water on which he glided. But the fisherman was old and worn out now and preferred to let someone else catch the fish while he remained at home to eat them. He was a jolly old chap, however, and told long and exciting stories of "land and sea" to the boys who liked to gather about his shanty door of evenings.

And among his interested listeners were Johnny, Pete and Art, all citizens of the little town which nestled close upon the banks of the river on which the old fisherman had spent such a large part of his declining years. The old fisherman, by name "Uncle Tim," did not live in the town itself, but had a shanty about half a mile off.

One evening in the early part of August, "Uncle Tim" declared to the boys that he meant to use his craft no more. "I'm gittin' too stiff in the wings," he asserted, holding out his aged arms and knotted fingers for inspection. "See how them arms are bent? They used to be as fine as any pair in the han' or on sea. But—ole Daddy Time has tetched 'em with his rheumatic wand, an', presto pass! They're not much good now. So the boat's fer loan or fer sale. For loan to a friend', or fer sale to a stranger.' Then "Uncle Tim" lighted his pipe, leaned back in his chair and glanced through his half-shut eyes at his listeners.

"Are we your friends, 'Uncle Tim'?" asked Johnny eagerly. Johnny, Pete and Art happened to be the only callers at the home of "Uncle Tim" on this particular evening. All were seated about the front door, out under the open sky.

"Be youins my frien's?" asked "Uncle Tim." And he squinted at Johnny. Then he smiled broadly and declared: "You fellers air my best, shure an' certain. An' if you want the craft—why, say the word."

"Well, I'd like to have her for the rest of the summer—if the boys will go in with me," said Johnny.

"Sure we will," declared Pete and Art in a breath.

"Then call yourselves the 'Jolly Sailors,'" suggested Uncle Tim. "My pap was a sailor, an' hadn't it bin fer my comin' West when I was a young shaver I'd a-bin a sailor, too. But—a trapper an' a fisherman on this here river I've bin fer three dozen years. Guess that's goin' some, eh?"

And Uncle Tim's three young admirers agreed that it was.

Then the bargain for the "craft" was struck. All that Uncle Tim wanted was a share of the fish the boys caught while rowing on the river, and regular visits from them with full accounts of their experiences. The pay was simple enough, and the boys agreed that they were "more than satisfied" with the arrangements.

The first day of sailing was decided upon, and the three Jolly Sailors made the start from the little landing just a few feet from Uncle Tim's shanty. The Captain and the Mate used the oars, while the Crew sat in the rear seat, fishing rod in hand. A tin can of bait was in the boat, as well as a jug of drinking water and some ham sandwiches. The Jolly sailors intended spending the day in their "craft" and hoped to return to the home of Uncle Tim (where the boat was kept tied up) with a fine supply of fish, some for Uncle Tim and some for their mothers.

After reaching a fine, deep place in the river, a place where the stream made a sharp turn between deep banks, the Jolly Sailors brought the boat to a standstill near to a huge pile of driftwood. There they hoped to find plenty of fish, for Uncle Tim—who knew the river as a boy knows his own home—had told them where to cast anchor and line.

The boys had three fishing rods and fell to angling at once. For sometime they met with no luck; then of a sudden the Crew's line "bobbed." "A nibble," whispered the Captain. "Be still," warned the Mate. "Be ready to haul in, steadily, pardner," whispered the Captain to the Crew.

"It's a whopper, I'm sure."

Then the "boat" went out of sight and the Crew jerked the line by quickly lifting the rod. The line drew up from the water and the biggest fish the Crew had ever seen was hanging on the hook. Captain, Mate and Crew gave wild exclamations of surprise and admiration: "Up with the rod, slowly!" warned the Captain. "Here, let me help you, or you'll lose him," cried the Mate, rising and shuffling to where the excited Crew sat, trying to draw in his fish. But just as the Mate was about to lend a hand at drawing in the line the boat toppled to one side on account of the uneven weight and spilled out the three Jolly Sailors. Three wild yells rent the air, but were unheard by human ears, and the birds and beasts of the field cared not a straw for the cries of distress. The birds kept on singing as though nothing had happened; the squirrels kept on with their nut-eating as though there existed no three Jolly Sailors fighting about in the water of the river.

Realizing their danger—for the water beneath them was some 12 feet deep—the Jolly Sailors decided, and pretty quickly, too, that there was no time to waste in reaching land. So they began trying to save themselves, and succeeded well. The Captain got hold of some of the driftwood and dragged himself ashore. The Mate followed suit and was soon shaking himself, like a wet dog, on the river bank. Only the Crew was still tumbling about in the water, swimming in a circle round the upturned boat.

"Say, this way, Kid," called out Johnny to Art. "Pull for the shore, man!"

"I'm all O. K.," called back the Crew. "I could swim here for an hour. The water's fine. But—I've lost hold of my fishing-rod, and I must get it again. That fish is still on the hook, I'll bet my hat."

"Oh, you can't get him now," called out Pete. "Pull for the shore. Then, once we are steady, we'll have to get out of our shoes and clothes and swim in and turn our boat right side up. Come, hurry out of that bath!"

But just at this moment the Crew gave a yell of victory. "I've got the line, and—as sure as I'm the crew, I've got the fish! Here, I'm coming ashore. Be ready to drag him in." And so saying Art, all excitement, swam, one-handed, for the shore, which was only a few feet distant. He was holding to the fishing line, pulling something fastened to the farther end along with him. The rod had become entangled in the driftwood, and when Art reached the shore he asked one of the boys to cut the line, so that it would be freed from the rod. This done, it was only the work of a moment to draw in the fish. And when the Captain and the Mate beheld the fine fellow they cheered the Crew to the echo. "Don't blame you for hanging on to that line," declared the Captain, admiringly, and he slapped the dripping back of the Crew heartily.

"Gee whiz!" ejaculated the Mate, admiring the fish, which now lay on the bank, safe and sound. "He'll weigh 10 pounds if an ounce. You'll have something to tell Uncle Tim—and to show him, too."

"Well, he was enough to upset the boat all right, all right," grinned the Crew. "An', kids, it's the first fish I ever caught. Ain't that great?"

Then they set to work to restore their "craft" to its proper place in the water, after which they rowed hurriedly to Uncle Tim's to report the incidents of their first "sailing."

Captain, Mate and Crew gave wild exclamations of surprise and admiration.

QUARRELSOME FREDDY AND HIS LESSON.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

IT had been such a lovely, friendly neighborhood before Freddy Adams moved into it. Not a single child had acted naughtily or "fussed" with his playmates. All had lived in sweet comradeship.

There were only six families living in the suburb, for it was a tiny place, most people preferring to live in the Big Town itself, which was very close by. But one day Freddy Adams' father came home to say (they were then living in the Big Town) that he had bought a summer home in the beautiful little suburb of Rosedale. And so the Adamses moved right out of town into their new summer home. And Freddy, their only child, was master of the place at once. He bossed things about, and was not very much liked by the new servants.

After having been in the new home for a few days, Freddy became acquainted with the children of the neighborhood. They came to his front gate, half a dozen of them, to call and to invite him to "play with them." Freddy was only too glad to accept the invitation and ran out into the big road with them. There were Gracie and Jean Baker, Pauline, Baby and Chubby Smith and Harold Hading. All were nearly of an age, as nearly as possible for little sisters and brothers to be. Freddy was nine, and none of his little callers was under five and none over ten.

After reaching the big road, where the children loved to play, "horse," Freddy was asked to play at being Harold's driver. Harold had a make-believe bridle and long lines attached. Freddy took the lines in his hands and started to drive Harold down the road. But hardly had they got started when Freddy decided he should whip his horse and he stopped to gather a switch from a tree which grew beside the road. With this he began to strike Harold's back sharply. Harold turned about and said: "Oh, you mustn't play that way, Freddy. It hurts me. You needn't use the whip. I'm a good horsey and will travel fast without it."

"I don't like gurls, anyway," retorted Freddy.

Freddy threw down the lines and began to pout. "I'll not play if I can't whip you," he said in a very quarrelsome voice. I like to strike my horse and make him run."

By this time all the other little ones had come up to where Freddy and Harold were talking. When Gracie was told of the trouble she said to Freddy: "We never strike each other, not even in fun, Freddy. And we love each other. You must play nicely with us. Then we'll all like you."

"I'll play as I like," retorted Freddy, "or I'll go home. I don't like gurls, anyway. You mind your own business." And he made a wry face at Gracie.

The group of little ones stood amazed. Never before had they heard anyone talk so shockingly, or seen one do such a naughty thing as Freddy had just been guilty of doing. Gracie's eyes filled with tears. "You should not speak so," she said to Freddy. "We all wanted you to play with us; but if you are naughty, why, you'll have to play alone."

"Yes, we won't have you with us if you behave so badly," declared Jean, Gracie's younger brother. "And, if you don't like girls, you are a bad boy."

Freddy jerked up a handful of dust and threw it viciously towards Jean. The latter started to run away, and the others followed him. When a safe distance from the dust-throwing Freddy, Pauline turned about and called out to him: "We'll not come to play with you any more, for you are so rude to us. If you become ashamed of yourself and say you are sorry you acted this way, and ask us to forgive you, and promise not to be naughty any more, then you may come and play with us. But not till you have done all that."

Then, Freddy pitching pebbles and dust after them, the six children, who had come to play with him in so friendly a manner, ran off towards their respective homes at the farther end of the street. And once on the green lawn surrounding Pauline's home they very gravely talked over the "new boy's very naughty behavior."

In the meantime Freddy stood in the Big Road, wishing he might be with the village children. He knew he would like them, but he was a spoilt little fellow and had always had his own way. But for the first time in his short life he realized that to be selfish and overbearing was not going to make him happy. Why had not he been friendly and kind to the six little neighbors who had come to make him one of their happy band? And the more Freddy thought of it the more he condemned himself. He had been quarrelsome without cause. He was a very bad fellow and his life would be very lonely there in the village if he had no friends. And he certainly could not have friends were he to be rude towards those who came to offer their friendship to him.

For some time Freddy meditated thus: then he got up boldly and went off towards the other end of the street. Once in front of the home of Mr. Smith he paused to peep through the hedge at the happy sight on the lawn. There the group of happy children were playing "Cat and Mouse," and having the gayest time one could imagine. Oh, how his heart yearned for the companionship of those little girls and boys! And with a firm determination, Freddy walked into the yard, bowed to Pauline and said: "I'm sorry I was naughty, I didn't know till now how very ugly I have been. And—I do like girls, too. I like you. And I want to play with you and you may whip me if you want to because I whipped Harold."

The children gathered about him and assured him that not one of them wanted to strike him in retaliation, for they were only too happy to have him come to play with them, since he was sorry for his rude behavior and wished to be a good boy. And Freddy, glad of his lesson, profited by it and became one of the best and happiest of children, although he had been a naughty, quarrelsome fellow before coming to live in the suburb.

Eunice's Vacation Days. By Maud Walker.

EUNICE was spending the summer vacation in the country at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John James. Mrs. James was an artist of some ability, painting very beautifully on china and porcelain. When Eunice first arrived at her aunt's home she feared she would find the time hanging very heavily on her hands, for there were no young folks in the family and Mrs. James—Eunice's Aunt Mary—was a very busy woman, overlooking her household and superintending the work in the flower garden thus having little time to devote to the entertainment of her young niece from the city. And during her spare hours Mrs. James painted on some bit of choice china or porcelain.

"Now, my dear Eunice," said Mrs. James on the day of Eunice's arrival, "I shall ask you to make yourself at home, going about the house and grounds at your own sweet will, giving orders in the kitchen for any particular dish you are found of; in short, I am throwing you on your own resources—save at meal time—for your entertainment. The library is well filled with the best of books and magazines. If you tire of rambling about the grounds, or resting idly on the porch, or become weary of reading, there is the skiff on the river in which you may have a nice row."

"Thank you, auntie," said Eunice gratefully. "It is so good of you to ask me here for the hot summer vacation, and I fully appreciate it. I would truly be an ingrate to not feel the deepest gratitude to both uncle and you, and a real bother to you both were I to look to you for especial entertainment. I want you to go right on with your regular work, allowing me to make no interference at all. I am only too happy to have this opportunity to rest in the country and to be a guest of you and dear uncle."

And while Eunice was perfectly sincere in all she said, and loved her kind uncle and aunt deeply, she at first feared she'd miss the young companionship of school comrades she had enjoyed in the city. But she was grateful nevertheless for the hospitality of her relatives, and appreciated every kindness they offered her.

One day, soon after arriving in the country, Eunice tired of reading in the library, and went in quest of her aunt to ask about the best place on the river to go rowing. She found Mrs. James in her studio—a great unfinished room under the roof—busily engaged in decorating a huge porcelain vase. A study of full-blown red roses, shaded off to half-blown pink ones, and lastly, in the background, to dainty buds of the palest yellow, stood before the painter. She was beginning to copy the design on the vase.

"Oh, how beautiful!" exclaimed Eunice. "Isn't it fascinating work—painting on china and porcelain? How I should love to know how to do it!"

Aunt Mary looked up from her work. "Would you, really, my dear?" she asked.

"Oh, yes, auntie," declared Eunice, eagerly. "I have always wanted to paint on something — either on paper, canvas or china. I love color. But, you know, papa has not felt able to pay for painting lessons for me. I have drawing lessons at school, as you know. But I should love to use color."

"Why shouldn't you have a few lessons in painting while here?" asked Mrs. James. "If you feel that you care to study during your vacation—why, I shall be only too happy to instruct you in china painting. I thought, though, when your father wrote asking me to take you for the summer that you would want a real rest—nothing to tax your mind or body. You have been studying so hard during the past three years—ever since you entered high—that it seems you deserve a long, unbroken vacation. That is the reason I have not invited you to share my studio and my work with me. I wanted you to feel that you had nothing to do but to rest and to enjoy every minute of it."

"Oh, auntie, if I might come in and have some instructions in painting, how happy I should be," said Eunice. "Painting is not work, you know. Why, just watching you would teach me so much. I don't want to bother you, though. And giving me lessons would be bothering."

"Not at all, dear," said Mrs. James. "On the contrary, I should love to have you here with me. The lessons will be valuable to both teacher and pupil. Do you want to begin this morning?"

"Oh, yes, auntie," cried Eunice. And within 10 minutes she was seated beside her aunt, taking her first lesson in china painting. She was clever with the drawing pencil, and that was a great help, for she could draw her own designs very nicely, without transferring them. And she had a splendid and practiced eye for light and shade, and "could see color," as Aunt Mary put it.

And so the summer days wore on, Eunice taking a china painting lesson every morning. Her aunt had several fine orders to fill during the summer, for her fame as an artist had spread throughout the county, and she was able to turn her talent to financial account. One tall rose vase was ordered, and on it Mrs. James was going to put her very best work. She was to receive $75 for the vase when complete, and the lady who had ordered it wanted it on the fifteenth day of August, the anniversary wedding day of a friend to whom she was going to present the beautiful piece of art.

The vase had received its first firing, following the first painting, when Mrs. James was taken quite ill. She hoped to be up within a few days, however, and did not worry about the completion of the vase. "There are still two firings," she explained to Eunice. "The second painting will be the most particular, for the colors after that must be just right. The finishing up is merely the raised work and gold and retouching the strongest colors to strengthen them for the last firing. I can get it all done within three days after resuming work."

But Mrs. James did not recover as rapidly as she had hoped, and when the tenth day of August rolled around she was still confined to her bed, unable to do any work on the vase. Eunice was so worried over the delay in the work that on that day she went to the studio and examined the vase. She knew just what had to be done in completion of the beautiful piece of china, and felt so confident of her own ability with the brushes and colors that she determined to go ahead with the painting. It seemed a pity for her aunt to lose the money and also such a disappointment to the lady who had ordered the vase, should it not be completed by the fifteenth.

Without a word to her aunt about her intention, Eunice sat herself down before the work table and proceeded to put on the second painting. She had the design which was being copied on the vase in front of her, and followed it accurately. She knew enough about the colors to make no mistakes, and when she put on a certain ugly brownish tint she knew it would come out a rich, deep crimson in the firing.

For three days Eunice worked each forenoon in the studio, firing the vase at night. Her aunt had taught her the use of the kiln, and she used the greatest caution when heating it. She knew that the firing of the china was the most important part of the work, for overfiring or underfiring would ruin the most carefully painted china or porcelain.

During those three days of eager work Eunice said not a word to her aunt about the vase, and that patient lady, not wishing to impose her anxieties or worries on her husband or niece, ceased to mention it. She felt that to complete it was an impossibility, therefore, had banished it from her mind as much as possible.

On the evening of the fourteenth of August the lady who had ordered the vase was to call for it. And about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of that day Mrs. James called to Eunice, saying: "Dearie, I had intended to ask you to phone to Mrs. King yesterday and tell her that I would not be able to finish the vase for her, and to say that perhaps she would better get something else for her friend's anniversary gift, or explain that the present would be sent her a little later on—if she cared to wait till I was able to resume work on it. But somehow, I forgot to ask you to do it. You know I suffered so much yesterday from that rheumatic pain in my back. So anniversary wedding gifts found no place in my mind. But I am so much better today that recollection of my duties have come to me. Will you please go 'phone Mrs. King now and explain the cause of my delay?"

"Just wait a minute, auntie," said Eunice. And she ran from the room. After some minutes she returned, carrying the most beautiful vase one could wish to see. The design painted on it was simply perfect. Deep, red roses drooped over the delicately-tinted sides of the vase, and looked so natural that one's first impulse was to pluck them from the tender green stalks. The soft leaves fell in rich, cool clusters, shaded true to nature. The gold design about the top and on the handles was gracefully done and splendidly burnished. Eunice held the vase out for her aunt's inspection, a happy gleam in her eyes and a tremulous smile on her parted lips. She had never been happier than at this moment.

"Perfect!" cried Mrs. James. And she sat up and took the vase into her hands. "Oh, Eunice, darling! And you have done all this for me! Why, it is a masterpiece. You are an artist. How can I find words to thank you, child?"

"This is my way of expressing my gratitude to you, auntie," said Eunice. "You have made me an artist—if such I am. And I owe you my first good work. I am so happy if I have pleased you, auntie, dear."

"Pleased me, Eunice!" And tears filled the good lady's eyes. "You shall have the price of the vase, dear, as your very own. You have earned it."

AT THE THEATRES

There is a decided lull in things theatrical.

The "war" is over, for the time being, or at least there is an armed neutrality. Both sides seem content to sit back and hold what ground they have. All their energies are now being directed toward preparing their attractions for the coming season. Theaters are worthless without attractions to fill them, and few people realize the stupendous task that it is to build a first-class modern stage production, stage it, and employ the actors and actresses suitable for the various parts. When such a task is multiplied by fifty or 100, the reason for the lull in the warfare can be easily seen. Theatrical managers and producers haven't much time for warfare with the season of 1910-11 only a few short weeks away.

Duluth, by the way, is becoming recognized as a producing center in a small way, thanks to the summer stock companies, and the work of H. E. Pierce and J. L. Morrissey.

When the H. E. Pierce & Company's associate players left Duluth on their tour, they carried productions costing close to $10,000, all made in Duluth. The scenery and properties for the three productions of "Strongheart," "The White Horse Tavern" and "The Squaw Man," more than filled a sixty-foot baggage car, and a dozen or more pieces of baggage had to be checked. The company has been doing an excellent business through the Copper country. With a weekly salary list of about $1,200, it compares very favorably with some of the largest companies on the road. The time may not be very far distant when Duluth will be the home of several first-class road productions. There is no reason why this city should not become the New York of the Northwest, with companies leaving from here to cover the territory between here and the coast. The weather here in the sumer makes it an ideal place for the hot trying work of rehearsing; there is a first-class scenic studio here; and through the Copper and Iron circuit and the circuits associated with it, an entire season could be booked.

The Lyceum season will open Aug. 20, with Mrs. Fiske appearing in "Becky Sharpe" and "Pillars of Society." Two more interesting productions could not well be imagined. Mrs. Fiske should do the wonderful heroine of "Vanity Fair" remarkably well, and the Ibsen play is one of his best known and most popular.

It is indeed an attractive opener, and there is nothing following it at the Lyceum until early in September.

The revival of the old farce "Charley's Aunt" will be a welcome treat for the old timers. Ten or fifteen years ago, "Charley's Aunt" had the country holding its sides. It has always been recognized as the model farce, which authors strove in vain to equal. It has the standard for all modern farce comedy and a high standard it is. Well done, "Charley's Aunt" is still a rare treat, and the members of the younger generation of theater goers who have not seen it, have something good in store.

There is no reason why the Forbes Stock company should not do it well.

AT THE LYCEUM

The Funniest Farce Ever Written, "Charley's Aunt," Will Be the Stock Company's Bill All Next Week, With Usual Matinees. ∴ ∴

When "Charley's Aunt" was first produced twenty years ago probably no one concerned in it realized what a roar of laughter was originating—a laugh that has extended around the world and which has been going more or less actively ever since.

Brandon Thomas was the author and he did a good piece of work. The royalities for "Charley's Aunt" are larger than for newer farces such as "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" and many more recent works. "Charley's Aunt" is called an old play as plays go, but it has not been surpassed, and farce writers ever since have been endeavoring to write one as good.

In choosing "Charley's Aunt" for his next week's performance, Mr. Forbes has provided the best farce comedy available. It is a particularly popular summer piece and as it has not been given in Duluth for many years, it will come as a brand new piece to the younger generation, and those who remember it as one of the thrilling joys of their youth will welcome the splendid production which is assured by Mr. Forbes and his company.

The story of "Charley's Aunt" is as follows: Two Oxford students desire to propose to the girls with whom they are in love. Hearing that Charley's aunt, Donna Lucia d'Alvadorez, of Brazil, whom he has never seen, is coming to college to visit him a luncheon party is hastily arranged and the girls invited with Donna Lucia to be the chaperone. At the luncheon hour arrives a telegram from Charley's aunt saying she has been detained. The guests have arrived and a classmate, Lord Babberley, who has been rehearsing for college theatricals, is forced to impersonate Charley's aunt from Brazil. He is to maintain the disguise just long enough to allow Charley and Jack to propose to their lady loves.

But meantime Charley's father and Jack's uncle hear that Donna Lucia is possessed of a million dollars in her own right and they insist upon proposing to her. The mere recital of the story doesn't sound so funny, but it is the most amusing farce that Lyceum patrons will be privileged to see for many months. There is a merry mess of entanglements and the sympathy of the audence goes out irresistibly to the "aunt," who hungers and thirsts for a drink and smoke. During the week Mr. Forbes and his players have themselves been convulsed at "Charley's Aunt," and when actors at rhearsals can take time to laugh at the jokes they are familiar with, the proof is positive that the play is funny.

With the many French adaptions of farce, it has in many cases proved to be spiced with the French suggestiveness that make the piece impossible for an American audience. "Charley's Aunt" is clean and wholesome and every situation is one that might easily arise under the conditions which the playwright has given in his premises.

In no play of the summer announced by Mr. Forbes has there been greater interest, and the advance sale for next week's performances has been large.

Mr. Forbes will appear as Lord Babberley, who is forced to become Charley's temporary aunt. Mr. Forbes has played the role before and it is one popular with him and with which he has had much success. The whole play hangs on how well the aunt is impersonated. Mr. Forbes has a make-up that is delightful and he plays the role in the broadest spirit of farce. There is no doubt that the Forbes stock company is entering upon the most amusing and popular week of its season engagement.

"Charley's Aunt" will open Monday evening and be played every evening for a week. There will be the usual Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine" will be

MR. FORBES,
As Charley's Aunt.

played this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

MRS. FISKE COMING.

Favorite American Actress Will Be Seen in Two Productions.

Mrs. Fiske, America's foremost actress, will be seen in the greatest role of her career, "Becky Sharp," and in the latest addition to her Ibsen repertoire, "Pillars of Society," at the Lyceum, Aug. 20. The former play will be the medium for the evening, while the matinee will be given over to "Pillars of Society".

"Becky Sharp", in which Mrs. Fiske's realization of "the immortal Becky" stands as one of the most signal contributions that the American stage has known, is a dramatization of Thackeray's famous novel, "Vanity Fair", made by Langdon Mitchell.

With its various groups of strongly differentiated characters and its multiplicity of incidents, "Vanity Fair" has always been held to be filled with dramatic material. It has been said that there are a dozen plays in the novel. Many have been made, but none other than this, by Langdon Mitchell, ever scored any particular success. No skilful dramatist should ever attempt to make a play of the book without making "Becky" the pivotal figure, since the interest centers and radiates with her as the principal object of the story. Mr. Mitchell, in making his play, put every important incident in which "Becky" predominates, into his work.

In "Pillars of Society" Mrs. Fiske will again, as she has so often done before, stand sponsor for Henrik Ibsen, whose influence upon the modern drama has been so incalculable. It was through Mrs. Fiske's appreciation of the almost magical qualities of the wonderful Norwegian that he first became known to the stage of America, and she has since remained practically alone as the chief interpreter of his epoch-marking plays. Through Mrs. Fiske, "Nora", "Hedda" and "Rebecca", which is now almost sufficient identification for three of the most marvelous creations in stage history, have become known to American audiences, and the debt the literary world owes to Mrs. Fiske is one which will, perhaps, never be repaid. "Pillars of Society", contrary to what might be the preconceived idea, is not a drama of depression, but on the contrary, a play of pleasant purpose, and yet, at the same time, it is a scathing arraignment of modern business and social hypocrisy.

The Manhattan company, Mrs. Fiske's supporting organization, includes Holbrook Bliss, whose wonderful characterization of "Jim Platt", the regenerated Bowery loafer in "Salvation Nell", is doubtless so vividly remembered; Henry Stephenson, Edward Mackay, Wilfred Duckland, Harold Russell, Frank McCormack, Robert V. Ferguson, Sheldon Lewis, R. Owen Meech, Gregory Kelly, Alice John, Florine Arnold, Merle Maddern, Voda McEvers, Helena Van Brugh and numerous others.

AT THE BIJOU

Bill of Vaudeville Will Be Best for Several Weeks---Daniel J. Sullivan, the Chauncey Olcott of Vaudeville, in Playlet, Will Be the Feature Attraction. ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

Those who go to the Bijou the coming week should leave the theater well pleased as the program includes some of the best known attractions in vaudeville.

Besides being an excellent program it will be varied in style.

Heading the list will be Daniel J. Sullivan in the beautiful Irish playlet, "Capt. Barry," by Crone Wilber. Mr. Sullivan is the Olcott of vaudeville, and the act he is offering this season has proved to be his biggest success as every detail of the act is played in true Irish style, even to the beautiful scenic setting which shows a picturesque valley near the lakes of Killarney. The musical numbers that are offered are dreams in themselves and the acting of Mr. Sullivan and his support as excellent in every detail.

A jovial and brilliant number will be Harry Van Fossen, who is one of the best known minstrel comedians in the world, and will make his vaudeville debut in Duluth, commencing Monday. Mr. Van Fossen is not new to Duluth theatergoers as he has been featured here with different minstrel organizations. He was last seen here in the Al G. Fields Minstrels and the season previous with Lew Dockstader's Minstrels. His clean-cut and winning personality is known the world over. Mr. Van Fossen is bringing with him a number of new songs and stories, including many of his biggest hits.

A novelty of considerable note will be presented by Alex Brisson, the daring and sensational equilibrist, who proves himself to be the peer of all gymnasts in his line. Brisson has been with the principal circuses of the world, and has appeared in the New York and London hippodromes. He is a marvel for gracefulness and artistic posing.

An interesting comedy act will be offered by Powers and Wilson, who have an act that is somewhat different from others. It is called "A Poseyville Flirtation." It has bright comedy lines and a number of the newest song hits are introduced, as well as some expert dancing.

The extra feature for the week will be the famous comedy acrobats, Rice and Prevost. This act was billed to appear at the Bijou a year ago. After the opening performance Mr. Rice was taken very ill and they had to cancel their engagement. Rice and Prevost are considered to be America's greatest comedy acrobats. They have played summer engagements at Hammerstein's Roof in New York city for seven consecutive years, this being their first tour in the summer season.

James B. Adams will sing illustrated, the new song hit, entitled "When a College Boy, Meets a College Girl.

The moving pictures will be up to the usual high standard showing pictures of the better class, and exclusive subjects.

A matinee is given every day at 2:45 and performances every night at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A children's matinee is given Saturday at 2:30 and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

RARE HORSEMANSHIP

The Trained Horse With the Wild West and Far East---Prairie-Bred Animals and Thoroughbreds.

On the occasion of his farewell visit to Duluth, Col. Cody and Maj. Lillie have determined to give a compendium of everything attained up-to-date in the line of horse and rider.

Of the many distinctive features which the Wild West and Far East claims for its own, the presence of a group of Western range horses, trained to perfection, only attained by the thoroughbred of the circus ring, is a most noteworthy attraction. Some idea of the task of subduing the descendants of the wild horses of the plains can best be imagined when one compares the graceful movements and skillful feats of trained animals with the antics of the bucking bronchos which appear in the same arena.

The fractious steeds born to the freedom of the prairies do not easily submit to the curb and bridle of the cowboy, let alone to the master hand of the trainer who would convert them to the adaptness of a thoroughbred in performing the high school feats and fancy steps and figures. But Ray Thompson has trained these horses to respond to his every command and perform graceful feats without any punishment or urging on the part of their riders.

The star actor in the Thompson troupe is Joe Bailey, a beautiful specimen of equine beauty. Rhoda Royal, nationally known as one of the master trainers of the high school art, has been engaged with his nationally known stud of twenty thoroughbred animals, proficient in every known movement, style, trick and gait possible to be taught the intelligent thoroughbred. These two groups of schooled animals have never before been seen in one arena, and with the different styles of horsemanship combined in this exhibition completes an all around lesson in horsemanship to an extent never before equalled.

The bucking broncos illustrate the contrast; their wild gyrations and ill-tempered antics plainly show the difference in their work, although "Joe Bailey" is just as much a Westerner as are the fractious little bucking horses. Indeed the Wild West shows every style of horsemanship and horses. There is the reckless Cossack from Russia, the real Indians of the plains astride their spotted ponies; the Arabian, with his blue-blooded steed, English and Irish cavalrymen, and horsemen from our army who perform the "stunts" of regulation tactics.

And so from the roughest sort of "roughriding" to the skillful and graceful feats of the well-trained equine, the Wild West and Far East shows every type of horsemanship. And as the leader of them all, the old knight of the saddle will appear on horseback himself at every performance, no matter what the weather. Lovers of horseflesh on the hoof have a treat in store for them when Buffalo Bill comes to town to bid adios.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

News and Comment Heard Along Broadway—What the Managers and Stars Are Planning For the Coming Season

In scheduling his forthcoming attractions, Charles Frohman has found that owing to the magnitude of his plans it will be necessary for him to divide his theatrical year into two distinct producing seasons. He announces that the first will begin early in August with the production of "Love Among the Lions" at the Garrick theatre, and the second in January, probably with a new play by Pinero.

In his original announcement of plays Mr. Frohman said that he had forty attractions for the coming year. Of these nineteen will be produced in the first half season, as many as he has hitherto been able to crowd into an entire season. Now, owing to the deflection in the ranks of the syndicate and the opening up of more time in the larger cities he is able to double his output.

Those plays which he has chosen for the first half season are, "Love Among the Lions", which he announced recently, had been written by William Gillette and Winchell Smith, the former's nephew; "Electricity", which William Gillette wrote for Marie Doro; Augustus Thomas' new play, "The Jew"; "White Magic", by Graham Phillips and Walter Hackett; "Smith", by W. Somerset Maugham; "The Brass Bottle", by F. Anstey; "Our Miss Gibbs", by the authors of "The Arcadians"; "Chains", by Elizabeth Baker; "The Speckled Band, An Adventure of Sherlock Holmes", by Sir Conan Doyle; "The Twelve Pound Look", by J. M. Barrie; "Chantecler", by M. Edmond Rostand; "Sire", by Henri Levadan; "The Sacred Forest", by Mm. De Caillavet and De Flers; "A Thief in the Night", by Mm. Tristan Bernard and Alfred Athis; "After Me the ——", by Henri Bernstein; "The Foolish Virgin", by Henri Bataille; "The Scandal", by Henri Bataille; and a new play for Billie Burke by Mm. De Caillavet and De Flers.

In his selection of productions for the coming season, Mr. Frohman has been extremely cosmopolitan, more so even than in other years. Less than 15 per cent of his forty new plays are American, while 40 per cent are English, and over 30 per cent are French. "Nor is the reason hard to find," said Mr. Frohman. "It is merely that the American authors, voluminous enough in their output, are not "producing the goods". The manager has endeavored to secure virile American plays, yet has discovered but seven that warrant his production. Contrasted with these are sixteen English plays and thirteen French, considerably the largest foreign dramatic importation that has ever been made.

• • •

Kyrle Belley will appear in a play called "The Scandal" by Henry Battaille.

• • •

Henrietta Crosman has a new play, "The Duchess of Suds," by Miriam Michelson, for production in New York. The scenes are laid in Spain.

• • •

Avery Hopwood has disposed of a new play called "The One Woman," to David Belasco, who will use it as a vehicle for Blanche Bates. It is a story of American life of today.

• • •

What will this season bring forth? Last year it was electric doctors, and the season before hypnotists, while the season before that Salome dancers got all the billing.

• • •

There's a new Yama Yama girl for "The Three Twins" next season to succeed Bessie McCoy, and she's none other than Bessie De Voie, who figured prominently in the Frank Gould divorce suit.

• • •

Edward Sheldon, the young Harvard graduate who wrote "Salvation Nell" and "The Nigger," has completed a new play called "The Murder," in which Florence Roberts will star next season.

• • •

Holbrook Blinn, the principal member of Mrs. Fiske's supporting company, is soon to graduate into stellar ranks. He is to appear under the direction of Harrison Grey Fiske in a play now being written.

• • •

They stood in line. "What is your name?" demanded the stage manager. "Schumann-Heink," was the reply. "Any relation to Mme. Schumann-Heink?" "Yes, sir, son," replied the young man proudly. "That's enough," said the stage manager and Hans Schumann-Heink was enrolled to support Elsie Janis in "The Slim Princess."

• • •

Nat Goodwin, avers the latest "authentic" report, is to appear in "The Captain", a farce by George Broadhurst. Goodwin will also revive "Rip Van Winkle," "Lend Me Five Shillings" and "The Rivals."

• • •

Victor Herbert and Joseph Herbert have completed the new opera for Fritzi Scheff, but its name has not been selected. If Miss Scheff uses it it means an end to the report that she was to appear in a revival of "Mme. Butterfly."

• • •

Edwin Stevens, the creator of the part of the title role in the Savage version of "The Devil," has been engaged by Charles Frohman to play the genie in the production of "The Brass Bottle," in which Richard Bennett, seen here with Maude Adams, is to star.

• • •

A new play by Charles Bradley, entitled "Her Son," is to open for a run in Chicago shortly. The cast includes Jennie Eustace, Katherine Emmett, Syndey Booth, Margaret Lawrence, William Riley Hatch, Hall McAllister and Margherita Sargent, the handsome blonde second woman of the Neill company at the Princess last winter.

• • •

Charles Dillingham announces his intention of sending an all-star American musical comedy company to Paris next spring to illustrate to the Parisians what real musical comedy is like. He is also planning to produce a London importation called "The Girl in The Train," with Sallie Fisher, Bessie McCoy and Montgomery and Stone.

• • •

A reviewer in speaking of Mrs. Leslie Carter's "sufferings" declares: "Her suffering has had its compensations, as witness the blooming rounded cheeks, the calm happenings in her sad eye, the trim lines of her svelte figure, the increasing power of her dramatic art which Broadway is soon to have an opportunity of beholding." Disregarding the hint of the press agent in this, is not suffering to be coveted that will develop both one's art and one's figure?

• • •

Over 5,000 stage-folk applied for positions at Charles Frohman's office during the month of August. He employs only about 2,000 players, however.

• • •

Francis Wilson is going to take the lecture platform in behalf of the child actors, and Baby Davis, who takes the part of the Baachelor's baby in the play of that name, will assist him.

Mr. Fromhan now owns and has paid for over 200 manuscripts of plays that have not yet been announced, many authors apparently being willing to have their plays wait a number of years for production in order to have the Frohman seal.

• • •

May Blaney, the well-known English actress, who is to take a prominent part in "Love Among the Lions," is the wife of A. E. Matthews, the famous London comedian, whom Charles Frohman has brought to America to take the leading part in the same play.

• • •

In "Montmarte," the new play by unknown French authors, which Charles Frohman has just secured, the manager believes that he has obtained a play that will have as phenomenal an emotional success as "Zaza." It has not yet been produced in Paris, where the authors live, and the adaptation may achieve the distinction of being produced here before the original.

• • •

Daniel V. Arthur, who has just returned from Europe, announces that he has secured Weedon Goldsmith's sensational farce, "Billy's Bargain," for an early production in this country. It has been one of the big hits in London and the incident upon which the play is based is said to have its foundation in fact. The hero is the son of an American millionaire who finds it difficult to separate his father from any coin of the realm. He arranges with some Russian bandits to kidnap him and hold him for ransom. But the boy's father refuses to pay for his deliverance, and the complications that ensue are said to provide an unusually bright and amusing farce.

• • •

Frank Stayton, the author of the brittle little comedy, "The Inferior Sex," in which Maxine Elliott has been amusing herself, has written another play. It is just finished and is called "The Waster." It is designed to be a light comedy in three acts, showing the reformation of a spendthrift husband by his devoted spouse.

• • •

Dustin Farnum will again be seen in "Cameo Kirby" next season, having just returned from a motor trip through Europe.

• • •

David Belasco has selected a play by Avery Hopwood, one of the authors of "Seven Days," for Blanche Bates for the coming season. It is called "The One Woman," and is modern in theme and design.

• • •

Adelaide Thurston will begin rehearsals of her new comedy, "Miss Ananias," on Aug. 29. A powerful supporting company is being engaged and one of the most beautiful scenic productions of the new season is well under way. Catherine Chisholm Cushing, the author of the play, will be present at the rehearsals. The scenes of "Miss Ananias," are laid at Chevy Chase way, near Washington, D. C. Miss Thurston, who is spending the summer in Duluth, is enthusiastic over her new comedy.

• • •

Henry W. Savage will have three brilliant companies this season to interpret the sensationally successful Bisson drama of mother-love, "Madame X." The New York organization will open early in the metropolis, where it is estimated that already fully 300,000 persons has attended performances of this powerful and impressive play. Coincidentally two other organizations will go on tour, each being made up of players of the very highest ability.

• • •

The royalties on Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's popular drama, "The Speckled Band, An Adventure of Sherlock Holmes," which has been running for nearly a year in London, and which will be produced in this country by Charles Frohman, are said to exceed those of any play novel that the author has ever written.

• • •

Charles Frohman's two new leading women for the coming season both come from Chicago. Miss Irene Fenwick, who takes the leading part in "The Brass Bottle," was born and reared there, while Josephine Brown, William Gillette's leading woman, spent all of her girlhood in the same city.

• • •

Tristan Bernard and Alfred Athis have procured a remarkable dramatic effect in their new piece, "A Thief in the Night," by not introducing the heroine of the piece until the play is nearly two-thirds over. The part from that point on commands the stage. It will be taken in this country by Marie Tempest.

• • •

Marie Doro is now on her way from Lucerne, Switzerland, and immediately upon her arrival will begin rehearsals for the new comedy, "Electricity," which was written especially for her by William Gillette. The scenes of Mr. Gillette's play are un-

THE LARGEST CURE PLANT IN THE WORLD

WONDERFUL SCALES and MICROSCOPE WHERE THE SICK GET WELL

Ozone, Radium and Electro-Radio Form Unconquerable Foe to Stamp Out Disease in All of Its Manifestations—3,000 Satisfied and Cured Patients Speaks for Itself.

Three New Experts Engaged to Treat the Multitude—World's Greatest Female Specialist and Two Electro-Therapists Engaged—$5,000 Machine the Wonder of the Age—Read the List of Wonderful Cures; Some Are Your Friends and Relatives—If Not, Just Come to Room 810 Alworth Building, and Ask Any Patient You Meet.

The greatest testimonial in the world and one you cannot doubt, is the one that comes from the lips and heart of a sick man or woman who has been suddenly transformed as if by magic from a state of ill health and unhappiness back to good health and prosperity and placed in a position where he will not be made apart from his fellow man. And when this testimonial is multiplied by over 3,000, some of whom are your friends and neighbors, and you continue to doubt, you can only be classed in the foolish class and not worthy of consideration by intelligent folk. When Electro Radio was first thrown open to the public three months ago many shouted: "Humbug!" The person who would say that now without an investigation or interviewing the people who have tried it would be classed with the man who a few days ago said that he didn't believe there was such a thing as Halley's comet, because he couldn't see it. The hundreds of unsolicited testimonials, published in the columns of the daily press, some by celebrated physicians and their families, who were not ashamed to help their fellow beings in distress with words of encouragement, are the real beneficent citizens who are to be looked up to and commended and are the really true benefactors of the human race. It is the word of these people, speaking their own convictions after actually experiencing a cure that has made the Electro-Radio Institute the largest in the world as far as clients are concerned. Every person that has taken treatment on the new $5,000 machine, which by a new electrical method extracts the pure ozone from the air and passing it through radium, imparting the elements from this substance, which is the foundation of all the curative powers you find at Hot Springs and other waters, in ten times the strength. At the same time you breathe concentrated ozone, the staff of life; the world builder. Why shouldn't they all get well? Then to have the greatest corps of physicians assembled together. The world's greatest diagnostician. The most scientific bacteriologist. The most lady doctor in America, and the most celebrated electro therapist, the discoverer of electro-radio forces, from which they take their name. Then add the Diagraphoscope, an instrument which enables you to see every organ, muscle and bone in the human body, thereby diagnosing every case in as scientific manner as it is possible to do so. No wonder they can put up a forfeit of $500 for every case they accept and fail to cure. But wait just a minute, I want to tell you of something that has never before been mentioned. Electro-Radio company has the most delicate and sensitive pair of scales in the world. To be exact, they will weigh one-seven-thousand-millionth of an ounce. So delicate are these scales that their balance is disturbed by the alteration of temperature, caused by the turning on of an electric light. The operator has to tiptoe from the room so that the footfall does not set up a vibration and effect them. The scales rest in a metal chamber, the beam, only a few inches long, appears a mere cobweb of glass. However, it is not made of glass, but of silica, which expands and contracts under the heat far less than glass.

Whiff of Gas Weighed.

Hanging from one end of the beam by a strand of silica fibre, so slender that it is hardly possible to see it, is a tray. Upon this is a minute tube, imprisoned in the tube is a whiff of xenon, a gas; the movement is so slight that the eye cannot detect it, but a light focused on a tiny mirror is thrown upon a graduated scale six feet away. The gas is released from the tube, and weighed again. It now weighs two hundred and fifty thousandths of a milligramme, or a seven thousand millionth part of an ounce. This quantity of radium is valued at 25 per cent of the pure stuff. However, the bromide is much cheaper and serves the same purpose in many cases, the other being too expensive, costing from $100 to $500 for treating an ordinary case of cancer.

Most Wonderful Microscope.

But this is not all. One of our physicians has a microscope which was made in Paris, France, ten years ago at a cost of $20,000 by his father, who was the dean of one of our most noted medical colleges. At his death he willed it to his son, at that time a medical student; today that son is one of the world's greatest bacteriologists, he can detect germs that others cannot see with the most powerful microscopes made in the country, which enables him to detect disease germs in any part of the body, while others would let this important part of the diagnosis go for want of the proper instrument and possibly fail to benefit the case from a lack of knowledge.

A Word to Women.

Hundreds of women suffer death purely from the cause of a delicacy of expressing their true condition. Our system of handling such cases is so different that we have saved several hundred from the surgeon's dreadful knife and many from an untimely grave. Our examinations are conducted without removing a garment in many cases; no matter how fastidious, there is nothing to embarrass. All examinations are free and in the most strict confidence. Our celebrated lady specialist treats many cases. If any woman is suffering from womb or urinary troubles, she should, if married, bring her husband and come at once, as delays are dangerous and many fortunes have been spent upon incurables after being neglected too long to respond to even the most thorough and scientific treatment. We cure every case we take or forfeit $500, standing offer.

A Word to Men.

Do you want to be a manly man? The days of butchery for stricture, piles, enlarged prostate and hernia have passed. They have had their day, like the ox cart and mule team. We are now living in an automobile age. Why go back to the old fogy treatment of our grandfathers, which meant the knife for everything? We will cure you of the worst case of blood poison and guarantee it in less than six months. Lost vitality, despondency and nervous afflictions in some cases in less time than that.

Consumption, Asthma and Catarrh Cured.

For these lung and chest troubles we give you the greatest treatment in the world today. We guarantee you to feel better after the first treatment, and many cases of tuberculosis are cured in six weeks—cured to stay cured forever.

Other Physicians.

The public will doubtless give us credit; waile many have said unkind things of us, we have never said a word against any physician. We had one of the most prominent physicians here to act as our representative two years before establishing our institution. We did this to prove that our methods were so far in advance of the ordinary methods taught in medical schools and practiced by the family physician that it would not and could not be thoroughly understood under less than a two years' study by one of your most prominent doctors. Since we have thrown open our doors to the public our testimonials speak for themselves. We treat more doctors and their families than any other institution in the world.

Dr. Edward Klebs Cured.

This celebrated physician was cured of a case of Bright's disease. He at first had no faith in electricity, but said he didn't mind giving it a trial. Today he is a well man and attending to his daily practice.

Dr. J. A. L. Record Cured.

One of the prominent physicians of Enid, Okla., gave up his practice to come here and be treated by us for an enlargement of the prostrate gland. Dr. Record was so relieved after the first treatment that he actually shouted with joy. He is now at his practice in Enid, a well man. Dr. Record says: "I want every suffering man to know of this great boon to suffering humanity, and then I advise him to take advantage of it."

For the benefit of the few that yet remain skeptical as to the curative powers of this great treatment, a few of the most remarkable benefits which have been derived in this short space of time is that of Mrs. Bickford of 424 East Fourth street, who suffered with a chronic case of stomach trouble. She reported that never before had she received such wonderful results.

Mrs. Alfred Johnson of 2713½ Helm street suffered so bad from a nervous breakdown that her mind became deranged to such an extent that it was with the greatest difficulty she could be induced to take the first treatment. Her husband reported that three treatments restored her senses.

Mrs. Florence Dysslin of No. 5 East Third street had given up in despair of ever getting well again. Now the danger is over and only a matter of time for a cure.

Mrs. L. E. Goodwin was cured of gall stones without the knife.

Mrs. M. Robbins was cured of Bright's disease.

Mr. W. A. Martin cured of parasite 100 feet long.

L. E. Crawford cured of catarrhal deafness of six years' standing; heard a watch tick for the first time. Go and ask him if it's true.

Mrs. C. W. Mason, clot removed from child's brain, causing paralysis and spasms.

Every Testimonial Genuine.

We offer a reward of $500 to any man who finds a single name and cure other than genuine or discovers a dishonest act in any manner connected with the Electro-Radio Company.

Free Examination.

Will now be given indefinitely. A philanthropist is paying this for you. He is also paying one-half your fee and will continue to do so as long as the fund lasts. It is true the rooms are crowded, but three new physicians are now at work, besides the regular staff, so that you will not be obliged to wait. Out of town patients will do well to write us, advising us exactly what day they will arrive, as this helps us to treat them without unnecessary delay.

Brought More People to Duluth.

We have brought an average of twenty-five people to Duluth every day since we started. Many of these people remain here for treatment. We will ask all the hotels and boarding house keepers to keep us informed of vacancies which they can rent at reasonable prices. Sick people as a rule have little or no money, and many times depend upon others; so make it reasonable if you expect to keep their patronage.

Offices.

Our office rooms, 810 Alworth building. We want you to take the elevator, get off at the eighth floor, walk straight ahead and when you see an office full of people, walk in and the lady attendant will direct you immediately to the examining physician. Sunday, 11 to 12. Week days, 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 10.

At the Duluth Electro-Radio Curatorium New Life Is Inhaled, or Radiated, From Modern Mechanisms and Improved Methods in the Healing Art.

This new Duluth curatory is no mediaeval purgatory managed by priests or fake magicians. It is, in fact, an Eastern up-to-date clinic for thorough investigation and treatment of all curable human disease, not by prayers or prestidigitation, but by sound scientific therapeutics well established among the leaders in the profession. Nevertheless it resembles the orthodox purgatory in this, that it removes the causes of former sins of the flesh and restores the victims to well-being and happiness. The Electro-Radio Curatorium does not reawaken the dead; but it adheres to the optimistic maxim that "while there is life there is still hope," and it has already saved several hundreds from departing this life prematurely by the old classical drug route.

These good results our Curatorium attains by employing the best modern inventions, and the ablest staff of surgical and medical experts obtainable for money.

Its chief surgeon, having much as such in common with Dr. Mayo of Rochester, is a most skilled and cautious operator from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago. Its main diagnostician and therapeutist is a graduate and post-graduate in medicine and surgery from the University of New York city, also holding diplomas from five of Gotham's eminent specialists in internal diseases, female ailments, operative surgery and chemico-microscopic investigations. He is a Doctor of Philosophy from the Northern Illinois college, has held high official posttions and memberships on health boards, on medical censorships and in exclusive societies like the American Public Health association. He has perfected a cure for drunkards which is sure, quick and permanent in all cases that do not deliberately wish to go to the devil. No physician in Minnesota has had a larger experience in treating venereal disease in both sexes, although his specialty has for ten years been nervous and mental ailments. The business directors of the Electro-Radio Curatorium are medical enthusiasts from a famous Kentucky college, and their main ambition is to fight sickness and misery and promote medical progress and human well-being to the utmost. As Elbert Hubbard, the Philistine, well puts it: "Their delight is to serve their fellowmen," if possible better than most other healing institutions in the land: to give the best treatments for the most reasonable remunerations.

To this end have they procured the many expensive medico-surgical appliances of modern make and standard combinations, for their offices on the eighth floor of the Alworth building. By skillfuly medicated inhalations, described last week by a patient as "like the aromatic pine forest of Sweden," the Curatorium reaches the infected spots of nasal and throat catarrh, of inflamed bronchial tubes and consumptive lung tissue, thus killing off germs and removing their toxines from the blood, the "fluid of life." The results are often marvelous as regards a steadier and stronger pulse, improved color, better appetite, digestion, assimilation and sleep and a more hopeful, cheerful view of everything. Deep-seated conditions of anemia or hyperemia, atrophy or swelling, internal gatherings of fluids, hyperplasias and neoplasms or incipient deposits and tumors, the Curatorium removes painlessly, without bloodshed as a rule, by its almost omnipotent method of improved radio-electrotherapeutics. For this current penetrates anything and everything, even insulating glass, and it unerringly seeks out and goes at reforming, upbuilding, naturalizing the points of least resistence, the diseased structures, disinfecting them and toning them by accelerated blood currents up to higher function and vitality. As useful accessories are employed thermic rays, vibrators, oscillators, massage, Bier's vacuum, King Edward's chromo bath, electric blankets, etc. Serums, Anti-Toxins and Radium from the Curatorium laboratory, such as are relied on by leaders of the healing art in the East and in Europe. Its improved cure for the drink-habit is rapid and perfect and its treatment of venereal diseases the same as at Belleview Hospital in New York. For its motto is: "The curable shall be cured."

For the bedridden, hospital accommodations are provided. Consultations at the offices are free from 9 to 12 a. m., and 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 p. m., and on Sundays from 11 to 12, at Suite 800 in the Alworth building, Duluth, Minn.

The therapeutic methods of the Electro-Radio Curatorium are not new in our great medical cities, but merely down South and out West. Because they are almost unknown beyond Chicago, we advertise them all over the Northwest. Our authorities for so doing are American Common Sense and Elbert Hubbard, who both teach:

"If you have anything the public needs and wants, for mercy's sake let the public know it."

In spite of all "ethical" kicks at medical advertising the Electro-Radio Curatorium means to let the world know what it can do—help the sick to get well, and happy. 810 Alworth building.

The interior of the New theater is being remodeled. It did not take long for the management and clientele to discover serious defects in the construction of the auditorium soon after the opening of the playhouse, and as soon as the doors were closed for the season a horde of carpenters and masons descended on this temple of art and started their work of reconstruction.

The most important change is the removal of the top gallery and the lowering of the ceiling. This will overcome the most serious defect, as it was very apparent early last season that the auditorium was too large for the class of plays that were being produced. The changes being made will aid the acoustic properties of the house considerably and provide the necessary intimacy for a thorough enjoyment of the drama. The founders' boxes are being raised from the orchestra floor, giving a greater space for seats.

The plans for the coming season are not at present in definite shape, but the theater is scheduled to open on Oct 15, when Maeterlinck's "Bluebird" will be presented, with Marguerite Clark in the leading role. This play has been running in London since Dec. 3.

"The Brass Bottle," Frank Anstey's comedy, which had a successful run in London is being rehearsed, and will open about the middle of August. Richard Bennett has been cast for the leading part in this play.

Miss Mabel Brownell, the Cincinnati girl, who played the leading feminine role in "The Great Divide" with Henry Miller, succeeding Margaret Anglin, who created the part, arrived in New York the other day in response to a cablegram from Mr. Miller, who wishes to confer with her regarding several new plays. With her mother and her aunt, Miss Brownell has been touring the continent. She saw the Passion Play at Oberammergau and 'Chantecler" in Paris.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA GOES TO DENMARK

Will Also Pay Visit to King and Queen of Norway.

London, Aug. 5.—Queen Alexandra's quaint flag will be lowered from the staff of Buckingham palace soon and King George's royal standard will take its place. The queen, with her sister, the dowager empress of Russia, is going to Denmark early next month. The sisters will spend a week or two at Sandringham before proceeding to Denmark, where the queen owns a country villa near Copenhagen. They will also pay a visit to the king and queen of Norway.

King George has been very considerate of his mother since the death of king Edward. The etiquette and the custom of European courts insist that the widow of a sovereign shall vacate the palace immediately after her husband's funeral. Queen Adelaide left Windsor castle within an hour after the burial of her husband, King William. Queen Alexandra, however, has been permitted by her son to remain at Buckingham palace as long as she wished.

She is now superintending the packing of her personal effects preparatory to leaving the palace forever. She left the palace the other day to call upon her son at Maralborough house, three blocks away. It was the first time she had been outside the palace since the king's funeral.

CAUSE OF APPENDICITIS

Ascribed By English Physician to Modern Milling Methods.

London, Aug. 5.—Sir Lauder Brunton, one of England's most eminent physicians, told the public health congress that met at Birkenhead that he believed the large increase of appendicitis during the last twenty years was due to modern methods of grinding wheat into flour.

Explaining his hypothesis, Sir Lauder said that years ago wheat was always ground between two millstones, but today it was ground between steel rollers, which really acted like scissors, the wheat being cut up.

He had seen an extraordinary report on endemic neuritis in America, which it was stated was produced by polished rice. If the patients ate the rice without its being polished they go well. This showed how minute alterations would produce extraordinary changes in the individual.

PROGRESS IS BEING MADE

In Character of River and Harbor Bills, Says Gen. Bixby.

Engineer Corps Behind in the Work---More Officers Needed.

Washington, Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The character of river and harbor appropriation bills is improving. We are, as the last bill shows, making distinct progress."

That was the positive statement made today by the new chief of engineers of the army, Gen. William H. Bixby. It is an expression of thejudgment of one of the most accomplished officers who ever held the responsible post of chief of engineers.

Gen. Bixby, who succeeded Gen. William L. Marshall on June 12 last has been in the engineer corps thirty-seven years and was promoted from senior colonel. Sometimes it occurs that peculiar merit and ability warrant the promotion of officers other than the senior in rank, but these attributes were not only not lacking in the case of Gen. Bixby but were happily evident in so high a degree that his advancement to the head of the corps is a happy circumstance. His ability as an engineer has been notably recognized. His numerous assignments during his long service have enabled him to secure a broad grasp of the biggest engineering task. A native of Massachusetts, he graduated the head of his class at the United States Military academy. He has taught at West Point, has received special instruction with the French engineer department in Paris and has had other foreign duty. He has served in many engineer districts, covering every important scope of work in the United States and has gone over and up and down more rivers than any other officer in the service. He became president of the Mississippi river commission March 14, 1908, and also president of the board of engineers of the Mississippi river commission, appointed to make a survey of the Mississippi river from St. Louis to the mouth, to ascertain the feasability of the fourteen-foot channel and its extension from St. Louis to Chicago. Last year he was special advisory engineer to the National waterways commission and accompanied that body on its investigating tour of Europe.

Behind in the Work.

The execution of the law as contained in the last river and harbor bill is now under way, but, as Gen. Bixby says, the delay in the passage of the bill by congress has necessarily put the engineer corps months benind in the work.

"Have you an adequate force of officers?" he was asked.

"Well, we are doing the work," was the reply, "but it is a case of too much duty to the average man. We need more officers."

Referring to the assignment of engineer officers to the reclamation service, Gen. Bixby said it was but temporary duty, as the officers would be acting only in the capacity of consulting engineers, an assignment which should be completed in from three to six months, after which they would resume their present regular post.

Gen. Bixby has clear and interesting views on the subject of reclamation, irrigation and drainage, as well as the utilization of water power, all of which present problems in engineering science, but he does not think it is the province of the engineer corps to "butt" in, as it is not good policy for any of these interests to interfere with the other. The engineer corps will take care of its assignments and make the best possible reports on the feasibility, practicability and economy of the several enterprises.

Various Problems.

In his opinion reclamation will not aid navigation, as it will take away water needed for navigable streams, nor will drainage materially affect navigation. The utilization of water power is adverse to navigation. Yet all these problems had their two sides of merit. How to save and maintain navigation and at the same time respond to these demands along the line of commercial progress is in his judgment well worth serious consideration. "The corps of engineers," said Gen. Bixby, "in attending to their own business, would be glad to see congress openly and above board, if it sees fit to recognize these lines of endeavor, make fair and adequate provision for them. As to the question of water power, there is no doubt of its great value, but what the users used they should restore to navigation sufficient to float the boats."

Gen. Bixby reiterated his conviction of the progressive spirit in congress of late years in handling river and harbor appropriations, and particularly praised the work of education being carried on by the national rivers and harbors congress.

INFORMAL UNPOLITICAL PRONOUNCEMENT BY A "GREENHORN POLITICIAN."

Dear Mr. Voter:

St. Louis county is as big as the state of Connecticut, so you see that in my run for Probate Judge it will be absolutely impossible for me to get around and see you all. Nothing would give me more pleasure than to hitch up the old gray mare and drive around and call on all of you, eat a meal with some and stay all night with others, and offer you a quarter for your hospitality and have you refuse it in the good old-fashioned way, but we can't do that now. I have to stick pretty close to my old walnut desk, as I am not holding a public office either, yet or again, (you know the story about the man who waked up in the night and asked his wife if she was talking "yet or again,") and probably you have to work as hard as I do; and then my wife and five children just hate to have me away from home overnight. So we will have to adopt modern methods of getting acquainted through the newspapers, the mails and the telephone. I will try to write you a personal letter or send you a souvenir card occasionally, and will be glad to meet you just as often as possible, but its only five weeks until primary day, so I write you this hasty squib. Please look me up and consider my fitness for the office of Probate Judge of this splendid big county. You know I am a graduate of a first-class law school, and have had eighteen years of active practice in all the courts of this state. Of course, you want a lawyer in that position, and not a layman. I have a clean record and am afraid of no man. If elected I will stay on the job and borrow judges from adjoining counties only when absolutely necessary. Did you get my former letters asking you if you had made your will and asking you to talk over some of these serious matters with your wife? She can't vote, but I believe she ought to for this office.

Very sincerely yours,

J. H. WHITELY,
Republican Candidate for Probate Judge.

ACKNOWLEDGE IT.

Duluth Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Duluth given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

Mrs. M. McGillivray, 1228½ Superior St., Duluth, Minn., says: "The statements I have previously given for publication in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills have fully expressed my opinion of this remedy. At this time, I gladly confirm all I have previously said." (Statement given in Nov. 1908.)

On Oct. 20, 1904 Mrs. McGillivray gave the following statement: "Kidney trouble clung to me for a year or more and I suffered from dull, heavy pains through the small of my back. I also had headaches, did not rest well and was annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills, helped me from the first and soon freed me from my trouble. I have had no need of a kidney remedy since."

REAL ESTATE MARKET SHOWS SIGNS OF ACTIVITY

Midsummer Dullness Giving Way to Brisk Fall Inquiry.

Tourists Show Interest in Duluth Real Estate Investments.

Some rays of hope appeared in the real estate horizon during the last two or three days, dispelling the agonizing quiet that has reigned for the past six weeks. With these rays came the prospect of a bright fall business.

All real estate dealers report that there is now a constant stream of inquiries coming into their offices regarding property. These inquiries are not only from local people, but from many outsiders who have confidence in Duluth's future.

The encouraging thing about these inquiries is that they are of an altogether different nature than those which have been made during the quiet season. In them there is a tone of real interest, which seems to indicate that purchases are being contemplated.

Much of this increased interest in local real estate is due to the brighter prospects of the season's crops. Reports which come from the Northwest, tend to pacify the money market to a large extent.

Several sales of property, some of which are for fair considerations, have been made during the week, but none of any special interest. But the many inquiries which have been made, bring forth the prospects that several large sales are to be expected before long.

One local real estate man stated yesterday that among the tourists to Duluth was a party from the East, which showed much interest in this city. The members of the party had watched this city grow for many years and were firmly impressed with the stability of property here, they said. They stated that they intended to come here in the fall with view to purchase certain property, which especially appealed to them. Many other tourists were interested in local property.

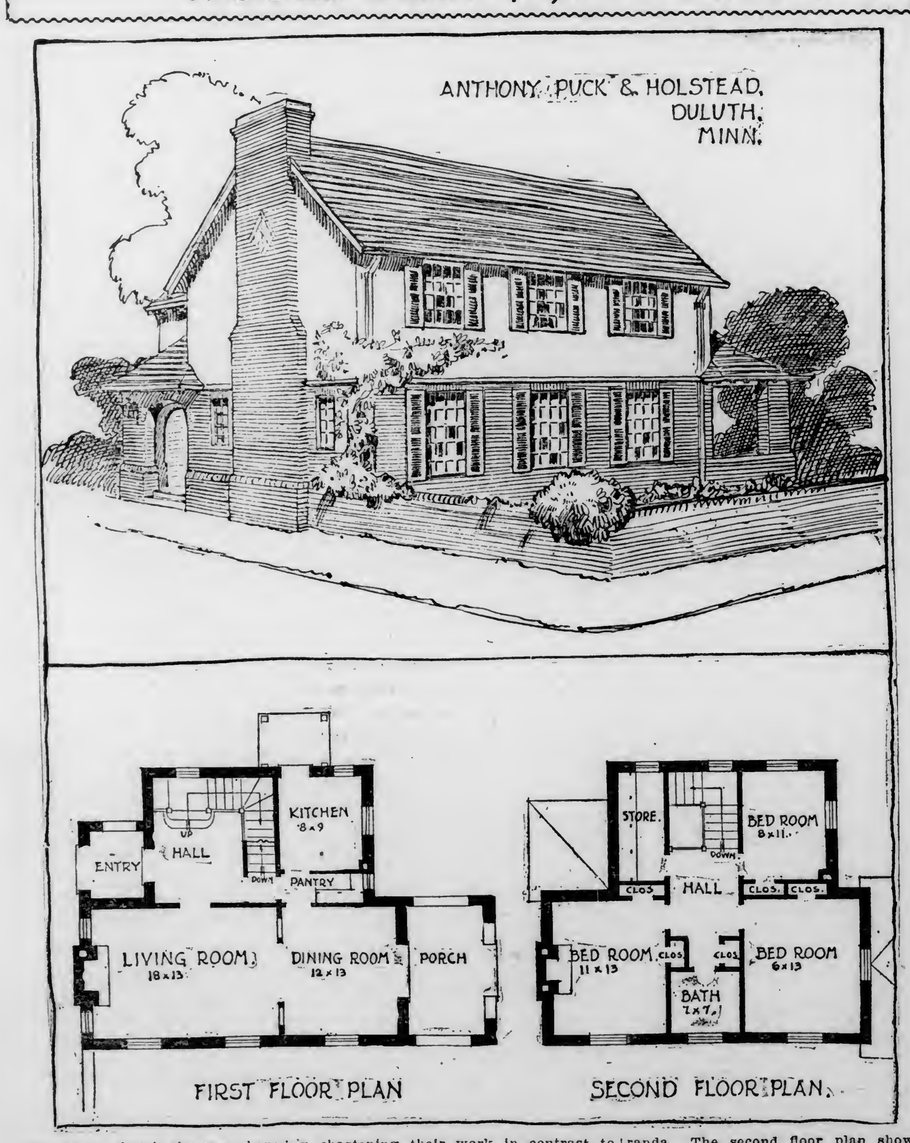
BRICK AND STUCCO HOME WHICH WOULD COST $6,000 IN DULUTH



The above sketch shows a charming design for a brick and stucco house with shingle roof.

The elevation is simple and dignified and has that charm which is lasting, as its proportions and characteristic details are based on principles that took generations to evolve. The old time architects worked along the narrow path of polishing, refining and chastening their work in contrast to the modern idea of creating entirely individual but coarse creations based on advertising posters, and lacking a structural basis, simplicity and meaning except to its author, whose one maxim is popularity.

The first floor plan comprises a living room, dining room, hall, kitchen and pantry with entrance porch and veranda. The second floor plan shows three bed rooms with closets, bath room and store. The finish would be in hardwood on first floor and white enamel on second, with maple floors. The cost inclusive of heating and plumbing would be $6,000 in Duluth or vicinity.

Architects.

IDLEWILD DIVISION TO DULUTH

New Addition Opened in the Choice Residential Part of City.

Idlewild division, which is being opened by the Whitny Wall company, is something new in the line of residential property.

Most of the divisions that have been opened in Duluth recently, have been composed of cheap, suburban lots.

Idlewild division is almost in the heart of the best residential district of the city, and within a stone's throw of some of the most beautiful homes in Duluth. It comprises property on Second, Third and Fourth streets, from Twenty-seventh venue east to Twenty-ninth avenue east. The lots are 50 by 140 feet, and the prices range from $750 to $1,500. Property immediately adjoining the addition sells for two or three times that price. Thelots are also sold on easy terms, one-fifth cash, and the balance in one, two, or three years. The street cars pass through the division on the north, and are only two blocks away on the south, and the view is one of the most picturesque in Duluth.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

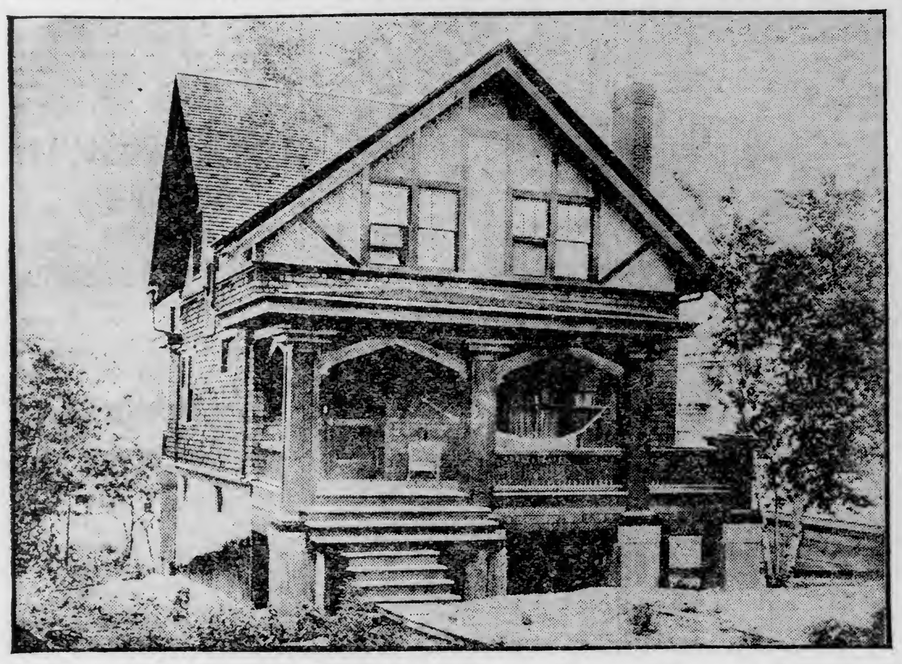
FINE NEW RESIDENCE RECENTLY COMPLETED IN THE EAST END



—P. M. Olsen, Architect.

LAND FEVER EVIDENCED IN RUSH FOR RESIDENCE LOTS

The "Dollar Down" Plan Is Proving Very Popular in Duluth.

Literally Thousands of Citizens Encouraged to Save for a Home.

While most of the real estate men of the city are complaining that the summer dullness has settled on the market and that the investment branch is entirely neglected, the agents who are selling residence lots are reaping a harvest, which has been in progress since the snow left the ground. A golden stream has flown into their coffers and people who have never thought to enter the real estate market have been attracted by the bargains offered and have taken upon themselves the dignity of landholders and substantial citizens.

The "dollar down and dollar a week" plan of payment is responsible for the activity. When the snow first left the ground and the soil was visible, real estate men began to get busy. Addition after addition was put on the market and the number of lots sold in Duluth since the first sale was held early in the spring runs into the thousands.

The ambition to hold land is in the heart of every man. From the time he earns his first dollar he looks forward to owning a little plot of ground—perhaps, with a house on it. That ambition remains with him until it is satisfied, and if it is never satisfied it remains with him until he goes down into the grave and a small portion of land is allotted to him.

The percentage of people whose ambition to be landholders was never satisfied, was great in former years. The improvident, the unfortunate, the small wage earners found it difficult to get enough money together to make a payment on a piece of ground, when the payments were really kept beyond their means.

The instalment plan has removed all of that. The plan adopted in Duluth places real estate within the reach of every man who earns regular wages. The first payment is no larger than the other payments in most cases. There is no interest attached and no payments to be made in case of illness or misfortune. Every avenue is opened wide and the man who fails to satisfy his inherent ambition has only himself to blame.

Homecroft, Kenwood Park, Crosley Park, Princeton place, Lakeside, Loeb's addition, Ironton and other points have been the scenes of sales of lots on the easy payment plan and hundreds of people will now make a special effort to meet their payments, to ultimately pay off the price of their respective lots in full and to become free landholders.

The Colman Addition.

A concrete example of the interest in real estate in Duluth was given this week in the rush to Colman's addition for the sale which was conducted there every evening, beginning Wednesday evening. The evening sale was an innovation. Hundreds of men and their families attended the sales. On the first evening nearly 200 lots were sold and on each succeeding evening, the sale was brisk until nearly all the lots had been closed out. Although many hundreds of lots had been sold on somewhat the same plan earlier in the year, the procession seems unending, for the crowd at the sale at Colman's addition was perhaps the largest to attend any sale in Duluth this year.

Taking Colman's addition as an example, the effect of the instalment plan of selling real estate on the growth of a city may easily be figured out, when the instalment plan of home building is taken with it.

Almost every lot in Colman's addition has been sold. The addition was heretofore wild land, although it lies near to a car line and within easy access of the city. Hundreds of people now own lots there. The greater number are people who do not now own homes of their own. They will make contracts with builders of homes on the instalment plan and many homes will be erected there within the next year or two. The people will make an effort to keep up the payments and most of them will. In a comparatively short time, they will own their own homes and the addition will be one of the flourishing suburbs of the city.

Incentive To Thrift.

Many of those people would not in a lifetime save enough money to purchase a lot and build a home for cash. Given the attractions of easy payments, given some obligation to meet that will require thrift an effort and they will do what they would never do on their own initiative.

Every home added to a city means an extension of the bounds of the city's greater stability through the anchoring of people who might be migratory and the changing of a vacant lot into a valuable piece of property, with the consequent increase in the wealth of the city.

The city will grow under the instalment plan method of selling and buying real estate. The owner of a lot wants to see a home on it. When the method of obtaining it is put in his way, he will not disregard it. When a man ceases to be a renter and becomes the owner of his own home, he is a better citizen. He has not only a personal, but a tangible interest in the city. He will be a booster for the betterment of the community and for the greater growth of the city.

No city, which depends for its growth on the cash buyer and the cash builder will attain the size which is possible for it. The instalment man is looking to his own interests, but he is a good thing for a city—a builder and a booster. He changes the old order of things, makes the pennies grow into dollars and makes houses grow where only trees and brush and valueless scrub grew before.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE TO BECOME LIVE CIVIC BODY

Business Methods Will Change to Keep Pace With City's Growth.

Exclusive Listing Contract Plan---Publicity Agent May Be Employed.

The Duluth Real Estate exchange bids fair to become a real exchange instead of a club of real estate men—a living, active, civic body instead of the rather passive closed corporation it has been in the past. At the meeting during the past week, evidence was given that the members of the exchange intend to revive the methods of the exchange in order to conform to the size, progress and future of Duluth.

The exclusive listing contract plan has been adopted by almost every exchange of consequence in the United States. The need for it has existed in Duluth for years. Real estate men—good members of the exchange—saw the need, wanted the remedy, but took no action toward securing it. The result was that Duluth real estate men have ostensibly been banded together in an exchange for mutual benefit, but have been competing with each other on an unreasonable basis—a basis that is not that of legitimate competition between men in the same business.

John Jones listed a piece of property with a half dozen agents, not telling each that he had listed it with the others. Each agent kept a record of the listing, advertised the property for sale, perhaps without specifying location, made every effort to sell the property, worked up a prospect to the earnest money stage, and then discovered that the property had been sold through one of the other agents with whom it was listed and that all his work had been in vain. He had no redress but to pocket the loss of time and effort and to hope that he might be on the right side of a similar deal at some future time.

The Listing Contract.

Under the exclusive listing contract plan, a prospective seller will list his property with one dealer and all other dealers in the exchange will be notified. They will handle prospective purchasers through the agent with which the property is listed. They will not have the right to deal with the owner direct. The man with whom the property is listed will be protected, the prospective seller will have the entire membership of the real estate exchange working on the sale of his property and there will be no confusion and loss of effort.

There is not much doubt, the real estate men say, but that the plan will be adopted as son as it is definitely worked out by the committe. It has been adopted in other progressive cities and one of the aims of the real estate exchange is to put Duluth in the progressive class and keep it there. The market in real estate differs little from other markets. The real estate exchange should act as a clearing house just as the board of trade, the stock exchange or any other similar body.

• • •

Members of the exchange are free in expressing themselves in favor of the plan for engaging a publicity agent to place the advantages of Duluth before prospective investors and locators of industries in the city. His function would be to advertise the city, to give information to those who ask for it, to keep a list of available sites for manufacturing plants and the advantages of topography and location of each and the prospects are that in the next few years he would be able to occupy all of his time in attending to the duties of the position.

The welfare of the city is the welfare of the real estate agents. In a progressive city real estate moves freely and real estate values increase. When the market is brisk the real estate man is prosperous and when the city slides backward or stands still a depressing dullness falls on the real estate market.

The members of the real estate exchange recognize that it is not a body exclusively for real estate men, but a civic body with work to do in advancing the city and putting it prominently before the rest of the world. No systematic attempt has ever been made to advertise Duluth except by the steamship companies, which advertise its attractions for tourists.

Duluth's attractions for tourists are insignificant to the attractions offered men of money and men of brains to make commercial opportunities in the gateway to the great Northwest. The next few years will see great strides in commercial and industrial progress on the part of Duluth. The city now offers exceptional opportunities to those wishing to locate in a distributing center for a vast territory. People here may understand those things, but people outside do not and many manufacturing plants and wholesale houses that might come to Duluth were the promoters to understand the situation properly, now go to the Twin Cities or to smaller cities in Minnesota and North Dakota.

The publicity agent, who will probably be engaged by the real estate exchange, has a hard row laid out for him to hoe. He must correct false impressions and create new ones, convince people that Duluth is not as near the north pole as many think it is, assure them that the winters do not last ten months and that the summers are really delightful, convince them that Duluth is not inhabited by Indians, is not cut off from the remainder of the world, is a great growing city and is destined for a future that will outshine many cities that are older and that have been more in the public eye in recent years.

ADDITION TO HOSPITAL

Contract for St. Mary's Addition Only Large Job of Week.

Of particular interest in the building circles during the past week was the letting of the general contract for the construction of the addition to St. Mary's hospital, last Monday, to J. F. Schleunes, whose bid was $49,804.

Many local contractors, as well as many outside firms, submitted bids. This is the largest contract let within the city for a week or more. Mr. Schleunes started work upon the building the following day, and is expected to have it completed before Feb. 1.

The contract calls for a four-story building with basement, to be built of reinforced concrete. It will be modern in every respect, and when completed it will be entirely fireproof. Contracts for the heating, plumbing and wiring will be called for later. When the building has been finished it will have cost about $70,000. The architects are Ellerbe, Round & Sullivan.

• • •

Plans for a three-story brick and stone building for banking purposes have been completed by Ellerbe, Round & Sullivan, for Reed & Pierce of Hibbing. The contract for the general work has been let to Kilander & Co., and work will be started soon. The building will cost $18,000.

• • •

Many architects are busy in the preparation of plans for small buildings and dwellings, which indicates that there will be considerable activity in the building line during the next few months. One local architect reports that there are now under consideration plans by local as well as outside investors for the construction of several large buildings which will be erected this fall. He expects to be called upon within a short time to start work upon these.

• • •

During the week there has not been any particular rush for building permits, and of those issued the most were for the construction of small dwellings and cottages. The following permits were issued by the building inspector this week:

RUN OF WHEAT ACTS AS DRAG

Domestic Conditions Offset Bullish Foreign Factors and News.

Longs Accept Profits---Flax Values Decline With Wheat.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 6.—Bullish factors abroad and bearish news at home contested for supremacy in the American wheat markets today and the latter prevailed.

Country sales from the Southwest and the West, which were reported to be unusually heavy on yesterday's advance, continued in large volume today. Acceptances were heavy. Cash interests sold September wheat and receipts at Chicago for Monday are expected to be extremely heavy. The run is expected to be more than 1,000 cars and some people estimated the probable receipts at 1,500 cars. The pressure of actual wheat and the prospect of an unexpectedly heavy run in the forepart of next week offset conditions abroad.

Another bearish factor was the bearish moderation in flour sales. The cash market here was dull and premiums were unchanged at 5c over the September option. In Minneapolis the cash market was stronger and premiums were from 6c to 10c over the current delivery.

There was some profit taking by longs, as professional sentiment was bearish. Many people did not care to go over Sunday with a line of wheat on their hands. A low barometer is approaching the three spring wheat states and light rains fell in the Northwestern part of North Dakota. The bulls paid little attention to this condition. Thrashing is well advanced, but it is not too late for harvesting to be impeded by wet weather. The labor question does not enter into the situation as a market factor. There appears to be a moderate supply of help and labor agents declare that the demand for labor from the Northwest is not as great as in recent years. They are having no trouble in supplying orders for men.

Traders evinced a disposition to even up trades in readiness to receive the government's report, which will be issued Monday.

This market was relatively stronger than most of the American markets today. Moderate export business both in durums and Manitobas was transacted and news of export business had a favorable effect on values to the extent that the decline here was not so great as in most other markets.

There are a few complaints that the new wheat is smutty but these reports came from houses that are favorable to wheat. The first new wheat of the season arrived here today from Casselton, N. D.

Strength in foreign markets was caused principally by reports from France that harvesting is impeded by rains and that the situation is critical. Cash markets on the continent were exceptionally strong. Antwerp advanced 3½c, a net gain of 5c in two days. The bulge, said a cable from Bromhall was due chiefly to a good demand, light offerings of new wheat and covering by shorts. Private advices from Argentina were unfavorable and contributed to the bullish situation abroad.

September wheat lost 1c; December, 1c and May, 1c. Cash wheat closed 5c over the current delivery. Oats closed ⅜c off; rye and barley were unchanged and durum lost 1c in sympathy with wheat.

Flax was weak and trading was light, not more than 20,000 bu being traded in during the short session. The country at top prices refused to sell flax, having been caught short several times at lower prices to its disadvantage. For the first time in several weeks, however, the country manifested interest in the flax market. Apparently country sellers were led to believe that the decline in values contributed to their stability. The country has not sold any flax for future delivery yet, but it seems to be taking more of an interest in the market. Crushers are not manifesting any notable interest either in spot wheat or futures. Several buying orders came from Minneapolis today and were quickly filled without disturbing the market. Whether this was for long account is not known but the buying probably was against small sales of oil for August or September delivery by the Minneapolis crushers.

Broomhall cabled: Wheat at opening was affected by firmness in both American and Winnipeg markets and ⅝c to ¾c higher. Following opening there was some disposition shown to take profits and prices declined slightly. This was due to the more favorable reports from Argentine and the large cargo offerings, off coast and on passage amounting to 34. Later and during remainder of the session undertone was strong with shorts and speculators buying with offerings light. Buying was the result of continued unfavorable French crop news and the fact that the continent is an urgent bidder and buyer and unfavorable reports from Russia. At close was very firm 1 to 1¼c higher than yesterday.

Corn opened ¼c higher and further advanced ¾c. This was due to a good demand for Platte parcels and firmness in spot.

France—Weather continues wet and further damage has resulted. Outlook generally is discouraging.

Roumania—Weather hot, which is favorable; threshing is progressing. Arrivals are large, but market for buyers is strong.

Italy—Reports from the south, where harvesting is in progress, are disappointing.

Liverpool—Wheat cargoes arrived off coast 11, awaiting orders 23.

Argentine—Our agents this morning report general rains in the south center.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Slump on Sales and Harvest News.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Profit-taking pulled the props from under wheat prices today. The end of the week made a move in this direction more or less inevitable and some of the news had a similar bent. For example, the Michigan crop report put the yield in that state at 18 bu an acre as against 17 bu a year ago. Liberal movement of wheat from the farms was another disappointment to the bulls. So was the limited cash demand, as well as more favorable reports from Argentina. Furthermore, the extent of outside buying was very small, the market at times being almost bare of orders. Opening quotations were ¼c lower to ⅜c higher. September started at $1.03⅝@1.04, unchanged to ¼c up, and fell to $1.03⅜.

Longs continued to sell out and showed no inclination for taking hold again to carry over Sunday. The close was weak at $1.02¼ for September, a net loss of 1⅝@1¾c.

Rains caused free selling of corn. September opened ⅛c to ¼c down at 63 to 63⅛c, rallied to 63½c, and then declined to 63⅛c.

Buying was only on scaled resting orders and was not heavy. The close was easy at 62⅞c, a loss of ⅜c as compared with last night.

Big receipts gave an easy tone to transactions in oats. At the outset, the September option was unchanged at 37¼c, but the price dropped to 37c.

Lower cost of live hogs weakened provisions First sales of product were at last night's level to 10c below with the September option at $21.35 for pork. $11.55 to $11.57½ for lard and $11.30 to $11.35 for ribs. Additional recessions followed.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Profit-Taking Causes Decline in Wheat Prices.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 6.—Weekend profit-taking caused wheat values to decline today. With the government report due Monday, traders did not care to commit themselves over Sunday and trading was of an evening up character. September closed 1⅛@1¼c lower than yesterday. ### The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 6.—Cotton opened steady at 6@15 points advance as a result of firm Liverpool cables, covering by recent shorts sellers and absence of general rains in Texas. August showed leading strength on covering by foreign straddlers and would probably have sold higher but for offerings of Southern bulls. New crop positions later in the session were aggressively supported and showed a tendency to sag, easing off to about yeterday's closing level.

MAY ORDER ALL BREAD WRAPPED

Amendment to Bakery Ordinance Will Come Up Monday.

The amendment to the bakery ordinance requiring that all bread be wrapped, is scheduled for action in the council meeting Monday night.

This clause was bitterly opposed by the bakers at the time it was proposed in the original ordinance. For that reason it was omitted. The indications are that the aldermen will indulge in much oratory and listen to much more, before it comes up for a final vote. Health Commissioner Webster declares that it is important that it be passed, stating that the feature should be enforced in the interests of the health of the community.

It is also thought that the extension of Ramsey street will be up for consideration. Otherwise the meeting will be quiet.

SHARP RISE IN STOCKS

Trading Grows Duller as the List Goes Progressively Higher.

Few Fractional Reactions Near Close, Which Is About Steady.

New York, Aug. 6.—There was very little life in the opening dealings today. The price movement was spotty and irregular. La Clede rose 1½. Amalgamated Copper and Reading ⅝. Atlantic Coast Line fell 1½ and Kansas & Texas ¾.

Stocks were in scanty supply at the opening figures and when buying orders came into the market prices were advanced sharply. Trading, however, grew duller as the list went progressively higher. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel, Pressed Steel Car and American Beet Sugar gained a point, Great Northern preferred 1⅜ and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 1¾.

The market closed about steady and very dull. Weather reports were favorable both for corn and cotton. The government reports on grain on Monday is expected to offer good promise for the crop. A strong bank statement was looked for. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie rose 4¾, Laclede Gas 3½, American Linseed preferred and Union Pacific preferred 3, American Smelting 1½ and Pennsylvania, Canadian Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, International Harvester and American Linseed 1 or more. American Woolen declined 1. There were a few fractional reactions.

POCKETS FULL OF BLANK CHECKS

William D. Lyons, arrested last evening for forgery, had evidently made preparations to do a wholesale business in Duluth in the bogus paper line, according to the police. When searched his pockets were found to be filled with blank checks on different banks, one of them at Fort William, Can.

He stated that he had been here a month and decided that he would pick an easy way to get some cash before leaving. He was caught trying to pass a forged check on the St. Louis hotel. It was made out to C. J. Murphy and signed by the Gray-Tallant company. It called for $46.50. The suspicions of the hotel people were immediately aroused when they saw a check from the dry goods company written on an ordinary counter check, such as are left on the desks by banks. Lyons waived examination this morning and was bound over to the next grand jury.

SLOW WORK ON THE VIADUCT

Members of the board of public works declare that the Northern Pacific ought to waste no time in making repairs to the Sixth avenue viaduct.

R. E. Patterson stated this morning that two approaches have been closed for months, and that the only one open to traffic is the west approach. He said that this is now becoming dangerous to traffic, as several horses have gone through. The railroad put two-inch tamarack planks on it, but it is said that they are insufficient to sustain the big volumne of traffic which passes over the approach daily. The viaduct leads to the docks and railroad yards and it is important that it be in good shape for use. Under a decision of the United States supreme court the railroad must build and keep the viaduct in repair.

"S. O. S." FROM ISLE ROYALE

For the first time in history, perhaps, the wireless telegraph was used today as a medium through which to appeal for domestic servants.

Miss Pearl Ettinger, who has charge of the women's department of the state free labor bureau, received from Isle Royale an aerogram setting forth the plight of the islanders and begging that servants be secured for them. There were two messages and they were urgent, so the state of Minnesota, as represented in the person of Miss Ettinger, got busy and arranged as best she could to meet the needs of Isle Royale.

"Especially the cook," was the phrase that seemed to be most frantically emphasized in the messages.

Maybe the cook who left, had a rowboat.

MARTIN ROSENDAHL & COMPANY, Inc.

COPPER STOCK BROKERS.

404 West First Street, Commercial Building.

Saturday, Aug. 6, 1910.

Amazon Development is going to advance. Those interested in Ballaklava are the heavy buyers and inasmuch as it is a development company it looks reasonable that these shares should easily creep to $8.00 or $9.00.

The Butte Alex-Scott mine is big. If you can only get some definite information from the property and what they intend to do then this stock should either advance or do something else. We know the Scott mine is at least worth $3,000,000.00. This part of it is a cinch, but we want to know what they intend to do from now on.

Ballaklava always strong and advances easily.

Red Warrior a good active issue.

St. Mary should easily advance to 40 cents or 50 cents a share.
